REPORT

THE COMMISSIONERS FOR INQUIRING CONCERNING

CHARITIES.

TO THE

KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

WE, the Commissioners appointed in pursuance of an Act passed in the 5th and 6th years of Your Majesty's reign, intituled, "An Act for appointing Commissioners to continue the Inquiries concerning Charities in England and "Wales until the 1st day of March 1837,"

DO HUMBLY REPORT AS FOLLOWS:—

THE state of the Inquiries in those Counties of which the Investigation had not been completed under the former Commissions, was, at the time of passing this Act, as follows:—

| In Dorset, Essex, City of London, City of Westminster, Middlesex | The Charities had been partially investigated. |
| In Berks, Kent, Sussex | The Charities for Education only had been inquired into under the Commission issued in 1818. |
| In Cambridge, Chester, Cornwall, Hereford, Leicester, Lincoln, North Wales, Denbigh, Flint, Montgomery, South Wales, Brecon, Glamorgan, Radnor | The Charities were entirely uninvestigated. |

There were also about 100 Charities in different parts of the kingdom which had been stated in the Reports as exempt from inquiry, having Special Visitors appointed by the founders.

Immediately after the issuing of Your Majesty's Commission bearing date 22d October 1835, we formed several Boards for the purposes of completing the Inquiries thus remaining.

In the Counties of Chester, Dorset, Essex, Kent, Sussex, Flint, Montgomery, Brecon, and Radnor, and in the City of Westminster, the Inquiry is now completed, and but little remains to be done in Berks and Cambridgeshire; and nearly all the Cases formerly returned as exempt, on the ground of having Special Visitors, are examined. The progress made in the other Counties above mentioned, and in the City of London, is such as to leave little doubt that they will be finished before the expiration of the Act.

Having taken into consideration the observations made by a Select Committee of the House of Commons in 1835, upon the inconvenience arising from the Reports touching different portions of the same county being contained in many separate Volumes, we were anxious, as far as might be practicable, to avoid this objection, and therefore resolved to adopt the plan of completing the investigation, and drawing up an account of all the Charities which remained unexamined in each several County, so as to comprise the whole in the same Report, (treating the City of Westminster as a distinct district for this purpose). At the commencement of our labours we were in hopes that we might have adopted this plan, still adhering to the prescribed period of presenting our Reports. This, however, was ultimately found impracticable; and even now of the Counties in which we have stated that the Inquiry is completed, we can only include in the present Report those of Dorset, Kent, Sussex, and the City of Westminster, as there has not yet been sufficient time to perfect the several Reports of the other Counties.

We, nevertheless, have reason to hope that we shall be able, in a very short time, to present another Report, comprising several complete Counties.

In conformity with another suggestion of the same Committee, each Commissioner has made a separate Report of the Charities which he has personally investigated; or, where two Commissioners have been engaged in any Inquiry, they have furnished a joint Report.

In execution of the powers given to us, we have certified to Your Majesty's Attorney General such cases as, upon the consideration thereof at a General Board, have seemed to require his intervention, and in numerous other cases of much importance or difficulty a statement of the facts has been submitted to the General Board by the individual Commissioners who were engaged in the Inquiry before their several Reports were finally settled.

We have thought it desirable to reserve a general statement of such observations as have occurred applicable not merely to some particular Charities, but to whole classes, for our final Report, so as to exhibit them at one view, after we shall have obtained the fullest evidence on the subject.

Given under our hands and seals this 26th day of November 1836.

MR. SMITH'S REPORTS.

Blandford Forum.

TOWN OF BLANDFORD FORUM.

OF the principal part of the charities in this town no records are to be found of an earlier date than the year 1731. In the month of June in that year an accidental fire consumed the town-hall, the school, the almshouse, and the church, together with about 400 houses (40 only escaping), and there seems to be no doubt that all the public documents in the custody of the corporation were then destroyed. In consequence of this circumstance it has been possible in but few cases to obtain any further account of the early charities than the wills of the respective donors, and such particulars as have been preserved by oral tradition; but there seems no reason for imagining that the destruction of the deeds has in any case led to the loss of charity property.

School.

There is a school-house situated in the churchyard containing sufficient accommodation for between 30 and 40 boarders, with a good school-room, play-ground, and garden attached. The annual value is about 20*l.* It has been always occupied by a schoolmaster appointed by the corporation under a rent which has been gradually raised during the last 30 years from a mere acknowledgment to the sum of 10*l.* per annum. About the year 1808, a difference having arisen between the corporation and the then master, Dr. Chisholm, respecting the repairs of the buildings, it was determined to remove him. He disputed the right of the corporation to do so, claiming to be in possession of the school premises by virtue of his office, and became the plaintiff in an action at law to decide the point. The action was tried at Dorchester, and Dr. Chisholm failed to establish his right to the possession, whereupon he commenced proceedings in the Court of Chancery; but these were finally abandoned by him upon finding an opportunity of settling advantageously elsewhere. After an interval, during which the premises were vacant, a Mr. Griffith was appointed, who was succeeded in 1814 by the Rev. Dr. Wise. Upon his resignation in 1823, Mr. Thomas Bartlett, the present master, was appointed, to whom the school premises were let in 1825 at a rent of 10*l.*, on the condition of occupying them for the purpose of a school. The landlord's repairs only are done at the expense of the corporation.

There is a supposition, for which no other grounds than the litigation with Dr. Chisholm were adduced, that the premises were not the property of the corporation, and that the master, holding them in virtue of his office, is bound, in respect of this occupation, to instruct certain boys gratuitously. The buildings seem to have been erected on the corporation land, whether or not by subscription is uncertain, but the oldest members of the corporation proved that no boys had, at least during the last 50 years, been admitted to the school without payment, except four boys who were placed there upon the foundation of William Williams, hereinafter mentioned, and for whom a sum of 5*l.* was paid to the master. This was the case in the time of Dr. Chisholm, by whom were educated some of the parties who entertained the idea above mentioned. The succeeding masters have not received the payment or the scholars from Williams's foundation.

Archbishop Wake's Charity.

William Wake, Archbishop of Canterbury, by deed poll under his hand and seal, bearing date 17th April 1728, directed that the sum of 1000*l.* (after the decease of certain annuitants) should be paid by his trustees, therein named, to the bailiff and corporation of the town of Blandford Forum, (the place of the birth and education of the said archbishop,) and to the vicar and churchwardens for the time being of Blandford aforesaid, to be invested in the purchase of some college or church lease of lands, or hereditaments of a good title, which should be so settled that the rents and profits thereof, after defraying the expenses of management, should yearly be applied by the said trustees and their successors for the maintenance and support of a charity-school in the town of Blandford Forum, wherein a fit and proper person, to be from time to time chosen by such trustees, should be retained as a schoolmaster at a reasonable salary, to teach 12 poor boys born within the said town to read, write, and cast accounts, and to instruct them in the principles of the Protestant religion, and in conformity to the Church of England; and that the said trustees should pay to such schoolmaster for his care in teaching the said boys such yearly salary as they should think fit; and, in the next place, should yearly bind out three of the same boys apprentices to some useful trades or occupations either by sea or land; and, in the last place, should yearly apply the residue of the rents and profits (if any) towards clothing the said 12 boys in such manner as was usual in the charity-schools in and about London; and the said archbishop directed, that when any of the said 12 boys should happen to die or should be removed from the school by being fully instructed, or by being apprenticed, then the said trustees and their successors should cause the like number of other boys born in the said town to be taken into the school in their stead. And he desired and empowered the Bishop of Bristol for the time being, on his triennial visitation, and the Archdeacon of Dorset, or his official, on his yearly visitation, to inquire into the management of the trustees in relation to the trusts and the conduct and qualifications of the schoolmaster, and, upon discovery of any mismanagement or abuse, to cause the same to be redressed and rectified. And he also empowered his trustees, until such purchase as aforesaid should be made, to place out the said sum of 1000*l.* at interest on Government or real securities, and to apply the interest in the same manner as the rents of the land, if purchased, were to be applied.

Blandford Forum.

It appears from the accounts, which are regularly entered in a book kept for the purpose, that in 1743 (the date of the first entry) the funds of the charity consisted of 1,316*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*, stock in the New South Sea Annuities; that 300*l.* was added to the stock in 1772, and that in 1801 an additional 100*l.* was purchased, making a total sum of 1,716*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*, which amount is now standing to the account of the trust in the name of the corporation.

The annual dividend is 51*l.* 9*s.* 8*d.*, from which 14*l.* per annum is paid by quarterly sums to a schoolmaster, who receives 12 boys of the town, nominated by the bailiff for the time being, and instructs them in reading, writing, and arithmetic. He teaches in a house which he rents for the purpose, and supplies all the school requisites without charge. Each of the boys is supplied every Whitsunday with a complete suit of clothing, nearly similar to that worn by the boys of Christ's Hospital; the cost of the whole is about 20*l.*

Ordinarily three of these boys are apprenticed yearly with premiums of 7*l.* each, but, as in this case the expenditure exceeds the income, in some years only two boys are apprenticed.

In November 1835 there was a balance in hand of 2*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*

The present master, Joseph Aplin, was appointed in 1800. In addition to his stipend he receives from the steward to Williams's charity 5*l.* annually in respect of four boys named on that foundation by the bailiff. These boys pay for their stationery, &c. The school was formerly well attended by children who paid for their instruction, but since the establishment of the National School it has been almost entirely abandoned by this class.

RYVES'S ALMSHOUSES.

Ryves's Almhouses.

George Ryves, of Ranston, esq., by Will, bearing date 9th May 1685, gave to his executors all his residuary personal estate in trust to purchase about 90*l.* or 100*l.* by the year of good lands of inheritance as near Blandford as might be, which should be employed for the yearly maintenance of such poor persons as should be elected and chosen into his almshouse in Blandford, as thereinafter directed, and for the repairing of the said almshouse from time to time, as need should require. And his Will was that each of the 10 poor persons, from time to time to be elected into the said almshouse, should have allowed them, out of the rents and profits of the said lands, 2*s.* 6*d.* by the week, and also a gown or other garment apiece, of grey cloth or serge, every year, against the feast of All Saints, at the discretion of the electors and governors of the said house and poor people. And, if there should be more money raised out of the rents and profits of the said lands than the 2*s.* 6*d.* by the week to the 10 poor people, and their annual garments, and the repair of the said house should amount unto, then that the said electors and governors and their successors should keep and improve the same until it should be a sufficient provision for the rebuilding of the said almshouse in case a fire should happen: and, when they should have raised the sum of 200*l.* as a bank for that purpose, that they should employ the proceeds of the said 200*l.*, and the surplus of the annual profits, towards the binding out of boys apprentices to sea, or otherwise, as they should think fit, being natives of Blandford or Pimperne, after the proportion of eight of Blandford to two of Pimperne, which proportion the testator had himself used in settling the poor persons then in the said almshouse; and he also desired that they might be natives of Blandford and Pimperne, and that none should be elected into the said house but single persons, and of at least 50 years of age. And the testator desired his executors, until land could be purchased for the weekly maintenance of the said 10 poor persons, to take care for the payment of the said weekly allowance, and garments, and repairs of the said house, out of his personal estate. And he appointed the then and the future owners of the farms of Ranston, Damory, Bryanstone, Iwerne Courtney, Charbrow, Hanford, Chettle, and also Mr.

Blandford Forum.

Robert Pitt, during his life, and the bailiff of the borough of Blandford for the time being, for ever, to be electors and governors of the said almshouse, and to elect and govern the said poor persons, viz., eight out of Blandford and two out of Pimperne, so for ever proportionally, as occasion should be, either by death or removal of any of them, or other vacancy whatsoever. And he desired that the bailiff of the borough of Blandford for the time being would collect the rents of the lands so to be purchased, and also pay the poor people their said weekly payments as therein mentioned, and also provide their annual garments, and order the necessary reparations of the said house, and at the end of his year should be accountable to the electors and governors, and pay over the surplus of money in his hands unto his successors; and for his trouble therein the testator gave yearly to the said bailiff the sum of four nobles as an acknowledgment for his pains. And, lastly, he desired his said electors or governors, or some of them, every year to examine, sign, and allow of every year's account at the time of the old bailiff's going out of office, and then to deliver the said account and the balance to the new bailiff, which said account he desired to be entered and kept in a book appointed for that purpose.

The only document remaining which relates to this charity is an old book containing the annual accounts, with extracts from the testator's Will, and some particulars of the estate in which the fund bequeathed was invested. The amount of the fund does not appear, and the purchase-deed is wanting.

The estate consists of a farm-house, with necessary outbuildings, and 80 acres of meadow and pasture adjoining, and a detached parcel containing 83 A. 1 R. 5P., all situate in the parish of Litton Cheney, and occupied by George Fry, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 210*l.* It is subject to a land-tax of 11*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.*

The owners of the several farms mentioned in the Will have (though rarely) been summoned to decide upon matters connected with the charity, but no attempt has been made to transmit the legal interest in the estates by regular conveyances, partly from the difficulty of deciding upon the nature of the ownership and the precise estates contemplated by the testator as affording a qualification to act in the trust.

The ordinary management of the charity, the nomination of the almspeople and the apprentices, the letting of the estate, and the receipt and appropriation of the rents, have, in consequence, been left to the bailiff of the borough of Blandford almost without the interference of any other person.

The almshouses (which are those originally built by the testator) are situate in Salisbury-street, Blandford, and consist of 10 tenements of one room each, all under one roof. They are occupied by eight poor persons of Blandford and two of Pimperne, as directed by the Will, all aged above 50, and not receiving relief from their respective parishes. The appointment of the almspeople from Pimperne is made with the concurrence of the clergyman and churchwardens of that parish.

The almspeople receive 5*s.* each every week from the bailiff. They also receive in the autumn, the men a grey cloth coat, and the women a linsey gown.

The weekly payments amount to 130*l.* per annum, and the price of the clothing to about 15*l.* There is then appropriated to the purpose of apprenticing boys of the parish of Blandford a sum of 12*l.*, and to the like purpose for boys of the parish of Pimperne 3*l.*, such boys being appointed with the assent of the minister and churchwardens of that parish. This sum is not usually given, specifically, as a premium with one individual, but is applied in such portions and in aid of such other charities of the same description as the bailiff thinks fit. There is paid for insurance of the almshouses 2*l.* 5*s.*, and for the bailiff's salary 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

From the surplus income a fund had been accumulated, which was paid over in the usual manner to Mr. Biggs, the bailiff of the corporation, in the year 1822, but which, upon quitting office at the end of the year, he was unable to make good to his successor. He shortly afterwards became bankrupt, having 261*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.* of the charity funds in his hands. A dividend of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound upon the separate estate is all that has ever been recovered on this account.

The official trustees appear to have audited the accounts of the charity in December 1824, upon the occurrence of this heavy loss (to the possibility of which the charity ought never to have been exposed), but their interference has been limited to this occasion and to this object; and, however obvious the necessity for a more efficient control, the disinclination to act under circumstances of so much doubt is not surprising.

Church Almshouse and Sir Edmund Uvedale's Charity.

Church Almshouse and Sir E. Uvedale's Charity.

The documents connected with the foundation of these almshouses were consumed, together with the building itself, in the fire of 1731.

The latter appears to have been erected before the year 1621, as we find that Sir Edmund Uvedale, by his Will, dated 1st October in that year, and proved in the Prerogative Court, devised to Sir John Rivers, Sir Nathaniel Napper, and Richard Swayne, and their heirs, all his lands called Rushton Hill, Chalcotts, and Little Hill, in the parish of Rushton, in the county of Dorset, for and towards the relief and maintenance of the poor of the almshouse of Blandford Forum for ever.

By a decree of the Court of Chancery, bearing date 26th July 1781, in a cause between the Attorney-general, at the relation of Humphry Sturt, informant, and the bailiffs and burgesses of Blandford, defendants, it was referred to the Master to appoint new trustees of the charity, to inquire into the establishment of the almshouse and the annual value of the charity estate, and to approve of a scheme for the future distribution of the charity according to the Will of the said Sir Edmund Uvedale.

The Master, by his report, dated 1st July 1784, (and which was afterwards confirmed,) certified that he had approved of a proposal for the appointment of certain persons therein named as trustees; and that, upon the death of any one of such trustees, the survivors ought to nominate another person in his room: that it did not appear to him what was the original establishment of the almshouse, or how long it had been erected before the said Will: that, in 1731, it was entirely consumed by fire, with all the evidences relating to the charity and to the property belonging thereto: that nothing was preserved that could tend to show the nature of the charity, except the books of account, which happened to be in another place: that it appeared, from entries in the said books, that the rents of the estates (as well those which were devised by Sir Edmund Uvedale as those which were given by other persons) were received by a steward annually elected by the corporation, who distributed the same in the maintenance of five poor persons placed in the almshouse, and in the repairs thereof, until the said fire: that, in 1740, the almshouse was rebuilt out of the savings of the rents: and, after stating further particulars as to the quantity and value of the estates,—from which it appears that the estates devised by Sir Edmund Uvedale consisted of a parcel of land in Tarrant Rushton, containing 27 acres, called Rushton Hill; and a piece of coppice-ground called Chalcott's Coppice, containing 15 A. 2 R. 39 P.; and that the other estates belonging to the almshouse, and which were not given by the said Sir Edmund Uvedale, but by other persons, consisted of a rent-charge of 10*l.* per annum, issuing out of a farm called Turner's Piddle Farm, an acre of land in Nutford-field, another acre in Black Nutford Farm, and two acres in Pimperne-field, and of a share or interest in an estate in Stourpaine; and that the then amount of the yearly income was 27*l.*—the said Master further certified that he had proceeded to consider of a scheme for the future distribution of the charity, and that he conceived that the trustees ought to have the management of the said estate devised to the charity; and that, as it appeared to him inconvenient and improper, in the distribution of the charity, to separate the produce of the said testator's estate from the other property belonging to the almshouse, he conceived that a steward of the said almshouse ought to continue to be annually chosen by the said bailiffs and burgesses, to whom the trustees should annually pay the rents and profits which they should receive from the testator's estate, to be by him applied, together with the produce of the other property belonging to the almshouse, in supporting and repairing the said house, and towards maintaining poor persons of the parish of Blandford Forum, not less than five in number, to be elected in the accustomed manner by the said bailiffs and burgesses, to inhabit the said house; such distribution to be made by weekly payments of not less than 1*s.* 6*d.* to each poor person, when the income of the charity would admit; and that the trustees should keep a book for entering an account of their receipts and payments and other transactions relating to the said estate; and that the steward should annually enter in a book an account of the receipts and expenditure of the income belonging to the almshouse, which should be signed and allowed by the bailiff of the corporation, and which should, at all seasonable times, be open to the inspection of the trustees.

The charity was established accordingly, in conformity with the above report.

New trustees were appointed in 1796; and ultimately, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date in October 1814, (the draft of which only was produced to us,) reciting the Will of Sir Edmund Uvedale, and the decree and report above mentioned, Thomas Pickard, Thomas Horlock Bastard, and James Brine, conveyed to the use of the said Thomas Pickard and T. H. Bastard, John Biggs, John White, and Percival North Bastard, (James Brine having resigned,) the several pieces of land in the parish of Tarrant Rushton, called Rushton Hill, Chalcott's Coppice, and Little Hill, with the appurtenances upon the trusts mentioned in the said recited Will and order.

Of these trustees, Thomas Pickard is since deceased, and John Biggs has declined acting.

The property belonging to the charity derived from Sir Edward Uvedale consists of the following particulars:—

1. A piece of land, called Rushton Hills, containing about 27 acres of pasture, in the parish of Tarrant Rushton, let to Henry Charles Sturt, esq., as yearly tenant, at the rent of 12*l.* This is a parcel of rough furzey ground, within the limits of what was formerly Cranborne Chase, and was under cultivation; but the injury occasioned by the deer rendered it impossible to continue it in that state. Upon the disfranchisement of the Chase, in 1829, an annual payment of 3*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.* was made payable out of this ground under the Act of Parliament.

2. A coppice, adjoining the above, retained in hand by the trustees, containing 15 A. 2 R. 39 P. This has hitherto been cut every 13 or 14 years; but, the deer having been destroyed, it may be expected, hereafter, to come in every eight or nine years. It appears that it was cut in 1833, when it produced a net sum of 109*l.*

The original property of the almshouse consists of—

A slip of land, in the parish of Blandford, containing about an acre, not enclosed, adjoining the turnpike-road from Blandford to Sturminster Newton, now let, together with the next-mentioned parcel, to Edward Berkeley Portman, esq., at the rent of 3*l.*

A piece of ground, containing about an acre, in a large common-field called Nutford Field, in the parish of Blandford.

An enclosed field, in the parish of Pimperne, containing about an acre and a quarter, which was allotted to the charity about 1809, in lieu of the two acres in Pimperne, mentioned in the Master's report as then belonging to the charity.

A rent-charge of 10*l.* payable out of a farm called Turner's Piddle Farm, in the parish of that name, belonging to James Frampton, esq., from whose tenant, Thomas Whittle, it is regularly received.

The share in an estate in Stourpaine, mentioned in the Master's report, appears to have been a mortgage for 100*l.* upon an estate called Foyles, in that parish, (belonging to the trustees of Margaret Pitt's Charity,) which was repaid in 1787, and not again invested, but expended in the current expenses in the following year, when the costs of a litigation, amounting to between 60*l.* and 70*l.*, were discharged.

Blandford Forum.

The almshouse is situate at the north side of the church, and consists of five tenements and a chapel-house, now in very good repair. These are occupied by five poor women of Blandford, who are appointed, by the steward, out of those who do not receive relief from the poor-rate, and who are aged from 50 to 60 years.

They receive 1*s.* 6*d.* a-week each; also two score of faggots and eight bushels of coals each annually.

The total fixed expenditure is as follows:—

|---|---|---|---|
| Stipend to poor in almshouse, 1*s.* 6*d.* each, weekly . . . | 19 | 10 | 0 |
| Forty bushels of coals, about 4*l.* 10*s.*; 200 faggots, 1*l.* 15*s.* 9*d.* | 6 | 5 | 9 |
| Payment to wood-keeper, 18*s.*; insurance, 18*s.*; land-tax, 7*s.* 4*d.* | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| Quit-rent to Lord Rivers, in respect of disfranchisement of Cranborne Chase . . . . . | 3 | 19 | 6 |

Besides these there are several fluctuating payments for poor and church rates, tithes, and repairs, making a considerable excess of expenditure beyond the receipts, which has been from time to time advanced by the steward, out of his own pocket, until he has been reimbursed from the produce of sales of the coppice-wood.

The directions, as to the annual appointment of a steward, are observed; but the same person is generally re-elected, by reason of the constantly increasing debt, which would render it extremely inconvenient to change the management.

Williams's Charity.

Williams's Charity.

William Williams, by Will, bearing date 30th June 1621, directed his executors, out of his estate, to bestow the sum of 3,000*l.* in purchasing the inheritance of lands of the yearly value of 140*l.*, to be conveyed to them and their heirs on trust that they should yearly cause two poor boys, either fatherless or having fathers without means to maintain them, to be chosen by his said executors, their heirs and assigns, within the towns of Blandford Forum, Shaftesbury, with the parish of St. James thereto annexed, and Sturminster Newton Castle, with the advice of the bailiff or chief officers of the said several towns, to be bound apprentices to fishermen, masters of ships or boats, usually making voyages on the seas; such two boys, for the first year, to be chosen out of Blandford, the next year out of Shaftesbury, and the third year out of Sturminster Newton, and so successively; and that, out of the rents and profits of the lands so to be purchased, they should yearly disburse 14*l.* towards the placing out and clothing the said poor boys; and, with some part thereof, should provide for every of them two suits of apparel, which should be two canvass doublets, two pair of cloth breeches, two pair of cloth stockings, two cloth jerkins, two pair of shoes, three shirts, three coarse falling bands, and one Monmouth cap, for each boy; and that they should yearly bestow the residue of the issues and profits upon clothiers, serge-makers, linen-weavers, stuff-makers, and felt-makers, inhabiting within the said several towns and parishes, as by his said executors, their heirs or assigns, with the advice of the bailiff and chief officer of the said towns and parishes, should be thought meet; giving 5*l.* at the least, and not above 8*l.* at the most, at one such distribution, to be made in the several towns in the same rotation as directed with regard to the apprentices: and he desired his executors, with the advice of the bailiff and chief officers aforesaid, during the space of two years next after the said boys so bound apprentices should come out of their apprenticeship, to place the said boys with such of the said tradesmen of the said several towns out of which they should have been chosen to work in their several trades, and to keep the said boys from idleness, to the end that they might in that time place themselves elsewhere. And, if any of the said tradesmen should refuse to receive the said boys, that then such as should make refusal should lose the benefit of his Will when it should come to his turn to receive relief thereby. And the testator directed that, upon the death of any of his executors, the survivors should, within two months afterwards, make a feoffment of the said lands to two honest gentlemen by them to be named, and should take an estate back again from them to his said surviving executors and to such other persons as should by them be named, and their heirs, with a declaration that such feoffment was made to them upon trust for the performance of the testator's said Will; and that a feoffment should from time to time be renewed, so that there might be evermore remaining four feoffees charged with the performance of his said Will: and he appointed Sir Thomas Freke, Richard Swayne, Brewen Williams, and Arthur Squibb, his executors: and he directed that, if any of the poor inhabitants of the said towns should be visited with fire or famine, his executors, out of part of that devised for the relief of tradesmen, should bestow so much to such visited people as they should think fit: and he gave to each of his executors and feoffees, from time to time, out of the issues and profits of the same lands, the yearly sum of 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* for their pains in the execution of his Will; and to every bailiff and chief officer of the several towns assisting his executors in the performance of his Will, in that year in which they should so assist, 6*s.* 8*d.* for their pains.

By a codicil to his Will, bearing date 13th October 1623, the testator directed that, out of the lands to be purchased by his executors, there should be 5*l.* yearly paid by them to the schoolmaster of Blandford, for his special pains to teach four poor men's children of the same town, (apt for learning and appointed by the bailiff,) from whose parents he should take no other reward but that his gift: and he gave the remainder of his goods to be employed at the discretion of his executors "for the space of 10 years after his decease, to procure therewith lands or leases," to maintain so many alms men and women as they could, with 5*l.* apiece yearly, for ever to continue within the said towns of Blandford, Shaftesbury, and Sturminster Newton, equally; such poor people to be placed, ordered, and directed in the said towns as his executors should in writing limit and appoint.

The time of the investment of the sum of 3,000*l.*, mentioned in the testator's will, as well as of the residue thereby given, does not appear, as the original purchase-deed (which was probably given up on the occasion of the exchange with Lord Milton, hereafter mentioned) was not produced to us. By an account-book, commencing in the year 1706, (being the earliest document, except the Will and the deeds of prior title in the hands of the trustees,) we find that, at that period, the trustees were in possession of the following property, which we may conclude to be all that was acquired under the purchase or purchases made in pursuance of the Will:—

|---|---|---|---|
| The Clenston Farm, producing, per annum | 110 | 0 | 0 |
| Lockett's Farm, in Haselbury Bryant | 85 | 0 | 0 |
| Lands in Upway, let to —— Beal | 6 | 5 | 0 |
| A messuage in Blandford, let to —— Bastard | 13 | 6 | 8 |
| Ditto, in Dorchester —— Crowe | 6 | 10 | 0 |
| Ditto, in ditto —— Colson | 10 | 0 | 0 |

The trustees do not appear to be in possession of any means of distinguishing the funds from which the different purchases were made, but it may be inferred, from a statement drawn up by Mr. Patience, of Blandford, in 1709, and produced to us at Shaftesbury, that Lockett's Farm, and Colson's, Crowe's, and Beal's tenements, were purchased with the residue of the testator's estate; and that the Clenston Farm, and Bastard's and Fussell's tenements, were purchased with the sum of 3,000*l.*, originally bequeathed; the former being there stated to belong to the widows, and the latter (subject to the payment for the apprentices and the school) to the artificers.

The first alteration in the state of the property took place under an Act of Parliament, obtained, in the year 1770, by the late Lord Milton, then one of the trustees of the charity, and who was desirous of acquiring the possession of the Clenston Farm, by exchange. By this Act, after reciting the Will of the testator, and the purchase of divers lands by the executors, in pursuance thereof, and the successive appointments of trustees, and that the farm at Winterborne Clenston (part of the lands so purchased) was then let at 130*l.* per annum, but was subject to outgoings, exclusive of certain repairs, to the amount of 32*l.* per annum, and that the third part of the manor and advowson of Winterborne Clenston (other part of the hereditaments so purchased) was of little advantage to the charity, and not worth, to be sold, more than 300*l.*, and that in lieu thereof, the said Joseph Lord Milton proposed to grant to the trustees an annuity of 150*l.* by way of exchange, secured as therein mentioned, which the said trustees had consented to accept, it was enacted that the capital messuage, farm, and demesne lands called Upper Clenston Farm, in the parish of Winterborne Clenston, with the woods called Clenston Woods, and also the third part of the manor of Clenston, and the third part of the advowson of the rectory of Clenston, should be divested out of the said Joseph Lord Milton, and Christopher Twynihoe, John Trenchard, and Awnsham Churchill, and their heirs, as trustees under the Will of the said testator, and should be vested in John Damer and William Churchill, and their heirs, freed and absolutely discharged of the charitable uses declared by the said Will upon the trusts thereinafter mentioned.

And it was further enacted that the several lands and premises so vested in the said John Damer and William Churchill, and also the several premises next mentioned, viz.—

A chief rent of 4*l.* 16*s.* 4*d.*, payable out of the manor of Stoke Abbas;

Three parts and half a third part, into 12 parts to be divided, of the said manor of Stoke Abbas;

A messuage, called Gudges, then let at 64*l.* 10*s.*;

A messuage and farm, called Higher Blackney and Lower Blackney, and a tenement called Forcey, and another tenement called Thorn, and a tenement called Clays, altogether let at 125*l.*;

Two third parts of the tithes of corn on Latherstoke Farm, and of three closes called Holes, and a close called Hilly, in Stoke Abbas, let at 1*l.* 10*s.*;

A quit-rent of 5*l.* 10*s.*, issuing out of the rectory of Stoke Abbas;

Certain cottages, or tenements, or parcels of land therein particularized, and let at rents amounting in the whole to 5*l.* 9*s.* 8*d.*; should be so vested in them to the intent that the said Joseph Lord Milton, Christopher Twynihoe, and others, feoffees of the said charity, might receive the clear yearly rent-charge of 150*l.*, payable out of the same hereditaments and premises by quarterly payments at the four usual feasts, with a power of distress in case of the same being in arrear for 20 days, and subject to the payment of the said yearly rent-charge, in trust for and for the only benefit of the said Joseph Lord Milton and his heirs; and it was thereby declared that the said Joseph Lord Milton and others, the trustees, should hold the said rent-charge, and should convey the same in such manner and upon such trusts as were directed concerning the lands and tenements directed to be purchased by the Will of the said testator.

The trustees have further become possessed by purchase of two small farms in Hazlebury Bryant, bought for the improvement of the estate out of their accumulations of income and the produce of sales of timber. The first, called Shagg's Farm, comprising 28 acres, was bought in 1827 for 1,500*l.* The latter, called Short's Barn, was bought in 1830 for the price (including the timber) of 3,040*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*

To complete the last purchase the trustees borrowed 1,500*l.* on mortgage of the farm itself at four per cent. interest; to discharge which debt they are now accumulating a fund from the rents thereof. In December 1835 a sum of 500*l.* had been invested in the Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the trustees, for this purpose.

The number of four trustees is always kept up, a new feoffment being executed upon every vacancy.

The last feoffment was in 1833, conveying the premises to the use of James Frampton, esq., of Moreton, Thomas Bowyer Bower, esq., Sir Colquhoun Grant, and Sir Edward Baker, barts., and their heirs in trust, for the due performance of the last Will and Testament of William Williams, under the following description, viz.:—The manor or lordship, capital messuages, farm, and demesne lands, called Locket's Farm, situate in Hazlebury Bryant; an annuity or yearly rent-charge of 150*l.* per annum, payable out of the manor or lordship, capital messuage, farm, and demesne lands, called Clenston Farm, in the parishes of Winterborne Clenston, Winterborne Nicholson, and Winterborne Philpston, or elsewhere, and other lands in the county of Dorset, by virtue of an Act passed 10 Geo. III.; a messuage, burgage, or tenement, in the parish of St. Peter, in Dorchester, on the east side of South-street; a messuage, burgage, or tenement, now two messuages, in the borough of Dorchester, in a street called Cornhill; a tenement in Holwell, in the parish of Upway, containing by estimation 8½ acres, with common of pasture for 30 sheep, 3 rother beasts, and 1 horse; two messuages, burgages, or dwelling-houses in Blandford Forum, with common of pasture in the marsh, and one shamble in the market-place of Blandford; also a farm, called Shagg's Farm, in the parish of Hazlebury Bryant, containing by estimation 28 acres; and a farm called Short's Barn Farm, in the same parish, containing by estimation 70 acres.

The following is the present state of the property, and the manner in which it is let:—

1. The annuity, payable under the Act of 1770, now received from the Hon. H. Dawson Damer, the owner of the Clenston farm and woods, and of the other property charged under the Act, 150*l.*

The exchange at the time of its being made afforded an increase of annual income to the charity of about 35*l.*; but the present rental of the property taken by Lord Milton is stated to be nearly double that of the annuity paid from his estates.

2. Locket's Farm, in Hazlebury Bryant, consisting of a farm-house and buildings, and 170 acres of land, let, together with the premises hereafter mentioned, called Shagg's Farm and Short's Barn Farm, to Joseph Shittler for eight years, from 6th April 1834, at the yearly rent of 368*l.*, of which, in respect of Locket's Farm, is paid 252*l.*

This farm is subject to a modus of 40*s.*

This letting was upon the estimate of a surveyor.

3. A garden and meadow, and parcels of land in the common fields of Holwell, in Upway, and certain commons of pasture, let to John Harris, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 30*l.*

This letting was by auction.

4. A house in Blandford, demised to Charles Cadie, on lease, dated 1st September 1823, for 99 years, determinable with three lives, now aged 55, 29, and 26, at the ancient reserved rent of 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, the tenant paying repairs and other outgoings.

This was let by public auction in consideration of a fine of 300*l.*

5. Another house in Blandford, demised by lease, dated 30th April 1823, to James Pond for 99 years, determinable with three lives, now aged 26, 19, and 25, at the ancient reserved rent of 10*l.*, the tenant being liable for repairs.

Upon letting this property, a fine of 300*l.* was also obtained by auction.

The yearly value of these two houses is stated to be now about 50*l.*

To each of these messuages was annexed a right of pasturage in the marsh. This was enclosed by the bailiff; and the commoners having complained to the feoffees of their deprivation, an inquiry was instituted in 1833, when it appeared that the whole extent of the commonable land was not an acre, in which the whole of the burgesses of Blandford had a right to participate. The matter was therefore dropped.

6. A house in Cornhill, Dorchester, demised by indenture, dated 6th July 1818, to William Galpin for 99 years, determinable upon three lives, now aged 35, 32, and 22, at the ancient reserved rent of 6*l.*

This lease was granted in consideration of 700*l.*, and of the erection of two houses on the ground demised. Two houses have been built, and are now worth at least 70*l.* a-year.

7. A house in South-street, Dorchester, demised by lease, dated 2d February 1796, to John Callard Manfield for 60 years, from Lady-day 1796, at the yearly rent of 4*l.*

The lessee has built a good house on these premises, at an expense of not less than 1,500*l.* It is now worth about 50*l.* a-year.

The whole available income is therefore 465*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

The modern purchases of Shagg's Farm, consisting of 28 acres of land, and Short's Barn Farm, consisting of a house and buildings, and 70 acres of land, are included in the lease to J. Shittler. The rent apportioned for the former is 40*l.*, and for the latter 76*l.*; but the trustees have not considered these sums as forming part of their disposable income, having determined to apply them to raise a fund for the discharge of the mortgage debt as above mentioned.

As already stated, the trustees have not preserved in their accounts the distinction between the lands purchased with the bequest of 3,000*l.* and those purchased with the residue, which ought to have been made; but they carry their whole disposable income (465*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*) to one fund. From this they first appropriate to the fund for apprenticing the sum of 14*l.*

Blandford Forum.

There being rarely the opportunity of binding out an apprentice conformably to the terms of the Will, partly from the unwillingness of boys to adopt a seafaring life, but principally from the smallness of the premium, this branch of the charity has had very few calls upon it. Only 20 apprentices have been bound out since the year 1772, of whom five have been so placed in the last four years. The remainder of the fund has therefore, from time to time, been invested in the purchase of Stock, the dividends of which were carried to the general account up to the time of the successive purchases.

The next application is the distribution amongst artificers of the descriptions mentioned in the Will in each of the three towns in rotation.

In the towns of Blandford and Shaftesbury there are very few individuals of the required classes. In the former not exceeding nine, and in the latter not above 11. In Sturminster Newton there are about 20. To each of these persons, in the two former towns, 8*l.* is given, and in the latter 5*l.*

The schoolmaster of Blandford receives a payment of 5*l.* a-year. This was formerly paid to the master of the free school, and is now given to the master of Archbishop Wake's school.

To a certain number of pensioners resident in the three towns, who are named by the trustees at the recommendation of the principal officers, assisted by the respective clergymen, is paid 5*l.* each. In 1820 there were seven in each town; in 1821 they were doubled, and have been since increased to 18, making 54 in the whole. These payments are made annually to the entire number, making a permanent annual payment of 270*l.* They are chosen from aged persons of reduced circumstances, and not receiving parochial relief.

The other outgoings are—

Incidental expenses, about 1*l.* 10*s.*

Repairs of farm buildings, and allowances to the tenants, about 25*l.*

The allowances to the feoffees (1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* each), 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

And 6*s.* 8*d.* to the principal officer in the three towns in rotation, 6*s.* 8*d.*

The allowances have not, in fact, been paid to the feoffees, but have been added to the surplus.

After all the above payments there remains a balance, which varies considerably, as it depends upon the number of artificers to whom the donation is distributed. This is handed over to the bailiff or chief officer of the three towns in rotation, to be given away at his discretion. In Blandford it is given to the poor indiscriminately in small sums. It has latterly been permanently decreased by the augmentation of the number of pensioners. When such an augmentation takes place, the trustees, to avoid giving an advantage to any one of the three towns, (where it has been seen that the numbers of artificers sharing the charity are unequal,) deduct from the surplus a sufficient sum to pay the additional pensioners until the next turn of that town comes round, from which time it becomes a permanent charge. The balances have been as follows in the last 12 years:—

|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1824 | In Sturminster 40 artificers received 5*l.* each, and there was no surplus. | | | |
| 1825 | Blandford, the surplus was | 51 | 19 | 6 |
| 1826 | Shaftesbury | 87 | 2 | 4 |
| 1827 | Sturminster | 19 | 11 | 11 |
| 1828 | Blandford | 88 | 5 | 0 |
| 1830 | Sturminster | 16 | 2 | 7 |
| 1831 | Blandford | 11 | 7 | 9 |
| 1832 | Shaftesbury | 48 | 19 | 5 |
| 1833 | Sturminster | 26 | 4 | 4 |

The trustees meet annually at one of the towns in rotation, about the month of November, to make the distributions, the accounts being closed up to the Midsummer preceding.

It is impossible to characterize this richly-endowed charity as one of extensive utility. The apprentice fund, as has been seen, is rarely resorted to; the trustees, by a scrupulous adherence to the letter of the Will, having considered themselves as restricted from varying the calling or even increasing the premium prescribed.

The distribution to the artificers may occasionally afford a seasonable relief to deserving men, but is sometimes claimed as a matter of right by tradesmen in comfortable or even flourishing circumstances, and the trustees have not felt themselves at liberty to refuse the application. So far as it operates as a bounty on the particular trades in question, its influence, though no doubt trifling, may be considered mischievous. In fact, it appears that even in the lifetime of Mr. Squibb, the surviving executor of the testator, a complaint to this effect was made by the magistrates of all the three towns. The establishment of the permanent pensioners is not open to the same objection with the indiscriminate application of the ultimate residue; but, upon the whole, considering the increase of its funds which may be anticipated, it is earnestly to be hoped that some sanction, judicial or legislative, (should the latter be thought requisite,) may soon be obtained for an application of this large fund, so as to produce some proportionable benefit to the towns contemplated by the testator as the objects of his bounty.

Gundry's Charity.

Gundry's Charity.

Mary Gundry, of Wimborne Minster, by Will, bearing date 23d February 1617, (as appears by a copy thereof entered in the account-book of the churchwardens of the said parish in the year 1626,) amongst other things, gave to the bailiff and burgesses of the town of Blandford Forum, and their successors, to the use of the poor people of the same town, the yearly sum of 40*s.*, payable out of all her lands and tenements within the realm of England, with a power of entry and distress in case of non-payment.

This rent-charge has always been received from an estate in the parish of Wimborne Minster, called Whafford Farm, in the occupation of —— Drew, part of the lands charged by the testatrix.

The practice has been to give this sum to a poor man who is named by the bailiff, and who, when appointed, continues to receive the charity for life.

Margaret Pitt's Charity.

Margaret Pitt's Charity.

Margaret Pitt, by Will, bearing date 17th July 1719, (as appears by an extract entered in the account-book of the charity,) directed that 500*l.* of her personal estate should be laid out in the purchase of freehold lands as near as conveniently might be to the town of Blandford, or elsewhere, at the discretion of her executors, in the names of certain trustees therein named, and of the bailiff of Blandford for the time being, upon trust, by half-yearly payments, to dispose of the clear produce of the rents thereof amongst such poor housekeepers, inhabitants of the town of Blandford, and continuing to reside there, as should not receive alms from the parish, in such manner and proportions as to the said trustees should seem proper. And she directed that, when the trustees should be reduced by death to three, the survivors should elect so many more as would make up their number to five, and should convey the premises to the use of themselves and the new-elected trustees and their heirs upon the trusts aforesaid.

The following is an abstract of the last trust-deed:—

By indentures of lease and re-lease, bearing date 9th and 10th June 1817, between Harry Biggs and John Dansey, of the one part, and Henry White and Percival North Bastard, of the other part, reciting the said Will, and that in pursuance thereof a purchase was made of the premises thereinafter mentioned, which, by indentures bearing date 21st and 22d January 1795, had been conveyed to trustees, of whom the said Harry Biggs and John Dansey were the survivors, they, the said H. Biggs and J. Dansey, conveyed the said premises to the use of themselves and the said parties of the second part and their heirs, by the description of a messuage or tenement, barns, stables, gardens, and orchard, and all arable lands, meadow, and pasture grounds to the same belonging, situate in Stourpaine, in the county of Dorset, called Foyle's Living; and a dwelling-house, orchard, and garden, in Stourpaine aforesaid; and a garden, containing, by estimation, 10 goads, together with common of pasture for one horse beast in the common fields belonging to the said tenement, called Foyles, and all other the lands of Edward Foyle, formerly the inheritance of James Foyle, (except two acres of arable land, lying in a place called Mardon, in a common field belonging to the parish of Stourpaine, called the Higher or Upper field; one acre of arable land in the same field, called Walls; two acres and a half in the same field, also called Walls; three acres in the middle of a field called the Lower field; another acre in the same field, at Hod wood, near Otterclift; an acre of meadow in the middle of a meadow called Hill meadow; and also excepting all commons and privileges to the said excepted lands belonging,) with the appurtenances upon the trusts mentioned in the Will of the said Margaret Pitt.

Harry Biggs is since deceased.

The farm called Foyle's Living is situated at Stourpaine. It is occupied together with New's Living, which belongs to the next-mentioned charity, by John Barrett, as yearly tenant. The whole acreage of the two farms is 59 A. 1 R. 14 P. The total rent paid by Barrett is 80*l.*, of which 45*l.* is considered as belonging to Margaret Pitt's Charity.

There is also a head-rent of 1*l.* paid by William Seager, in respect of a tenement and a garden of 30 perches in this parish, which is held by him for the lives of himself and his wife, aged respectively 60 and 49.

Also a chief rent of 1*s.*, payable by —— Haynes, in respect of a cottage and a garden, for which he paid a fine of 15*l.* in 1829, let to him for three lives, aged respectively 36, 22, and 12.

After deducting the expense of repairs, and paying for insurance 1*l.* 15*s.*, a lord's rent of 2*s.* 2*d.*, and a land-tax of 4*s.* 10*d.*, a distribution is made among poor housekeepers residing in Blandford, and not receiving parochial relief, of sums varying from 1*l.* to 5*l.*

The trustees meet, for the purpose of distribution, every January. They usually adhere to the same list, but in pressing cases increase the amount given to an individual.

In January 1835 there was a balance of 14*l.* 17*s.* in the treasurer's hands.

William Pitt's Charity.

Wm. Pitt's Charity.

William Pitt, esq., by Will, bearing date, 20 December 1729, gave to trustees 500*l.*, on trust, to lay out the same in the purchase of lands or hereditaments, in or near Blandford, or elsewhere, in the county of Dorset, and to pay the rents thereof yearly to so many poor housekeepers, being inhabitants of the town of Blandford, and residing there, (those receiving

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 9th and 10th June 1817, reciting the said Will, and that a purchase was accordingly made of the premises thereinafter mentioned; and that, by indentures, bearing date 21st and 22d January 1795, the same were conveyed by the then surviving trustees to the use of themselves and two others, of whom Harry Biggs, John Dansey, and Henry White, were then the survivors; they, the said H. Biggs, J. Dansey, and H. White, conveyed the said premises to the use of themselves and Percival North Bastard, and Charles Baskett, and their heirs, by the description of a messuage, tenement, or dwelling-house, called New's Tenement, together with 20 acres of arable, meadow, and pasture land thereto belonging, and a cottage tenement and garden plot, containing one acre, more or less, all situate in Stourpaine, upon the trusts mentioned in the Will of the said William Pitt.

Of these trustees Harry Biggs is since deceased.

The premises thus conveyed are adjacent to those belonging to Margaret Pitt's Charity, and are occupied as part of the same farm by John Barrett. The rent apportioned to this charity is 35*l.* per annum. This is a desirable farm, and held at an easy rent, which is punctually paid.

There is also a quit-rent of 1*s.* paid by —— Haskell, in respect of a cottage and garden, in the parish, held for three lives, upon which a fine of 10*l.* was paid in 1826.

The buildings being on the other part of the farm, there are no outgoings on this portion, and the rent is applied, without any deduction, in the same manner as the funds of Margaret Pitt's Charity, except that it is now given in sums of 3*l.* and 5*l.* only.

In January 1835 there was a balance in hand of 4*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*

CHARITY OF CHRISTOPHER AND ROBERT PITT.

Charity of Christopher and Robt. Pitt.

The date of this gift is unknown. The accounts, which are the only documents connected with it that remain, show the application to have long been such as mentioned below.

The property derived from these donors consists of about 16 acres of arable land, without any building except a barn, situate at Winterborne Kingston, and let to John Little, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 13*l.*

Of the rent 2*l.* is given to one of the almswomen in the church almshouse, called the chapel-woman, and the residue forms part of a sum of between 30*l.* and 40*l.*, the produce of the different charities hereafter mentioned, which is distributed at Christmas, by the bailiff, indiscriminately among poor persons of the parish, in sums varying from 2*s.* to 10*s.*

ANN ANNE'S CHARITY.

Ann Anne's Charity.

It is stated, in Hutchins's History of Dorset, that Mrs. Ann Anne, in 1737, gave 100*l.*, the interest to be paid to the schoolmaster of Blandford, for assisting the vicar of Blandford, 10 Sundays in the year, in administering the Sacrament, and appointed the rectors of Pimperne and Bryanstone her trustees.

The dividends upon this stock were received by Dr. Chisholm, a former master of the school, and by the Rev. Mr. Wise, one of his successors, these gentlemen being in the habit of occasionally assisting the clergyman at the festivals of the church. The last payment was made in 1823. The present master not being in orders, the payment has been discontinued, and the dividends have been accumulated and invested.

A sum of 300*l.*, Three per Cent. Consols, is now standing in the names of the Rev. Christopher Fleet, rector of Durweston, and the Rev. Dr. Windham, the rector of Pimperne, to the credit of this charity, when called into operation.

There is also an uninvested balance of 44*l.* 15*s.* 9*d.* in the hands of Messrs. Dansey and Co., the bankers to the trustees. An application to the Court of Chancery for its sanction in rendering this fund permanently available for the purpose to which it was destined is now contemplated.

KINGSTON'S CHARITY.

Kingston's Charity.

Francis Kingston, by Will, bearing date 1st February 1778, gave to the bailiff and burgesses of Blandford Forum, and their successors, 300*l.*, to be vested, in their names, in Government securities, the interest to be laid out at Christmas, yearly, in clothing five poor old men and five poor old women of the parish of Blandford Forum, who should have been reputable housekeepers, and should not have received parochial relief, being of sober life and conversation, and attending divine worship in the parish church of Blandford.

There is an entry in the account-book of the corporation, stating that the said sum of 300*l.* was not paid by the executors of the testator till May 1799, when it was paid, with an arrear of interest, and, thereupon, it was deemed advisable to invest a sum sufficient for the purchase of 600*l.* in the Reduced Three per Cent. Annuities, and which amount of stock was accordingly purchased for the sum of 333*l.* 15*s.*

This sum now stands in the name of the bailiff and burgesses.

The dividends, amounting to 18*l.* per annum, are distributed, at Christmas, by means of orders for clothing, to 10 poor persons of Blandford, selected by the bailiff, who attend the parish church, and do not receive parochial relief.

The orders are for such articles of clothing as the parties may most need, to the amount of 1*l.* 16*s.* each. There are always some of each sex, but the direction as to the precise number of five men and five women is not adhered to.

Blandford Forum.

The said Francis Kingston also directed his executors to invest the sum of 2,000*l.* in the names of some of the principal proprietors in the neighbourhood of Blandford, and the recorder and bailiff of Blandford, upon trust, "for and towards erecting, establishing, and supporting of an hospital or infirmary for the use and reception of sick and infirm persons in the county of Dorset, the same to be built at or contiguous to the town of Blandford, and to be governed and managed in all things after the manner of those general hospitals lately established in and for the county of Devon and Wilts;" and until a sufficient sum could be raised for supporting the said hospital, he directed the dividends of the said 2,000*l.* to be accumulated and reinvested towards establishing a fund for the purpose aforesaid.

Nothing was received under this bequest, the gift being void under the statute of 9 Geo. II. c. 36.

William Pitt's Charity.

Wm. Pitt's Charity.

A sum of 50*l.* is stated, on the authority of the corporation account-books, to have been given by this donor, about the year 1690, for apprenticing poor boys of the parish.

It appears to have been invested on the security of a tenement in Blandford, called Dashwood's Bakehouse, which was already mortgaged to secure 50*l.* to Sir Warwick Hele's Charity, hereafter mentioned. The rent being insufficient to pay the interest of both sums, the possession of the premises was given up to the mortgagees. The rent is now 2*l.* 18*s.*, of which the sum of 2*l.* 10*s.* is applied to the discharge of the interest on Sir W. Hele's 50*l.*, and the remaining 8*s.* towards the interest on William Pitt's 50*l.*

This 8*s.* is included in the Christmas distribution by the bailiff.

Charity of Dr. Highmore, Ware, and Others.

Charity of Dr. Highmore, Ware, and others.

The entries in the corporation account-book make mention of a fund called Gratis Money, said to have been given by Dr. Highmore, Mr. Ware, and others, to be lent out in small sums to poor tradesmen, without interest. Some portion of the original money having been lost, it was resolved, in 1690, to put out 25*l.* of the remainder at interest. That sum was accordingly secured on the parsonage, held by the corporation, under lease, from the dean and chapter of Winchester, and 1*l.* 5*s.* was paid as interest. Upon the expiration of the lease, in 1812, the principal was paid in and invested in the purchase of 43*l.* 2*s.* Old South Sea Annuities, now forming part of a sum of 1,341*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* in that stock which stands in the name of the corporation.

The smallness of the sum has precluded its being applied according to the supposed intention of the donor, and the dividends, amounting to 1*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* are included in the bailiff's Christmas donation.

A balance of 6*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.* has been suffered, without any apparent reason, to accumulate, which is handed over every year, by the bailiff, to his successor, being entered on both sides of the account.

Charity of Sir Warwick Hele and Others.

Charity of Sir Warwick Hele and others.

To this head is referred, in the corporation account-book, a sum of 150*l.*, said to have been given for the distribution of bread on Sundays, and for clothing to the poor.

The corporation have appropriated 100*l.*, part of the sum of 1,341*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* Old South Sea Annuities before mentioned, to this charity. The remaining 50*l.* is secured on a mortgage (bearing interest at 5 per cent.) of the tenement called the Bakehouse, mentioned under the head of William Pitt's Charity.

From the interest and dividends, amounting to 5*l.* 10*s.*, 12 penny rolls are given every Sunday, at the church, amongst 12 poor persons named by the bailiff. A sum of 3*l.* is also given away by the bailiff, which forms part of the Christmas distribution. The annual deficiency of 2*s.*, which is thus incurred, is made up out of a small and gradually decreasing balance in hand. It is now 1*l.* 2*s.* 5*d.*

Rogers's Charity.

Rogers's Charity.

This charity is said (on the same authority as the preceding) to have been given for clothing the poor, and for apprenticing poor boys of Blandford.

Its funds formerly consisted of 200*l.* Old South Sea Annuities, and 100*l.* secured on a mortgage which was paid off in 1812, and the 100*l.* invested in the purchase of 172*l.* 8*s.* 3*d.* additional stock, making 372*l.* 8*s.* 3*d.* Old South Sea Annuities, now included in the larger sum before mentioned standing in the name of the corporation.

The amount of the dividends (11*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*) forms part of the Christmas distribution by the bailiff. There is a balance in hand of 35*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* in respect of this charity.

The specific appropriation directed by the donor seems to have been disregarded without sufficient cause, as it would be easy to accumulate the dividends till an adequate apprentice fee is raised, or to apply them in aid of other charities given for the like object.

Walter Rideout's Charity.

Walter Rideout's Charity.

A sum of 15*l.* is stated to have been given by this donor for the purpose of buying wheat for the poor of the parish when the price should exceed 5*s.* a bushel.

This sum was secured on mortgage till 1812, when the amount was paid in and invested in the purchase of 25*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.* Old South Sea Annuities, part of the sum of 1,341*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* before mentioned.

The dividends, 15*s.* 6*d.*, form part of the Christmas distribution by the bailiff.

In December 1835 there was a balance of 6*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* in the hands of the corporation on account of this charity.

Robert Rideout's Charity.

Robert Rideout's Charity.

To this charity, which is stated in the Parliamentary Return to have consisted of a sum of 50*l.* given for teaching poor children to read, the corporation have appropriated 50*l.*, part of the Old South Sea Annuities standing in their name. Blandford Forum.

The dividends, 1*l.* 10*s.*, are applied, with part of the fund derived from Bastard's charity hereafter mentioned, in the payment of three schoolmistresses. Robert Rideout's Charity, continued.

DR. ROBERT PITT'S CHARITY.

Robert Pitt, M.D., by his Will, bearing date 3d January 1711, and proved in the Prerogative Court, gave to the bailiff and corporation of Blandford 100*l.*, to be employed by them in placing out some poor boys and girls of the said town apprentices, at their discretion. Dr. Robert Pitt's Charity.

To this charity the corporation have appropriated 100*l.* stock of the Old South Sea Annuities, standing in their name. The dividend, 3*l.*, (which might usefully be applied in aid of Rogers's Charity,) is included in the Christmas distribution to the poor by the bailiff.

In December 1835 there was a balance in hand on account of this charity of 12*s.* 9*d.*

BASTARD'S CHARITY.

There is an entry in the charity account-book stating that John Bastard, in his life-time, in January 1768, transferred 600*l.* Old South Sea Annuities, to the bailiff and burgesses of Blandford, in trust, to apply the interest of 500*l.* thereof annually, in teaching about 35 boys and girls, natives of the town, to be nominated by the bailiff and burgesses, to read, and in providing them with books proper for the purpose, and he desired that if any such children should be nominated by any person related to him they should be received; the children not to be sent to school till four years old, nor to continue there longer than till eight years of age; and he desired that the children should be brought to the town-hall on Whitmonday, yearly, before the bailiff, who should give to each a sixpenny loaf; the interest of the remaining 100*l.* to be applied in keeping the pump which he had erected in the market-place, with the building over it, and the lamp, in good repair, to supply the lamp with oil, and to pay a man for cleaning and lighting it every night from Michaelmas to Lady-day in every year. Bastard's Charity.

This 600*l.* forms part of the sum of 1,341*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* Old South Sea Annuities, in the name of the corporation.

Out of the dividends (amounting to 18*l.*) 11*l.* 2*s.* is added to the 1*l.* 10*s.* arising from Robert Rideout's Charity, and divided amongst three schoolmistresses in the town, 4*l.* 4*s.* to each, who, in respect thereof, teach a number of children, usually not exceeding 20, who are nominated by the bailiff.

19*s.* 6*d.* is laid out in bread, which is given to these children on one day in the course of the summer.

The residue is applied in lighting and keeping in repair two lamps, one at the pump-house, and one at the town-hall, and also in repairing the pump. These sums vary, and a balance is always kept in hand. In December 1835 the balance was 14*l.* 14*s.* 11*d.*

DENNET'S CHARITY.

Priscilla Dennet, by Will, bearing date in 1803, (as appears from an extract thereof entered in the charity account-book,) gave to the corporation of Blandford 50*l.*, to be put forth from time to time, and the interest arising therefrom to be distributed yearly at Christmas or Easter, among three poor families of Blandford, (who should be constant to the church,) at the discretion of the corporation. Dennet's Charity.

50*l.* of the same stock is appropriated to this charity.

The dividends, 1*l.* 10*s.*, are given equally between three poor families selected by the bailiff.

There is a balance of 3*l.* 1*s.* in hand in respect of this charity.

CHARITY OF BISHOP HALL AND DR. SLOPER.

See parish of Spettisbury. Charity of Bishop Hall and Dr. Sloper.

The Rev. G. W. J. Chard, vicar of Blandford, has received from the Rev. T. Rackett, the rector of Spettisbury-cum-Charlton, on account of this charity, about 12 bibles every second or third year, for distribution. In the year 1835 he received 20. These he gives as he sees occasion to residents in Blandford, of the poorer classes, and now and then to the most deserving children of the national school. The rector of Spettisbury himself also occasionally distributes bibles to inhabitants of this town, who are known or recommended to him.

SIR WILLIAM PORTMAN'S CHARITY.

In the corporation account-book stands the title of "Sir William Portman's Apprentice Charity," with a note, without date, but not by a modern hand, stating that of late years the charity had been dispensed by Mr. Portman. An unauthenticated document was furnished purporting that a Sir William Portman had given 90*l.* per annum to bind out 18 poor children annually, to be named by the owner of Orchard-house, from the parishes of Taunton St. Mary, Taunton St. James, Blandford, and Brainston, but with liberty to the owner of Orchard-house aforesaid to substitute any other parishes at pleasure. Sir Wm. Portman's Charity.

Upon referring to Edward Berkeley Portman, esq., the present owner of Orchard-house, (two of whose ancestors have borne the name of Sir William Portman,) he stated that, upon the occasion of this inquiry in the county of Somerset, every possible search had been made to discover by what instrument the supposed charge of 90*l.* had been created—that it was not contained in any settlement of the family estates, nor in the Will of either of his above-named ancestors—that none of the successive owners of the property were known to have executed any instrument to make the charge valid; but that, from respect to the traditionary wish of their predecessor, all of them were understood to have been in the habit of expending, annually, a sum amounting to 90*l.* at least in apprenticing boys or girls—that he had himself applied a sum of 1,188*l.* to this object (selecting the children, however, almost exclusively from Dorsetshire parishes), in the period during which he had been in possession of the estates, being at the rate of about 92*l.* per annum. Mr. Portman also supplied a statement of the amounts and dates of the payments by him, and the names of the apprentices. The above account, clearly showing that the charity is merely voluntary, and not of the permanent nature which would subject it to this inquiry, it has been recorded only to prevent misconstruction in future.

Borough and Parish of Corfe Castle.

Corfe Castle.

The mayor and barons, and the churchwardens, of the Borough of Corfe Castle have long been in possession, as trustees for charitable purposes, of considerable real estate either conveyed or devised by different donors, or purchased with funds derived from similar sources. Little attention has, for the most part, been paid to the question, in whom the legal estate was vested, or to the precise objects of the several gifts, and the annual proceeds have been carried to one common fund, under the management of the churchwardens, the appropriation of which is hereafter mentioned.

At the time of this inquiry little information could be obtained on the spot as to the different endowments, none of the original deeds being in the custody of the mayor or parochial officers, nor was it known what had become of them; the greater part have, however, since been discovered in the possession of the Bankes family (long patrons of the borough), and little room is now left for doubt as to the source or the identification of almost every parcel of the property.

Uvedale's Charity.

Uvedale's Charity.

Sir Edmund Uvedale, knight, by Will, proved in the Prerogative Court, 6th December 1621, after giving to the churchwardens of each of the several parishes therein named a sum of 5*l.*, to be employed as a stock to set the poor on work according to the statute for the relief of the poor, and giving to the churchwardens of Corfe Castle and their successors 5*l.* to the use of the poor in manner aforesaid, devised all his lands of Sharpford, New Mills, and Derby Lands, within the parish of Corfe Castle, unto Sir John Ryves, knt., Sir Nathaniel Napper, knt., and Richard Swayne, esq., and their heirs, towards the maintenance of the poor of the almshouse of the borough of Corfe Castle for ever.

The premises derived from the above donor, which consist of a house and 41 acres of land in the parish of Corfe Castle, have for above a century, and probably much longer, been treated as vested in the mayor and barons of the borough, to whom, however, no conveyance from the trustees appears. From 1732 to the present time they have been regularly demised by that body. Until 1788 they were let at 14*l.* per annum; from 1788 to 1808 at 18*l.*; and since the latter period at 25*l.* 8*s.* per annum, at which rent they are now held by W. John Bankes, esq. (as representative of the late Henry Bankes, esq.), under a lease for 20 years from 25th March 1828, determinable at the end of 9 or 14 years, upon 12 months' notice by either party.

These lands are intermixed, and are let with a property belonging to Mr. Bankes, called the New Mills Farm, and are thus described in the lease granted by him to his under-tenant:—

| | A. | R. | P. |

Abbott's Charity.

Abbott's Charity.

The property derived from this donor comprises, first, four tenements, situate in Church-street, in the borough of Poole, which were conveyed by him in his lifetime; secondly, certain premises situate in High-street, in Poole aforesaid; thirdly, certain tenements situate in Bayhog-lane and West-street, Poole, and a garden in the borough of Wareham; and fourthly, a tenement, called Thompson's Tenement, in the borough of Corfe Castle. The three last-mentioned parcels of land and premises were devised by the Will of the donor.

First.—The tenements in Church-street, Poole.

Robert Abbott, by indenture of feoffment, bearing date 17th February 1610, with memorandum of livery of seizin endorsed, granted, and confirmed to Robert Bondevyle, mayor of Corfe Castle; George Uvedale and two others, churchwardens of the said borough; and to John Arginton and five others, inhabitants of the said borough, and their heirs; a messuage and garden in the town and county of Poole, bounded by the Lytton or churchyard on the west, the land of George Dackham on the east, the parsonage on the north, and the street on the south, then in the occupation of Thomas Frauncys, with the reversion and rent of 52*s.*, payable for the same premises, by the said Thomas Frauncys to the said Robert Abbott, his heirs and assigns, as by a deed indented of demise from the said Robert Abbott to the said

Corfe Castle.

Thomas Frauncys might appear; to the use of the grantor for life, and, after his decease, in trust yearly, by and with the said rent of 52*s.*, to buy and distribute every Sunday in the year upon the tomb of the said Robert Abbott, in the north aisle of the parish church of Corfe Castle, 12 pennyworth of bread to 12 poor people of the almshouse of Corfe Castle, and in default of so many in the said almshouse, then to so many other poor and impotent people of the said borough as with the said almspeople (if any should be) should make up the number of 12. And it was thereby covenanted and agreed, that, when the estate of the said Thomas Frauncys, or of any other tenant or tenants of the said messuage and premises, should expire, that the said feoffees and their heirs should from time to time for ever demise the said premises to some person or persons for one, two, or three lives, or for 21 years, or for any number of years, determinable upon one, two, or three lives in possession, and not above, reserving therefore during the same term the yearly rent of 52*s.*, and no more nor otherwise; and that the same rent should be employed to the charitable uses above-mentioned of buying bread for the poor. And it was further agreed, that, for any estate in the said premises for lives or years so to be letten as aforesaid, there should not be taken above 12*d.* in lieu of a fine, nor any other recompence, besides the said yearly rent of 52*s.* And the said Robert Abbott thereby directed that a preference should be given by the said feoffees to any tenant of the said premises holding by lease from him the said grantor, if such tenant should be of ability to keep the said premises in repair, and to pay the said rent of 52*s.* And it was further agreed, that, when any six of the said feoffees should be dead, the survivors should make a feoffment of the same messuage and premises, and the reversion and rent thereof, to eight or ten of the most sufficient inhabitants and parishioners of Corfe Castle, upon the charitable uses thereby expressed.

By a deed-poll, bearing date 20th August 1611, the said Robert Abbott, after reciting the last-abstracted indenture, and that Edward Man and Eleanor his wife, and John Man, had, as of Trinity Term 1610, levied a fine of the said premises to him the said Robert Abbott for the more perfect accomplishment of his work of charity towards the poor of Corfe Castle after his decease, released to the said R. Bondevyle and others, and their heirs, all his right and interest whatsoever in and to the said messuage and premises, the said annual rent of 52*s.* reserved to him during his life, the said lease to Thomas Frauncys only excepted.

No subsequent conveyance of the fee of these premises appears; but by indenture of demise, bearing date 25th March 1687, the mayor, barons, churchwardens, and overseers of Corfe Castle, reciting that, as they were feoffees in trust for Robert Abbott deceased, concerning certain lands of which he died seised in fee simple, and gave the same for the use of the church and poor of Corfe Castle, situate at Corfe Castle and Poole, in consideration of 1*s.*, demised to Thomas Hyde the said Robert Abbott's messuage and garden thereto adjoining in Church-street, Poole, bounded as mentioned in the original feoffment (so far the deed is legible) for the term of 99 years, under the rent of (defaced), to the said lessors and their successors.

An examination of the ancient accounts of the churchwardens shows that the premises comprised in this demise were long held at a rent of 2*l.* 12*s.* by Thomas Hide, who seems also to have become the tenant of the two other tenements belonging to the churchwardens, situate in High-street and West-street, Poole, at a further rent of similar amount, making a total sum of 5*l.* 4*s.* per annum, which amount has been received to the present time without variation. The whole of the property in Poole is understood to have been purchased about the year 1797 by Mr. George Kemp, who still retains the premises in Church-street, and claims to hold them, subject only to the payment of the ancient rent of 2*l.* 12*s.* to the churchwardens.

Three dwelling-houses were built upon the ground fronting Church-street about the year 1812; there is also one old dwelling-house situate in the Churchyard.

Secondly.—The tenements in High-street, Poole.

The said Robert Abbott, by Will, bearing date 26th May 1620 (among other devises hereafter mentioned), gave to Richard Fry and Lewis Gover, churchwardens of the said parish church of Corfe Castle, his tenement and garden in the High-street of Poole, late in the tenure of Roger Cornish, in trust yearly to bestow the rent thereof, being 26*s.* 8*d.*, in 20 ells of canvass, of 15*d.* the ell, and therewith cause to be made 10 shirts and 10 smocks, with 2*d.* a-piece out of the remainder of the said rent for making the same, and on every Good Friday bestow the same shirts and smocks upon poor men and women living in the almshouse of Corfe Castle, if there should be so many, or, if not, then at their discretion upon the most needy men and women in the said town, with a direction to the said churchwardens that, when the estates in the said tenement should determine, they should demise the same to some honest tenant for years or lives at the then rent of 26*s.* 8*d.*, and not to take above 12*d.* for a fine.

The premises comprised in this gift, which are now used as a stone-yard, appear, by entries in the churchwardens' book, under the date of 1699, to have been also in the occupation of Thomas Hide. They are stated to have passed by purchase to George Kemp, and to have been since sold to Henry Harris, who claims to hold them, subject only to a fixed rent of 1*l.* 6*s.*, payable to the churchwardens.

Thirdly.—The tenements in Bayhog-lane and West-street, Poole, and the garden at Wareham.

The said Robert Abbott also gave, by his said Will, to the said Richard Fry and Lewis Gover, and their successors, churchwardens of Corfe Castle, for ever, his two tenements in Poole and Wareham, the one in the tenure of —— Hookey, at the yearly rent of 26*s.* 8*d.*; the other in the holding of Francis Coffyn, at the yearly rent of 13*s.* 4*d.*, towards the maintenance of one which should play on the organ in the church of Corfe Castle, for ever, upon every Sunday.

Corfe Castle.

By indenture, bearing date 21st December 1646, the mayor, barons, and churchwardens demised to Thomas Cornell the messuage late of Robert Abbott, and the garden adjoining, situate in the West-street of Poole, bounded with a house and land, called Pinnell's land, on the north and east, and the land of the said Robert Abbott on the south, as then in the possession of the said Thomas Cornell for 21 years, reserving a rent of 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

Subsequent leases were granted to Thomas Cornell and William Cornell at the same rent, but which are expressed to be granted in consideration of the surrender of the lease immediately preceding, and of the expenditure of a certain sum of money in enlarging and repairing the premises.

These premises also became the property of Mr. Kemp, and have since been divided, and are now held by Thomas Read and Sarah Richards, each of whom now claims to hold at a fixed rent of 13*s.*, payable to the churchwardens.

There appears to be no colour for this claim on the part of the two last-named occupiers, as the Will contains no clause restricting the terms of letting, as in the two former cases; whether in any of them it be sustainable will be submitted for the consideration of his Majesty's Attorney-General.

The garden at Wareham is supposed to be the site of the tenement mentioned in the lastly-abstracted part of the testator's Will, and devised together with the tenement in West-street, Poole.

By indenture, bearing date 10th March 1658, the churchwardens of Corfe Castle, with the consent of the mayor, barons, and parishioners, in consideration of 2*s.*, demised to William Aimes a garden-plot, containing by estimation 10 goads, on the north side of the East-street in Wareham, bounded as therein mentioned (which said piece of ground was given to the town and parish of Corfe Castle by Robert Abbott, deceased), for 99 years, if three persons therein named should so long live, at the yearly rent of 2*s.* 6*d.*, the lessee covenanting to build a dwelling-house on the premises within a year from the date thereof.

In 1767 this parcel of ground was demised, in consideration of 24*s.*, by the description of "The toft of a burgage messuage and tenement, and garden," to John Bankes, esq., for 99 years, determinable with the lives of three persons, of whom the late Henry Bankes, esq., was the survivor. His son, William J. Bankes, esq., is now in possession as tenant from year to year.

The rent of 6*d.* for this garden was not paid by the late Mr. H. Bankes between the years 1793 and 1820, but in 1821 he himself mentioned the subject to the churchwardens (who were ignorant of their title), and resumed the payment. William Bankes, esq., has caused the arrear of this trifling payment to be made good, together with that which had accrued in respect of the preceding tenements, and has also paid to the churchwardens the net annual rent (3*s.* 6*d.*) received by him for the garden since the dropping of the last life.

Fourthly.—Thompson's tenement at Corfe Castle.

The said Robert Abbott, by his said Will, also gave to the said Richard Fry and Lewis Gover, churchwardens, his cottage, with the appurtenances, in the town of Corfe Castle, then in the tenure of John Coleman, out of which was reserved, during the estates granted of the same, the yearly rent of 10*s.* to them and their successors, churchwardens of the parish church, for the reparation and maintenance of the organs and chimes in the said church; and he gave to the mayor of the borough and his successors the two shops and chambers over the same, adjoining the churchyard, and between the town-house and Colman's tenement, for the benefit of the said mayors for ever.

This tenement, which is described in the early leases as a dwelling-house, being a half tenement, situate on the east side of the West-street of Corfe Castle, given by Robert Abbott towards the reparation of the organ and chimes, was long demised by the mayor, barons, and churchwardens, together with an ancient burgage, or shop and chamber over it, belonging to the corporation, and which probably includes the tenements devised by the same Will to the mayor.

The tenements (which possessed a value as ancient burgages far beyond their intrinsic worth) were separately demised in the year 1767, when, in consideration of a fine of 20*s.*, the churchwardens alone granted a lease of the tenement, late Thompson's, to John Bankes, esq., for 99 years, at a rent of 10*s.* per annum.

In consequence, it is believed, of some apprehended informality in the appointment of the churchwardens, this lease was surrendered by Mr. Bankes in 1770, and a new lease, to commence 2d December in the same year, for the like term and at the same rent, was granted to him. The residue of this term is now vested in William John Bankes, esq. The premises, if now in hand, would probably produce to the charity (after payment of repairs and other outgoings) not more than 20*s.* or 25*s.* per annum.

This rent, in common with that of several other burgages, vested in the late Henry Bankes, esq., had been suffered to fall into arrear from the year 1793, and the property itself had been quite lost sight of by the churchwardens. An examination of the accounts made this point sufficiently clear, and Mr. Bankes has accordingly paid to the churchwardens 21*l.* (or 42 years' arrears) on account of this tenement.

In the possession of the churchwardens is an ancient but unauthenticated table of the various benefactions to the poor, which contains the only account that can be obtained of many of the charitable gifts, and which is confirmed in most of its particulars by the churchwardens' books, and by such documents as have been since found. In this paper, after noticing the devise of three separate tenements by Sir Edmund Uvedale, and his bequest of 5*l.*, are mentioned the following donations:— Corfe Castle.

"Mr. John Bonfield gave 100*l.*; the yearly profit thereof to be given in bread weekly, upon the sabbath-day, to the poor by the churchwardens.

"Mr. John Culliford gave 20*l.*; the yearly profit thereof to be given to the poor by the churchwardens.

"Mr. William Bond gave 5*l.*; the yearly profit thereof to be given to the poor by the churchwardens.

"William Miller gave 26*l.*; the yearly profit thereof to be given in bread weekly, upon the sabbath-day, to the poor by the churchwardens.

"Edward Spear gave 5*l.*; the yearly profit thereof to be given in bread to the poor by the churchwardens upon every Good Friday.

"Philip Godsall gave 3*l.*; the yearly profit to be given in bread to the poor by the churchwardens.

"Mr. William Botterly and Thomas Botterly gave 10*s.* a-piece; the profit to be given in bread to the poor upon every Good Friday, yearly, by the churchwardens.

"Another, whose name is not remembered, gave 40*s.*; the yearly profit to be given to the poor by the churchwardens.

"Richard Tyler gave 5*l.*; the yearly profit to be given in bread to the poor by the churchwardens every Good Friday.

"Elinor the wife of Henry Toope, the daughter of Mr. William Norman, gave 3*l.*; the yearly rent of it to be given to the poor by the churchwardens.

"Mr. Henry Dackombe gave a meadow, called Little Merrifields, the profits whereof to be yearly employed to the buying of linen garments for 10 of the poorest people of the town of Corfe Castle, to be bought by the churchwardens and collectors for the time being.

"William Gover, of Woolston, gave 3*l.*; the yearly profit thereof to be given to the poor by the churchwardens.

"Mr. William Norman gave to the poor the fee of one tenement lying in the West-street of Corfe Castle, after the decease of Mr. Henry Street the elder, of Poole, and Joan Tray, of Tisbury; then the yearly rent and profit thereof to be given to the poor for ever.

"April 23d 1678, Mrs. Elizabeth Stockman gave unto the poor of the town of Corfe Castle, not relieved by the poor-book or almshouse, the sum of 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, the interest whereof to be distributed amongst them according to the discretion of the mayor and magistrates and churchwardens.

"John Green, esq., gave a little meadow, lying in Afflington Farm, called Green's Acre; the yearly profit thereof to be distributed to such of the poorest people of the parish of Corfe Castle as the minister and churchwardens of the said parish for the time being shall appoint.

"The Church Lands being in the town of Corfe Castle—one tenement, in the possession of Thomas Gover, the yearly rent thereof 5*s.*; another tenement, in the possession of ———, the yearly rent thereof 6*s.* 8*d.*; another tenement, in possession of Dorcas, widow of Mr. Robert Webber, deceased, and Thomas Webber, their son, the yearly rent thereof 4*s.* 6*d.*; a piece of ground, in possession of Robert Roe, the yearly rent thereof 1*s.*; one of the tenements in Poole, in possession of Samuel Bramble, rent 42*s.*; another in possession of Thomas Cornell, rent 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, to be given to the poor weekly in bread; another, in possession of Mr. Thomas Stroud, rent 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, with the yearly rent of the last-recited tenement; the churchwardens are to buy linen for garments."

Green's Acre.—This piece of land, which the table attributes to the gift of John Green, contains rather less than an acre, and is situate in a farm called Afflington, in the parish of Corfe Castle; to the tenant of which (Thomas Gover Smith) it is let at a rack rent of 30*s.*, the occupier paying all outgoings.

Church Merrifields.—The donor of this parcel, which is an enclosed meadow containing about three-quarters of an acre, is stated by the table to be Henry Dackombe. It was demised in 1720 by the churchwardens and overseers to Thomas Bowles for three lives at a rent of 25*s.*; in 1780 the rent was raised to 1*l.* 10*s.*; from 1783 it has remained at the same rent in the possession of a tenant named Luther and his representatives; the present occupant is James Gover.

Woolgarston Lands.—This property was purchased by the corporation with the produce of the greater part of the benefactions enumerated in the above-mentioned table, the total amount of which apears to be 211*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 24th and 25th June 1700, Benjamin Heather, in consideration of 190*l.*, conveyed to John Guy, mayor, and Henry Dackombe and eight others, barons of the borough of Corfe Castle, and their successors, a parcel of pasture ground, called Smead Croft, containing 12 acres, or thereabouts; a close, called Harmar's Croft, containing two acres and a half, adjoining thereto, situate in the parish of Corfe Castle; a close, called Eastover, containing three acres and a half; a close, called Taylor's Hay, containing three yards, lying together in East Woolgarston, in the same parish; a parcel of arable land, containing about seven acres, formerly enclosed, lying under Woolgarston Down, with common of pasture for cattle and sheep upon the commons and moors in East Woolgarston and West Woolgarston; in trust to permit the churchwardens of the parish of Corfe Castle to receive the rents of the said premises, and to dispose thereof for the relief, support, and maintenance of such number of poor people of the said borough of Corfe Castle, and in such manner as the interest of the consideration, sum, or purchase-money for the same had theretofore by the said churchwardens been, or ought to have been, disposed and employed, and as by the Wills or deeds of the several donors was respectively directed and expressed.

By a lease of these premises granted in 1743 by the mayor, barons, and churchwardens, it appears that the right of common of pasture on Woolgarston common belonging thereto had been then lately commuted on an enclosure for six acres in severalty.

These premises were demised to John Calcraft, esq., at a rent of 21*l.*, for 12 years from Michaelmas 1823, by the description of two parcels of ground, called Smead Croft, the pieces of ground called Harmond's Croft, the meadow, the lower arable field, and the higher arable field under the Down, containing altogether 24A. 3R. 30P., situate at Woolgarston, in the parish of Corfe Castle, with common of pasture for all manner of cattle.

This lease expired at Michaelmas 1835, but Mr. Calcraft remains in possession as yearly tenant on the same terms. It is understood that there is belonging to this tenancy a right of common for 40 sheep on Woolgarston Down.

Church Lands.

Church Lands.

The churchwardens have from time immemorial been in possession of four tenements, situate in the borough of Corfe Castle, which are designated as the Church Lands.

These consist of the Church-house, late Henry Marsh's,
Pyke's tenement,
Viver's tenement,
Webber's tenement and Roe's plot.

Whether either of the tenements called Pyke's and Viver's (the latter of which is situate in the West-street) can be identified with the tenement in West-street, said to have been given by William Norman, could not be satisfactorily ascertained.

The Church-house, or Henry Marsh's tenement, consisting of a dwelling-house and garden containing about four goads of ground on the west side of East-street, with half an acre in Middle Hawes, and common of pasture for four rother beasts, was demised by the churchwardens by lease, dated 18th October 1759, to the Rev. Fill Cox, in consideration of a fine of 15*l.*, to hold for a term of 99 years, to commence on the death of Elizabeth Marsh, widow of the former lessee, at a rent of 6*s.* 8*d.* This lease was granted in trust for John Bankes, esq., and came into operation on the death of Elizabeth Marsh some time prior to 1773. The rent was regularly paid till 1793, when, by some inadvertence, the payment ceased to be made, and had never been demanded by the churchwardens till the facts were discovered at the time of this inquiry. The whole arrear of 6*s.* 8*d.* for 42 years has now been made good by William John Bankes, esq., amounting to 14*l.*

2. Pyke's tenement.

This house, which is also situate on the west side of East-street, and was formerly in the possession of John Bishop, was granted in 1821, by the churchwardens, to the late Henry Bankes, esq., in consideration of a fine of 15*l.* 15*s.*, to hold for the lives of himself and his sons (William John Bankes, esq., the present lessee, and the Rev. Edward Bankes), at a rent of 11*s.*, which has been regularly paid.

3. Viver's tenement.

This tenement is situate on the east side of West-street, and has been in the tenancy of the Bankes family since 1759. In 1770 it was demised by the churchwardens to John Bankes, esq., in consideration of a fine of 4*l.*, for a term of 99 years from 2d December in that year, at a rent of 1*s.* This rent likewise had been suffered to fall into arrear from the year 1793, the whole of which (2*l.* 2*s.*) has now been paid by William John Bankes, esq.

4. Webber's tenement and Roe's plot.

These tenements comprise a half messuage, or burgage, adjoining the churchyard on the west side, formerly held by Robert Webber; and a plot of ground in West-street, formerly in the possession of Charles Roe, and have also been vested in the Bankes family since 1759. They were demised by the churchwardens to the late Henry Bankes, esq., in 1779, in consideration of a fine of 30*s.*, at a rent of 4*s.* for Webber's, and 1*s.* for Roe's tenement, to hold for the lives of himself and two other persons, both of whom Mr. Bankes survived.

This rent having also fallen into arrear from the same period with the preceding, William John Bankes, esq., has paid 10*l.* 10*s.* (or 42 years' rent, at 5*s.* per annum) on that account, and has also paid to the churchwardens the sum of 1*l.* 10*s.*, being the net rent received by him during the year of his occupation which has elapsed since the expiration of the lease, by the death of his late father in December 1834.

The sum total of the arrears thus paid up by Mr. Bankes is 49*l.* 19*s.*

HARDEN'S CHARITY.

Harden's Charity.

The churchwardens receive annually from John Hales Calcraft, esq., in respect of certain land at Woolgarston, called Hardens, the sum of 12*s.*, which is stated by the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 to have been charged thereon by the Will of John Harden, (date unknown,) for bread to poor old housekeepers, and to have been vested in the rector. No documents respecting this charity could be found.

As many of the particulars of the property of these charities have long been but little known, even to the parties most interested, it has been thought right to add a rental of the whole in a tabular form.

The whole of the rents received in respect of the property here described, and which, by reason of the discontinuance of the several small payments due from the late Mr. Bankes, have fallen somewhat short of the amount here given, have been carried by the churchwardens (with the acquiescence of the officers of the corporation) to their general account, out of which the following payments have been annually made:

Corfe Castle.

|---|---|---|---|
| To eight poor women belonging to the parish, selected by the churchwardens, with the advice of the minister, at Easter, 5*s.* each in money | 2 | 0 | 0 |

| Also a threepenny loaf every week, upon Saturday evening | 5 | 4 | 0 |
| £ | 27 | 12 | 0 |

These persons are chosen from the most deserving and industrious poor of the parish, and are continued for life.

|---|---|---|---|
| To four other poor persons chosen in the same way, 5*s.* each in money at Easter, and 3*s.* 3*d.* in dowlas | 1 | 13 | 0 |
| And a threepenny loaf each, weekly | 2 | 12 | 0 |

These are also continued for life, and, when vacancies occur, are occasionally promoted to the first list.

There is also distributed on Good Friday bread to the amount of 2*l.* 2*s.*, when every child in the borough usually receives a penny loaf, and every old person who chooses, a twopenny loaf.

These payments amount, in the whole, to 33*l.* 19*s.* The remainder is applied to the general purposes of the church; among which appear the following items:—For drawing up the chimes, 1*l.* 6*s.* per annum; for winding up the clock, 1*l.* 6*s.*; for ringing the great bell between the 29th October and Candlemas, at six in the morning and eight in the evening of each day, 2*l.* 2*s.* per annum.

It has been seen that the gifts of Sir Edmund Uvedale and Robert Abbott expressly mention the poor in the almshouse. There is a building in the town called the almshouse, of which the origin is not known, and which is without any endowment. It is kept in repair by the parish, and is occupied by paupers who have never (so far as could be ascertained) been considered as the objects intended by the above-mentioned gifts.

It is evident that the objects of the several charities have received little more than half their due, and that the church-rates have been unduly assisted. The only rents applicable to purposes connected with the church appear to be those of the five tenements in Corfe Castle in Mr. Bankes's possession, now amounting to 2*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* per annum, of which 10*s.* is for the repair of the chimes; and those of the garden at Wareham, and the tenements at Poole, held by T. Read and Sarah Richards, which are given for the maintenance of an organist. The rest of the income is distributable to the poor, either in money, bread, or linen. And, assuming the Woolgarston rent to represent the different bequests enumerated in the table, of which about two-thirds are to be given in bread, a larger proportion (about 17*l.*) than is actually bestowed in bread would appear to be applicable to this branch; whether this be desirable it may be safely left to the discretion of the parochial officers to decide. The actual distribution in linen does not materially depart from the directions in the Wills of Abbott and Dackombe.

Without disturbing the payments to the present pensioners, it has been suggested to the churchwardens in future to separate the accounts, distinguishing the appropriation of the rents, and to apply the surplus for the benefit of the second poor, in sums of money or other benefits, of such amount as to operate as a discouragement to pauperism. To the gift of linen as a specific appropriation, the names of Abbott and Dackombe may as well be in future attached. An expenditure connected with the church will probably require the immediate outlay of the arrears paid by Mr. Bankes, which have accrued in respect of the rents applicable to that branch of the charity.

BOROUGH OF POOLE.

Poole.

FREE SCHOOL.

Free School.

The corporation of this borough have been long in possession of a building called the Free School, situate in Thames-street, Poole; but whence it was derived is not known. A surmise that it was given to the corporation by one Thomas Roberts, whose initials appear in the school-room, is supported only by the circumstance that, by his Will, dated 28th June 1633, (of which two copies are found among the records of the borough,) he devised to his sister the hall and chamber above adjoining the school-house; and to his wife, the cellar and other accommodation under the school-house. The building was appropriated, until the exchange hereafter mentioned, to the purposes of a school, the master of which was appointed by the mayor and aldermen, with a salary of 20*l.* per annum; but who received no emolument from any permanent source, except the next-mentioned charity of Henry Harbin.

In February 1835 the old school-house was exchanged for other ground belonging to the corporation, on which a new school had been erected. Towards the expense of the building the corporation gave 100*l.*, and the National Society 150*l.*; the remainder being raised by private subscription. The site has been vested in trustees by the following conveyance:

By indenture of feoffment, enrolled in Chancery, bearing date 4th March 1835, the mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty of Poole granted to Robert Slade and eight others, and their heirs, a parcel of ground situate in a street called Perry Garden and Leg Lane, in the town of Poole, containing 13,783 superficial feet, bounded as therein mentioned, together with a school-house lately erected thereon, and the appurtenances, upon trust to permit the same to be used as a school or place of religious instruction for children of both sexes, of the poorer classes, in and near the town of Poole, in the principles of the Established Church, under such rules as should from time to time be prescribed, for the government of such schools, by the National School Society: and it is provided that when, from death or otherwise, there should be fewer than five acting trustees, the vacancies should be supplied by the appointment of so many additional persons as would make up not fewer than 10; such appointment to be made by a majority of the subscribers of the said institution, being members of the corporation; and that a proper conveyance should be executed for vesting the premises in the surviving and new trustees.

Poole.

The master of the National School, upon whose appointment the mayor and aldermen still exercise a veto, receives nothing from the corporation, except the produce of Harbin's Charity, for which he teaches 22 boys gratis. The former master, J. Aldridge, stated that he considered 20 boys only to be upon Harbin's Foundation, and two in respect of the occupation of the school-room.

Nothing could be learned of a gift of money, by George Trenchard, to the grammar-school, which is recorded, in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786, as yielding 6*l.* per annum. The oldest members of the corporation distinctly stated that the books of that body had been carefully searched for the purpose, but afforded no trace of the fund having ever come to their hands.

Charities of Harbin and Bennet.

Charities of Harbin and Bennet.

Henry Harbin, of London, merchant, by Will, dated 19th July 1703, gave to the mayor and aldermen of Poole 200*l.*, to the intent that they should therewith purchase lands of inheritance, in the county of Dorset, of the clear yearly value of 10*l.*, and pay the rents and profits thereof, yearly, to some person by them from time to time to be appointed, for his pains in instructing and teaching poor children, of Poole aforesaid, to read the English tongue. And in case it should happen that the said sum of 200*l.* should not be sufficient to purchase the inheritance of the said clear yearly sum of 10*l.*, then that the said sum of 200*l.* should be put forth at interest by and in the names of the mayor and aldermen, until the monies arising thereby, being added to the said principal sum of 200*l.*, should be sufficient to purchase lands of such value as aforesaid; and that the same should be then laid out accordingly.

John Bennet, by his Will, (the date of which does not appear,) bequeathed to the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of the town of Poole (where he was born) the sum of 300*l.*, in trust, to be by them laid out as they should judge most beneficial for the poor of the same town; the interest and proceeds thereof to be, at Christmas, annually distributed, by the said mayor, aldermen, and burgesses, amongst the poor people of the same town, in such manner and proportions as they in their discretion should judge most proper.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 19th and 20th June 1718, reciting the Wills above mentioned, John Chapman, in consideration of the sum of 500*l.*, (200*l.* whereof was the legacy of the said Henry Harbin, and 300*l.* was the legacy of the said John Bennet,) conveyed to Sir William Lewen, George Trenchard, and five others, and their heirs, a close of meadow called East Hills, containing nine acres, a close called Peaked Mead, containing seven acres and a half, all situate at East Linch, in the parish of Corfe Castle, adjoining each other, in trust, to pay the net rents thereof to the mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty of Poole, two fifth parts thereof to be by them applied to the charitable uses expressed in the Will of the said Henry Harbin, and the remaining three-fifths to the uses expressed in the Will of the said John Bennet, with a proviso that, when the trustees should be reduced to three or fewer, the survivors, with the consent of the corporation, should convey the trust premises to four other able and discreet men upon the same trusts.

There does not appear to have been any subsequent conveyance to trustees, and the property is now treated as vested in the corporation.

The land still lies in two fields, each described as containing nine acres, now demised by the corporation to James Spencer, for seven years, from Lady-day 1833, at the clear rent of 41*l.* per annum.

In 1818, the rent, having been 60*l.*, was lowered to 52*l.*, at which it continued until the date of the present lease.

Of the rent, 16*l.* 8*s.*, being two-fifths, is paid to the master of the National School, and the remainder, 24*l.* 12*s.*, is distributed annually to the poor of the parish. This distribution takes place by means of tickets, of which each burgess has the privilege of giving one, and which are presented to the mayor, at the town-hall, on Christmas Eve, when they are exchanged for money.

In respect of the two-fifths paid to the schoolmaster, the mayor nominates 22 boys to the National School, who are taught entirely free. When a vacancy occurs the master gives notice to the mayor, by whom it is forthwith filled up.

From the year 1767 to the year 1795, 6*l.* per annum out of the rents of this property was paid to a schoolmistress. From 1795 to 1807 inclusive, 10*l.* per annum was paid to John Aldridge, the schoolmaster. In 1808, the rent was raised to 37*l.* 10*s.*, and the payment to the master to 15*l.* Some irregularity occurred in the payment of his salary for several years of his holding the situation, but it does not appear that he sustained on the whole any pecuniary loss, and on his retiring from the office (in consequence of an affection of the sight) in 1835, an arrangement was very considerately made by the corporation to allow him a stipend of 10*l.* per annum for life from their own funds.

Sunday School.

Sunday School.

By indenture bearing date 13th March 1792, reciting that William Morton Pitt, esq.,

Poole.

By the schedule it is directed, amongst other things, that the school master or mistress shall be appointed by the donor, or his heir, and that they shall not receive any gratuity from the parents of the children. That the donor and his heir, the trustees, and the mayor and aldermen of Poole, shall be visitors of the school, with particular directions as to the superintendence of the school, the election of the children, the removal of the master or mistress, and with regard to keeping books in which the names of the children and other particulars are to be entered.

By indenture bearing date 25th August 1831, reciting the indenture above abstracted, and that the said George Pitt and George James Cholmondeley were both dead, and that Horace George Cholmondeley and Henry Ker Seymer had been chosen in their stead, into whose names, jointly with that of the said William Morton Pitt, the said sum of 173*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, Three per Cent. Consols had been transferred, it was declared that the said stock was so transferred to them upon the trusts of the above-recited indenture.

The above is the only endowment of the Poole Sunday school. The dividends, amounting to 5*l.* 4*s.* per annum, are carried to the general account, and the remainder of the funds necessary to support the school is supplied by voluntary subscriptions and collections at the church. The whole expenditure is rather more than 60*l.* a-year.

The sum of 300*l.* was paid in the year 1821 for the perpetual right to the use of two rooms in the tower of the new church for the purposes of the school. Of these rooms, each of which occupies the whole area of the tower, one is appropriated to the boys and the other to the girls.

At Michaelmas 1835 there were 123 boys and 96 girls in the school.

CHURCH-STREET ALMSHOUSES.

Church-street Almshouses.

The buildings which go by this name are stated to have been conveyed by Thomas White to the corporation in 1604, together with certain other messuages and lands formerly belonging to the fraternity of St. George, in Poole. In the conveyance (which was not produced at the time of the inquiry) it is said that no trusts are specified; but the buildings have been, from that time at least, used as almshouses and repaired by the corporation.

Under the Poole and Canford Enclosure Act an allotment of three perches of land near the turnstile at the north-west entrance into Poole was made to the corporation in respect to these almshouses. Similar allotments were made to that body in respect of the West-street almshouses, and four other properties, belonging to them in their own right. The whole of these allotments form one parcel of 18 perches which has been let to John Goffe Godwin for 99 years, renewable for ever, at a rent of 2*l.* per annum.

The rent received under the lease to John Godwin is carried into the general account of the corporation, but the repairs done to the almshouses much exceed the proportion of the rent now paid, or that could reasonably be anticipated had this extraordinary lease not been granted.

The poor almspeople are selected by the mayor for the time being, and are considered as removable at his pleasure. They receive a portion of the donation of coals at Christmas from Jolliffe's charity hereafter mentioned, and occasionally receive tickets to Bennett's charity, but have no regular stipend as being on this foundation.

ROGERS'S CHARITY, OR WEST-STREET ALMSHOUSES.

Robert Rogers by Will gave to the town of Poole, in Dorsetshire, where he was born, 500 marks to build an almshouse, and to place therein six poor couple of householders, married or unmarried, of the most aged and decayed by sea, (if there should be any such,) or to such others as should have most need of relief. The governor of the said town to purchase so much land as should amount to 15*l.* 12*s.* yearly with the said money, and to allow to each couple 1*s.* a-week during their lives, and after their decease to place others in the same house with the like allowance. And if the said 500 marks should not be sufficient, then at the discretion of his executors to be augmented as to them should seem needful.

The date of the Will is not mentioned, but there is amongst the documents a copy of the discharge given by the corporation to the executors dated 15th June 1604, whereby the corporation acknowledge the receipt of the 500 marks (333*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*) and of the further sum of 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* paid by the executors under the power given by the Will, and they covenanted that with the said sums they would not only build the almshouses, but would also purchase as much land as should amount to 15*l.* 12*s.* per annum, to be applied according to the directions of the Will.

Poole.

It appears, from the accounts preserved amongst the documents relating to this charity, and particularly by a general statement under the date 25th March 1605, that there was paid

|---|---|---|---|
| For land to build the almshouse upon . . . . . | 10 | 0 | 0 |
| Expended on the building . . . . . | 148 | 16 | 4 |

The money received by the corporation appears to have been placed out on bonds, and other securities, until the year 1649 when it was invested.

By indenture, bearing date 1st May 1649, Abraham Strode, in consideration of 300*l.*, conveyed to Henry Harding, then mayor, and several others, aldermen and merchants of Poole, and their heirs, a messuage and certain lands and tenements in the parishes of Hampreston, West Parley, and Cranborne.

And by indenture, bearing date 24th June, in the same year, the said Henry Harding and others reconveyed the said premises to the said Abraham Strode and his heirs, in consideration of the yearly rent or sum of 18*l.* for ever, payable half-yearly in the great porch of the church at Poole, with a power of distress and entry in case of nonpayment.

No trusts are declared by the preceding deed.

This rent-charge of 18*l.* was conveyed to new trustees by indentures of 8th and 9th October, 1690, by Moses Durel, in whom the same had become vested as the only survivor of those named in the preceding deed of 24th June 1649; but there does not appear to have been any subsequent conveyance.

The annuity is now regularly received by the corporation from Edward Greathead, esq., of Uddens, the owner of the property charged.

The allotment to the corporation under the Great Canford and Poole Enclosure Act comprehends three perches of land set out in respect of these almshouses, which are included in the lease to John Goffe Godwin, mentioned in the account of the preceding charity.

The almshouses consist of 12 tenements, of one room each, occupied by 12 women, appointed by the mayor. Each of the almspeople receives 6*d.* a-week, amounting to 15*l.* 12*s.* per annum; and a distribution of coals is made to them out of the funds every Christmas, which more than exhausts the residue of the 18*l.* The buildings are kept in repair at the expense of the corporation.

No balance has been actually struck between the corporation and the charity since the year 1741; but the receipts and payments are regularly entered in the general account-book of the corporation, from an examination of which it appeared that, independently of the repairs, and after giving credit to the charity for its proportion of the rent for the allotment, the corporation have paid annually more than the amount of the endowment.

Garland's or Hunger-hill Almshouses.

Garland's, or Hunger-hill Almshouses.

By indenture of bargain and sale, enrolled in Chancery, bearing date 12th April 1814, George Garland, of Poole, esq., granted to the mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty of the town and county of the town, and their successors, 12 tenements, each consisting of a sitting-room and a bed-room, and numbered respectively from 1 to 12 inclusive, lately erected by him, adjoining each other, situate at Hunger-hill, in Poole aforesaid, and occupied by the several parties therein named, and the appurtenances, (except rights of common, and allotments in lieu thereof,) upon trust, to permit the then occupiers of the said tenements to reside therein during their lives free of rent, subject to the power of amoval thereinafter mentioned; and, upon their death or amoval, to place therein some other person or persons to be nominated by the said mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty within eight days after such death or amoval, out of the poor people residing in and belonging to the parish of Saint James, in Poole aforesaid; such person or persons to be a widow or widower, or a man and his wife, having no child residing with them, and to be permitted to occupy the same, rent free, during their lives, subject to the power of amoval thereafter mentioned: provided that, if a man and his wife should be the occupiers of any such tenements, and one of them should die, the survivor should remain therein, subject as aforesaid, during life, if he or she continued unmarried. And the said mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty were empowered to amove any of the said almspeople in case of their committing any waste or injury to the said tenements and premises, or keeping a disorderly house, or committing any other nuisance or disturbance, interrupting the comfort of any of the occupiers of the other tenements or of the neighbourhood. And it is thereby further witnessed that the said George Garland had paid to the said mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty, the sum of 200*l.* upon trust, in the first instance, to invest the same on Government or real security, and, as soon as a convenient opportunity offered, to lay out the same in the purchase of freehold lands of inheritance in the county of Dorset, to be conveyed to the said mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty, upon trust; to apply the interest of the said sum of 200*l.* previous to such purchase, and as to the rents of the lands when purchased, in keeping the said tenements in tenantable repair on the then plan and form of building, and to divide the surplus equally between the occupiers of the said tenements on Christmas Eve annually, the share of a man and his wife to be the same as that of a widow or widower, viz., one-twelfth part of such surplus: provided that, in case of the destruction or of material damage to the said tenements by fire or otherwise, or of their becoming ruinous from decay, then that the said mayor, bailiffs, burgesses, and commonalty should be at liberty to apply the whole of the said interest or rents for rebuilding or repairing the same, and also to keep the buildings insured from fire out of the said interest or rents. And it was provided that a distinct book of accounts should be kept, which accounts should be audited annually by the auditors of the general accounts of the Corporation, and signed by them.

And by another deed of bargain and sale, enrolled in Chancery, dated 1st August 1822, the said George Garland conveyed to the corporation a messuage or tenement, and workshop, yard, and outhouses, in Market-street, bounded as therein mentioned, in the occupation of Joseph Swaffield, and a messuage, tenement, workshop, and outbuildings, also situate in Market-street, in the occupation of Joseph Lance, (but excepting the allotments in respect thereof under the Canford and Poole Enclosure Act,) upon trust, to apply one third part of the rents and profits of the said messuages and premises to keeping the same and also the said almshouses in good repair, and to place the surplus of such one third part out at interest on Government or real security, or their own security, and suffer it to accumulate for the purpose of forming a fund for better providing for such repairs; and at the end of every ten years to pay a reasonable part, not less than one-half of such accumulations, to the occupiers of such almshouses by 12 equal payments, on the days when the monthly payments are directed to be made to them; and as to the other two-thirds, upon trust, to divide the same equally between the occupiers of the said almshouses on the first Monday of every calendar month. The share of a man and his wife to be one twelfth part thereof, with similar provisions in case of the destruction or material damage to the said almshouses, and for insurance, and for keeping a separate book of accounts, as in the previously-recited deed.

The first-mentioned premises are still held by Joseph Swaffield, under a lease granted by Mr. Garland for 21 years, from 21st June 1818, at a rent of 16*l.* per annum. The premises occupied by Joseph Lance are held for 21 years, from Michaelmas 1816, at an annual rent of 10*l.*

The 200*l.* was invested in April 1816, in the purchase of 216*l.* 16*s.* Navy Five per Cents., in the names of Benjamin Lester Lester, James Seager, Joseph Barter, and George Welch Ledgard. In respect of this sum there is now 227*l.* 12*s.* 9*d.* New Three and a half per Cents. stock, standing in the above names, yielding a yearly dividend of 7*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*

Out of the income, amounting in the whole to 33*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*, there is paid annually for insurance of the almshouses 1*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, and to the 12 inhabitants 2*s.* 6*d.* each monthly, (being 18*l.* per annum,) and 9*l.* at Christmas, amounting in the whole to 28*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* per annum. The payments for repairs of the almshouses and the other buildings have amounted, since 1822, to 56*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*, besides a sum of 4*l.* 2*s.* 9*d.* for damage done by fire, and afterwards received from the insurance-office.

In December 1835 there was a balance in hand of 13*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*

Sir John Lester's Charity.

Sir John Lester's Charity.

Sir John Lester, knt., by Will, bearing date 25th December 1804, gave to the mayor, bailiffs, burgesses and commonalty of Poole 2,566*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, to be purchased by his executors out of his personal estate, free of legacy duty, and transferred into the names of the said mayor, &c., upon trust, out of the dividends to pay to the minister of the parish church of Poole, for the time being, the clear yearly sum of 52*l.*, by half-yearly payments, in January and July, upon condition that the said minister should read the evening service and preach a lecture in the parish church of Saint James, between the hours of six and nine in the evening of every Sunday throughout the year; 20*s.* to be forfeited for every neglect of such duty: and to pay to the clerk of the parish for attending the said service 10*l.*, with a discretionary power to the mayor, &c., to deduct 3*s.* 6*d.* for every neglect of duty. To the organist 10*l.*; subject to the like penalty for neglect; and to the sexton 5*l.*; subject to the penalty of 1*s.* 9*d.* for neglect: such several forfeitures to be paid to the churchwardens, owards the expense of lighting the church for such evening service.

This sum of 2,566*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Three per Cent. Consols was transferred into, and still stands in the names of, Benjamin Lester Lester, James Seager, John Strong, and John Foot.

The dividends, amounting to 77*l.* per annum, are paid to the mayor, who divides the same by half-yearly payments, according to the directions of the testator, as follows:—

The evening service is regularly performed and the lecture preached, the respective officers attending as required by the endowment.

Benjamin Lester Lester's Charity.

Benjamin Lester Lester's Charity.

There is an entry in the minute-book of the corporation, under the date 5th December 1804, stating that, in consideration of 400*l.* paid to the mayor by the executors of Benjamin Lester, it was agreed that the sum of 20*l.* per annum should be paid to the organist of Poole church as an endowment for ever, agreeably to the direction of the said Benjamin Lester, to his said executors, and that the election of an organist should be vested in the corporation.

The 400*l.* was received by the corporation, and carried to their general account; out of which they have regularly paid 20*l.* to the organist of the parish church by quarterly payments.

At a meeting of the corporation on the 3d December 1835, a resolution was passed that a shipright's yard and a clay cellar belonging to the corporation should be conveyed to trustees to secure the payment of 20*l.* per annum to the organist.

At the time of this inquiry the deed was prepared, but not yet executed.

The present organist was not named by the corporation under the power assumed by the above-mentioned minute, but was appointed in the usual manner by the vestry.

Jolliffe's Charity.

Jolliffe's Charity.

Christopher Jolliffe, by Will dated 6th March 1809, gave to the mayor of Poole and his successors 100*l.* in trust, to invest the same in the Three per Cent. Consolidated Bank Annuities, and to stand possessed thereof in trust to apply the dividends annually in the purchase of coals to be divided every Christmas equally among all the poor persons inhabiting the 12 apartments called the Gifting Houses in Poole aforesaid, and also the poor persons inhabiting the almshouses in Market-street, nearly opposite Levet's-lane, in Poole aforesaid.

This legacy was invested in the purchase of 150*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of Benjamin Lester Lester, John Foot, junior, James Seager, junior, and John Strong, in whose name it still stands.

The dividends (4*l.* 10*s.*) are paid to the mayor, who expends the amount in coals, which are distributed in small quantities between the inmates of the Church-street and Rogers's almshouses.

Fawconer's Charity.

Fawconer's Charity.

Martha Fawconer, by her Will (without date) proved in the Prerogative Court 1st June 1818, gave to her executors, George Garland, Christopher Spurrier, and Peter Jolliffe, 200*l.* in the Three per Cent. Annuities, the interest thereof to be laid out in sixpenny loaves, and given to poor old women at the church-door in Poole, under the direction of her executors, and the minister and churchwardens of Poole, every Easter Monday for ever, and if they should omit so doing for two years, the said 200*l.* to be claimed and divided between her nearest relations, or any one of them.

In respect of this legacy there is now the sum of 176*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced Annuities standing in the names of George Garland, Christopher Spurrier, and Peter Jolliffe; 24*l.* of the stock bequeathed having been sold for payment of legacy-duty and expenses.

Out of the dividends (amounting to 5*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* per annum) 1*s.* 6*d.* is retained for expenses, and the remainder, 5*l.* 4*s.* is laid out in the purchase of sixpenny loaves, which are brought to the vestry on Easter Monday and distributed by the minister and churchwardens to poor aged persons of the parish, among whom a preference is given to widows.

Swetland's Charity.

Swetland's Charity.

Ann Swetland, by Will bearing date 13th December 1822, and proved in the Prerogative Court, gave to the churchwardens of the parish of St. James, in Poole, 200*l.* Three per Cent. Consols upon trust to apply the dividends thereof in the purchase of bread, to be distributed in the month of January yearly, under the direction of the minister and churchwardens of the said parish among the poor thereof.

From this bequest 20*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* stock was sold for payment of legacy-duty and expenses. The remainder, 179*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*, stands in the names of John Sydenham and John Turpin, who were churchwardens at the time of the testatrix's death.

The dividends are received by the London correspondents of Messrs. Ledgard, bankers, of Poole, by whom the sum of 5*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* is paid to the churchwardens in the month of January, and laid out in quartern loaves, which are given amongst poor persons of the town at the discretion of the minister and churchwardens, who attend at the vestry for that purpose.

Sydway's Gift.

Sydway's Gift.

Richard Sydway, in 1761, gave 10*l.* to the poor of Poole, which seems to have been distributed at the time, and is mentioned here only because it appears in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786.

Workhouse.

Workhouse.

The same returns mention that Thomas Missing in 1739 gave 500*l.* for building a workhouse. An inscription on the house used as a workhouse records the same fact. A question was raised some years since by the corporation as to the property of the site of the building, but no documents to clear the point could be produced. The ground has been in the possession of the parish at least since 1739, and does not appear to have been the subject of any charitable endowment, either by Thomas Missing (who represented the borough) or any other person.

BOROUGH OF SHAFTESBURY.

Shaftesbury.

Free School.

Free School.

From a manuscript of William Whitaker, esq., who was recorder of this borough from the year 1627 to the year 1646, and which is now in the possession of Charles Bowles, esq., it appears that in the year 1625 William Earl of Pembroke, lord of the manor of Shaston, for the erection of a grammar-school, granted and enfeoffed to Sir Francis Ashley, Sir Walter Erle, and six others, and their heirs, a house called the Maudlen (or Magdalen) to be employed as a school-house for a master to be nominated by them, and a cottage and premises adjoining thereto, for the support thereof. This grant was avoided about 1630 by Philip Earl of Pembroke on the pretence that no livery of seizin had ever been made thereon. Mr. Whitaker, from whom the deed of grant was surreptitiously obtained, anxious to repair the loss to the town, purchased for the sum of 40*l.* a messuage and garden in Bimport, in the parish of the Holy Trinity, Shaftesbury, which were conveyed to himself and William Hurman, as his trustee.

Shaftesbury.

By a deed of feoffment dated in 1646 (the draft of which is still preserved)—reciting that the said purchase had been made with the proper monies of the said William Whitaker for the use of the mayor, recorder, and capital burgesses of the borough, and their successors, to be by them employed for erecting and making a school-house, or free school, within the said borough, and accommodation for the master of the said school, and to be conveyed to the said mayor, recorder, and capital burgesses, upon payment of the said sum of 40*l.* to the said William Whitaker, which sum he thereby acknowledged to have received,—the said William Whitaker and William Hurman granted and enfeoffed the said messuage, tenement, and garden, in the parish of the Holy Trinity, then in the occupation of Thomas Garden, M. A., master of the said school, to Albinus Muston and Nicholas Cooper, and their heirs, to the only use and behoof of the mayor, recorder, and capital burgesses, of the said borough, and their successors, according to the intention of the original purchase.

From this time the premises in question seem to have been successively occupied by masters appointed by the corporation. No rent was paid for the buildings, which were also repaired at the expense of the corporation; but the only stipend paid to the master (so far as is now known) was an annual sum of 2*l.*, in respect of which he was bound to receive certain boys gratuitously. It is not, however, within the recollection of any one now living that any such gratuitous instruction was given. In 1766 the Rev. Nathaniel Bristed, and in 1772 the Rev. Richard Mitchell, had flourishing schools of boarders. Up to this period the payment of 2*l.* per annum is regularly entered in the annual account of the commons warden, or bailiff of the corporation. Mr. Mitchell was succeeded by the Rev. James Topham, and the latter by the Rev. William Topham, his son, each of whom occupied the premises rent free.

The school was discontinued about 1780, and the premises, being then in a state of great dilapidation, remained unoccupied for many years. Part of the buildings were for a time used as a storehouse, and were subsequently converted into three small tenements and a stable. These were let, with some intervals, to successive tenants from about the year 1810 to 1828, at rents amounting to 13*l.* 10*s.* per annum. In 1828, one of the tenements fell for want of repairs, and the rent of the remainder has since been 9*l.* 10*s.* A part of the materials were sold by the corporation for the sum of 32*l.*

It would thus appear that a sum considerably exceeding 200*l.* has been carried to the credit of the corporation, which would have been devoted to the purposes of education had the school been kept up, and this independently of the savings in respect of the annual stipend of 2*l.* and the repairs; and it seems advisable and just that the corporation should invest at least a portion of this sum, as well as the accruing rents of the premises in future, to be applied to the erection of a school, or otherwise, to the purposes of education, when a sufficient fund shall have been accumulated, and a fair opportunity of employing it shall occur.

Spiller's Almshouses.

Spiller's Almshouses.

Sir Henry Spiller, of Laleham, in the county of Middlesex, knt., by deed bearing date 17th March 1642, conveyed to William Byerley, esq., and others, and their heirs, a tenement and bakehouse in the parish of St. Lawrence, or the Holy Trinity, within the borough of Shaston, near a place called Hockenbench, and then in the tenure of John Matthew, and three closes of pasture called Crouchayes, containing 14 acres, and three other closes of meadow or pasture called Pighayes, containing nine acres, and one other little meadow containing one acre, called Mouncks Parrock, with common of pasture in the common or waste of Alcester and the parish of St. James's, near Shaston, upon special trust and confidence that the said William Byerley and others should, within one year after the date thereof, convey the same to the mayor and burgesses of Shaston, and their successors, or to such persons as they should nominate, for erecting an almshouse for the habitation of 10 poor people, and for their relief, clothing, and maintenance.

The said Sir Henry Spiller on the 17th June 1646, surrendered divers closes of land, meadow and pasture, called Puckmore and Northayes, containing 26 acres, lying in the parish of Motcombe, within the manor of Gillingham, and five acres of land allotted upon the disafforestation of the forest of Gillingham, in lieu of common within the said forest, unto William Whitaker, William Hussey, Henry Whitaker, William Burleton, William Hurman, and George Chaldecott, burgesses of the borough of Shaston, and their heirs, to such pious uses and intentions as the said Sir Henry Spiller had formerly declared, or should thereafter declare, by writing under his hand and seal, or by his last Will and testament.

By indenture of bargain and sale bearing date 25th June 1646, and enrolled in the Court of Chancery, the said Sir Henry Spiller, being desirous to leave a perpetual testimony of his affection to the borough of Shaston, which was the place of his birth, and to manifest some act of charity for the relief of 10 poor men to be elected out of the most aged and impotent persons in the said borough, granted to William Whitaker and five others, and their heirs, his messuage or tenement and bakehouse, with the appurtenances, in the parish of St. Lawrence, or of St. Trinity, in the borough of Shaston, in a street there called Hockenbench, and his closes or pieces of land, meadow or pasture, called Crouchayes, containing by estimation 14 acres; also his closes or pieces of land, meadow or pasture, called Pighayes, containing by estimation nine acres, and all other his messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments called Crouchouse, Pockmore, Pigheyes, and Alderbury, with their appurtenances, situate in or near the parish of St. James, or Liberty of Alincester, near the said borough and town (being the premises comprised in the above-recited indenture of 1642), to the intent that they should employ all the rents and profits of the said lands and premises for or towards the building of an almshouse, or maison de Dieu, for the habitation of 10 such poor as aforesaid within the said town of Shaston, and in or near unto the street there called Salisbury-street, if it might be, and for or towards the yearly relief or maintenance of the said 10 poor men, in such manner as he the said Sir Henry Spiller, by any deed or instrument in writing, or by his Will, should appoint; or, in default of such appointment, then in such manner as the said William Whitaker and others, and the mayor and capital burgesses of the said borough of Shaston, or the greater part of them, should direct and appoint, according to the trust in them reposed; and it was thereby declared that the copyhold lands in Motcombe, being parcel of the manor of Gillingham lately surrendered by the said Sir Henry Spiller to the said W. Whitaker and others, (being the lands comprised in the above-recited surrender,) should from thenceforth for ever be employed for the said charitable uses in the said indenture mentioned, and according to the pious intentions and directions of the said Sir Henry Spiller upon the said surrender.

The abovementioned ancient paper states that, at the time of the execution of the above-abstracted deed, the copyhold lands in Motcombe were leased for lives at 4*l.* per annum; the lands in Alcester ("out of which was yearly paid to the King, but at this time to the State, 1*l.* 0*s.* 4*d.*") at 7*l.* 6*s.* 8*d*, and the bakehouse in Shaston at 2*l.* 4*s.*, and that, on the 26th February 1666, the said Henry Whitaker and William Hurman, two of the feoffees, entered upon the Alcester lands and let them for 20*l.* per annum.

In the year 1650 the premises comprised in the above-recited deeds and surrender were seized into the hands of the committee for compounding for the estates of State delinquents, as being the property of Sir Henry Spiller, who was attached to the royal party. The circumstances were investigated by the commissioners for the county of Dorset; and, upon a petition presented by the feoffees to the board sitting at Westminster, the fact of the appropriation to charitable purposes was ascertained, and the lands, after an interval of two or three years, were restored.

The almshouse was built in the year 1655 upon land for which a sum of 33*l.* was paid.

By an indenture of feoffment, with livery of seizure endorsed, bearing date 29th September 1693, between Henry Whitaker of the one part, and Jasper Banister, mayor, John Bowles, esq., recorder, and Peter King and nine others, burgesses of the borough of Shaston, otherwise Shaftesbury, of the other part, reciting the indenture of 1646, above abstracted, and that out of the rents and profits of the said lands a certain messuage and close of land had been purchased, and an almshouse erected thereon, and 10 poor men of the town of Shaston relieved and maintained accordingly; and that the said Henry Whitaker was the only survivor of the trustees named in the said indenture; the said Henry Whitaker in performance of the trust reposed in him by the said Sir Henry Spiller, and to perpetuate his said charitable gift, granted and enfeoffed to the said Jasper Banister and others, the parties of the second part, and their heirs, the said messuage, tenement, and bakehouse in Shaston, and the several closes of land, meadow or pasture, called Crouchayes and Pighayes, Alderbury, and Puckmore, aforesaid, with their appurtenances, on trust, that all the rents and profits of the said lands and premises should for ever thereafter be employed for the yearly relief and maintenance of the said 10 poor men then settled and placed, or thereafter to be settled and placed, in the said almshouse, called or known by the name of Spiller's Spittle. And the said Henry Whitaker thereby covenanted to surrender the said copyhold lands in Motcombe, called Puckmore, into the hands of the lord of the manor of Gillingham, to the end that the said Jasper Banister and others might be admitted tenants thereof, according to the custom of the said manor, and might dispose of the rents and profits thereof to the same charitable use.

The copyhold lands in Motcombe were accordingly surrendered to the like uses in the ensuing year.

No surrender of the copyhold premises took place between the years 1694 and 1804, an omission probably arising from the circumstance that the copyhold was of inheritance, subject only to a fine certain of trifling amount upon death or alienation.

In the year 1804, at the instance of Mr. Bowles, the then steward of the manor and recorder of the borough, 13 persons on behalf of the corporation were admitted to the copyhold, of whom Edward Buckland, Charles Bowles, James Hurd, and Richard Buckland are the survivors.

The freehold property has been transmitted by successive conveyances; and, by indentures of lease and release bearing date 1st and 2d July 1782, was conveyed to 14 trustees, of whom Thomas Tucker was the survivor. Thomas Tucker having died without making any conveyance, the legal estate in the premises vested by descent in John Boys Tucker, his grandson and heir at law. Applications having been made to him on the part of the corporation to transfer the property to new trustees, with which he refused to comply, they presented a petition to the Court of Chancery, and, by an order of the Court dated 6th November 1834, he was ordered to convey the premises upon the trusts of the indenture of 25th June 1646.

Indentures of lease and release were accordingly executed by J. B. Tucker, bearing date 23d and 24th February 1835, whereby the premises comprised in the indentures abovementioned were vested in David Roberts, then mayor, Edward Buckland, James Hurd, Richard Buckland, Charles Hannen, Philip Mathews Chitty, George Chitty, James Lush Buckland, Walter Swyer, George William Buckland, Thomas Burridge Chitty, and Robert

Swyer, capital burgesses, and their heirs, upon the trusts declared by the indenture of 25th June 1646.

The costs of this application to the Court, which amounted to 119*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* were defrayed, notwithstanding the terms of the order, by which they were charged upon the charity fund, from the private funds of the corporation.

The corporation still possess all the property described in the original deeds, to which no addition has been made except the land on which the almshouse was built, as recited in the feoffment of 1693, and an allotment of about half an acre under the Gillingham Enclosure Act in the year 1808.

The premises now consist of—

1. Seven closes of copyhold land in Motcombe, called Puckmore, part arable and part pasture, comprising in the whole 42 A. 1 R. 30 P., with no buildings except a barn and stable; let to John Strange as yearly tenant at 70*l.* per annum, to which it was reduced from 76*l.* in 1833.

2. A copyhold close in Motcombe, called Chaldecotts, containing between four and five acres, let to John Davidge, as yearly tenant, at 8*l.* per annum, being the full value.

3. Two closes of freehold land in Alcester, or St. James, Shaftesbury, containing 14 acres, let to John Foot as yearly tenant at 23*l.* per annum.

4. Several closes in the same place containing 13 acres, let to Henry Norton, as yearly tenant, at 22*l.* 10*s.* per annum.

5. Four houses in a place called Parson's Pool, in the parish of Holy Trinity, Shaftesbury, held by three different tenants under a lease granted in 1796 to Thomas Fricker, in consideration of 35*l.* for 99 years, determinable on the death of William Fricker, then aged six years, and John Ham Fricker, then aged three, at the yearly rent of 2*l.* 4*s.*

The present tenants are James White, Joseph Trenchard, and William Burridge. The rent is apportioned amongst these three persons, but the whole is paid to the trustees by James White.

The tenants are bound to repair these houses; one of them has, within the last seven or eight years, been entirely rebuilt, and the others are in very good condition. They are now worth between 40*l.* and 50*l.* per annum.

6. A house near the almshouse, built on part of the close purchased for the almshouse, in the occupation of Jubal Lewis, under a lease granted to Charles Whitmarsh, in 1830, in consideration of 10*l.*, for 99 years, determinable on three lives, then aged respectively 14, 14, and 10 years, and all still in existence, at the rent of 10*s.*, the lessee covenanting to expend not less than 150*l.* in building a new house on the site of a decayed cottage. The lessee (C. Whitmarsh) has built a good house, which is now a public house, called the Knowles's Arms, and has expended at least 300*l.* on the building. The trustees have since granted him a lease for 99 years from 1834, determinable on the same three lives, of an additional piece of ground used as a yard to the inn at the rent of 18*s.*, being the full value.

The almshouse comprises 10 distinct rooms occupied by 10 men appointed by the trustees, five from the parish of St. Peter, four from the Holy Trinity, and one from St. James's. They are all aged persons, and are usually selected from those who do not receive parochial relief.

The present almshouse was rebuilt in the year 1830, at the expense of 470*l.*, of which 70*l.* was paid out of the funds of the charity, and 400*l.* was advanced by the corporation. Interest on this sum was paid out of the trust funds at the rate of 3½ per cent. up to Michaelmas 1834. At a meeting of the corporation held 26th December 1835, it was resolved that the sum of 400*l.*, advanced by them towards rebuilding the almshouse, should be presented to the charity, a similar advance having recently been made towards rebuilding the women's, or Chubb's almshouse, (hereafter mentioned,) and it being desirable to place both the charities on the same footing:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| A payment to the Crown called Audit Money . . . . . | 1 | 3 | 4 |
| Quit-rent to the lord of the manor of Gillingham . . . . . | 0 | 8 | 2 |
| To a receiver for collecting the rents and making the payments . | 5 | 5 | 0 |

These weekly payments to the almspeople during the last 10 years have varied from 5*s.* to 3*s.* 6*d.*, according to the state of the funds.

About 11*s.* per annum is paid for messengers and stamps, and there have been occasionally small charges for letting the lands and law expenses.

There are also payments for repairs of the farm lands and the almshouse. These have amounted, on an average of the last 10 years, to about 5*l.* per annum.

In the accounts, up to the year 1828, occur entries of payments of various sums at irregular intervals for gowns or cloaks to the almsmen, for which about 2*l.* 6*s.* each was usually paid. These have of late years been discontinued, as has also a payment for a dinner to the almsmen at Christmas.

The available income of the charity being now increased by the discontinuance of payment of interest for the money advanced by the corporation for building the almshouse, it is in contemplation to increase the payments to the almspeople.

Shaftesbury.

Chubb's Almshouse.

The accounts are audited annually between Christmas and Lady-day. On the 30th April 1835 there was a balance in hand of 55*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.*, subject to the current expenses.

Chubb's Almshouse.

An inscription upon an ancient brass plate which was long preserved in the building called Chubb's almshouse, but which has not been extant for the last 60 years, attributed the original establishment of this institution to Matthew Chubb of Dorchester in the year 1611, but no document is known to exist relating to the foundation, nor is there any endowment to it derived from the supposed founder.

It is also recorded that Margaret Chubb gave 6*l.* a-year for the support of the almspeople therein.

In the account for the year 1630 of the commons warden of the corporation there is among the other payments the following entry:

"To the poor people in Chubb's almshouse given by Margaret Chubb, of Dorchester, widow, to the said house yearly for ever out of lands lately purchased by the town with money she gave to that purpose, 6*l.*"

An entry to the same effect appears in the succeeding commons warden's accounts. The payment has always been kept up and is still made by the corporation out of their general funds, it not being known on what particular lands Mrs. Chubb's money was laid out, or whether by way of purchase or charge.

John Boden (or Budden) by Will, bearing date 18th July 1609, proved 10th February 1614 by Jane Grove his daughter, gave 20*l.* to be bestowed in a house to be built on a plot of ground next the lane coming from French Mill, being the town-lands, for 10 poor people elected by the mayor and major part of the burgesses, and 10*s.* a-week, to be levied out of his land in Shaston and the hundred of Alcester by the said mayor and burgesses, or the persons assigned thereto by them.

The 20*l.* was probably applied in the building, which appears to have been erected upon land belonging to the corporation.

The endowment of 10*s.* per week was carried into effect by the following deed:

Jane Grove, of Shaston, widow, in performance of the last Will of the said John Boden, her father, and of the last will of William Grove, deceased, her husband, by deed bearing date 1st August 1625, granted to John Grove, Thomas Bennett, and John Foyle, and others, 26*l.* rent per annum out of lands called Gowen's Land, Vile's Moor Mead, and Thorn Mead, lying in Shaston and Alcester, to be paid at Michaelmas and Lady-day, in trust, with the assent of the mayor and burgesses, to distribute the same yearly for the relief of 16 poor people as should be placed in Mr. Chubb's almshouses, with a power to distrain upon the said lands, and also upon other lands called Shepperd's Close and Goffe House, in St. James's, Shaston, if the rent should be in arrear 20 days.

This sum of 26*l.* per annum is regularly paid by the tenant of the lands in St. James's parish charged therewith, which now belong to Lord Rivers.

Jesse's Gift.—Robert Jesse, by Will bearing date 24th December 1614, gave to the poor of Shaston 20*s.*, to be paid out of the lands which he purchased of Peter King and Thomas King, with a power of distress to the mayor and burgesses for the same, and to be distributed by them—to the poor in the almshouse 6*s.* 8*d.*, and to the poorest people in the town 13*s.* 4*d.*

A paper in the handwriting of the abovementioned Mr. Whitaker states this rent-charge to be issuing out of a close of pasture of about 10 acres lying in Alcester, the boundaries of which it specifies with great minuteness.

This close is now called Wilkins's Hayes, and belongs to George Thomas, esq., by whose tenant the payment is regularly made. The whole 1*l.* is carried to the account of the almshouse.

Murrell's Gift.—Anna Murrell, widow, on the 12th September 1707, paid into the hands of the corporation 100*l.* to be invested as they might think fit, and the interest to be paid after her decease to the almswomen in Chubb's almshouse.

5*l.* per annum is still paid by the corporation as the interest of this sum, which has not been invested.

Lush's Gift.—William Lush (whose Will is hereafter more fully abstracted) in 1713 gave to the mayor and burgesses 100*l.* to be laid out in land, the profits thereof to be paid, on St. Thomas's day yearly, to such poor people in the borough as they should appoint.

This sum has not been specifically invested, but 5*l.* per annum, as the interest, is still paid by the corporation annually to the inmates of Chubb's almshouse.

Wykes's Gift.—Frances Wykes, by Will bearing date 26th June 1738, gave 100*l.* to the mayor, recorder, and capital burgesses of the borough of Shaston, to be placed out at interest for the equal benefit, yearly, of all the poor persons in the women's almshouse in the said borough, such interest to be paid to them at Christmas for ever.

This 100*l.* was paid to the hands of the corporation, who pay interest for the same at the rate of 5 per cent.

Bennett's Gift.—John Bennett, by Will bearing date 16th April 1771, proved in 1778, gave 100*l.* towards the support of this almshouse.

This sum was paid to Thomas Tucker, the then mayor, by whom and by his representatives the interest was regularly paid to the almswomen up to Michaelmas 1834. The principal has since been called in by the corporation, and has been applied towards rebuilding the almshouse. The corporation have, however, continued the annual payment of 5*l.*

Petty's Gift.—It appears, from a memorandum in the commons warden's account of the year 1633, that Thomas Petty, by Will (without date, but prior to 1666), gave 20*l.* to remain as a stock for ever, the use to be distributed among the poor of the borough, which 20*l.* the town had received, and were to pay the use thereof accordingly on St. Thomas's day and Good Friday. Entries of the payment of various sums on account of the interest of this 20*l.* appear in the commons warden's accounts. In 1666, 1*l.* 12*s.* was so paid.

Shaftesbury.

£1 is now paid by the corporation to the almspeople as the interest of this gift.

The income from the several sources above mentioned is therefore as follows:

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chubb | 6 | 0 | 0 |
| Grove | 26 | 0 | 0 |
| Jesse | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Murrell | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Lush | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Wykes | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Bennett | 5 | 0 | 0 |

From an inspection of many of the annual accounts of the commons warden between the years 1720 and 1773, it appears that 51*l.* 14*s.* was regularly paid to the almswomen by the corporation. Bennett's gift had not then come into operation, so the income from the above-mentioned sources would have been 49*l.* only, but 1*l.* 4*s.* instead of 1*l.* was then paid as the interest of Petty's gift; and it would also seem that the corporation added a sum of 2*l.* 10*s.* It is suggested that this sum was the gift of a Mr. Hussey, but no ground appears for attaching any charitable destination to the payment made from his estate, which was only as the interest of a loan to him from the corporation.

The almshouse consists of a building containing eight rooms, each inhabited by two women. The old almshouse being in a ruinous and dangerous condition, the present building was erected in 1834 at the expense of about 400*l.*, which was paid by the corporation out of their general funds, and with the 100*l.* derived from Bennett's gift.

The almswomen are appointed by the corporation, eight being taken from St. Peter's parish, seven from the parish of the Holy Trinity, and one from St. James's. A preference is given to the oldest persons and to such as have not been in the receipt of parochial relief.

The whole income is divided equally by quarterly payments amongst the almswomen, who may certainly be deemed to have experienced great liberality at the hands of the corporation.

The accounts of the several receipts and payments are entered in the corporation account-book.

LUSH'S CHARITY.

Lush's Charity.

William Lush, by Will bearing date 27th February 1718, and proved in the Prerogative Court, gave his copyhold estate, lands, and tenements, late Hurman's, and his copyhold estate at Butter Print, formerly one Dades, both situate in the parish of Motcombe, and copyhold of the manor of Gillingham; also two messuages in the parish of St. Peter, Shaftesbury, and a messuage in the parish of the Holy Trinity; to the Rev. John Philips (then rector of the Holy Trinity, and four others, all of Shaftesbury, and their successors, for the term of 2000 years. And he directed the said trustees, whom he also appointed his executors, out of his personal estate and out of the rents of the said copyhold and real estates, after payment of the several annuities and legacies therein mentioned, yearly to put as many poor boys or girls of the borough to school within the said borough, not exceeding 20 in number, there to be carefully instructed in writing, reading, and arithmetic, and to be religiously educated in the principles of Christianity according to the tenets of the church of England, the said boys or girls to be also yearly clothed with a vest or upper garment, as should be consistent both with the income of the estates and the further charity thereinafter ordered. And he directed that the master who should be employed to educate the said children should bring them to the parish church or churches in the borough on Sundays, morning and evening; and that they should be kept at school until the trustees should, in a frugal and advantageous manner, bind them apprentices to some good handicraft trade, put them to sea, or otherwise provide for them according to their discretion; and he directed his trustees to dispose of the residue of the income in such manner as they should think most proper and diffusive for the benefit of all such poor persons within the said borough as should really stand most in need of that his charity.

And the said testator, after reciting that he had formerly executed a bond to the mayor and burgesses of the borough for 100*l.*, to the intent that the same should be laid out in land, and the rents and profits thereof, or the interest of the 100*l.*, be disposed of yearly on St. Thomas's day to the use of such poor persons within the borough as by any deed, or by his Will, he should appoint, or for want of such appointment to the use of such poor persons within the borough as the mayor and burgesses should appoint, and that he had made no such appointment, unless the said mayor, &c., would (for their own ease) give his trustees liberty to dispose of the said charity amongst the rest with which he had intrusted them, but if that should be refused he thereby gave the said 100*l.* to the said mayor, &c., to be paid by his trustees within one year after his decease in discharge of the said bond, desiring that the said sum and the yearly interest thereof might be applied to such uses as above mentioned relating to the same. And the testator directed that his trustees should allow out of the rents to every person who should be related to him as near as a cousin-german, and should happen to fall into poverty, such annual sum for their comfortable maintenance as to his trustees should seem necessary; and he directed that his personal estate, after payment of the legacies thereby given, should be put out on security or invested in purchases for the greater advancement of his several charities; and he gave to each of his trustees, and their successors, the yearly sum of 5*l.*, to be deducted out of the rents, as a recompence for their care and trouble in performing the trust thereby reposed in them, with power to deduct such costs as they should sustain in execution of the said trusts; and he directed that all acts done by a majority of his said trustees should be equally valid as if done by the whole of them, and further, that, upon the decease of either of the said trustees, the survivors should, within 40 days thence next ensuing, by an instrument in writing under their hands and seals, elect and appoint some discreet and honest person of good fame and character, who should constantly inhabit within the said borough, to succeed as trustee such person so dying, and so upon the death of every trustee the survivors should within the space of 40 days, and in the same manner, appoint such person as aforesaid to succeed as trustee; and he directed that, if such election and appointment as aforesaid should ever happen to be omitted or neglected, the then surviving trustees, and every of them, should for ever from thenceforth be discharged from the said trusts, and should cease to act in anything relating to that his Will; and he thereby then devolved the said trusts upon the mayor, recorder, and capital burgesses of the said borough for the time being, and their successors, desiring and authorizing them to accept the same, and faithfully to discharge the said several trusts, but without any salary or reward for the same, with directions that, if any dispute should arise concerning any part of the said trusts, or concerning the explanation of any part of his Will, the same should be referred to the arbitration of some judicious person for decision.

The trustees have from time to time been continued by successive appointments made under the hands and seals of the surviving or continuing trustees. Many of these entries appear in the minute-book, to which latterly the trustees present have affixed their signatures and seals.

The last appointment was made 28th June 1831, when, upon the death ofMr. William Swyer (the surviving trustees being then Charles Bowles, George Wilkins, Philip Mathews Chitty, and Charles Edward Buckland), an entry was made in the book, whereby, after reciting the death of William Swyer, and that Mr. Wilkins had resided in London for about 11 years, and that Mr. Bowles had twice refused to concur with the other surviving trustees, the said P. M. Chitty and C. E. Buckland (whose signatures and seals were thereto affixed) nominated the Rev. William Patteson, rector of the parishes of Holy Trinity and St. Peter, to be a trustee in the room of the said William Swyer.

No conveyances or assignments of the freehold property have ever been made, but there have been occasional admittances to the copyhold lands.

At a court held for the manor of Gillingham, 12th November 1799, the Rev. William Topham, rector of Shaftesbury, John Williams, Edward Buckland, James Lush, and John White, the then trustees, were admitted to the following premises, viz. a messuage or tenement at Enmore Green in the tything of Motcombe, with the curtilage garden, orchard, and two closes of meadow or pasture to the same belonging, containing by estimation four acres; certain other closes adjoining to the said two closes, containing in the whole, by estimation, 30 acres; two little paddocks lying near a place called Redwell, one whereof lay on one side of the highway called Sherborne Causeway, and the other on the other side of the said highway; a little paddock called Brickles Paddock; a paddock called Barnes Paddock; and a paddock salled Sturton's Paddock; all which premises were formerly purchased by William Lush of Peter Hurman: also a barn and close of arable land called Barn Close, containing two acres; a close of arable or pasture called the Leg, containing one acre; another close called Roundhill's, containing eight acres; and a close of allotment, or pasture land, containing two acres; which premises were formerly the lands of the said William Lush, and were situate in the tything of Motcombe;—to hold to them and their heirs upon such trusts as the said William Lush by his Will had directed concerning the same, according to the custom of the said manor, under the yearly rent of 3*s.* 9*d.*, and on payment of a fine of 7*s.* 6*d.*

At the same court they were also admitted upon the same trusts to a messuage or tenement called Burbages, with orchard, garden, and backside adjoining, and three closes of meadow called Home Mead, Middle Mead, and Little Mead, containing 10 acres; three closes of meadow or pasture, with the appurtenances, called Keinton's, containing 12 acres; with a close of allotment near a place called Park Gate, containing two acres, allotted to the said premises upon the disafforestation of the forest of Gillingham, in respect of common, within the said forest; all which premises were formerly the lands of John Crouch, and were situate in the tything of Motcombe, under the yearly rent of 2*s.* 6½*d.*, and on payment of a fine of 5*s.* 1*d.*

Also to two closes of pasture or arable land containing seven acres, bounded with a lane called New Lane on the west, and with a lane leading to North End on the north, formerly purchased by the said William Lush of William Broadway, and situate in Motcombe, under the yearly rent of 11*d.*, and on payment of a fine of 1*s.* 10*d.*

Also to a parcel of meadow or pasture containing three acres, called Brick close, situate in Motcombe, under the yearly rent of 2*d.*, and on payment of a fine of 4*d.*

Also to a little paddock of meadow or pasture, formerly belonging to Mrs. Green, lying on the north side of a lane leading to North End, situate in Motcombe, under the yearly rent of 6*d.*, and on payment of a fine of 1*s.*

Shaftesbury.

There have been no subsequent admittances to the premises above mentioned.

In addition to the property mentioned in the Will and in the admittances above noticed, the trustees also possess 16 A. 0R. 30 P. in the parish of St. James, Shaftesbury. How this was acquired does not appear, but the trustees have held it at least since 1769.

They are also in possession of two additional properties acquired by purchase with money derived from savings of income.

The first consists of a dwelling-house and outbuildings in the parish of St. Peter, which, by indentures of lease and release bearing date 1st and 2nd October 1802, were conveyed by William and John Pope to Edward Buckland and Edward Charles Buckland, and their heirs, in consideration of 210*l.*, by the description of a tenement or burgage, situate within the late parish of St. Martin, in Shaftesbury, then converted into two tenements or burgages, with the garden and premises thereto belonging, then in the tenure of the said William and John Pope. In this deed no trusts are declared, but a declaration of trust was executed the day after the date of the release declaring that the purchase money, 210*l.*, was the proper money of the trustees of Lush's charity, and that the names of the said Edward Buckland and E. C. Buckland were used only in trust for the trustees and their successors.

The other purchased property consists of 2A. 0R. 16P. of land in Motcombe, copyhold of the manor of Gillingham, which, at a court held 13th May 1811, were surrendered by Abraham Mathew, in consideration of 173*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*, to the use of Edward Buckland, Charles Bowles, George Wilkins, James Lush, and John Cooper, the then trustees, who claimed to hold the same to them and their heirs upon the trusts declared in the Will of the said William Lush by the yearly rent of 3½*d.*, and on payment of a fine of 7*d.*, and they were thereupon admitted tenants accordingly.

The following is a description of the property now belonging to the charity, and of the manner in which the several premises are let.

| 9. A freehold messuage or tenement and school-house, occupied by the schoolmaster, rent free, situate in the Holy Trinity, Shaftesbury. | | | |

The whole of the premises are kept in repair by the trustees.

The school-house and premises are estimated to be worth about 18*l.* per annum.

The estates are all let by tender, and are now at their full value, the tenants all holding from year to year. The houses are in good repair, but some of them, being old, require frequent outlays.

In the course of the last 12 years about 227*l.* has been realized by sales of timber, but there is none now fit to cut.

The school is kept in the house in Holy Trinity parish devised by the donor, which has been made convenient for the purpose, and for the residence of the master, who is appointed by the trustees.

There are 20 boys in the school selected from the residents in the town. They must have reached 10 years of age and be under 13 at the time of their admittance, and they remain in the school three years. They are taught reading, writing, and arithmetic. They are regularly attended to the church by the schoolmaster, and at Easter annually are examined by the minister. On entering the school they receive each a Bible and Prayer-book lettered, as being the gift of the trustees, and they are supplied with books and stationery by the master, who brings in his bill to the trustees.

Shaftesbury.

They receive annually at Easter a complete suit of outer clothing, including hats and shoes. The clothing provided at the commencement of each year is light blue, and on their leaving the school a suit of dark blue (as more useful in ordinary employments) is given them.

They are all apprenticed to trades, with premiums of 15*l.*, paid by three instalments, 5*l.* at the commencement of the term, 5*l.* at the end of half the term, and 5*l.* at the expiration; the number apprenticed averaging generally six a-year.

The master is allowed to take scholars who pay for their instruction, and has about 10.

By a resolution dated 13th March 1820, it was ordered that no boy should be admitted into the school who had not regularly attended divine service at the church every Sunday for 12 months before the time of his application for admission.

The expenditure consists of the following items:

|---|---|---|---|
| The repairs, including those of the school-house (excepting a sum of 150*l.* expended in improving it a few years ago), average annually | 30 | 0 | 0 |
| Insurance | 4 | 11 | 9 |
| Schoolmaster's salary | 40 | 0 | 0 |
| Books, pens, &c. for the children, about | 17 | 0 | 0 |
| Clothing about | 50 | 0 | 0 |
| Apprentice fees, about | 90 | 0 | 0 |
| Salaries to three trustees | 15 | 0 | 0 |
| Mr. Wilkins, having long quitted the town, has not been permitted to receive his salary; Mr. C. Bowles has also declined it. | | | |
| Expenses of meetings, about | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Bibles and Prayer-books | 1 | 10 | 0 |
| £ | 251 | 1 | 9 |

In 1825, 9*l.* 12*s.* was paid for blankets for the almswomen in Chubb's almshouse, which may be considered as a payment out of the residue directed by the donor to be appropriated to the poor.

One of the trustees acts as receiver and treasurer.

The trustees meet annually, generally in the month of February, for the appointment of the children, and for ordering the clothing and auditing the accounts. The clothing is contracted for by tender. They have also other meetings as occasion requires.

On a settlement of the accounts, 9th February 1836, there was a balance in hand of 76*l.* 17*s.* The balance is gradually decreasing by reason of the expenditure exceeding the present income.

The 100*l.* mentioned in the Will is accounted for by the corporation in the account of Chubb's almshouse.

The affairs of the school appear on the whole to be well conducted. The regulation, however, which excludes children who have not attended the church previously to their application has excited some complaint; and, considering that the dissenters, who might not object to comply with the terms of the Will, are very numerous in the town, there appears to have been no necessity for drawing still closer the restrictions which it imposes.

A question has been raised whether the present trustees have any longer a right to remain in the management of the funds of this charity, on the ground that the last appointment of a trustee having been made by two only of the survivors, the trust has, by the terms of the Will, devolved on the corporation. The question of the due filling up of the trust has been long open to dispute, inasmuch as the power to appoint trustees, which is conferred by the deed, does not extend to cases of resignation; yet such a power has been repeatedly assumed. In the immediate case it may be doubtful whether the Court of Chancery would transfer the trust, provided the refusal of a trustee to concur in the appointment within the prescribed time could be shown to have proceeded from an intention of creating the forfeiture which it was his duty to prevent. The merits of the question will, however, be more properly discussed when the parties who will, in the event of a forfeiture, be entitled to the permanent control of the charity shall have been ascertained, and the temporary right created by the provisions of the Municipal Corporation Reform Act shall have determined.

Williams's Charity.

Williams's Charity.

For the Will of this donor, see Town of Blandford Forum, p. 12.

The trustees meet every third year at Shaftesbury, when the mayor, rector, town-clerk, and two or three respectable inhabitants, usually attend to advise in and witness the distribution.

There have been no apprentices bound from Shaftesbury within the last 30 years.

At the last distribution, which was in November 1835, there were about eight hatters and weavers who received the benefit of the charity designed for artificers. In consequence of the limited number 8*l.* (the largest sum allowed by the Will) was given to each.

There are 18 pensioners on the list, all widows, who receive 5*l.* a-year each. These stipends are paid by Mr. Buckland, the town-clerk, in sums of 8*s.* 4*d.* to each widow, the first Monday in every month.

The surplus is always paid over to the mayor, to be distributed according to his discretion among the deserving poor. He gives it away soon after the annual meeting, as he sees occasion, in sums varying usually from 2*s.* 6*d.* to 1*l.* amongst any poor of the town. At the last distribution two sums of 2*l.* each were given to poor families of weavers lately deceased.

The mayor does not receive the 6*s.* 8*d.* given by the Will, nor does Mr. Buckland receive any remuneration for his trouble. Shaftesbury.

Whetcombe's Charity.

Simon Whetcombe, by Will, bearing date 23d August 1721, gave 50*l.* to the mayor, recorder, and corporation, of the borough of Shaftesbury, and to the rector of the parishes of the Holy Trinity and St. Peter there, and to their successors for ever; in trust, to lend the same in sums of 5*l.* a piece to ten poor tradesmen residing in the borough of Shaftesbury, who should give security for repayment thereof, without interest, at five equal yearly payments. And he directed that as often as there should be 5*l.* in the hands of his trustees, they should lend the same to some poor tradesman, and to be repaid as aforesaid; no one tradesman to have more than 5*l.* in his hands at one time; the trustees to take special care to lend no part of the said fund but upon unquestionable security, the same to be lent without partiality and without any regard to parties or difference of religion, so that the poorest tradesmen and their families should be preferred in case they could find such security as was thereby required. Whetcombe's Charity.

The said testator also gave a similar sum to the governors of the almshouse and school at Sherborne, to be lent, in like manner, to 10 poor tradesmen residing in the town of Sherborne.

The sum of 50*l.* given for loans in Shaftesbury is still preserved entire; the occasional losses which have unavoidably happened having been made good by the corporation. The loans granted are of 5*l.* each, usually to small tradesmen, who are required to find two securities.

On St. Thomas's day annually the corporation meet to call in the annual instalments which may be due, and receive applications for such loan-money as they may have in hand.

Charity-House.

It appears from the recitals in a deed bearing date 14th October, 29 Elizabeth, made between the feoffees of certain lands (John Budden being one of such feoffees) of the one part, and Thomas Sutton and others, of the other part, that William Grove, by deed bearing date 4th June, 24 Elizabeth, had conveyed to certain feoffees, amongst other tenements, a dwelling-house, garden, backside, and curtilage thereunto adjoining, with the appurtenances, situate in the parish of St. Lawrence, in the borough of Shaftesbury, to the use of the poor for ever. Charity-House.

This house, which is situate on Barton Hill, has for a very long period been, and still is, in the possession of the corporation, who have granted a lease of it to John Perry for 99 years, determinable with three lives, of which one (James Perry) is now existing.

The rents, so far as can be ascertained from the documents and accounts still in existence, have always been carried to the account of the corporation without reference to any charity; an appropriation which, assuming the identity of the premises, (and it was stated, upon good authority, that no doubt existed on this point,) is obviously quite at variance with the intention of the above-mentioned conveyance.

Bennett's Charity.

St. James.

It is stated in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786, that Peter Bennett, by Will, the date of which is not stated, gave a rent-charge of 2*l.* 12*s.* for bread to 12 poor persons of this parish, then vested in Samuel Dunford. It is understood to be in respect of this charity that James Dean, the tenant of a farm called Holyrood, in the parish of St. James, the property of Benjamin Lester Lester, esq., pays annually the sum of 2*l.* 12*s.* to the churchwardens of this parish, who distribute weekly a penny loaf to each of 12 poor widows selected by them. Bennett's Charity.

George Foyle's Charity.

George Foyle, by a codicil to his Will, bearing date 11th July 1795, gave to the minister, churchwardens, and overseers of the poor of the parish of St James, Shaftesbury, 50*l.* upon trust, to lay out the interest yearly in clothing, or otherwise assisting such poor persons of the said parish as to them should seem most necessitous and deserving. G. Foyle's Charity.

This sum was in a bank in Shaftesbury, which failed. In 1820, 38*l.* was received from the estate and placed in the savings' bank, where it remained unapplied till, by the interest, the amount was made up again to 50*l.* It now continues in the savings' bank in the names of the minister and churchwardens.

The interest, amounting to 1*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*, is distributed by the minister at Christmas, together with the sacrament-money, amongst the poor of the parish, in sums varying from 2*s.* to 4*s.* according to their necessities.

Church Lands.

The origin of this property, the rents of which have always been considered as applicable to the repairs of the church, is not known. Church Lands.

By indenture bearing date 31st July 1828, reciting that the messuages and hereditaments thereinafter mentioned, were supposed to be vested in the rector and churchwardens of the parish, and that the rents and profits had for many years been applied towards repairing, ornamenting, or improving the church and churchyard; and further reciting that there was not then in the said parish any sufficient accommodation for the poor, and that it had been determined at a general vestry that application should be made by the overseers to the rector and churchwardens for a lease of the same premises, and that eight houses should be erected thereon for the accommodation of the poor of the parish, according to the plans then approved of, it was witnessed that the said rector and churchwardens demised to the then overseers, and their successors, a messuage, with the backside or garden thereto, situate in the parish of Shaston, St. James, on the south side of the street there, bounded as therein mentioned; and also three other messuages, with the backsides and gardens adjoining, also situate on the south side of the said street, and near to the said first-mentioned premises for the term of 99 years, determinable with the lives of Thomas King, John King, and Ann King, aged respectively 19, 17, and 15, in trust for the inhabitants and parishioners of the said parish paying to the relief of the poor there, paying to the rector and churchwardens, and their successors, yearly, the rent of 8*l.* 8*s.*, to be from time to time disposed of by the said rector and churchwardens in repairing, ornamenting, beautifying, or otherwise improving the church and churchyard of the said parish, with a covenant on the part of the overseers to keep the premises in repair.

The premises thus demised consist of three cottages and gardens containing 16 perches, now in the occupation of James Andrews, Oliver Merrifield, and —— Hayter; and 10 other tenements, with a yard containing 19 perches, occupied by parish paupers put in by the overseers.

The rent is applied in repairing and tuning the organ, in providing lights and charcoal, and for other purposes connected with the repairs and ornaments of the interior of the church.

A separate account is kept of the receipts and disbursements of the rent, and at the time of our inquiry, (February 1836,) there was a balance in hand of 3*l.* 3*s.* 5*d.*

PARISH OF ST. PETER.

Hyde's Charity.

Hyde's Charity.

It appears from the ancient commons wardens' accounts that a sum of 6*s.* 8*d.* was paid annually by the corporation to the churchwardens of St. Peter's in respect of a gift of 4*l.* by Margaret Hyde to the poor of that parish.

This sum has been paid up to Michaelmas 1826, and was carried to the churchwarden's account, since which it has been by inadvertence discontinued, but will now be resumed.

PARISH OF HOLY TRINITY.

Holy Trinity.
J. Foyle's Charity.

John Foyle's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 10th May 1647, (the original of which was about 30 years since in the corporation chest, but is not now to be found,) John Foyle, after reciting that he had then in his hands of monies belonging to the late Sir Matthew Arundel 100*l.*, to which he had added of his own monies the sum of 60*l.*, with which he had purchased the two closes of land called Knowle Hays, in the parish of St. James, Shaftesbury, therein mentioned, thereby conveyed the same closes to William Hussey and others, (of whom Henry Whitaker was one,) and their heirs, upon trust that the rents and profits should be employed for the use of the poor people of the parish of the Holy Trinity, Shaftesbury.

The deed contained no provision for the continuance of the trust.

Henry Whitaker was the survivor of these trustees, from whom the legal estate descended to the late Rev. William Whitaker, of Motcombe House, who died about 1810, having devised all his trust estates in fee to his nephew and heir-at-law, William Whitaker, esq. The latter gentleman died in October 1816, having devised all his real and personal estate, in very comprehensive terms, (but which do not include, specifically, the estates vested in him by way of trust,) to Thomas Bowyer Bower, of Iwerne Minster, the Rev. Walter Whitaker, and the Rev. Henry Bower, under whose directions the rents and profits of the estate have been distributed since the year 1818, by Charles Bowles, esq.

The property consists of two closes of land in the parish of St. James, still called Knowle Hayes, let to John Burden as yearly tenant, upon the valuation of a surveyor, at the clear rent of 22*l.* There was on the property a little timber, which about the year 1820 was sold and produced 28*l.* Of this sum, (which remains in Mr. Bowles's hands,) the interest at 5 per cent. has been yearly added to the amount of the income.

The whole rent is distributed yearly by Mr. Bowles, assisted by Mr. Buckland and the serjeant-at-mace, at the old session hall, on Christmas eve, to poor people of the parish of the Holy Trinity, in the following manner: Among those poor who contribute to the rate without receiving any thing from it, 3*s.* to a man and his wife. Of those who neither contribute to nor receive from the rate, 2*s.* to a man and his wife. Of those who receive relief, to a man and his wife, 1*s.* 6*d.*; and to the single persons neither receiving nor paying, 2*s.* 6*d.* The single persons who receive from the rate do not participate in the charity. Bread, beer, and coals, to the amount of 30*s.*, are distributed to the poor of Trinity parish, in the Maudlin or workhouse in the parish; and 14*s.* in money are given to the seven inmates in Chubb's almshouse, who are selected out of Trinity parish.

The only expense attending the management is about 10*s.* paid upon the day of distribution for the use of the room, fire and attendance.

Gift of 100*l.*—The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 state that 100*l.* was given by John Foyle to the corporation, (probably the same person as the last-mentioned donor,) for which 6*l.* per cent. was to be paid by that body, 4*l.* to the poor of Trinity parish, and 2*l.* to the poor of St. Peter's parish, but that the evidence of the receipt of the 100*l.* being lost, the payment, which had been long made, had been discontinued.

These payments occur in the commons wardens' account so early as the year 1679, and also in the accounts for several years between 1720 and 1762. The payment of 2*l.* to St. Peter's parish appears in the accounts for a period of about 10 years after the larger sum was discontinued.

The regularity of the entries leaves no doubt that this 100*l.* actually came into the hands of the corporation, and it has been accordingly intimated to them that the payment should be resumed or the capital replaced.

MUSTON'S CHARITY.

Muston's Charity.

It is stated in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786, that there was at that time a rent-charge of 1*l.* per annum paid to the poor of this parish under the name of Muston's Charity.

The instrument creating the charge has not been discovered, though it has been recognised, and certain premises in Shaftesbury were sold, subject to the payment, to Hans Winthrop Mortimer, about 60 years ago.

These premises are a parcel of land on which the national school has been lately built, and a house adjoining, in the occupation of Abner Alner, which belongs to the Marquis of Westminster, in whom the property purchased by H. W. Mortimer, has vested.

This payment (of which there are said to be entries in the old parish-books) has been discontinued for many years, but will now be resumed either by Lord Westminster or by the parties in whom the property of the national school is vested, whose title is derived from his lordship.

CHURCH LANDS.

Church Lands.

Queen Elizabeth, by letters-patent bearing date 15th July, in the 27th year of her reign, (being a grant of concealed lands which had escheated to the Crown, and of which the original is preserved in the Rolls chapel,) at the instance of Sir John Crofts, granted to John Budden and James Sharrock, and their heirs, amongst other lands, a messuage or tenement, and two gardens, with the appurtenances, called Church Land, then in the tenure of the said John Budden, situate in the parishes of St. Lawrence and St. Martin, within the borough of Shaftesbury; another garden near Castle Hill gate; a cottage or tenement, with a garden, called Church Land, in the same parishes, lying on the west side of a tenement called the Magdalen; a messuage or tenement called the Church House, with a garden adjoining, also called Church Land, then in the tenure of Thomas Skinner, lying in the parishes and borough aforesaid; a messuage or tenement called Church Land, near the church of St. Lawrence; also two gardens, then called Church Land, situate in the parishes and borough aforesaid, having the lands of Peter Haywood on the north, which several lands are stated as having come to the Queen or her progenitors by escheat.

It is probable that the lands thus granted had been long previously vested in feoffees for the purposes of the church, and that they were thereupon restored to their original destination by John Budden, who was a great benefactor to the town. The successive conveyances are not known to be in existence; but we find that, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 19th and 20th March 1721, the premises above mentioned, together with one acre of pasture land in the parish of St. James, and six lugs of ground in the parish of Holy Trinity, which do not seem to have been included in the grant, were conveyed by Robert Bowles, the then surviving trustee, to new trustees for the benefit of the parishioners of the parish of the Holy Trinity towards the reparation of the parish church, with a provision, that when the trustees should be reduced to two, the survivors should convey the premises to six sufficient persons (the minister of the said parish to be one) inhabiting within and paying scot and lot in their own right to the said parish and their heirs upon the trusts aforesaid.

A new appointment of trustees was made in 1741, all of whom died without executing any deed to continue the trust.

About the year 1808 an information (apparently arising out of the political circumstances of the borough) was filed by the Attorney General at the relation of John Ellis and another against Richard Messiter and his wife, the daughter and heir-at-law of John Brickell, who was supposed to have been the surviving trustee in the last preceding trust deed, for an account of the rents and profits of the trust estate, for the appointment of new trustees, and the proper application of the rents in future.

Upon the answer of the defendants, it appeared doubtful whether John Brickell had ever been a feoffee, and consequently whether the legal estate had vested in his daughter; and upon further inquiry the surviving feoffee under the deed of 1741 was found to have been John Hatch, and a conveyance was procured from James Upjohn, then residing at Newfoundland, who was his heir-at-law.

By these deeds, bearing date 23d and 24th August 1809, the premises were conveyed to the use of James Upjohn, William Upjohn, Charles Bowles, Thomas Dowland, George Thomas, and John Therle Deal, as joint feoffees, and their heirs, by the description of all the messuages, cottages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, whatsoever, situate at or near Shaftesbury, or within the liberty of Alcester then or theretofore called the Church Lands of the parish of the Holy Trinity, by whatsoever name or names, or description, the same were called, or known, or described, no trusts being declared.

Holy Trinity.

The church estate now consists of the following particulars:—

1. A house and small garden in Bell-street, near the place where St. Lawrence church formerly stood, now occupied by John Fricker, under a lease granted to John Dyneley in 1816 for 99 years, determinable with the lives of Mary Northcote Upjohn, Lois Upjohn, and Uriah Upjohn, then aged respectively 19, 13, and 9, at the yearly rent of 8*s.*, and on payment of a fine of 65*l.* This house was put into good repair three or four years ago, and is worth about 5*l.* per annum.

2. A house and small garden in Parson's Poole, in the occupation of Charles William Usher, under a lease granted to John Dyneley in 1816 for 99 years, determinable with the lives of Peter Erle and George Gatty, then aged respectively 20 and 15, at the yearly rent of 4*s.* and on payment of a fine of 65*l.* These premises are not in good repair. The value of them is about 4*l.* 10*s.* per annum.

3. A small garden in Ram-street, containing about six lugs, occupied by Henry Foot, under a lease also granted to John Dyneley for 99 years, determinable with the lives of James Thomas and John Thomas, then aged nine and seven, at the rent of 3*s.* and on payment of a fine of 7*l.*, the annual value being about 6*s.*

4. A dwelling-house, stable, and garden, in the parish of St. James, containing about an acre occupied by —— Carter, under a lease, the particulars of which are mentioned hereafter. These premises are worth about 10*l.* per annum, viz. the house 4*l.* and garden 6*l.*

5. Two houses in Bell-street, one occupied by Thomas Ashplant, the other by widow Stayner, each worth about 4*l.* a-year, under a lease granted to James Clarke Thomas in 1825 for the lives of himself, then aged 19, John Clarke Thomas, 17, and Edward Thomas, 13, at the rent of 10*s.* and on payment of a fine of 22*l.*

6. A small garden in Bimport-street, let to Robert Foot, as yearly tenant, at 10*s.* a-year. There was a house on this ground which was in a ruinous state, and a few years ago fell down.

7. A small garden adjoining Castle Hill, occupied by Widow Higgins, at 10*s.* per annum.

The three premises let to Dyneley have been assigned to the Marquis of Westminster, by whom the quit rents are paid.

The fines and rents are received by the trustees and applied by them at the instance of the minister and churchwardens, in the ornamental part of the repairs of the church.

There is now a balance of 5*l.* in the banker's hands, besides a sum of 2*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.* in the savings' bank.

Pending the suit in Chancery, the relators being without any accurate information as to the history and particulars of the church property, had recourse to James Upjohn, (the father of James Upjohn, the conveying party in the deed of 1809,) who then occupied the plot of ground above mentioned, containing about one acre, situate on St. John's Hill, on which an old tenement had stood, and a new tenement had been built by him at his own expense. From this person much important information was obtained. Mr. Upjohn, who held the premises for the life of William London, aged 82, proposed that his son should be at liberty to grant him, at the existing rent, without any fine, a lease of the tenement then occupied by him for the life of his daughter, then aged 33, in reversion upon the existing life. The intended trustees, considering him to have been very instrumental in the recovery of the property, and that the outlay which he had made on the premises entitled him to favourable treatment, did not oppose such an arrangement, and in conformity with this understanding, James Upjohn, the son, executed a lease to his father, bearing date 21st January 1808, whereby, as heir-at-law of the surviving trustee, in consideration of the great expense the said lessee had been at in supporting the old buildings, as well as adding to and building a new tenement, he demised to his said father the close of pasture, containing by estimation one acre, lying in St. James' parish, bounded as therein mentioned, together with a beast-leaze on the common, for a term of 99 years, if Catherine Hatch Upjohn, then aged about 30, should so long live, after the expiration of a lease of the same premises, bearing date the 30th October 1762, determinable upon the lives of three persons, of whom William London only, then aged 82, was living, at the yearly rent of 8*s.* 4*d.*

The particulars of this lease have been set out here, as it has given rise to much local discussion, but it does not appear that the circumstances call for any interference.

BOROUGH OF WAREHAM.

Wareham.

Free School.

Free School.

George Pitt, of Stratfield-Sea, in the county of Southampton, esq., by Will, dated 28th December 1693, after reciting that by certain indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 20th and 21st days of the said month of December, the release being made between the said G. Pitt of the first part, Nicholas Baxter and another, of the second part, and Sir John Morton, bart., Thomas Freke, and two others, of the third part, he the said George Pitt had conveyed all his manors, lordships, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, within the several counties therein named, (except as therein excepted,) to the uses and upon the trusts thereby limited and declared, and, after giving to the poor of Blandford, Shapwicke, Wareham, Stowerpaine, Kingston, Stoborough, and Arne and Sleap, in the county of Dorset, the sum of 50*l.* to be distributed at the discretion of his executors within three months next after his decease; and after giving unto Sir Charles Gerard, bart., and nine others, and their heirs, the manor of Uxbridge, with the rents, fairs, and markets thereunto belonging, upon trust to pay yearly 20*l.* amongst six poor men or women to be nominated by the person who should, by virtue of the said indentures, be entitled unto the actual possession of the manors and hereditaments therein mentioned, lying in the counties of Southampton and Dorset, gave and devised the churches of St. Peter's and St. Michael, two donatives or sinecures, in Wareham, in the county of Dorset, with all tithes and profits whatsoever, arising in respect of the same; and also a messuage in Wareham, called Chaffins, unto his executors and their heirs, upon special trust, to permit the mayor and corporation of Wareham, aforesaid, from time to time to nominate and recommend a person to the same churches, or charge, when the same should happen to be vacant, who should be fitly qualified, to be a schoolmaster in the said town of Wareham, and who should teach the children there inhabiting, to read, write, cast accounts, and in other good literature; and, for the better support and maintenance of the said schoolmaster, the said testator appointed that all the tithes and emoluments of the same churches, and of the said messuage, should be for the benefit and the habitation of the said schoolmaster for the time being; and he also gave him liberty to cut and carry away 10,000 turfs, or peat, yearly from Stoborough common, in Purbeck, in the county of Dorset; and also he appointed to him all his right of horse-leeses on Wareham common, provided that, in case the said mayor and corporation should not nominate a person that should be approved as a schoolmaster by the person who, for the time being, should, by virtue of the said release, be entitled to the actual possession of Stratfield-Sea aforesaid, then the person who for the time being should be so entitled, after he should attain his age of 21 years, and in the mean time the rector or vicar for the time being of the church of Stratfield-Sea, should have full power and authority to present a fit and qualified person to the same churches to be schoolmaster there, and to teach and instruct the children of the said town of Wareham and Stoborough, as he and they in their discretion should think fit: provided also that every such schoolmaster should, at the time of his election, enter into a bond in the penalty of 300*l.* to the person by whom he should be chosen, conditioned for him the said schoolmaster to resign his said benefices and employments, and all profits thereto belonging, by virtue of the said Will, unto such person who, for the time being, should have the right of electing such schoolmaster, for the benefit of such schoolmaster who should so succeed.

It appears that after Mr. Pitt's death the corporation of Wareham, finding it difficult to procure a clergyman to accept the office of master, proposed to his son to reassume his presentations, and to allow to the corporation 20*l.* per annum in lieu thereof, which was accordingly done, and Mr. Pitt for many years presented to the livings when they fell vacant. At the same time Mr. Pitt increased the schoolmaster's stipend to 25*l.* on condition of his receiving the children of Stoborough as well as of Wareham. But the evidence of this agreement being lost, the corporation in 1747 claimed an absolute right of presentation. A suit was thereupon instituted in the Court of Chancery, in which the Attorney General, at the relation of the Corporation of Wareham, was the informant, and the Bishop of Bristol, George Pitt, of Stratfield-Sea, (the grandson of the testator,) and others, were defendants; and by a decree made therein by the Master of the Rolls bearing date 27th June 1754, it was declared that the corporation were not entitled to nominate to the two livings, and that the information, so far as related to such claim, ought to be dismissed; and that the defendant, George Pitt, and his heirs, ought to continue to pay the salary of 20*l.* per annum, and allow the use of the house called Chaffins, rent free, with liberty to cut and carry away 10,000 turfs yearly, on Stoborough common, and the horse-leeses on Wareham common to the schoolmaster for the time being, of his and their own nomination, such schoolmaster to teach and instruct the children of the town of Wareham and Stoborough to read, write, and cast accounts, and other good literature, and it was ordered and decreed that the said payment and allowances should be made accordingly, and that the same should be properly secured for the future, and that it should be referred to Mr. Montague, one of the Masters of the Court, to see the same done accordingly.

It does not appear that any steps were taken before the Master to secure the above annual stipend upon any particular portion of the Pitt estates, but the payment of the sum of 20*l.* was continued, and the master was allowed to remain in the occupation of the premises devised for his use, consisting of the school-house called Chaffins, situate in the West-street of Wareham, and a plot of ground immediately behind the dwelling, being separated from it only by a lane, and which contains about a quarter of an acre.

The building was destroyed by fire in 1763, and has never been restored.

The present master was appointed about 1823, at the recommendation of the mayor and corporation by Lord Rivers, as the representative of the family of the testator, George Pitt, from whom he received the payment of the salary of 20*l.* until Christmas 1830, at which time an objection was raised on the ground that the estates to be charged had never been designated by the Court, and nothing has been since paid. It is stated that there are not at present any such donatives as St. Peter's and St. Michael's, but that these were included in a union of certain livings in Wareham which now make up the rectory of the Holy Trinity in that borough.

The schoolmaster lets the whole of the devised premises (comprising as well the site of the dwelling-house, as the quarter of an acre adjoining it) to a builder for the purposes of his trade, and receives for one portion a rent of 2*l.*, and for the remainder a rent of 1*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.* per annum. He also receives 6*s.* for the right of pasturing two horses on Wareham common.

In respect of the payment of 20*l.*, the master received, at the nomination of the mayor, boys of Wareham and Stoborough between the ages of 8 and 14, to the number of 30, who were instructed in reading, writing, and arithmetic. Notwithstanding the discontinuance of the payment the master has not only received 30 boys, to which number his obligation has been restricted by a regulation of the corporation, but also all such children, properly qualified, as have applied to him.

Wareham.

The present number on his books is 38.

At the time of this inquiry a gentleman of Wareham, impressed with the hardship of the case, had already given instructions to a solicitor to commence proceedings for the enforcement of the above decree, and the recovery of the arrears of the payment. In consequence of his death, which has since occurred, we have now applied to the present Lord Rivers, as the representative of the testator's family, and the party benefited by the non-fulfilment of the decree upon the subject.

Harbin's Charity.

Harbin's Charity.

Henry Harbin, by Will, bearing date 19th July 1703, gave to the corporation of Wareham, by whatever name the same should be called, the sum of 200*l.* in trust to purchase lands in the county of Dorset of the clear yearly value of 10*l.*, to pay the rents thereof yearly to some person to be appointed by them for his pains in instructing poor children of Wareham to read the English tongue, and if the said sum should be insufficient to purchase lands to the clear yearly value of 10*l.* he desired that it should be put out by the said corporation, until the interest thereof, being added to the said principal sum, should be sufficient to purchase lands of that value, and should then be laid out accordingly.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 26th and 27th December 1709, William Rolles, in consideration of 250*l.*, granted and released to the mayor, capital burgesses, and assistants of the borough of Wareham, and their successors, a messuage or tenement, and divers closes of arable and meadow land situate at Bothenwood, and also certain closes and parcels of land situate at Uddings and Holt, in the parish of Wimborne Minster and in the parish of Chalbury, therein particularly described.

And, by an indenture of lease, bearing date the same 27th December 1709, the said mayor, capital burgesses, and assistants, demised the several lands and tenements aforesaid at Bothenwood, Uddings, Holt, and Chalbury, to the said William Rolles, to hold the same for a term of 5000 years, without impeachment of waste, at the yearly rent of 10*l.*, to be paid to the said mayor, capital burgesses, and assistants, in the church porch of the parish of Lady Saint Mary, in Wareham, by quarterly payments at the four usual feasts.

And, by a deed poll, under the seal of the said corporation, bearing date 28th December 1709, reciting the gift of the said Henry Harbin, and that by reason of the dearness of land the said corporation had been unable to purchase with 200*l.* land to the yearly value of 10*l.*, and further reciting the said conveyance by the said William Rolles, and the said demise to him for 5000 years, it was declared that the said sum of 250*l.* was the amount of the said principal sum of 200*l.* given by the said Henry Harbin, and the interest thereof, and that the said rent of 10*l.* was vested in the said corporation in trust for such person as should be appointed for instructing poor children of Wareham to read the English tongue pursuant to the said Will.

This sum of 10*l.* per annum is received by half-yearly payments from the steward of William John Bankes, esq., the proprietor of that part of the premises charged, called Bothenwood Farm.

It is paid to a schoolmistress in the town appointed by the corporation, and she teaches in respect of it such children as are nominated by the mayor, under eight years of age, not exceeding 30 in number. They do not now amount to so many. She also receives other children, for whom their parents pay.

Streche's Almshouses.

Streche's Almshouses.

No history of the origin of this charity is found in such of the records of the borough as remain, many of which are believed to have been maliciously destroyed by a former town clerk while confined in the King's Bench prison.

Among the documents of the charity there are no trust deeds now to be found of an earlier date than 1712, and of these none contain any recital of the foundation, but in some of the old leases, dated between 1675 and 1700, the grantors are described as feoffees in trust of a certain almshouse in the borough of Wareham, and the lands thereunto belonging, "of the gift and foundation of John Streche, esq., long since deceased."

It appears to have been the practice always to elect the recorder and the seven capital burgesses of the borough (of whom the mayor is one) as trustees of this charity, but a conveyance has not usually been executed to them until the number of those in whom the legal estate is vested has been reduced to three or four.

The succession of trustees has for the last 120 years been regularly kept up. The last conveyance was by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th April 1834, whereby Edward Dean, mayor, and Stephen White and Harry Hammond, capital burgesses of the borough, described as the only surviving feoffees in trust of the premises thereinafter mentioned, belonging to the almshouse in Wareham, conveyed the trust estate to the use of themselves and Thomas Bartlett, recorder, Thomas Pink, Vice-admiral Joseph Hanwell, Henry Everingham, and Joseph Staines Cope, capital burgesses of the said borough, upon trust, to permit the mayor of the said borough for the time being to receive the rents and profits of the premises, and, after deducting for proper repairs and necessary charges, to pay over the same by equal quarterly payments to such poor people as should from time to time be placed in the same almshouse, with the consent of the mayor and magistrates of the said borough; and, when any vacancy should happen in the almshouse by the death or removal of any of the poor people, to permit the said mayor and magistrates, or the greater part of them, of whom the mayor should be one, from time to time to nominate and place in the same almshouse other poor people of the said borough in their stead, who should most stand in need of the same, and whom the said mayor and magistrates in their discretion and judgment should think fit and best deserving of the said charity; and also to permit the said mayor and magistrates, from time to time, to fill up leases and state out such of the premises as had been usually leased, and stated out by lease, for 99 years, determinable on lives, for the worth and value thereof, reserving the ancient and accustomed rents and services, and to take the fine and fines arising thereby for the use of the said poor people, to be preserved for and applied from time to time towards the necessary buildings and repairs of the said almshouse and of the messuages and buildings thereto belonging, as there should be occasion.

Thomas Pink is since deceased, and Charles Basket, esq., the mayor, (December 1835,) has been elected in his room.

Wareham.

The trustees have also a sum of 1,350*l.* 6*s.* 11*d.*, Three per Cent. Consols, principally the produce of sales of timber cut on Bayly Ridge Farm, standing in the names of George Hooton Hyde, Stephen White, Henry Hammond, and Thomas Pink, (of whom Stephen White and Harry Hammond are now living,) producing annually 40*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*; also three sums of 50*l.* each, secured on the Wareham-turnpike tolls, the interest on which now amounts to 6*l.* 15*s.* per annum.

The almshouse, which appears, by an inscription on the front, to have been rebuilt in the year 1741, by the then members for the borough, is situate in East-street, Wareham, and consists of 11 rooms, and an apartment in the centre, used as a chapel, and for other purposes in common, with fuel-houses and other conveniences at the back.

The income of the charity, which amounts, with very trifling variations, to 165*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, is disposed of by the mayor as follows.

The repairs of the almshouse, which, on an average of 10 years, have not exceeded 5*l.* per annum.

There is paid to each of 11 almspeople 13*l.* per annum, viz. 3*l.* 5*s.* on each of the following days:

There is an annual meeting in October or November, when the accounts are audited and the balance handed over to the mayor for the ensuing year. On making up the accounts, in October 1835, there was a balance in hand of 68*l.* 3*s.* 7*d.*

The almspeople, of whom six are men and five women, are appointed by the feoffees, at meetings which are called for the purpose, upon the occurrence of vacancies. The applications are usually very numerous.

The trustees make their selection from the most deserving and necessitous parishioners of Wareham not under 60 years of age. One of the rules of admission is, that the parties shall attend prayers in the house on Fridays, and the church service on Sundays.

A complaint was made of the systematic exclusion of Dissenters from the benefits of this establishment; in answer to which three very recent instances (among others) were adduced of reputed Dissenters having been elected. As the parties were certainly believed to be such by the trustees, the allegation of the complainants in reply, that the individuals in question had ceased to be Dissenters for some months, or years, previous to their election, becomes of the less weight, and it seemed unnecessary to go into the inquiry; the good feeling of the trustees being, in cases of this nature, the only efficient check upon undue partiality.

BERNARD MITCHELL'S CHARITY.

Bernard Mitchell's Charity.

The particulars of this charity are stated in our 29th Report, p. 109.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is paid by Mrs. Luce, the lessee of the King's Head, Weymouth, and is distributed by the churchwardens with the following charity.

LADY HOLFORD'S CHARITY.

Lady Holford's Charity.

Dame Elizabeth Holford, by Will, bearing date 19th November 1717, gave to the minister and churchwardens of Wareham, for the use of the poor of the said parish, 10*l.* a-year, to be distributed as the said minister and churchwardens should think fit: and she charged an estate, called Marsh Farm, in the parish of Bloxworth, and lands called Parson's Close and South Brook, in the parish of Bere Regis, with the payment thereof.

The sum of 8*l.* 16*s.* 4*d.*, (1*l.* 3*s.* 8*d.* being deducted for land tax,) is paid annually in two sums of 5*l.* 5*s.* 9*d.* and 3*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.*, the former by James Swyer, tenant of the premises in Bloxworth, which are now the property of J. S. W. S. Erle Drax, esq., and the latter by James Kitcat, tenant of land in Bere Regis, also belonging to the same owner. This apportionment of the rent charge is made in pursuance of an arrangement effected in 1787 between the then respective owners of the premises charged that 6*l.*, or three-fifths of the rent charge of 10*l.*, should be paid by the owner for the time being of the premises in Bloxworth, and 4*l.*, the remaining two-fifths, by the owner of the premises in Bere Regis.

The amount is distributed with Bernard Mitchell's charity, by the rector and churchwardens, on Easter eve and Christmas eve, in sums under 1*s.*, amongst all the poor of the parish, about 180 in number. Their names, and the sums given to each, are regularly entered in a book kept for the purpose.

GILES'S CHARITY.

Giles's Charity.

Humphrey Giles, after making a codicil to his Will, dated 29th December 1787, containing a bequest of certain leasehold lands to charitable purposes, which was void by the statute of Mortmain, by a second codicil thereto, dated 9th February 1789, gave to the rector of the Holy Trinity, the recorder, and the mayor of the borough of Wareham for the time being, 300*l.* New South Sea Annuities, in trust, to pay the interest of 200*l.*, part thereof, yearly, to four poor widows, or maidens, and two poor men, and the interest of the remaining 100*l.* to six young men and six young maidens (the objects of the said void bequest), who should be found entitled to certain silver medals, of the value of 5*s.* each, directed to be given as mentioned in the said former codicil.

Wareham.

Sarah Giles, widow of the said Humphrey, by Will, dated 20th October 1790, gave to the rector of the Holy Trinity, and the recorder and mayor of the said borough, 400*l.* New South Sea Annuities, in trust, to apply the dividends among four poor widows, or maidens, and two poor men, who should have been inhabitants of the said borough, legally settled upwards of three years last past, and not less than 60 years of age, of sober life and conversation, receiving no parish relief or charity exceeding 40*s.* a-year respectively, and not in the possession of a clear yearly income of more than 10*l.*, provided they should respectively produce to the said trustees certificates signed by the minister and churchwardens of the parish in which they were parishioners, or, if dissenters, then signed by the minister of that congregation which such dissenters should have most usually attended for the last three years of their residence in Wareham, and by the overseers of such parish, of their being proper and deserving objects, with a power to the said trustees to remove the parties receiving the charity at their discretion and appoint others in their room. And, after reciting that there was a doubt as to the validity of the gift contained in the said second codicil to the Will of her said husband, and that the sum of 300*l.* New South Sea Annuities would vest in her in case of the said bequest being invalid, she thereby further confirmed the said gift, and gave the said sum to the same uses as she had thereinbefore given the said sum of 400*l.* like stock, and she declared the said gift to be in lieu of the benefits intended by her said husband in making such void devise as aforesaid.

By a codicil to her said Will, bearing date 12th September 1794, the said Sarah Giles gave to the feoffees of the alms land devised by the Will of John Streche, of Exeter, 100*l.* New South Sea Annuities, in trust, to divide the interest thereof equally among such poor persons as should receive from them shares of the said charity. And, by another codicil, bearing date 30th September 1802, she gave a further sum of 100*l.* like stock to the said feoffees, in trust, to apply the dividends for the benefit of the poor people of the said almshouse in such manner as they should think proper.

The Will of Sarah Giles has been considered as the operative declaration of the trusts of the 300*l.* New South Sea Stock, as well as of the 400*l.* and 200*l.*, and the trusts of the second codicil to Humphrey Giles's Will have been neglected.

An account was rendered by the executrix of Sarah Giles, in 1810, whereby, after payment of the legacy duty, and expenses from an arrear of the dividends, the full sum of 700*l.* stock was carried to the credit of the three trustees appointed for the first branch of the charity, and the full sum of 200*l.* stock to the credit of the feoffees of the alms lands in trust for the second branch of the charity.

The sum of 700*l.* New South Sea Annuities is still standing in the names of the parties to whom it was originally transferred, viz., the Rev. George Hooton Hyde, the Right Honourable Nathaniel Bond, and John Card, all now deceased, but directions have been given for the transfer into the names of the present rector, recorder, and mayor.

The sum of 200*l.* like annuities is also still standing in the names of the said Nathaniel Bond, John Card, John Dampier, and Jonathan Lawrence.

The dividends of the former sum (amounting to 21*l.*) are divided equally among four poor women and two poor men, who come within the terms prescribed by the Will. They are nominated by the rector, the recorder, and the mayor, and are continued for life. The certificate of the rector and churchwardens is entered in the minute book.

The dividends of the 200*l.* stock are paid over to the mayor yearly, who, in the month of February, divides them equally (10*s.* 11*d.* to each) between the 11 inmates of the almshouses.

Bird's Charity.

Bird's Charity.

Stephen Bird, by Will, dated 27th June 1806, proved in the diocese of Bristol, 10th January 1810, bequeathed all his goods and chattels to George Filliter and Jonathan Lawrence, and their executors and administrators, in trust, to convert the same into money, and after the decease of certain persons therein named, he gave the said personal estate and effects to his said executors, and to the minister and churchwardens of the several parishes in the town of Wareham for the time being, and their successors, upon trust, to invest the same on Government or other securities, and to distribute the interest and dividends thereof among all and every the poor inhabitants of every sect and denomination belonging to and residing in the borough and parish of Wareham, every year, on the 26th November, but if that day should happen to be on a Sunday, then on the day following. And he ordered that his said Will should be read over by his said trustees, the minister and churchwardens, or one of them, in the parish church of Lady Saint Mary, in Wareham, once in every three years, at the time of distributing the said dividends; and he empowered his said trustees to distribute the said dividends in such proportions as they should think proper. Provided that if his said Will should be omitted to be read as therein mentioned, he revoked the said bequest, and gave the same to the minister and churchwardens of the parish to which Portsmouth Common belonged, in trust, to pay the said dividends among the poor inhabitants residing on Portsmouth Common at the times and in the manner aforesaid, and also his Will to be read as thereinbefore mentioned with respect to the poor of Wareham.

The survivor of the tenants for life, named in the Will, died in the year 1827, when the bequest to the charity came into operation.

The property now consists of 500*l.* in the Three per Cent. Consols, standing in the names of George Filliter and the Rev. Richard Foyle, the rector of the united parishes of Lady Saint Mary, Saint Martin, and the Holy Trinity, in Wareham. A bond for 60*l.* and a bond for 40*l.* on the Dorchester and Wool turnpike, at Four per Cent.; a bond for 50*l.* on the Wareham turnpike, bearing interest at four and a half per cent.; and five several bonds for 50*l.* each on the same turnpike, bearing interest at four and a half per cent. Wareham.

The dividends and interest, amounting to 32*l.* 10*s.*, are received by Mr. Filliter, and, after deducting a charge of 1*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* for postage, commission, and stamps, 10*s.* 6*d.* for preparing the list, and 4*s.* 6*d.* for expenses, are distributed by him annually on the 26th November (the birthday of the testator), in conjunction with the rector and the churchwardens, who attend for that purpose at the church.

The sums given vary from 1*s.* to 5*s.*, according to the numbers in family. To the widows 2*s.* 6*d.* each is usually given. An account is kept in which are entered the names of the parties receiving the charity, and which is signed by the minister and churchwardens.

SUB-DIVISION OF BADBURY.

PARISH OF WIMBORNE MINSTER

CHURCH AND GRAMMAR SCHOOL CORPORATION.

Wimborne Minster.

Church & Grammar School Corporation.

The church of Wimborne Minster, as appears from the recitals of a charter now no longer in force, granted by Queen Elizabeth, was, before the Reformation, a collegiate church, endowed with lands and tithes, and consisting of a dean and four prebendaries, by whom were supported four presbyters or parish priests, and four clerks, to perform divine service in the church, and discharge the cure of souls in the parish.

Margaret Countess of Richmond and Derby, in the eleventh year of King Henry VII., procured letters patent, empowering her, or her executors, to found a chantry in this church, but, dying before it was accomplished, her intention was carried into effect by her executors, who, in the second year of King Henry VIII., endowed and established a chantry in the said church, with the consent of the dean and chapter, and appointed a chaplain to be resident there, in a house appointed by them, to teach grammar to all comers in the manner used in the schools of Eton or Winchester.

In the statutes which prescribed the duties of the chaplain were contained various superstitious uses.

The college and chantry were dissolved by the statute 1 Edward VI., and their possessions were seized by the Crown, but there was continued from the Exchequer a stipend of 40*l.* per annum, to be divided between the four parish priests and four clerks, and to the schoolmaster a salary of 10*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* per annum.

This provision being but small and ill paid, application for further assistance was made by the parishioners to Queen Elizabeth, who, in the fifth year of her reign (at the instance of Lord Mountjoy), created the governors of the school into a corporation, and endowed it with the possessions which the church had formerly held (then of the yearly value of 89*l.* 18*s.*), but subject to certain leases, and reserving to the Crown a rent of 40*l.* per annum. From the annual revenue of the property so granted the corporation was bound to support a schoolmaster, three priests, and three clerks.

These letters patent were questioned in the reign of James I., but were confirmed by that king, and in consideration of the payment of a sum of 600*l.* the reserved rent of 40*l.* was released to the governors. A further question arose in the reign of King Charles I., when, by common consent of the parishioners, the governors surrendered their charter, and, at the cost of 1,000*l.* paid to the Crown, obtained that under which they now act, and of which the substance is given in the following abstract:

By letters patent, bearing date 25th March, in the fourteenth year of his reign (1639), reciting the above-mentioned charter of Queen Elizabeth, and also reciting the ratification thereof by King James I., by letters patent, bearing date 16th August, in the eleventh year of his reign, and that the said king had released to the governors the reserved rent of 40*l.*; and further reciting that a writ of scire facias had been issued against the said governors for revoking the said letters patent of Queen Elizabeth and King James; and that the said governors had surrendered the same to be cancelled, the said King Charles, in consideration of 1,000*l.* paid into the Exchequer by the said governors, ordained the said free grammar school to be general, free, and common to all his subjects within the kingdom of England for instructing their sons; that it should be called the grammar school of the foundation of Queen Elizabeth, in Wimborne Minster, and that in the said school there should be for ever one schoolmaster and one usher sufficiently learned in the science of grammar, and apt and proper to teach grammar; and also that there should be in the church of Wimborne Minster three priests and three clerks to celebrate divine service and discharge the cure of souls of the parishioners there, and four choristers, two singers, and one organist to assist in the celebration of divine service. And it was thereby ordained that there should be 12 men of the more discreet and honest inhabitants of the said town and parish to be governors of the possessions of the school, and Thomas Hanham, and 11 others, were thereby constituted the first governors, to be a body corporate by the name of the governors of the possessions, revenues, and goods of the free grammar school of Queen Elizabeth, in Wimborne Minster, in the county of Dorset, to have perpetual succession, with power to hold lands, tithes, and other hereditaments; and it was ordained, that when any of the governors for the time being should die, or reside with their family out of the parish of Wimborne Minster, those surviving and tarrying there, or the major part of them, should appoint other proper persons, inhabitants of the said town and parish, in their places. And the said king thereby, for the consideration aforesaid, granted and confirmed to the said governors, and their successors, for ever, all tithes of corn, grain, and grass, growing or renewing in Barnsley, in the said parish of Wimborne Minster; and also the second prebend in the said late college of Wimborne, called the second stall, and all the said tithes in Kingston, and also one-fourth part of the tithes in the parish of Wimborne, and also certain annual rents of 5*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*, 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, and 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* reserved thereout under former grants; and also all tithes in Barnsley aforesaid belonging to the third prebend in the said late college, and also the first and fourth prebends in the said late college; and also all tithes of corn, grain, and grass, and other tithes whatsoever, annually growing or renewing within the parish of Wimborne and elsewhere, to the four prebends of the late college of Wimborne belonging or appertaining, and all portions of tithes in the vills, fields, parishes, or hamlets of Holt, Kingston, Lacy, Shapwick, Critchill, and Pimperne, to the said late college belonging, and the tithes of Badbury Warren, and of a water-mill called Bucketts Mill, in Wimborne. Also a pension of 10*s.* to the said late college formerly belonging, annually issuing out of the rectory of Pimperne; a pension of 13*s.* 4*d.* issuing out of the rectory of Shapwicke; a pension of 10*s.* out of the rectory of Stanbridge, and a pension of 2*s.* out of the rectory of Hampreston; and all other tithes, pensions, portions, ecclesiastical rights, profits, and jurisdictions, and all other prerogatives and spiritual hereditaments in Wimborne, Holt, Kingston Lacy, Shapwicke, Critchill, Pimperne, Badbury, Stanbridge, and Hampreston, which to the said late college or prebendaries in any wise belonged, and which were, or ought to be, in the said king's hands, by reason of the statute of 1 Edward VI., or any other Act of Parliament, or by reason of the surrender aforesaid, or any other lawful means, right, or title. And the said king also granted to the governors the house called the school-house, with the appurtenances, and all those four messuages or edifices, with the appurtenances called priests' houses, in Wimborne, with the appurtenances, except only a certain barn, and a rent of 13*s.* 4*d.* therein mentioned to be held of the manor of East Greenwich, by fealty only, in free socage. And the said governors were thereby empowered to use a common seal, and to sue and be sued by their corporate name. And the said governors thereby covenanted that they and their successors would from thenceforth, at their own costs, find one master and one usher proper and sufficiently learned in the science of grammar and capable to teach grammar, being first duly licensed, who should be continually resident in the said parish, and should diligently teach grammar in the said school-house to all and singular thither coming to be instructed and educated in grammar, in such manner and form and at such times as were or should be used in the grammar school of Eton or Winchester, without any thing to be required for the same, except by the gift, allowance, and provision of the said governors; and that they, the said governors, at their own charges, would find three proper and honest priests for ministers, and three clerks, who should continually reside in the said parish, and continually attend the church in divine services and administer the sacrament, and discharge the cure of souls there, and also four choristers, two singing-men, and one organist, for celebrating and assisting in divine service. The governors to have power to nominate the schoolmaster and usher, priests and other officers, and to appoint their salaries, and for reasonable cause to remove them and appoint others in their place, so that the removal of the priests, or either of them, should not be done without the bishop of Bristol being first consulted. And the said king further granted to the governors full power and authority, with the advice of the bishop of Bristol for the time being, to make statutes and ordinances in writing for the order and government of the school, and of the master, usher, and scholars, and of the priests and other officers, and their stipends and salaries, and the government, preservation, and disposition of the rents and revenues for sustaining the school, priests, and offices. And the said king also released to the governors the annual rent of 40*l.*, reserved under the letters patent of Queen Elizabeth. And in the said letters patent was contained a covenant on the part of the governors to pay all charges affecting the premises, and to support and maintain the chancel of the church and the houses and edifices aforesaid; and the governors were thereby empowered to demise the tithes and other premises thereby granted, and all lands and hereditaments thereafter to be acquired by them, to any person for any fine or fines for the term of 21 years, or less, or for 99 years, or less, in possession, determinable on the death of one, two, or three persons, and under such annual rents as by the said governors should be thought reasonable, without diminution of the then value thereof, and out of the fines so to be levied to pay the said sum of 1,000*l.*, and all expenses of obtaining the said letters patent. And the governors further covenanted out of the said rents to maintain the said priests, schoolmaster, and other officers, and to pay them such annual stipends as they had received within three years then last past.

From the date of the above-recited charter the succession of governors has been kept up by elections by the survivors as vacancies in the corporate body occurred. The appointment is by an instrument under the corporate seal, of which an entry is made in the minute-book. The qualification of residence within the parish at the time of election is considered indispensable; but the office of governor has not been deemed to be vacated by the act of removing from the parish.

The names of the present governors are—

The whole of the above-named gentlemen are resident except George Bankes, esq., and William Hanham, esq., who is the eldest son of Sir James Hanham, bart., the proprietor of the largest estate in the parish next to that of Mr. Bankes. Mr. Castleman has long been the agent, and Messrs. Hart and Martin tenants of the Bankes family.

The property of the governors comprises the tithes of the parish of Wimborne Minster, (the whole of which are comprehended under the several descriptions of the premises granted by the charter of king Charles;) certain portions of tithes, pensions, and small rents hereafter enumerated; the school-house, with its garden and play-ground; and a dwelling-house, called the Priest's House.

To meet the debt incurred in procuring the charter of king Charles I., the power of leasing for fines was necessarily resorted to by the governors, and this practice was long continued; but as the debt was liquidated, the system of letting the tithes for terms determinable upon lives was dropped, and the income (which, at the granting of the charter, amounted to 242*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*) was gradually, though very slowly, increased.

In 1772 a lease of the tithes of Kingston Hall Farm, granted to Harry Constantine upon lives in 1695, at a rent of 8*l.*, expired, and the tithes were thereupon let upon a yearly composition at 40*l.* per annum. Little alteration was made in the amount collected for tithes during the next 35 years; but, in 1807, an order was given by the governors for a new survey and valuation of the tithes of the parish by a surveyor named Crutchley. This was directed to be made, not at such a rate as should produce any given proportion of the real value of the tithes, but such as should give the charity an income from the tithes of about 600*l.* per annum. The valuation was made, and the composition produced 578*l.*, to which an addition of 10*l.* per cent. was made in 1817, and a similar addition in 1818. The income from tithes was thus raised to about 700*l.*, and at this point it has since remained without alteration.

The governors also receive the following pensions or portions of tithe from the parishes mentioned in the charter:—

The school-house, which is situate in the town of Wimborne Minster, is a respectable and commodious dwelling, in good repair, with a very good school-room. A garden and play-ground are attached to it; the latter of which, comprising 37 perches, was acquired under an arrangement effected in the year 1787 with Sir William Hanham, bart., to whom the governors released a disputed right to use for the exercise of the scholars, a somewhat larger space.

Of the four priests' houses mentioned in the charter, only one is now existing, which is situate opposite the school, and is always occupied by one of the three ministers. It is at present held by the Rev. Phelips Hanham, at a rent of 6*l.* per annum. The earliest accounts and minutes of the corporation have been searched to find some trace of the other three priests' houses, but without success; and the repeated mention there made of the "priest's house," which has always been the habitation of one of the ministers, makes the conjecture probable that the word "houses" in the charter referred merely to sites of dwellings formerly existing, and which, if they ever formed part of the possessions of the governors, may have been destroyed in a fire, by which this property is known to have suffered to a great extent about 25 years before the date of the existing charter.

In addition to the above property, the governors are possessed of 500*l.* Three and a half per Cent. stock, invested from savings, and standing in the names of Henry Bankes and William Evans.

The total income is therefore as follows:—

Wimborne Minster.

By the terms of their charter it has been seen that the governors were bound to maintain the schoolmaster and usher, to provide three ministers for the cure of souls in the parish, with 10 other officers for the services of the church, and to repair the chancel.

The establishment, maintained for the discharge of the duties connected with the church, consists of the three ministers, three clerks, each of whom is attached to one of the ministers, and also acts as a singing-man, three other singing-men, six choristers, and an organist.

The appointments of the ministers, as well as of the other officers, are made by entries in the corporation minute-book, and purport to be "during the will and pleasure" of the governors.

The present ministers are the Rev. Sir James Hanham, bart., the Rev. Charles Bowle, and the Rev. Phelips Hanham. By these gentlemen are performed in rotation the ordinary parochial duties, with the usual service of the church of Wimborne Minster, as well as of the chapel of Holt (a hamlet of the parish) on Sundays. In the church the cathedral service is performed on Sundays, and on every other day in the week prayers are read at 11 o'clock.

To each of the ministers is paid a stipend of 100*l.* per annum on St. Thomas's day. The three clerks receive a salary of 9*l.* 14*s.* each, which includes the remuneration for their services as singing-men, and 2*l.* is also allowed them for cleaning the choir. The three singing-men receive 6*l.* 6*s.* per annum, and the six choristers 3*l.* 3*s.* per annum each. The organist has now a salary of 40*l.*, having been recently raised from 35*l.* All are bound to attend the service twice on Sundays, and one of the clerks to officiate at the daily service. To the clerk of Holt chapel is paid 2*l.* 8*s.* per annum.

The head master is also appointed without any formal document. The present master, the Rev. James Mayo, was appointed from the situation of under-master, which he had filled for 20 years, in 1822. He receives a salary of 38*l.* per annum, and has the use, free of rent and taxes, of the school-house, which, by a contract with the governors, he is bound to keep in tenantable repair in consideration of receiving a sum of 15*l.* yearly. The house is capable of accommodating about 30 boarders. The master considers himself bound to receive, without any special nomination by the governors, all such boys as present themselves for instruction in the classics upon payment of a fee of 1*l.* 1*s.* to himself, and 10*s.* 6*d.* to the under-master. These fees, which are paid annually, as well as upon entrance, have been demanded and paid for at least 50 years past; but there is no record by which we can speak with confidence as to a longer period. For instruction in writing, arithmetic, and geography, a further charge of 10*s.* 6*d.* per quarter is made, raising the total payment by each boy to 3*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* per annum, besides the cost of books and the other ordinary school requisites.

There were at the time of this inquiry 25 day-boys in the school on the above terms, and 15 boarders, who were taught in the same manner and in the same classes with them. For each of these the under-master is paid the usual fee of 10*s.* 6*d.* annually. All were receiving instruction in the classics, but none in the classics exclusively. The master stated that he had been for some time in the habit of taking boys for the purpose of learning reading, writing, and arithmetic only; but that, in order to preserve the distinction of a classical school, he was compelled to discourage the great influx of scholars of this class, first, by raising his terms to 5*l.* 5*s.* or 6*l.* 6*s.* per annum, and ultimately by insisting upon all learning Latin.

The under-master, Mr. Highmore, has hitherto received a salary of 30*l.* per annum, which has been recently raised to 40*l.* He has no further emolument, except the 10*s.* 6*d.* paid annually by each scholar.

The total yearly stipends now paid for the maintenance of the church and school are therefore as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| To the three ministers, 100*l.* each | 300 | 0 | 0 |
| „ head-master | 38 | 0 | 0 |
| „ under-master | 40 | 0 | 0 |
| „ organist | 40 | 0 | 0 |
| „ three clerks, 9*l.* 14*s.* each | 29 | 2 | 0 |
| „ „ allowance for cleaning the choir | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| „ three singing-men, 6*l.* 6*s.* each | 18 | 18 | 0 |
| „ six choristers, 3*l.* 3*s.* each | 18 | 18 | 0 |
| „ clerk of Holt chapel | 2 | 8 | 0 |
| £ | 489 | 6 | 0 |

The expense attending the repair of the chancel has been extremely small. Except in one instance, about six years ago, when a part of the lead was stripped from the roof by a storm, it would appear that scarce 40*l.* has been devoted to this purpose during the last 30 years, and the structure exhibits many signs of having suffered by the neglect.

The governors meet always for the transaction of business on St. Thomas's day, when they dine together, and usually on two or three other days in the year, which are not fixed till the necessity for a summons arises. Each takes the office of receiver in rotation, and in that capacity collects the composition for tithes and the rents, and makes the several payments, but gives no security for his receipts. He has a salary of 15*l.* per annum, and is allowed to make a charge of 4*l.* 4*s.* and 6*s.* 8*d.* for trouble attending the preparation of the accounts, &c.

A statement of the expenditure of the corporation for the last six years is here annexed. It should be observed, (to explain the great increase under the head of rates and taxes in 1833,) that a new valuation of the parish was made for the purposes of a poor-rate in 1832, under which the tithe property of the corporation was for the first time assessed.

The mode in which the revenues of the corporation have been administered, in reference to the objects for which it was created and endowed, must now be considered. It was, of course, not within the purview of the charter to give a beneficial interest in the property to the governors, who, by one of their earliest acts, admitted to the full extent their obligation to improve it to the utmost, for the furtherance of its legitimate purposes. In the corporation minute-book is recorded an agreement by the governors, dated 26th January 1658, whereby, after reciting the charter of Queen Elizabeth, their purchase of the reserved rent of 40*l.* from King James, their subsequent purchase of a new charter from King Charles at the price of 1,000*l.*, the expenses of which were 300*l.* more, which sums they had raised by fines upon leases of the property, then near expiring; and reciting their covenant to allow the masters, ministers, and clerks, as great stipends as they had at the time of the grant, being about 140*l.* a-year, which they then greatly exceeded; it was agreed that any further increase of the rents should be applied in increase of the stipends of the three ministers, until they reached 300*l.* a-year, to be apportioned as the governors should appoint; and then by advancing any of the rents, or by tithes in kind, to increase the master to 40*l.*, and the submaster to 20*l.* a-year. The duration of the leases granted upon lives, and for terms upon fines, long prevented the promised increase of the official stipends. To those of the ministers an addition of 3*l.* per annum was made in the year 1717, and of 3*l.* more in 1739, when they amounted to 53*l.* per annum only; the last increase being withheld from one of the ministers on the ground of his holding the priest's house. In 1743 the schoolmaster's salary was raised from 34*l.* to 38*l.*, its present amount. The income of the three ministers was subsequently augmented to 66*l.* per annum. This continued to be its limit till the year 1804, when, the value of the tithes being notoriously far beyond the amount collected by the governor's pittance, a remonstrance in the most unobjectionable terms was addressed by the ministers to the governors. The only answer which this received was an absolute refusal to entertain any proposal on the subject unless the applicants would explicitly disclaim the demand of an increase of stipend as a matter of right. After some correspondence, and an interval of some months, the stipends were raised to 80*l.* per annum, with an intimation by the governors that the concession was made only upon the understanding that the then ministers should never again provoke the discussion.

At this period, and for the last half-century, the influence of the Bankes family so far predominated in the corporation as to place every one who was nominated to a place in it, or who was appointed to any of the offices in its gift, under the sense of personal obligation to the head of that family; a feeling of delicacy towards whom operated to prevent complaint on the part of the gentlemen filling the situations in question; and, though a great and general dissatisfaction with the conduct of the governors pervaded the district, neither the influence of the diocesan, nor the power of the Court of Chancery, was ever called in aid.

In 1829, the tithes being raised upon Mr. Crutchley's valuation, in the mode above described, the stipends of the ministers were increased to 100*l.* per annum, but no augmentation was granted to the master.

In 1832 a new survey and valuation of the parish of Wimborne Minster was made for the purpose of a poor's-rate, by Mr. Poole, a highly respectable land-surveyor, residing at Sherborne.

By this survey the parish of Wimborne Minster was ascertained to contain 11,968 A. 3 R. 18 P., and the annual rental was then estimated at 15,669*l.* 3*s.* The principal proprietors being as follows:

The tithes were valued by Mr. Poole at 1,563*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* per annum. Upon the parish officers proposing to act upon this valuation, the late Mr. Bankes lodged an appeal to quash the rate, on the ground that it did not include the trade of the town. Witnesses were summoned to the Dorchester sessions, but the parish officers, without going into the merits, consented that an order should be made to quash the rate. A second rate was then made by Mr. Poole, including the trade of the town, (which amounted to 826*l.* only,) and generally upon a lower scale. In making the reduction for the purpose of the rate, one-half was taken from the estimated value at rack-rent of the houses, and one-third from that of the land. In this manner the estimated value of the land was fixed at 9,356*l.* 18*s.* per annum, and that of the tithes, when worked out upon such reduced value of the land, agreeably to a formula of which Mr. Poole, from long experience, conceived himself to have ascertained the correctness, at 1,091*l.* 2*s.* per annum. At this sum they now stand in the rate finally adopted by the parish. Whether the original valuation was too high has been questioned, but the fact was not satisfactorily established. Mr. Poole's opinion was very distinctly expressed to us, that at no period since the year 1800 have the tithes been worth less than at present, and that, upon the whole, no injustice would have been done to the landowners of the parish if the amount fixed by him in 1832 had been paid by them during the whole of the last 35 years.

This state of facts had not at the time of our inquiry (November 1835) produced any new arrangement by the governors, and it was intimated that they had been deterred from it partly by the consideration of expense, and partly by the conviction that the subject of tithes would speedily undergo a revision by the Legislature. To neither of these reasons can any weight be assigned; to the latter indeed an obvious suspicion attaches.

The prevailing feeling certainly is that, the interest of the landowners of the parish having been all along directly involved in the question, their influence has been exerted to protect that interest to the grievous prejudice of the proper objects of the endowment; that, while it is clear that, as trustees for the church and school, the governors were bound to let the property to the best advantage, yet during the last 35 years at least, to go no further back, many thousands of pounds, which might have been received without affording to the tithe-payer any shadow of ground for complaint, have been suffered to remain in the pocket of the landed proprietors, among whom it has been the usual practice to let their lands tithe free. It has been a matter of great regret that the parties at whose instance the machinery of a Court of Equity could with propriety be set in motion should, by various considerations, have been restrained from putting themselves forward, as the funds of the charity would have afforded ample means for securing the more efficient discharge of the parochial and other duties of the clergymen in the remote parts of this extensive parish. The service of the church itself, which has been a source of constant dispute between the governors and the inferior officers, might have been better provided for, and the exaction of an annual payment from his scholars by the master, in contravention of the terms of the charter, the consequence of his inadequate remuneration, would have been avoided.

To these objects we have now thought it our duty to call the attention of His Majesty's Attorney-General.

Gillingham's School and Almshouses.

GILLINGHAM'S SCHOOL AND ALMSHOUSES.

Roger Gillingham, of the Middle Temple, London, esq., by Will, dated 2d July 1695, devised his annual fee-farm rent of 78*l.* 6*s.* 2¾*d.*, and all other rents whatsoever belonging to him, issuing out of the manor of Shitlington, or elsewhere, in the county of Bedford, which he had purchased of Dr. Peter Barwyke, to his cousin, Roger Gillingham, in tail, with remainder to his cousin, Roger Bramble, in tail, with remainder to his cousin, Roger Thurborne, in fee, charged with an annual sum of 10*l.* to a schoolmaster, in the town of Luton, in the county of Bedford, to be appointed as therein mentioned; and he also gave and devised to his said cousins, for the like estates, all his messuages or tenements in Curriers' Alley, alias Stone-cutters' Street, near Shoe Lane, in the parish of Saint Bride's, alias Bridget's, London, then in lease, under the yearly ground-rent of 40*l.*; and he also gave to his executors hereinafter named, and their heirs, his thirty-sixth part or share of the moiety of the New River water brought from Chadwell and Amwell to London, called the king's moiety; and also his copyhold farm in the parish of Hackney, in the county of Middlesex, held of the king's manor there; and also his copyhold tenement, and a field containing three acres, in the hamlet of Bednal Green, held of the manor of Stepney, in the said county of Middlesex, (and which copyholds had been surrendered to the use of his Will), and also his meadow at Bednal Green, aforesaid, containing five acres, held for three lives, under the dean of Saint Paul's; and he also gave to his said executors the several actions or shares and stock, and other personal estate and effects therein mentioned; upon trust forthwith to dispose of the said real and personal estate so devised and bequeathed to them, and to stand possessed of the proceeds in trust, to lay out not exceeding 400*l.* in enclosing as much of one of the closes lying next to Pamphill Green, in the parish of Wimborne Minster, where he was born, containing half an acre, or thereabouts, as his said trustees should think fit, for building thereon a convenient school-house, with a chamber over it for a schoolmaster to reside in, whom he desired should be a widower or single person, and also in building on one side of the said school-house contiguous thereunto four convenient ground rooms or almshouses for four poor indigent men, widowers or single persons, and on the other side thereof four other ground rooms or almshouses for four poor indigent women, widows or single women, to inhabit, to be well and completely finished with bricks, tiles, and timber, for the comfortable habitation of the master and almsfolks. And he thereby directed that the schoolmaster, who should receive the benefaction thereinafter mentioned, should teach to write a good legible secretary hand, and to read English well and cast accounts well, and should instruct in the church catechism, all such male children of the inhabitants of the said parish, dwelling westward of the town of Wimborne, between the river Stour and the river Allen, commonly called the Brook, along the hamlets from the said town to the end of the said parish towards Shapwick and Witchampton, as should be sent to school to the said master, not exceeding 40 in number, and he directed the said master to read to the said almspeople and scholars every morning at 11, and every evening at 5, in the said school-house, a chapter in the New Testament, with the church prayers, with such other service as the ministers of the church of Wimborne Minster, or any two of them, should direct. And he directed that the said schoolmaster and almsfolks should continue single, and that none of the latter should be admitted under the age of 60 or 55, at the least, and that four of them, viz., two men and two women, should be nominated out of the poorest inhabitants of the tithing of Cowgrove (where the testator was born), and the other four from the other contiguous tithings westward of the said town, between the said two rivers; the first master and almsfolks to be nominated by his said executors, and all succeeding masters and almsfolks by the governors of the free grammar-school of Queen Elizabeth, and their successors; and he directed his said executors to invest the residue of the proceeds of his said real and personal estate in the purchase of lands and tenements, in fee simple, in the said parish, or other the east part of the county of Dorset, or in Hampshire or Wiltshire, near to the said parish, which lands he directed to be settled by his said executors in the manner thereafter mentioned, together with the lands next thereinafter particularized (which he thereby also devised to his said executors and their heirs), viz., his freehold lands, called Bear Lands, in the parishes of Wimborne and Corfe Mullen, parcel of the demesnes of the ancient manor of Bear, and also all his lands at Pamphill, in the said parish of Wimborne Minster, except such part thereof as should be taken out by his executors for erecting the said school-house and almshouses, and which part he thereby devised to the said governors of the free grammar-school, and their successors, for the use of the said master and almsfolks. And he directed his said executors to settle as well the lands so to be purchased by them as the premises lastly devised to them as aforesaid upon his said cousins in succession for the same estates as thereinbefore mentioned, charged with the clear yearly sum of 65*l.*, to be applied as follows, viz., 20*l.*, part thereof, to the said schoolmaster, as a salary for teaching the said children and performing other the duties aforesaid, and 40*l.*, other part thereof, to the said almsmen and almswomen, to each 5*l.* yearly for their maintenance, and 5*l.*, residue of the said 65*l.*, for the repairs of the school-house and almshouses, if necessary, or, if not necessary, then for the increase of the maintenance of the almspeople; the said 65*l.* per annum to be paid quarterly at the four usual feasts; and he directed the school-house and almshouse to be built, and the master and almspeople to be chosen, within two years from his death; and he declared that the said 20*l.* per annum appointed for the said master, with the enjoyment of the said school-house and room, should be all his reward for the duties enjoined him. And he appointed the said governors, and their successors, visitors of the said school and almshouses and almspeople, with power to remove them at pleasure for misbehaviour, or other just occasion, without appeal, but the schoolmaster to have six months' warning before his removal. And he declared that, if the rents of the premises thereby directed to be settled, charged with the said 65*l.* per annum, should be insufficient to answer the same, then it was his Will that the said fee-farm rent of 78*l.* 6*s.* 2¾*d.*, and also the premises in Saint Bride's, London, should be thereby charged for making good the said payments, in the following proportions, viz., four parts out of six of such deficiency to be made good out of the said fee-farm rent, and the other two parts out of the premises in Saint Bride's, so that the said charity should be effectually secured, with a proviso that, if either of his said cousins, or any other in whom the inheritance of the said fee-farm rent and messuages in London should be vested, should, with the consent of the said governors, testified by writing under their common seal, settle lands approved by such writing as sufficient to be charged with the said yearly sum of 65*l.*, then, after such new settlement made, his said fee-farm rent and the said messuages in London should stand discharged thereof. And the said testator gave to the said governors 200*l.* upon trust, to lend the same to 40 poor tradesmen, and other poor people of the parish, who should be laborious and industrious, by 5*l.* apiece, upon good security, but without interest, but not to remain in one man's hands above three or four years together, at most; and if by any accident 20*l.* of the said 200*l.* should be lost, the said governors were to call in 100*l.* of the said 200*l.*, and invest the same on very good security till they should have raised the said 20*l.*, the whole to be thereafter again lent out as before directed.

By a codicil to his said Will, of even date therewith, the testator bequeathed 5*l.* to be distributed among the poor of Bednal Green, and 10*l.* among the poor of Wimborne, and he gave for the use of the newly-erected library of Wimborne Minster various books, in the said codicil particularly stated to have been bought for the purpose (including, among others, the Polyglott Bible and Lexicon), and also such of his best books, to the value of 10*l.* (not being law books), as were fittest for the use not only of the clergy, but of the gentry, shopkeepers, and better sort of inhabitants in and about the said town, but not to be delivered until the books already given to the said library by Mr. William Stone, and others, should be chained in their places as usual in public libraries, and until chains and places should be provided for the books thereby given, for which purpose he gave 10*l.* to the churchwardens of the said church.

The school-house and almshouses were enclosed from the land at Pamphill, and were built shortly after the death of the testator in 1698.

For a great number of years the premises in Wimborne Minster, primarily charged with the payment of 65*l.*, were insufficient to answer the amount, and the fee-farm rent payable out of the manor of Shitlington, and the property in Saint Bride's, London, were therefore compelled to contribute.

This being attended with great inconvenience and expense, an arrangement was effected, in the year 1826, between William Henry Whitbread, esq., the owner of the fee-farm rent charged in aid, and William Castleman, esq., with the assent of the governors of the grammar-school, for exonerating the whole of the property charged by the Will, and the substitution of another and better security. This was effected by a deed, of which the following is an abstract:

By indenture, bearing date 29th July 1826, between William Castleman, of the first part; the governors of the free grammar-school, of the second part; Samuel Charles Whitbread, surviving trustee of Samuel Whitbread, deceased, of the third part; and William Henry Whitbread, heir-at-law and residuary legatee of the said Samuel Whitbread, of the fourth part; reciting the Will of Roger Gillingham, and that the rent-charge of 78*l.* 6*s.* 2¾*d.* had become vested in the said Samuel Whitbread, deceased; and that the devised estates in the parish of Saint Bride's, London, and Wimborne Minster, and Corfe Mullen, and Pamphill, aforesaid, had become vested in Ann Gough; and that in respect thereof the Commissioners, under the Wimborne Enclosure Act, had allotted to the said Ann Gough certain parcels of land therein described; and that, by certain conveyances therein mentioned, the said devised estates in Wimborne, Corfe Mullen, and Pamphill, and the said allotments, and also the said messuage in Saint Bride's, had become vested in the said Samuel Whitbread, deceased, but subject to the said annual rent-charge of 65*l.*; and further reciting an allotment of a parcel of land, under the Corfe Mullen Enclosure Act, to the said Samuel Whitbread; and further reciting that the said Samuel Whitbread, by Will, dated 5th October 1810, devised all his estates (except as therein excepted) in trust for sale, and appointed his eldest son his residuary legatee; and that he died on the 6th July 1815, leaving the said William Henry Whitbread his heir-at-law, who obtained administration, with the said Will annexed, and that under the power therein mentioned the said Samuel Charles Whitbread had been appointed a trustee of the said Will, and that the premises so directed to be sold had been vested in him accordingly; and further reciting that, by the fine and conveyances therein particularly mentioned, bearing date 27th and 28th February 1816, the manor, farm, and hereditaments, described in the schedule thereto annexed, had been conveyed to the use of the said William Castleman, and his heirs, and that, in reference to the proviso contained in the Will of the said Roger Gillingham, an arrangement had been entered into between the said Samuel Charles Whitbread and William Henry Whitbread and the said William Castleman, with the approbation of the governors of the said charity, to the effect thereinafter mentioned;—it was witnessed that, in pursuance thereof, and by way of substitution, according to the proviso contained in the Will of the said Roger Gillingham, and of the conveyance intended to be made to the said William Castleman, and also in consideration of 332*l.* paid to him by the said William Henry Whitbread, the said William Castleman granted to the said governors, and their successors for ever, a clear yearly rent-charge of 65*l.*, payable out of and chargeable upon the manor of Kingstone, in the county of Dorset, and the farm called Kingstone Farm, and all the lands, woodlands, and tithes, and other the hereditaments in the schedule thereto described in the parishes of Great Canford and West Parley, payable quarterly at the school-house of the charity in Pamphill, with a power of entry and distress in case of non-payment; and for the considerations aforesaid the said governors released and exonerated the said Samuel Charles Whitbread, William Henry Whitbread, and William Castleman, respectively, and the said premises in Saint Bride's, London, and the premises at Wimborne Minster, and at Corfe Mullen, and at Pamphill, and the allotments made in respect thereof, and also the said annual rent of 78*l.* 6*s.* 2¾*d.*, of and from the payment of the said annual sum of 65*l.*, and all future demands in respect thereof.

Wimborne Minster.

The schedule of the premises charged by William Castleman, annexed to the said deed, comprises the manor of Kingstone, and a farm-house and 20 closes or parcels of land in the parish of Great Canford, containing, in the whole, 301 A. 0 R. 9 P., together with a portion of the tithes arising thereon, and also two parcels of land, containing 3 A. 1 R. 7 P. in the parish of West Parley, the total value of which premises is stated to be about 400*l.* per annum.

The school and almshouses are situate at Pamphill, about three-quarters of a mile from Wimborne. They consist of a school-house and eight tenements, four on each side; they are in good condition notwithstanding their antiquity.

The eight almspeople, of whom four are men and four women, are appointed by the governors of the free grammar-school from the districts and under the regulations prescribed by the Will.

The stipend of 5*l.* per annum to each is paid quarterly, as well as the salary of 20*l.* to the schoolmaster, by Mr. Castleman, the owner of the property now charged, who retains in hand the 5*l.* for repairs, which he executes as they become necessary, and of which a regular account is kept.

The schoolmaster is also appointed by the governors. He resides in the school-house, and occupies not only the school-room, and the room over it, but one of the tenements of an almsperson, who was nominated to the charity upon condition of giving up the room for the use of the master, and who resides with his family elsewhere; he also occupies the garden belonging to the school-house, and that belonging to the said tenement, containing together from 8 to 10 perches.

He instructs gratis in reading, writing, and arithmetic, on the Madras system, such children as are sent to him from the places within the limits prescribed by the Will. Their number has never reached 40, but has amounted to 35. There are now 16. They generally come about the age of seven, and remain three or four years. The only charge is 1*d.* per week for stationery. Prayers are read every morning and afternoon to the children, at which some of the almspeople attend.

The 200*l.* directed to be appropriated as a loan charity, and the minor legacies given by the Will, appear never to have been paid, the assets, as it is understood, having been deficient.

The library in the church still remains, but in a state of great dilapidation.

Saint Margaret's Hospital.

Saint Margaret's Hospital.

The origin of this hospital has been attributed to a Duke of Aquitaine and Lancaster; but, as it would appear, without sufficient grounds. All that is known with certainty is, that it was in existence during, if not before, the 14th century. No early deeds belonging to it are extant; and the principal information has been derived from an ancient-book of minutes and accounts, commencing in the year 1661, produced by the steward of the manor of Kingston Lacy, and stated to be the only one now existing, and from some memoranda, dated in 1746, in the hand-writing of John Bankes, esq., one of the former proprietors of that manor, (with whom the entire control of the hospital has long rested,) purporting to be extracted from the book above alluded to, and from an earlier book, commencing in the ninth year of Queen Elizabeth.

We found a copy of an entry on the court-rolls of the manor of Kingston Lacy, dated 10th March, 22nd Richard II., 1398, (inserted in the book to show the connexion between the manor-court and the hospital,) which records that one William Sharpe, having been, by the steward of the manor, admitted to the hospital, and, after residing there above seven years, maliciously expelled therefrom by one John Tripet, appeared at the manor-court and petitioned to be reinstated; and that, the facts being found to be true, he was reinstated accordingly.

The hospital was managed sometimes by one and sometimes by two wardens or governors, of whom one was appointed for the town, and one for the country; but how they were appointed nowhere appears. Mr. Bankes's memoranda state orders to have been entered in the earlier minutes, enjoining decent behaviour upon the inmates of the hospital, on pain of expulsion; and that to marry after admittance to the hospital, or to receive any young person in the house, was prohibited under a like penalty: also that it was ordered that no timber-trees should be cut but for necessary repairs; and that none of the estates should be let but at the general account and at an improved rent. Between the years 1617 and 1648 the lettings seem to have been with the consent of the poor people, and occasionally by a person styled "visitor;" but the admissions, with very few exceptions, seem to have been made by the steward of the manor of Kingston Lacy, alone, who has acted in, and for the most part directed the affairs of, the hospital for the last 230 years. This is stated to appear from entries in the years 1617, 1627, 1628, and 1642.

We find, from the second minute-book, that in 1683 Robert Russell, steward of the manor of Kingston Lacy, was appointed governor, jointly with another person; that, in 1689, he is styled sole governor, and so held the office till 1719, when his son, Nicholas Russell, succeeded him in both capacities, and acted alone until 1763; that William Dean also held both offices from 1766 to 1803, when Mr. William Castleman, the present steward of the manor, was appointed. The lord of the manor of Kingston Lacy does not appear in the minutes, as governor of the hospital in that capacity, until 1775, when the late Henry Bankes, esq., caused his name to be inserted as joint governor with his steward, Mr. Dean; and this practice has been since uniformly adopted.

The book of accounts contains terriers of the property at various periods from the year 1661; from a comparison of which with the existing rental it appears that no alteration in the premises has taken place, except such as is to be accounted for by the circumstances which are hereafter explained.

The following is a rental of the property, dated in 1719, corresponding very closely with those of a still earlier date:—

|---|---|---|---|
| Thomas Mackrell, for lands at Parkston | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Thomas Rose, two closes at Petersham (seven acres) | 4 | 5 | 0 |
| William Tilsed, for the barn, the Home Close, the acre in Netherwood, the Halve in Mutchell Mead, and the acre in Redcotts | 7 | 10 | 0 |
| Mr. Easton, an acre lying in the ground which he bought of William Deane, sometimes called Giddy Lake | 0 | 10 | 0 |
| Oliver Batt, an acre in Little Rowlands | 0 | 13 | 4 |
| Edward Young, an acre and half in Cudbury-field | 1 | 10 | 0 |
| Richard Squibb, for ground in Ryalls, and the field | 1 | 8 | 0 |
| John Rogers and his father, for a house and two little gardens near the paper-mills | 0 | 16 | 0 |
| £ | 22 | 6 | 4 |

By an Act for the enclosure of the commonable lands in the parish of Wimborne, which was completed in the year 1786, the following pieces of land were allotted to the governors in severalty, in lieu of certain parcels of land given up by them:—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| In Redcotts | 2 | 1 | 10 |
| In Small Meadow | 2 | 0 | 22 |
| In Mill Field | 0 | 0 | 23 |
| | 4 | 2 | 15 |

Also a right of stocking one quarter of a yearling on Hinton-moor and Pillsmoor, yearly.

Under the Great Canford Enclosure Act, which passed about 1805, but the award under which is dated on the 27th April 1822, were allotted to the governors—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| A parcel of land in Netherwood Mead, containing | 1 | 0 | 28 |
| „ heath-land in Canford, adjoining the Poole and Blandford road | 1 | 0 | 29 |
| „ heath-land adjoining the Ringwood and Wareham road | 2 | 3 | 28 |
| „ heath-land adjoining the same road | 1 | 0 | 24 |
| | 9 | 1 | 0 |

The next alteration in the property of the hospital was an exchange with Sir James Hanham, bart., which was effected by a deed bearing date 9th March 1813, under which the governors received a close of meadow, containing, by estimation, 3A. 2R. 3P., situate in Mutchell Mead, in the parish of Wimborne Minster, in lieu of a close of pasture-ground called the South Close, containing 3A. 0R. 25P., and also a close of pasture called the North Close, containing 3A. 3R., situate at Petersham, in the parish of Wimborne.

The closes given up by the trustees are represented to have been of very inferior quality to the land received in exchange, and more distant from the town; and it appears, by the accounts, that the rent paid for them was less in amount than that now obtained for the land given up by Sir James Hanham.

By indentures of lease and release and exchange, bearing date 9th and 10th October 1823, Henry Bankes and William Castleman, described as governors of the hospital, in consideration of the land thereinafter conveyed to them, and of the sum of 139*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.*, and of 33*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, being the balance on the value of the timber on the land thereby conveyed to them, beyond the value of the timber on the land given up by them, conveyed to George Garland and his heirs the northermost part of a close of pasture land called Home Close, as then divided, containing 3A. 0R. 11P., adjoining, on the east, on the turnpike-road from Wimborne to Blandford, and situate in the tithing of Stone, in the parish of Wimborne, in exchange for the close and premises thereinafter conveyed to them by the said George Garland. And the said George Garland, in consideration thereof, conveyed to the said Henry Bankes and William Castleman, and their heirs and successors, as such governors or guardians as aforesaid, for ever, a close of arable ground called Roman T, containing 3A. 2R. 0P., situate at Leigh, in the parish of Wimborne Minster, and also a piece of arable land at Leigh aforesaid, containing 1A. 1R. 0P., which had been long since thrown together with the said former close.

The above exchange is represented as highly advantageous to the charity.

An acre of land, derived under the Will of Thomas Boxley, in 1561, in which it is called Rowlands, and by which name it also appears in the rentals, but is not now to be distinguished, is understood to have been given up in exchange, with other lands, upon the occasion of the Wimborne enclosure.

The following is the present rental of the hospital lands, as distinguished from those which are derived under the endowment by William Stone, hereafter mentioned:—

The hospital is situate adjoining the high road from Blandford to Wimborne, and consists of seven thatched tenements, in good repair, each comprising two rooms, with other accommodations, and a small garden. The chapel of the hospital adjoins at the east end of one of the tenements; the whole containing about half an acre.

Besides the real property, there is, standing in the names of Henry Bankes and William Castleman, 370*l.* 6*s.* 9*d.*, New Three-and-a-half per Cents., part of a sum of 474*l.* 7*s.*, producing annual dividends to the amount of 12*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*

This stock arose partly from the money paid by Mr. Garland, and partly from savings from the general income.

The inmates are five men and two women, who have been always named by the owner of the Kingston Lacy estate. They have been generally decayed domestic servants of the Bankes family, or labourers upon Mr. Bankes's estate, resident in the parish, or, in default of such, have been selected by him from the most deserving and distressed inhabitants of Wimborne Minster.

They receive the following payments, which are made quarterly, partly from the original endowment of the hospital, and partly from the funds derived from the charity of William Stone, next mentioned:—

Of which sum 40*l.* 19*s.* is charged to the account of the hospital estate, and 17*l.* 15*s.* to Stone's charity.

Besides these sums, 5*l.* extra is paid to each inmate at the Michaelmas and Christmas quarters, of which 27*l.* 10*s.* is charged to Saint Margaret's, and 7*l.* 10*s.* to Stone's charity, at each period.

The only regular charges in the expenditure are—

The repairs executed in 1833 amounted to about 35*l.*, since which little or nothing has been expended on that account.

There was a balance in the hands of the receiver, in November 1835, of 80*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.* The accounts, which have been kept with great regularity from the year 1661, have been examined, with the vouchers, by Mr. Bankes, and signed by him from time to time.

William Stone's Charity.

William Stone's Charity.

William Stone, clerk, by Will, bearing date 12th May 1685, (proved in the Prerogative Court,) gave to Stephen Fry and his heirs all his lands, tenements, houses, and reversions, within the parish of Wimborne, in the county of Dorset, upon trust, to settle the same upon four or five honest inhabitants of the said parish, or living near it, that, after the death of the testator's brothers and sisters, the profits of the said lands and houses might be employed by, them for the use and benefit of the almsmen who should live in the hospital of Saint Margaret's, in the said parish of Wimborne Minster.

This charity, being merely an addition to the foundation of the hospital above mentioned, has been always managed by the governors of that establishment.

The property derived from this testator is not known to have undergone any alteration. It now comprises the following particulars:—

| Tenants' Names. | Description and Situation of Premises. | Quantity. | Term and Date of Lease. | Rent. | Observations. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bailey, John | A garden and fuel-house in Wimborne | 0 0 13 | Yearly tenant | 1 0 0 | |
| Evans, William | A house and garden and outhouses in West-street, Wimborne | 1 0 30 | Lease, term 60 years, from 29th Sept. 1802 | 9 7 3 | This lease was granted in consideration of the lessee covenanting to expend £150 in building, to pay the land-tax and all outgoings, and to keep and leave the premises in repair. He has, in fact, expended not less than £800, and the premises are now worth from £50 to £60 per annum. |
| Mayo, Rev. James | A garden in Wimborne | .. | Yearly tenant | 1 10 0 | |
| Moore, William | Two cottages, garden, and shop, in West-street, Wimborne | 0 0 13 | Lease granted to Anthony Sargeant, term 200 years, from 5th April 1791 | 1 10 0 | These houses were in a state of extreme dilapidation at the time of granting this unusual term, and we are assured that the site would be worth little more than the present rent if the buildings were now removed. The houses erected by Mr. Sargeant, in pursuance of the covenant in his lease, are worth from £4 to £5 per annum each. A power of entry is reserved in case of the rent being in arrear 20 days, or the premises becoming out of repair. Two houses have been also built by the present owner of the lease, worth about £8 each per annum. |
| Morris, Richard | A house and garden in King-street, Wimborne | 0 0 8 | Yearly tenant | 8 8 0 | In very bad repair. |

In addition to the real estate, there is, standing in the names of Henry Bankes and William Castleman, esqrs., a sum of 104*l.* 0*s.* 3*d.*, New Three-and-a-half per Cent. stock, being the residue of the sum of 474*l.* 7*s.* mentioned in our account of the hospital. This sum has arisen entirely from savings out of the income.

A sum of 1*l.* 1*s.* is paid to the receiver, annually; and a small sum has been expended in repairs of the tenement in the occupation of Richard Morris.

In November 1835 a balance of 14*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.* was due to the receiver. Wimborne Minster.
The accounts of this charity also have been examined and signed by Mr. Bankes.

BOXLEY'S CHARITY.

Thomas Boxley, by Will, bearing date 5th October 1561, gave his moiety and halfendale of a mead called Rushley, in Wimborne, and an acre of arable land there in Rowland, to John Welsted and Christopher Macham, and their heirs, upon trust, as to one half part of the said moiety, yearly to distribute the rents and profits thereof to such poor people in Wimborne as, according to their discretion, should seem most convenient and meet; and to employ and bestow the rents and profits of the other half of the said moiety about such good and godly works and purposes, for the wealth and benefit of "the said Wimborne," as by the discretion of the said trustees and their heirs should seem meet, and, as to the said acre of arable land, to the use of the poor people inhabiting in the almshouse called Saint Margaret's, in Wimborne aforesaid, and their successors. Boxley's Charity.

The acre of land given to the poor of Saint Margaret's hospital appears to have been given up to that charity, and to have been exchanged upon the occasion of the Wimborne Enclosure Act.

The moiety of the meadow called Rushley has been conveyed to new trustees from time to time, and ultimately, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 6th and 7th August 1828, was vested in Matthew Raindle the younger, John Carlton the younger, William Hart, William Hanham, Phelips Hanham, Henry Rowden, George Hatchard, and one other since deceased, and their heirs, upon the trusts declared by the said Will, with a proviso that, when the trustees should be reduced to four, the survivors should convey the premises to four more new trustees upon the same trusts.

The property consists of an undivided moiety of a meadow still called Rushley, situate in the tithing of Leigh, and containing altogether about six acres, of which the other moiety belongs to Sir James Hanham, bart.

The moiety belonging to the charity was demised by lease, bearing date 30th March 1831, to Sir James Hanham for the term of 98 years, from 11th October 1821, at the yearly rent of 12*l.* during the first 14 years, but the trustees have reserved for every succeeding 14 years, until the expiration of the said term, such an increase of rent, over and above the said yearly rent, as the said moiety should be then worth, to be let by the year, and as they and their successors should think fair and proper. The tenant covenants to pay the land-tax and all outgoings, to keep the fences and ditches in proper repair, and not to assign without licence. The lease also contains a clause of re-entry in case of nonpayment of rent or non-observance of covenants.

The rent now paid is stated to be the utmost value, and any future inadequacy during the currency of this long term is guarded against by the reservation in the lease.

The rent is paid by Sir James Hanham to Mr. Raindle, one of the trustees, who divides it between his co-trustees and himself, 1*l.* 10*s.* being allotted to each for distribution amongst the poor in his particular district of the parish.

By some of the trustees their shares are distributed at Christmas in money or clothing; but there is no meeting for the purpose, nor any general account kept, nor any co-operation in the selection of the objects; and, in fact, the share allotted to two of the trustees lastly appointed had remained unapplied in the hands of their agent. A bill for the preparation of the trust-deeds, and other professional business, amounting to about 20*l.*, is due to Mr. Rowden from the charity, towards the discharge of which it is desirable that this balance should be applied.

It was strongly recommended that the trustees should in future meet annually to consult each other on the application of the fund, and that regular accounts should be kept.

GUNDRY'S CHARITY.

Mary Gundry by Will, bearing date 23d February 1617, devised a house and garden adjoining the churchyard in Wimborne Minster, in trust for the maintenance of the service and repairs of the church of Wimborne Minster, and after giving, amongst other things, 2*l.* yearly to the poor of Blandford Forum, she gave to the collectors for the poor of Wimborne Minster, and their successors, to the use of the poor people that should be honest and fear God, in the said town and parish, a yearly rent of 2*l.*, to be paid out of her lands and tenements within the realm of England, with a power of entry and distress in case of nonpayment; and she directed that the overseers of her Will, and their successors, should join with the said collectors in the distribution of the said annuity. Gundry's Charity.

The sum of 2*l.* is usually paid annually by the steward of Sir James Hanham, as the owner of a farm at Walford, in the parish of Wimborne, to the four overseers of Wimborne, 10*s.* being paid to each. They distribute it at their own discretion, in sums varying from 1*s.* to 2*s.* 6*d.*, amongst the poor indiscriminately. No list of the parties receiving the charity has hitherto been kept, nor have means been used to insure a proper, or, indeed, any distribution of it; but at the late visitation directions were given that accounts of this and the next-mentioned charity should be kept in future.

The premises devised by Mary Gundry are supposed to be those now occupied by John Miell, mentioned in the rental of the property belonging to the church.

LYNE'S CHARITY.

Thomas Lyne, of Bradford Bryan, by Will, dated 7th May 1621, (and which is recorded in the account of the charities of Ringwood, in the county of Southampton, Rep. 14, p. 542,) having directed his body to be buried in the south aisle of Wimbourne church, gave to the Lyne's Charity.

Wimborne Minster.

reparations of the said aisle, for ever, 3*s.* 4*d.* per annum; and also, among other charities therein mentioned, 2*l.* yearly to the poor of the parish; and for payment thereof he charged the tithes of his farm at Bradford and his land called White Hall, at Burley, in the parish of Ringwood.

And he also gave 6*l.* yearly, for ever, towards bringing up a poor scholar at Oxford or Cambridge, to be taken out of the free school at Ringwood every third or fourth year, and for want there, out of Wimborne or Sherborne schools, and for payment thereof he also charged his said tithes and lands.

The sum of 3*s.* 4*d.* is paid by the tenant of a farm at Bradford, in the parish of Wimborne Minster, belonging to Sherborne school, to the churchwardens of Wimborne, and is by them carried to their general account out of which the aisle is repaired.

They also receive the sum of 2*l.* from the same estate, which they have hitherto distributed at their discretion amongst the poor of the parish, without distinction.

The benefit of this exhibition has been occasionally obtained for young men proceeding to the Universities from Wimborne school. The present head-master, Mr. Mayo, as well as the late master, the Rev. C. Bowle, enjoyed it, as did also Mr. Edmund Fryer, of the town of Wimborne, about 10 years ago.

Collett's Charity.

Collett's Charity.

By deed of feoffment, with livery of seisin endorsed, bearing date 5th December 1621, Joseph Collett granted to William Ettricke and five others, and their heirs, a messuage, or tenement and garden; a messuage, or plot of ground, containing by estimation half an acre; a messuage, or tenement and close, called Bushbarn Close, containing one acre; a messuage and plot of pasture in the Middle Hawes, containing three-quarters of an acre; a garden-plot containing one yard of land; a close of pasture containing three acres; five acres of land, part of a close called Millcroft; a messuage, burgage, and close of pasture, called Skull's Close, containing six acres; all situate in Corfe Castle; and all other his lands and tenements within the precincts thereof; to be holden of the chief lord of the fee by the accustomed chief rents and services, reserving to the said Joseph Collett, and his heirs, the yearly rent of 1*d.*; upon trust to employ the rents and profits thereof towards the yearly relief and maintenance of such 10 poor persons, of whom five should be men and five women, as should be chosen by the said feoffees, or a majority of them, payable in equal portions, at the four usual feasts, in the north aisle of the parish church of Wimborne Minster. And he appointed that such of the said poor persons as should be so nominated should be of good and honest fame and report, and have been painful and honest labourers for their living, and not have been convicted to be the reputed father or mother of any bastard child, and should after their election orderly and duly upon Sundays, holidays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays, attend divine service in the parish church in the morning and afternoon, if not hindered by weakness, sickness, or other sufficient cause, to be approved of by the said feoffees, and, in case of absence without such cause allowed, that the party so absent should lose 4*d.* out of his or her contribution, which should be paid towards the relief of the poor not so offending, and that the said poor persons should be chosen from the inhabitants of the town and borough of Wimborne Minster and of the tithing of Leigh, in the said parish. And it was declared that if any two or three of the said feoffees should die, or dwell out of the said parish, the surviving and resident feoffees should enfeoff two other honest and sufficient persons of the said premises, upon trust, to reconvey the same to the said survivors and to such two or three other inhabitants of the said parish as should be nominated by the said other feoffees, to make up the number of six; but none of the said feoffees was to be an attorney-at-law, or clerk of the King's Bench; and the said feoffees were allowed 6*s.* 8*d.* for a dinner at their meeting at Wimborne Minster; and they were forbidden to grant any other estate, in the said premises, but at the full and reasonable yearly value thereof; with directions that if any dead body should, after burial of the said Joseph Collett, be buried in the tomb of Emma, his late wife, adjoining the north side of the parish church, all the said trusts should cease, and the said feoffees should reconvey the said tenements to the heirs of the said Joseph Collett for ever. And the said indenture contained a power to the said trustees to remove any of the said poor people so elected who should misbehave themselves, and to appoint others in their room.

The property comprised in the original grant has been transmitted to new trustees from time to time, the last appointment being by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 18th and 19th December 1829, whereby the trust premises were conveyed to the use of the Rev. Sir James Hanham, bart., William Hanham, Rev. Phelips Hanham, George Hatchard, William Fryer, since deceased, and John Fryer, and their heirs, upon the trusts specified by the deed of endowment.

The property consists of eight several burgage tenements and closes of land, situate in the borough of Corfe Castle, which contain, in the whole, about 13 acres, and are held by William John Bankes, esq., under a lease, bearing date 15th February 1822, whereby the Rev. Sir James Hanham, bart., and others, the then trustees, in consideration of the surrender of all subsisting leases, demised the premises to Henry Bankes, esq., his executors, administrators, and assigns, for 99 years, from Michaelmas 1821, at the clear yearly rent of 47*l.* 2*s.* during the first seven years of the said term, and during such further period, till the said rent should, by notice and a valuation, be raised as thereinafter mentioned, and it is thereby covenanted that if the said feoffees, or the said Henry Bankes, should, six months before the expiration of the first seven years, or previous to the expiration of any other entire period of seven years of the said term, give notice in writing to the other party of their desire that the premises should be valued, and should nominate an indifferent person to value the same, the party to whom such notice should be addressed should, within three months, nominate an indifferent person on his part, and that the said referees, or, in case of their disagreement, an umpire to be appointed by them, should ascertain the annual value of the premises, which value should constitute the rent to be paid by the said Henry Bankes during the next succeeding period of seven years, and so from seven years to seven years, till a fresh notice should be given by either of the said parties to the other in manner aforesaid; and that, until such first notice should be first given, the said rent of 47*l.* 2*s.* should continue payable, and that the expense from time to time attending such valuation should be paid equally by both parties. Wimborne Minster. Collett's Charity, continued.

In this lease the premises are described as an ancient burgage meadow or close, called Bush Barn, on the east side of the West-street of the borough of Corfe Castle, containing by admeasurement one acre; a burgage tenement, toft, and meadow, called Verge's tenement, or meadow, containing 4 A. 3 R. 11 P. on the east side of the East-street of the said borough; a burgage tenement, close of pasture or meadow, called Wimborne Mead, or William Cayne's Mead, on the east side of the East-street, containing 2 A. 0 R. 24 P.; a burgage tenement, or toft, backside, and garden, containing an eighth part of an acre, called late Osmond's, or Robert Roe's tenement, lying on the west side of the West-street; a burgage messuage, or tenement, curtilage, or garden, and piece of meadow, or other ground, containing half an acre, called Judith Clare's, or John North's, lying on the east side of the West-street; a burgage messuage, or tenement and garden, containing four perches, called Little Michael Hawkes, or George Stockley's, on the west side of the West-street; a burgage messuage, or tenement, dwelling-house, fuel-house, curtilage, garden, and orchard, called late William Young's, or Henry Spear's, on the west side of the West-street, and a parcel of meadow or pasture containing 1 R. 14 P., lying in the West Hawes, Halves, or Hams; a burgage messuage, or tenement, orchard, and garden, and close of meadow or pasture, called late Zidbury's, or Skull's Close, containing 4 A. 0 R. 26 P., on the east side of the East-street, together with common of pasture for a certain number of rother beasts in respect of each of the said tenements on the commonable grounds of the borough and parish of Corfe Castle.

This lease was granted in 1822, in consideration of the surrender of subsisting leases then vested in the Bankes family, with the rents reserved upon which the trustees were not satisfied, and counsel's opinion having been taken as to the expediency of taking proceedings, this course was ultimately adopted.

Out of the present rental, amounting to 47*l.* 2*s.*, 40*l.* per annum is appropriated amongst five poor men and five poor women, selected by the trustees from the town of Wimborne Minster, and the tithing of Leigh, care being taken, as far as possible, to appoint persons not in the receipt of parochial relief, and of good moral reputation.

They are paid quarterly by Henry Rowden, esq., as receiver to the trustees, and the same persons are continued for life, unless there should be some reason for removing them.

As this does not exhaust the rent, a further gratuity is given to the poor people from time to time.

The 6*s.* 8*d.* allowed for expenses is not paid, nor is any remuneration made to the treasurer. The trustees meet yearly in November, when the accounts are audited, vacancies supplied, and the balance handed over to the receiver for the ensuing year.

On 25th November 1835 the balance in hand was 16*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.*, and an order was made for a distribution of 10*s.* to each of the objects.

Charities of Browne, Habgood, and Hall.

Browne's Charity.—Alice Browne, by Will (bearing date 2d June 1637), gave to the poor of Wimborne Minster 20*s.* a-year, to be paid to the overseer of the poor, for their use, out of a lease of certain ground in Redcotts, in the parish of Wimborne, during the continuance thereof, with a proviso that if her executor should purchase any land for the use of the said poor to the value of 20*l.*, the said 20*s.* a-year should cease; and she appointed Gundry Browne her executor. Charities of Browne, Habgood, and Hall.

By indenture of feoffment, bearing date 21st November 1647, Roger Mullens, in consideration of 30*l.*, granted to the said Gundry Browne and his heirs a messuage or tenement in Wimborne Minster, in the West-street there.

By indentures of feoffment bearing date 15th December 1647, the said Gundry Browne, after reciting the Will of Alice Browne, his mother-in-law, for extinguishing the said annual rent out of the said Alice's ground in Redcotts, and in performance of the said Will, granted and confirmed to Anthony Ancketill, and three others, and their heirs, the messuage in Wimborne, situate in the West-street, so purchased by him of Roger Mullens, for the sum of 30*l.*, to the intent that the said feoffees should employ the rents and profits thereof to the only benefit, use, and relief of the poor people of the parish of Wimborne.

By deed bearing date 16th February 1654, reciting the Will of the said Alice Browne, and the purchase from Roger Mullens, and conveyance of the lands so purchased to the said Anthony Ancketill, and others, to the use of the poor; and that the said Alice Browne had in her life-time left in the hands of William Dean, of Wimborne, 20*l.*; and that the sum of 10*l.*, part thereof, had been applied by the said Gundry Browne towards the said purchase, and 20*s.* more towards the conveyance of the said lands, and the other 9*l.*, residue of the said 20*l.*, had been paid to the said Anthony Ancketill and others,—the said Gundry Browne declared that the said 9*l.* was so placed in their hands to be set out at interest, or bestowed in the purchase of lands for the use of the poor of Wimborne, according to the intent of the said Alice Browne.

Habgood's Charity.—Richard Habgood, by Will, bearing date 1st December 1642, devised his two messuages, gardens, and hereditaments thereto belonging, in trust, for the poor of the parish of Wimborne.

Wimborne Minster.

By deed-poll, bearing date 6th May 1709, under the hands and seals of Dennis Bond, esq., and three others, commissioners, by virtue of a commission of charitable uses, under the great seal, dated 15th December, 7th Queen Anne, reciting the Will of the said Richard Habgood, and that the premises devised by him were vested in certain trustees therein named, all of whom had died without nominating their successors, and that the surviving trustee had left a son and heir, William Holway, who was then an infant under the age of 21 years; and that the said commissioners had by indentures of lease and release, dated 5th and 6th May, then instant, released and confirmed to John Bankes, Harry Constantine, William Fitch, Robert Russell, and two others, the premises thereinbefore mentioned, upon trust, to employ the rents and profits thereof for the relief of the poor people of Wimborne Minster, according to the intention of the said Richard Habgood; and further reciting the Will of the said Alice Browne, and the purchase by the said Gundry Browne from Roger Mullens, with 30*l.*, part of the 40*l.* given by the said Alice Brown; and that the messuage and tenement so purchased had been conveyed to Thomas Barnes, and five others, and their heirs, in trust for the said charity, all of whom had long since died, the said Thomas Barnes being the survivor; and that the remaining 10*l.* was then in the possession of the widow of the said Thomas Barnes, whose son and heir had, together with the said commissioners, by lease and release, dated 5th and 6th May instant, conveyed to the said John Bankes, Harry Constantine, William Fitch, Robert Russell, and two others, and their heirs, the messuage and tenement so purchased, and also the said 10*l.*, in trust for the said charity: and further reciting that, upon the examination by the said commissioners into the circumstances of the said two charities respectively, there was due for arrears of the rent of the said messuage respectively, and for the interest of the said 10*l.*, after deducting all charges for repairs of the premises and the expenses of the execution of the said statute, the sum of 76*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.*, which had been paid to the said commissioners by the tenants, and by the widow of the said Thomas Barnes, and had been by them paid over to the said John Bankes, and others,—it was declared that the said commissioners thereby authorized the said John Bankes and others, the said trustees, to expend out of the said sum of 76*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.* what should be necessary to put the said premises into good repair, and to distribute the residue of the said sum to the poor of the parish of Wimborne, in pursuance of the Wills of the said Richard Habgood and Alice Browne.

Hall's Charity.—It appears by the recitals of a lease, including (inter alia) part of the above-mentioned premises, and dated 24th October 1683, that Edith Hall devised two messuages in the High-street, Wimborne Minster, for the relief of the poor of the said parish.

These tenements were transmitted by successive conveyances, and were ultimately vested by the next-abstracted indentures in the same persons as the tenements derived from Alice Browne and Richard Habgood.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 24th and 25th March 1746, the Rev. Wm. Russell, and three others, surviving trustees of the several trust premises and charities hereinafter mentioned, conveyed to the Rev. Henry Fitch, and another, and their heirs, a messuage, with a barn or outhouse, smith's shop, and garden thereto adjoining, situate in the West-street of Wimborne, near Pye-corner, being the premises directed by Alice Browne to be for the use of the poor, and a fuel-house or stable and garden near the church-yard, in Wimborne, and the small tenement, late a slaughter-house, which had been given by Richard Habgood for the use of the parish, and two messuages, situate in the High-street of Wimborne, known by the name of Hall's Charity, the rents whereof had, for many years past, been given to six poor unmarried women of the parish of Wimborne, not receiving parochial relief; to hold the same to the use of the said Henry Fitch, and another, and of the said grantors, upon trust, to employ the rents and profits thereof for the use, benefit, and relief of the poor of the said parish, as thereinbefore mentioned, in pursuance of the intentions of the respective donors, regard being had to the support and repair of the houses belonging to the said charities respectively, with a proviso that, when any three of the trustees should be dead, the survivors should nominate three others, of the parish of Wimborne, to be trustees in their room.

From this time the property of the three charities has remained vested in the same body of trustees; the last conveyance was by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 18th and 19th July 1828, whereby the premises were vested, by the same description and upon the same trusts as mentioned in the last-abstracted indenture, in the Rev. Edward Butt, the Rev. James Mayo, William Fryer, Henry Rowden, Robert Hawes, and George Evans, and their heirs; of these William Fryer is since dead.

The present property of these charities is described in the following rental:—

| Rowe, John . | A new-built messuage, or dwelling-house, with the outhouses, garden, and appurtenances, situate in the High-street of Wimborne Minster, in the occupation of John Rowe, containing, in front, against the street, 38 feet, and in depth 96 feet 9 inches. | 99 years, commencing 14th December 1813, and determinable with the lives of Daniel Sutton, then aged 25, and Mary Sutton, then aged 22, and 99 years in reversion, granted 1st August 1828, and determinable with the life of Charles Rowe, then aged 15. | 6 0 0 | In 1796 these premises, being then in a very decayed and ruinous state, were granted to Anthony Sergeant for 99 years, determinable with three lives therein named. The lessee covenanted to erect a substantial dwelling-house, and to keep and leave the same in repair; and the lessors, in consideration of the very ruinous state and condition of the premises, covenanted to grant another lease of the premises for another life in the room of each and either of the lives so dying, for the sum of £6 for a fine for each life; and also, as a further inducement for the said Anthony Sergeant's new building the said messuage on the deaths of the said intended lives, to grant reversionary leases in like manner for 99 years, determinable on three more lives, for a fine of £12, being two years' purchase for each life, and at the same rent, and to be granted in two years next after the death of each and every of the three last-mentioned lives. In default of application within two years, a full fine to be paid according to the value of the premises. The lessee accordingly expended upwards of £500 in building a substantial messuage and outhouses, which are now standing, and in complete repair. In 1813 a lease of these premises was granted to Thomas Peter Hart, who had purchased the former lease for 99 years, determinable on the same lives and under the same covenants as in the lease of 1796. In 1828 one of the lives had dropped, and Mr. John Rowe, the then owner of the premises, renewed at the price of £6, and added the life of Charles Rowe, his son. | 30 0 0 |

| Jeffery, Jos. . | A dwelling-house and garden, with a barn, cart-house, and stable, (lately a ruinous smith's shop,) situate in West-street, Wimborne Minster, near Pye-corner. | 99 years, commencing 2d November 1807, determinable with the life of Edward Smith Bemister then aged 10 years. | 1 4 0 | 18th December 1760, a lease of these premises was granted by the trustees to John Willis Savery for 99 years, determinable with three lives, in which lease are contained a covenant by the lessee to repair the premises, and to erect a fuel-house, or some other convenient out-house, on the site of the ruinous blacksmith's shop; and a covenant by the trustees, on the death of each of the lives therein named, to grant a reversionary lease of the said premises in the usual manner, for some other life, in the stead of such life so dying, for the fine of £1. 1*s*, on application within six months next after the death of such life or lives so dying. On the death of one life in 1789 a reversionary lease for another life was added; on whose death, in 1807, a fifth life was added, who is now living. The two other original lives have since dropped, and within the time prescribed the lessee claimed a right of renewal for another life, pursuant to the covenant, to which the trustees have acceded. | 8 0 0 |

The rents have been applied in the payment of 12*s*. 6*d*. a-quarter to each of six women of the parish of Wimborne Minster, being single or widows, selected by the trustees at a meeting held for the purpose when there is a vacancy. Of those now on the list, three or four are not in the receipt of parochial relief, and the others only receive relief occasionally.

The whole of the repairs and outgoings in respect of the houses are paid by the tenants, and no deduction has been made from the rents except 6*s*. 6*d*. a-year for receipt stamps.

The present receiver, Henry Rowden, was appointed in the year 1825, when much difficulty was experienced in obtaining the deeds from his predecessor, whose accounts, after much exertion, have not yet been rendered; but there is no reason to apprehend that the objects of the charity have suffered any loss.

In consequence of this difficulty, and the appointment of new trustees, law charges to the amount of 50*l*. 8*s*. 8*d*. were incurred. The whole of this is not yet liquidated, no deduction having been made from the payments to the poor persons.

At Michaelmas 1835, 9*l*. 14*s*. 6*d*. was still due to the receiver, which the late increase of rent will afford the means of discharging.

It does not appear that the accounts have ever been audited by the trustees, since the appointment of the present receiver.

Mitchell's Charity.

Mitchell's Charity.

In respect of the charity of Bernard Mitchell, the particulars of which will be found in 29th Report, page 109, the sum of 20*s*. per annum is paid by Mrs. Jane Luce, the lessee of the King's Head inn, at Weymouth, to the churchwardens, and given away by them, indiscriminately, in the same manner as the other charities under their control.

Costin's Charity.

Costin's Charity.

John Costin, by Will, bearing date 14th March 1721, and proved in the Prerogative Court, reciting that he was seised in fee of two parcels of land, purchased of one Batten and Wiseman, devised the same, after the decease of his wife and his brother, for and towards the support of four poor tradesmen of the town of Wimborne Minster, to each 40*s*. yearly, and the overplus of the yearly rents he desired his trustees to lay out in the necessary reparations thereof; and he appointed his friends Mr. Baxter, and Richard Wright, and William Mackay, overseers and trustees of his Will.

The succession of trustees has been regularly kept up. By the last trust-deed, bearing date 6th January 1815, Edward White and Samuel Bowles, the surviving trustees, conveyed the premises to the use of themselves and William Daniel Goodeve, John Spurrier, and Charles Kiver, and their heirs, upon the trusts of the said Will, with a proviso that, when any two of the said trustees should be dead, the survivors should convey the premises to other new trustees.

The three last-named trustees are now surviving, but one has quitted the country with his family.

They have been always chosen out of the members of the Independent congregation at Wimborne, to which the testator belonged, and of which Miles Baxter, his trustee, was the minister.

The premises consist of a house with two entrances, situate at the corner of the churchyard, in Wimborne, occupied by Henry Habgood, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 16*l.*, at which it has been held for the last 10 years. It was previously let at 18*l.* Wimborne Minster.

The objects of the charity are named by the trustees from decayed tradesmen in Wimborne, and are usually continued for life, though in cases of misbehaviour they have occasionally been removed. The sums paid to them have varied for many years (according to the amount of repairs required upon the premises) from 1*l.* to 3*l.* 5*s.* apiece, but latterly the payment to each has been kept at 2*l.*, and a balance has been accumulated, which, in November 1835, amounted to 15*l.* 2*s.* 4*d.*

The whole of this sum will probably be required to meet the expenses of a new trust-deed, which it is intended to obtain immediately, and of a new staircase to the house, which is now become necessary.

There is paid annually out of the rents—

| Quit-rent . . . . . | 0 | 3 | 4 |
| Insurance . . . . . | 0 | 13 | 6 |

No charge is now made for the expenses of the trustees, who meet once a-year, in January, to receive and distribute the rent. A regular account and list of the persons receiving the charity is kept.

HIGDEN'S CHARITY.

Higden's Charity.

Elizabeth Higden, by Will, bearing date 7th March 1823, gave to the three ministers, the master and the under-master of the grammar-school of Wimborne Minster, and their successors, 2000*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, on trust, to apply the dividends in the purchase of coals and clothes, to be distributed on Midsummer and Christmas days, yearly, amongst 20 poor persons resident in the parish of Wimborne Minster, in such manner as the trustees should think proper.

The sum of 1800*l.* Three per Cent. Consols (200*l.* having been sold to pay the legacy-duty) now stands in the names of Sir James Hanham, Rev. John Baskett, Rev. Charles Bowle, Rev. James Mayo, and Philip Elston.

The dividends (54*l.* per annum) are received half-yearly, by Messrs. Fryer, bankers, of Wimborne, and are paid to the five trustees, in separate shares, at Midsummer and Christmas, amounting to 10*l.* 16*s.* per annum to each.

By three of the trustees their shares are distributed each half-year by means of tickets entitling the bearers to articles of clothing or coals, usually to the amount of 1*l.* 7*s.* at a time, but occasionally to half of that sum. By some of them are kept lists of the applicants, (as well as of those who actually receive the charity,) for the purpose of making inquiry into their circumstances and character, but, from the want of cooperation among the distributors, it may easily occur that the same person should receive the charity from more than one trustee. The feeling attendant upon these circumstances has occasionally prevented the distribution by some of the trustees. Mr. Elston, the under-master, who had been in office one year at the time of our inquiry, had never applied for his share of the fund. There had thus accrued a balance in the hands of the bankers of 54*l.*

It was strongly recommended that periodical meetings of the trustees should be held for the purpose of fixing upon proper objects, and that one general account-book should be kept, to be accessible to all.

WILLIAMS'S CHARITY.

Williams's Charity.

By indentures, bearing date 21st November 1829, and enrolled in Chancery, between Jane Williams, widow, of the one part; and the Rev. Sir James Hanham, bart., the Rev. Charles Bowle, and the Rev. Phelips Hanham, ministers of the parish church of Wimborne Minster; the Rev. James Mayo, master of the free grammar-school, and the Rev. William Oldfeld Bartlett, vicar of Great Canford, of the other part; reciting that the said Jane Williams had purchased the sum of 350*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the said Sir James Hanham, James Mayo, and William Oldfeld Bartlett,—it was declared and agreed that they, the said Sir James Hanham, James Mayo, and William Oldfeld Bartlett, and their successors, should stand possessed of the said sum upon trust, to keep the same in the names of one of the ministers of the parish church of Wimborne Minster, the master of the free grammar-school, and the vicar of Great Canford, for the time being respectively, and to pay the annual dividends of the said stock to the said Jane Williams during her life, or distribute the same as she should direct; and after her death to permit one moiety of the said dividends to be distributed by the said ministers and master of the free grammar-school of Wimborne Minster, for the time being, on Christmas Day, or between that time and the 1st of January, yearly, amongst three men and two women, of the most deserving poor inhabitants of the parish of Wimborne Minster, of the Established Church, those not receiving parochial relief to be preferred; and in such payments the trustees not to be bound in any one year by the choice of objects made in the preceding year; and to permit the other moiety of the said dividends to be distributed by the vicar of Great Canford for the time being; at the same time to be distributed by him, under the like recommendations, amongst three men and two women, poor inhabitants of the tithing of Kinson, in the parish of Great Canford, of the Established Church, with power to the trustees to change the securities, and out of the dividends to pay such expenses as they should incur in the execution of the trusts.

The stock still stands in the names mentioned in the deed. The dividends, 10*l.* 10*s.*, are received by the bank of Messrs. Fryer and Co., who retain 5*s.* for expenses, and pay 5*l.* in respect of the Wimborne moiety to the Rev. James Mayo. He divides this sum between three old men and two old women of the parish, of good character, and not receiving parochial relief, and has hitherto adhered to the same list as he at first adopted.

Church Estate.

Church Estate.

There are in the possession of the churchwardens of Wimborne Minster several account-books, containing the receipts and disbursements of the churchwardens from the year 1475 to the present time. During this long period the rents of certain premises have been carried to the account of the churchwardens; but, with the exception of a house adjoining the church-yard, in the occupation of John Miell, which is supposed to have been derived from the gift of Mary Gundry, hereinbefore mentioned, there is no record or tradition as to the mode by which any part of the property was acquired. The following is a rental of the present Church Estate:—

The whole of the rents have, as long as can be traced, been carried to the general account of the churchwardens, without any specific appropriation, and the same application is now continued. Wimborne Minster. Church Estate, continued.

There has been much reluctance to make a church-rate in the parish, and on an average not above one has been called for in seven years. The support of the ancient minster has been left to depend mainly on the income of the estate above mentioned, and has suffered greatly in consequence. At the time of the inquiry, however, an extensive repair and restoration was going on in the church, for which a subscription had been raised, and it was intended to apply the current rents of the Church Estate towards defraying the expense referable to the substantial repairs.

Thomas Williams's Charity.

Thomas Williams's Charity.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 28th and 29th September 1719, Thomas Williams granted and released to John Williams, Denis Bond, and John Bond, and John Wills, vicar of Bere Regis, and their heirs, seven acres of arable land in Bere Fields; a dwelling-house, orchard, and six acres of pasture ground, lying at Ryehill; a dwelling-house, garden, and orchard, with two grounds, containing about four acres; another house and garden, and a cottage, at Bugbarrow, with half an acre of arable land in Bere Field; all the said premises being situate in the parish of Bere Regis; also a common of pasture for 50 sheep and 10 cows appertaining to the said premises; and the tithes of hay of a certain moor on the west side of Rush Mead in the said parish; upon trust, to apply the rents and profits thereof for teaching and clothing six poor children of the parish of Bere Regis, as many of them as conveniently might to be of the tithing of Shitterton, to be appointed by the trustees; and the said donor directed that none of the said children should be under the age of seven, nor above 14; that they should be taught to read English, and to write and account, and also the Church catechism, which they should answer in the church when required; and that all or as many of them as conveniently might should be boys; and it was declared that it should be lawful for the trustees to deduct out of the rents such costs as they should incur in performing the trusts, and that when two of the said trustees should die the survivors should convey the premises to four persons of the blood and alliance of the said Thomas Williams, inhabiting in the county of Dorset; and, in default of such, to four other gentlemen, living in the said county, upon the same trusts, and so from time to time when two only of the trustees should be living.

There is an endorsement upon the deed, bearing date 2nd August 1720, signed by the said Thomas Williams, and attested by two witnesses, stating that, although he could not legally appoint Mr. John Wills and his successors, the vicars of Bere Regis, to be always of the number of the trustees, yet his desire was that it might be so.

The premises were conveyed to new trustees in 1744, and, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 29th and 30th November 1776, they became vested in John Bond the elder, of Grange; the Rev. Denis Bond, of Egleston; John Bond the younger, of Grange; Nathaniel Bond; and the Rev. Thomas Williams, vicar of Bere Regis; and their heirs; upon the same trusts.

The trustees thus appointed are all now deceased, the Rev. Thomas Williams having been the survivor. A conveyance is about to be made by his heir at law to new trustees.

The premises belonging to the charity consist of the following particulars:—

1.—Seven acres of land (by the customary measure, which is here considered as one-fourth less than statute measure), lying in Bere open field, and the tithe of hay of half an acre, adjoining Rush Mead, let to William Besent, as yearly tenant, at 5*l.* 5*s.* per annum.

2.—Six acres (customary measure) of pasture-land at Ryehill, in the occupation of Caleb Alner, as yearly tenant, with the site of a cottage and garden, at the rent of 6*l.* per annum.

3.—A house, garden, and orchard, with about four acres of land, let to Charles Bascombe, upon lease determinable upon the lives of Charles Bascombe, aged 80, and Anne Bascombe, aged 41, at the yearly rent of 2*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*

This property has been improved by the tenant, and may be now worth about 15*l.* a-year.

4.—A cottage at Bugbarrow, with half an acre of arable land in Bere Field, formerly held at a head-rent of 4*s.*, but now held by William Spicknell, at the yearly rent of 6*l.* 10*s.*

All the above tenants share proportionably together with the schoolmaster in the right of turning out cows on Bere Common.

The land-tax on these premises was redeemed in 1798 at a cost of 23*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

Fisher's Gift.—The Rev. Henry Fisher, in 1773, gave by Will the sum of 100*l.* to the use of the charity school. This money was lent to the late John Bond, esq., of Grange, upon his bond, dated 20th June 1780, at five per cent. interest.

The interest, 5*l.* per annum, was received regularly from the present John Bond, esq., of Grange, up to Midsummer 1828, from which time, in consequence of the circumstances hereafter mentioned, it has been suspended.

Pleydell's Gift.—In 1784, Mrs. Nevill Pleydell gave 5*l.* to the school, which was carried to the general account.

Rev. Thomas Williams's Gift.—The Rev. Thomas Williams, vicar of Bere Regis, during his life-time, in 1813, gave 100*l.*, to be invested in the public funds, for the benefit of the schoolmaster.

Bere Regis.

This was invested in the purchase of 146*l.* 5*s.* 9*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of John Bond, Nathaniel Bond, and the donor.

The dividends, amounting to 4*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* per annum, were received by the late John Bond, esq., and by him paid until his death to the vicar. From Midsummer 1823 nothing has been received by the charity, to which 12 years' arrears, amounting to 52*l.* 12*s.*, were due at the time of our inquiry. Of this sum, seven years' dividends (30*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.*) had been received by the representative of the surviving trustee, and were then in the hands of H. Rowden, esq., his solicitor. The dividends since Midsummer 1830 had not been received at the bank.

There is a school-house at Bugbarrow in Bere Regis, which was built by Thomas Williams, the founder, comprising accommodation for the residence of the master, and a school-room, with a garden.

It is occupied by —— Hawker, rent free, and such repairs as have been required have been done out of the funds of the charity. He was appointed by the trustees in 1823, and kept the school, teaching eight boys free till 1832. He received 10*l.* a-year salary. These children were also supplied by the trustees with a complete suit of clothes every Christmas, at an expense of between 9*l.* and 10*l.* The master took other children, for whom he was paid.

In 1823, the late John Bond and the Rev. Thomas Williams, being the only surviving trustees, gave instructions to prepare a conveyance to new trustees, but, in consequence of the death of the former, it was not carried into effect. Mr. Williams died subsequently; but the school was carried on till 1830, when there being then no person qualified to give a receipt for any payment made to the charity, the tenants of the two principal farms discontinued the payment of their rent. The interest of the bond and the dividends of the stock were also withheld.

No children have since been taught free, and the master has been suffered to continue in the occupation of the house, keeping a school on his own account. The last payment of salary to him was in 1832.

At Midsummer 1835 there was in the hands of Mr. Ley, the vicar, a sum of 44*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.* (subject to some trifling deduction for repairs) in respect of Bascombe's rent and Spicknell's rent, which had been regularly paid to him. There were also due to the charity up to Michaelmas 1835 the following sums:—

|---|---|---|---|
| From William Besent, five years' arrears, at 5*l.* 5*s.* | 26 | 5 | 0 |
| From John Bond, esq., of Grange, seven years' interest from Midsummer 1828 | 35 | 0 | 0 |
| And in respect of the dividends of the 146*l.* 5*s.* 9*d.* stock, 12 years from Midsummer 1823 (subject to the expense of receipt) | 52 | 12 | 0 |
| £ | 137 | 17 | 0 |

It will be for the consideration of the new trustees (after payment of the expenses of the new trust-deed) in what manner this sum shall be disposed of. The school-house being in tolerable repair, an investment in the funds seems to be the most desirable application.

Jane Williams's Charity.

Jane Williams's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 3d September 1830, between Jane Williams, widow, of the one part, and the Rev. Carrington Ley, vicar of Bere Regis, the Rev. George Pickard, of Bloxworth, and the Rev. John Wood, of Millbourne, of the other part, reciting that the said Jane Williams had purchased 350*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the said C. Ley, G. Pickard, and J. Wood,—it was declared that the said trustees would stand possessed thereof upon trust after the death of the said Jane Williams, to permit the vicar of Bere Regis to receive the dividends thereof, to be by him distributed on Christmas-day, or between that day and the 1st of January, yearly, between two men and two women of the most deserving poor inhabitants of the parish of Bere Regis, of the Established Church, those not receiving parochial relief to be preferred, and in such payments the trustees to be in no respect bound in any one year by the choice of objects made in any preceding year. And it was agreed that, upon the death of either of the said trustees, the survivors should transfer the said stock into the names of themselves and another trustee to be appointed for that purpose, the vicar of Bere Regis for the time being to be always one, and the other two substantial freeholders or inhabitants of Bere Regis.

Mr. Wood is since dead, but the stock remains in the same names.

The dividends (amounting to 10*l.* 10*s.*) are received by Messrs. Fryer, bankers, of Wareham, 2*s.* 8*d.* being stopped for expenses. From the residue the vicar distributes, at Christmas, 50*s.* a-piece to two men and two women of the parish, selected agreeably to the directions of the deed. The objects have been changed every year.

The vicar has retained the remaining 7*s.* 4*d.* per annum to meet the expenses of a new transfer.

Poor's Stock.

Poor's Stock.

The table of benefactions records the names of 19 donors of small sums (none exceeding 10*l.*), the interest of which was to be bestowed for the benefit of the poor, partly in bread partly in other modes. The amount of the whole is 120*l.*, which, excepting a sum of 16*l.* 10*s.*

(of which no account can be given), is stated to have been lodged in the hands of a former proprietor of the estate of Charborough, by the churchwardens, upon the security of his bond. Bere Regis. Poor's Stock, continued.

The interest now paid is 4*l.* 10*s.*, which is received from the steward of J. T. W. Sawbridge Erle Drax, esq., when called for. Sometimes two or three years' payments are received at once.

The particular application directed by the different donors is not now attended to, but the whole amount is laid out in half-peck loaves, which are given away at the church amongst such poor persons as are considered by the parish-officers to be most in need.

Bernard Mitchell's Charity.

See 29th Report, p. 109.

There are now seven years' payments, of 1*l.* each, due to this parish.

When received it is given away in bread, by the churchwardens, in the same manner as the preceding charity.

SUBDIVISION OF BROWNSHALL.

PARISH OF STALBRIDGE.

Ferdinando's and Ellis's Charities.

Stalbridge. Ferdinando's and Ellis's Charities.

There are no documents in the parish showing the origin of these charities, which are mentioned in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786, the former as consisting of 100*l.* and the latter of 15*l.*, producing respectively 5*l.* and 15*s.* per annum, but at what times or by what instruments granted was not known.

In 1754 the parish purchased the lease of a house and premises, which were immediately converted to a workhouse, and it is supposed that the principal of the above-mentioned gifts was applied towards the building, as from 27th March 1758 an entry appears of "5*l.* 15*s.* paid, Ferdinando's interest money," from the poor's rates. This payment was kept up until the year 1830, when the surviving life, named in the lease, dropped, and the parish immediately determined to discontinue the payment.

When received the money was distributed amongst the poor, not receiving relief, in small sums.

School.

School.

In Hutchins' County History is recorded a foundation for a school for the poor of this parish, paid by the lord of the manor, but upon this inquiry no satisfactory account could be procured of the documents respecting it, nor could the existence of any other ground for the tradition be ascertained.

PARISH OF STOURTON CAUNDLE.

Winsor's Charity.

Stourton Caundle. Winsor's Charity.

John Winsor, by Will, dated 7th September 1705, and proved 1716, gave to the poor of the parish of Stourton Caundle an annuity of 40*s.*, payable for ever out of all his lands called Ditchellmeere, Green Moore, and Over Downe, lying in Yeovil parish, within the manor of Kingston-juxta-Yeovil, in the county of Somerset, to be distributed yearly, on the 23d December, by the overseers of the poor of the said parish for the time being, and some others of the chief inhabitants, viz., unto every poor householder that hath nothing but his labour an equal part, according to his family, with those that are in more urgent necessity by sloth or other accidents; and if the said overseers and inhabitants should distribute such money for the abatement of the poor-rates, then his Will was that his heirs and successors should distribute the same as therein specified. The lands charged belonged to a person named Row, who paid the rent-charge until his death in 1830. By his Will he devised a part of his property to his son, William Row, and the residue to John Pitcher, of Chilbury, near Yeovil, to each of whom applications for payment of the rent-charge have been made, but, in consequence of a doubt which exists as to the identity of the premises charged, neither party has as yet complied with the demand. Mr. Pitcher, however, has promised to have his papers searched, and to pay the arrears, as well as to keep up the payment in future, in case the charge appears to be upon lands in his possession. The last payment was in 1830, when a sum of 10*l.*, being the arrears for the five years preceeding, was received; this was given amongst the second poor, in sums varying from a few shillings to 1*l.*, according to the number in family.

SUBDIVISION OF COGDEAN.

PARISH OF GREAT CANFORD.

Marchioness of Exeter's Almshouses.

Great Canford. Marchioness of Exeter's Almshouses.

Among the patent rolls of the 2d year of Queen Elizabeth (in the Rolls Office) is preserved a licence from the queen, bearing date 15th December, in that year, by which, after reciting that Gertrude Courtenay, widow, late Marchioness of Exeter, deceased, by her Will, bearing date the 27th day of —— 1557, had given and bequeathed to James Blount, knt., Lord Mountjoye, and the heirs male of his body, the manor and lordship of Canford, in the county of Dorset, and all messuages, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, fees, liberties, and the launds of Canford, and the farm of Upton, and all other her hereditaments within the parish of Canford and Poole, in the said county, to the intent that the said Lord Mountjoye and his heirs male should, within two years next after the death of the said marchioness, erect, build, and found, six several houses within the aforesaid parish of Wimborne, for six several poor men or women, and their successors, there to abide for ever; and further reciting that the said Lord Mountjoye had besought the royal licence to build and found the said almshouses, and to appoint a master or governor; the said queen empowered the said Lord Mountjoye, and his heirs, to erect, endow, and establish a certain hospital or almshouse, of six several houses, within the aforesaid parish of Wimborne, for six several poor men or women, and their successors, there to dwell and be maintained for ever, according to the meaning, form, and purport of the said Will of the said Marchioness, and according to the ordinances and statutes by the said James Lord Mountjoye, or his heirs male, or their assigns in that behalf, to be made and appointed. And the said queen thereby further granted that the said hospital or almshouse, when so built, founded, and established, should be for ever called the Hospital or Almshouse of Gertrude, Marchioness of Exeter, in the parish of Wimborne; and licence was also granted to the said James Lord Mountjoye, and his heirs male, and, in their default, then to the right heirs of Sir Richard Blount, knt., to appoint a fit person to be governor or master of the said hospital or almshouse, and also other persons to be the almsmen and inmates thereof, according to the said statutes and regulations. And the said governor or master and poor persons were thereby incorporated by the name of the governor or master and poor persons of the hospital or almshouse of Gertrude, Marchioness of Exeter, in the parish of Wimborne, with power to hold lands, to sue and be sued, and to have a common seal. And the said Lord Mountjoye, and his heirs male, were thereby empowered to assign to the said governor or master and poor men lands, tenements, and hereditaments, to the value of 50*l.* per annum, beyond all reprises, which they were thereby empowered to hold without any inquisition found, notwithstanding the statute of mortmain.

Upon searching for the Will of the Marchioness of Exeter, it appeared that the only testamentary instrument proved in her name disposes merely of her personal estate, and contains no allusion to the devise to Lord Mountjoye, which, it may be inferred, was by a separate instrument, affecting only realty, and therefore not requiring proof in the Ecclesiastical Court. The muniments of title to the manor of Great Canford, and to the other Dorsetshire estates of the same proprietor (which are in the custody of the Court of Chancery), have been examined, but neither the Will in question nor the actual endowment of the almshouse by Lord Mountjoye, nor his regulations for the government of the almshouse have been discovered.

The manor of Great Canford, formerly the property of Sir John Webb, and subsequently of the late Lady Barbara Ashley, is now vested in the Honourable W. F. S. Ponsonby (the widower of that lady), and Thomas Henry Graham, esq., as co-trustees, the former gentleman being also the beneficial owner for life.

The almshouses consist of six indifferent cottages of brick noggin (i. e., of timber framework filled up with brick), each having a small garden, standing in a low damp situation in the town of Wimborne Minster. They are kept up at an expense of 4*l.* or 5*l.* per annum by the trustees of the Great Canford estate, but are in bad repair.

The six almspeople are appointed by Mr. Ponsonby, without reference to sex or to the place of their settlement, but usually from those who are not in the receipt of parochial relief. At the time of this inquiry two only were parishioners of Great Canford, two were from distant parishes, and two were considered to belong to Wimborne Minster. Three of the number were Catholics.

Each receives from the agent of Mr. Ponsonby, according to ancient custom, the following sums quarterly:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| At Lady-day . . . . . | 0 | 11 | 2 |
| At Midsummer . . . . . | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| At Michaelmas . . . . . | 0 | 11 | 2 |
| £ | 2 | 12 | 4 |

The annual amount of these payments, 15*l.* 14*s.*, as well as the expense of the repairs, when they occur, is allowed in the trustees' accounts, which are regularly passed before a Master in Chancery. It is not known that the above payments have ever varied, though the stipend of 1*s.* per week has of course long been quite inadequate to "maintain" an inmate of the hospital, as it has been suggested ought to be the case in conformity with the terms of the Will. The licence from the Crown does not bear out this supposition, nor is there any evidence to fix such a liability on the Great Canford estate, or to show any right in the almspeople to insist upon a departure from the ancient practice; neither does there seem to be any ground for supposing that parishioners of Wimborne are entitled to any preference of selection as inmates of the almshouses.

Lost Charities.

Lost Charities.

The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 notice a gift by an unknown donor for beef and bread to the poor, but set forth no particulars.

In the year 1796, two bulls and 20 sacks of potatoes were distributed, at Christmas, to the poor by the proprietor of the Great Canford estate, and in the following year one bull; but no document was produced on this inquiry, nor is any authentic tradition preserved tending to fix this gift as a charge on the estate in question.

ROOK'S CHARITY.

Rook's Charity.

A copy of the following extract from a Will was produced to us by the churchwardens of Ibsley.

Gyles Rook, by Will, bearing date the 27th April 1681 (and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury on the 13th May in the same year), gave to the poor of Canford Magna 6*s.* a-year, to be issuing out of the Chantry land lying in Canford Magna, which he bought of Sir Ralph Banks, knt., to be distributed yearly, on New Year's-day, among 12 poor men and women, by the discretion of the occupier of the said land and the overseer of the poor of the said parish for the time being.

This charity is not known ever to have been in operation, nor can the lands be now identified.

CHAPELRY OF KINGSTON OR KINSON.

Kingston or Kinson.

WILLIAMS'S CHARITY.

Williams's Charity.

An abstract of the deed by which this charity was established will be found under the head of the parish of Wimborne Minster in a preceding part of this Report.

Mrs. Williams died shortly after the execution of the deed.

The sum of 350*l.* Three per Cent. Consols is still standing in the names of the Rev. Sir James Hanham, bart., the Rev. James Mayo, and the Rev. William Oldfeld Bartlett, the vicar of Great Canford. The latter gentleman receives annually, about Christmas, 5*l.* 5*s.*, as one moiety of the dividends, from the bank of Messrs. Fryer and Co., in Wimborne, by whose correspondent the dividends are received at the Bank of England.

He pays 1*l.* 1*s.* to each of three men and two women, inhabitants of Kinson, being members of the Established Church, selected by him with reference to their means and character, being for the most part not in the receipt of parochial relief.

WEARE'S CHARITY.

Weare's Charity.

There is an inscription on a tomb-stone in the chapel-yard of Kinson, stating that John Weare, who was buried 15th October 1667, in the name of his daughter Catherine, gave to the poor of Kingston Cudnell and Ensbury 10*s.* yearly, to be paid out of his lands at West Moor, for ever.

In the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 this payment is recorded to have been made out of lands in West Moor, belonging to Isaac Gulliver. The property of Mr. Gulliver vested, on his death, in Mrs. Fryer, whose husband, the late William Fryer, esq., banker at Wimborne Minster, was in the habit of paying a small sum yearly to a poor woman, but without specifying that it was in respect of any charge upon his lands. Upon his death the payment was for a short time discontinued; but, in consequence of this inquiry, a search was made by his representatives, when a notice of the charge was found upon the face of the title-deeds; and the payment of this trifling sum will therefore be no longer withheld.

POOR-HOUSE.

Poor-House.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 31st March 1824, William Fryer conveyed to John Way and two others, parishioners and freeholders of the tithing of Kinson, and their heirs, a piece of waste land on Kinson Heath, at a place called East Howe, containing one acre, in trust for the benefit of the parishioners and inhabitants of Kinson, to be managed and disposed of as they, under an order of vestry, should direct; and it was provided that, upon the death or resignation of any of the trustees, those remaining should appoint others, being inhabitants of Kinson, in their stead, and should convey the premises to the use of themselves and of such new trustee, upon the same trusts.

A building has been erected on this land, which is now used as a poor-house.

PARISH OF CORFE MULLEN.

Corfe Mullen.

LOCKYER'S CHARITY.

Lockyer's Charity.

Richard Lockyer, by Will, bearing date 8th August 1730, reciting that, by consent of the lord of the manor and inhabitants of Corfe Mullen, he had enclosed a parcel of land from the waste of the said manor, on part of which he had built a dwelling-house, and the rest of which he had enclosed for a garden, for the good will which he bore to the poor people of the said parish, and the education of their children, devised to the Rev. William Montague, vicar of Sturminster Marshall, and his successors, and to Thomas Dean the elder, John Mackrell, and Robert Hussey, all of Corfe Mullen, "and their successors," for ever, his messuage or tenement at a place called Pope's Moore, in the parish of Wimborne Minster, and the lands thereto belonging; also a messuage, garden, and orchard, and three acres of land, at a place called Bothenwood, in the same parish; also a parcel of land in Wimborne Minster, called Dyett's Plot; a messuage and two garden plots in the borough of Wimborne Minster; an acre of land in a field near the town of Wimborne Minster, called Redcotts; a plot of meadow ground lying near a lane called Poole-lane, in the parish of Wimborne Minster; also the forepart or share of grass on an acre and a half of meadow ground in a meadow called Barfoot-mead, in the same parish; also four acres of arable land in a field called Kingston-field, in the same parish; a meadow ground at Dudsbury, in the tithing of Leigh, during the remainder of the several terms of years to him therein severally granted, and then unexpired; on trust, out of the rents and profits thereof to pay 10*l.* per annum, by quarterly payments, to such discreet woman of the parish of Corfe Mullen as should be nominated from time to time by the vicar of Sturminster and the other trustees and their successors, for teaching 30 of the poorest children (boys and girls) of the parish of Corfe Mullen, if there should be so many there willing to be taught; with power to the trustees, in case of dissatisfaction, to displace her, and to choose another in her room; such schoolmistress to be an unmarried woman, without children; and he directed that 10*s.* should be laid out yearly, at Christmas, out of the rents and profits, in buying books for the poor children; and he directed the schoolmistress to glaze the windows of the school-house at her own expense, and the trustees to hedge, ditch, and fence the garden; and he directed that the said woman and children should yearly, on every Whitmonday, meet in the church of Corfe Mullen, when the said three trustees should give an account to the vicar of Sturminster of their expenses and disbursements in relation to the trust and premises; and the woman and children should be examined by the vicar and trustees, touching the children and their proficiency; and he desired that the said vicar, or some other person whom he should appoint, should, on the same day, read divine service, and hear the children their catechism, and preach a sermon in the said church, for which he should be paid 10*s.*; and that each of the children then present should have a penny loaf given to them; and that the trustees should afterwards dine together, for which 5*s.* should be allowed, 2*s.* 6*d.* thereof out of the rents of the lands above mentioned, and 2*s.* 6*d.* out of the rents of his lands at Lytchett Minster; and that 20*s.* yearly should be laid by for the necessary repairs of the school-house; and he directed that, when two of the said four trustees should be dead, the survivors should appoint others in their stead, but that the vicar of Sturminster should always be one, and the three others of the parish of Corfe Mullen; and he empowered the surviving trustees to convey the premises, from time to time, to the two new trustees; and he directed that if it should happen that, through negligence or otherwise, the three trustees in Corfe Mullen should be dead, without appointing new trustees, the vicar of Sturminster Marshall for the time being, alone, should have full power and authority to nominate and appoint three other honest and discreet men, of the said parish, to be trustees in the place of those so dying, and to convey the premises to them upon the same trusts, who should have the same power in the premises as if no such omission had been made.

And the said testator also devised to the said four trustees his messuage or tenement in Lytchett Minster, with two small closes of pasture ground, containing by estimation one acre and a half, on trust, out of the rents thereof (except 2*s.* 6*d.* thereinbefore directed to be paid towards a dinner) to bind out an apprentice yearly, a poor boy, of the age of 13 or 14, of the parish of Lytchett Minster, to some trade for seven years, but not to be sent to sea; the trustees to give an account thereof to the said vicar, on Whitmonday, at the church of Corfe Mullen; at which time and place he directed that such poor boy should be so bound; and he directed his trustees and their successors not to alien or exchange any of the lands and premises thereby given, upon any account whatsoever; and he directed that the schoolmistress should teach and hear all the children their catechism every day in the week except Sunday, and that she should be of the Protestant religion; and he directed that, in case the lands and premises thereby given, (excluding his lands in Lytchett Minster,) by reason of advance of taxes or otherwise, should not be sufficient to pay the schoolmistress 10*l.* per annum, the other charges thereby directed being first taken out, it should be in the power of the trustees to lessen the same as in their prudence they should see occasion; and, in case there should be more than would pay the said sum and the other charges, the trustees should apply such overplus amongst the said 30 poor children, in such manner as they should think proper; and he directed that the trustees should keep his said Will, and all other deeds and papers relating to the trust, in a chest which he had provided for the purpose, in the church of Corfe Mullen; but if they should find it inconvenient, by reason of dampness, then in some other safe place: and he directed that whatsoever other lands, not thereby given, he should die seised of should go to his trustees, to the use of the said school, the woman, and poor children; and that, if there should be any residue, after payment of his debts, it should be laid out in the purchase of lands, and the rents and profits thereof employed for the same use.

There have been no regular appointments of trustees, nor any conveyances of the charity property; and it was stated by the agent of the Rev. Dr. Irving (the vicar of Sturminster Marshall and the acting trustee) that there were not in his possession any other documents than the above-recited Will and the books containing the accounts of receipts and disbursements. From the minutes entered in the latter, it appears that Dr. Irving, in exercise of the authority contained in the Will, has from time to time named parties to act as his co-trustees. In 1828 he named Mr. Paxton, Mr. Carleton, and Mr. Moncton; and, in 1831, in conjunction with Mr. Carleton, he appointed Frederick Coventry, esq., and Mr. William Kendall. His present co-trustees are Frederick Coventry, Henry Jenkins, and James Kempe; but the whole control and management of the charity is stated to rest with Dr. Irving, by whom the rents are fixed and received, and the payments are made.

The trust-property consists of—

A school-house at Corfe, comprising a good school-room and residence for the mistress, with a garden, which is in the occupation of Mrs. Dolen, the schoolmistress, rent free.

A cottage adjoining the school, with a garden, in the occupation of John Shorey, who pays 1*l.* 1*s.* per annum.

The site of the whole of the above-mentioned premises contains about an acre. The cottage occupied by Shorey was built by him, and, with the garden, is considered worth about 4*l.* per annum. Corfe Mullen.

A piece of garden ground at the back of the Green Man inn, in Wimborne Minster, containing 3R. 8P., now held by John Carleton, as yearly tenant, at 4*l.* per annum. Lockyer's Charity, continued.

Another garden, opposite the workhouse in Wimborne Minster, containing 1R. 32P., let to William Evans, at 6*l.* This rent is obtained in consequence merely of the situation of the ground.

Eight acres of land near Cow-grove, in the parish of Wimborne Minster, held by Matthew Raindle, at 10*l.* per annum.

A farm-house, with an orchard and four parcels of land, at Grange, in the parish of Wimborne Minster, containing, together, seven acres; held by James Grey, at 14*l.* per annum.

Some meadow land at West Parley, containing 1A. 1R. 16P., now held by —— Elliott, at 3*l.* 3*s.*, making the whole rent 38*l.* 4*s.*

There is also a sum of 52*l.* 10*s.*, New Three and a Half per Cent. stock, invested from savings, standing in the names of Matthew Irving, Joseph Gun, and William Harris. Half of the dividend, which amounts to 1*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*, is carried to the credit of Lockyer's Charity, in the parish of Lytchett Minster, next mentioned; the other half to this charity.

Out of the income the following payments are made:—

|---|---|---|---|
| Insurance | 2 | 0 | 6 |
| Schoolmistress's salary | 14 | 0 | 0 |
| Curate, for preaching a sermon on Whitmonday | 0 | 10 | 6 |
| Cakes and loaves to the 30 free children on that day, about 4*d.* apiece | 0 | 10 | 6 |
| Clothing for the children, about | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Books for the use of the school, and a bible and prayer-book to each child on leaving, about | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Towards the expenses of the annual meeting of the trustees on Whitmonday, about | 1 | 4 | 0 |

The repairs of the school and farm-premises have averaged, upon the last seven years, about 15*l.* per annum.

The school-room was rebuilt about 12 years ago, at a cost of 260*l.*, towards which a sum of 50*l.* was given by Mr. Paxton.

The schoolmistress takes 30 children, boys and girls, who are appointed by the trustees, generally at the recommendation of the curate, and teaches them to read; the girls also learn needle-work, without any charge.

The sum paid for clothing generally supplies the girls with a frock or some other necessary article, and the boys with a smock-frock.

The mistress, who has an assistant, is allowed to take other children: these pay 2*d.* a-week, and she has now about 20 or 30 of that description.

The sermon on Whitmonday is regularly preached, and is attended by the schoolmistress and children.

At November 1835 there was a balance of 32*l.* 15*s.* 1*d.* in Dr. Irving's hands.

Complaints were made of the improper alienation, about the year 1800, of the small detached piece of ground, formerly belonging to this charity, situate in Poole-lane, Wimborne Minster, and mentioned in the testator's Will. Upon examination, it appeared that the ground in question was by computation three-quarters of an acre, by admeasurement little more than half an acre, and was let at 2*l.* 2*s.* per annum; that, under the Act for the redemption of the land-tax, it was valued for sale at the sum of 63*l.*, by Mr. Matthew Raindle, of Wimborne Minster. The usual affidavit of this valuation was made before the Commissioner, and lodged in the clerks' office; and the land, which was close to the town, was then sold at this price to the late Sir James Hanham, bart., by private contract. He paid 51*l.* 10*s.* only at the time of the purchase. The balance of 11*l.* 10*s.*, for some reason which was not explained, remained unpaid during the life of Sir James Hanham, but was at length discharged by his son, the present Sir James Hanham, bart., in the year 1823, with compound interest for the whole period, amounting in all to 33*l.* 5*s.* Although the present value of the piece of ground is very far beyond the price paid by Sir James Hanham, the evidence of inadequacy of price, at the time of his purchase, did not appear such as to call for any interference on behalf of the charity, particularly as Sir James was not one of the trustees when the transaction took place.

Phillipps's Charity.

Thomas Phillipps, by Will, bearing date 10th October 1662, and proved in the Prerogative Court, reciting that he had delivered into the hands of John Ryves 500*l.*, directed that the said sum, and the interest thereof, should be disposed of as thereafter mentioned: viz. as to 10*l.* of the interest thereof, he gave the same to the curate of Corfe Mullen for the time being, provided that, unless the vicar of Sturminster Marshall should make a sufficient allowance to such curate yearly, over and above what was thereby given, the said 10*l.* should not be paid, it not being his intention that by reason of such gift the vicar should lessen the salary of such curate; and, as to 10*l.* more of such interest, he gave the same to the use of 10 poor children of the parish of Corfe Mullen, to be paid to them by his trustees, together with the churchwardens and overseers, as follows: viz. 17*s.* 4*d.* to each poor child yearly, to buy bread and cheese on every Sunday in the year, 2*d.* in bread and 2*d.* in cheese to each, at the great stone, called the Cross, in the churchyard of Corfe Mullen, after the morning service and sermon, and 13*s.* 4*d.* to be paid to the person appointed to buy and distribute the same; and, as to the 13*s.* 4*d.*, residue of the said 10*l.*, that it should be laid out in beef at Phillipps's Charity.

Corfe Mullen.

Christmas yearly, to be distributed to the said poor children at the place aforesaid; and, as to the 10*l.*, residue of the interest of the said 500*l.*, he bequeathed the same, after the death of his sister, Elizabeth Studley, to be laid out by his said trustees, together with the said churchwardens and overseers for the time being, towards clothing, apparelling and binding apprentices such poor children of the said parish as the said trustees, churchwardens and overseers should think fit; and he directed that the said 500*l.* should be invested on good security, or laid out in the purchase of lands of inheritance, and that, if the rents thereof should not be sufficient to pay the several sums thereby given, the said gifts should abate proportionably.

And he also devised to the said John Ryves and four others, and their heirs, all his houses, lands, and tenements, in Blandford Forum, on trust, after the deaths of Hussey Baskett and Catherine Baskett, to apply one moiety of the rents thereof to the binding out poor children of Blandford, and the other moiety towards binding out such poor children of Corfe Mullen as the churchwardens and overseers of the said places respectively should think fit.

It appears from the recitals in a trust deed, bearing date 4th December 1765, being the earliest in the possession of the trustees, that the 500*l.*, bequeathed as aforesaid, was laid out in the purchase of an estate consisting of about 45 acres, in the Lopp hamlet and fields of Littleton, in the parish of Compton Dundon, in the county of Somerset, called Taylor's Tenement, lying in 29 different parcels; and also a moiety of another tenement, in Littleton, with the lands thereto belonging; and another messuage and tenement containing 27 acres and a half, in the said Lopp hamlet, called Cappy's Tenement, in 32 different parcels; and two other closes containing eight acres, called Long Furlong; and another close containing three acres, called South Mead; and a yard of ground called Collhay, all situate in Littleton aforesaid, which were conveyed to trustees by indentures bearing date 20th October and 1st December, 15 Charles II., upon the trusts of the Will of Thomas Phillipps, with a proviso that, when only two of the feoffees should be living, they should convey the premises to the use of themselves and three or four other substantial persons living in or near Corfe Mullen aforesaid.

The property has been regularly conveyed to successive sets of trustees, but it has undergone considerable alterations effected under the provisions of the Sedgmoor Enclosure Act, in consequence of which we annex a particular of the names and contents of the several parcels now comprised in it.

By the last conveyance, being by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 8th and 9th October 1832, the premises were conveyed to the use of Sir James Hanham, William Pitt, William Hanham, Phelips Hanham, and Henry Rowden, and their heirs, upon the same trusts as expressed in the indentures of 15th Charles II.

Of the above-named trustees William Pitt is since deceased.

The houses at Blandford devised by the Will are not included in any trust-conveyance now extant, nor is there anything in the recitals of the deed of 1765 to lead to the supposition that they were ever comprised in any former trust-deed.

The whole of the property at Littleton is situate in the parish of Compton Dundon, Somersetshire, and is in the occupation of Joseph Bartlett, as yearly tenant, at the nominal rent of 80*l.*, which was fixed upon his taking possession in 1830. This rent was paid for the years 1830-1-2-3, subject only to some small deductions for repairs. In 1834 an abatement of 10*l.* was made in consideration of the pressure of the times, and in 1835 the very liberal allowance of 20*l.* upon the representation of neighbouring proprietors.

The rent has been paid yearly to Sir James Hanham, by whom it has hitherto been appropriated in the following manner, after deducting the expense of repairs:

The sum of 3*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* is paid for land-tax.

To the curate of Corfe Mullen (of which Sturminster Marshall is the mother church) is paid the stipend of 10*l.*, by quarterly payments, through the hands of the parish clerk.

Corfe Mullen.

In respect of the second branch of the charity, 10 children, who are recommended by the churchwardens and overseers to the trustees, receive every Sunday in the churchyard sixpennyworth of bread and sixpennyworth of cheese, the payments for which are made quarterly. The children are chosen from the families of industrious parishioners, usually not receiving relief from the rates, and they are changed from time to time at the discretion of the churchwardens and trustees.

The 13*s.* 4*l.* to the clerk for distribution is now raised to 1*l.*

There is also supplied at Christmas to the same children a quantity of beef to the amount of between 3*l.* and 4*l.*

The above payments amount to about 40*l.* per annum.

The residue is applied in apprenticing children, the premiums usually given with whom are 20*l.* each. For this sum the masters maintain their apprentices, who live with the family. Of these premiums one had been paid in 1835, three in 1834, seven in 1833, and four of 15*l.* each in 1832.

There is much to call for remark in the administration of this charity. In the first place, the appropriation of the funds between the three branches (being 10*l.* to the first, 30*l.* to the second, and the residue to the third branch) appears to be at variance with the presumed intention of the testator, who, when he directed that, in case of a deficiency of the income, the three branches should abate equally, evidently contemplated an equal division under all circumstances. A representation to this effect was made to the trustees, in which they most readily acquiesced, and intimated their intention of being guided by it for the future. In fact, it appears, from an ancient paper in their possession, that an equal division was made about a century ago (the rents being then 28*l.* only). The contrary practice may perhaps have arisen (if not simply from the mention of the sum of 10*l.* in the Will) from a desire on the part of the trustees, for the sake of the other branches of the charity, to curtail the stipend to the curate: of which, the same paper stated, it was too notorious that the vicar of Sturminster Marshall had the sole benefit; and that, in consequence of his taking undue advantage thereof, the trustee had for eight years successively refused to make any payment whatever on that account.

Upon an examination of the accounts which had been kept by Mr. Humphrey Leer to the year 1830, but not audited by the trustees, it appeared that a balance of 239*l.* 17*s.* of the charity funds had been improperly suffered to accumulate in his hands. Of this sum 139*l.* 17*s.* was paid in 1831 to Sir James Hanham, the acting trustee, who placed it to the credit of the charity. The other 100*l.* was very irregularly handed over to Mr. W. Pitt, another of the trustees. Mr. Pitt died about Christmas 1833, never having paid this sum to the account of the charity. Pending this inquiry an arrangement was effected with the trustees of his estate, by which this sum was made good; and it then appeared desirable to use the opportunity which it afforded for doing justice to the hitherto neglected object of the charity, the curate of Corfe Mullen. The Rev. C. Woolls was appointed to the curacy at Christmas 1826, since which period the net rents of the charity estates had amounted to 581*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*, of which his proportion should have been 193*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.*, but the amount actually paid him was 87*l.* 10*s.* only; the difference having been devoted (in very unequal proportions) to the two other branches; a sum of 106*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* consequently appeared to be due to him, in part liquidation of which it was accordingly suggested to the trustees that the fund now at their disposal should be applied. The payment of some legal expenses had diminished the 100*l.* received from Mr. Pitt to 86*l.* 4*s.* 10*d.*; but we have satisfaction in stating that the trustees, after retaining a sum of 23*l.* to meet the usual payments for the bread, beef, clerk's and curate's stipends, to Lady-day 1836, paid over to Mr. Woolls the remaining sum of 61*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* in part discharge of his demand, before we quitted the country.

The lost tenements in Blandford formed another subject of inquiry. The ancient paper, above alluded to, states, that they consisted of three small tenements, let upon lives, and were entirely consumed in the then late fire of Blandford (1731), and that there being only one life remaining the trustees had granted a lease, adding two lives, in consideration of the rebuilding of the premises. The name of the lessee is not mentioned. It is added that the said tenements, being small and leased out, had never been inserted in the trust conveyances.

For a very long period the belief has been prevalent in Blandford that the houses here described are some small tenements, situate in a place called Bedlam, formerly in the possession of Mr. James Moore, and now of his son and heir-at-law, Mr. George Moore. The attention of the trustees of this charity was called to it by the churchwardens of Blandford (which town is also interested in the produce of this part of the property devised), but no thorough investigation seems to have been then made. Upon the occasion of the present inquiry, Mr. Moore was examined, and stated that he had been in possession of the houses in question (which are estimated to be worth about 20*l.* per annum) above 30 years, under the Will of his father, who had held them for many years previous to his decease, without any payment or claim for rent on either of them. Mr. Moore, however, admitted that, upon a cursory examination of his father's papers, he had formerly seen a lease of the premises, which to the best of his recollection was for a term of 99 years, determinable on lives, but by whom or to whom granted he could not say. He further stated that he had since searched for this document in vain, and was unable to say what had become of it. A fine, with proclamations, has been levied of this property.

The above circumstances (which induce much suspicion) are all that could be elicited; but Mr. Moore gave his distinct assurance that he would prosecute the search into the history of the property, and that, in case of his being able to satisfy himself of the identity of the premises, they should be no longer withheld from the purposes to which the Will of Mr. Phillipps designed them.

PARISH OF LYTCHETT MINSTER.

Lockyer's Charity.

Lockyer's Charity.

By the Will of this donor (abstracted in the report of the preceding parish) only one messuage and two small closes of land, in the parish of Lytchett Minster, appear to have been specifically given for charitable purposes. It is probable that under the gift of his residue the trustees became possessed of the other premises, which they appear to have derived from him.

Previously to the exchange with Sir Claude Scott, hereafter mentioned, the property of the charity consisted of the following particulars, which are extracted from the survey of the parish made in 1824:—

| Name of Premises. | Tenant. | Description. | Quantity. | Annual Value. |

The 1st, 2nd, 7th, 8th, 9th, and 11th of these parcels, the total acreage of which is 18A. 3R. 8P., and the annual value 8*l.* 0*s.* 7*d.*, were given up by the trustees to the late Sir Claude Scott, bart., in exchange for three closes of land, containing 10A. 1R. 28P., and valued in the survey at 9*l.* 4*s.* 10*d.* per annum. The acquired parcels lie contiguous to the rest of the farm, which is now in a ring fence, and the exchange must be considered as advantageous to the charity.

The present property comprises a farm-house, with outbuildings, and 15A. 1R. 2P. of land, all in the parish of Lytchett Minster, and occupied by George Foot, as yearly tenant, at a rent of 24*l.* A considerable (and as it was represented not a judicious) expenditure was taking place in the repairs of the house at the time of this inquiry. Much seems, however, to have been absolutely required by the condition of the house, which has not been carried beyond the original foundations.

Half of the dividends of the sum of 52*l.* 10*s.* Three and a Half per Cent. Stock, mentioned in the preceding Report, are brought into the account of the trustees.

This charity also is principally under the management of Dr. Irving, who attends at Corfe Mullen every Whitmonday, with some of the other trustees, and receives applications from such of the parishioners of Lytchett Minster as are desirous to have their children apprenticed.

After paying 10*s.* 6*d.*, as half the sum now given for the sermon on Whitsunday, 1*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* as half the expense of the annual dinner, and 1*l.* 0*s.* 3*d.* for the insurance of the premises, the residue of the net rent is applied in apprenticing. The fee paid with each apprentice is 10*l.* Owing to the condition of the premises, and the irregularity of the tenants' payments, the benefit accruing from this charity has been comparatively but little. One boy was put out in 1835; three in 1834; three in 1827. At the time of our inquiry, December 1835, it appeared that the tenant had been in arrear, at the preceding Lady-day, 38*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*, which had not been since reduced. There was then a balance of 17*l.* 17*s.* 2*d.* in Dr. Irving's hands, applicable to the repairs.

PARISH OF STURMINSTER MARSHALL.

Schools.

Schools.

By indenture, bearing date 10th June 1799, between William Mackrell the elder, of Spettisbury, of the one part, and John Harris, vicar of Sturminster Marshall, and four others, churchwardens and overseers of the same parish, of the other part, reciting that the said William Mackrell had lately established two schools in the parish, and appointed two schoolmistresses to instruct 52 poor children, boys and girls of the said parish, to learn their catechism, read and knit, until such boys should attain the age of 13, and such girls the age of 15; but, if the boys should be wanted to drive plough, at any particular season, before the age of 13, they were to do the same, and when that was over to return to the school again till they should be 13 years old; that they were to be brought up to the Church of England, and to attend divine service, with their schoolmistress, every Sunday; and when any of them should die, or attain the said ages, others were to be appointed in their room by the vicar, churchwardens, and overseers of the said parish for the time being, who were also empowered to appoint new schoolmistresses, in case of the death or misbehaviour of either of them; and reciting that the said William Mackrell had agreed to transfer the sum of 1,200*l.* Three per Cent. Consols to the said vicar, churchwardens, and overseers, and their successors, for the trusts therein mentioned; the said William Mackrell thereby granted to the said vicar, churchwardens, and overseers, and their successors, the said sum of 1,200*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in trust, out of the dividends, to pay 30*s.* per annum to each schoolmistress for house rent, and 20*s.* per annum for fuel, to be paid half-yearly; and also to pay to each schoolmistress 2*d.* per week for each child whom she should instruct in reading and knitting, to be paid quarterly, and also to lay out 1*l.* 1*s.* in Easter week, yearly, to provide a dinner on settling their accounts; and also in the said week to have the children appear at the place of meeting, and give to each a sixpenny loaf and a penny cake, on settling their accounts; and also to lay out the remainder of the said dividends in the purchase of books, and other necessaries, to be given to such of the said children as should deserve the same, by being able to read, and as the trustees should think proper.

These schools were carried on in pursuance of the directions of the above-abstracted deed, the mistresses teaching the children in their own houses till the year 1825; when William Churchill, esq., lord of the manor of Sturminster Marshall, by indenture, bearing date 13th January in that year, and enrolled in the Court of Chancery, after reciting the said indenture of 10th June 1799, and reciting that the object of the said charity would be much promoted by the erection of a school-room, and of two cottages for the said mistresses, and that a subscription for that purpose was contemplated, conveyed to Matthew Irving, vicar of Sturminster Marshall, John Barnes and William Bound, churchwardens, and Joseph Adams (since deceased), and Herbert Legg, overseers of the said parish, and their heirs, a piece of ground lying in Sturminster Marshall, called Gallops, containing 12 perches, bounded as therein mentioned, and of which a plan is entered in the margin of the said conveyance, in trust, for the better management of the said school, and the use and benefit of the objects of the said charity, in such manner as the said grantees and the future trustees of the said charity should direct; with a proviso, that, upon the death or departure from the parish of any one of the said trustees, those remaining should, by writing under their hands and seals, supply his place, and that the said trust premises should be conveyed accordingly.

A building, consisting of two school-rooms, was erected by subscription about the year 1831, on the land given by Mr. Churchill, but no cottages were erected. The cost of the whole was 168*l.*

The sum of 1,200*l.* Three per Cent. Consols is now standing in the names of Matthew Irving, John Barnes, and Herbert Legg.

The dividends, 36*l.*, are received by Dr. Irving, the vicar of the parish.

There are two schoolmistresses chosen in the manner directed by the deed, each of whom receives from Dr. Irving 30*s.*, and 20*s.* per annum, and 2*d.* per week for each child, besides 10*s.* for teaching in the school on Sunday. These payments amount to 28*l.* 10*s.* per annum.

The number of 26 children in each school is always kept up, vacancies being filled up by the nomination of the minister and churchwardens. In each school there are both boys and girls; the former are taught reading, and the girls reading and needlework. When the boys are required they are allowed to assist in agricultural labour during the day, and are occasionally taught by the mistresses at night. They are supplied with the usual school requisites, and a bible and prayer-book are given to each when they leave school.

The schoolmistresses are allowed to take 12 children each, in addition to those taught free, for which they are paid 3*d.* a-week by their parents; at present one of them has 12, and the other eight or nine.

The trustees dine together at Easter, when the sixpenny loaves and cakes are given to the children; 1*l.* 1*s.* is charged towards the expenses.

The Sunday school, for which there is no endowment, is taught in one of the rooms, and is attended by between 30 and 40 children.

In April 1835 a balance of 16*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* was due to Dr. Irving from the charity.

LYNE'S CHARITY.

Lyne's Charity.

Thomas Lyne, by Will, bearing date 7th May 1621, gave 20*s.* per annum to the poor of this parish, and for the payment thereof (among other gifts) he charged his tithe of his farm, at Bradford, with his land, called Whitehall, at Burley in the New Forest.

The sum of 1*l.* is received at irregular periods, when it is demanded, from Mr. Shitlar, the tenant of Bradford farm, under Sherborne school, and is distributed by the churchwardens of Sturminster Marshall to poor persons of the parish, not receiving relief, in sums of 1*s.* to 2*s.* 6*d.* to a family.

CHURCH LANDS.

Church Lands.

There are about two acres of commonable land, lying in Evenland field, in the parish of Sturminster Marshall, which are now let to Mr. John Reeves, at 2*l.* per annum, as yearly tenant. The rent is carried to the churchwardens' account.

---

There are three little cottages in the parish, situate near the market-place, said to have been given by a former vicar for the occupation of poor families. They are stated to be worth from 3*l.* to 4*l.* each, and are inhabited by poor persons, who are placed in them by the vicar, but no documents are extant to show in what right, nor could any satisfactory account of their origin be obtained.

Cranborne.

Boveridge Almshouse.

Boveridge Almshouse.

By indenture, bearing date 22d November 1661, between Edward Hooper, son and heir of Thomas Hooper, of the one part, and John Bulkeley and four others, of the other part, reciting the Will of the said Thomas Hooper (the date of which is not mentioned), wherein it is recited that he had erected an almshouse within the manor of Boveridge, in the parish of Cranborne, and had placed therein three poor widows, or single persons, of the said parish, and had yearly delivered to them 6,000 of turfs, and 200 faggots, for fuel, and had allotted to each a garden, and fenced the same and repaired the almshouse at his own cost; and had every second year given to each a gown, and their dinner every Sabbath day, by turn; and by his Will had desired that his heirs, and the future owner of the said manor, should maintain the said almshouse, and should always place therein three poor widows, or single persons, regarding especially such as should have been his servants, or should be the servants and labourers of his heirs, and owners of the said manor, and to bestow on each at Christmas and Easter 12*d.*; and further reciting, that the said Edward Hooper had theretofore fulfilled the said Will, and was desirous further to augment the said provision,—it was witnessed that the said Edward Hooper ratified the said gift, and earnestly desired his heirs, owners of the said manor, to observe the said Will; and for the further endowment of the said poor persons he granted to the said John Bulkeley and others, and their heirs, a parcel of pasture ground, called Overthatchers Leaze, containing 32 acres, in the parish of Manston, upon trust, to employ the said rents for the maintenance of the said three poor widows, or single persons, an officer to receive and pay the said rents; and for the encouragement of a neighbour godly minister, to instruct the said almspeople in the principles of the Protestant religion, subject to the orders of the said Edward Hooper, contained in the schedule thereto, subject to the yearly rent of 6*d.*

By the schedule thereto, the said Edward Hooper directed that his trustees should be called governors of the possessions and revenues of the said almshouse, and should have power to demise the same for 11 years at the best rent; that regard should be had to the moral character of the persons to be placed in the almshouse, and that the trustees should be at liberty to remove them in case of misbehaviour; that the almspeople should be one man and two women, servants of the said Hooper or his heirs, owners of the manor of Boveridge, or, in default of such, then to be tenants of the said Edward Hooper or his heirs within the said manor, or, in default of such, then poor persons of the manor of Cranborne, chargeable or likely to be chargeable to the said parish, one of such almspeople to be able to read to the others prayers morning and evening; the said governors to have power to appoint a receiver to receive and pay the rents, to be called the steward of the said almshouse, and that it should be his care, when the governors were reduced to two, to procure a conveyance of the said lands to the use of the survivors, and four other discreet persons of the neighbourhood, near adjoining to the said manor of Boveridge, of whom not more than one should be resident in the parish of Cranborne; that the whole rents of the said lands (presumed to be about 30*l.* per annum) should be yearly disbursed by the steward for the maintenance of the said almspeople, minister, and steward, as follows, viz.—To the poor people, 2*s.* 4*d.* per week; to the minister, 6*l.* per annum, to be paid quarterly; and to the steward, 4*l.* per annum; and that the steward should procure some orthodox neighbouring minister, to catechise and instruct the said almspeople in the principles of the Protestant religion, to pray with them and preach to them in the chapel at Boveridge every Saturday in the afternoon one hour; that the steward should take care that the almshouse should be repaired, the gardens fenced, and 6,000 turfs and 200 faggots delivered yearly at the said almshouse, by calling upon the heirs of the said Edward Hooper, owners of the said manor; and that the said almspeople should have each a long gown every second year, and each their dinner every Sabbath day, by turn, and 1*s.* to each at Christmas and Easter yearly, as enjoined by the Will of the said Thomas Hooper; that the almspeople should regularly attend the prayers every Saturday afternoon, and if absent three times in succession should be expelled; that care should be taken that not all of the almspeople should be impotent or infirm, but that some or one might be always serviceable, in case of sickness; and lastly, if any of the said almspeople should marry or harbour any one in their house, they should be expelled.

This endowment was confirmed by deed-poll, under the hand and seal of Edward Hooper, son of the said Edward Hooper, and grandson of Thomas Hooper, the founder.

New trustees have been appointed from time to time, the last conveyance being by indentures of lease and release, dated 9th September 1826, whereby the premises were vested in Henry Ralph Willett, esq., Lewis Dymoke Grosvenor Tregonwell, esq. (since deceased), the Cranborne.

Rev. Edward Butt, Richard Brouncker, esq., the Rev. Charles King, and the Rev. James Mayo.

The estate consists of a parcel of pasture land, now in three divisions, containing 32 customary acres, in the parish of Manston, called Over Thatcher's Leaze, now held by Joseph Applin, as yearly tenant, at a high rent of 60*l.* per annum.

The rents of the estate having been greatly advanced, without a corresponding increase of stipend to the almspeople, a balance gradually accumulated in the hands of the steward, which in 1816 amounted to 662*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*; application was then made to the Court of Chancery for directions as to the disposal of this fund, and by an order, made 13th June 1816, it was invested in the purchase of 1,064*l.* 13*s.* 2*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the name of the Accountant-General.

Of this amount, 267*l.* 17*s.* 2*d.* was subsequently sold by order of the court, for the purpose of discharging the costs of the application to the court, which amounted to 92*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.*, and the expense of erecting an addition to the almshouse for the accommodation of two more inmates, which was done at a cost of 120*l.* 15*s.*

The stock thus reduced to 796*l.* 16*s.* was again increased, by the investment of subsequent dvidends, to 921*l.* 19*s.* 5*d.*, which amount is now standing in the name of the Accountant-General; there is likewise a small balance in hand.

The almshouse, which is situate at Boveridge, contains five separate bed-rooms and one common room, with accommodations for fuel, &c., and a garden of about a quarter of an acre. It is kept in repair by the lord of the manor of Boveridge, now Richard Brouncker, esq.

The number of the almspeople was increased from three to five by the order of the court in 1816, but there are at present only four in the house, one of the inmates having been removed in consequence of becoming a lunatic.

They are appointed by the trustees at the recommendation of the lord of the manor, and are persons who have been labourers on the Boveridge estate, or belonging to the parish of Cranborne.

They receive 5*s.* a-week each by quarterly payments, and are also supplied with fuel by the lord of the manor.

The clergyman of the parish and the clerk attend 12 Sundays, during the summer months, at Boveridge chapel, for which the former receives from the funds of the charity 12*l.*, and the clerk 30*s.*

The present steward, Mr. William Evans, was appointed in 1815, with a salary of 8*l.* per annum.

The three latter payments were increased to their present amount in 1816; the total of the above disbursements is 86*l.* 10*s.*; the repairs of the premises do not exceed 20*s.* per annum.

In lieu of the dinner which the poor persons are entitled to receive from the owner of the manor of Boveridge, there is paid to them 7*s.* each yearly at Christmas.

The lord of the manor also supplies them with a cloak or coat each every third year; these benefits, which by the endowment comprised only three persons, have been extended to the two additional inmates by Mr. Brouncker.

HOOPER'S GIFT FOR LOANS.

Hooper's Gift for Loans.

The said Thomas Hooper, by his Will, also directed that 30*l.* should be paid to the churchwardens of Cranborne, on trust, from time to time, with the advice of the minister, to lend forth the same to ten poor artificers and tradesmen of the said parish gratis, 3*l.* apiece, upon good security, for one year, and then to be lent on like security to 10 other poor artificers and tradesmen, that should most want the same, for another year, no part to be lent to common drunkards, &c., but to honest persons, though for more years than one, at the discretion of the churchwardens and minister.

There are persons in the parish who remember sums of 3*l.* being lent out, but no account can now be given of what has become of the money. It appears from the returns of 1786 that 16*l.* of the 30*l.* was then lost.

CARTER'S CHARITY.

Carter's Charity.

Richard Carter is stated to have bequeathed, about the year 1668, 50*l.* to the poor of the parish, the interest to be given in bread on the 21st December by his resident heirs for ever.

No copy of the Will could be produced. The 50*l.* is said to have been invested by the testator's son, about 1690, in the purchase of a cottage and small field in Cranborne Lane, called Carter's Charity, the rents of which have ever since been applied in conformity with the above bequest by the heirs of the testator. Richard Carter, the grandson, discharged the trust for about 70 years, and died in 1787. His grandson, James Stroud, succeeded him, and died in 1835, when the trust property descended to Martha, the wife of Thomas Lovett.

The premises consist of a piece of arable land in Cranborne Lane, containing 2A. 0R. 37P., let to the Messrs. Pothecary, at a fair rent of 50*s.*, the tenants paying all outgoings; a garden and the site of a cottage, containing about 18 perches, now thrown into the ground of John Tregonwell, esq., who pays a rent of 30*s.* per annum, which is understood to be the same rent as was formerly paid for the land together with the cottage, which, being in very bad repair, was pulled down about 20 years ago.

The boundaries are well known, and will now be distinctly marked out. The premises are subject to an annual quit-rent of 1*s.* to Lord Salisbury.

The late James Stroud distributed the amount of the rent of the two parcels of land above mentioned, annually on Saint Thomas's Day, in bread to the poorest persons of the parish, whether receiving parochial relief or not; on his death, the trust being supposed to devolve on his niece, the wife of Thomas Lovett, the rents were received and were distributed by him, for the first time, on St. Thomas's Day, 1835, when 210 four lb. and six lb. loaves were distributed to as many individuals.

Hutchins's Charity.

Hutchins's Charity.

Elizabeth Hutchins, by Will, bearing date 15th May 1676, and proved in the Prerogative Court, gave to the poor of the parish of Cranborne 60*l*., to purchase so much land as the rent thereof would buy, for poor men and women having no weekly relief by collection. Coats (each of them having the letters "J. H." on the right shoulder,) to be given to them by the minister and churchwardens, at their discretion, on the Feast of All Saints, yearly, for ever. A codicil to her Will, bearing date 18th May, in the same year, contains a similar gift to the parish of Ringwood, in the county of Southampton.

The property belonging to this charity comprises three very old cottages under one roof, situate in Salisbury-street, Cranborne, and a garden behind them, containing, altogether, about one-eighth of an acre. They are let, at 2*l*. 10*s*. each, to three poor persons of the parish. Also a field, situate in Blagdon-lane, containing about two acres and a half, now let to the guardians of the union at 5*l*. per annum.

The whole rents (subject only to deductions for repairs) are expended in strong cloth great coats, of the value of 17*s*. or 18*s*. each, which are distributed, at the discretion of the minister and churchwardens, to poor men and boys of the parish. The average number given is 13. In the year 1835, some repairs having been required to the cottages, 10 only were distributed.

Wynne's Charity.

Wynne's Charity.

The Rev. Richard Wynne, vicar of Cranborne, by his Will, (the date of which does not appear,) gave to the poor of the said parish 20*l*., the annual interest thereof to be distributed amongst the poorest of them, on the 21st December, at the discretion of the vicar alone, if he would take the trouble; or else by the overseers.

A bond for the above sum was produced, dated 29th September 1731, given by Thomas Bartlett and others, then churchwardens and overseers of Cranborne, to Edward Hickman, vicar, for securing this sum of 20*l*., with lawful interest. Regular receipts of 1*l*., as interest, up to the year 1778, are endorsed upon it.

Nothing is now known of the money.

Church Lands.

Church Lands.

The premises now held for the use of the church appear, from an abstract of title produced, to have been granted by the description of five cottages, gardens, and a barn, in Cranborne, for the maintenance of divers superstitious uses in the 20th year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and subsequently to have been granted to Edward Hooper and four others, reserving a yearly rent of 3*s*. to the Crown.

The earliest deed by which any trusts are declared is a feoffment, bearing date 3rd June, 9th Charles I., whereby Thomas Hooper granted the premises to Thomas Baskett and 14 others, for the repairs of the parish church of Cranborne, and for charitable uses for a workhouse within the parish of Cranborne, as the trustees, or the majority of them, under their hands and seals, should limit and appoint, with a power to grant leases for any term determinable on one, two, or three lives.

The property has been regularly transmitted by successive conveyances, by the last of which, bearing date 16th and 17th December 1812, it was vested in Viscount Cranborne, (now Marquis of Salisbury,) and L. D. G. Tregonwell and —— Stillingfleet, both since deceased. It consists of—

1. A house and small garden in Wimborne-street, Cranborne, held by James Anstey, under a demise to John Miles, dated 25th March 1793, for 99 years, determinable with the lives of three persons, of whom John Mantle and Josiah Thomas are still living, at a reserved rent of 3*s*. 4*d*. This house is in complete repair, and worth about 8*l*. a-year.

2. A dwelling-house and garden in Cranborne, held by Robert Conay, under a lease granted in consideration of a fine of 36*l*. 15*s*., and dated 26th April 1769, for 99 years, determinable on the lives of himself and Ambrose Conay, his brother, now both aged above 80, at the reserved rent of 4*s*. 4*d*. These premises are in bad repair, and worth about 5*l*. per annum.

3. A parcel of land in Castle-street, upon which a cottage has been built, held by Thomas Lovett, under an agreement for a lease, at the reserved rent of 2*s*., for three lives. These premises were let by auction in 1829, when Lovett agreed to pay a fine of 10*l*. for a lease determinable on the lives of three persons then named; but, becoming insolvent, the parochial officers, as his assignees, have agreed to abide by the terms of the agreement. The house, though new, is in a very bad state, and of no further value than the materials.

4. A dwelling-house and garden, in the occupation of Mrs. Miles, and a barn and garden occupied by —— Smart; the whole worth about 12*l*. a-year; held under a demise to Elias Williams, dated 5th April 1768, for 99 years, determinable on the lives of three persons, of whom Richard and John Williams, aged respectively 88 and 79, are now living, at the reserved rent of 5*s*.

5. A house and garden in Cranborne, now held under a lease dated 29th October 1788, to Ann Newman, for 99 years, determinable on the lives of three persons, of whom Elizabeth Harvey and Ann Stroud, aged each 65, are now living, at the reserved rent of 3*s*. 4*d*. This tenement is in good repair, and said to be worth about 6*l*. per annum.

6. A house in Shaftesbury-street, with a small garden adjoining the church-yard, in good repair, let to Joseph Mould and Widow House, as yearly tenants, at a rack-rent of 6*l*. per annum. This rent has not yet become due.

The reserved rents, which amount to 18*s*. per annum, have, in fact, not been received; but directions have recently been given by Lord Salisbury to enforce payment. About six years ago the payments had been suffered to fall into arrear for a period of 26 years, when a claim upon the several tenants, and a small portion, amounting in all to about 1*l*. 10*s*. only, was recovered.

Of the tenants, some are paupers, who were in the receipt of parochial relief until the recent regulations of the Poor Law Commissioners. Cranborne.

Of the fines which have been received on letting the leases above mentioned, the only one now recollected to have been applied in repairing or beautifying the church, is the sum of 36*l.* 15*s.*, received in 1769, from which time nothing has been expended on the church from this fund. An occasional payment has been made, in augmentation of the stipend of the curate of Verwood, (a hamlet of the parish,) from this source; but there seems to be nothing to warrant such an appropriation. The church-rates are trifling; but the church, which is spacious and handsome, is in very good repair. Church Lands, continued.

PARISH OF EDMONDSHAM.

Edmondsham.

Hussey's Charity.

Hussey's Charity.

Thomas Hussey, by Will, bearing date 25th July 1684, gave a tenement, called St. Quintin's, to the overseers of the poor of the parish of Edmondsham, and their successors, to be a habitation for two poor people of the parish; desiring them, at the charge of the parish, to keep it in good reparation: and he also gave, towards the maintenance of the two poor people settled in the said house, by the advice and consent of the heir of his family, his trustees hereinafter named, and the said overseers and their successors, the sum of 5*l.* yearly, to be divided between them; which sum of 5*l.* yearly he desired to be purchased by money raised by the sale of timber-trees. Two poor widows of the parish receive 1*s.* a-week each from Mrs. Monro, the owner of an estate in Edmondsham, formerly belonging to Mrs. Bower.

It was stated by Hector Monro, esq., her son, that the cottages called St. Quintin's are reported to have stood in the gardens of Mrs. Monro's residence, but that the situation was not known by the oldest persons in the parish; and that, about 50 years ago, in consequence of the neglect of the parish officers to repair the tenements, the two poor persons who are in the habit of receiving this money were, from motives of compassion, removed to a cottage, the property of Mrs. Bower. This tenement is still so occupied; but, though inhabited, is in a ruinous condition, as the parish officers have refused to repair it unless the property be given up to them; and Mrs. Monro has declined, so long as any claim is laid to it by the parish. In these circumstances it is obvious that an arrangement can be anticipated only from a spirit of mutual accommodation in the parties.

Goldyer's Charity.

Goldyer's Charity.

In the account of the charities of the parish of St. Peter and St. Paul, Marlborough, in the county of Wilts, (29th Report, p. 1399,) will be found an abstract of the declaration of trust, bearing date 5th March 1808, of the sum of 333*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced Stock, transferred by John Goldyer, in that year. The stock is now standing in the names of the Rev. Erasmus Henry Griffin Williams, Charles Gregory, the Rev. Sanderson Robins, and William Hector Bower Monro. The sum of 5*l.*, being half the dividends, is annually received by Mr. Robins, who is the rector of Edmondsham, and applied by him in the purchase of sixpenny loaves, which are distributed on Christmas-day, and on the four succeeding Sundays, to the poorest persons of the parish.

Church Land.

Church Land.

There is a parcel of land in this parish, containing about four acres, lying undivided from the adjoining property, but easily distinguishable and well known, the rent of which is carried to the churchwardens' account, and applied to the general purposes of the church-rate.

It is now let to John Davis, as yearly tenant, at 4*l.* per annum, which is rather more than the rate at which he rents the adjoining lands.

Lost Charity.

Lost Charity

It is stated, in the Parliamentary Returns, that the Rev. Mr. Withington, by Will, left some land to the poor of this parish, then vested in Mr. Gilbert, and producing 1*l.* a-year.

The sum of 1*l.*, or 1*l.* 1*s.*, used to be received from the tenants of Moyle's Court Farm, near Ringwood, in the county of Hants, and to be given, in clothing, to the poor by the churchwardens.

The payment was discontinued, by the owner of the property, about 20 years ago; and, as no evidence could be produced of the charge, by the churchwardens, it has never been resumed. The further search, consequent on this investigation, has been without success. The loss of a gift, of similar amount, from the same testator, occurs in the report of the parish of Boldre, Hants.—Report, p. 484.

Williams's Charity.

Williams's Charity

By indenture, bearing date 3rd September 1830, between Jane Williams, widow, of the one part, and Matthew Wasse Place, rector of Hampreston, David Okeden Parry Okeden, manager for the lord of the manor, and Christopher Warland, a freeholder of the said parish, of the other part, reciting that the said Jane Williams had purchased 350*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the said M. W. Place, D. O. P. Okeden, and C. Warland,—it was declared and agreed that they, the said trustees, would stand possessed thereof, upon trust, after the death of the said Jane Williams, to permit the rector of Hampreston for the time being to receive the dividends, to be by him distributed on Christmas Day, or between that day and the 1st of January, yearly, amongst two men and two women, poor inhabitants of Hampreston, of the Established Church, whom he should consider most deserving, those not receiving parochial relief to be preferred; and, in making the payments, not to be bound in any one year by the choice of objects made in the preceding year. And it was agreed that, upon the death of the said M. W. Place, the said D. O. P. Okeden and C. Warland, or the survivor, should transfer the stock into the names of the succeeding rector, the lord of the manor of Hampreston for the time being, and one other freeholder and householder of Hampreston, to be chosen at a vestry to be assembled for the purpose; and so, from time to time, in order that the said sum of 350*l.* should for ever remain in the names of the rector, the lord of the manor, and a substantial householder, upon the same trusts.

The said M. W. Place and D. O. P. Okeden are since dead. Mr. Place having been the survivor, there has been no transfer of the stock; but it is intended that it should be transferred immediately into the names of the Rev. E. P. Blunt, the present rector, Edward Greathead, lord of the manor, with Christopher Warland.

Mr. Blunt received the dividends for one year (10*l.* 10*s.*) at Christmas 1834, from the bank of Messrs. Fryer and Co., at Wimborne, and distributed the amount, in sums of 1*l.* and 10*s.*, amongst poor men and women, selecting those whom he considered most deserving and industrious, and not in the receipt of parochial relief.

The attention of Mr. Blunt being called to the clause directing the dividends to be distributed between two poor men and two poor women, he expressed his intention to adhere to that mode of application in future.

Lovell's Gift.

Lovell's Gift.

An entry in the parish register states that Edward Lovell gave 5*l.* for two poor widows not having had relief, and that 5*l.* more had been saved by the rector. This sum has passed to each successive rector of the parish from his predecessor, paying 10*s.* per annum as the interest. It was handed over, by the executor of the preceding incumbent, to the Rev. E. P. Blunt, the present rector, and is now in his hands.

Hoskins's Charity.

Hoskins's Charity.

The register also records that Mrs. Dinah Hoskins bequeathed the interest of 30*l.*, in the Three per Cent. Consols, in aid of Lovell's Charity.

This 30*l.* forms part of a sum of 150*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, standing in the names of Edward Greathead, esq. and the Rev. Matthew Wasse Place.

The dividends (18*s.*) are received by Messrs. Fryer, of the Wimborne bank, and are by them paid to the rector of Hampreston, who distributes them at Christmas, together with the 10*s.* arising from Lovell's Gift, to poor parishioners, in small sums. A list of the names, and an account of the sums, is kept.

Coker's Gift.

Coker's Gift.

The Rev. Roger Coker left the interest of 120*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, for the use and benefit of the Hampreston Sunday and other schools.—(Parish Register.)

This sum forms the remainder of the 150*l.* stock standing in the names of Edward Greathead, esq., and M. W. Place, mentioned under the preceding charity.

The dividends (3*l.* 12*s.* per annum) are paid to the rector, and by him added to the general fund of the National and Sunday School, which is supported by voluntary subscriptions. About 70 children, from this and the neighbouring parishes, attend this school.

PARISH OF WEST PARLEY.

West Parley.

Corbyn's Charity.

Corbyn's Charity.

Thomas Corbyn, by deed-poll, dated 26th November 1615, granted to the poor people of West Parley a parcel of land called Frezells, containing, by estimation, three acres, bounded on the north side by the water called the Moors' river; and he ordained that there should be, for ever, two friends in trust, as stewards or guardians, for the better performance of his Will; and he appointed Lawrence Pickard, parson of the parish of West Parley, and James Corbyn, for their lives, to take into their hands, and to let, for the benefit of the said poor, the said lands. And he desired them to bestow the said rents in woollen and linen cloth to clothe the said poor where most need should be; provided that no part should be given to the poor man's box, nor to any other use, save 2*s.* which he gave to his said two friends for their pains, yearly. And, after the death of the said Lawrence Pickard, then to his successors, parsons of the same church, for ever. And, after the death of the said James Corbyn, then to his heirs, successors of the same lands and houses in Woodtown, in the parish of West Parley; they ordering all things for the comfort of the said poor people, for ever.

The premises consist of two small meadows, and a rough piece of ground of very inferior quality, altogether about two acres and a half: they are occupied by John Gould, (whose land they adjoin,) as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 2*l.* 10*s.*

There is a little timber on the land, which about suffices for occasional repair of the fences. The rent is paid regularly to the Rev. Dr. Ness, the rector; the owner of the Woodtown farm now never interfering.

It used formerly to be given to the second poor only, but is now given by the rector, at intervals of three or four years, to every family in the parish, by tickets entitling the bearer to useful articles of linen or woollen clothing; the highest sum amounting to 4*s.*, the lowest to s., per head, of the individuals in family.

The last distribution was in February 1835: out of five years' rent then due, 11*l.* 4*s.* was given away, leaving a balance, in the hands of Dr. Ness, of 1*l.* 6*s.*, which has since been increased, by the rent at Michaelmas 1835, to 3*l.* 16*s.* West Parley.

CHURCH LAND.

An annual payment of 1*l.* 7*s.* is made to the churchwardens by the tenant of the trustees of the late Roger Bramble, in respect of a small portion of land containing about two acres, formerly enclosed, but latterly thrown into the adjoining farm, and cultivated with it. This sum, which is stated to be by no means an adequate rent for the two acres of land, is applied in aid of the church-rate. Church Land.

REAK'S GIFT.

The Returns of 1786 state this donor, in 1775, to have left, by Will, a rent-charge of 1*l.* to the poor; the devise was consequently void, and nothing is known to have been received in respect of it. Reak's Gift.

PARISH OF CHURCH KNOWLE.

Church Knowle.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 state that a sum of 35*l.*, given by a donor whose name is unknown, was vested in the parish officers, for the use of the poor, who received 35*s.* per annum as the interest. The original return, which was made upon the oath of the Rev. John Richards, (afterwards Clavell,) the late rector, as well as of the churchwardens, is copied in Hutchins's History of Dorset, and states that the money had been many years in the hands of Mr. Bond, of Grange, who regularly paid the 35*s.* interest. Donor unknown.

It was stated by Mr. Voss, a most respectable inhabitant of the parish, that the late rector, Mr. Clavell, had informed him that he was in the habit of receiving 35*s.* a-year from the late John Bond, esq., of Grange, till the time of the death of the latter, which took place about 10 or 11 years ago. That this sum was not given away by Mr. Clavell, specifically, but was considered to be included in the price of a bullock, which it was his custom to distribute, at Christmas, to the poor of Knowle and Kimmeridge. Mr. Voss also stated that he had, some years since, seen a letter to Mr. Clavell, from his brother in London, announcing payment of the charity to have been there made to him by Mr. Bond. Nothing has been received, on account of it, since Mr. Bond's death.

The churchwardens' and overseers' books contain no entry relating to this money.

Upon referring to John Bond, esq., of Grange, the son and representative of the late Mr. Bond, he stated that neither the widow of Mr. Bond, nor himself, recollected any mention of the payment, nor could find any memorandum or trace of it among the testator's papers; but that, if he could be morally satisfied that the 35*l.* was in the late Mr. Bond's hands, it should be discharged. It does not appear that any doubt attaches to the account given of the representations of the late Mr. Clavell; and it is therefore to be hoped that, though no legal claim now remains, Mr. Bond will not permit the charity to lose the money.

POOR'S MONEY.

A sum of 4*l.* remained in the hands of the overseers of this parish, up to the year 1795; in respect of which 4*s.* per annum, as the interest, was allowed to the poor. The principal was then applied to parish purposes; and, after one year, the payment of interest was discontinued. Poor's Money.

BREWER'S CHARITY.

Anne Brewer, who died in November 1819, gave the interest of 20*l.*, Three per Cent. Stock, to be distributed, on Good Friday, to the aged poor of this parish, by the vicar. This sum was purchased in the name of the Rev. James Mayo, by whom the amount of the dividend (14*s.* 6*d.*) has been distributed in bread, every Easter, amongst poor people of this parish, according to a list made out by the churchwarden. In consequence of his resignation, at Michaelmas 1834, a transfer to his successor, and a new power of attorney for the receipt of the dividend, has become necessary, which will absorb the produce of the fund for above two years. lease for 99 years, determinable on three lives, of whom the survivors are John Foster, now aged 35, and John Dorey, aged 29; and a dwelling-house and four acres of land, part of which is occupied as garden-ground, and an orchard, now held by —— Cox, under a lease for 99 years, determinable on three lives, two of which are now surviving, aged respectively 39 and 24. The rent upon each is 10*s.* The churchwardens have always managed and let the property. The fines on the last lettings, which were 20*l.* and 1*l.* 1*s.*, were carried to the church-rate, as are the reserved rents.

The value of the premises is stated to be near 20*l.* a-year, which is the ordinary amount annually raised by the church-rate.

PARISH OF SPETTISBURY.

Charities of Bishop Hall and Dr. Sloper.

Spettisbury.

Charities of Bishop Hall and Dr. Sloper.

The Rev. Charles Sloper, D.D., by Will, bearing date 3rd August 1727, gave to his executors, John Haines and Robert Wake, the residue of his estate, for such charitable purposes as they should think fit.

Upon the death of Dr. Sloper, an information was exhibited in the Court of Chancery, by the Attorney-general, against the executors, to take an account of the testator's estate, and to carry into effect the trusts of the Will; and, upon the hearing, the usual reference to the Master was directed.

By his report, dated 2nd July 1733, the Master set forth an account of the estate, and approved of a scheme that had been laid before him for the application of a part thereof, and for investing the residue, including a sum of 240*l.* which had been given to the testator by Bishop Hall, and was mentioned in a certain deed executed by the said testator, and bearing date 5th August 1727, in the purchase of land in the county of Dorset, from the rents of which 20*l.* should be yearly applied to the maintenance of a schoolmaster, to be nominated by the trustees therein mentioned, and who should reside in one of the parishes of Charlton and Spettisbury, and instruct the children of poor inhabitants of the said parishes in reading, writing, and arithmetic; and that a sum, not exceeding 40*s.*, should be yearly applied, out of the rents, in providing pens, ink, and paper to be used by such children; and that a sum, not exceeding 5*l.* yearly, should be paid to such person as the trustees should employ as their agent in looking after the purchased premises, and in receiving the rents and profits thereof, and in applying the same according to their directions; and that the overplus of the rents should be yearly applied in the purchase of bibles, on the outside of which should be printed these words:—"The gift of Bishop Hall and Dr. Sloper." And that such bibles should be yearly distributed by the said executors; and, after their death, by the respective rectors of the parishes thereinafter named, amongst such poor inhabitants of the respective towns as to them should seem meet, and in the proportions following: viz., among the poor inhabitants of the town of Dorchester, one-sixth part thereof; of the town of Shaston, one-sixth; of the town of Blandford Forum, one-sixth; of the town of Bridport, one-sixth; and the remaining two-sixths equally, or as near as might be, amongst the poor inhabitants of the respective parishes of Charlton, Spettisbury, Cattistock, Wraxall, and Chilfrome.

By a decree of the Court, bearing date 12th December 1733, the said scheme, as far as the same is above recited, was approved; and it was ordered that, when the number of trustees should be reduced to three, the survivors should appoint such other persons as they should think fit; and that the monument and tombstone then lately put up in the church and churchyard of Charlton, in memory of the said testator, as occasion required, should be repaired out of the rents and profits of the purchased premises; and that the several sums of money, and the residue of the testator's personal estate, should be applied according to the said scheme.

In pursuance of the said decree, certain lands and hereditaments in the parish of Cattistock were purchased with the sum of 1500*l.*, being then the amount of the funds applicable to the said charitable purposes; which premises, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 9th and 10th October 1775, were conveyed to certain trustees and their heirs, upon trust, to apply the rents and profits to the charitable uses directed by the said decree.

In the year 1802, another information was exhibited in the said Court, praying for the appointment of proper persons to be trustees of the charity estate; and, by two decrees of the Court, the one bearing date 26th November 1805, and the other 20th May 1806, it was referred to the Master to appoint proper persons to be trustees, and to inquire whether any and what augmentation ought to be made to the salary of the schoolmaster of Spettisbury.

The Master, by his report, bearing date 28th November 1806, and which was afterwards confirmed by an order of the Court, appointed certain persons to be trustees, and certified his opinion that three-fourths of the net produce of the estates would be a proper salary to be allowed to the said schoolmaster.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 24th and 25th March 1807, in pursuance of the said directions of the Court, Mary Gapper, John Symes, and Thomas Smith, as the heirs-at-law of Henry Sherive, the surviving trustee, conveyed to Henry Hall and eight others, and their heirs, the several trust premises by the description of a dwelling-house and cottage, containing, by estimation, one acre; a close, called Millhay, containing three acres; a close, called Horsemoor, containing three acres; a close, called Westwoods, containing five acres; and 13 acres of arable land in the common-fields of Cattistock, with common of pasture for four rother beasts, two horses, and 70 sheep, in the commonable places of Cattistock; also a close of meadow, called Broadmore, containing three acres; another close of meadow, called New Close, containing three acres; and 22 acres of arable land in the common-fields of Cattistock; and common of pasture for 80 sheep and six horses or beasts in the commonable places of Cattistock; also a parcel of ground in Cattistock, whereon a cottage formerly stood, and a close of meadow adjoining thereto, containing one acre; another close of meadow, called Tizard's-hedge, containing two acres; and five acres of arable land in the commonable fields of Cattistock; and common of pasture for 40 sheep, 11 rother beasts, and one horse beast, in the common and waste grounds of Cattistock; all the said premises being situate in the parish of Cattistock; upon trust, from time to time, for ever, to pay three fourth parts of the clear annual rents and profits of the said premises to the said charity schoolmaster for the time being, and to apply the remaining fourth part thereof for the several charitable uses mentioned and directed in and by the said decree of 12th December 1733, concerning the same; with a proviso that, when the number of the trustees should, by death or otherwise, be reduced to three or fewer, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves and such new trustees as the said survivors should think fit to nominate and appoint upon the several trusts aforesaid; and so, from time to time, to the intent that the number of trustees might be kept up to nine persons.

In pursuance of an Act of Parliament of 47th Geo. III., for dividing the open fields and commonable lands in the parish of Cattistock, the Commissioner, by his award, bearing date 14th May 1816, set out to the trustees of Sloper's Charity the following allotments:—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| A piece of arable land, in the Higher-field of Cattistock, containing, by admeasurement. . . . . | 22 | 3 | 1 |
| A piece of arable and pasture land, in the Higher-field and Down, containing . . . . . | 46 | 1 | 2 |
| A piece of pasture land at Swanhills, in Cattistock, containing . . | 0 | 0 | 15 |
| A piece of pasture land, on the down or hill within the said parish, containing 10A. 0R. 37P.; which said last-mentioned allotment was, by the said award, exchanged for a close of meadow and pasture land, situate at Swanhills, and containing . . . . . | 2 | 1 | 10 |

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 10th and 11th March 1834, the Rev. Thomas Rackett, William Mackrell, and Thomas Horlock Bastard (the elder), conveyed to the use of themselves and Edward Berkeley Portman, William John Bankes, John Samuel Wanley Sawbridge Erle Drax, Samuel White Driver, George Bunter Clapcott, and Thomas Horlock Bastard (the younger), and their heirs, the messuage, closes, pieces or parcels of land, buildings, hereditaments, and premises, comprised in the said above-abstracted indentures of 24th and 25th March 1807, except such parts thereof as, under the said Inclosure Act, had been awarded to any person, in exchange for or in lieu of any other lands in the same parish; and also all and singular the lands, tenements, and hereditaments which, by virtue of the said Act, were awarded to the said trustees, in exchange for or in lieu or in respect of any of the lands, tenements, and hereditaments comprised in the said indentures of 24th and 25th March 1807, or any right of common, or other rights relating thereto, upon the trusts, and subject to the powers and provisos declared concerning the same in the said last-mentioned indentures.

The trustees are all living.

There is a school-house sufficient for the residence of the master, with a separate school-room, and a garden of about half an acre, in the village of Spettisbury.

The whole of the estate is now situate within a short distance of the farm buildings, although a portion lies in detached parcels. It is let to Edward Medway, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 110*l.* There is a very good farm-house, a new barn, and suitable outbuildings, upon which an expenditure of about 100*l.* has taken place within the last seven or eight years. The trustees meet occasionally to decide upon the appropriation of the rents, in which the precise proportion of one-fourth to the purchase of bibles, and three-fourths to the school-master has not been attended to, the trustees considering the latter as the primary and more important object. The deviation has been considerable, but it is the intention of the trustees, as soon as a balance now against the charity is cleared off, to observe the prescribed proportion.

The master, Mr. John Hayward, who was appointed at Midsummer 1834, has hitherto received a salary of 50*l.* per annum, for which he takes all the children (not under seven years of age) of the labouring classes of the parishes of Spettisbury and Charlton Marshall who apply for admission, and teaches them reading, writing, and arithmetic, without any charge, except for such materials as they require, and ½*d.* a-week for fire during the winter months. The number of free children (boys and girls) attending amounted at the time of our inquiry to 45, some of each parish. He is also allowed to take children from other places, who pay for their education, and of these there were 17 paying 5*s.* a quarter.

When the proportion of the income applicable to the distribution of bibles is ascertained, the amount is handed over to the Rev. Thos. Rackett, Rector of Spettisbury cum Charlton, who purchases the bibles from the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge, has the donors' names printed upon the outside, and sends their respective share of the number to the Rectors of Dorchester, Shaftesbury, Bridport, and Cattistock; part of the bibles distributed at Blandford, and all those for the other parishes, are retained by him. These are appropriated between the parishes according to the number of families which each contains.

The payments for bibles in the last 10 years have been as follows:—1826, 20*l.*; 1827, 18*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.*; 1831, 57*l.* 10*s.*; 1834, 40*l.* In 1834 a sum of 72*l.* 5*s.* appears to have been paid for law-expenses.

The sum of 40*s.* for stationery in the school has not been specifically given.

E. Smith's Charity.

The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 state that a sum of 25*l.* given by the Will of Edward Smith in 1769, was then vested in the Rev. William Chafin, and produced 1*l.* per annum. Mr. Chafin applied this money, which was paid regularly to the time of his death, in putting two children to school. Nothing has since been received; his personal estate being barely adequate for the payment of debts, and there being no reason to suppose the sum to have been charged upon his real estate, although the purchaser, Abraham Chambers, esq., for some time contributed liberally to the maintenance of a school in the village, which is supported solely by voluntary subscriptions.

Poor's Money and Land.

A sum of 15*l*, said to have been given to the Poor by a Mrs. Isaac, (at what time is unknown,) remained in the hands of the overseers of the poor of the parish, and was paid over by each to his successor until the year 1789; 15*s.* as interest was regularly distributed amongst the second poor annually. In that year the principal was applied in aid of the rates, from which the interest continued to be paid till Easter 1805, when a new tenant resisted the payment, and, though its resumption has been repeatedly pressed upon the parish, it has not been attended with success.

It also appears by the overseer's books that a payment of 10*s.* yearly was made as the rent of a piece of land in the parish, called West-drove Close, and was distributed amongst the second poor. The payment, which is regularly entered down to 1806, was made by the tenant of the adjoining farm belonging to James John Farquharson, esq. At that time a change in the tenancy took place, when the new occupier refused payment on the ground that the close in question was measured in with the rest of the land that he rented from Mr. Farquharson.

Application has been made to Mr. Farquharson, who has signified his willingness to resume the payment of the 10*s.* per annum.

Goodfellow's Charity.

Goodfellow's Charity,

A tombstone in the church of this parish records that Roger Goodfellow, who died in 1730, left the yearly rent of his meadow called North Close, to the second poor of the parish, for ever.

The Will is reported to have been destroyed in the fire of Blandford.

It is not known that the property has ever been conveyed to trustees, but the owners of the manor and the surrounding property have always acted in the administration of the charity.

The land consists of a meadow, containing 4A. 3R. 32P., which is held by the Rev. Robert Salkeld, the lord of the manor, and is underlet by him, together with an adjoining field of four acres, his own property. The tenant pays 15*l.* per annum, of which Mr. Salkeld has considered 11*l.* 11*s.* as the rent of the charity portion.

The land-tax of 7*s.* 8*d.* was redeemed in 1813 for 8*l.* 10*s.* 5*d.*

This rent is regularly brought to account, together with the dividends of 100*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, purchased, in January 1816, in the name of William James Salkeld, esq., now deceased, the brother of the present proprietor, with 61*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*, the produce of timber cut on the land. This stock forms part of a larger sum standing in the name of Miss Ann Salkeld, the residuary legatee of W. J. Salkeld.

There is no timber now fit to cut, but there are some growing trees.

The income (amounting to 14*l.* 11*s.*) subject to the payment of 1*l.* 12*s.* for tithe, is given away, usually in the month of February, in sums varying from 10*s.* to 2*l.* 10*s.* to poor persons, generally eight or nine in number, not receiving parochial relief, who, except for good reason to the contrary, are continued on the list for life.

The occasional repairs for gates and fences have been done at Mr. Salkeld's expense.

It was recommended that, to prevent confusion of the charity property, Mr. Salkeld should vest both the land and the stock in some other persons jointly with himself.

PARISH OF HAZLEBURY BRIAN.

POOR'S LAND.

In the parish church is a tablet prepared and put up about the year 1799, which records that, by deed bearing date 19th March 1655, certain lands in the said parish thereunder described, and then called the Poor's Lands, the gift of some person or persons then unknown, were conveyed to 17 persons therein named, in trust, to dispose of the rents thereof for the better maintenance and relief of such poor widows, fatherless and other poor and impotent people of the parish as should happen to have most need, and be the most orderly, honest, and well-behaved (but not for disorderly or unruly persons), as the trustees should in their judgment think most fit and deserving. And it was agreed, that when ten or more of the trustees should be dead, and only seven left living, the surviving trustees should name ten or more trustees to fill up the vacancies from the tenants and inhabitants of the said parish, and should execute proper deeds of conveyance. Of the original conveyance no account can be given.

It appears from a book containing the accounts of the trustees, but which commences only with an entry, date 10th November 1817, that there were then 14 surviving trustees. No new trustees have been since appointed, and of those 14 only five now survive, of whom one is superannuated, one a lunatic, and one a convict; and the other two—of whom one (George Toreville) attended our inquiry—have not acted in the trust for the last 14 years.

It appeared from the perusal of a bill of costs of Messrs. King and Johns, attorneys, of Blandford, that a petition to the Chancellor had been prepared, in May 1813, by the Rev. Francis Reed (then rector) and several of the inhabitants, alleging that the charity lands were held by certain of the trustees as tenants, at rents below their value, and a meeting of the trustees was called on the 31st May, to consider this complaint. It was thereupon resolved that the lands should be let by auction, and agreements were drawn up by Messrs. King and Johns for the purpose: those trustees, however, who were in occupation of the lands as tenants, refused to fulfil the agreements, and the attorneys' bill has never been paid. After much discussion the trustees were prevailed upon, in October 1818, to let the charity lands by auction for a term of five years, to commence from the following Lady-day at rents amounting, for the whole, to 58*l.* 12*s.*; and since the incumbency of the present rector (the Rev. Henry Walter) the lands have been relet at different times under the authority of himself, the churchwardens, and the overseers, who have received the rents half-yearly, and distributed them at the meetings held for that purpose in the vestry, entering the accounts of all lettings, receipts and disbursements in a book kept for the purpose.

The following is a description of the property, according to a survey by Mr. J. Poole, of Sherborne, made in 1833:—

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Pasture field called Seven Acres, in the occupation of Joseph Strange, containing | 5 | 3 | 14 | 14 | 0 | 0 |
| 2. Throop meads, occupied by Joseph Shittler | 3 | 1 | 20 | 7 | 0 | 0 |
| 3. Church Thorns, arable, John Mullett | 2 | 0 | 27 | 6 | 0 | 0 |
| 4. Broad lands, do. Joseph Strange | 1 | 3 | 4 | 3 | 17 | 6 |
| 5. Parish lands, pasture, do. | 1 | 3 | 24 | 3 | 10 | 0 |
| 6. Leg do. do. | 1 | 0 | 0 | 3 | 10 | 0 |
| 7. Poor lands and bottom grounds, pasture, James Chapman | 2 | 0 | 9 | 3 | 10 | 0 |
| 8. Pidney's Pasture, Samuel Strange | 3 | 1 | 0 | 9 | 5 | 0 |
| | 21 | 1 | 18 | 50 | 12 | 6 |

The premises were let at the above rents, in April 1832, by the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, by auction, subject to the usual conditions as to husbandry, and to the payment of all outgoings.

The property is subject to a land-tax of 1*l.* per annum, which is paid by the tenants.

The present rents, which are paid half-yearly, are considered the full value of the lands.

The rector and parish officers, upon assuming the management of the trust, found the funds to have been frittered away in trifling sums, productive of little benefit, among the relatives and connexions of the trustees, who were mostly small farmers little above the situation of labourers, and appear to have been as blameable in their application of the rents as in their management of the lands. It was therefore agreed to give to five aged widows a monthly allowance of 2*s.*6*d.* per week, and to a second class of five widows such sums half-yearly as the funds would allow.

On the 24th December 1835, the application of the rents was as follows:—

|---|---|---|---|
| To the five widows, constituting the first class, 2*s.* each | 0 | 10 | 0 |
| Also 10*s.* each, to be paid monthly, for the ensuing half year | 15 | 0 | 0 |
| To the five widows, constituting the second class, 20*s.* each (this being a half-yearly distribution) | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| To various widows and aged persons, from 3*s.* to 11*s.* each | 4 | 0 | 6 |
| £ | 25 | 6 | 3 |

The first and second classes are selected from those poor who do not receive parochial relief; in these it is usual to adhere to the same list, to which others are promoted as vacancies occur.

With this application there seems no reason to find fault, but some measures should be adopted to vest the legal estate of the charity property in a body of trustees selected by competent authority.

In the churchwarden's book of this parish there is an entry, copied by a former rector, under the date of 1770, containing a copy of a clause in the Will of Barbara Skinner, whereby she gave to the churchwardens and overseers of Winterborne Stickland 200*l.* on trust, to invest the same on such Government or public securities as they should think proper, and lay out the dividends, from time to time, in the purchase of bread, to be distributed among the poor of the parish at their discretion.

In the Parliamentary Returns of 1786, the date of 1769 is assigned to this Will.

In respect of this legacy there is now the sum of 237*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* Old South Sea Annuities, standing in the names of "the minister and churchwardens of the parish of Winterborne."

The dividends (7*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*) are received by the London correspondents of Messrs. Dansey and Co., bankers of Blandford, and are paid to the churchwarden, who lays out the amount in the purchase of quartern loaves, which are distributed on Christmas eve amongst all the poor families of the parish, about 80 in number, according to their families, the utmost given to one family being six loaves. The minister is consulted in the distribution, and a list is kept.

The residue consisted of a sum of 500*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, which still stands in the sole name of the testator.

The dividends (15*l.*) are received by Mr. Hand, the executor, who sends about Christmas, annually, to the present incumbent of the parish, a packet of clothing, containing blankets, great coats, and cloaks, to the value of 15*l.* These are distributed to about 30 poor men and women of the parish in rotation, without distinction as to whether they receive parish relief or not. ### SCHOOL.

By an Act of Parliament, passed for settling the Freke estates in the 3rd and 4th Queen Anne, cap. 3, reciting that Dame Elizabeth Freke, widow of Sir Thomas Freke, directed a house in Iwerne Courtney to be used as a school-house, and during her life had paid to the person teaching there 20*l.* per annum, and had appointed the same to be for ever continued, but the writings evidencing the same did not appear: It was thereby enacted, that the said messuage and ground thereto belonging, not exceeding one acre of land, should be thereby vested in Robert Seymer, of Hanford, and George Ryves, of Ranston, and their heirs, in trust, for the purposes aforesaid; and that for repairing the same, and towards the maintenance of the schoolmaster there, to be appointed by the lord of the manor of Iwerne Courtney, or, in case of his default for three months, then by the said trustees, or the survivor, there should be for ever issuing out of the said manor of Iwerne Courtney the sum of 20*l.* annually, payable at the four usual feasts, clear of all deductions, to be applied by the trustees as aforesaid, with a power of distress if unpaid.

There is in this parish a house for the residence of a schoolmaster, with a school-room detached, a garden and play-ground; the whole comprising about a quarter of an acre.

These are occupied by a schoolmaster, who is appointed by the minister and churchwardens, upon condition of teaching one child of each family belonging to the parish.

The present master, Isaac Short, who was appointed in May 1820, receives a salary of 20*l.*, by quarterly payments, from Mr. Andrews, who rents a large farm from Lord Rivers. In this farm is included a meadow, called Ladymead, containing about 16 acres, and worth from 30*l.* to 35*l.* per annum, which has long been reported to belong to the school. After much inquiry, we could not discover that this tradition had any other foundation than the name of the field, and the recitals of the Act of Parliament probably give the real history of the endowment.

In respect of his emoluments, the master receives one and sometimes two children of each family belonging to the parish, who choose to avail themselves of the privilege.

There were, in December 1835, 23 free children in the school, and 16 for whom the master either charged, or reserved the right to charge, a small quarterly payment.

There is a little elm timber on the land.

The purpose to which the rent has been always considered as strictly applicable is the repairs and ornament of the church, but it has, in fact, been applied to the general purposes for which a church rate is usually levied, and for this it has sufficed, except upon extraordinary occasions.

There has been no church-rate in the parish for the last 12 years.

John Williams and three others, of the other part, reciting that the Rev. William Preston, formerly rector of Clifton Maybank, and vicar of Bradford Abbas, several years before his decease, which happened in the year 1742, founded and established a charity school at Bradford Abbas, for the instruction of poor children of the parishes of Clifton and Bradford, and appropriated the rents of certain lands, situate at Nether Compton, which he purchased of the heirs of William Row and Thomas Turner, towards the support of the said school; and that the said William Preston, by his Will, bearing date the 5th April 1738, devised to Michael Harvey, or, in case of his decease, to Madam Rebecca Harvey, all his estate in Nether Compton, and directed that the same should be disposed of by them in such manner as they should think fit; and that, if they should die without settling the same, he gave the said estate to the rector of Clifton Maybank for the time being and his successors; and he further directed that the said Michael and Rebecca Harvey and the rector should reimburse themselves out of the rents such costs as they should be put to by means of any authority thereby in them vested; and further reciting, that the said Michael and Rebecca Harvey died without making any settlement of the said premises, otherwise than by continuing to apply the rents and profits to a schoolmaster for teaching poor children of the said parishes, according to the well-known intention of the said William Preston, that the income of the said land should be applied to support a charity school, whereby the right of settling or disposing of the same devolved to the rector of Clifton Maybank for the time being, until a proper settlement should by one of them be made; and further reciting, that the successive rectors had appointed a schoolmaster to teach 12 poor children of the said parish, and to receive the rents of the said estate for his salary, and that the said Edward Matthew West was desirous, in pursuance of the authority vested in him as aforesaid, to make a clear and absolute settlement of the said premises for the benefit of the poor children of inhabitants of the said parishes, in order that they might receive suitable instruction,—It is witnessed that the said Edward Matthew West granted and released to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, all the said premises, that is to say, a close of arable land, called Stoneland, containing about four acres; another close, called Wyke Park, containing about six acres; another close, called Corners Knap, containing about five acres; a piece of land, containing about one acre; and a piece, called Clanfield, containing about two acres, lying in a common field, called Clanfield; all the said lands being arable, and situate in the parish of Nether Compton; in trust to let the same, and to apply the rents as follows: that is to say, to pay the yearly sum of 8*l*. for teaching eight poor children, inhabitants of Bradford Abbas and Clifton Maybank, in reading, writing, and arithmetic, and other useful learning, and in the principles and doctrine of the Church of England as by law established; and it was agreed that the master should be appointed by the said rector and trustees, by writing under their hands and seals, subject to removal by them for any of the causes thereinafter mentioned; and that he should declare himself, and be known to the majority of the said trustees, to be a member of the Church of England; and the said trustees were to apply the residue of the rents annually for teaching poor children, inhabitants of the said parishes, to read, spin, knit, sew, and other useful acquirements, as the mistress, and the rector and trustees, should think proper, and also for instructing them in the catechism of the Church of England; the number of such children to be proportioned to the clear remaining rent, at about 8*s*. per annum for each child; the mistress to be nominated, and to make such declaration as aforesaid; and it was agreed that the rector of Clifton Maybank should, from time to time, have the exclusive nomination of all the scholars to the said schools, provided it was done in writing within one month after any vacancy occurring, in default of which the trustees, or either of them, might appoint; and the master and mistress were not to receive any money or other presents upon the entrance of the said children, or on any other account whatever, except their salary from the said rents, but were to be at liberty to take other scholars into the said school, receiving pay for them, the number to be regulated by the rector and trustees; and the said scholars were to attend at the parish church of Bradford Abbas on Sundays, and other usual days, and to be accompanied there by the master and mistress; and it was agreed that the said rector and trustees should once a-year or oftener, if necessary, meet at the school-house, to examine the management and make such rules as they should think proper, and that they should have power, for any irregularity or neglect, to remove the master or mistress, and appoint others in their stead, and to expel any of the children upon sufficient cause, and that a book should be kept in which should be entered the names of the children, with the dates of their entry and departure, and their ages at such times respectively, and also the proceedings of the said trustees; and it was further agreed that, if in lapse of time any alteration in the application of said rents should seem more for the benefit of the said poor children, it should be lawful for the said rector and trustees, by deed under their hands and seals, to direct such alteration, and, if advisable, by such writing to direct the application either in apprenticing or clothing some of the said poor children, or in some other manner for their benefit; and it was provided that, when the trustees should by death or resignation be reduced to three or fewer, the survivors should convey the said premises to three or more such new trustees, as should by them be deemed proper persons to act therein.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 18th and 19th August 1827, the Rev. David Williams, rector of Clifton Maybank and vicar of Bradford Abbas, and the Rev. John Williams and John Melliar, surviving trustees, conveyed the premises by the same description, to the use of the said John Williams and John Melliar, Edward Walter West, Samuel Pretor, and Blakley Cooper, upon the same trusts. Of these gentlemen, who are all still living, only the two last-named now take any active part in the management.

The land consists of five closes, in the parish of Nether Compton, containing 14A. 2R. 1P., let to John Batson, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 24*l*. per annum. The land-tax has been exonerated.

The accounts are kept by the Rev. Robert Grant, the present vicar of Bradford Abbas, who receives the rent, and pays 10*l*. per annum, by half-yearly payments, to a schoolmaster, and a similar sum to a mistress.

The only further disbursements appear to be occasional very small payments for books and repairs. As these do not exhaust the whole rent, there is now a balance of 23*l*. 17*s*. 7*d*. in hand.

For the emoluments which he receives, the master, John Custard, instructs eight children, boys or girls, of the parishes of Bradford Abbas or Clifton Maybank, together with the children educated under the charity of Read and West, next mentioned. They are taught reading, writing, and accounts. The mistress, Ann Masters, teaches 18 girls, in her own house, to read and sew. Both the master and mistress take other scholars, for whom they are paid; the former has at present four, and the latter seven of this description.

WEST AND READ'S SCHOOL.

West and Read's School.

By deed-poll, bearing date 24th November 1781, under the hands and seals of Mark West, William Read, James West, Mark Fooks, and Thomas Thompson, reciting that the said Mark West and William Read, being desirous of establishing a free school in the parish of Bradford Abbas, for the purpose of having the poor children of the same parish, and the adjoining parish of Clifton Maybank, instructed as thereinafter mentioned, had advanced the sum of 110*l*. each, to be laid out in the funds, in the names of trustees; and had agreed that the dividends thereof should be applied for the support of such school; and reciting that, for the due regulation and support of the said charity, the said James West, Mark Fooks, and Thomas Thompson, had, at the request of the said Mark West and William Read, consented to act in conjunction with them, as governors of the said school and trustees of the said stock; and that the said two sums had been laid out in the purchase of 300*l*. Four per Cent. Consols, of the year 1777, which had been transferred into the names of the said Mark West and others; and reciting that the said Mark West and William Read, with the approbation of the other trustees, had appointed Robert Newman to be schoolmaster of the said school during their pleasure,—it was declared by the said parties that the said sum was so transferred into their names, upon trust, to pay to the said Robert Newman, so long as he should continue master of the said school, and, after his death or removal, to such person as should be nominated in his stead, as a salary for instructing poor children of the parishes of Bradford Abbas and Clifton Maybank, in reading English, writing, and common arithmetic for every such child, the number in the whole not to exceed 12, after the rate of 20*s.* a-year; and in case the number of such children frequenting the school should fall short of 12, then, upon trust, to dispose of the savings or surplus for the relief of such persons belonging to the parish of Bradford Abbas, and not receiving alms, as the trustees should deem proper objects of charity, or for such other purposes of charity, within the said parish, as they should see fit. And it was declared that, after the decease of the said Mark West and William Read, the master of the school and the children to be taught there should be nominated by the trustees for the time being, and should be removable at their free will and pleasure; and that no part of the salary should be paid, except to such person and in respect of such children as should be nominated as aforesaid: and it was further agreed that when any vacancy should happen in the number of trustees, by death, the survivors should appoint such other person as to them should appear proper in his place; and that the stock should be transferred into the joint names of such new trustee and the survivors.

There is an endorsement on the copy of the deed, stating that 50*l.* more stock, in the Four per Cents., was purchased in 1785, the interest of which was to be applied in the education of two more children.

By indenture, bearing date 29th January 1813, reciting, amongst other things, the deed above abstracted, and that John Custard had been appointed and then acted as schoolmaster, and received the dividends of the stock, and that the trustees had purchased a house and garden in Bradford Abbas, held on lease for the life of Agnes Coring, and fitted up the same for the residence of the master; and reciting that the Earl of Uxbridge, the lord of the manor of Bradford Abbas, had granted two more lives in reversion in the said house, and, by indenture, bearing date the 10th October 1794, had demised to the then trustees the said house, (then divided into two tenements,) with the garden and premises thereto belonging, for 99 years, if Mark West, then aged 14 years, and Edward Thompson, aged seven, or either of them, should so long live, at the yearly rent of 2*s.*; Mark Fooks and Thomas Thompson, the then surviving trustees, assigned to Edward Thompson, Thomas Thompson (the younger), William Fooks, and Mark Fooks, junior, jointly with themselves, the said sum of 350*l.* Four per Cent. Consols, and also the said dwelling-house and premises, part of which had been fitted up, and was then used as a school-room, upon the same trusts as are contained in the above-abstracted indenture, with a proviso that the said dwelling-house and appurtenances should remain wholly at the disposal of the said trustees, as to the use or occupation thereof by such master; with directions that the trustees should be at liberty to impose such further duties upon the said master, in respect of his occupation of the school-premises, as they should think fit, so as to render the same as beneficial as possible to the children, inhabitants of the said parishes; with a clause for the appointment of new trustees upon their number being reduced to two, and the transfer of the stock, and assignment of the said premises accordingly.

The sum of 300*l.* stock, now Three-and-a-half Reduced Annuities, stands in the names of James West, Mark Fooks, and Thomas Thompson; and the sum of 50*l.*, like stock, in the names of Mark West, Read West, Thomas Thompson, and Mark Fooks. The dividends, 12*l.* 5*s.*, are received by the London correspondents of Messrs. Pretor and Co., bankers at Sherborne, and are carried to the account of the trustees, by whom the amount is paid to a schoolmaster (John Custard) for instructing 12 children, boys and girls, of the parish, in reading, writing, and arithmetic.

The school-house belonging to the charity was burnt down in February 1835, since which time the children have been taught in the private house of the master, together with the children received in respect of Preston's Charity.

A new school-house having now become necessary, the trustees of Preston's Charity have evinced a desire to put the two establishments on a more permanent footing by uniting them, so as to prevent the possibility of either being rendered useless by the withdrawal of the assistance of the other. To this proposal the trustees of West and Read's school have not yet assented.

Hele's Charity.

Hele's Charity.

Sir John Hele, knt., by Will, dated 16th October 1643, gave to the poor of the parish of Bradford and the parish of Clifton adjoining, a yearly rent-charge of 52*s.*, to be distributed among the poor of the said parishes, every Sunday in the year, in white bread; and he gave the like sum, yearly, to the poor of the parish of Wimbury, Devon; and the like sum, yearly, to the poor of the parish of Yetminster. The said sums not to ease the inhabitants of their rates, but for the better maintenance of the poor.

The sum of 2*l.* 12*s.* per annum is received by the churchwarden from William Castleman, esq., of Wimborne Minster, as agent for the Marquis of Anglesea, and is distributed, in sixpenny loaves, every fourth Sunday, amongst the poor of Bradford Abbas, not receiving parish relief. The poor of the parish of Clifton Maybank have not participated in the charity, the parish officers not being aware that they were entitled to do so; but this omission will in future be rectified.

Church Lands.

Church Lands.

Of the origin of these lands, which comprise two separate parcels, no account can be given. The first consists of a field, called Sparrows, containing 1A. 1R. 6P., and an orchard, containing two roods, lying in Stafford, in the parish of Barwick, let by the churchwardens to Thomas Andrews for seven years, from Lady-day 1835, at a rent of 6*l.*

Bradford Abbas, with Clifton Maybank annexed.

The second, containing 3A. 1R. 6P., lying in Bradford, is let by the churchwardens for seven years, from Michaelmas 1835, at 7*l.*

There is also an annual payment of 13*s.* 4*d.*, made out of a piece of pasture ground near Clifton-lane, formerly called Tack's Plot, belonging to Mrs. Jane Slocombe. The churchwardens' books show this payment to have been 14*s.* 4*d.*, up to 1787. No reason is given for the alteration.

The above sums, amounting together to 13*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, are carried to the churchwardens' general account, according to immemorial custom.

PARISH OF CASTLETON.

Castleton.

EARL OF BRISTOL'S CHARITY.

Earl of Bristol's Charity.

John Earl of Bristol, by a codicil to his Will, bearing date in 1698, gave 100*l.* for the poor of the parish of Castleton, to be invested, and the interest to be distributed to the poorest and most needful persons, by the minister, churchwardens, and overseers of the poor, with the consent of the lord of the manor, but not to lessen the poor's-rate of the said parish.

The principal sum remains in the hands of the Earl of Digby, from whose steward 4*l.* is received annually, at Christmas, as the interest.

It is distributed every Christmas, in sums varying from 5*s.* to 18*s.*, by the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, (the list being previously submitted to Lord Digby,) to 10 or 11 persons, being all the poor of the parish of Castleton, whether residing within its precincts or in Sherborne, and whether receiving parochial relief or not.

BEATON'S CHARITY.

Beaton's Charity.

Jonathan Beaton, by Will, bearing date the 30th October 1717, charged his lands in Corton Denham, in the county of Somerset, with the payment of 1*s.* per week to the poor of the parish of Castleton, to buy them penny white loaves, to be delivered to them by the officers of the parish, in the church, every Sunday, for ever; but if the said parish officers should neglect or misapply his said gift, he bequeathed the said charity to the poor of the parish of Samford Orcas, to find them bread, to be distributed in manner aforesaid.

The same testator charged his said lands with the payment of 1*l.* 1*s.* to the curate of Castleton, for preaching a sermon, in the church of Castleton, on the day of his death (30th October 1717), in memory of him.

The lands at Corton are now the property of Edward Berkeley Portman, esq., and are occupied by Mr. Caleb Barrett, who pays yearly, into the Sherborne bank, 2*l.* 12*s.* and 1*l.* 1*s.* The latter sum is paid to the Rev. Mr. Parsons, the curate; the former is paid to a baker, who sends to the church, every Sunday, 12 penny loaves, which are distributed, after service, to the heads of four poor families, by the minister.

This sum forms part of a sum of 50*l.* included in a note for that amount, given, by the late Lord Digby, to the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, bearing interest at 4 per cent., and dated 21st June 1786.

The interest of this sum, 1*l.* 4*s.*, is disposed of, in linen, with the four next-mentioned charities.

Lord Digby's Charity.

It is stated in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 that Lord Digby, (but at what time is not mentioned,) by deed, gave 10*l.* to the second poor of this parish.

This sum, with the preceding charity, and the 30*l.* belonging to the Earl of Bristol's Charity, make up the 50*l.*, the amount of the note above mentioned.

GILLINGHAM'S CHARITY.

Gillingham's Charity.

Richard Gillingham, by Will, bearing date the 30th March 1719, devised to his nephew, Richard Gillingham, his freehold estate in the parish of Holwell, in the county of Somerset, charged with a perpetual rent of 40*s.*, without any deduction for taxes, to be paid, one month before St. Thomas's Day, to the rector of Bishop's Caundle and his successors, in trust, for the benefit of the poor of the said parish; and he directed that the rector of the said parish for the time being should distribute, yearly, the said rent-charge, amongst the poor of the

This sum of 2*l.* per annum is received by the churchwarden, from William Ridout, the present owner of the property charged, being an estate of about 30 acres, in Holwell.

Claver's Charity.

Claver's Charity.

It is stated, on the table of benefactions in the church, that William Claver, by Will, bearing date the 1st August 1769, gave 10*s.*, to be for ever paid out of his freehold estate in Bishop's Caundle, to the poor of the said parish.

The estate of Mr. Claver, in Bishop's Caundle, now belongs to the Rev. John Mervin Prower, by whose tenant the sum of 10*s.* is yearly paid to the churchwarden.

These several sums, amounting together to 4*l.* 10*s.*, are laid out about Christmas, yearly, in the purchase of sufficient dowlas and calico to make 15 shirts and 30 shifts, which are given to poor persons of the parish, selected by the minister and parish-officers. The parties when once on the list, are usually continued for life.

At Christmas 1835 the sum of 13*s.* 1*d.* was due to the churchwarden.

Fry's Charity.

Fry's Charity.

Mary Fry, by Will, bearing date in May 1830, and proved in November 1831, bequeathed 100*l.* Three per Cent. Consols to the Rev. Charles Digby, rector of the parish of Caundle Bishop, and to the churchwardens; the interest to be applied, annually, on St. Thomas's Day, in blankets or clothing, or both, to be given to the six most deserving poor widows, inhabitants of the parish; and she desired that every succeeding rector should be a trustee of the said charity, and the stock transferred accordingly, and that an entry thereof should be made in the church book.

The sum of 90*l.* Three per Cent. Consols was transferred into and still stands in the names of the Rev. Charles Digby, the rector, George Samways Spicer and Thomas Phillips, the churchwardens, 10*l.* having been previously sold out for payment of the legacy-duty.

The dividends, 2*l.* 14*s.*, are received by the London agents of the trustees, and laid out, about Christmas, in articles of clothing or blankets, which are distributed to six poor widows named by the trustees.

There is a close, of about three acres, (whence derived is unknown,) situate about half a mile from the church, in the occupation of the Rev. Charles Digby, as yearly tenant, at a high rent of 5*l.* per annum, which is received by the churchwardens, and applied to the usual purposes of a church-rate.

The land called Ashcombe now belongs to Mrs. Galpin, who states that she has hitherto paid 20*s.* per annum to a poor woman recently deceased; but expresses her intention, in future, to divide the payment as directed by the Will.

PARISH OF NETHER COMPTON.

Nether Compton.

School.

By indenture, bearing date 12th January 1813, between Thomas Thompson, schoolmaster, of the one part, and his sons Jonah Thompson, Edward Thompson, Thomas Thompson the younger, and Samuel Thompson, of the other part, reciting that Emanuel Good, therein named, had by indenture bearing date 1st December 1794, assigned to the said Thomas Thompson, his executors and administrators, for the residue of a term of 500 years, a dwelling-house situate at Nether Compton, then divided into two tenements, and bounded as therein mentioned, which had been purchased with money subscribed by several charitable persons who had been educated at the boarding-school of the said Thomas Thompson, at Nether Compton, for the purpose of instructing and supporting a charity-school for the instruction of the poor children, inhabitants of the said parish; and that with money so collected the said dwelling-house had been partly rebuilt and fitted up for the accommodation of a school, and of a master and mistress, and partly so that the rent of the said tenement might come in aid of the said charity which was thereupon established, and that 15 poor children had been then instructed, and a proper teacher provided, who had been partly paid out of the said rents, and partly by charitable contributions,—it was witnessed that the said Thomas Thompson, for the considerations therein mentioned, bargained, sold, and assigned, to the several other parties thereto, their executors, administrators, and assigns, the said messuage, then divided into two tenements, in the occupation of Edward Yerberry and Thomas Hull, and part whereof was fitted up and used as a school-room, with the gardens and appurtenances, to hold the same for the residue of the said term of 500 years, in trust to let the said dwelling-house, and take the rents thereof, and, after keeping the same in repair, to apply the net rents towards instructing poor children, inhabitants of the parish of Nether Compton, in reading, spinning, knitting, sewing, writing, and such other acquirements as the said trustees should think proper, and should pay the net rents to such persons as they should appoint so to instruct the said children, either in Sunday or daily schools; and the said children were to be required to attend some place of divine worship regularly, and to read the Holy Scriptures frequently; and the said indenture contained a provision that, when the said trustees should be reduced to two by death or resignation, the said trust premises should be assigned to two or more new trustees to be selected by them upon the like trusts.

Samuel Thompson and Edward Thompson are the only surviving trustees; the latter of whom left the parish in 1826, and now resides at Southampton.

One of the cottages is now let to a tenant named George Good, at 3*l.* 10*s.* per annum; the other is occupied by Thomas Hull, whose wife is appointed the mistress of the school; she engages, in consideration of being permitted to reside there rent free, and of receiving the rent of the other cottage, to teach all the children of the parish who apply reading and writing, and the girls sewing and knitting in addition, for a payment of 1*d.* a-week for each child. The number of children now varies from 20 to 30. The repairs are attended to, and the insurance is kept up, but there is no fund for these disbursements except voluntary contributions, and the charity is now upwards of 18*l.* in debt to the trustees.

POOR'S LANDS.

Poor's Lands.

By indenture, dated September 20th, 20 James I., between Robert Hodges and 18 others of the one part, and John Clarke and eight others of the other part, reciting that the said Robert Hodges and others had been of late seised in fee of a close called Maudline Close, containing by estimation two acres and a half, lying in Castleton, in the parish of Oborne, of the yearly value of 3*l.* for the use and behoof of the parishioners of Nether Compton, and that the said Robert Hodges, and all the other parishioners of Nether Compton, had, by indenture, dated April 1st, preceding the date thereof, in consideration of 70*l.*, conveyed the said close to John Earl of Bristol and others, in fee, to the use of the said Earl and George Lord Digby his son,—it was witnessed that the said Robert Hodges and others, parties thereto, of the first part, had nominated the several parties thereto of the second part to receive the said sum of 70*l.*, and to have the bestowing and employment thereof for the use and advantage of the said parishioners, as they in their judgment should think meet, rendering a true account thereof to the said parishioners at Easter, yearly, with a provision that, when the said trustees should be reduced by death to four, the survivors should elect, at least, six more new trustees in their room, and should assign to them such lands as might be purchased with the said sum, or deliver to them the said sum to be held upon the trusts aforesaid.

A new conveyance to trustees, dated 12th May 1637, appears amongst the deeds.

By indenture, bearing date 20th April 1650, Giles Fudge, in consideration of 83*l.*, demised to Thomas Westley and seven others, their executors, administrators, and assigns, a close of meadow, or pasture, called Caswell, containing by estimation two acres and a half of arable land in the common field of Nether Compton, commonly called the West Field, in a furlong there known by the name of Slade, for the residue of a term of 99 years in the recitals thereinbefore mentioned, and also, after the determination thereof, for the further term of 1000 years, at the annual rent of 5*d.*

No trusts are declared by this deed, nor is the purchase-money therein noticed as being the produce of the sale of the premises at Castleton, of which, however, there is no doubt.

There are two acres of land called parish ground, situate in the lower part of the parish, let to James Rowe, as yearly tenant, at 4*l.* per annum, and half an acre lying in an open field called Higher West Field, distinguished by green balks, occupied by Isaac Parsons, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 1*l.*

The rent is distributed annually on Lady-day, under the direction of the minister and parish-officers, amongst the poor of the parish not receiving weekly relief, in sums varying from 2*s.* to 7*s.*, according to the numbers in family and their necessities.

terms of an unstamped note of hand on parchment, given by the late Earl to the churchwardens and overseers, bearing date 24th June 1779.

The sum of 12*s.* is received by the vicar, and by him applied about Christmas in sums of 1*s.* 6*d.* and 2*s.* a-piece, to the poor of the parish not receiving relief.

For the last 20 years an entry has been annually made on the churchwardens' book of the sums given, and the names of the persons receiving the charity.

PARISH OF LILLINGTON.

Lillington.

Gollop's Charity.

Gollop's Charity.

It is stated in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 that some person unknown, by Will, the date of which is not mentioned, devised a rent-charge of 5*l.* to the second poor of this parish, then vested in Thomas Gollop.

Ralph Gollop is understood to have been the donor alluded to in the returns, and the sum of 5*l.* appears to be a mistake, that being the whole amount of charities given by him, of which 2*l.* 10*s.* is applicable to Netherbury, 1*l.* 10*s.* to Lillington, and 1*l.* to Caundle Marsh. These sums are paid by the tenant of an estate at Lillington, consisting of about 150 acres, or upwards, belonging to George Tilley Gollop, esq.

The sum of 1*l.* 10*s.*, belonging to Lillington, is distributed at Easter by the tenant (Thomas Conway), in sums of 5*s.* a-piece, to six poor persons selected by himself.

Donor Unknown.

Donor unknown.

The sum of 20*s.* per annum has for a long time been paid, and still continues to be paid, by the tenant of a farm at Lillington, belonging to Robert Gordon, esq., M. P., of Leweston. This sum is distributed at Christmas, by the tenant (John Chapman, who is also churchwarden), in sixpenny loaves, amongst the poor not receiving relief, in quantities varying from one loaf to five or six according to the number in family.

PARISH OF LONGBURTON.

Longburton.

Taylor's Charity.

Taylor's Charity.

Francis Taylor, by Will, bearing date the 12th July 1736, and proved in the Prerogative Court 15th September in the same year, directed his wife, during her life, to pay out of his lands at North Wootton 10*s.* a-year to the poor of the parish of Longburton, to be paid in sixpenny loaves, and 5*s.* a-year to the poor of the parish of North Wootton, also in sixpenny loaves, on or before 24th December, and after his decease to be paid to both parishes by his heirs or their successors for ever out of the said lands.

The sum of 10*s.* yearly is regularly paid by the Earl of Digby, the present owner of the premises in North Wootton charged with the payment.

It is laid out by the vicar, together with a portion of the sacrament money, at Christmas, in the purchase of quartern loaves, and distributed amongst the poor of the parish.

PARISH OF LYDLINCH.

Lydlinch.

Romayne's Charity.

Romayne's Charity.

Phillis Romayne, by Will, bearing date the 15th January 1711, gave her lands and hereditaments, called Bares, otherwise Bayards, in the parish of Lydlinch, to Charles Brune, Henry Devenish, John Combe, Robert Porter, and Joseph Cox, and their heirs, on trust, out of the rents thereof, to bind out yearly two or more children of the inhabitants of Lydlinch apprentices to such trades or occupations as they should think most proper; and she directed that, whenever any one of the said trustees should die, the survivors should execute a sufficient conveyance of the said premises, whereby another person might be made a trustee in his room, so that the said trust might always be executed by five persons who should be parishioners or inhabitants of Lydlinch, if so many could be found there, of whom the rector for the time being should be one, and if not, then to be chosen out of some adjacent parish; and if there should not be found in the parish of Lydlinch such poor children to be put apprentices as by the intent of her Will were to be bound out, then she directed that the rents and profits, as often as such default should happen, should be applied in apprenticing children of the town and parish of Sherborne.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 1st and 2d November 1714, between the said Phillis Romayne of the one part, and the said Henry Devenish, and Ralph Gollop, and Thomas Young, of the other part, after reciting the said Will, the said Phillis Romayne granted, released, and confirmed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs (amongst other premises, for other uses), the lands and premises called Bares, otherwise Bayards, upon the same trusts as mentioned in the Will above abstracted.

The said Joseph Cox, one of the trustees named in the Will, appears to have been the survivor of all the trustees named either by the Will or the deed, and to have executed indentures, bearing date the 4th and 5th June 1746, which purported to convey the premises to new trustees upon the trusts declared in the said Will and indentures. The trusts have since been kept up by successive conveyances to trustees,; and by indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 1st and 2d May 1833, the Rev. Richard Blackmore, Rev. James Michael, Rev. Harry Farr Yeatman, and Rev. Charles Digby, the then surviving trustees, conveyed the premises, by the description of the lands and hereditaments called Bares, otherwise Bayards, known by the names, and containing by admeasurement as follows, that is to say, Great Bares, 7 A. 1 R. 13 P.; Little Bares, 5 A.; Long Bares, 7 A. 1 R. 13 P.; Five Acres, 5 A. 3 R.; Clarke's Close, 1 A. 3 R.; to the use of themselves and the Rev. Richard Antram, rector of Lydlinch, upon the same trusts.

Lydlinch.

These trustees are all now living.

The property consists of the several parcels above described, being all meadow and pasture land, and containing in the whole 27 A. 0 R. 26 P., let to George Upshall, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 33*l.* 12*s.* per annum. The tenant pays all outgoings, except the land-tax, which amounts to 2*l.* 15*s.* per annum.

There is also belonging to the charity the sum of 800*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, purchased in 1812, with 470*l.*, the produce of timber cut on the estate; the price of stocks being then 58⅜. This stock now stands in the names of the Rev. William Chafin, deceased, Richard Blackmore, James Michel, and Harry Farr Yeatman, and is about to be transferred into the names of James Michel, Harry Farr Yeatman, Charles Digby, and Richard Antram.

The total income being 57*l.* 12*s.*, is applied in apprenticing boys and girls of the parish of Lydlinch, there never having been a want of a sufficient number of children properly qualified in that parish.

The premiums (the amount of which has varied considerably) are now 20*l.* each, and are paid by two instalments, one moiety at the commencement of the term, and the other at the expiration of half the term. The master is bound to provide food, clothing, and other necessaries, and for the last half of the term 4*d.* a-week for pocket-money to his apprentice.

The children are provided with clothing on going out; the cost of the boys' clothing, who have two suits, being about 7*l.* 7*s.*, and that of the girls between 5*l.* and 6*l.* In the last 10 years 18 children have been apprenticed.

A charge of 1*l.* is made for each indenture, and the charge for a stamp (which the trustees received legal advice not to omit) has hitherto been 1*l.* 0*s.* 3*d.* with each. There is no charge for management or otherwise. The cost of the trust-deeds in 1833 was 17*l.* 2*s.*

In February 1836 there was a balance in hand of 19*s.* 10*d.*, and there are two years' arrears of dividends due; a difficulty having occurred by reason of the death of Mr. Chafin not having been proved at the Bank.

BISSELL'S ESTATE.

Bissell's Estate.

In the book containing the accounts of this charity, commencing in 1721, it is stated that there was 108*l.* in the hands of two persons, being money given and raised for charitable uses for the poor of Lydlinch, and that 42*l.* in addition was advanced for the same use to make up 150*l.*, the purchase money of the estate hereafter mentioned.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 17th and 18th October 1720, Henry Devenish, in consideration of 150*l.*, granted and released to George Chafin and three others, and their heirs, a close of arable and pasture ground, called Bissell's, containing by estimation 12 acres, situate in the parishes of Holwell and Stock Gaylard, and an acre of ground in a meadow called Dolemead, in the parish of Holwell, on trust that the rents and profits thereof should be yearly given to the poor of the parish of Lydlinch towards their better relief and maintenance, at such time and in such manner as the said trustees should direct, with a proviso that, when any one of the trustees should die, the survivor should make a conveyance of the premises, whereby another person might be made a trustee in his room, so that the trust might have a perpetual endurance, and be executed by the same trustees as were appointed by the Will of Mrs. Phillis Romayne for the distribution of her charity.

A memorandum, without date, is endorsed on the release, stating that the acre of meadow in Dolemead was formerly exchanged by William Thorne with Samuel Rich, esq., for one acre in Bissell's Close, and that, if at any time the said Mr. Rich, or his assigns, should claim the acre in Bissell's, the said acre in Dolemead was to remain part of the premises granted by the said deed, in such manner as if no such exchange had ever been made.

The premises have been vested in new trustees from time to time, the last conveyance being by indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 27th and 28th July 1819, whereby they were granted by the Rev. Richard Blackmore, Rev. James Michel, and Rev. Harry Farr Yeatman, the then surviving trustees, to the use of themselves and the Rev. Charles Digby, and the Rev. Thomas Hobson, then rector of Lydlinch, upon the same trusts as are declared in the above-abstracted deed of the 18th October 1720, the premises being therein described as then divided into three closes, known by the names and containing by admeasurement the several particulars following, that is to say, Higher Bissell's, 3A. 1R.; Long Bissell's, 3A. 0R. 30P.; and corn ground, 3A. 2R. 20P.

Of the trustees so appointed the Rev. Thomas Hobson is since deceased.

The premises, which are principally pasture land, correspond with the description in the last trust-deed, the total quantity being 10A. 0R. 10P., and are now let to James Goddard, as yearly tenant, at 14*l.* per annum.

The rent is received at Christmas, and distributed by the rector, with the assistance of respectable inhabitants, in sums varying from 4*s.* to 10*s.*, amongst the poor not receiving relief (usually between 35 and 40 in number), according to their necessities.

A book is kept containing the names of the persons receiving the charity, and the amount given to each.

Occasionally small sums are disbursed from the rent for repairs, and 12*s.* a-year is paid for land-tax. There is still about 4*l.* due to a solicitor for the last trust-deed.

There is no reason for incurring the expense of separate conveyances to vest this property and that derived from Phillis Romayne in the same set of trustees, and it was recommended that when another trust-deed became necessary both estates should be included in one conveyance.

Church Land.

Church Land.

There are three parcels of land in the parish, one of which is enclosed, and contains about 5A. 2R. 8P., and the others, being about one acre each, lie in open fields, not distinguished by any boundary-marks.

These lands have been held, as long as can be remembered, by the churchwardens, to whose general account the rents, now amounting to 10*l.* 7*s.*, are carried.

PARISH OF OBORNE.

Oborne.

Church Ground.

Church Ground.

There is, in this parish, a piece of ground, containing about two acres, called church ground, the rent of which, from time immemorial, has been applied in aid of the church-rate. The present rent is 2*l.* 10*s.*, which is thus appropriated.

An entry in the churchwardens' book states that, on the 25th June 1797, 124*l.* 15*s.*, the produce of a legacy of 200*l.* stock, left by Thomas Lewis, esq., to the poor of Oborne, was distributed according to the directions of the Will. The names of the persons who received the money, and the sums given to each, which varied from 10*s.* 6*d.* to 9*l.*, are recorded.

PARISH OF SHERBORNE.

Sherborne.

Free Grammar-School.

Free Grammar School.

King Edward VI., by letters patent, bearing date 13th May, in the 4th year of his reign (1550), upon the petition of the inhabitants of Sherborne, and many others of his subjects of the whole neighbouring country, granted and ordained that from thenceforth there should be a grammar-school in the town of Sherborne, to be called the free grammar-school of King Edward VI., for the education, teaching, and instruction of boys and young men in grammar, to continue for ever, consisting of one master and one sub-master or usher. And the said king decreed that 20 of the more discreet and honest men, inhabitants of the said town and parish of Sherborne for the time being, should be appointed and be called "the governors of the possessions, revenues, and goods of the free grammar-school of King Edward VI., in Sherborne, in the county of Dorset," and Nicholas Serger, and 19 others, were thereby appointed the first governors for their lives, and were made a body corporate, to have perpetual succession, and by the same name were made capable in the law of holding the lands, tenements, and hereditaments thereinafter mentioned, and all others which should thereafter be granted to them by the said king or any other persons. And the said king ordained that, whensoever any one or more of the said 20 governors should die, or should remove to and live with their families in some other place not within the said town and parish, then it should be lawful for the survivors of the said governors inhabiting there, or the major part of them, to elect other proper persons, out of the inhabitants of the said town and parish, to succeed in the office of governors in their places, and so from time to time as often as such cases should happen. And the said king thereby granted to the said governors, and their successors, the late chantry of Martock, in the county of Somerset, with its rights and appurtenances, and a capital mansion belonging thereto, and all buildings, gardens and hereditaments belonging thereto. Also all his messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, with their appurtenances, then in the occupation of the several persons therein named, situate in Bradford Brand and Barnardsley, and in the parish of Wimborne, or elsewhere, in the county of Dorset, then lately belonging to and parcel of the possessions of the said chantry. And also the late chantry of St. Katherine, founded within the parish church of Gillingham, in the county of Dorset, and a capital mansion belonging to the same, and all messuages, lands, and hereditaments, in the occupation of the several persons therein named, situate in Gillingham, Silton, Milton, and Cumbermead, or elsewhere, in the county of Dorset, belonging to the said chantry. Also all his messuages, lands, tenements and hereditaments whatsoever, situate in Lytchet Matravers and Sturminster Marshall, late belonging to or parcel of the possessions of the late chantry, called Gibbon's Chantry, in Lytchet Matravers. And all other messuages, buildings, lands, tenements and hereditaments whatsoever, in Martock, Bradford Brand, and Barnardsley, and in the parishes of Gillingham, Silton, Milton, and Cumbermead, or elsewhere, in the said county of Dorset, belonging to or taken as part or parcel of the possessions of the said late chantries, or any or either of them. Also the late free chapel of Thornton, in the parish of Marnhull, with its appurtenances, and all the lands in Marnhull belonging to the said free chapel. Also 30 acres of arable land and meadow, and all other his lands and hereditaments in the parish of Symondsbury, in the county of Dorset, lately belonging to the late chantry of St. Katherine, founded in the parish church of Ilminster, in the county of Somerset, belonging to and parcel of the possessions of the said chapel. All the said premises being then of the clear yearly value of 20*l.*: the same to be held of the said king, and his successors, as of his manor of Stalbridge, paying yearly 13*s.* 4*d.*, in lieu of all rents, services, and demands. And the said king further granted that the said governors should have a common seal, and that by the name aforesaid they might plead and be impleaded; and full power and authority was given to the said governors and their successors, or the major part of them, to nominate and appoint a master and sub-master of the said school, as often as there should be a vacancy, and that the governors, with the advice of the Bishop of Bristol for the time being, should be empowered to make fit and wholesome statutes and ordinances in writing relating to the ordering, governing, and directing of the said master and sub-master, and of the scholars of the said school, and of the stipend and salary of the master and sub-master, and all other things concerning the said school, and the governing, preservation, and disposition of the rents and revenues which then were or thereafter might be granted for the support of the said school, such statutes and ordinances so to be made to be inviolably observed from time to time for ever; and licence was granted to the said governors, and their successors, to take any manors, messuages, lands, or other hereditaments, not exceeding the clear yearly value of 20*l.*, over and above the value of the premises thereby granted to them.

The defective state of the early minute-books of the corporation has prevented our ascertaining whether or not the corporators appointed by the charter were the same individuals who composed the then existing corporation of the master and brethren of the almshouse, of which an account is next hereafter given, but it is at least certain, that the practice of electing the same persons to both offices prevailed very soon after the foundation of the school, and we find from some negociations connected with the corporation property, in which Sir Walter Raleigh was engaged, that in the reign of Elizabeth such had then become the acknowledged custom.

Among the ancient documents in the possession of the governors is preserved the schedule of the lands referred to by the letters patent, which bears date 30th March, 4th Edward VI., and is entitled, "Lands appointed by the king's majesty for a free grammar-school in the town of Sherborne." The messuages and lands belonging to the chantry of Martock are there stated to be all situate in Bradford Brand and Barnardsley, in the parish of Wimborne (with the exception of the chantry-house, then let at 4*d.* per annum), and to be of the annual value of 14*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, subject to two rents of 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and 5*s.*, leaving a net rent of 7*l.* 7*s.* The messuages and lands belonging to the chantry of St. Katherine, in the parish church of Gillingham, are described as situate in Gillingham, Milton, Silton, and Combermead, and let at 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum; the farm and lands belonging to the chantry of Lytchet Matravers, as situate at Lytchet and Sturminster Marshall, and held upon lease by Sir Thomas Trenchard, knt., at 40*s.* per annum. The lands derived from the free chapel of Thornton, in the parish of Marnhull, are stated to be a close of pasture with three acres and a half of meadow, let at 34*s.* per annum, and 20 acres of arable land, let at 20*s.* per annum. And the lands which had belonged to the chantry of St. Katherine, founded by John Marham, in the church of Ilminster, are described as 30 acres of arable and pasture lands, in the parish of Symondsbury, in the county of Dorset, let at 40*s.* per annum, subject to a quit-rent and payment for a highway of 1*s.* per annum, leaving the sum total of the net income of the messuages, lands, and tenements, belonging to the said chantries and free chapel, 20*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

The school premises, or that portion of them in which the master resides, and in which a dormitory has long existed, are attached to the church of Sherborne, and are not included in the royal grant, but were derived from the grant of Sir John Horsey, knt., next mentioned, through whose hands much of the property of the church and monastery of Sherborne, including the actual building, timber, lead, &c., after their demolition, seems to have passed. It will be observed that the conveyance is not to the governors of the school, but to the master and brethren of the almshouse, who, as before mentioned, were probably many of them (if not all) among the individuals who composed the former body. The following is an abstract of the deed in question:—

By indenture, bearing date 8th January, 1st of Queen Mary (1554), Sir John Horsey, in consideration of 40*l.*, granted and demised to George Wetnahm, and seven others, the master and brethren of the almshouse, and their successors, the conduit or water-pipe of lead, leading from the conduit-head, in Well Close, in Sherborne, through the lands of the said Sir John Horsey, to the market-place, together with the water and water-course as theretofore accustomed, for 200 years from the date thereof to the use and behoof of the inhabitants of the town of Sherborne, at the yearly rent of 4*d.*, with a covenant to permit the said master and brethren, and the said inhabitants, to lay down another water-pipe from the said pipe to the abbey-gate, called the porter's gate, and there to erect a cock and cistern without the said gate to receive the said water, with free liberty to all the inhabitants to fetch the same, and with liberty to dig up the soil by the same water-course for repairing and new laying the same when necessary. And further, the said Sir John Horsey, for the consideration aforesaid, bargained and sold to the said master and brethren, and their successors, to the only use and behoof of the inhabitants and parishioners of the said town, all that part and parcel of two chapels called Our Lady's Chapels, as then standing, adjoining to the east end of the parish church; and also all that part and south end of a house called "The Dortoir," both timber and stones, as then standing, adjoining the north side of the said church, viz., from the chapter-house door to the north aisle on the west side of the said dortoir, and on the east part thereof all that building and stone-work front between the east window of the chapter-house and the said church; also that other little chapel, both timber and stone, as then standing, adjoining the north part of the west end of the said church, and also the conduit-house, together with the church cemetry and soil thereof.

The premises lastly here described, though conveyed to the master and brethren, appear to have been always treated as vested in and have been enjoyed by the governors of the school.

From the next-abstracted deed it would appear that a parcel of ground, near the site of the monastery, called the Abbey Lytton, was at one time also vested in the corporation for the benefit of the school.

Sherborne.

By indenture, bearing date 1st December, 6th Charles I. (1629), Sir John Strangways, and others, in consideration of 12*l.*, granted and enfeoffed to Robert Whetcombe and five others, and their heirs, two houses, called the School-house and Almshouse, and the two gardens to the same adjoining, whereof one garden was sometime called the Abbey Lytton, or Churchyard, and the other garden the Almshouse Garden; also a piece of ground adjoining to the south part of the school-house, called the School Barton, and the void ground lying between the east end of the parish church and the said School Barton, whereon the late chapel, called the Chapel of our Lady the Bowe, and an "Ankret" house, were sometime built, and whereupon certain houses or shops were then or late standing, all which premises were situate in Sherborne, and were part of the demesne, lands, and possessions of the dissolved monastery of Sherborne, and of long time since the said dissolution had been and then were in the occupation of the governors of the free grammar-school of King Edward VI.; and further, the said Sir John Strangways and others, for the consideration aforesaid, granted and enfeoffed to the said Robert Whetcombe and others, and their heirs, for the only use and behoof of the parishioners and inhabitants of the said town, the conduit and water-pipe of lead leading from the well close, through the lands of the said Sir John Strangways and others, to the market-place of Sherborne, with the water and water-course thereof, in such manner as the same had been heretofore used and accustomed, with liberty for ever thereafter, as often as need should require, to break up the soil by the said water-course, through all the said lands, for repairing the said conduit water-pipe, which said conduit water-pipe and water-course had long been and then were in the occupation of the master and brethren of the almshouse for the proper use of the said inhabitants.

The above-recited deed appears to have become necessary to acquire the legal estate, then outstanding in the heirs of a surviving trustee, the premises having, at an earlier period, been conveyed for the use of the school.

A fine was levied, and a deed, declaring the uses thereof, agreeably to the above limitations, was executed by the said Sir John Strangways, and others, on the 1st October 1630, but, so far as the Abbey Lytton is concerned, we cannot trace the possession to have been in the governors subsequent to the date of the fine.

The name of the Abbey Lytton is given to a piece of ground lying north of the church in the map of Sherborne, but, though the boundaries of the several parcels are taken from a plan which was made in the year 1733, yet it appears the above denomination rests only upon the authority of a gentleman who assisted in the compilation of Hutchins's History of Dorsetshire, and was first affixed to the ground in question about 30 years since.

It has been surmised that the Abbey Lytton was left open by the governors of the school for the use of the scholars or inhabitants (in consequence, perhaps, of its being traversed by the pipe leading to the conduit, and being therefore exposed to be broken up), and that it was at length claimed and enclosed as waste by the lord of the manor.

In the map of 1733 it is, however, distinguished as an enclosed orchard. It further appears, from a terrier of the glebe of the vicarage of Sherborne, dated November 1669, and made by the then vicar and churchwardens, at the instance of the dean and chapter of Salisbury, that the abbey was purchased, together with the church leads, bells, and the Lady Chapel, and Ankret house (as formerly mentioned), by the inhabitants of the parish of Sherborne, but that the vicar had been permitted to keep his horse in the Abbey Lytton, or to let out the grass thereof.

It is now held under Earl Digby by Mr. Samuel Foot, whose life is the only one remaining, in a lease granted about the year 1798, in reversion, upon a then existing lease, which is understood to have been granted in consideration of the surrender of a former lease. It has thus been in the tenancy of the same family for nearly a century. The steward of Earl Digby could add nothing to the above information. Under these circumstances, the identity of the ground not being clear, and the possession of his lordship's family having been of so long duration, there appeared to be no ground for any ulterior proceeding.

A further portion of the school premises was acquired by the governors by the conveyance next abstracted.

By indenture of lease and release, dated 24th March 1748, reciting that Carew Harvey Mildmay and 15 others, governors of the possessions, revenues, and goods, of the free grammar-school of Sherborne, with some rents that were then in their hands, arising from the possessions theretofore granted by King Edward VI. for establishing the free grammar-school aforesaid, together with 50*l.*, which the Right Honourable William Lord Digby had voluntarily given for that purpose, had contracted for the purchase of certain premises thereinafter described, for the sum of 240*l.*, Elias Hosey, of Sherborne, aforesaid, in consideration of the said sum of 240*l.*, with the consent and approbation of the churchwardens and overseers of the parish of Sherborne aforesaid, and by the direction and appointment of the said governors, bargained, sold, and released, unto Francis Seymour, and his heirs, the house commonly called the Priory, or Prior's Lodging, situate in Sherborne aforesaid, then in the tenure of Francis Pittard, and also one parcel of pasture ground containing by estimation one acre, next adjoining to the said house called the Priory, or Prior's Lodging, and then converted into an orchard and court, or barton, and theretofore parcel of a court called the Abbey Court, lying in Sherborne aforesaid, and next adjoining thereto; all which premises had been converted into a workhouse and garden for the maintenance of the poor of the said parish; to hold the same to the said Francis Seymour and his heirs, to the use of the said governors and their successors for ever, as a body corporate, upon the same trusts, and subject to the same rules of management in every respect, as King Edward VI. gave and granted the possessions and revenues already vested in them in and by his letters patent as aforesaid.

A considerable increase of the possessions of the governors accrued to them under the Wimborne Enclosure Act, according to the provisions of which the Commissioners, by their award, bearing date 31st August 1786, allotted to them the following parcels:

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| In North Field | 31 | 2 | 35 |
| Barnsley Croft | 16 | 1 | 10 |
| At Old Lond | 8 | 1 | 1 |
| In North Field | 54 | 1 | 31 |
| In Barnsley Bottom | 5 | 2 | 12 |
| In North Field | 15 | 1 | 9 |
| In North Field and Barnsley Croft | 15 | 0 | 28 |
| In North Field | 1 | 0 | 20 |
| In Chilbridge Croft | 6 | 3 | 13 |
| In Abbot's Croft | 3 | 1 | 5 |
| In North Field | 1 | 1 | 0 |

Of these allotments the parcel in North Field, containing 1 A. 0 R. 20 P., was given up to Henry Bankes, esq., in exchange for 1 A. 0 R. 1 P. at Barnsley; and the parcel containing 1 A. 1 R. for 3 R. 36 P. at Chilbridge.

In the year 1811 another exchange was effected by the governors with Henry Bankes, esq., of certain lands in the hamlet of Barnsley. The premises given up by the governors consisted of two closes containing 18 A. 2 R. 15 P., and the lands received by them of three closes containing 38 A. 3 R. 1 P., about equal in point of quality, but subject at the time of the exchange to a lease.

The transaction is considered as beneficial to the charity, as the lands obtained lie intermixed with the other property of the governors.

The lands at Lytchet Matravers, which are stated to have been in the occupation of the Trenchard family, under successive leases, from the reign of King Henry VIII. to the present time, appear, during the last century, to have been lost sight of as forming part of the possessions of the school, but they were recovered by the exertions of the governors, after an investigation of the facts, and there is now no reason to suppose that any of the numerous parcels comprised in the original grant have been lost or alienated without an equivalent. There are, however, in the possession of the governors about 18 acres of land in the county of Somerset, of which the origin of the acquisition does not appear in their records.

Combe's Gift.—In addition to the real property acquired from the sources above mentioned, the governors derived a rent-charge of 2*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum under the following devise:

Bartholemew Combe, by Will, bearing date 7th October 1558, and proved in the Prerogative Court, charged all his lands and tenements in the town and fields of Sherborne, Lillington, and Caundle Marsh, in the county of Dorset, and in Salisbury, or elsewhere, in the county of Wilts, with the payment of four marks yearly towards the wages of the usher of the free school in Sherborne.

This sum of 2*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* is now paid by Robert Gordon, esq., M. P., as charged upon lands belonging to him in the parish of Lillington.

The following is the present rental of the school estates:—

The school premises adjoin the church, and stand irregularly round three courts, of which two are used as play-grounds by the boys. They comprise a good house for the residence of the head-master, formed (as above mentioned) out of what were anciently the Lady Chapels, at the eastern extremity of the church; the upper school, a handsome room, built, as appears by an inscription, in 1670; a dining-hall, now used as the writing-school, and a library above; the lower school, an excellent apartment, built in 1835, on the site of some old offices, and dormitories, of the latter of which the place is supplied by two stories of airy and commodious sleeping rooms over the new school-room; a building on the opposite side of the same court, containing offices below and a dormitory above, bearing the date of 1697; a separate room, used as offices, attached to the north side of the church. There is also a garden of near three-quarters of an acre, with stables and other buildings for the use of the head master, which have been lately built almost entirely at his own expense.

In the year 1828 proposals were made by Henry Charles Sturt, esq., for an exchange of lands in the parish of Buckland Newton and Glanville's Wootton, distant about eight miles from Sherborne, for the estates of the governors at Bradford and Barnardsley, in the parish of Wimborne Minster. The governors, who had found much inconvenience and expense to accrue from the detached situation of their several estates, insisted that Mr. Sturt should take all their lands at Lytchet Matravers, Sturminster Marshall, Marnhull, and Symondsbury, as well as those at Martock and Chilthorne Domer, being the whole of the school estates, except those at Gillingham. It was further stipulated that Mr. Sturt should give a bonus to the amount of 50*l.* a-year in land, beyond the equalised price, as a guarantee against any error or inadvertence on the part of the valuers. Surveyors were then appointed, and a commission issued according to the directions of the Act of 1st and 2d George IV., authorizing exchanges of charity lands; and, at a meeting at Dorchester, the commissioners certified their approval of the proposed exchange as beneficial to the charity.

The governors, conceiving that they had discovered a mistake in the valuation, thought it their duty to suspend the proceedings till the difficulty was cleared up. Another surveyor, and subsequently two practical farmers, then inspected the lands and made their report in favour of the proposed exchange.

The Act directing that the expenses shall not in these cases be chargeable on the charity, the governors left the management of the proceedings to Mr. Sturt's solicitor, repeated applications to whom were made to bring the matter to a conclusion. It was then discovered by Mr. Burder, the secretary to the bishop of the diocese, that a technical informality had occurred in an early stage of the proceeding, which rendered it necessary to begin afresh. Mr. Sturt, who had already incurred an expense of 700*l.*, in consequence intimated his disinclination to expose himself to further charges, and has offered to pay 150*l.* to the governors upon their undertaking to bear the further costs of the proceedings. To this proposal the trustees are inclined to accede, having the opinion of the bishop's secretary that the remaining charges for completing the exchange will not exceed the sum offered by Mr. Sturt.

The total quantity of land to be given up by the governors is 821 A. 0 R. 4 P. The total acreage of that to be given up by Mr. Sturt is 854 A. 2 R. 16 P., the annual value of which, according to an estimate made in 1830, is 778*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.*

The excess of the value of the timber on these lands, beyond the value of the timber on the school estates, is stated to amount to 1,700*l.*, which is intended to provide for the bonus of 50*l.* per annum.

The fact last mentioned is not, perhaps, a recommendation of the arrangement, but there is undoubtedly to be urged in its favour the very superior convenience and economy of management attendant upon the alteration of the locality.

The governors are elected by entries in the minute-book. They are chosen from inhabitants of the town at special meetings, of which previous notice is given to every trustee.

The number of 20 governors, notwithstanding the clause in the charter, has not been kept up, nor does any rule upon this head appear to be observed. There have been, of late years, as many as 18, and as few as 13. The number in February 1836 was 15.

Out of their number one is annually appointed to the office of warden, which is taken by each in rotation; another is called the steward, which office is usually held for life. The latter acts as treasurer and bailiff of the estates, and gives security to the amount of 500*l.*

The duty of the warden is to pay the salaries of the masters, the exhibitions, bills for repairs of the school buildings, and other ordinary outgoings, for which purpose he draws upon the steward when requisite. For any extraordinary expenditure the special authority of the governors is obtained.

At the time of this inquiry the corporation was composed of the under-mentioned gentlemen:

Thomas Fooks, solicitor, clerk of the peace, and steward to the Earl Digby; warden.
Peter Batson, solicitor.
James Ridout, draper.
The Rev. John Parsons, vicar of Sherborne.
Seth Burge.
Edward Turner, surgeon.
John Mills Thorne, maltster.
Wm. Naish Allford, solicitor.
James Langdon.
Nathaniel Highmore.
Thomas Ensor.
James Ridout, junior, draper.
Henry Charles Goodden, solicitor.
Thomas Warren Kempthorne, solicitor.
George Warry, solicitor.

The governors meet usually on the first Tuesday in every month in a chamber at the almshouse (where their documents are kept, and for the use of which they pay a small rent to the funds of that institution) to give the requisite orders for the management of the estates, the admission of the scholars, and the general conduct of the school. No business can be transacted without the presence of a majority of the existing number. They also meet annually on St. John's day for the distribution of numerous charities, of which the control is vested in them, and on this occasion they dine together at the expense of the school funds.

The earliest statutes for the regulation of the school now to be found were made with the concurrence of the Bishop of Bristol, whose signature they bear, in the year 1592. These were succeeded by another body of regulations, differing from them but slightly, and also confirmed by the Bishop in 1679, and in 1827 new statutes were drawn up under the like sanction, by which the school is now governed.

By the present statutes some new regulations have been introduced, and others no longer applicable have been dispensed with, but on the whole they adhere closely to the spirit of those which preceded them.

The institution of exhibitions to the universities were however here introduced for the first time.

The statutes are to the following effect:

1.—That the master and usher be chosen by the governors.

2.—That the schoolmaster be a Master of Arts, at least, of one of the two universities of England, well skilled in the Latin and Greek languages, and well affected to the doctrines and discipline of the church of England, to produce satisfactory testimonials of his laudable conversation and conformity to the present government in church and state, and also the Bishop of Bristol's approbation of his merits.

3.—That he undertake no additional employment but that of a minister of the church of England.

4.—That the course of instruction be left to his judgment.

5.—That the usher be a Bachelor of Arts of one of the said two universities, of like acquirements, and to produce like testimonials with the master, and to undertake no other employment but that of a minister. That, should it appear expedient to the master (not however from a wish to be absent from the duties of the school) to employ assistant masters besides the usher, it shall be competent for him so to do, provided that they exhibit to the governors satisfactory testimonials to the effect above mentioned.

6.—That the master and usher shall not absent themselves from their respective duties.

7.—That the salaries of the master and usher be from time to time augmented or lessened with the advice of the Bishop of Bristol as the governors shall see fit, to be paid half-yearly, with liberty to the governors, in case of the inability of the master or usher to discharge his duties, to keep back the whole or part of his salary to remunerate a substitute.

8.—That in case the master or usher be desirous to quit the school, or in case the governors and the said bishop see cause to remove the master or usher, six months' notice of such desire or intention be in either case given.

9.—That on the retirement of a master or usher from age or infirmity, the governors, with the advice of the said bishop, may allow him a suitable annuity.

10.—That the master and usher, before being placed in their offices, take the oaths of allegiance and supremacy, and also an oath, therein prescribed, to inculcate obedience to the King and his laws, and to obey the said statutes.

11.—That all boys shall be entitled to be instructed gratuitously who are introduced by the warden from the town and neighbourhood of Sherborne, the privilege being understood to extend to every boy born in Sherborne or the neighbouring country, or bonâ fide residing with his parents, or (by the special permission of the warden and governors) with any other relation not receiving remuneration for his board, such boy being able to read and write, and not being above the age of 19; and that every boy who shall for the second time refuse to conform to the discipline of the school shall be expelled.

12.—That equal attention in all respects be paid by the master and usher to all the scholars, poor and rich, and in cases of complaint the final appeal to be to the governors.

13.—That every scholar shall come to the school at 7 o'clock in the morning, clean and decent, not to depart without the master's consent, nor to be detained by his parents on light excuses.

14.—That the several prayers therein prescribed be used for the morning and evening service in the school.

15.—That there be two vacations, at Midsummer and Christmas, of five weeks each, with such other play-days as the master should see fit, within reasonable bounds; and further, that all the scholars should regularly on Sundays, both morning and afternoon, attend the church at Sherborne, either the master or usher at all times accompanying them thither.

[In the statutes of 1592 is a regulation, that all the scholars remaining in the town shall appear at the school every Sunday and holiday, in order to attend at the church.]

16.—That the master and usher instruct the scholars in the catechism, and such of them as are capable in the doctrines and discipline of the Church of England as by law established.

17.—That the master have the charge of the library.

18.—That the governors be at liberty to grant four exhibitions to boys on the foundation, going to either of the universities, to the amount of 60*l.* per annum, to continue for four years only, to be paid half-yearly, upon the certificate of the head or tutor of the college that the exhibitioner has kept his terms, and conducted himself with respectability; but no boy to be eligible until he has been at school on the foundation four uninterrupted years at the least.

19.—That before the last week in June, in every year, the master shall communicate to the governors the names of the boys eligible for exhibitions, and that the governors, upon the report of an examiner appointed by them as to the literary attainments of such boys, and their knowledge in religion, shall nominate such boy as they think most fit, but shall not be obliged to nominate to an exhibition in case no one of the boys appears to them sufficiently qualified.

The establishment provided by the governors consists only of the master and under-master, to the benefit of whose tuition all boys resident in the town (within the spirit of the statutes) are admissible, upon the introduction of the warden, provided they are able to read and write. With the above qualifications there is, in effect, no practical exclusion.

In February 1836 the Rev. Ralph Lyon, M. A., of Trinity College, Cambridge, filled the situation of head-master; and the Rev. Thomas James, M. A., that of under-master. Mr. Lyon succeeded the Rev. Mr. Cutler in 1823, at which time there were 13 boys on the foundation, and four or five boarders, all of whom then removed to a school kept by a son of Mr. Cutler.

From the Eton system, which had been implicitly followed in the school, Mr. Lyon introduced some departures, particularly in sub-dividing the classes. Some extension of the school hours was also adopted, with the view of making the writing-school more efficient. The number of scholars rapidly increasing, Mr. Lyon procured the assistance, first of one, and then of two classical masters, graduates of the university, besides the under-master, as also of two other masters, who were partly engaged in teaching writing and arithmetic, and partly in instructing the lower classes. In 1825 the number of foundation boys had increased to 30, and that of the boarders to 25. In February 1836 the number of the former was 43, and of the latter 80.

The education comprehends a complete course of classical instruction. A portion of time is also devoted every Saturday and Sunday to religious instruction, comprising the Greek Testament, the explanation and proofs of the Articles of the Church of England, and Lewis's Exposition of the Catechism. The whole of the scholars attend the school, and go to the parish church every Sunday, accompanied by the master or under-master.

Mr. Lyon, besides the use of the school premises, free of rent, repairs, rates, and taxes, receives from the governors a salary of 125*l.* per annum.

Mr. James has a salary of 100*l.* per annum, and by a recent arrangement is allowed 40*l.* per annum, in lieu of a house. He is also permitted to take boarders, and in February 1836 had six. He likewise holds a curacy, the duty of which does not occupy much of his time.

Each of the masters receives by custom, and not by express regulation of the governors, a gratuity of one guinea from each boy upon entrance, and a similar sum annually at Christmas.

Upon the appointment of Mr. Lyon, an order was made by the governors for the discontinuance of these payments; this was accompanied by a direction that Latin and Greek books should be provided, free, for the foundation boys in all the classes. The inducement thus held out was conceived by the governors to have caused many children to be sent to the school, to whom a classical education could hardly be supposed to be useful, and who of course divided the attention of the masters with those scholars more clearly within the scope of the institution. The regulations were therefore rescinded in 1824, except so far as the books in use by the higher classes were concerned. These, of which it was thought that the expense might be a matter of importance to some parents, are still provided gratuitously. For instruction in writing and arithmetic, half-a-guinea a-quarter is paid by such as receive it.

The instruction of the different classes is so arranged that every boy is brought several times in the course of each half-year under the examination of the head or under master.

Mr. Lyon has also introduced half-yearly examinations of the first six classes, in the mode used at the universities, partly by viva voce interrogation, partly by printed questions. Prizes are distributed, the cost of which is defrayed by himself. To these examinations no publicity is given, but much of the efficiency and success of the school is attributed to them by the masters.

In conformity with the statutes of 1827, the governors established four exhibitions to the universities of 60*l.* each, for the benefit of boys proceeding thither from the foundation of this school. One has been accordingly given in each year (with one exception) since that time until 1835, when the governors, contemplating very heavy expenses in rebuilding a portion of the school premises, and also in the repairs of the farm premises on their property at Barnardsley, thought it prudent to intimate, much to the disappointment of an expectant candidate, that no exhibition would be granted for the coming turn.

Some remark has been drawn upon them by this step, as inflicting needless hardship upon an individual; but the blame should perhaps be thrown upon the original resolution, as rash in devoting so large a proportion of the total income to this object, while so many obvious sources of expense remained unprovided for.

There is a library attached to the school, but, being very deficient in classical books, the governors have been induced to allow about 10*l.* per annum to supply the want. Such of the books as are required in the course of study are occasionally lent to the boys by the master.

In consequence of the great inconvenience sustained by the masters and scholars, by the limited extent of the school, an urgent application was made to the governors by Mr. Lyon and Mr. James that an increase of room might be afforded. After some delay the governors consented, in November 1834, to an outlay of 1,000*l.* for improving the accommodation both of school-room and dormitories, the latter being in a wretched state of repair, and a source of constant expense. The money was to be advanced by Mr. Lyon, without interest, until it should be convenient to the governors to repay him; any extra expenditure beyond the stipulated sum was to be borne exclusively by him, and the plan and execution of the proposed building was to be under the control of a committee of the governors. The old materials were given by the governors, and the contract with the builder was arranged by them.

At the time of this inquiry, the new building, consisting of a spacious and handsome new school-room, with comfortable dormitories over it, had been completed to the satisfaction of the surveyor appointed by the governors. Mr. Lyon had then paid between 800*l.* and 900*l.* on account, of which no part had been repaid him, and there was no expectation that the expenditure would fall within the 1,000*l.*

The result of the alterations has been rather to improve than to extend the accommodation for boarders (of whom Mr. Lyon is limited to 80), and to render the school-rooms more healthy and convenient.

The following is an analysis of the expenditure of the governors in maintaining the establishment which has been described.

The next-mentioned payments occur in every annual account of the warden, and (excepting the insurance which has been increased) may be looked upon as fixed:—

Having gone through the details of the management of the trust, it remains to offer a few remarks upon the subject of certain charges which have been preferred against the governors, and at the time of our inquiry produced some excitement in the town. It was urged that the governors did not comply with the spirit (even if their practice were justifiable under the letter) of their charter, in not filling up their numbers to 20: that they were actuated by an exclusive spirit in their selection of new members, and jealously refused all information on the subject of the charities to those not of their own body: that they had evinced a greater solicitude for the interest of the head master than for those of the foundation boys, and had displayed this bias in raising the amount of his salary from 100*l.* to 125*l.*; in permitting the outlay of so large a sum in buildings, of which his boarders derived the chief benefit, to the prejudice of the candidates for the suspended exhibition; in rescinding their order for the discontinuance of the gratuities to the master, and for providing books for the boys free of expense; and, lastly, in permitting offensive distinctions to be made between the boarders and the foundation boys. To commence with the latter branches of the charge:—it appears that the amount of salary (while the circumstances of the school show it to be sufficient) bears a far smaller proportion than is common to the total income of the charity: that, with respect to the buildings, the governors have made an advantageous agreement for the charity, quite independently of the consideration of the great moral benefit which must accrue to the foundation boys by collision with a numerous school of respectable boarders, where the latter do not engross (as is not here alleged) too great a share of the master's attention; and this advantage appears to be cheaply purchased even at the expense of the suspension of an exhibition which it would perhaps have been wiser not to have established. The tacit permission to accept the gratuities which had been once discontinued, and the withdrawal of books from the lower classes, though more questionable, seem to have been necessary to secure a flourishing school of boarders, without which no master, however zealous, can be expected long to persevere in great exertion; and the charge of countenancing offensive distinctions resolved itself into petty instances of an aristocratic spirit, too prevalent among boys, and wholly beyond the authority of a master. The first branch of the accusations against the governors has more colour of truth. Their body, of which many members are connected by relationship, and many by partnership, has an exclusive character, which cannot but be galling to many of their equally-respectable fellow-townsmen, to whose complaints the excuse that the prescribed number is full cannot be given, and though the refusal to complete their numbers is probably remediable by application to a court of equity (a question which the proposed exchange with Mr. Sturt may perhaps decide), yet the addition of five new members, selected under the prevailing influence, or indeed under the system of self-election now in force, and which the Legislature only can alter, would be little satisfactory. The denial of information on matters connected with the school or charities under their management appears to be established, and to be greatly deserving of reprehension. It originates in a mistaken view of the duty of a trustee, and usually brings with it, in some degree, its own punishment, by drawing down upon the parties an obloquy which a full disclosure of their real conduct would go far to remove. In the present instance there can be little doubt that the annual publication of their accounts would have ensured to the governors the full credit of that management which has succeeded in securing for the town of Sherborne a school whose conduct and reputation are surpassed by few similar establishments. It is a matter of regret to many that dissenters are excluded from the benefit of this institution, by the compulsory attendance at church and prosecution of religious studies; but this forms no fair ground of blame to the governors, who have merely adhered to the spirit of the statutes in this point. It seems, however, a question whether some relaxation on this head might not fitly be introduced, particularly in the case of foundation boys residing and passing the Sabbath with their respective families.

Almshouse of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist.

Almshouse of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist.

This ancient institution appears to have originated in the gift of a building at Sherborne, for the purposes of an almshouse, by Henry Willis and William Dodit, in the seventh year of King Henry IV. (1406.)

The next endowment, in point of time, now to be found is by deed, bearing date 6th October, in the 12th year of the same reign (1411), whereby Elizabeth Latymer, of Langton House, near Blandford, gave a meadow, called Subtrow, in Beerhacket, "for the support of the almshouse in Sherborne, newly established, and their successors," for ever.

Upon these, which were doubtless assisted by similar endowments from parties whose names have not been preserved, was engrafted the corporate body hereafter mentioned, which, at the instance of the Bishop of Salisbury, was created to perpetuate the charitable objects of the donors.

King Henry VI., by letters patent, bearing date 11th July, in the 15th year of his reign (1437), empowered Robert Neville Bishop of Salisbury, Sir Humphrey Stafford, Margaret Gogh, John Fountleroy, and John Baret, to establish an almshouse to consist of 20 brethren, and 12 poor feeble and impotent men and four impotent women, and of a chaplain for the performance of certain superstitious duties, with liberty for the brethren to elect among themselves a master yearly, or as often as it might be expedient; and, in case of the death of any of the said brethren, for the survivors to elect other brethren to make up the number of 20, and also with liberty to remove the said master, and the said poor men and women, and to elect others in their room; the said master and brethren and chaplain to be called the master and brethren and perpetual chaplain of the almshouse of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist, in Sherborne; and to be deemed capable of taking lands and tenements to them and their successors, and to sue and be sued, and to have a common seal, and to make statutes and ordinances for the well-governing of the said house. And the said chaplain to be named upon the founding of the said house by the master thereof, and at all times thereafter, in case of neglect of duty, another chaplain to be appointed in like manner; and the said master and brethren were to be competent to acquire and hold lands to them and their successors to the value of 40 marks per annum, for the support of the said poor men and women. And the said priest, and his successors, in like manner were to be competent to hold lands to the value of 10 marks per annum, provided that such acquisitions were found by inquisition and duly returned in the court of Chancery not to be detrimental to the said king.

The said Robert Neville Bishop of Salisbury, Sir Humphrey Stafford, Margaret Gogh, widow, John Fountleroy, and John Baret, by deed, bearing date the 10th January, in the 16th year of the reign of the said king (1438), after reciting the said letters patent, by virtue of the same founded an almshouse in Sherborne, consisting of 20 brethren, 12 poor feeble and impotent men, and four poor feeble and impotent women, and a perpetual priest, and thereby named the first brethren, poor men and women, and appointed John Carpenter the first priest; the said brethren and priest to have the several powers and privileges conferred by the said letters patent thereinbefore recited; and they were thereby empowered yearly, or at what other time it should seem expedient, to depose the master of the said house, and to choose among themselves a new master in his room; and, in case of the death of any of the said brethren, or poor men or poor women, to elect as brethren others who should be dwelling in the town of Sherborne when chosen, and that they should be chosen within four weeks of the death of their predecessors. And that the poor men and women should be chosen within eight days of the death of their predecessors, and should have been continual householders in the town of Sherborne, if possible, or if not, then should have been dwelling in the said town or parish.

And it was provided that the majority of voices of the said brethren, or, in case of equality, then the voices of the most worthy men, should prevail.

Also that, if any of the said poor men and women should debate with their fellows, or obey not the statutes, or if the priest should neglect to observe the same, the brethren should have power to remove the offender, and elect another in his or her stead.

Also that the poor men and women should have power to choose among themselves a governor, to be called the Prior of St. John's House, to have the rule among them in the absence of the master and brethren, with power to the said master and brethren to remove him, and direct the choice of a new prior by the said poor men and women.

Also that there should be a woman in the said house to buy, procure, and dress the food of the said poor men and women, and serve them, to be called the Housewife of St. John's House, and to wash the clothes and make the beds therein, and to be paid therefore by the master of the said house.

Also that, if any of the said brethren should fall to poverty and impotence, he should receive of the yearly revenues of the said house 20*d.* per week for his sustenance, if the master and brethren should think it reasonable; and in case the wife of any of the said brethren should survive him, and should also be poor and feeble, such widow should receive of the said revenues 10*d.* per week for her sustenance, if it should be thought needful.

Sherborne.

Also that there should be spent for the meat and drink of the said poor men and women in the said house 10*s.* per week, and for their clothes and other necessaries eight marks per annum; and that each of them should have at Christmas, yearly, a gown and hood of white woollen cloth, with a bishop's mitre on the right breast, and an escutcheon of the arms of St. George on the left breast, as formerly used by the young men of Sherborne; the said gowns and hoods, and making, to be paid for with the said eight marks.

Also that, if the means to fulfil the said payments should be thereafter purchased by any of the masters and brethren, the said poor men and women should eat their meals together in the said house at the hours therein prescribed, and should always have a separate bed and bed-place by themselves, and should have fuel, if it might be had without great waste, on the lands to be purchased; and that the said housewife should partake of the food of the said house, and should have 20*d.* a-quarter, and a new gown and hood at Christmas every year.

Also that all the said poor men and women should bring all their moveable goods with them into the house, to be at their disposal while they lived, unless they should be likely to die, when they were not to give or bequeath the same, except to the use of the said house.

Also that the said poor men and women should never, while in the said house, beg in the town of Sherborne, or elsewhere, on pain of expulsion by the master and brethren; and they were directed to perform the usual religious ceremonies.

And the master was thereby directed yearly, at Midsummer, or within 10 days thereafter, and also whensoever required by the said brethren, with 10 days' warning, to account for his disbursements, and to hand over the increase, if any, to the brethren, to be put with the evidences into a mighty iron-bound coffer in a treasure-house in the said house with five locks, the keys whereof should be kept, one by the master, and the other four by four of the brethren chosen for the purpose, who should all be present at every opening of the box. And every brother was ordered, upon his election, to pay a certain good to the profit of the house, as should be reasonable; and also, with the said poor men, women, priest, and housewife, to swear to observe the rules and statutes thereof.

Among the records of the almshouse is a licence, bearing date 9th February, 16th Henry VI., from the said bishop Neville, and from the dean and chapter of Salisbury, to John Rockett, master of the almshouse, to hold lands of the church to the value of 40 marks per annum; and a similar licence, of the same date, to John Carpenter, the perpetual chaplain of the almshouse, to hold lands of the church to the valve of 10 marks per annum.

The present almshouse was erected in 1448, about 10 years after the date of the letters patent, by the subscription of the several persons whose names appear in the charter, and many more. Thus, Sir Humphrey Stafford gave 10 oaks for the building, and 10*l.* in money; John Fountleroy 80 loads of timber, and 20*l.* in money; about 25 other persons, whose names occur as brethren, gave 5*l.* each in money; John Gilbert gave 20*l.* towards purchasing the land, and for being made a brother; Margaret Goffe (or Geogh) gave the house called the Julian, on the green, in Sherborne, for the support of the establishment; and Elizabeth Latimer gave the lands in Yetminster Spittle and Beerhacket.

From what source were derived the various messuages and lands situate in and near Sherborne, which are enumerated in the next-abstracted licence to hold in mortmain, and which now form the principal part of the possessions of the almshouse, does not appear.

King Henry VI., by letters patent, dated 7th February, in the 32d year of his reign, reciting that he had, by former letters patent, granted licence to John Deen, late master of the almshouse of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist, at Sherborne, and the brethren and their successors, to hold lands to the value of 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum, and being willing that such grant might have its due effect, granted to William Coombe and two others licence to assign to William Smyth, then master of the said almshouse, and the brethren of the said house, and their successors, 39 messuages, 2 tofts, 1 dove-cote, in Sherborne, 39½ acres of land, 19A. 1R. of meadow, and 1 acre of alders, in Sherborne, Beerhacket, and Caundle Marsh, (the boundaries whereof are therein described,) to the value of 103*s.* and 4*d.* per annum, in part satisfaction of the said 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, to hold the same to them and their successors; and the said king granted in like manner to the said master and brethren his licence to hold the same.

And the whole of the premises were, by indenture of feoffment, bearing date April 9th in the same year of the said reign, conveyed by the said William Coombe and two others to the said William Smyth, the master, and to the brethren of the almshouse, and their successors.

Game's Gift.—By indenture bearing date 1st June, 31st Elizabeth (1589), the master and brethren of the almshouse, reciting that Peter Game, one of the then brethren, had given 50*l.* to purchase lands for the maintenance of one poor man, an inhabitant of the town of Sherborne, in addition to the poor men then in the said house, covenanted that the said Peter Game, and after his decease any of his kindred and name in succession, for ever, might, upon a vacancy, present to the said master and brethren three poor decayed men, inhabitants of the said town, meet to be received into the said house, of which three the master and brethren should choose one, who should be admitted upon complying with the regulations of the said house.

Masters's Gift.—William Masters, in 1589, gave 50*l.* to the master and brethren, to the intent that, for ever, thenceforth, one poor woman should, as of his free alms and gift, be received into the house, and enjoy the benefit thereof, which the said master and brethren did thankfully accept, and ordered to be registered among their records accordingly.

No specific appointment is now made in respect of either of the abovementioned gifts.

Wood's Gift.—William Wood, M.A., and master of the free grammar-school of Sherborne, by deed bearing date 20th October, 7th James I., enfeoffed Lawrence Sweetman, and another, and their heirs, of divers lands and tenements in Hermitage, on trust, after the death of certain persons to whom life estates were thereby limited, to assure the same to the master and brethren of the almhouse, or, in default of licence obtained for such conveyance, then to such other persons, in trust, as they should see fit, for the relief, support, and maintenance of two, three, or four poor people in the said almshouse, if the profits of the said premises, according to the maintenance and allowance of the other almspeople therein, would maintain them; and also that the said premises should be, by the said trustees, made liable to the yearly payment of 10*l.* towards the relief of the poor people and inhabitants of the city of Hereford.

In 1612 the name of Charles Brook occurs in the almshouse record-book as a donor of 10*l.* to the stock of the establishment.

The present property of the almshouse is described in the annexed rental. Of the houses in Sherborne demised for lives no general survey and valuation have been made since 1812. The result of a valuation then made by Mr. Evan Owen is inserted in the rental as the nearest approximation to be obtained; but this document, though often referred to by the master and brethren, does not regulate their terms upon the renewals of leases, the special circumstances of each case being always taken into consideration.

Showing an average receipt of 187*l.* per annum from this source.

In addition to the property in the occupation of tenants, as above described, the master and brethren are possessed of a wood, in the parish of Sherborne, called the Almshouse Wood, containing 7A. 0R. 6P., which they retain in their own possession, and cut at about seven years' growth for sale. Earl Digby pays 1*l.* 1*s.* per annum for the right of sporting in this wood, and repairs the fences.

They also hold the almshouse, with its garden and outbuildings, which contains accommodations for 24 inmates, with two common rooms and all the requisite offices, a chapel, and other apartments.

For the use of the room in which the muniments of the free grammar-school as well as the almshouse are kept, and the meetings of the governors take place, an annual sum of 5*l.* 5*s.* is paid by them to the revenue of the almshouse.

The master and brethren are also possessed of a sum of 400*l.* New Three-and-a-half per Cent. Stock, standing in the names of Thomas Ensor, William Naish Alford, Thomas Warren Kempthorne, and George Warry, four of the brethren.

The corporation of the master and brethren of the almshouse, and the more modern body of the governors of the free grammar-school, appear, as mentioned in our account of the school, to have consisted of the same individuals, and their proceedings to have been recorded in the same book, from a very early period, probably from the reign of Elizabeth. A separate election to each office is, however, still preserved. To every master an oath is administered, that he will faithfully discharge the duties of the office, that he will not seek to obtain or to grant any greater or other interest in the almshouse possessions called the Hyle and Burports, or in the lands in Yetminster and Beerhacket, than for seven years, at the improved yearly rent; and that he will not disclose the counsels of the master and brethren. The names of the members of the corporation, which have been before stated in the account of the free grammar-school, are—

The master is elected from the brethren, in rotation, for one year only. It is the practice to commit to his management, for the year previous to his election as master, several minor charities hereafter mentioned, which have, from time to time, been vested in the master and brethren. During this period he is called sub-master.

The almspeople are appointed by the master and brethren from poor parishioners of Sherborne, giving a preference to those who have once been in better circumstances. Their number is now 24, of whom 16 are men and eight are women. There is a chaplain, whose duty it is to read prayers and deliver a sermon in the almshouse chapel every Thursday; for this service he receives a salary of 12*l.* 12*s.* per annum, at which amount it was fixed in the year 1789. The present chaplain is the Rev. J. Parsons, one of the brethren.

One of the almsmen, usually the person of the best character and education, is elected to the nominal office of prior of the house. It is his duty to read prayers, morning and evening, in the chapel, and to act generally, in the absence of the master, as his deputy, in preserving order among the inmates; a stipend of 40*s.* per annum is allowed him; a similar sum is paid him from the funds of the free grammar-school for ringing the chapel bell every morning, to summon the boys.

There is also a housewife, who is elected in the same manner from the women. Her duty is to attend to the domestic affairs of the house, for which she receives a salary of 5*l.*

The 24 almspeople are lodged in the house, the women's rooms being in a separate part of the building. They have two common rooms, in one of which the men and women dine at separate tables. Fires are provided for the lodging-rooms of the women in winter. Their diet is meat four times a-week, on the alternate days broth and bread and cheese; all are stated to be of the best quality. They are supplied with beer brewed in the house. In case of illness, wine or necessary cordials are allowed, and an attendant is paid for the convenience of the invalids or the very aged. The provisions, as bread, meat, and cheese, are contracted for by the master for the time being, and 6*d.* weekly is allowed to each inmate to purchase vegetables. The little ordinary requisites of the table are also provided, for which the prior of the house brings in his bill, weekly, to the master. Coals and wood are furnished without limit.

The entire clothing of the inmates, from shirts and stockings to hats and great coats, is also provided by the master. A medical gentleman (at present Mr. Turner, one of the brethren) receives a salary of 5*l.* 5*s.* per annum, for attendance upon the inmates when required.

It has occasionally been necessary to expel an almsman for a serious offence, but minor transgressions are punished by placing the offending party at the bottom of the list, which imposes upon him the duties of the house service.

All the almspeople, if their health and strength permit, are expected to attend the church every Sunday.

The rents are received by a steward, upon whom the master of the almshouse draws for such sums as he may require for the current expenses of the almshouse. The only other monies that come into the hands of the master are derived from accidental sources connected with the establishment, as by sale of old materials, or of barm, upon brewing, &c., and are of very trifling amount. The steward now gives security in the sum of 500*l.*, a practice which was only introduced about 20 years since, upon the defalcation of a former officer.

To the revenue of the almshouse is also to be added a surplus arising from John Foster's charity hereafter mentioned, being one of those under the management of a member of the corporation, called the sub-warden, by whom the balance is handed over to the steward.

This has not hitherto been an annual source of income.

The accounts will be best understood from the following summary, which extends over the six years preceding the date of our inquiry. The steward's account shows the gross receipts and outgoings upon the property. The master's account shows the detail of the expenditure in maintaining the establishment.

Sherborne.

The comfort of the almspeople appears to be fully consulted in the general arrangements, nor does the above table of expenditure call for any particular remark beyond the mention of the fact that it has hitherto been the ordinary practice of the acting master to purchase the clothing and malt for the use of the almshouse from such of the brethren as deal in those articles. In fact, an order that the necessaries of the house should be supplied by members, and not by strangers, appears in the minute-book under the date of 1786; and, though it was stated that this rule had not been held binding on the master since the year 1799, the entry rescinding it was not pointed out, nor has the objectionable practice (which, if tolerated at all, should be so only upon open competition with other tradesmen) been yet abandoned.

The arrangement by which the collection of the income is placed in a different hand from the expenditure, and security required from the steward, was first made in the year 1816, upon the death of Mr. Lewis, who in a preceding year had filled the office of master as well as steward, and who, having in the latter capacity received a sum of 193*l.* on account of property-tax returned to the charity, and also several sums on account of renewal of fines, died suddenly, leaving his affairs in an insolvent condition. His specialty debts amounting to above 1,800*l.*, and his expected assets (which had not been realized at the time of this inquiry) not much exceeding 1,000*l.*, there is no hope that any part of the simple contract debts, amounting to about 4,500*l.*, will ever be satisfied. The loss thus arising to the almshouse from their former system, so defective in proper checks, has been 544*l.*

Some attention has lately been directed to the evidence of the alleged existence of a manor in Sherborne belonging to the almshouse. There appear among its records many copies of court-rolls entitled "the Court Baron of the Master and Brethren," containing grants of the almshouse lands by the master and brethren. The last grant by copy was made in the year 1800 to John Percy, of a house near the conduit in Sherborne, now held by Messrs. Percy, nor is there more than one other similar grant by the master and brethren now in existence; leases having been gradually substituted for copies, possibly in consequence of the inconvenience sustained from time to time by the privilege of widowhood which attached to the latter tenure. Many of the copies of court-rolls of ancient date contain presentments by the tenants of the state of their buildings, but no other evidence than the above-mentioned grant was adduced to show the existence, within the last half-century, of any manorial privilege in the master and brethren. A court-baron for the manor of Sherborne, and a court-leet for the hundred, are held by Earl Digby, whose predecessors appear to have held small tenements of the master and brethren by copy in the manner above mentioned. The manor, therefore, if it existed at all, was probably distinct from the manor of Sherborne, and was suffered (perhaps intentionally) to be extinguished.

An exchange has for some years past been in contemplation between the master and brethren and Earl Digby, of the scattered lands in the parish of Sherborne, and the small properties held under the corporation by his Lordship (two of which are situate within the precincts of the Castle Hill, and in his pleasure-grounds), for meadow and pasture lands belonging to his Lordship, immediately adjoining the farm called the Hyle Farm, in the occupation of William Humbers. The scattered parcels proposed to be given up by the master and brethren are about 40 in number, and contain 55 A. 3 R. 33 P.; and at the time of the last discussion of the subject were estimated to be of the annual value of 103*l.* 4*s.* 10*d.*, and the parcels proposed to be given up by Lord Digby are 20 in number, containing 61 A. 2 R. 25 P., and were then of the estimated annual value of 150*l.* 12*s.*

Lord Digby was also required to give, in exchange for the small properties held by him, lands which should be worth 2,000*l.*, and to allow to the corporation upon the whole transaction a bonus in land to the extent of 500*l.* The above conditions have not been accepted by his Lordship, but it is probable that the negotiation will still proceed upon terms advantageous to the charity.

RICHARD FOSTER'S CHARITY.

Richard Foster's Charity.

By indenture of lease and release, dated 19th and 20th July, 16 Charles I. (1640), Richard Foster bargained, sold, and released to William Lyford, clerk, John Tyler, clerk, and Richard Booth, and their heirs, six closes of meadow and pasture land, called Cannons, containing by estimation 57 acres, with their appurtenances, lying at Boyshill, in the parish of Haydon, in the county of Dorset, upon one of which closes there was a messuage or dwelling-house, lately erected, and then or lately in the occupation of the said Richard Foster, and all other his lands and hereditaments in Boyshill and Haydon aforesaid, upon trust, in default of issue of the said grantor, to suffer the master and brethren of the almshouse of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist, in Sherborne, aforesaid, to receive the rents of the said premises, and, after payment of the debts of the donor, and of a yearly sum of 5*l.* therein mentioned, to pay the sum of 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum towards the better education and breeding up of 10 poor boys of the town of Sherborne, to be instructed to read the English tongue, such as the said master and brethren should elect; and the further sum of 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* unto such person as the said master and brethren should elect to instruct the said 10 boys; and also to pay the sum of 10*l.* per annum towards the education of 10 such poor maids of the said town of Sherborne as the said master and brethren should elect; such poor maids to be brought up in such manner as the said master and brethren should direct; in which election of boys and maids the donor directed that the preference should be given to those of his blood; and he further directed that the said master and brethren should employ the surplus (if any) of such rents and profits, first, in the purchase of plate and other necessaries for the administration of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at Sherborne aforesaid; in the next place, in the payment of 5*l.* yearly towards the maintenance of one of the said 10 poor boys at the university until he should attain the degree of A. B., and the residue towards the relief of poor people of the said town in the said almshouse; and on further trust that, when any one of the said trustees should die, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves and four other honest persons of the said town, on the trusts aforesaid, with directions that the said trustees, and all others interested in the premises, should yearly make a particular account of their receipts and disbursements for the preceding year, at the almshouse aforesaid, on which occasion a breakfast of the value of 1*l.* 10*s.* should be provided out of the said profits for the said trustees and all others interested in the premises.

By his Will, bearing date 20th July 1640, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, the said Richard Foster appointed that all his lands lying in the parish of Haydon should remain to the uses declared by the above-abstracted deed, subject to a power given by his said Will to his wife to lease the same for seven years after his death for the payment of his debts.

By deed, bearing date 2d April 1658, the premises were conveyed by John Tyler, the then survivor, to the use of himself, John Eastment, Richard Avoke and two others, and their heirs. There does not appear to have been any subsequent conveyance, and the property has been since treated as vested in the master and brethren of the almshouse, or rather in the governors of the grammar-school, and are managed by one of that body annually chosen, called the sub-warden, and whose duty it is to superintend the property of the minor schools under the control of the governors.

The estate, which is still called Boyshill, consists of a farm-house with outbuildings, and 45 A. 0 R. 2 P. of pasture land, let to William Dampney, as yearly tenant, at a high rent of 70*l.* per annum.

The house is in indifferent condition. The occasional disbursements for repairs amount upon an average of the last 10 years to about 3*l.* per annum; in the years 1822 and 1823, however, a sum of 48*l.* was expended upon the buildings.

Out of the clear rent a salary of 12*l.* 12*s.* is paid to a schoolmaster, who teaches 10 boys reading, writing, and accounts. The present schoolmaster, James Ellaway, also teaches the boys under Woodman's charity, hereafter mentioned, as well as other scholars, in his own house.

There is also paid 4*l.* a-year to a schoolmistress (Ann Noak), who teaches five girls reading and needle-work, with the children under Lord Digby's charity, next mentioned.

These children, both boys and girls, are supplied with clothing, the girls being entirely clothed; the boys receiving coats at about 5*s.* per yard, with every other article of dress, except waistcoats and trousers.

The entire annual expense of the clothing, including the making, averages about 31*l.*

A payment of 10*s.* 6*d.* is made to the churchwardens for the childrens' seats in church.

The residue is carried over to the general funds of the master and brethren of the almshouse.

These sums have not been regularly carried to account in the almshouse receipts, two or three years being sometimes entered together. It is not till 1833-4 that the balances paid over in 1828, 1829, and 1830, are carried to account. In 1834-5 appear the subsequent payments for the years 1831 and 1832, but not that for 1833.

No instance having occurred of any of the boys having gone to the grammar-school and proceeded to the university, the 5*l.* allowed for an exhibition has not been paid.

Woodman's Charity.

Woodman's Charity.

John Woodman, by Will bearing date 12th December 1717, gave to the churchwardens of the town of Sherborne 250*l.* to be laid out by them in purchasing such freehold lands in or near the said town as they (with the approbation of the minister, and some other of the chief inhabitants of the said town) should judge fitting, the rent thereof to be for the quarterly paying of a schoolmaster to teach so many poor boys, being near or full seven years of age, especially the sons of poor widows of the said town, as they could agree for, to read English, and to write and cast accounts, that the said boys might be the better accepted when placed out apprentices or otherwise disposed of; and he directed that no boys should be continued longer than three years, and that the churchwardens should then nominate the like number of other poor boys of the said town in their stead, and appoint the master to instruct them; and he desired that the consideration-money for the said lands should be expressed in the purchase-deed to be the gift of him the said John Woodman, and that the minister and churchwardens should be named therein as his trustees; and he desired them to act as carefully in the management of the trust reposed in them as they would do for themselves, and to join in letting the said lands for such term as they should think fit to such a good and able tenant that the rent reserved might be quarterly paid to the churchwardens for the use aforesaid, except 10*s.*, which he thereby appointed them to spend yearly with the tenant and schoolmaster on the 9th August; and, after the expiration of the first lease, he desired that the churchwardens should make the best advantage of the lands, and apply the rents to the use aforesaid; and he directed that the said deed, and all others concerning the lands intended to be purchased, should be locked up and kept safe in the vestry belonging to the church of Sherborne.

Sherborne.

Woodman's Charity, continued.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 21st and 22d August 1728, between John Russ the younger of the one part, and Elias Hosey and Joseph Staveley of the other part, reciting certain articles of agreement, bearing date 1st October 1725, whereby John Russ the elder, and the said John Russ, party thereto, his grandson, covenanted with the said Joseph Staveley and Elias Hosey, that the said John Russ, junior, upon attaining his age of 21 years, would convey to them and their heirs a close of pasture in Weather Grove, in the parish of Sandford Orcas, in the county of Somerset, called Pinknell, containing 14 acres, and that the said John Russ the younger had then lately attained his age of 21,—it is witnessed that the said John Russ, in consideration of the said 300*l.*, granted and released the said close to the said E. Hosey and J. Staveley, and their heirs; and it was thereby declared by the said grantees that the said 300*l.* was not their own proper money, but was the money bequeathed to the churchwardens of Sherborne by John Woodman (and others) to be laid out in a purchase of lands, the profits thereof to be applied to such charitable uses as were specified in the said Mr. Woodman's Will.

It does not appear that there has been any subsequent conveyance to trustees, and the property has been treated as vested in and under the control of the churchwardens.

The premises consist of a close of pasture still called Pinknell's, in the parish of Sandford Orcas, containing 14 acres, let to John Down, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 25*l.* per annum.

The land-tax has been exonerated.

The rent is paid by half-yearly payments to a schoolmaster (James Ellaway) who, in consideration thereof, teaches 13 boys of the town, chiefly of the labouring class, reading, writing, and accounts. The churchwardens nominate the boys from time to time as vacancies occur. They are not appointed under seven years of age, and they are allowed usually to remain three years. There are generally five or six applications on each vacancy. The school is taught in a private house, with other scholars.

LORD DIGBY'S SCHOOL.

Lord Digby's School.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 15th and 16th September 1743, between William Lord Digby of the first part, the master and brethren of the almshouse of St. John the Evangelist, in Sherborne, of the second part, and the Hon. Edward Digby of the third part, reciting that the said Lord Digby had for several years, at his own expense, maintained a charity-school in Sherborne for educating and clothing 13 poor girls of that town, and, in order to perpetuate that charity, had determined absolutely to grant to the said master and brethren the tenement and lands thereinafter described,—the said Lord Digby granted and released to the said master and brethren, and their successors, a roofless tenement, called Aishcombe; a close of pasture, called Shutt Close, containing 20 acres; a close of meadow, called Court Close, containing four acres; also three closes of pasture, called Court Closes, containing 20 acres; a coppice, called Wood Close, containing 10 acres; and certain parcels of meadow, lying at a place called Pride Moor, containing two acres, with the appurtenances; all the said premises being situate in Caundle Marsh; reserving to the said Lord Digby and his heirs all timber-trees growing on the said premises, other than the trees in the said coppice called Wood Close; on trust, with the consent of the said Lord Digby during his life, and, after his death, with the consent of the said Edward Digby, and his heirs, to let the said premises, and to apply the rents, in the first place, for keeping in repair the new-erected school-house in Sherborne, where the said charity-school was then kept, and to pay all rates and taxes thereof; and, in the next place, to pay to the schoolmistress 10*l.* per annum, by quarterly payments, as a salary for instructing 13 poor girls of the parish of Sherborne to read and work, and in the Christian religion, particularly the church catechism, and to bring them to church Sundays and other days. Such schoolmistress and poor girls to be nominated by the said William Lord Digby, and, after his decease, by the said Edward Digby and his heirs; the girls to be seven years of age before their election, and to continue to the age of 14, unless otherwise provided for, and to expend the residue of the rents in clothing the said poor children in a decent manner and buying proper books for their instruction, and in furnishing every girl leaving the school with a Bible, Prayer-book, and Whole Duty of Man. And the said Lord Digby directed that the money arising from the sale of any timber growing in the said coppice should be kept in the hands of the said master and brethren to make up any deficiencies which should happen by casual losses of rent or repairs of the said house, and to support any suit or controversy for the preservation of the premises to the uses aforesaid, and for the purpose of renting or purchasing some other house in Sherborne for the use of the said school, upon the refusal of any lord of the manor to continue the present school-house to the use of the said school, by granting new leases thereof, from time to time, upon the death of any persons for whose lives the same should be granted. And it was provided that, as often as the said Edward Digby or his heirs should neglect or refuse, after three months' notice, to execute, or, by reason of infancy, absence, or otherwise, should be incapable of executing, the powers thereby granted to them of electing a schoolmistress and scholars when any vacancies should happen, and of consenting to the letting of the premises, then the same powers should be vested in the said master and brethren. And the said Lord Digby further declared that the master and brethren should reimburse themselves out of the rents all costs which they might suffer in the execution of the said trust.

By indenture of the same date with the release above abstracted, the said Lord Digby demised to the master and brethren a new-erected dwelling-house and garden, within the homage of Hound-street, in Sherborne, for 99 years, determinable with the lives of three persons therein named, on trust, to permit such person to dwell therein, rent free, as should be nominated to teach a charity-school therein, at the yearly rent of 2*d.* And it is thereby declared that it was the request and desire of the said Lord Digby that the future lords of the manor of Sherborne would be pleased to continue the said house to the use of the said school, by granting new leases thereof from time to time in consideration of 5*s.*, and under the said yearly rent, to the said master and brethren, to the use and purpose aforesaid, upon the death of any persons for whose lives the same should thereafter be granted.

Sherborne.

The property belonging to this charity, called the Ashcombe Estate, consists of 44A. 3R. 5P. of pasture, without any buildings, situate in the parish of Caundle Marsh, and let to James Game as yearly tenant at 40*l.* per annum. The land is stated to be of inferior quality, and the rent to be as much as it is worth.

The rent is received by the sub-master of the almshouse, under whose charge this charity is considered to be placed.

The coppice called Wood Close, containing 11A. 2R. 9P., is kept in hand, and is usually cut at eight or nine years' growth.

In 1810, 200*l.* Three per Cent. Consols was purchased with 142*l.* 2*s.*, derived from this source. This stock, which was afterwards increased to 300*l.*, was sold out in 1824, and produced 288*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.*, which was placed in the Sherborne savings' bank, where it has latterly been suffered to accumulate. The total balance now in the savings' bank is 321*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* In 1818, 70*l.* was received for coppice-wood; in 1820, 11*l.*; and in 1827, 92*l.*

These sums have been carried to account, and applied in aid of the annual expenditure, which considerably exceeds the income.

The rent is applied in payment of a salary of 12*l.* to a mistress (Anne Noak), in respect of which she receives 18 girls, whom she instructs, together with the children upon Foster's foundation, in reading and sewing, in the house appropriated by the founder to the purpose. This is situate in a street called Westbury, in Sherborne, which is within the tithing of Hound-street.

The children are clothed completely every year at the expense of the charity, the cost of which is about 36*l.* per annum.

There is also paid out of the rents 10*s.* 6*d.* to the churchwardens for seats in the church, and 2*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* to the schoolmistress for work done in making up linen for the almshouse men and women.

A Bible, Prayer-book, and Whole Duty of Man are given to each girl on leaving the school.

In 1833, 30*l.* was paid for repairing the school-house.

Upon an examination of the accounts in February 1836, the balance in the purse of this charity in the chamber of the almshouse was 12*s.* 3*d.*

Boughton's Charity.

Boughton's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 10th June, 5 Charles I., (1629,) Agnes Boughton granted and assigned to Richard Cooth and five others, their executors, administrators, and assigns, a close of land, called Abraham Field, alias Fudge's Leaze, and a little grove of wood lying in the same close, containing in the whole 20 acres, in the parish of Thornford, for the term of 2,000 years, after the expiration of a term of 99 years, granted 1st October, 19 James I., upon trust, out of the yearly rents to pay to the vicar of Hermitage 6*l.* per annum, and to permit the residue of the rents yearly to be employed by the master and brethren of the almshouse of St. John the Evangelist, in Sherborne, for and towards the binding of poor children, born and dwelling in the town of Sherborne, to be apprentices to some good trades.

The premises thus granted consist of a parcel of land in Thornford, still called Fudge's Leaze, containing 20A. 3R. 19P., held by William Humber, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 25*l.* per annum. There is some timber on the property, of which sales are from time to time made. In 1835 timber was sold to the amount of 90*l.*

Out of the rent, which is received by the sub-master, 6*l.* is regularly paid to the vicar of Hermitage, and the residue is suffered to accumulate until an apprentice can be bound out with a premium of 20*l.*

The children selected are boys of the town of Sherborne. Care is taken in ascertaining the character of the masters. The premium is paid in moieties, one half at the commencement and the remainder in the middle of the term. A charge of 14*s.* is made for each indenture.

In January 1836, besides the 90*l.* due for timber, which had not yet been brought to account, there was a balance of 61*l.* 12*s.* in hand in cash.

Giles Russell's Charity.

G. Russell's Charity.

Giles Russell, by Will, bearing date 10th October 1669, (an abstract of which is given in our Sixteenth Report, p. 255,) gave to the governors of Christ's Hospital certain estates to the intent, with the rents and profits thereof, to educate and maintain, in the hospital, three children of Sherborne, three of St. Anne's, Blackfriars, and three of St. James's, Clerkenwell, to remain till 16 years of age, and to apprentice them, if the rents should be sufficient.

The boys are chosen by a majority of the churchwardens and overseers for the time being, the governors of Christ's Hospital requiring the signature of the vicar to the certificate. The boys are usually the children of persons in the class of respectable tradesmen. They are not above 10 years of age when chosen, and they remain participating in all the advantages of the establishment until 16. It occasionally happens that a boy is apprenticed if the parents require it and the governors find that the funds are sufficient.

Charities of Sir John Horsey, Knoyle, Llewellen, and Whetcombe.

Charities of Sir John Horsey, Knoyle, Llewellen, and Whetcombe.

In a book, containing an account of the benefactions which have been vested in the master and brethren of the almshouse, it is stated that

Sherborne.

Sir John Horsey, by Will, bearing date 9th April 1589, gave 10*l.* per annum, payable out of the prebend of Sherborne, for the remainder of his term, being then about 26 years, to be employed in stock, to set on work and maintain the poor of Sherborne;

That William Knoyle, in 1678, gave 46*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* to be employed in loans to young occupiers in Sherborne, of good conversation and disposition, to remain in perpetuity;

And that David Llewellen, of Castlecary, in 1605, gave 10*l.*, to remain in stock for ever, to be employed for the benefit of the poor of Sherborne.

Whetcombe's Charity.—An abstract of the Will of Simon Whetcombe, whereby he gave 50*l.* for loans in Sherborne, will be found under the head of his charity to the borough of Shaftesbury.

The accounts of the three former gifts, called the town stock, were formerly kept distinct from those of Whetcombe's gift.

Occasional losses of capital have from time to time been replaced from interest received upon the loans; but the total fund has now been diminished to 117*l.*, of which 61*l.* is now outstanding in portions of ten different loans of 10*l.* each, part having been repaid, and 56*l.* at the time of our inquiry remained as a stock in the purse.

The practice now adopted by the master and brethren is to advance loans of 10*l.* each for five years, the borrowers covenanting to repay the amount by instalments of 2*l.* per annum. The loans are usually to small tradesmen, who are required to give notes for the amount, with two sureties. The applications are not generally sufficient to exhaust the balance in hand.

CHARITIES OF JOHN FOSTER AND JOHN EASTMENT.

HERMITAGE ESTATE.

Charities of John Foster and John Eastment.

John Foster, by Will, bearing date 21st December 1628, as appears by an extract thereof, entered in the almshouse record-book, gave to the master and brethren of the almshouse 200*l.*, to be lent on good security, or to be lent, employed, and bestowed for the best benefit of the poor inhabitants of Sherborne, as by the said master and brethren should be thought fittest, to be continued as a stock for ever.

An entry, under the date of 1631, states that, in that or the preceding year, the master and brethren purchased an annuity of 24*l.* per annum, payable out of Bearde's estate in Hermitage, which annuity cost 400*l.*, 200*l.* of which was the gift of Mr. Foster as above mentioned, and 200*l.* was then borrowed of the treasurer's stock, and was repaid by annual savings made of the annuity.

John Eastment, by Will, bearing date 26th October 1668, gave 100*l.* to the master and brethren, to be improved to the best advantage, the yearly produce thereof to be employed for buying necessary garments for such poor people of the town of Sherborne as should not be maintained by the said almshouse.

It appears, from different entries in the minutes of the almshouse, that in 1672 the master and brethren purchased of —— Birt the fee simple of the estate in Hermitage, formerly Bearde's, subject to the annuity of 24*l.*, already vested in them; that this purchase cost 300*l.*, of which 100*l.* was the gift of John Eastment, and the remaining 200*l.* was the produce of some annual savings made of the said annuity.

From the above statement it appears that the price paid for the whole interest in the estate was 700*l.*, which was made up as follows:—

200*l.*, the gift of John Foster.
400*l.*, amount of savings of the annuity of 24*l.* purchased with his gift.
100*l.*, the gift of John Eastment.

The proper application appears to be by preserving the proportions in which the purchase-money was advanced, and carrying 6-7ths of the rents to the credit of Foster's, and 1-7th to that of Eastment's, charity. The proportion of the rents of Birt's estate at Hermitage, to which John Foster's gift is entitled, is properly applied to the support of the almshouse, in the rental of which it has been seen that the estate consists of 70A. 3R. 27P. It was stated upon this inquiry that, in respect of John Eastment's gift, 5*l.* per annum, out of the rents of the same estate, is annually laid out in the purchase of five great coats, which are given on St. John's day to poor persons not of the almshouse, selected by the master and brethren; but no entry to this effect appeared in the almshouse accounts, an examination of which leads to the inference that the entire proceeds of the estate in question are applied to the maintenance of that establishment.

It further appears from the almshouse book of benefactions, that in 1723 another donor, named John Eastment, just before his death, desired his son-in-law, Carew Harvey Mildmay, to pay to the master and brethren of the almshouse 100*l.*, the interest thereof to be applied to buy coats for poor men of Sherborne.

This 100*l.* was allowed to remain in the hands of the Mildmay family, and, on the death of an unmarried daughter of Carew Harvey Mildmay, vested in her executrix, the wife of Sir John Marmaduke Grafton, from whom the master and brethren were never able to obtain payment.

CHARITIES OF THE EARL OF BRISTOL, AND SMITH'S CHARITY.

Charities of the Earl of Bristol, and Smith's Charity.

John Earl of Bristol, by a codicil to his Will, the date of which does not appear, gave to the vicar of Sherborne for ever the yearly sum of 30*l.*, provided he should preach, or cause to be preached, a sermon yearly on the anniversary of the death of the said earl.

And he further gave out of his estate to the parish church of Sherborne the yearly sum of 10*l.*, to be paid by his successors, lords of the manor of Sherborne, within 40 days after Michaelmas and Lady-day, by equal portions, to be employed by the churchwardens, with the consent of the lord of the manor for the time being, in keeping in good repair the chancel, and towards the reparations of the rest of the said church, provided his successors, the lords of the said manor, should enjoy a convenient pew in the church, and provided that the churchwardens should cause the largest bell in the tower of the church to be tolled six full hours, viz., from 5 to 9 in the forenoon, and from 12 to 2 in the afternoon, on the anniversary of his death; otherwise to cease.

Sherborne.

The said earl, by another codicil, bearing date 6th April 1687, gave to the poor of the parish of Sherborne 200*l.*, to be put out as a stock for the poor of the said town, which he appointed should be laid out at interest, on good security, by the governors of the free school and brethren of the almshouse of the said town for the time being, for the benefit of the said poor, and the income and profit thereof to be given yearly to the poorest housekeepers of the said town, as the said governors, with the consent of the lord of the manor of Sherborne, should think fit, but not to lessen the ordinary poor-rates of the said town.

He also gave to the poor of the parish of Castleton 100*l.*, to be invested by the minister, churchwardens, and overseers of the poor of the said parish, the interest to be yearly distributed by them amongst the poorest persons of the said parish, by the consent of the lord of the manor of Castleton, but not to lessen the ordinary poor-rates of the said parish.

He also gave to the poor of the parish of Bishop's Caundle 30*l.*

And to the poor of Haydon and North Wootton 30*l.* in similar terms, but the interest of the latter sum to be distributed with the consent of the lord of the manor of Haydon.

Smith's Gift.—In the almshouse benefaction-book it is recorded that Mr. Smith, gentleman to the Earl of Bristol, in 1705, gave 100*l.*, to be employed for the benefit of the poor of Sherborne.

The annual sum of 30*l.*, first mentioned, is paid by the steward of the Earl of Digby, as from the manor of Sherborne, to the vicar, who regularly preaches the required sermon on the 23rd September.

The annual sum of 10*l.* is also paid by Lord Digby's steward, as charged on the manor, to the churchwardens at Michaelmas. By desire of the inhabitants the hours of tolling have been curtailed, and are now from 8 to 9, and from 12 to 1, on the 23rd September.

A pew is provided for the family of Lord Digby. Out of the annuity, 1*l.* is paid to the ringers of the great bell, and the residue is carried to the general account of the churchwardens, from which are defrayed the repairs of the chancel, as well as of the body of the church.

The legacy of 200*l.*, given by Lord Bristol for the poor of Sherborne, and the sum of 100*l.*, bequeathed by Mr. Smith, were invested in the purchase of an estate at Nether Compton, which was conveyed by the next-abstracted indenture, no trusts being declared.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th July 1757, Elizabeth Hodges and Thomas Hodges, and Rebecca, his wife, in consideration of 320*l.*, granted and released to the master and brethren of the almshouse, and their successors, a close of arable land, called Hellarys, or Elm Hills, containing five acres; a close, called Foxemore, containing four and a half acres; two closes, called Hills, containing six acres; all situate in Nether Compton; with the appurtenances. And for the consideration aforesaid they also assigned to the master and brethren, and their successors, a close, called Kidden, containing four acres, at a place called Stalen, in Nether Compton, which the said E. Hodges and others were possessed of for 1,000 years, or some such long term.

The estate consists of five several small fields, comprising in all about 20 acres, and let to John Toogood, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 25*l.* per annum.

There is a good stock of growing elm timber on the property; portions have from time to time been cut, and the produce invested in the funds; the high price of which, in the year 1824, induced the master and brethren to sell out their stock, and invest the sum of 118*l.* 12*s.* in the savings' bank. This sum has been since increased to 146*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.* by accumulations of interest, and by a further sale of timber to the amount of 24*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*

From the interest about 5*l.* has been drawn in each year, which has been added to the rents, and distributed with them on St. John's Day in crowns to the poor of the parish, of either sex, and whether receiving parochial relief or not. The governors, at their annual meeting, declare the names of the parties to whom they intend to give the charity, taking care to select the most respectable of the poor.

Dorothy Eastment's Charity.

Dorothy Eastment's Charity.

It is stated in the almshouse minute-book that Dorothy Eastment, by Will, bearing date 15th December 1686, gave 50*l.* to the master and brethren of the almshouse, to be laid out in lands, or lent out on security, as they should think fit; the yearly profit and increase thereof to be applied for ever to buy linen changes for poor old wives and widows, inhabitants of Sherborne.

This 50*l.* was laid out in the purchase of about two acres of land at Castleton Highway, in the parish of Sherborne, now let to George Button, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 4*l.* This sum is annually applied in the purchase of shifts, which are given away on St. John's Day to poor women of the parish. In 1835 twenty shifts were thus distributed.

Gillett's Charity.

Gillett's Charity.

By indenture of feoffment, with livery of seisin endorsed, bearing date 15th May 1708, between Hugh Hodges, of the one part; and Edward Ware and five others, of the other part; reciting that John Gillett, formerly of Glastonbury, did by word before his death (the date of which is not mentioned) bequeath and appoint to the poor of the town of Sherborne, for their better relief, his messuage or dwelling-house in Long-street, Sherborne; the said Hugh

Sherborne.

Hodges, to the end that the intention of the said John Gillett might be duly observed, and the rents and profits of the said house, from time to time, employed according to his will and purpose, granted and enfeoffed to the said Edward Ware and others, and their heirs, the said messuage, with the appurtenances, on trust, that the rents and profits thereof should yearly be bestowed by the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the town of Sherborne, with the consent of the vicar for the time being, amongst some of the poor inhabitants of the said town, such distribution to be over and above the monies collected for the poor by rates, and no part of the profits to be cast amongst the monies so gathered, that the poor might in truth receive the benefit and comfort of the said gift, and not the rich, by being in any sort abated in their pay by occasion thereof. And that the said churchwardens and overseers should yearly, on some of the holidays in Easter week, make a particular and public account in the church of Sherborne to the parishioners, whereof notice should be given beforehand, of the distribution of the money, to the end all partial and undue carriage in the distribution (if any should be) might evidently appear to the shame and discredit of those that should distribute the same; and on further trust, that after four of the said feoffees should be dead the survivor should make a new feoffment to some others of the said town, of the best ability, to the use of them and four others, and their heirs, under the like trusts, and so from time to time after the death of any four of the feoffees.

By indenture of lease and release, bearing date 23rd and 24th February 1819, reciting the indenture above abstracted, and that by divers assurances the said messuage had from time to time been conveyed to different persons, and lastly to certain trustees, of whom William Toogood and John Melliar were then the survivors, they, the said W. Toogood and J. Melliar, conveyed the said messuage to the use of themselves and Richard Pew, John Parsons, Thomas Wilmott, and Thomas Fooks, and their heirs, by the description of a messuage or dwelling-house in Long-street, Sherborne, in the possession of Samuel Whitty, and bounded on the east by a tenement formerly Metyard's, and on the west by the Sherborne and Dorsetshire Banking-house, formerly Hebditch's, and then the residence of the said Richard Pew, with the appurtenances, upon the same trusts as declared concerning the same in the said indenture of 15th May 1708.

The premises consist of a large dwelling-house in Long-street, Sherborne, now in the occupation of Benjamin Chandler, under a lease granted by the trustees to Samuel Pretor and Samuel Whitty, for 99 years, from Lady Day 1821, determinable with the lives of Edmund Ensor, now aged 33; William Simon Penny, aged 39; and Francis Woodford, aged 27; at the clear yearly rent of 15*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessees substantially to repair the premises. The consideration for the lease was the surrender of a former lease, at the rent of 4*l.* for three lives, of which one was then and still is existing.

The present lease is the result of a compromise with the executors of the late Mr. Simon Pretor, who had become entitled to the premises, with the benefit of a covenant improvidently entered into by former trustees to renew, upon the dropping of the successive lives, at the old rent of 4*l.*, at two years' purchase. Mr. Samuel Whitty, the occupier, had greatly improved the premises, which are now in very good repair, and are stated to be worth (subject to repairs) about 30*l.* per annum.

The rents were formerly distributed in great coats, cloaks, and blankets, but for the last few years blankets only have been given; the distribution takes place in the month of January. In 1836, 47 blankets, at the price of 6*s.* 6*d.* each, were given to the same number of individuals; the excess of 5*s.* 6*d.*, beyond 15*l.*, the amount of the rent, being subscribed by the parish officers. The churchwardens and overseers, with the consent of the vicar, select the objects, who are poor inhabitants of the town.

A separate book of the accounts of this charity is kept, in which the names of the parties receiving it are entered; the accounts being annually signed by the vicar and churchwardens, and exhibited to the vestry.

AVOKE'S CHARITY.

Avoke's Charity.

Robert Avoke, by Will, dated 27th May 1720 (as appears from a copy thereof entered in a book containing the accounts of the charity up to the year 1809), gave his dwelling-house in Newland, and another little house next adjoining, after the death of his kinswoman, Honour Mansell, to the master and brethren of the almshouse, and their successors, to the intent that they should lay out the rents and profits thereof in bread, and yearly on St. John the Evangelist's Day dispose of such bread amongst such poor inhabitants of the parish of Sherborne as they should think proper.

In addition to the premises originally devised, there is a cottage at the north end of the garden erected by the present lessee at his own expense. The original premises consist of a house, in a street called Newland, in Sherborne, and a small house adjoining, with a garden of nearly half an acre, held by Thomas Walters, on lease for 99 years from 3rd November 1835, determinable on the lives of John Bower Lewis, aged 29 years, and John Percival Wilmott, aged 30 years, at the clear yearly rent of 12*l.*, the tenant doing all repairs.

This lease was granted in consideration of the surrender of a former lease, and of his having built the new house, and on a fine of 12*l.*

The rent is received by the master and brethren, and distributed in bread generally throughout the town, several of the brethren taking a portion according to the districts in which they reside. The whole money is not applied annually, the amount being considered too small for a general distribution.

In January 1836 the amount for three years was given away in quartern loaves among poor inhabitants indiscriminately.

Sherborne.

In 1823 the sum of 12*l.* 10*s.*, which had been received for the sale of some trees cut in the garden, was invested in the Sherborne Savings' Bank, and the 12*l.* fine, received on the renewal of the lease in November 1835, was added thereto, the whole amount being at present 25*l.* 13*s.* 5*d.*, for which interest, at the rate of 3*l.* 8*s.* per cent., is now paid.

Connington's Charity.

Connington's Charity.

George Connington, by Will, bearing date 9th August 1698, and proved in the Prerogative Court, devised his lands in Sherborne, called Four Pitts, to his grandchild, Robert White, and his heirs, paying thence for ever yearly one annuity of 20*s.* on Michaelmas Day to the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the parish of Sherborne, for the time being, to be by them laid out in bread, in sixpenny loaves, on St. Thomas's Day, yearly, and given to 40 poor persons, men and women, such as should not have weekly relief, in the said parish, if there should be such to be found; but, if not, to such as should have relief, at the discretion of the officers for the time being. And he directed that they should keep and give a list yearly of the persons' names to whom the bread should be given, and receive the approbation of the master and brethren of the almshouse in Sherborne.

The field upon which this sum is charged still bears the name of Four Pitts. It adjoins the town of Sherborne, and is now the property of Walter Pride, by whom the payment is made.

This is distributed, together with the money derived from Goadby's gift, as mentioned under the head of that charity.

Goadby's Charity.

Goadby's Charity.

Robert Goadby, by a codicil to his Will, bearing date 7th August 1778, gave to the vicar and churchwardens of the town of Sherborne for the time being, or their successors, 200*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in trust, to distribute annually to the poor of the said town the sum of 4*l.*, and to pay the annual sum of 2*l.* to the vicar of Sherborne, in consideration of his preaching an annual sermon on the first Sunday in May, after evening service, in the parish-church of Sherborne, on the wisdom and goodness of God in the works of creation.

This sum stands in the name of Edward, the present Earl Digby, by whom a declaration of trust, in favour of the vicar and churchwardens, was signed, bearing date 9th March 1797, and delivered to the churchwardens.

Of the dividends 2*l.* is paid to the vicar, who preaches a sermon annually on the subject directed by the donor.

The remainder (4*l.*) is paid at Easter, in equal sums, to the two churchwardens, who usually distribute it at the Christmas following with the last-mentioned charity, in sums varying from 1*s.* to 10*s.*, amongst poor persons of Sherborne not receiving relief.

No account of the application has hitherto been kept, but the churchwardens undertook that this should be done in future.

Kilsbey's Charity.

Kilsbey's Charity.

Mary Kilsbey, by Will, bearing date 1st November 1734, and proved in the Prerogative Court, charged the messuage or tenement in which she then resided, and other premises in Sherborne, with the payment of a yearly rent-charge of 5*l.*, to be distributed to 40 poor persons of the Protestant dissenting congregation of Presbyterians in Sherborne, by the minister or teacher of the said congregation for the time being, on the 6th December yearly, and she directed that if any of such persons should be afflicted with the loss of sight they should have 5*s.*, the receipt of such minister or teacher to be a sufficient discharge for the same, with power of entry and distress in case the said payment should be in arrear.

And she charged certain other premises in Cheap-street, Sherborne, with a rent-charge of 40*s.* per annum, to the minister or teacher of the congregation aforesaid.

The sum of 5*l.* is received annually from John Balster, the owner of a house in Cheap-street, Sherborne.

It is distributed about Christmas by the minister of the Union Chapel, being the chapel of the same congregation now called Independents, amongst 40 poor persons of the congregation. At present there is one blind person who receives 5*s.*, according to the directions of the donor, who was herself blind.

The minister keeps a list of the objects, which is open to the inspection of any members of the chapel.

The sum of 2*l.* given to the minister has not been received within the memory of any of the members of the congregation, the premises charged with the payment not being known.

Banger's Charity.

Banger's Charity.

A sum of 20*l.* was given, about 20 years ago, by Mrs. Banger, 10*s.* of the interest to be given to the poor in bread, and 10*s.* to the Sunday-school of the congregation of the Union Chapel.

This sum forms part of a larger sum in the funds belonging to the trustees of the chapel.

The 10*s.* given for bread is generally suffered to accumulate for three years, when it is laid out in quartern loaves, which are given about Christmas to poor persons of the congregation.

10*s.* is carried to the general funds of the Sunday-school belonging to the society, which is otherwise supported by subscriptions. There are now about 140 children attending this school.

Hart's Charity.

Hart's Charity.

By a memorandum entered in the account-book of this charity, reciting, that Charles Bull Hart, late one of the brethren of the almshouse, previous to his death, had deposited in the hands of James Ridout 50*l*., to be by him paid over to the master and brethren, immediately after the donor's decease, as a gift, to be placed out on Government or real security, and the interest applied yearly in providing dowlas shifts for as many poor deserving old women of the town of Sherborne as the same would enable them to purchase, to be given away on St. John's day annually; and that the master and brethren, with this sum of 50*l*., and 8*l*. contributed by them, had purchased, on the 23d July 1805, 100*l*. stock in the Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of James Ridout, James Langdon, Samuel Foot, and Thomas Wilmot; the said James Ridout, and others, declared that the said stock was purchased with the sums above mentioned, and that their names were made use of in trust for the said master and brethren, who were to receive the interest and apply the same according to the intention of the donors.

Sherborne.

The dividends were regularly received and applied until 1824, when, as appears from a memorandum in the same book, bearing date 12th June in that year, the stock was sold out and produced 96*l*. sterling, which was that day placed in the Sherborne Savings' Bank, where it still remains, in the names of the master and brethren.

The interest paid upon this investment is now 3*l*. 8*s*. 8*d*.

The amount is applied in the purchase of dowlas shifts, at the price of about 4*s*. each, which are distributed by the master and brethren, at their annual meeting on St. John's Day, to poor women of the parish.

TOOGOOD'S CHARITY.

Toogood's Charity.

The Rev. Charles Toogood, by Will, bearing date 15th June 1821, gave to the master and brethren of the almshouse in Sherborne 200*l*., to be by them invested in the Parliamentary or public funds, and the interest applied in the purchase and distribution of great coats amongst such poor and deserving men belonging to Sherborne, as the said master and brethren should from time to time appoint to receive the same.

The sum of 193*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*. was received from the executors of the donor in 1833, being the balance of the legacy, and interest to the time of payment, after deducting the legacy-duty.

Of this sum 8*l*. was applied in a distribution of eight great coats on St. John's day 1833, and the residue, 185*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*., was invested in the savings' bank, producing an annual interest of 5*l*. 19*s*. 8*d*.

This money is laid out in the purchase of six great coats, which are distributed, on St. John's day, amongst six poor men of the town, selected by the master and brethren of the almshouse.

VOWELL'S CHARITY.

Vowell's Charity.

Benjamin Vowell, by a codicil to his Will (which Will bears date the 4th November 1829, proved in the Prerogative Court the 29th December 1829), directed his executors to purchase forthwith 1,000*l*. stock in the Three per Cent. Consols, and to assign the same, by a proper trust-deed, to four trustees, to be named, in the first instance, by them, and to be renewed to the number of four when reduced to one, upon trust, to pay over one moiety of the dividends to the vicar of Sherborne, or his curate, for the time being, and the two churchwardens for the time being, and to pay over the other moiety to the minister of the Long-street Union Chapel, in Sherborne, for the time being, and to the two senior deacons of the said chapel, if there should be more than one, and if but one, then to that one, such moieties to be laid out by the respective parties at Christmas, yearly, in the purchase of men's useful great coats, women's upper coats, and in blankets, and to be then given away to the most deserving poor old men and women of Sherborne and Castleton, in such manner as the said vicar or curate, and churchwardens, as to one moiety, and the said minister and deacons, as to the other moiety thereof, should respectively think proper, keeping an account of their application.

By deed, dated 1st October 1833, John Percival Wilmott, Benjamin Chandler, jun., William Fooks, and Samuel Blake, were appointed trustees of this charity, and the sum of 1,000*l*. Three per Cent. Consols was purchased, and is now standing in their names upon the trusts declared in the Will of the said testator; and it is agreed by the now-reciting deed, that a book containing the accounts of the said charity should be kept by the vestry-clerk of the parish of Sherborne, in the vestry of the church of Sherborne, and that the said trustees, and also the vicar or curate, and the churchwardens of Sherborne, and also the minister, and the two senior deacons or senior deacon of the Long-street Union Chapel, should have free access to inspect such book at all reasonable times.

The first distribution of the funds of this charity took place in January 1831.

The dividend, 30*l*. per annum, is paid to the minister and churchwardens of Sherborne, and to the minister and deacons of the Union Chapel, in equal moieties, who lay out the money in the purchase of great coats, cloaks, and blankets, and distribute them, at Christmas, among the most deserving poor men and women of Sherborne and Castleton. The average number of coats distributed has been about 8 in each year, of cloaks 14, and of blankets about 20.

GREEN GIRLS' SOCIETY.

Green Girls' Society.

In the year 1771 a society was established in Sherborne for the benefit of girls of that parish and of Castleton, by offering rewards for good conduct, and supplying them with articles of clothing and Bibles, and providing marriage portions for them, under the management of a president and committee, according to certain printed regulations.

This establishment, called the Green Girls' Society, has been principally supported by annual subscriptions and donations, and by small weekly payments from the children. In 1802, 73*l*. 2*s*. 6*d*. was received in respect of a legacy of 100*l*. Three per Cent. Consols, bequeathed to the society by Blanchard Coward, by Will, bearing date 18th October 1801.

Two books have been kept, the one containing orders and minutes of the proceedings of the committee, and the other the accounts of receipts and disbursements, from which it appears that the receipts have much exceeded the expenditure.

Seerborne.

The funds of the charity appear to have been placed out at interest, from time to time, on different securities, until the year 1828, when, the whole having been called in, there was then in the hands of the treasurer a balance of 660*l.* 2*s.* 9*d.*

In November 1828, 461*l.* 5*s.* of the sum above mentioned was laid out in the purchase of 450*l.* New Three and a Half per Cents., in the name of John Melliar, the treasurer. The stock has since been increased by further purchases made, from time to time, with the money in hand and from the dividends, and now amounts to 600*l.*, which stands in the same name. There is also belonging to the charity 202*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.* in the Sherborne Savings' Bank.

For some reason this well-meant institution has failed of its object, the class of contributors whom it was intended to benefit having dropped off, and there now remains only one girl who has any claim upon the funds of the society, such claim being only to the extent of about 15*l.*, payable on her attaining the age of 25, or marriage.

In this state of circumstances the remaining subscribers have it in contemplation to appropriate the capital and interest to the purposes of establishing an infant school for the benefit of the town. They have hitherto refrained from making any appropriation of the funds from a doubt whether they were not bound to obtain the sanction of the Court of Chancery. It appears however that, the original objects of the charity having been satisfied, or having failed, and the rules, under which both the subscribers and the contributors entered into the association, precluding any possibility of the funds reverting to them, no risk will be incurred by the parties having the present control in adopting the suggested mode of application.

The original institution expressly provided that the children entitled to the benefit of the charity should be at liberty to attend their several places of worship, whether their parents were members of the Church of England or not. The like liberty may properly be introduced into the rules for the regulation of the intended school.

Winniffe's Charity (expired).

Winniffe's Charity.

It appears from the account-book of this charity that, in the year 1629, Dr. Nicholas Winniffe gave the fourth part of the profits arising from the leases of several houses in London, to be paid to the master and brethren of the almshouse in Sherborne, to set poor artificers of the said town on work for their better maintenance.

By an order of the master and brethren, made at a meeting held 29th January 1771, reciting that frequent applications had been made to the clerk of Merchant Tailors' Company since 1761, and that there appeared no probability of obtaining any further dividend on account of the leases of the houses in London, bequeathed by the said Dr. Winniffe, the said leases being all then expired, it was resolved that the money then in hand should be distributed to poor artificers in Sherborne, as opportunities offered, which they conceived to be agreeable to the intent of Dr. Winniffe's Will.

The money then in hand is stated to have been 108*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*, which appears to have been distributed to different artificers, in sums varying from 2*l.* 2*s.* to 5*l.* 5*s.*, in successive years, down to 1785, in which year the whole fund was exhausted and the account closed.

The sum of 12*s.*, being the interest of 15*l.* at 4 per cent., is received from Mr. Fooks, the agent of Lord Digby, and paid to the incumbent, who distributes the amount, soon after Christmas, in sums of 1*s.* and 2*s.* each, amongst the poor not receiving parochial relief.

The sum of 5*s.* is received from the agent of Lord Digby, who is now the owner of the lands in North Wootton, charged with the payment.

This is laid out in the purchase of half-quartern loaves, which are given at the same time as the preceding charity, and usually to the same poor persons, from two to five to a family, according to their number.

FREKE'S CHARITY.

Freke's Charity.

It is not known that any documents exist showing either the origin of this gift or the time and manner of its investment. The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 state that Mary Freke, by Will, in 1684, gave 100*l.* for teaching poor children of this parish, for poor old widows and old maids not receiving parish relief, and for apprenticing one poor child, which sum had been laid out in the purchase of land, then producing 6*l.* 1*s.* per annum.

This land consists of 2A. 3R. 22P. of meadow in a common meadow, called Benditch, in the parish of Sturminster Newton, adjoining on one side the hedge, on another the river Stour, and on the remaining sides marked out by boundary stones.

It is let by auction, in the vestry, yearly, at Easter. The present tenant (Roger Haines) pays a net rent of 7*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* per annum.

The rent is divided into three parts of 2*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* each. One-third is paid to the curate, who attends at the Sunday-school, held in the church, and catechises the children.

Another third is divided amongst the poor widows of the parish not receiving relief, of whom there are usually only two or three.

The remaining third is reserved for the purpose of apprenticing. The last application was in 1828, when 13*l.* was so disposed of. One-third of the rents which have accrued since that period up to Lady-day 1835, amounting to 15*l.* 19*s.* 2*d.*, remain in the possession of the parish, ready to be applied whenever the parents of any child entitled to the benefit of the charity may be desirous of availing themselves of it. The premium usually paid by the parish is about 10*l.*

POOR'S MONEY.

Poor's Money.

A sum of 27*l.*, passing under this name, has, for about 70 years, been placed out at interest on behalf of the parish. It is now in the hands of John Haines, sen., who has had it about 40 years, paying interest at 5*l.* per cent.

No security has been hitherto given, but the parish officers have undertaken to obtain a promissory note for the amount.

The interest is paid every four or five years to the parish officers, and by them distributed amongst labouring men of the parish, in sums varying from 2*s.* 3*d.* to 5*s.* 6*d.*, according to the number in family.

CHURCH LAND.

Church Land.

There is a piece of land in this parish called the Church Acre, but containing only about half an acre. It is occupied, as garden ground, by eight labouring men, who pay 2*s.* 6*d.* per annum each to the churchwardens, by whom the amount is carried to their general account.

Poor's Land.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 30th April and 1st May 1706, Giles Mitchell and George Pashen, in consideration of 65*l.*, granted and released to John Freke, and 16 others, and their heirs, a close of meadow or pasture ground, called Linch, in the parish of Haslebury Bryan, containing, by estimation, three acres, upon trust, out of the yearly rents to buy so much linen cloth for shirts or shifts, to be given yearly, at Christmas, to so many poor persons, men or women, as should not receive relief from the parish of Okeford Fitzpaine, so that all such persons might in course receive the benefit of the charity, with directions that, when the number of the trustees should be reduced to five, the survivors should appoint 16 new trustees, together with themselves, and convey the said premises to them accordingly, upon the trusts aforesaid; and with a further proviso that the rector or incumbent for the time being of the parish of Okeford should be present at the yearly distribution of the said charity, and should record, in the parish book, yearly, the names of the poor persons who should receive the charity.

The next and only other trust-deed is dated 20th May 1746.

The late Edmund Moreton Pleydell, esq., is understood to have been the heir-at-law of the survivor of the trustees last appointed.

The premises consist of a field containing (by the measurement of Mr. Poole in 1833) 2A. 3R. 21P., let to —— Collins, as yearly tenant, at a high rent of 9*l.*, which is paid to the rector.

There is also in the hands of the rector a sum of 20*l.*, which is supposed to have been derived from a sale of timber about 70 years ago, and has been handed down to the successive incumbents; 1*l.* is paid as the interest, which is added to the rent of the field, and appropriated at the same time.

With these sums is purchased linen cloth of the value of about 1*s.* a-yard, which is given away in pieces of about four yards each to between 25 and 30 poor families, as many as four pieces being occasionally given to a family. Lists of the names are kept, and those who receive parish relief are excluded from the charity, except in peculiar cases.

Williams's Charity.

Williams's Charity.

For the particulars of this endowment see Blandford, p. 12.

Very few apprentice fees have ever been given from this fund in Sturminster. Within the last 10 years only two boys have been bound out.

The distribution to artificers has been kept up, although the trades in question are extinct, or nearly so, in this parish. There is but one man following the trade of a clothier, and he has had little or no work for a twelvemonth.

The trustees, however, at the last distribution, thought themselves justified in giving sums of 5*l.* to nineteen individuals who had formerly exercised the trade, but were then out of work, and 8*l.* to one who actually was in work. All these persons have since found employment as agricultural labourers, the trade having entirely dropped in this district.

The pensioners are 18 in number. When a vacancy on the list occurs, a special vestry is called by notice in the church, and the claims of the different applicants are examined. Such persons as are not in the receipt of parish relief, and frequently those who have some small means of their own, are recommended by the vestry, whose choice the trustees always adopt.

The surplus, which amounted in 1833 to 26*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.*, was distributed by the vicar in sums of 2*l.* 10*s.* and 3*l.* each, amongst poor persons who had formerly worked at the business of clothiers, but who had not been able to establish their claims before the trustees to the donation of 5*l.*

Charities of John and Betty Stanton.

Charities of John and Betty Stanton.

John Stanton, by Will dated 4th April 1795, bequeathed 50*l.* stock, part of his capital stock in the Three per Cent. Reduced Annuities, in trust, to be placed out at interest by the churchwardens of Sturminster Newton Castle, for the time being, the interest or dividends thereof to be laid out yearly in the purchase of good household bread, which he directed should be given to such poor families of the parish as should not receive parish alms, in the church there after morning service, on the 16th of November, yearly.

Betty Stanton, by Will dated 19th November 1801, gave to the minister and churchwardens for the time being 50*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced Bank Annuities upon the same trusts.

The sum of 100*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced Annuities, in respect of these two legacies, is now standing in the name of the Rev. James Michel, the vicar.

The dividends, 3*l.* per annum, are laid out, together with 1*l.* arising from Bird's charity next mentioned, in the purchase of bread, which is distributed by the vicar and churchwardens, yearly, about Christmas, amongst poor persons of the parish not receiving relief.

Bird's Charity.

Bird's Charity.

Joseph Bird, by Will bearing date 1st August 1804, gave to the minister and churchwardens of this parish 20*l.* on trust, to place the same in the Three per Cent. Reduced Annuities, and to lay out the dividends on the 16th November, yearly, in the purchase of household bread, and to distribute the same to poor families resident in and belonging to the parish, in the church there, not receiving alms from any parish.

The sum of 20*s.* per annum is distributed in bread with Stanton's charity as above mentioned.

Fuel Allotment.

Fuel Allotment.

By the Sturminster Enclosure Act, passed 3d June 1824, the commissioners were directed to set out to the lord of the manor of Sturminster Newton Castle, and to the vicar, churchwardens and overseers of the poor, such parts of the commons and waste lands as should contain in the whole one thirty-second part thereof, to be vested in them and their successors as trustees for the poor, to be let for any term not exceeding 21 years, at the most improved rent, without fine, the rents and profits thereof to be laid out in the purchase of coals, or other fuel, to be delivered at the dwellings of such poor inhabitants of the said parish legally settled therein, in such quantities, under such rules, and in such manner, as the trustees should direct.

The commissioners, by their award, set out 14 acres, which are let to the overseers for the employment of the poor, at 14*l.* per annum, being the full value. Sturminster Newton Castle.

This rent is laid out in the purchase of coals, which are given at three periods during the winter to poor persons belonging to the parish, in quantities varying at each distribution from one cwt. to 14 lbs., according to the number in family; all the poor receiving a portion, except those who have an allotment on the common in right of their cottages. Fuel Allotment, continued.

CHURCH ESTATE.

There are four houses in the town of Sturminster, now in the tenures of Christian Seaton, Benjamin Inkpen, Daniel Sweet, and Benjamin Ridout, under leases for lives granted by the churchwardens at quit-rents of 2*s.* 6*d.* each, amounting to 10*s.* per annum. Church Estate.

There are now one or two lives existing under each of the leases, and the churchwardens have declined to renew.

The houses are worth about 5*l.* a-year each.

Also a cottage and small garden at Butt's Pond, in this parish, let to a labourer, as yearly tenant, nominally at a rack-rent of 40*s.* per annum, but being a poor man with a large family, 1*s.* only as an acknowledgment is accepted from him by the overseers, who are, however, considered accountable to the churchwardens for the full rent.

The rents are carried to the general account of the churchwardens, which has been the practice as long as the application can be traced.

POPE'S CHARITY.

Pope's Charity.

The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 record the gift of William Pope (date unknown) of a rent-charge of 5*s.* per annum, then vested in James Mitchell, which was to be distributed in bread to ten poor not receiving parish relief.

This sum is understood to be charged upon a freehold house belonging to Lawrence Mitchell, a blacksmith, at Affpuddle, which has been for the last 30 years in the occupation of George Riggs. The last distribution of bread took place about 17 years ago, when loaves to the value of 2*l.* were given away. The only reason assigned for the discontinuance is the neglect of the overseers to demand this trifling payment, which will, however, be henceforward resumed.

CHURCH AND CURFEW LANDS.

Church and Curfew Lands.

There are two detached parcels of land in this parish, lying about half a mile from the church, the one containing about six acres and a half, and the other about three-quarters of an acre; the former let to William Aplin, for three years from Easter 1834, at the yearly rent of 13*l.* 10*s.*, the latter to James Ross, for the same term, at the rent of 1*l.* 5*s.* There is also a payment of 3*s.* 4*d.* annually, paid out of a copyhold estate held by Mrs. Fitzherbert, under Lord Rivers, as lord of the manor of Ibberton.

Nothing is now known, nor appears at the time of the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 to have been known, as to the origin of these properties, or the purpose to which the income is applicable.

The practice has always been to carry the rent of the first-mentioned parcel to the churchwarden's general account, from which the expense of the necessary repairs of the church is defrayed, and to pay the rent of the smaller parcel to a poor person for ringing the church bell at eight o'clock in the evening during all the year, except about four of the summer months.

SCHOOL.

School.

William, abbot of the monastery of Milton, with the consent of his convent, by deed under the convent seal, bearing date 10th February, 12th Henry VIII. (as recited in the inquisition hereafter mentioned), granted to Thomas Kirton and his heirs the manor or farm of Little Mayne, in the county of Dorset, (which had been previously purchased from him by the abbot,) to the intent that the same should be granted to Giles Strangeways, knt., and others, and their heirs, in trust, with the yearly profits thereof, to maintain a free grammar-school in the town of Milton, then lately founded by the said abbot, and to employ the said profits to the maintenance of the said free school, and of a learned schoolmaster to instruct therein, for the term of fourscore and seventeen years; and if leave could be obtained within that time to alien the said land in mortmain, then that the same should be granted to the use of the said school; and if not, then that the said feoffees should, after the said term, sell the said farm, and employ the money arising thereby to the maintenance of the said school so long as might be.

Milton Abbas.

By a decree of Sir Richard Rogers and others, commissioners of charitable uses, bearing date 6th September 1600, reciting the grant of the said abbot, and that accordingly the said lands had been by deed of feoffment, bearing date 24th April, 28th Henry VIII., conveyed to the said Sir Giles Strangeways and others, to the uses expressed by the said deed; and that, in consideration of a fine of 20*l.* and of the surrender of a former lease, the said lands had been demised by the trustees thereof, in the 22d year of Queen Elizabeth, to one William Best, for a term of 99 years, determinable on three lives, at a rent of 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, and 6*s.* 8*d.* for the reparation of the school-house at Milton, the said William Best being cognizant of the said trust, and that the said reserved rent was too little to maintain the said school and master, the said lands being at the time about 200 acres, and of the clear yearly value of 50*l.*; it was ordered and decreed that the rent of 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, payable to the said feoffees to the use of the said free grammar-school, should be increased to 24*l.* during the said term, and that after the expiration thereof the said manor and farm should be demised only for 21 years in possession at the true yearly value thereof; and that, when all but two of the said feoffees should be dead, such survivors should enfeoff the said manor or farm to 10 or 12 other knights or gentlemen, neighbours to the said town of Milton, to the uses expressed in the deed of the donor; and that the said feoffees or the majority of them should, at their discretion, if cause required, visit, place, and displace the schoolmaster of the said school of Milton, wherein they should also confer with and use the advice or consent of six of the principal inhabitants of the said town of Milton.

Another commission of charitable uses issued in the 17th year of King James I., for the purpose of rectifying abuses which had prevailed in the management of the school, whereby the acting master had been deprived of one-third of his stipend, and the number of scholars therein had been diminished from 80 to 8 or 10; and it was ordered and adjudged that the profits of the free chapel of Little Mayne belonged to the said school, and ought to be employed for the benefit thereof; and that the said farm, if a lease were granted in reversion upon the then existing lease, should not be let at less than 50*l.* per annum, with a proportionable fine, or, if not let until the expiration of the existing lease, then at a reserved rent of not less than 100*l.* per annum.

This decision, so far as it related to the free chapel, was afterwards reversed by an award made by Sir Francis Ashley, and another, 5th Car. I., which declared that neither the free chapel nor the tithes appertaining thereto belonged to the school.

From this time the school was kept at the town of Milton, where Mr. Tregonwell, the lord of the manor, had granted a piece of land near the church for rebuilding it; and by a decree of the lord keeper, bearing date 23d June, 6th Car. I., the feoffees were ordered to rebuild it accordingly out of a sum of 400*l.* in their hands.

By indenture bearing date 8th April 1634, John Tregonwell, and John and Thomas Tregonwell, his sons, in consideration of 20*l.* paid to them, and of 50*l.* paid to certain persons therein named, entitled to certain estates and interests in the premises therein mentioned, granted to Thomas Lord Arundel and Richard Swayne, feoffees of the free grammar-school of Milton, and their heirs, the parcel of ground whereon the school-house of Milton then stood, in trust, for the habitation of the schoolmaster of the said free grammar-school.

The successive appointments of trustees and nominations of the masters appear, without interruption, among the records of the school, and its general management does not seem to have been again made the subject of legal investigation until the proceedings in the court of Chancery next mentioned.

By a decree of the Lord Chancellor, bearing date 9th March, 1775, in a cause wherein the Attorney-General, at the relation of Joseph Lord Milton, was informant, and Thomas Gundry, the Rev. John Wood, clerk, the master of the said free grammar-school, and others, the trustees of the said school, were defendants, after reciting, among other things, that under and by virtue of certain letters patent granted by King Henry VIII. to John Tregonwell, the said Joseph Lord Milton was seized of the manor and advowson of the vicarage of Milton, and of a large estate in the said manor, and of the tithes thereof, part of the possessions of the dissolved monastery of Milton, subject to a reserved rent to the Crown of 12*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.*, and to an annual payment of 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* to the vicar of Milton, and 9*s.* 7½*d.* to the Archdeacon of Dorchester; and that the said Lord Milton was a trustee of the said school; and reciting the abovementioned deed of feoffment of the 8th April 1634, whereby the site of the school-house was vested in Thomas Lord Arundel and R. Swayne; it was declared that a grant of the trust-estates by the feoffees of the charity to the said defendant Wood, the schoolmaster, was informal and improper, and ought to be set aside; and it was ordered that it should be referred to the Master to inquire and state to the court the yearly value of the said charity estate, and whether it was let for the best rent that could be got: and it was declared that, according to the true construction of the said decree of commissioners of charitable uses, bearing date 6th September 1600, reading, writing, and English ought to be taught in the said school, and that the children of the inhabitants of the town and parish of Milton were the proper objects of the said charity, and the Master was to be at liberty to receive proposals touching the expenses in keeping the said school-house and dwelling-house in repair, and for a reasonable salary to an able and learned schoolmaster, and likewise to an under-master, to teach reading and writing in the said school, and touching the number of the scholars therein (children of the said inhabitants) to be approved of by the said trustees, or the majority of them, at a meeting for that purpose, and the consideration of all further directions was reserved until such report should have been made.

The principal (if not the sole) object of Lord Milton in instituting the Chancery-suit abovementioned is understood to have been to obtain the sanction of the Court for the removal of the school, which, being situated within his park and in the immediate vicinity of his residence, materially affected his comfort. The village of Milton, which was objectionable on the same account, had been already completely levelled and rebuilt on a different site at some distance.

Milton Abbas.

It does not appear that the litigation with which the trustees were long harassed enabled Lord Milton to attain his purpose. He accordingly introduced a Bill into Parliament in the year 1784, for the removal of the school to Dorchester, a distance of 10 miles from Milton, but failed in consequence of the strenuous opposition of his co-trustees. In the next year, however, he made a similar attempt to remove the school to Blandford, distant six miles from Milton, and, although again resisted by the trustees, was successful.

By the Act in question, which was passed 25 George III., and is entitled "An Act for vesting a Cottage or Tenement used as and for a School-house, and other Hereditaments, in or near the Town of Milton, in the County of Dorset, in Joseph Lord Milton and his heirs, in lieu of, or in compensation for, a Messuage, or Tenement and Garden, situate in the Town of Blandford Forum, in the said County, of greater value;" reciting the said decree of Sir Richard Rogers, knt., and others, commissioners of charitable uses, dated the 6th September 1600, and also the said decree of the High Court of Chancery, bearing date 9th March 1775, in which further directions were reserved; and that the said manor and farm of Little Mayne, and other the charity lands and premises aforesaid, were then vested in Edmund Morton Pleydell and 15 others, the then trustees; and that the said school-house in its then state was incompetent in size, condition, and situation, to answer the purposes of the said decree or the intent of the founder, inasmuch as it consisted of a thatched building of two stories, without any offices or outbuildings, having a kitchen and small room on the ground floor only, with rooms over for the habitation of the master; the said building standing upon 43 square poles of land, the greater part being a narrow slip of land between the school-house and Lord Milton's garden-wall, without a sufficient outlet for the exercise of the scholars, and being the more unfit for a school by reason that the town of Milton, in which it had stood, had been removed to a distance (except two cottages intended shortly to be pulled down), and a new town, consisting of labourers' cottagers, built, the said school being then near half a mile within the park of the said Lord Milton, and within 37 yards of his mansion-house, close to his garden, and surrounded by his land; and further reciting that the new town of Milton contained no inn nor any medical assistance, and that the residents therein were restrained from assigning their leases, and if the said school should continue to be kept in the then situation it would not only be very inconvenient to Lord Milton, but would fall into decay and be of little benefit to the inhabitants of the said town, or of the county of Dorset; and further reciting, that there were then only 8 or 10 scholars in the said school, which was much out of repair; and it was probable that the said charity would soon become wholly useless, "and the place of master become a sinecure," unless the school should be removed to a more populous place and carried on in a building of more accommodation; and further reciting that the said Lord Milton chiefly resided at Milton aforesaid, and was the principal inhabitant there, and was the proprietor of all the buildings in the parish, except the said school-house and premises, and had lately rebuilt his capital mansion-house of Milton Abbey; and further reciting that the said Lord Milton was seized in fee of a large commodious messuage, with a large walled garden, granary, chaise-house, stable-yards, and outbuildings, at Blandford Forum, about six miles from the school of Milton, of much greater value than the said school-house and premises at Milton, and very fit for the habitation of the masters thereof, and was willing to fit up the same at his own expense as a school-room, and that the town of Blandford was well adapted for the lodging and accommodation of scholars; wherefore the said Joseph Lord Milton conceived it would be for the manifest advantage of the said charity, and tend to establish the said school on a permanent foundation, if the said school were removed to and kept at Blandford Forum aforesaid; and for that purpose was willing that the said messuage and premises at Blandford should be vested in the said trustees for the residence of the master of the said free school in lieu of the said cottage, and that, in compensation for the same, the said cottage or school-house should be vested in him the said Lord Milton;—it was thereby enacted that the said cottage, school-house, garden, and premises, which, by the said indenture of the 8th April 1634, were conveyed to the use of the said Thomas Lord Arundel and Richard Swayne, should be, and the same were thereby, vested in the said Joseph Lord Milton and his heirs, freed from the uses of the said indenture of 8th April 1634, or any other conveyance of the said trust estates, or otherwise; and the said messuage and premises in Blandford were thereby vested in the said Edmund Morton Pleydell and 15 others, and their heirs, in trust to be used and employed as a school-house, and for the residence of the masters of the said free school for the time being, in lieu of the said cottage and premises at Milton, in the same manner as by the said indenture of the 8th April 1634 is declared touching the said last-mentioned premises.

The regular series of trust-deeds has been preserved amongst the documents belonging to the school. By the latest of these, being indentures of lease and release, bearing date 1st and 2d January 1825, Francis John Browne, Henry Bankes, and Edmund Morton Pleydell, the then surviving trustees, conveyed to the use of themselves, and of Sir John Wyldbore Smith, bart., Sir George Ridout Bingham, Richard Bingham, William John Bankes, the Rev. Edward Bankes, James John Farquharson, Thomas Bowyer Bower, and Henry Seymer, and their heirs, the school-house, with the out-houses, garden, and appurtenances, situate in Blandford Forum, then in the occupation of the Rev. Thomas Wise, and also the manor and farm of Little Mayne, with its appurtenances, and all lands, meadows, and pastures, to the same belonging, on trust, from time to time to dispose of and employ the rents, issues, and profits thereof for the maintenance of the said grammar-school at Blandford Forum, and a learned schoolmaster to instruct therein, in such manner as the said F. J. Browne, H.

Bankes, and E. M. Pleydell, should and ought to have done if the said indenture had not been made.

Of the trustees named in the last-recited deed, Sir J. W. Smith, bart., W. J. Bankes, esq., the Rev. Edward Bankes, J. J. Farquharson, and T. B. Bower, esq., are now living.

The trust property (which has received no addition) consists of a farm, called Little Mayne, in the parish of West Knighton, comprising a farm house, outbuildings, and 14 parcels of land, containing 231 A. 1 R. 20 P., with the right of foreshare on a piece of common meadow, containing 1 A. 3 R. 27 P., in the parish of Fordington. The whole was let in 1821 at 300*l.*, in 1822 at 270*l.*, in 1823, at 210*l.*, at which rent it is still held by Henry Sherren, as yearly tenant, but to whom the trustees have been compelled to make an abatement of 10*l.* 10*s.* per annum since the year 1830.

The school premises consist of a good house, situate in East-street, Blandford, with a garden of about half an acre, and a play-ground. There is sufficient accommodation for 20 boarders, and a good school-room erected about 14 years ago. The value of the whole may be from 35*l.* to 40*l.* per annum, the rent of houses in Blandford being moderate. The whole of the buildings are in very good condition, and will probably not require, hereafter, an outlay of more than 5*l.* per annum to keep them up. It was also stated that a similar sum will suffice in future for the annual repairs of the farm buildings.

Prior to the year 1785 the school was conducted at Milton under the care of Mr. Wood, with much success and reputation, being frequented by the sons of the gentry of the neighbourhood, as well as of the principal farmers. To the annoyance experienced by Lord Milton from the numerous boarders (amounting to 60 or 70) are attributed his unceasing efforts for the removal of the school. Mr. Wood was succeeded by Mr. Warton, in whose time the removal to Blandford was effected, by which event the apprehension expressed in the Act of Parliament, "lest the place of master should become a sinecure," was rapidly realized. The school dropped off immediately, and Mr. Warton being of improvident habits, and alike careless of his duty and of ordinary decorum, at length permitted the buildings to be reduced to a state which would not admit of the reception of scholars. His embarrassments are reported to have driven him before his death to carry off the flooring, rafters, and door jambs of the school-room for fuel. The discovery of some money transactions between Mr. Warton and the agent of the trust estates, which had induced these parties to entrap the trustees into a grossly improper lease of the property to the father of the latter person, at length compelled the trustees to exert themselves for the removal of both from their situations. The agent was removed at once, but no statement of his accounts was ever procured from him. The trustees framed their demand against him from the best materials they could collect, and proceeded at law, and ultimately, under the threat of execution, obtained payment of a sum of 463*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* To the removal of Mr. Warton, through setting the trustees at defiance in every mode, more difficulties presented themselves, and the trustees, considering his age and declining health, and the great expense of instituting legal proceedings for the purpose, determined to wait till his death should take place. He died in 1821, and the trustees immediately proceeded to put the school premises, which were totally uninhabitable, into a state which should leave a future master no excuse for a neglect of duty. A new school-room was built; the cost of the entire repairs and alterations being about 1,100*l.* The farm buildings were also gradually put into repair; an expenditure of about 600*l.* on this object having been spread over 14 years.

In December 1822 the trustees nominated the Rev. Mr. (now Dr.) Wise to the mastership of the school. His appointment, which is signed by four trustees, and also by himself, states that, it being the intention of the feoffees that the school should be regularly kept up and put on a respectable footing, any culpable negligence on the part of the master would oblige them to have recourse to a new appointment, the feoffees therefore expected that the principal part of the school-house should be appropriated to the scholars; that to fulfil, as far as the situation of the school would admit, the original purposes of their trust, the feoffees expected that all boys belonging to the parishes of Abbey Milton, Hilton, Chesilbourne, Stickland, Whitchurch, Milbourne, and Clenstone, should receive their education gratis, provided they could attend as day scholars, without putting the master to any expense for their board or lodging; that the whole rent of the farm should be paid to the master half-yearly, subject to necessary deductions for keeping the school-house, and everything belonging to the farm, in complete repair, for the superintendence of which the steward should be entitled to receive a small salary to be fixed by the feoffees, and should render his accounts annually to the master, to be inspected also, if required, by the feoffees. That, until the repairs then in progress should be completed, a deduction of 50*l.* would be made annually out of the rent.

Dr. Wise states that, shortly after his appointment, about eight or ten boys from Milton Abbas, and the adjoining privileged parishes, resorted to the school under the provisions of the foundation, and were received and taught in the same manner and classes with the boarders. They at first lodged in the town, but afterwards became boarders, and resided in the house, Dr. Wise having made a considerable deduction in their favour from his usual terms. About five or six years, however, have elapsed since the school has been resorted to by any boys from the privileged parishes. In December 1835 there were 18 boarders, who, with two sons of the master, completed the number which the house was capable of accommodating.

All the boys in the school were instructed in the ordinary branches of education, as writing, arithmetic, &c., as well as in the classics.

The rents are paid half-yearly to Dr. Wise, but his receipts, in consequence of the outlay for repairs, have not averaged more than 170*l.* per annum.

School, continued.

The steward, with whom the whole management of the estate is left, subject to the occasional interference of Dr. Wise, receives a salary of 5*l.* 5*s.* per annum.

The trustees have not met since the appointment of Dr. Wise in 1822.

It is obvious to remark that the arrangement effected by Lord Milton, with the sanction of the Legislature, has been destructive of the object of the endowment as expounded by the decree of the Court of Chancery in 1775, and of the interests of the inhabitants of the parish of Abbey Milton, to whom the loss is the greater as, the instruction to be given by the master not being limited by the introduction of the term "grammar-school" in the endowment, a larger class come within the reach of its benefits. To have transferred the privilege of admission to the inhabitants of Blandford by the same Act which altered the locality of the school, though an act of gross injustice to the parishioners of Milton, might have been productive of no loss to the community; but the present mischief has no such palliative, and the school is reduced to a complete sinecure. To the master no blame is of course to be imputed, as the evil was not to be remedied by such exertions or sacrifices as it was in his power to make; and to the trustees who acted at the time of the removal the credit is due of having perseveringly resisted the attempt at a heavy expense to themselves; their costs as defendants in the suit having been borne by them personally. They have further done what in them lay by extending the privilege of admission (if by possibility it could be made available) in their agreement with the master, but circumstances operate too strongly against them, and the Legislature only can now repair the evil which its act has occasioned.

Tregonwell's Almshouses.

Tregonwell's Almshouses.

John Tregonwell, of Anderston, esq., by Will, bearing date 7th February 1647, after reciting that he had lately erected an almshouse in Milton Abbas, with rooms for six poor people of the said town and parish, and had given to each of them 1*s.* a-week, and also three yards of black broad cloth yearly, to be given to them on St. Thomas's Day, to make them gowns, and also one pair of shoes, and a pair of stockings, and 10*s.* in money, and had appointed the said money to be raised and paid for the maintenance of the said poor people and almshouse out of his manor, farm, and land, commonly called Bugbere, in Milton Abbas, did thereby ratify and confirm the said foundation and gift; and he appointed that the said six poor people should be men or women dwelling in the said town and parish of Milton Abbas, of good fame, and should each have one of the said rooms, provided they should frequent the church of Milton, and usually receive the Sacrament and hear Divine service and sermon there, and should behave themselves orderly, else to be expelled the said almshouse by his executor, thereinafter named, his heirs or assigns, who were thereby empowered to elect another poor person in the room of any so expelled or dying; and in default of such election for the space of three months, then he directed that the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the parish of Milton should, for that turn only, elect a poor person in the room of any so expelled or dying as aforesaid.

These almshouses were pulled down and rebuilt on a different site about 1779, when the own was removed by the late Lord Dorchester. They consist of six tenements, of one room each, under the same roof, and are occupied by six widows of the parish, nominated by the Hon. Henry Damer, the present owner of Milton Abbey, from the most deserving poor of the parish.

They receive from him 2*s.* a-week each, by monthly payments, and 10*s.* on St. Thomas's Day, yearly. There is also given to each, through the hands of the vicar, three yards of cloth and a pair of shoes and stockings, according to the directions of the Will. Mr. Damer adds to these other articles, which make up the total expense of clothing to 2*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.* per annum for each person. He also supplies a quantity of fuel as a voluntary gift.

The almshouse is kept in very good repair, at the expense of Mr. Damer.

The farm called Bugbere, out of which these payments are considered to be made, is the property of Mr. Damer, situate in the parish of Milton Abbas, and consists of about 600 acres of land.

Sir Anthony Ashley's Almshouse.

By indenture of feoffment, with livery of seizin endorsed, bearing date 28th August 1624, Sir Anthony Ashley, knt., granted to Henry Fontleroy and 14 others, and their heirs, a house lately built by him, situate near the church of Wimborne St. Giles, commonly called the almshouse, and the garden and enclosed ground then therewith used, in trust, after the decease of the said Sir Anthony Ashley, to permit 11 poor and needy persons to inhabit therein, subject to such ordinances as the said Sir Anthony should make in that behalf; and he further granted to the said trustees a yearly rent-charge of 50*l.*, issuing out of a farm in the parish of Gussage Allhallows, called the Manor Farm, with a power of distress thereon, in trust, to distribute the said rent-charge amongst the said poor, and for the maintenance of the said almshouse, as the said Sir Anthony Ashley should by any directions in writing under his hand and seal appoint, with a direction that, when the said trustees should be reduced to four, the survivors should convey the said house and rent-charge to so many as should make up 12; and that there should never be fewer than three grantees in life, at the least; with a power to the said Sir Anthony Ashley, during his life, to appoint such new trustees, and to revoke the said deed and make void the estate thereby granted by deed executed in the presence of five credible witnesses.

Wimborne St. Giles.

There does not appear to have been any subsequent conveyance to trustees.

The farm upon which the payment is charged is the property of the Earl of Shaftesbury.

The almshouse consists of a substantial and respectable range of buildings, immediately adjoining the church of Wimborne St. Giles, comprising 10 tenements, with a chapel in the centre and a room over it. They are occupied by 10 poor persons of either sex, appointed by the Earl of Shaftesbury; generally, but not necessarily, from the parishioners of Wimborne St. Giles. The clerk of the parish is considered as filling the place of the 11th almsman: it is his duty to read prayers in the chapel.

The almshouses are kept in repair by Lord Shaftesbury, from whom the inmates also receive allowances in money, clothing, and fuel; the average expense of which, on a comparison of the last 10 years, is as follows:—

|---|---|---|---|
| 10 almspersons, at 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum | 33 | 6 | 8 |
| Allowance to the clerk, per annum, for duty in the almshouse chapel | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Clothing to the almspeople | 15 | 0 | 0 |
| 11 loads of turf, annually | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Carriage of ditto, at 16*s.* per load | 8 | 16 | 0 |
| 3,000 of faggots, annually, and carriage of ditto | 18 | 0 | 0 |
| Average cost of the annual repairs of the almshouses | 10 | 0 | 0 |

It appears, therefore, that the regular annual expenditure, exclusive of the repairs, exceeds, by 35*l.* per annum, the endowment directed by the founder.

Dorothy Pickering, who died in 1707, bequeathed, by Will, to Matthew Johnson and two others, and their heirs, 600*l.*, upon trust, to lay out the same in the purchase of lands or tenements, to be conveyed to the use of the said Matthew Johnson and others, and their heirs, or of such persons inhabiting or residing in the parish of East Lulworth, or not far distant therefrom, as they or the survivors or survivor of them should nominate, and with such provision for supplying the room of any such trustees departing this life as they should think fit; such conveyance to be made upon trust, that the said trustees, out of the clear rents and profits of the lands or tenements to be purchased, should in the first place pay all charges which they should be put unto in the execution of the said trusts; and in the next place should pay the yearly sum of 20*s.* for divine service to be read and a sermon preached on the 9th May yearly, by the minister, in the parish church of East Lulworth aforesaid; and should dispose of the residue of the rents and profits to the minister and churchwardens for the time being of the parish of East Lulworth aforesaid, to be by them distributed, in equal shares, yearly, on the same day, among 12 poor Protestant widows, or widows and maidens together, belonging to the said parish of East Lulworth, and of the age of 40 years at least, and to be present in church at the reading of the said divine service and preaching the said sermon, during all the time thereof, and to be elected and approved of for the said charity by the minister and churchwardens, or the major number of them; and if there should not be 12 poor Protestant widows and maidens of and belonging to the same parish of East Lulworth, of such age, and present at the divine service and sermon, then the same residue of the said rents and profits for such year to be distributed by the said minister and churchwardens, in equal proportions, amongst all the poor Protestant widows and maidens belonging to the same parish, of such age, and so present as aforesaid, and so many others, poor Protestant widows and maidens of the parish of West Lulworth, of or above the age of 40 years, who should be so present at the divine service and sermon in the said parish church of East Lulworth, and should be elected by the minister and churchwardens of the same parish, or the major number of them, as should make up the number of 12; with directions that any poor widow or maiden, prevented by sickness from attending the said service, should not be excluded from the benefit of the charity.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 20th and 21st November 1823, between John Bond the elder, of the one part, and the Rev. John Clavell, the Rev. William Bond, the Rev. Edward Bankes, the Rev. George Pickard, John Bond the younger, of Grange, William Bond the younger, esq., and John Bond the younger, of Tyneham, of the other part, reciting the said Will, and that the said sum of 600*l.* had been laid out in the purchase of the premises hereinafter mentioned, which, by divers assurances, had become vested in the said John Bond the elder, he, the said John Bond the elder, conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a messuage or tenement and farm, called West Lynch, in the parish of Corfe Castle, with the appurtenances, in trust, for the charitable purposes mentioned in the said Will, and to the intent that, upon the death of any two or more of the trustees, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves and such other persons as they should nominate, upon the same trusts.

Of the trustees so appointed all are now living, except the Rev. John Clavell.

The premises consist of a cottage and outhouse, and 28 acres of land, called West Lynch, in the southern division of the parish of Corfe Castle, now under lease to the Earl of Eldon, for a term of 21 years, commencing from 5th April 1829, determinable at the end of 7 or 14 years, at the rent of 56*l.* per annum. This is subject to occasional disbursements for repairs; but, for the last two or three years, the rent has been paid in full.

The rent is paid usually to one of the churchwardens of East Lulworth, and, after paying 20*s.* to the minister for the sermon which is regularly preached on the 9th May, is distributed on that day amongst 12 poor women, not under 40 years of age, selected by the minister and churchwardens. A sufficient number of objects are not to be found in East Lulworth; some of West Lulworth therefore partake of the charity. Last year there were six of each parish.

MILBORNE'S CHARITY.

Milborne's Charity.

Johanna Milborne, of Moreton, widow, by Will, dated 9th October 1806, and proved in the Prerogative Court in 1807, gave to John Bond, of Grange, and William Clavell, of Smedmore, in the county of Dorset, the sum of 150*l.* stock, Three per Centum Reduced Annuities, in trust, that they and the survivor of them, together with the rector of the parish of Steeple-cum-Tyneham, in the said county, for the time being, and the vicar and churchwardens of the parish of East Lulworth, in the said county, for the time being respectively, and with their concurrence, to apply the annual interest and dividends of the said sum for the support and maintenance of a Protestant school in the said parish of East Lulworth, for the teaching and instructing Protestant children of that parish in reading, working, and in the Protestant catechism; and if at any time there should not be any Protestant children of the said parish of East Lulworth, fit objects of such intended charity, then she gave the interest and dividend of the said 150*l.* capital stock, not applied to the above-mentioned purpose, in aid of a charity called Pickering's Charity, belonging to the said parish of East Lulworth, and to be applied in the same manner and for the benefit of the same poor persons as the revenues of the said charity were disposed of; and she gave the residue of her personal estate to her brother and sole executor, Roger Coker.

The 150*l.* stock, Reduced Annuities, was transferred to John Bond and William Clavell, esqrs., by Roger Coker, on the 27th January 1808.

Upon the death of Mrs. Milborne, who had been in the habit of paying 5*l.* per annum for the maintenance of a week-day school, the 150*l.* stock was transferred by her executor (27th January 1808) into the names of the said John Bond and William Clavell. The management afterwards appears to have devolved on the Rev. John Clavell, the brother of William Clavell, and the vicar of East Lulworth.

In the year 1813 the school was discontinued, and a Sunday school opened in its stead, under the management of a person named Peter Lucas, who is still living. He received 6*l.* 10*s.* per annum up to 1823. He continued master till 1824; but, for the last year, no payment was made to him.

Two other masters succeeded him; the last of whom, Henry Lander, was appointed in 1825, and is said to have received no salary; but, in lieu thereof, to have been allowed the use of the parsonage-house, rent free. No payment is known to have been made on this account since July 1825. The late Rev. John Clavell died in 1833; but his papers, at the time of our inquiry, were inaccessible in consequence of a litigation arising upon a Will alleged to have been made by him, but to which strong suspicion attached.

Upon the occasion of a trial which took place in the year 1834, as to the validity of the supposed instrument, the Rev. E. Witt, vicar of East Lulworth, deposed that Mr. Clavell had said to him that he should be found, upon his death, to have been a good steward to the Lulworth Charity; and, subsequently, that he had doubled that charity.

Application has been made to Lieutenant Colonel Mansel, of Upway House, Dorset, and the Rev. Mr. Michel, of Sturminster, who married the ladies who now represent the Clavell family, and their assurance has been received that the affairs of this charity (as also that of Anne Churchill, applicable to apprenticing children of Dorchester, and mentioned in the 29th Report, p. 38) shall meet with their attention whenever the papers of the testator are placed at their disposal.

The only school now kept up in the parish is a Sunday school, containing about 20 children, conducted on the sole responsibility of the vicar.

The sum of 90*l.* (10*l.* being deducted for legacy-duty) has been placed by the Rev. William Bond, and Charlton Byam Wollaston, esq., the surviving executors, in the hands of the Rev. Nathaniel Bond, of East Holme, by whom 3*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*, as the interest, calculated at the then price of the funds, is annually paid to the officiating minister of East Stoke, to be applied in aid of the general funds of a large Sunday school, which is there maintained principally by the voluntary contributions of the neighbouring proprietors. This sum would more properly have been invested in the funds.

The Hon. Robert Boyle, by Will, bearing date 8th July 1691, gave the residue of his personal estate to be invested by his executors in such manner as by any codicil he should appoint, and, for want of such direction, for charitable and other good and pious purposes, at their discretion. By a codicil to his Will the testator desired a lectureship within the city of London, or the circuit of the bills of mortality, to be founded and endowed with 50*l.* per annum, but made no further disposition of the residue.

An information at the suit of the Attorney-general was filed in the Court of Chancery against the Earl of Burlington, Sir Henry Ashurst, and John Warr, executors of the Will, in the year 1697, for the performance of the charitable trusts of Mr. Boyle's Will. The answers of the defendants were put in, when it appeared that the residue of the estate had by agreement been apportioned by the three executors between themselves, each proposing to apply his portion to certain charitable uses; that the share allotted to the defendant John Warr was 700*l.*, with which it was agreed that he should build a school-house for boys at Yetminster, near Sherborne, and purchase lands of inheritance in the said county, or near it, for the maintenance and encouragement of the master thereof for the time being. The defendants submitted the above proposal for the approbation of the court, and, by a decree pronounced by Lord Chancellor Somers, 1st July 1697, the said agreement of the executors, touching the division and disposition of the surplus of the testator's estate, was ratified and confirmed; and they were decreed to lay out the said surplus in such purchases and for such purposes as were expressed in the said agreement, and the Master was to see the several proportions thereof invested accordingly.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 22d and 23d March 1699, William Weston the elder and William Weston the younger, in consideration of 450*l.*, conveyed to John Warr and his heirs a messuage, dwelling-house, and barn at Knighton, in the parishes of Bere Hacket and Lillington; and certain closes of pasture, called the Backside Closes, containing eight acres; Metfellon Close, containing seven acres; the coppices, containing one acre and a half; Stubb Acres, containing five acres; Brinsome, containing four acres; Creslaine, two acres and a half; the Inmead and Hipple Mead, six acres; Broadcroft, three acres; Biss Close, three acres; Ross Moors, three yards of land; the whole containing 40 acres and 3 yards of land.

By indenture of bargain and sale and feoffment, bearing date 19th March 1712, Arthur Perrott, in consideration of 45*l.*, conveyed to the said John Warr and his heirs a messuage, with a close of meadow, in Knighton aforesaid, containing one acre, with common of pasture for two rother beasts in Knighton Woods and Alcrofts, then lately purchased by the said Arthur from one Nicholas Ingram.

No trusts are declared by either of the above-recited deeds.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 27th and 28th December 1717, between Mary Warr, daughter and heir of the said John Warr, Dorothy Warr, the widow of the said John, and Thomas Smith, of the one part, and Thomas Strangways, of Melbury Sampford, Michael Harvey, and seven others, of the other part, reciting the decree of the Court of Chancery, and that the said John Warr had erected a school-house in Yetminster and placed a master therein, and had purchased the land thereinafter mentioned for endowing the said school, the rents whereof had been since received by the said master, but the said John Warr having neglected to settle the said school-house and lands, the same had descended to the said Mary Warr, it is witnessed that, for establishing the said charity, the parties of the first part granted and released to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a messuage, with the ground therewith, used in Yetminster, containing about 20 goads, then used as a dwelling for the schoolmaster, being part of John Warr's own estate, purchased from Elizabeth Cooth; and also the premises, comprised in the two deeds above abstracted, subject to certain yearly quit-rents, in trust, to permit the then schoolmaster to inhabit the school-house, and to receive the yearly rents of the lands and premises for his support, after deducting necessary repairs, and also the amount of rates and taxes, and of the charges of executing the trust, which the trustees were thereby empowered to see done; and, after the death or removal of the said schoolmaster, the said trustees were to appoint a fit person in his room, and so, toties quoties, as often as any schoolmaster should die, or, by neglect or other cause, render himself unfit to teach school. And it was further declared that the schoolmaster for the time being should, gratis, and without fee or reward, teach 20 poor boys, viz., 10 of Yetminster, 6 of Leigh, and 4 of Chetnole, to read, write, and cast accounts, so as to qualify them to be put out apprentices to some trade, and, upon their quitting the said school, to be replaced by other boys chosen by the trustees from the said places respectively, with a proviso that, when the trustees should be reduced to three, the survivors should add six persons of Yetminster, and other neighbouring parishes, to be co-trustees with themselves, to whom the premises should be conveyed upon the same trusts.

The premises have been conveyed to successive sets of trustees, and ultimately, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 26th and 27th March 1827, became vested in nine trustees, of whom John Travers Burt Read, Thomas Cockeram, William Read, George Warry, Thomas Stone, Benjamin Bowring, and Henry King are now surviving. Yetminster. School, continued.

In the year 1834, the trustees, having received a sum of 290*l.* by the sale of timber from the estate, considered it advantageous to invest a part in the purchase of a barn, stable, and two acres of land immediately behind the school, which had been previously bought by T. Cockeram, the elder, one of the trustees, with a view to the accommodation of the school. The premises, which had been conveyed to Mr. Cockeram in May 1832, were by him conveyed to the trustees by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 3d and 4th April 1834. No profit whatever to the trustee who sold attended this transaction.

The whole expense of the purchase and conveyance amounted to 259*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*; and the remainder of the 290*l.* was appropriated to repairs of the school-house and farm-buildings.

The Knighton estate, the enclosures of which still correspond with the description in the deeds, contains 41A. 3P., customary measure, with a messuage and out-buildings, and is let to Henry Priddle as yearly tenant, at the rent of 50*l.* per annum, which is stated to be the full value. The land-tax on the estate has been redeemed many years with the produce of timber formerly cut. There is still some timber standing.

The master occupies the school-house and the two acres behind lately purchased.

The rent is received by the schoolmaster, as the agent of the trustees, half-yearly, and, after deducting any sums expended on repairs (which have amounted on an average to 5*l.* or 6*l.* a-year) and three quit-rents (amounting to 2*s.* 11*d.*), the clear residue is retained by him.

In respect of these emoluments, the master takes 26 boys, 13 from Yetminster, 8 from Leigh, and 5 from Chetnole, 6 additional children having been added by an agreement with the master, entered into by the trustees upon the occasion of the last purchase, and of which a memorandum, dated 5th April 1834, is endorsed upon the last conveyance.

The scholars are taught reading, writing, and arithmetic. The master takes other scholars, and has at present about 34 in addition to the free children.

The trustees generally meet once a-year to examine the accounts and give any necessary directions; but no charge for their expenses is made to the charity.

GORGES'S CHARITY.

By indenture of feoffment, with livery of seizin endorsed, bearing date 19th June 1668, between Wolley Meller, Edward Meller, and John Meller of the one part, and Henry Grinstead and four others of the other part, reciting that Dame Dorothy Gorges, sister of the said Wolley Meller, by her Will, of which the said Wolley was executor, appointed certain sums of money to be disposed of to such charitable uses as he should think fit; and that he, being desirous that the poor inhabitants of the town of Yetminster should reap the advantage of the same, had, with the said monies, purchased the four closes of ground, containing 22 acres, in Elford, alias Francombe, in the manor and tithing of Ryme Intrinseca, in the names of himself and the said Edward and John Meller; it is witnessed that, in pursuance of the said Will, and also a decree of commissioners of charitable uses [no date mentioned] upon the Will and disposition of the money thereby given, and that the rents might be distributed upon the charitable uses thereinafter mentioned, the said Wolley, Edward, and John Meller granted and enfeoffed the closes above mentioned to the said Henry Grinstead and others, and their heirs, upon trust, to dispose of the rents in such manner as they should think fit upon binding poor men's children apprentices, and so much as to them should seem good to be bestowed upon such and so many of the needy people of the said town and tithing as had not to them any relief assigned out of the rates and taxes for the poor of the said town and tithing, according to the statute in that case made; and so much also as to them should seem good to be, from time to time, disposed of upon the poor receiving relief out of such taxations, for their better and more liberal relief, over and above, and in addition to, such sums as by such taxations should or ought to be paid to them, paying yearly to the said Wolley Meller and his heirs the yearly rent of 4*d.*; with directions that the said payment should not in any way diminish the taxation of the said town and tithing towards the necessary relief of the poor; and with a proviso that, upon the death of any two of the said feoffees, the survivors should convey the premises to two or more other persons of the said town and tithing, to be nominated by the heir of the said Edward Meller, upon the same trusts, so that there might be always three, four, or more persons, inhabitants of the said town and tithing, of the best quality and ability, possessed of the same. And the said indenture contains a covenant on the part of the trustees not to lease the premises for more than seven years, and only at rack-rent; and also to keep a book containing the account of the several matters and transactions in respect of the said charity, and to produce the same, attested under the hand of the vicar, within 20 days after each year ended, to the right heir of the said Edward Meller, for his subscription and approbation thereto. Gorges's Charity.

The trusts have been regularly kept up by successive conveyances, the last being by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 30th and 31st December 1829, whereby the premises were vested in Ellis Dawe the elder, since deceased, James Andrews, James Langdon, John Andrews, and Ellis Dawe the younger, upon the same trusts.

The estate consists of five closes in the parish of Ryme Intrinseca, two arable and three pasture, containing 22 acres, held by Daniel Brake, under an agreement for a term of seven years, from Lady-day 1834, at the yearly rent of 25*l.*, being the full value.

There is a lime-kiln on the property.

In 1828 a quantity of timber was sold to the amount of 230*l.*, of which 30*l.* is in the Sherborne savings' bank, and the remaining 200*l.* is invested on a mortgage of an estate at Yetminster, belonging to Thomas Warr, at four and a half per cent. interest, amounting to 9*s.* per annum.

In case of any urgent distress in the family of a parishioner, occasional relief is given from this fund during the year, and at Christmas the trustees meet and decide upon the application of the remainder, which is given away in shoes, blankets, calico, and dowlas, or in sums of money amongst poor parishioners, including a few residing out of the parish. Payments have sometimes been made towards apprentice fees, or assistance given in other modes.

The accounts are regularly entered in a book for the purpose, and a separate book is kept in which the particulars of the distribution are entered, containing the names of the parties receiving the charity, and the articles or sums given to each.

In January 1836 there was a balance of 3*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* against the charity.

Sir John Hele's Charity.

Sir John Hele's Charity.

Sir John Hele, by Will, bearing date 16th October 1643, (among other charities,) gave a rent-charge of 52*s.* per annum to be distributed among the poor of Yetminster every Sunday, after morning prayer, in white bread, such sums not to ease the poor's rates, but for the better maintenance of the poor; to be paid out of his demesnes at Clifton.

The sum of 2*l.* 12*s.* is received annually from Mr. Bridge, of Piddletrenthide, who purchased the property charged (part of which is understood to be a field still called "Hele's Leaze") from the Marquis of Anglesea.

Bread, to the amount of 12*s.* 6*d.*, is distributed four times in the year by the minister of Yetminster among the most necessitous poor who attend the church.

Ball's Charity.

By indenture of bargain and sale, bearing date 10th October 1716, enrolled in Chancery, between Henry Bishop, yeoman, and Elizabeth, his wife, (only sister and heir of John Ball, clerk, deceased,) of the one part, and Arthur Cozens and five others, all of Yetminster, of the other part, the said H. Bishop and Elizabeth his wife, in pursuance and execution of a charitable design and disposition of the said John Ball, declared in his lifetime, for settling and assuring the several lands thereinafter mentioned upon the several trusts therein limited, granted, bargained, and sold unto the said Arthur Cozens and others, and their heirs, a messuage or tenement, known by the name of Geale's Tenement, situate in Wootton Glanvills aforesaid; and also a meadow, called Broad More, containing by estimation 20 acres (more or less); another close of meadow, called Tristie's, containing by estimation two acres (more or less); and a close of pasture, called Geale's, containing by estimation 16 acres (more or less), after the decease of the survivor of them, the said Henry and Elizabeth, upon trust, to let the same to a tenant for any term of years not exceeding 10 years, and to apply the rents thereof in manner following (that is to say): that the said trustees should yearly pay unto the churchwardens for the time being of the tithing of Yetminster the sum of 2*l.* 12*s.* per annum, clear of all deductions, at Christmas and Midsummer, by equal portions, to the intent that the said churchwardens should weekly lay out the sum of 1*s.*, part thereof, in buying loaves of bread, to be by them distributed every Sunday morning in the churchyard of the said tithing of Yetminster unto and amongst such poor inhabitants of the said tithing as should be of the communion of the Church of England, and be constant frequenters of divine service in the church of the tithing of Yetminster aforesaid, by such proportions and in such manner as they should think fit.

The premises have, by successive grants, been conveyed to trustees, and were vested in the present trustees by indentures of lease and release, dated 22d and 23d May 1809, whereby Arthur Cozens, esq., and others, (all since deceased,) conveyed the same premises to Thomas Cockeram, John Travers Burt Read, Stephen Iles, Benjamin Bowring, John Bridges, and Ellis Dawe. The lands are situate in the parish of Glanvills Wootton, and the residue of the rents are applicable for the benefit of the assistant curate of Yetminster.

The amount of the rent-charge is regularly received and laid out quarterly in the purchase of bread, which is brought to the church and distributed amongst poor persons attending service, chiefly widows and old men of Yetminster.

Reynolds's Charity.

Reynolds's Charity.

John Reynolds, by Will, (stated in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 to have been dated about the year 1750,) charged a field in the parish of Yetminster, called "Whittle's Orchard," (which with other property he bequeathed to ——— Vincent,) with the payment of 1*l.* annually to be distributed in bread on his birth-day (the 29th May) to poor persons inhabitants of Yetminster.

Whittle's Orchard is now the property of Charles Bartlett, esq., of Wareham. His tenant pays the sum of 1*l.* per annum to a baker, who furnishes 40 sixpenny loaves, once a-year, which are distributed by the minister at the church door to the most deserving and necessitous poor of Yetminster.

Bowring's Charity.

Bowring's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 12th March 1811, the Rev. Blakley Cooper and William Watts covenanted with Sarah Bowring, widow, to stand possessed of the sum of 145*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*, Three per Cent. Consols, which had been transferred into their names by her, upon trust, to pay the dividends amongst six poor old widows of the parish of Yetminster, of good character, on Christmas-day yearly, and if there should not be six such widows, then amongst as many poor widows as should be residing in the parish and others of the poorest and oldest women then living in the said parish, with a proviso that, on the death of the said B. Cooper, the said

William Watts should transfer the stock into the name of the succeeding vicar, and that the same in future should be vested in all succeeding vicars.

The stock still stands in the same names.

The dividends, 4*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*, are received by the vicar, and handed over to the resident curate, who divides the amount equally amongst six poor widows residing in the parish, and belonging to it, the oldest being selected and continued for life.

ELFORD'S CHARITY.

Elford's Charity.

William Elford, by Will, bearing date 7th August 1823, and proved at Salisbury 31st May 1827, gave to his executors, John Travers Burt Read, and John Perkins Bridge, all his personal estate upon trust, after reducing the whole into money, to invest the same on Government security in their names, and the name of the Rev. Blakley Cooper, vicar of Yetminster, in trust, out of the interest thereof, to pay the annual sum of 5*l.* towards the support of a Sunday-school at Chetnole, and to pay the residue of the interest in the purchase and distribution of great coats to such poor old men, inhabitants of Yetminster, and the tithings of Leigh and Chetnole, as they and their successors should, in their discretion, consider the most deserving objects; and he directed that, when either of the said trustees should die, the survivors should, by writing, nominate some other person in his stead, and that the number of three trustees, of whom the vicar of Yetminster should always be one, should be kept filled up, and the trust monies accordingly, from time to time, transferred into the name of such newly appointed trustees, as well as the survivors, so that there might be always three trustees for the management of the charity.

The sum of 261*l.* 3*s.* 7*d.*, the clear residue of the personal estate, after payment of the legacy-duty, has been lent (in consequence of the high price of the public funds) on the promissory note of the Rev. Blakley Cooper, the vicar of Yetminster, at four per cent. interest.

Of the interest (amounting to 10*l.* 8*s.*) 5*l.* is paid to the master of a Sunday-school at Chetnole, at which about 30 children attend.

The remainder is laid out in the purchase of great coats, of which there are six purchased annually, two for each district. This does not quite exhaust the income, and occasionally an additional coat is provided.

CURFEW LAND.

Curfew Land.

There is a tradition that a field in the parish of Clifton Maybank, called "Eight o'clock Field," was charged with the payment of 10*s.* to the sexton of Yetminster for ringing the curfew bell between Michaelmas and Lady-day. An entry in the parish book, dated 1756, shows that this payment was then withheld. It has never been since obtained, and may possibly be the same charge which is attributed in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 to Thomas Ring, under the date of the year 1736 (when the statute of Mortmain was passed), and stated to have been withheld at the time of the return for the last 30 years.

CHAPELRY OF LEIGH.

Leigh.

SCHOOL.

School.

As to parochial concerns, Leigh, the mother church of which is Yetminster, is now a separate parish, but it shares in the benefit of the school founded from the funds of Mr. Boyle. (See Yetminster.)

BRIDLE'S CHARITY.

Bridle's Charity.

Robert Bridle, by Will, bearing date 20th April 1779, gave to Bartholomew Watts 500*l.* on condition that he should settle 5*l.* a-year, to be paid out of his lands lying in the tithing of Leigh, to the poor housekeepers of the said tithing, in such manner as John Bridle, his executor, should approve of.

By indenture of bargain and sale, enrolled in Chancery, bearing date 4th June 1783, the said Bartholomew Watts granted to Edward Cooper and John Stone, and their successors, ministers or incumbents of Yetminster, and chapelwardens of Leigh, a clear yearly rent-charge of 5*l.* issuing out of a close of arable called Pit Close, containing 12 acres, and a close adjoining thereto, called Six Acres, and containing six acres, situate at Totnole, in the said tithing, payable at Christmas yearly, with a power of entry and distress, on trust, on Christmas-day yearly, or within 14 days after, to dispose of the same to such poor housekeepers of the said tithing, not then receiving alms, and in such manner, as they should think fit.

The sum of 5*l.* is received by the chapelwarden from Thomas King, the occupier of the closes charged, which belong to Solomon Sly, of Weymouth. It is distributed by the minister and chapelwardens amongst the poor of Leigh, not receiving relief, in sums varying from 6*s.* to 2*s.*, according to the necessities of the objects.

READ'S CHARITY.

Read's Charity.

By indenture bearing date 29th July 1813, being a declaration of trust of the sum of 50*l.* Navy Five per Cents., given by Thomas Read, of Upway, the Rev. Blakley Cooper, John Travers Burt Read, and William Read, covenanted to stand possessed of the said sum on trust to apply the dividends in the purchase of bread, to be given yearly to the poor of the parish of Leigh, on Christmas-day, who should be deserving of the same, and in proportion to the number of their families, and whether receiving other alms or not; notice of the distribution to be given on the Sunday preceding; with directions, upon the death of the said Blakley Cooper, to transfer the stock into the name of the succeeding vicar jointly with the said trustees, and upon the decease of the other trustees, then into the name of the chapelwarden of the tithing of Leigh.

Leigh.

Read's Charity, continued.

In respect of this sum there is now 52*l.* 10*s.* New Three and a-half per Cents. standing in the same names, producing dividends to the amount of 1*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.* per annum, which sum is laid out in quartern loaves and distributed by the trustees, about Christmas, amongst poor persons of good character belonging to the chapelry.

Parish Lands.

Parish Lands.

There are two meadows in this parish called Alton Meadow and Beer Mill Mead, the former belonging jointly to Mr. Phillips of Alton and Mr. White of Up Cerne, and the latter to Robert Gordon, esq., of Leweston House, M.P., of which the after-grass from Lammas to Lady-day is sold, and the proceeds received by the overseers of the poor, and applied for the relief of the poor of the chapelry. It seems probable that this was awarded to them upon the enclosure of the parish in the beginning of the 17th century, and that it was intended for the relief of the customary copyholders only, as we find in the parish books that a corresponding rate was levied upon the freeholders of the parish to meet this sum on the part of the copyholders. This levy is not now made.

The parish officers at Old Lammas every year let the grass to the best bidder. Alton Meadow usually produces about 5*l.* a-year, and Beer Mill Mead about 10*s.*

These sums are now carried to the account of the poor's rate.

LIBERTY OF GILLINGHAM.

PARISH OF GILLINGHAM.

Gillingham.

Feoffees' Lands.

Feoffees' Lands.

By a decree of the High Court of Chancery pronounced by the Lord Keeper Egerton, 4th November 1598, in a suit in which Richard Estmonde and others, inhabitants of Gillingham, and tenants of the manor, on behalf of themselves and the other inhabitants, were complainants, and Thomas Dirdoe, Edward Lawrence, James Frampton, and others, were defendants, reciting the purport of the bill to be that sundry messuages, lands, and tenements, parcel of the customary lands of the said manor, had been conveyed and assured to the use of sundry persons and their heirs, in trust that, out of the rents, issues, and profits thereof, there might be perpetually maintained within the said town a schoolmaster for instruction of youth in good literature, for the better discharge of their duty to God, the King, and the commonwealth, and that the church might be the better repaired, poor people there relieved, prisoners refreshed, and highways, causeways, and bridges, thereabouts, kept and maintained; and that the said lands had been preserved and continued from hand to hand, from the parties intrusted, as they became aged or few, to the use of others and their heirs, upon the same trust; and that the said rents had, time out of mind, been collected by stewards appointed by consent of the parishioners of Gillingham, and employed to the said uses; and that out of the profits the Queen had her rents, and the best beast for a heriot, of every one of the said persons dying sole, or joint, tenants; and that the said bill also recited various surrenders of parts of the said customary premises, which compriesd 12 messuages, or cottages, and 17 closes of land in Gillingham and Motcombe, of which the contents of a part only are specified, and amount to about 50 acres; and that upon such surrenders the several surrenderees were admitted and seized, and the profits were employed by the said stewards to the said uses, until about 10 years before the filing of the said bill, when the said defendant Lawrence, supposing the said lands to have been freehold, and to have been given before the Statute of Chauntries (2 Ed. VI.) to superstitious uses, and to have been concealed, procured a grant thereof from her Majesty for some small or no consideration to his brother-in-law, and commenced sundry suits against the poor of the town and occupiers of the said lands, and by tampering with one Allen, and with the said Frampton, who were employed as the solicitors, and were in possession of the deeds of the said occupiers, and by threatening some of such trustees as were poor men, obtained surrenders of part of the said lands in trust for the said Lawrence, and also for the said Frampton; and that the said bill also recited that the said defendant Dirdoe, upon whom certain of the said customary lands had descended, as heir to his father, subject to the said charitable uses, had withheld the said lands, and the deeds relating thereto, from the parishioners, and had granted the same as his own inheritance to the said Lawrence and Frampton; and that by the said practices the Queen was defrauded, and the said charitable uses were discontinued, to the great loss of the inhabitants of Gillingham, and that the bill accordingly prayed for a discovery and for relief; and after further reciting that the defendants put in their answers, and that witnesses were examined in the cause, and that it appeared, and was confessed on all parts, that all the said lands and tenements (save two closes, containing about two acres) were copyhold and customary lands, as had been found by a jury and inquisition in the 28th year of Elizabeth, recorded in the Exchequer, by which inquisition were also found the said charitable uses:

It was ordered, adjudged, and decreed, that the said plaintiffs, their heirs, and assigns, inhabitants of the said town for the time being, should for ever hold and enjoy the said lands and tenements (except the said two closes) to the said charitable uses, without hinderance of the said defendants, or any claiming under them, and discharged of all leases claimed by them; and that the whole rents and profits, the premises being thenceforth let to the uttermost value, should for ever be employed to the charitable uses following, viz. to the maintenance of a schoolmaster, the repairing of bridges, the relief of the poor of the said town, and towards setting out of soldiers; and after giving directions as between the said co-defendants, the said decree directed a commission to be awarded for better settling the said lands under the late statute for inquiry for lands and tenements given to charitable uses; and also that an issue at law should be tried whether the said two closes were freehold or copyhold, and if the latter, then that they should go and be employed to the same charitable uses.

Gillingham.

The commission accordingly issued, and an inquisition was taken, and, by the order and decree of Sir George Trenchard, Francis James, Chancellor of Bristol, Thomas Freke, John Ryves, and two others, the commissioners named therein, made on the 28th September, 41 Elizabeth, it was adjudged, that as well the customary lands of the said manor, mentioned in the above-abstracted decree of the Lord Keeper, as the other customary lands, which by the inquisition taken before the said commissioners had been found to be given and conveyed to the same charitable uses, should be thenceforth conveyed, employed, and governed, for the performance and continuance of the same uses, in manner following; that is to say, that the interests of the said copyholders should be conveyed by surrender, from time to time, unto 12 of the customary tenants of the said manor, to hold by copy of court-roll to them and their heirs, according to the custom of the said manor, by the fines, heriots, and services, thereof due and accustomed, which 12 persons should be called the "feoffees of the lands of Gillingham, appointed to charitable uses;" and that Thomas Jessop, esq., and 11 others, therein named, should be the first 12 feoffees, to whom the same lands should be so conveyed by surrender; and that the persons then interested in the same lands should surrender the same for the settling thereof in the said feoffees accordingly. Item, That, as often as by death, or otherwise, the number of the said feoffees should be decreased to the number of eight only, that then the surviving feoffees, at the next court of the said manor, should surrender the tenements to the use of themselves and of so many other sufficient customary tenants of the same manor as should make up the number of 12 feoffees, which added number should, from time to time, be chosen by the surviving feoffees, or the more part of them, in the court of the said manor, by the advice and assent of the vicar of Gillingham, and three constables, viz. one of Motcombe and two of Gillingham, for the time being, wherein regard should be had that there be always some one or more feoffees of every tithing where the said lands do lie. Item, If any of the feoffees, upon such diminution of their number to eight as aforesaid, or under, should refuse to join in making such surrender for the renewing of the whole number of 12 feoffees, that every feoffee so refusing should forfeit the sum of 10*l.* to the other feoffees, to be employed to the good use therein expressed; and the said contempts to be certified in the Chancery, to be punished by the discretion of the same court. Item, The feoffees of the said lands, from time to time, with the advice and consent of the said vicar and constables for the time being, or the more part of them, they all being present at the time of any grant to be made, should have power to demise all or any of the said messuages, or cottages, to which there should severally belong one acre, or more, of land, meadow or pasture, in possession to such persons as would give most rent for the same, for such term in possession as to them should seem meet, not exceeding 10 years; and all other the said messuages and cottages for the term of 21 years, or under, or for 30 years if one, two, or three lives should so long live; all which leases should be made under such covenants and conditions as by such advice and consent, as aforesaid, should be thought fit for the enabling of the said lands to continue at their best values. Item, That two of the customary tenants of the said manor should be yearly appointed receivers of the rents and profits of the said tenements, with such advice, consent, and allowance, as aforesaid, at the general law-day used to be holden within the said manor about the feast of the Annunciation of our Lady; and should, upon the Tuesday in Whitsun week, yearly, next after their offices ended, yield up a true account in writing of their several receipts and payments concerning their offices unto the said feoffees, or to such of them as should be present in the church of Gillingham aforesaid, in the presence of the said vicar and constables, or the more part of them, that should be there present, or an auditor by them, with the advice and assent aforesaid, appointed in that behalf, and should deliver up and satisfy unto the said feoffees all such sums of money as should remain due by the same accountants upon the same account, to be delivered over to the receivers which should next succeed them; the same accounts to be kept in a chest with three locks, the keys whereof should be committed to safe custody, one to the vicar of Gillingham for the time being, the others to two of the said feoffees, at the least, to be chosen by such consent as aforesaid. Item, That the sum of 20 marks, yearly, of the rents and profits of the said lands, the law charges and expenses concerning the premises being first satisfied and allowed, should be employed to the finding and maintenance of a schoolmaster at Gillingham, aforesaid, to teach the children of the parishioners gratis; the election of placing and displacing of which schoolmaster, from time to time, to be by the said feoffees for the time being, with such advice and consent as is above mentioned; and the rest of the rents and profits of the said lands, all reasonable and necessary charges being first deducted, to be employed yearly to the reparation of causeways, highways, and bridges, and to the rearing and bringing up of poor orphans, and other charitable and necessary uses mentioned in the said decree, according to the intentions aforesaid, yearly, and from time to time, as occasion should serve, by the discretion and direction of the feoffees for the time being, or the more part of them, with such advice and consent as aforesaid. Item, It was adjudged and decreed, that all leases and grants of the said tenements, contrary to the trust aforesaid, to such as had notice of the said uses, or without good consideration, should be void; and that the mesne profits of the said lands employed contrary to the said trusts should be paid by the same occupiers unto the new feoffees, and their heirs, to the uses aforesaid, according to such rate as the said lands are valued at by the said inquisition.

The descriptions contained in the several surrenders recited in the decree of the Lord Keeper, all of which are dated in the reign of Henry VIII., are sufficient still to identify a few of the parcels. Of these two cottages were sold for the redemption of the land-tax in 1799, and a very great alteration took place in the situation of the lands belonging to the charity, under the powers of the Gillingham Enclosure Act, passed in the year 1809, when an addition of about three acres was made to the property, and various exchanges of portions of it were effected. To that part of the lands comprised in the surrenders, which were situate in Motcombe, it does not appear that the Gillingham feoffees were ever admitted after the decree of the Court had been complied with in the first instance. These are now vested in trustees within that parish.

Gillingham.

The following is an abstract of the last surrender of the Gillingham trust lands.

At a court held for the manor and forest of the manor of Gillingham, 24th April 1829, the Rev. Harry Martin, Henry Biging, William Bell, Edward Hannam, Samuel Davis, and Morgan Dove Blandford, as surviving feoffees of the lands in Gillingham, appointed to charitable uses, surrendered to the use of themselves and of Robert James, William Read Bell, Edward Neave, Thomas Matthews, Joseph Read, and Thomas Card, new feoffees of the said lands, a messuage or tenement, and one fardell of land, with the appurtenances, called Vining's Tenement, otherwise Haynes's Place, in Newberry, within the tithing and manor of Gillingham, with divers closes of land, meadow or pasture, to the same belonging, containing in the whole, by estimation, 56 A. 3 R. 2 P.; another messuage, tenement, or cottage, in Newberry, then in the tenure of John Collins; a meadow situate near Lodden Bridge, on which a cottage formerly stood; a paddock of meadow at Lox Lane; 3 R. 39 P. of meadow in Old Lands; 3 A. of arable land in Majeston Field; a cottage and garden in Gillingham, in the tenure of Martha Hoskins; an acre of meadow in Brookmore; a cottage in Gillingham with a piece of land, being a garden, in the Back Lane, in the tenure of Robert Goldsbrough; a messuage or tenement adjoining, on the west part of the churchyard of Gillingham; a little cottage to the same messuage adjoining, theretofore in the tenure of Frederick Hoskins, but since destroyed by fire, and the ground whereon it stood was then used as a garden; two other cottages near adjoining; another messuage called the Church House, with the curtilage adjoining, in the tenure of Hugh Hansford, schoolmaster, and used as a dwelling-house; a messuage and garden called Brewme, with the curtilage and garden adjoining, then converted into a school-house and yard; a messuage and garden, formerly two messuages and gardens, in Wike-street; 7 acres of arable land called Hither Horsehill, situate near Westbrook; and 6 A. 0 R. 5 P. of pasture near Woodwater, allotted to the free-school upon the disafforestation of the forest of Gillingham; a close of pasture in Old Lands containing by estimation 3 A. 0 R. 14 P.; a close of pasture also situate in Old Lands, containing 3 A. 2 R. 30 P.; a piece of arable land lying near Sandleys, containing 1¼ acre; all the said premises being situate in the tithing of Gillingham; also a close of pasture or arable in Bourton, within the manor of Gillingham, called Crook Hayes, together with an allotment of common belonging to the same, containing 16 perches; another piece called Church Close, and a little parrock of meadow near Edcrofts, in Bourton; all which said premises were part of the customary lands of the manor of Gillingham, with their appurtenances; which premises the said surviving and new feoffees, with the advice and assent of the vicar of Gillingham and three constables, one of Motcombe and two of Gillingham, did claim to hold to them and their heirs, according to the custom of the manor, for the public benefit and good of the parish of Gillingham, for such pious uses as the said premises were settled and decreed, by the yearly rent of 14*s.* 7½*d.*; and on payment to the lord of the manor of a fine of 1*l.* 9*s.* 3*d.*, being the double of one year's rent, according to the custom of the said manor, and were admitted tenants thereof accordingly.

Of the feoffees appointed by the above surrender, the Rev. Harry Martin and Samuel Davis are since deceased.

The following is a description of the property, as it was left by the Enclosure Act of 1809:

Gillingham.

The cottages are repaired by the feoffees and are in good condition.

In 1829-30 about 250*l.* was expended in rebuilding the three cottages Nos. 30, 31, 32.

The feoffees pay parochial rates. The land-tax on the property in Gillingham is redeemed, but for the lands in Bourton 6*s.* a-year land-tax is paid; there is also paid as a quit-rent 14*s.* 7½*d.*

The parochial rates amount to from 20*l.* to 22*l.* per annum.

There is a salary of 3*l.* 3*s.* paid to the clerk to the feoffees for keeping the accounts, and receiving the rents and making the payments.

The only other outgoing is for repairs, the average expense of which may be about 10*l.*

The clear rent is appropriated to the three following purposes, viz., support of schools, repairs of bridges, and relief of the second poor.

There is a school containing two rooms, one above and one below, in which two schoolmasters teach separately. They are appointed by the feoffees, and receive a salary, one of 50*l.* and the other of 10*l.* The former (Hugh Hansford) takes 25 boys and teaches them reading, writing, and accounts; and the other 20 younger boys, who are taught reading only. Hansford also is allowed to take pay-scholars, and has about 30 of that description. The younger master has no pay-scholars.

There are in the parish four carriage bridges, viz., Spickets, Loddon Green, Loddon, and Bowridge Bay; three cattle bridges, viz., Huntingford, Coles Brook, and Chantry; and three foot bridges, viz., Woodwater, Roles, and Hayes, over the Stour, and its branches, which the feoffees consider themselves bound to repair, probably as having been the only bridges in the parish at the date of the suit.

There were also two other bridges formerly repaired by the trust, but these were rebuilt about 30 years ago at the expense of the county, and have since been maintained in the same manner, as is also the case with the other modern bridges of the parish.

One of the cattle bridges, and one of the foot bridges, were rebuilt within the last 30 years at a cost of about 30*l.* a-piece, and within the same time there has been an outlay of about 100*l.* upon Loddon Green bridge. Independent of the expenditure of the sums last mentioned, the average cost of the repairs of the bridges may be about 20*l.* per annum.

Out of the surplus a distribution is made to the second poor of the parish annually, in the month of February. All the poor, not receiving relief, belonging to the parish, whether living in it or not, at whatever distance, partake of this distribution.

In apportioning the amount given to them, the numbers in family under 10 years of age, old age, and bodily infirmity, are considered; the sums given vary from 5*s.* to 24*s.*, but occasionally one or two sums of a larger amount are bestowed.

At the last settlement of the accounts, in June 1835, there was a balance in hand of 73*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.*

The trustees meet annually on the Tuesday in Whitsun week, when a sum of 1*l.* is charged towards the expenses.

Dirdoe's Charity.

Dirdoe's Charity.

Frances Dirdoe, by Will bearing date 16th October 1733, gave to the poor of the parish of Gillingham 5*l.* per annum, to be distributed every year on St. Thomas's day, at her dwelling-house at Milton, in the said parish, to such persons as should then come there to receive the same; but in case at any time thereafter those persons who should come to receive the said legacy "should behave themselves rude and disorderly, so that thereby it should become an intolerable trouble and fatigue" to the devisees therein named, then that the said 5*l.* a-year should be yearly laid out and applied in placing out one poor child of the said parish as an apprentice to some honest trade, and she thereby charged her said lands and freehold estate for payment of the same, for ever, for one of the said charitable uses.

The property charged is an estate called Milton Farm, consisting of upwards of 300 acres, in the parish of Gillingham, now the property of —— Dalton, esq., and occupied by Mr. Thomas Matthews.

The charity was long distributed in the mode prescribed by the Will, indiscriminately, among the poor of the parish who applied for it, being divided in sums of 3*d.* or 6*d.* among 300 or even 400 persons; but this mode being found productive of great inconvenience and tumult, as well as dissatisfaction, (the poor of the parish sometimes collecting in riotous mobs to the number of 500 or 600,) this course was abandoned about 20 years since, and the sum of 5*l.* has since been carried to a fund, from which apprentices were, from time to time, bound out. The sum is allowed to the tenant in his rent, and the application of the charity has latterly been confided entirely to him by the landlord. By an account produced it appears that two apprentices had been placed out in the last 11 years, with premiums of 25*l.* each. A charge of 4*l.* 4*s.* is made for each set of indentures. A balance of about 8*l.* remains in the hands of Mr. Phelps, of Warminster, the solicitor of the Dalton family, out of an arrear of the payment of 5*l.* which had been made to him by the tenant before the application was intrusted to the latter. Gillingham.

READ'S CHARITY.

William Read, by his Will, bearing date 9th March, 1798, gave to Nathaniel Dalton, and nine others, 4,000*l.*, to be paid out of his personal estate, and to be invested in the purchase of Three per Cent. Consols, upon trust, out of the dividends to distribute, in bread, to the amount of 20*l.* yearly, on St. Thomas's day, amongst all the poor people belonging to the parish of Gillingham, in such shares and proportions as the trustees for the time being, or any six of them, should deem the most proper objects, and to pay the remainder of the dividends amongst such poor old men and poor old women of the age of 60, or upwards, of the parish of Gillingham, as the said trustees, or any six of them, should, by writing, appoint to receive the same, in sums of 5*s.* a-piece weekly, for their support, comfort and maintenance during their lives, or so long as they should reside in or belong to the parish, such weekly sums to be extended to as many persons of the description above mentioned as the produce of the trust fund, after allowing a reasonable salary to a proper person to distribute the weekly payments, would admit of. And he directed that, if any of the poor persons should misuse their weekly allowance, or become, by immoral conduct, unworthy to receive the same, or be in such circumstances as not to be objects of charity, it should be lawful for the trustees to suspend or totally to deprive them of the allowance; and that, upon a vacancy among the said poor persons, the trustees should elect another person within one calendar month; and he directed that, if any poor man or woman to be appointed to receive the weekly payment should be related to him in blood or kindred, it should be lawful for the trustees to increase the allowance of such person to any sum not exceeding the weekly sum of 20*s.*, but not to prejudice the weekly payments to the other poor persons previously appointed; and he directed that, in case there should not be a sufficient number of objects in the parish of Gillingham, the trustees should distribute the surplus to poor persons of the parish of Motcombe; and he directed that the trustees should appoint a proper person, to whom they should allow such salary as they should think fit, to make the weekly payments, who should enter into a book to be kept for the purpose a list of all the poor persons appointed to receive the charity, with the time of their appointment, and the day of their death, and all the receipts and payments relating to the trust, and such matters as the trustees should think proper to be noted in writing; such person, on the 1st of January, annually, to show to the trustees a full statement of his accounts for the year preceding, which he desired should be carefully inspected by them: and he directed that, whenever the number of the trustees should, by death, resignation, or otherwise, be reduced to five, the survivors should nominate so many other fit persons residing in the said parish, or within seven miles thereof, to supply their places, as to complete the number to 10, and that the stock should be transferred into the names of the surviving and new trustees, the costs attending such appointment and transfer of the stock to be paid out of the dividends; and in case, by reason of the rules of the Bank of England, the stock could not be vested in the names of the whole number of such trustees, the same should be kept standing in the names of the greatest number of the senior of the trustees which, according to such rules, might be; but the other trustees, in whose names the stock should not be invested, to have the management of the trust equally with the others, with power to the trustees to reimburse themselves such costs as they should incur in the execution of the trusts. Read's Charity.

The trustees are appointed by entries in the account-book. The present trustees are William Bell, Edward Hannam, Henry Biging, Charles Bowles, Robert James, and Edward Neave, there being four vacancies.

The testator died in 1798, having charged his legacies upon his real estates, and leaving William Bell, Edward Hannam, and William Whitaker, his executors.

The charge being void, and the personal estate insufficient to answer the whole amount, the executors shortly after purchased 2,750*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in part satisfaction of the legacy to the charity, and appointed poor persons to receive the benefit of it, to whom, for one year, they made payments in conformity with the terms of the Will.

An amicable bill was filed in November 1799, for the purpose of taking the accounts and ascertaining the proportion in which it was necessary that the legacies should abate. It was not till after a lapse of 23 years that a final decree was obtained, when the amount payable to the charity was fixed at 3,160*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.*, which was thereupon invested in the purchase of 3,981*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the Rev. John Toogood, Edward Hannam, William Bell, and Henry Biging. From this sum there was then deducted 350*l.* stock to pay the legacy-duty, leaving the remainder, 3,631*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, the present amount, which still stands in the same names, producing annual dividends to the amount of 108*l.* 19*s.*

The distribution commenced at Christmas 1823, and has been since continued in the same manner. An abatement having been made from the total amount, the sum of 15*l.* only is applied in the purchase of quartern loaves, which are distributed on St. Thomas's day amongst all the poor of the parish. In 1835, 800 quartern loaves of 4½*d.* each were purchased and given away, those having large families receiving as many as four, single persons one.

The remainder of the money is applied in paying 5*s.* a-week each to as many poor men or women, selected by the trustees, as the fund will permit.

These are persons of good character belonging to the parish upwards of 60 years of age, men or women, and are continued for life in the receipt, except in case of misbehaviour. If a married man has received the charity, his widow is generally continued. Those who have been in the receipt of parish relief are never appointed.

A salary of 3*l.* 3*s.* is allowed to a person for making the payments to the poor every Monday morning; 5*s.* is paid to the overseer for attending to give away the bread, and 1*s.* for a fire.

Gillingham.

No other expenses are incurred. The lists of the names are preserved, and the accounts, which are very regularly kept, are made up on St. Thomas's day.

Wyndham's Charity.

Wyndham's Charity.

It is stated in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 that Judge Wyndham, in 1684, gave, by Will, a rent-charge of 10*s.*, payable out of his lands at Silton for the poor of this parish.

The present proprietor of the farm from which this payment is stated to have been made is the Duke of Somerset, but nothing has been received on account of it for 30 years, and it is now understood to be resisted by his grace's agent on the ground of want of notice at the time of purchase.

Allotment Lands.

Allotment Lands.

Charles Prince of Wales (afterwards King Charles I.), lord of the manor and forest of Gillingham, by a commission bearing date 25th February, 22nd James I. (1624), authorized Sir James Fullerton, Sir Thomas Fanshaw, his surveyor-general, and four others, to treat and compound with the freeholders, copyholders, cottagers, and others, claiming common of pasture or other profit in the said forest, and to assign allotments to them, and to take the tenants' assent to the improvement of the forest, to set out highways, and do other necessary things, according to the articles thereunto annexed.

By the articles the commissioners were ordered (amongst other things) especially to take into consideration the prince's charitable care to provide for the poor sort of commoners, inhabitants in or about the said forest, and to make allotments for cottagers in or bordering on the forest; and also to consider whether some proportion of the residue of the soil thereof, assigned to the use of the prince, should be needful to be granted for terms of years or otherwise, for the poor inhabiting in the lordship of Gillingham and Meere, towards a stock and maintenance of the poor in those places, which should best agree with the honour of the prince and the necessity of those places.

The deed of disafforestation by the commissioners (of which a copy was produced to us) contains the following allotment to the poor inhabitants of Gillingham:—All that parcel of waste land, containing by estimation 61 acres or thereabouts, being parcel of the demesne lands of the King, within the forest aforesaid, lying together and being and abutting upon the close of William Shepperd, and the poor cottagers upon the waste; the enclosed land of Richard Perne, on the south part; several parcels of land, by virtue of the commission, set out to Peter Greene and John Rowdon, on the west part; the lands of the said John Rowdon, and parcel of the lands, by virtue of the commission, set out to Lord Stourton, and upon an allotment of John Butts, on the north part; and the lands of the King on the east; which said 61 acres of land were, by virtue of the commission aforesaid, set out to the said poor inhabitants for their portions and allotments.

The documents relating to the manor of Gillingham have been examined, but afford no grounds for believing that the allotment above mentioned was ever vested in trustees for the use of the poor.

There is in the possession of the Marquis of Westminster a parcel of land, which has always borne the name of the Poor's Allotment, comprising about 60 acres, lying between Woodwater Farm on the south, and certain crown lands, which, in the survey made for the disafforestation, are called "Launde," and are still called "Lawn," on the east, and waste lands on Bowridge Hill on the west. A part is let, with a small quantity of other land, to Noah March, and the residue (also with other lands) to the executors of the late Thomas White. The land has been neglected, and is not worth above 10*s.* per acre. It is detached from the demesne lands of the manor, with which it has always been considered to pass.

The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 state (doubtless in reference to the above allotment) that, in 1624, land was given to the use of the poor by some instrument unknown, at that time (1786) yielding 42*l.* per annum. The lands in question, though always called the Poor's Allotments, seem not to have been subject to any payment of money, or of any other description, to the poor; certainly not in the time of the Marquis of Westminster, nor of Sir Francis Sykes, the late proprietor, from whom Lord Westminster was a purchaser, paying the full value of the land as freehold.

It was stated that a payment of seven groats each used about 50 years ago to be made to two old men out of the poor's rate, under the name of allotment money, and that this payment was originally made by the lord of the manor, and discontinued, and subsequently made by the overseers. There is, however, no evidence to connect this payment (supposing it to be correctly stated) with the land called the Allotments. In the absence of further information, it does not appear that the title of the present possessor can be impugned with a probability of success on the part of the charity.

HAMLET OF BOURTON.

Bourton.

Allotment Lands.

Allotment Lands.

By the deed of disafforestation of the forest of Gillingham, above in part abstracted, the commissioners allotted to the poor of Bourton a parcel of waste land, containing by estimation 10 acres or thereabouts, being parcel of the demesne lands of the King within the forest of Bourton.

Allotment Lands. continued.

Gillingham, lying together and abutting upon parcel of the lands by virtue of the said commission set out to Christopher Dirdo on the south, the lands of William Bishop and Andrew Cox on the west, the tenement of Andrew Cox on the north, and the highway between Gillingham and Mere on the east, which 10 acres, by virtue of the said commission, were assigned to the said poor of Bourton for their portion and allotment.

These lands are held under the manor, and the successive sets of trustees have been from time to time admitted by copy of court-roll.

The last admission took place on the 4th November 1796, when Giles Jupe, described as the surviving trustee of the lands therein mentioned, for the use of the poor of Bourton, being 10 acres, which lands were, on the disafforestation of the forest of Gillingham, allotted for the better support of the poor of Bourton, by the royal gift of King Charles I., then lord of the said manor and forest, surrendered the same to the use of Henry Biging, William Bell, William Jupe, and James Parratt, who were thereupon admitted to hold the same by the yearly rent of 5*s.*, at the fine of 10*s.* No trusts are declared; but the practice has always been to apply the rent for the benefit of the second poor, at the discretion of the trustees.

The lands consist of four closes of pasture, of indifferent quality, situate at Huntingford, in the parish of Gillingham, containing 10A. 20P., let to Noah March, at a clear rent of 14*l.*

The rent is paid to Mr. Bell, one of the trustees, by whom, together with Mr. Jupe and Mr. Biging, it is given away, about Lady Day, to the second poor of the parish, in sums varying from 5*s.* to 25*s.*, according to their necessities and to their characters. There was in April 1835 a balance of 5*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.* in hand.

PARISH OF MOTCOMBE.

ALLOTMENT LANDS.

Motcombe.

Allotment Lands.

By the deed of disafforestation of the forest of Gillingham, mentioned in our report of the charities of that parish, the commissioners set out to the parochial poor of Motcombe a parcel of waste land, containing by estimation 16 acres or thereabouts, being parcel of the demesne lands of the King within the forest aforesaid, lying together and abutting upon the churchyard of Motcombe and the glebe-lands within the parish of Motcombe on the east; one parcel of the lands by virtue thereof set out to Richard Snook and Nicholas Bowne on the south; and one parcel of the lands by virtue thereof set out to William Hussey on the west; which 16 acres, by virtue of the said commission, were set out to the poor of Motcombe through the special grace, piety, and charity of the King, for the good relief and maintenance of the said poor for ever.

These lands have always been considered as vested in the owner of Motcombe House, formerly possessed by the Whitaker family, but now by Earl Grosvenor. They consist of six parcels of land, of which five, comprising together 11 A. 1 R. 35 P., are occupied by Samuel Mells, as yearly tenant, at a rent of 12*l.* 7*s.*; and one close, comprising 4A. 0R. 6P., is occupied by Stephen Arnold, at a rent of 4*l.* 18*s.*, exclusive of 4*s.* allowed for land-tax.

The land is let and the rents received by his lordship, and the latter are distributed by his steward on St. Thomas's Day annually at the church, to the most deserving of the second poor, having regard to their characters and circumstances. The list at St. Thomas's Day 1835 included the names of 39 persons, to whom 10*s.* each was given.

WYKES'S CHARITY.

Wykes's Charity.

Frances Wykes, by Will, bearing date 26th June 1738, gave to her cousin, Richard Wykes, 100*l.* for such poor persons in Motcombe who neither pay nor receive any parochial relief, to have yearly from thence 10*s.* apiece, as he and the Rev. Mr. Oliver, then curate of Motcombe, should think most proper, and to be perpetually secured for that purpose in such manner as the said Richard Wykes should think fit.

In the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 it is stated that, in respect of this legacy, a sum of 4*l.* a-year was secured by a rent-charge vested in Richard Ewin.

The yearly sum of 4*l.* is paid by the tenant of a farm, of about 100 acres, called Short's Green, now the property of the Marquis of Westminster, upon which the payment is considered to be charged, and is distributed by Mr. Ullett (the steward of his lordship) on St. Thomas's Day to eight of the second poor, 10*s.* each; the most infirm and aged are selected, being usually the same persons who receive the income of the allotment lands.

FEOFFEES' LAND.

Feoffees' Land.

The lands which pass by this name appear to have been formerly under the control of the feoffees of the Gillingham lands, and to have been included (at least in part) in the decree of 1598 before-mentioned. When the management was first committed to a body of trustees within the parish of Motcombe, which is in the liberty of Gillingham, does not appear. The lands are held by copy of court-roll, under a small quit-rent to the Marquis of Westminster.

The present trustees, who were admitted in November 1834, are the Earl Grosvenor, Charles Bowles, George Thomas, Edward Hannam, William Read Bell, George Case, William Toogood, Benjamin Baverstock, and Samuel Hall.

The lands comprise nine detached parcels, principally pasture, occupied by eight different tenants, together with a workhouse and garden, held by the parish officers, the whole containing 11A. 0R. 1P.

Motcombe.

These are let at rack-rents to the undermentioned tenants, as follows:—

The workhouse was built between 30 and 40 years ago, upon the feoffees consenting to demise the land for a term of 500 years, from 25th March 1806, at the rent of 4*l.*, with a clause empowering the parish officers at any time to pull down the house, and to dispose of the materials for their own benefit.

The rent is much more than the value of the site, if the buildings were removed.

Besides the above property there are a number of cottages, with gardens to each, of which there is no doubt that some formerly belonged to, and that the rest are built upon land which formerly belonged to, this charity, but which have long been and still are in the possession of various persons, who claim, by length of occupation, to have acquired freehold titles.

They have, for the most part, been made the subjects of purchase and of transfer, by deed and even by Will, and no acknowledgment of the feoffee's title can be traced to have been made in respect of the greater part of them for a long period, in some instances much exceeding 60 years, and only in the few instances hereafter mentioned (so far as came to our knowledge) within 20 years.

The following is a list of the premises in question:—

1. A cottage and garden, containing about 15 perches, near the church at Motcombe, in the occupation of Meshack Moore. The cottage was built by himself upon land purchased from Thomas Lewis, who bought from two families, named Clarke and Extance, each of whom are stated to have been in possession about 60 years. Clarke's premises had, however, been repeatedly repaired at the expense of the charity, as the accounts show; 39*l.* was the price paid by Moore, but 4*l.* 10*s.* was returned to him in respect of the next cottage, which was claimed by and given up to the feoffees.

2. Cottage and garden, occupied by John Bartley. This person admitted, upon our examination, that he had been put into possession, as a tenant, in 1830, by Mr. George Case (a feoffee), who had repaired the premises for him. He agreed to become the tenant of the feoffees in future. The premises are not worth above 50*s.* per annum, and he had held a wrongful possession, apparently in the belief that the feoffees would not think their right worth enforcing at the expense of an ejectment.

3. Cottage and garden, occupied by Titus Hunt.
4. Ditto — George Harridge.
5. Ditto — Thomas Coward.
6. Ditto — Charles Martin.
7. Ditto — John Lear.
8. Ditto — Edward Wilkin.
9. Ditto — Thomas Wilkins.
10. Ditto — Thomas Extance.
11. Ditto — William Brickell.
12. Ditto — William Blandford.
13. Ditto — Stephen Bartley.
14. Ditto — William Goddard.

The above are all old encroachments, but the four cottages last-mentioned are recently built by the occupiers, having been burnt down.

15. Garden, in the occupation of Charles Lear. A cottage on the premises has been burnt down, but not rebuilt.

16. Garden, held by George Chubb.

17, 18, 19. Three cottages and gardens at Enmore Green, in the possession of the above-named Thomas Lewis. This person made two purchases from different members of a family named Adams, and claims to hold as a purchaser for valuable consideration, without notice. Upon our inquiry, however, it was positively sworn that Samuel Adams (one of the vendors to Lewis), at the instance of Mr. Case, one of the feoffees, agreed in January 1821 (with another person, named John Alford) to attorn tenant to the feoffees, and to pay a rent of 10*s.*, and that, in consideration of this agreement, Adams's cottage was repaired at the expense of the charity; and that, upon its coming to the knowledge of the feoffees that Lewis (then an attorney's clerk in Shaftesbury) was dealing for the premises, he was shown the document purporting to be the attornment of Adams and Alford, and was distinctly apprized of the claim of the charity. Lewis stated himself to have paid 40*l.* to Samuel Adams for the cottage, and from 15 to 20 perches of ground, and to have expended about 120*l.* on the premises, which are now worth about 200*l.*

Motcombe.

20, 21. Two cottages and gardens, in the occupation of Giles Alford, by whom they were built.

22. Cottage and garden, occupied by Jacob Alford.

23. Ditto John Alford.

24. Ditto George Chitty, purchased from William Aldridge, whose family had been in possession for three generations.

25. Two cottages and gardens, occupied by John Gray.

26. Cottage and garden in Enmore Green, held by Harry Huse. This person admitted, upon his examination, that he was put into possession by Thomas Burt and Thomas Broadway, two of the feoffees, above 20 years ago, but insisted on his right to the possession as he had paid no acknowledgment. On one occasion a considerable outlay on his cottage took place at the expense of the charity, the roof having fallen in. This possession being merely permissive cannot, it would seem, give an adverse title.

27. Cottage and garden, occupied by Mrs. Case.

28. Ditto James Aldridge.

29. Ditto George Chitty.

30. Ditto Giles Aldridge.

31. Ditto William Smith.

32. Ditto George Ridgeley.

The six last-mentioned tenements stand on land which is stated to have been held, at least for two generations, by the family of Aldridge.

It was also suggested that there is a piece of ground in the parish which belongs to this charity, and was formerly separated by the remains of a hedge from an adjoining farm, belonging to Mr. Orde, but which has been thrown into that estate. The boundaries were pointed out with sufficient precision, but no documents were produced, and the evidence fell far short of proving any title in the feoffees, who were not shown ever to have received any rent or acknowledgment for the land, and, as the alleged encroachment is of above 50 years' standing, it appears needless to prosecute the inquiry. The circumstances attending the purhase by Thomas Lewis from Samuel Adams, and the few other cases in which the laches of the trustees has left any remedy, we have thought it right to certify to his Majesty's Attorney-general.

The lands are subject to a quit-rent of 1*s.* 10*d.* Occasional disbursements for repairs are also made from the rents.

Out of the residue a distribution is made at Lady Day, or soon afterwards, to all the second poor of the parish, in sums varying from 5*s.* to 10*s.*

On Whit Tuesday 1835 there was a balance in hand of 27*l.* 19*s.*, which has been reserved as a fund towards the law expenses anticipated in the attempt to recover a portion, at least, of the alienated lands.

ARCHER'S CHARITY.

Stower Provost.

Archer's Charity.

In the parish register of Stower Provost is an entry, signed by Benjamin Archer, a former rector, bearing date 18th September 1764, stating that, having a design of leaving to the value of 200*l.* to be laid out in the purchase of land for the better encouragement of two or more honest and industrious persons who should be willing and able to teach poor children of his parishes to read, in case he should not live to make such purchase, he trusted to the integrity of his daughter and executrix to carry his design into execution, and desired that, until such purchase could be made, the interest of 200*l.*, being placed out on Government security, might be regularly paid to the same uses to which the rent of the estate would have been paid; the minister of the parishes for the time being to place and displace both the teachers and scholars, and to fix and ascertain the number of each as he should think fit.

In respect of this gift a sum of 200*l.* Three per Cent. South Sea Annuities, was transferred into the names of the Rev. John Tomkyns, the late rector, now rector of Greenford, Middlesex, William Hunt, and William Burlton.

Mr. Tomkyns has quitted the parish, but the dividends are still received by Messrs. Hoare under a power of attorney from the above-named parties, and are paid to Mr. Slingsby, the present rector, every half-year in April and October.

They are applied by him in aid of a school in Stower Provost for young children of that parish and Todber, which is supported chiefly at his own expense; there are no children taught specifically in respect of Mr. Archer's gift.

The school is open to all who choose to come, the rector paying 2*d.* a-week for each child. There are now about 30 in the school. SAMUEL SMITH.

TUCKER'S CHARITY.

Beaminster.

Tucker's Charity.

Frances Tucker, by Will, dated 8th December 1682, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury 2d June 1689, after giving certain legacies, devised as follows: "And as for the other part of my farm called South Mapperton, by estimation 90*l.* per annum, or thereabouts, my Will is that it shall be disposed of and settled as followeth (that is to say), Imprimis, For the maintenance of a schoolmaster (successively to be chosen by my executors, or the major part of them) I give 20*l.* per annum for ever, which schoolmaster shall have 20 of the poorest boys of the parish of Beaminster aforesaid committed to his charge, and shall be bound to take care of their manners, to catechise them, to teach them to read, to write, and, in some competent measure, to cast an account. Item, My Will is that 30*l.* per annum be for ever employed by my executors for the binding out apprentices to some honest calling three or more of the said boys respectively, as far as the money will reach, whereof one at least, if not two, shall be every year sent to sea, when they are fitted for it, and all those boys before mentioned to be successively appointed and chosen by my said executors; and my Will further is that, if the aforesaid schoolmaster shall be negligent, lewd, or debauched (which God forbid), then my said executors shall have full power to deprive him absolutely of his place, employment, and stipend, and to set and appoint another in his room by such election as is beforementioned; and I do hereby desire and empower my said executors to visit the said school when they see cause, and to take care that all things relating to it be managed and ordered soberly and piously in the fear of God, for the better advantage of the aforesaid poor children, according to the true intent and meaning of this my Will and donation." The testatrix further gave out of her said lands, by the description of South Mapperton, 30*l.* per annum to one Susannah Hood, for her life, and after her decease the testatrix willed that so much of her land by yearly value as the aforesaid annuity of 30*l.* was supposed to arise out of, and not the annuity itself, free from charge, should be thus disposed of, viz. one-third part of the said lands for the benefit of the aforesaid school for ever for the binding out one or more boys apprentice, unless only in such a year wherein a new executor or trustee should be chosen, and then it should be paid to him according to her intention thereinafter declared to that purpose. And the testatrix gave the two remaining thirds of the said lands to her cousin, Elizabeth Wood, during her natural life, if she should happen to survive or outlive her husband, and not otherwise, and after for such pious uses as she should appoint to her executors. And the testatrix further directed that, on the failure of any one of the trustees of her Will, the majority of the survivors should from time to time appoint another in his place, and ordered that the sum of 10*l.* should be paid to each such trustee for his own use at his first entrance upon his trust.

Beaminster.

The trustees and executors appointed by the testatrix having refused to act, proceedings were taken in Chancery, and, after considerable expense and delay, Samuel Hood, clerk, and four others, were, by the decree of the Court, dated 12th November, 3 James II., appointed to prove the Will of testatrix, and act as trustees thereof, three of whom accordingly took out letters of administration, with the Will annexed, on the 28th June 1689.

From the year 1718, the succession of trustees has been regularly kept up. The last conveyance was by indentures of lease and release dated 6th and 7th January 1828, whereby the premises were vested in Sir William Oglander, of Parnham, bart., Samuel Cox, of Beaminster, esq., the Rev. William James Brookland, of Netherbury, clerk, and Peter Cox, of Beaminster, aforesaid, gent., (all of whom are still living) upon the trusts declared by the testatrix.

The estate belonging to this charity is situated at Mapperton Marsh, in the parish of Beaminster, and consists of the following particulars:—

| | | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| One close, called Broad Road | pasture | 3 | 1 | 11 |

There is a small quantity of timber on the estate fit to cut.

The farm is at present tenanted by Absolom Chick, who holds it from year to year, at the rent of 160*l.* (which is considered the fair value), subject to the usual deductions.

The estate has produced the above sum from the year 1824, prior to which period the income fluctuated very much.

Sums have been occasionally derived from the sale of timber, and carried, at the time, to the general account of the rents and profits of the estate. From the year 1799 to December 1833 the trustees have realized 456*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.* from this source.

Beaminster.

The rent and proceeds from the sale of timber are received by Mr. Thomas Fox, of Beaminster, the clerk to the charity, and are by him applied in the following manner:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Salary to schoolmaster | 50 | 0 | 0 |
| Ditto, ditto, for keeping the school account, and account of coals purchased, called "the Magazine Account" | 2 | 2 | 0 |
| To Mr. Fox, as clerk to the charity | 1 | 1 | 0 |
| For coals to be distributed among the poor | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| Allowance to tenants for repairs, &c., averaging about (per annum) | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| Disbursements in respect of school (about) | 7 | 0 | 0 |
| Premiums and law-charges for binding apprentices | 63 | 0 | 0 |
| Lord's rent for school | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| To the parish clerk for giving notice of meeting of trustees | 0 | 1 | 0 |

To which must be added the occasional outgoing for the allowances to the trustees on entering upon their office, and the charges of preparing the deeds on their appointment; when these extraordinary expenses occur the number of boys apprenticed is decreased in proportion.

In the year 1746, there being no proper school-room for the boys or residence for the master, the trustees, having a balance of the charity funds in their hands, purchased of William Vile and Sarah his wife, and Susannah Sanways, for the sum of 45*l.*, certain copyhold premises in Beaminster, which were duly surrendered to them on the 24th June 1746, by the description of "All that dwelling-house situate, lying, and being near the churchyard in Beaminster aforesaid, together with the out-houses, and buildings, and garden-plot, thereunto belonging, and also a way, path, or passage, leading from the churchyard by the front of the said house to the river, containing in breadth six feet, and lying between the said house, Mrs. Saunder's orchard, and the orchard on the west side of the said dwelling-house, all which said dwelling-house and premises are lying within the said manor of Beaminster Prima, and part or parcel thereof."

In the year 1814, these premises being in an extremely dilapidated state, and no longer fit for the purposes of instruction, the trustees sold them for the sum of 200*l.*, and purchased of S. Cox, esq., a dwelling-house, malt-house, and about half an acre of ground, for 500*l.*; a further sum of about 150*l.* was expended in repairing and altering the premises, making the total outlay about 650*l.*; the purchase-money (500*l.*) was paid by instalments out of the surplus income of the charity funds; the last payment being made in the year 1821. The surrender bears date 29th August 1815, and the trustees were admitted on the 14th December 1821, the whole of the purchase-money being then paid.

These new premises, as altered, comprise a school-room, capable of accommodating about 110 boys, a dwelling-house for the master, a garden, orchard, and play-ground, the whole containing about three roods of land.

The rent of the farm having considerably increased since the decease of the testatrix, the number of scholars prescribed by her is no longer adhered to; and at the present time there are on the books of the school the names of 111 boys, 80 of whom regularly attend the school for instruction.

The income of the master has been consequently increased, and now amounts to 50*l.* per annum.

No application to the trustees is necessary in order to obtain admission into this school: the children of parents of all religious denominations are received upon presenting themselves to the master. Reading, writing, and arithmetic, and the church of England catechism, are taught upon the Madras system.

Books and stationery are supplied to the scholars free of expense, the cost of which to the charity is about 4*l.* per annum.

The boys quit the school about the age of 11 or 12 years, being about the period at which they are generally required by their parents to assist them in their agricultural employments.

Permission is given to the master to take scholars on his own account, but the present master, Richard Ames, who has held the situation three years, has not availed himself of this privilege.

The second object of this charity, viz. that which relates to the putting out apprentices, is conducted in the following manner:—

Persons who are desirous of having their children apprenticed cause their names to be entered in a list which is annually laid before the trustees at a meeting held about Christmas (of which public notice is given). The trustees select from this list those whom they consider the most worthy objects, their choice being directed by the situation in life and circumstances of the parents. Two boys are always bound to a master mariner, when so many can be found willing to adopt that trade; but this is not always the case; a general dislike to go to sea prevailing amongst the youths of this district. Where the Will cannot be strictly complied with in this respect its provisions are adhered to as nearly as circumstances will permit; the wishes of the boys and their parents being always consulted both in the selection of the trade and the choice of the master.

Beaminster.

The trustees are guided in the number of boys apprenticed by the state of the charity funds, the average being from four to five every year, and the premium paid with each 15*l.*; one moiety of this sum is paid on the execution of the indentures, and the residue at the expiration of the term.

The third division of this charity, viz. the 20*l.* directed by the testatrix to be expended for charitable purposes, is annually laid out in the purchase of coals, which are resold to the poor of the parish (generally on every Saturday throughout the year) at a reduced price; the principal object being to save to the poor the charge of carriage, which in this part of the country averages 6*d.* per bushel.

The 10*l.* paid to each trustee on his entering upon his office has been, in most cases, expended by him in some improvement to the town.

At the last audit of the accounts in December 1836, the balance in the hands of the accountant was found to be 35*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*

Beaminster Almshouses.

Beaminster Almshouses.

We could not discover, from any authentic document, the origin of this endowment; but it is stated in Hutchins's History of Dorset, that Sir John Strode, knt., by a deed of gift, executed by him in or about the year 1627, gave two-thirds of Bilshay Farm (subject to the payment, out of the whole farm, of 6*l.* per annum to the church of Symondsbury) for the support and maintenance of his almshouse in the parish of Beaminster.

It appears from a manuscript book in the hand-writing of George Strode, esq., the grandson of the donor, that the farm then consisted of a messuage or tenement, barn, stable, and certain closes of land, containing, by estimation,—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Of arable | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| | 50 | 0 | 0 |

The present description of that portion of Bilshay Farm which belongs (as to two-thirds) to this charity, is, by a survey made in 1735, as follows:—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| House, orchard, barton, and garden | 1 | 0 | 14 |
| Barley Close, arable | 8 | 1 | 9 |
| Colley Close, ditto | 7 | 1 | 4 |
| Dawtery Close, ditto | 9 | 1 | 20 |
| Yonder Hanging Close, pasture | 2 | 0 | 39 |
| Plain Close, arable | 2 | 1 | 4 |
| Pond Close, pasture | 2 | 1 | 19 |
| Middle Hanging, ditto | 2 | 3 | 6 |
| Mead, meadow | 3 | 1 | 31 |
| Ditto, ditto | 1 | 0 | 1 |
| Moor, ditto | 1 | 3 | 24 |
| | 43 | 3 | 37 |

The remaining third part of this estate is now the property of Sir William Oglander, of Parnham, bart., the representative of the Strode family, who is also in possession of the two-thirds belonging to the charity, and has let the whole, together with other lands belonging to himself, to Thomas Hussey, of Bilshay, for the term of eight years, from the 6th of April 1833. The rent paid by Hussey is 140*l.*, of which 35*l.* is considered to be in respect of the two-thirds of Bilshay Farm belonging to the charity.

The garden attached to the almshouses is let to Mr. John Hamilton, of Beaminster, clothier, at the yearly rent of 1*l.* 10*s.*

The account-books of this charity show that Sir William Oglander and his predecessors have not regarded the amount actually payable to the almshouse, but have always supplied what was necessary for the repairs of the building and the maintenance of its inmates, there being no other funds applicable to this purpose. The average amount paid yearly, for the last 10 years, for the maintenance of the almspeople, has been about 36*l.*

The repairs of Bilshay Farm, and of the almshouses, have always been borne by Sir W. Oglander and his predecessors, without making any demand for it upon this charity-fund, as also the charge for medical attendance.

The persons maintained in the almshouses are six in number, either men or women, who receive each 1*s.* per week, meat, bread, fuel, shoes, stockings, coats, and cloaks.

The inmates are chosen, by Sir William Oglander, from distressed persons of a better class, who have not generally received parochial aid; and the supplies are apportioned among them at his discretion.

The ancient Bilshay Farm (being the 43A. 3R. 37P.) will in future be let at a distinct rent, in order that the sum actually payable to this charity may be clearly ascertained.

Adams's Charity.

Adams's Charity.

Gilbert Adams, mercer, by Will, dated 20th February 1626, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 28th June 1627, gave to the poor of the parish of Beaminster the sum of 200*l.*, to be bestowed and employed as his executors should think fit. The testator also, by his said Will, gave, for the building of a house for the poor of Beaminster, 40*l.*; and, for the maintenance of the same house, 20*l.*, according to the discretion of his executors.

Adams's Charity, continued.

By deed of feoffment dated 18th January 1628 (3rd Charles I.), John Hallet and others, in consideration of 144*l.*, part of the money to that end given by the said Gilbert Adams, conveyed to Harry Hillary and six others, and their heirs, a messuage or tenement, and two orchards and a garden thereunto adjoining, situate in Allens Loscombe, in the parish of Powerstock, in the county of Dorset; together with a close of pasture, called Gort, containing, by estimation, three yards; and one close of meadow, called Park Mead, containing, by estimation, one acre; and another close of meadow, called Broad Mead, containing one acre and a half; one close, called the Moor, containing one acre and a half; one close of pasture, called the West Croft, containing, by estimation, four acres; one close of pasture, called the Middle Dodden, containing three acres; one other close of pasture, called the West Dodden, containing four acres; and one other close thereunto adjoining, called Rudge Close, containing one acre; to and for the relief of the poor people born and dwelling within the town of Beaminster.

In a memorandum-book kept by the above-named George Strode, after stating the purchase above recited, is an entry in the following words, and in his handwriting:—

"And it further appears that a house was bought, and poor people placed in it, to live rent free, with the money left by Gilbert Adams to build and support a house for that use. This house being very ruinous, so as likely to fall down, it was then rebuilt; the expense of which amounted to l. This house, after being rebuilt, was employed as a workhouse; and all the poor of the parish that wanted relief were taken in, and employed, and maintained."

The ground upon which the present workhouse is erected is copyhold, parcel of the manor of Beaminster Parsonatus, otherwise Netherbury in Ecclesia. There does not appear to be any evidence of the purchase of this ground, the court-rolls of this manor not extending further back than the year 1649.

The last admission of trustees to this property was on the 12th May 1809, when George Notley and John Hallett were admitted to the premises by the description of "all that tenement containing a dwelling-house, with the backside garden and other appurtenances to the same belonging, situate in East-street, in Beaminster, in the county of Dorset, and being parcel of the manor aforesaid; which said premises are now used and called by the name of the 'Workhouse' for the poor belonging to the said parish of Beaminster," upon trust for the parishioners of the parish of Beaminster, and to be employed as and for a workhouse for the poor of the said parish as aforesaid.

Mr. Notley is dead; and Mr. Hallett, the surviving trustee, proposes to surrender the premises to two new trustees.

The present trustees of the Loscombe estate are Sir William Oglander, bart., Samuel Cox, Giles Russell, Thomas Fox, Peter Cox, and James Daniel, who were appointed, by deed, 29th May 1822.

It appears, from a survey made in the year 1776, that the workhouse and garden occupy a plot containing 3R. 31P.

The estate at Loscombe, purchased for the better maintenance of the workhouse and the relief of the poor, consists, at present, of the following closes of land:—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Broad Mead, meadow | 1 | 0 | 28 |
| Prunico, or Park Mead, ditto | 1 | 1 | 7 |
| Gort, pasture | 1 | 0 | 18 |
| Aldermoor, ditto | 2 | 0 | 35 |
| Bean Close, or West Croft, ditto | 3 | 2 | 17 |
| Dotton and Ridge Close, ditto | 9 | 0 | 34 |
| | 18 | 2 | 19 |

This farm is held by Mr. Robert Symes, as tenant-at-will, at the yearly rent of 24*l.*, at which sum it has been let since the year 1805.

The rent is paid to Mr. Samuel Cox, as treasurer, who expends the amount in the repairs and improvement of the workhouse. No portion is, however, applied towards the maintenance or relief of the inmates. There is now a balance in hand of 8*l.* 19*s.* 5*d.*

HILLARY'S CHARITY.

Hillary's Charity.

The Rev. William Hillary, of Minestead, in the county of Hants., clerk, by Will, dated 22nd October 1712, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury 2nd March 1713, devised a parcel of land, called Ernely Wood, containing, by estimation, 61 acres, lying in Benvil, in the parish of Corscombe, in the county of Dorset (after the determination of a certain term of 99 years from the period of his decease), to 12 of the poorest distressed families of the parish of Beaminster, for ever; and he appointed William Milles, William Shillcat, Launcelot Milles, and Thomas Philps, alias Fitt, and their heirs, assistants and overseers of his Will; and directed that they and their heirs, with the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the said parish of Beaminster for the time being, or the major part of them, should receive the rents and profits of the said estate, and yearly distribute the same, equally, on St. Thomas's Day, among such poor distressed families of the parish as they should consider proper, not receiving parochial aid; and declared that, upon the death of either of his said trustees, the survivors, with the churchwardens and overseers, and the major part of the 12 poor families that should receive benefit by his Will, should be at liberty to appoint other trustees in the place of those so dying, to the end that there might always be four trustees for the disposal of the profits arising from his said estate of Ernely Wood.

The term of 99 years, created by the testator, expired in the month of March 1813.

Beaminster.

The then occupier, one John Gill, taking advantage of a doubt, as to the period of expiration, refused to yield up the premises; an information was filed against him, on the relation of Sir William Oglander, bart., Samuel Cox, John Banger Russell, and Richard Bridge, four of the principal inhabitants of the parish of Beaminster; and a decree was obtained, in November 1816, referring it to the Master, among other things, to approve a scheme for the management of the charity, and to appoint trustees. The Master made his report, certifying that he had appointed the above-named gentlemen trustees, and approving of a scheme. This was confirmed by a decree on further directions, in August 1819, when the Lord Chancellor declared the above-named parishioners to be the trustees of the charity, and directed the possession of the premises to be delivered up to them; and that they, with the churchwardens and overseers, should receive the rents thereof, and should distribute them on St. Thomas's Day, to such 12 poor distressed families of the parish as should not, during the preceding year, have received parochial relief; and, upon the death of any trustee, it was ordered that a new trustee should be elected by the surviving trustees and the churchwardens and overseers of the parish; and that the choice should be then submitted to the heads of the said 12 families, or the majority of them, for their approval or dissent.

The estate is still called Ernely Wood, and is situated at Benvill, in Corscombe parish, in the county of Dorset. It is divided into five fields; one field being a close of meadow land, called Seven Acre Mead, containing, by admeasurement, 7A. 3R. 14P.; a close of pasture land, called Acre, containing, by admeasurement, 3R. 24P.; a close of pasture land, called Eight Acres, containing, by admeasurement, 6A. 0R. 20P.; a close of pasture land, called West Twenty Acres, containing, by admeasurement, 17A. 2R. 18P.; and a close of pasture land, called East Twenty Acres, containing, by admeasurement, 17A. 0R. 33P.

The land has been held about 10 years by Mr. Bishop, as tenant from year to year, at the annual rent of 35*l.*, with the exception of the first year, when he paid but 30*l.* 35*l.* is considered the fair annual value. This rent is subject to the deduction of 1*l.* 9*s.* yearly for land-tax, and to the expense of repairing gates; the balance being the net income applicable to the purposes of the charity.

The Court of Chancery having ordered that the costs of all parties to the suit above mentioned, amounting to 256*l.*, should be paid out of the charity fund, the rent of the estate was appropriated, in the first instance, to the liquidation of this sum; in consequence of which the charity did not come into operation until the year 1823, when the first distribution took place.

The existence of this charity being well known in the parish of Beaminster, such of the poor as think themselves entitled make application to the churchwardens, who enter their names in a list, which is submitted by them to the trustees about the middle of December; and, by the churchwardens, overseers, and trustees, a selection is made from it of 12 of the most aged married persons, who have brought up the largest families, and have not received parochial relief within the preceding 12 months. Young people, or persons not having been married, or having received parish aid within the 12 months preceding, are never allowed to participate in the benefits of this charity.

The rent of the estate is received by Mr. Peter Cox, of Beaminster, one of the trustees, who divides the net proceeds, in equal shares, among the 12 persons selected as above stated, either in money, or the value in goods, at the discretion of the churchwardens, overseers, and trustees, and according to the exigencies of the recipients. The sum distributed to each person, during the last five years, was 2*l.* 15*s.* 11*d.* each year.

The present trustees are Sir William Oglander, bart., Samuel Cox, esq., Thomas Fox, gent., and James William Daniel, surgeon, who were appointed trustees of this charity by deed, dated 18th December 1828.

Keate's Charity.

Keate's Charity.

In Boswell's Civil Division of the County of Dorset it appears that Thomas Keate, mercer, by a nomination in writing, dated 10th May 1709, according to the custom of the manor of Beaminster Secunda, gave to one Bernard Newman a close of arable land, called Woodswater, containing one acre, more or less, with the appurtenances lying near Woodswater, and parcel of the said manor, in trust, that he should, out of the profits of the said close, the first Sunday in every calendar month, for ever, buy eight sixpenny wheaten loaves for eight of the poorest persons in Beaminster who should have the greatest need thereof, that did not receive any relief or pay of the parish; and, in case it should happen that the money raised out of the profits of the said close should not be sufficient to pay for the said loaves, that then the said loaves should not be given in time of harvest in such or any of the said years.

This land is still known by the above-mentioned description.

It is now the property of Mrs. Carter, of Bridport, and is in the occupation of Thomas House.

The annual rent-charge of 2*l.* 8*s.* is regularly paid to Mr. Swatridge, of Beaminster, the baker who supplies the bread.

The proprietor for the time being of Woodswater Close selects eight old persons (generally widows), among whom Mr. Swatridge distributes the bread, on the first day in every month, and has so done for the last 30 years, without any suspension. The recipients are continued on the list during life, and are not excluded on the ground of receiving parochial relief, although the testator directed that none such should be admitted.

In this, as in many other cases, we represented the expediency of confining the charity to those who lived independent of parochial aid.

Champion's (alias Clarke's) Charity.

Champion's Charity.

Francis Champion, alias Clarke, butcher, by a nomination in writing, dated 19th January 1741, according to the custom of the manor of Beaminster Secunda, gave to his nephew, Richard Dematt, the younger, a close called Culverhays, in Beaminster aforesaid, containing two acres, subject to the payment of 15*s.* at Christmas, yearly; and, after his decease, that the churchwardens of Beaminster for the time being, for ever, should purchase 30 loaves, to be distributed by them among such poor of the said parish as had no relief. Beaminster. Champion's Charity. continued.

The close of land above charged is described in the last surrender, dated 10th February 1806, as consisting of 2A. 2R. It is now the property of Mr. William Bishop Eveleigh, and is in the occupation of Mr. Thomas Bishop, of Beaminster.

This rent-charge has not been paid for 11 years past, in consequence, it is stated, of no demand having been made by the churchwardens for the amount. Mr. Eveleigh, however, admits the liability, and declares himself ready to pay the amount and the arrears when demanded.

Before the above-mentioned period, it appears that the rent-charge was regularly received by the churchwardens, and expended in the manner directed by the donor.

RUSSELL'S CHARITY.

Russell's Charity.

It is recorded in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786, that one Russell, at a time unknown, charged certain lands by his Will with a sum of 20*s.* yearly, for the benefit of the poor of this parish not receiving parochial relief.

In Boswell's Civil Division of the County of Dorset it is stated that 6*s.* 8*d.* was paid on account of this charge from 1766 to 1775, from which period the charity was then in arrear. We could not, however, ascertain that anything had ever been received from this charity in the parish.

PARISH OF NETHERBURY.

Netherbury.

For a series of years the funds of the several charitable institutions in this parish seem to have been more or less blended together, or rather the deficiency of the one to have been made up by the surplus income of the other; but for the last five years this practice has been discontinued, and the accounts at present appear to be more regularly and distinctly kept.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

Grammar School.

This charity is entered, in the Parliamentary Return of 1786, as an "Unknown Charity."

By an award, dated 3d January 1565 (7th Elizabeth), and made by Sir John Tregonwell, knt., George Rogers, esq., William Hody, esq., and Henry Hoskins, gent., arbitrators chosen on behalf of Hugh Horsford and William Thetcher, alias Richards, of Netherbury, of the one part, and certain persons therein named, parishioners of the same parish, of the other part, reciting that various disputes had arisen between the several parties respecting the right and title of two tenements, with the appurtenances, called Broadnam and Paradise, which were parcel of the manor of Slape, and whereof a grant by copy of court-roll had been made to the said John Horsford, William Thetcher, and John Crabb, for their lives, and the life of the longest liver of them, who, having been admitted tenants, had claimed to hold the same premises to their own use; but that the said churchwardens and parishioners affirmed that the said tenements were procured at the cost of the parish, and that the said John Horsford, William Thetcher, and John Crabb, and their assigns, and all claiming under them, were only trustees for the parish:

The arbitrators, by their said award, adjudged that the said two tenements, with their appurtenances, and every part thereof, should be and remain, "in the order, rule, setting, letting, and disposition of the churchwardens of the said parish for the time being, with the consent of the greatest part of the parishioners of the said parish, and the profits thereof, yearly coming and growing, to be employed to the use of a schoolmaster there to teach grammar, and to such other uses as should be thought most fit, meet, and beneficial, for the best advantage, benefit, and profit, of the said parish, and of all the inhabitants of the same, during the lives of the said Horsford and Thetcher, and of either of them, without the let or disturbance of them, or any person claiming by, from, or under them."

And the said arbitrators further awarded that the survivor of the said Horsford and Thetcher, upon reasonable request to them made by the said churchwardens for the time being, should surrender the said two tenements, and every part thereof, into the hands of the lord of the said manor, to the use of two or three such other persons as the said churchwardens, and the major part of the said parishioners, should nominate and appoint, according to their old ancient custom, as it had been then before there done, used, observed, and kept.

A small piece of ground, not quite an acre, was subsequently added to the Broadnam estate, being purchased from funds realized by the sale of an old poor-house in the parish, originally erected at the parish expense. The sale and purchase were made under the sanction of an order of the majority of the parishioners in vestry assembled.

The Broadnam estate, according to a recent survey, consists of the following plots of land:—

| | | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Yonder Mead | pasture | 3 | 2 | 21 |
| Woody Close | arable | 9 | 0 | 0 |

| Middle Mead | ditto | 4 | 0 | 3 |
| Broad Mead | arable | 9 | 1 | 19 |
| | | 54 | 0 | 30 |

This estate (the Broadnam) is let to Mr. James Major for seven years, from 6th April 1830, at the annual rent of 122*l.*

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| The Paradise estate is now held by Mr. John Guy for seven years, from 6th April 1830, at the yearly rent of 18*l.*, and consists of one piece of arable land, called "Plot," and containing | 1 | 2 | 37 |
| One other plot of arable land, called Four Acres, and containing | 3 | 2 | 17 |
| | 5 | 1 | 14 |

Both these rents are subject to the usual deductions for land-tax and repairs of fences, &c.

The present rental of these two farms (140*l.*) is paid half-yearly to the parish churchwarden, and by him applied in the following manner:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| To the master of the free grammar-school | 85 | 0 | 0 |
| For the lord's rent | 0 | 15 | 0 |
| For hauling charity coals | 14 | 0 | 0 |
| Occasional payments to the mistresses of five reading-schools | 17 | 0 | 0 |
| For repairs upon the farm and school-house, about, per annum. | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 136 | 15 | 0 |

Whatever surplus may remain is applied by the vestry as they think proper. Charitable purposes are ordinarily chosen, but a part has occasionally been appropriated to the general purposes of the parish.

At this school reading, writing, arithmetic, and the church catechism are taught upon the Madras system. All boys, being children of parishioners of Netherbury, are admissible without regard to their religious opinions, provided they can read a chapter in the Bible or New Testament; but every scholar is instructed in the Church of England catechism.

The Latin language has not been taught at this school within the last five years, such instruction not having been required.

The salary originally paid to the master was 30*l.* per annum. It was afterwards agreed by the vestry that an additional sum of 12*l.* per annum should be paid to him at the expiration of the year, provided he performed the duties of his office efficiently. By a book produced, containing the accounts of this charity from the year 1805, it appears that in that year the salary of the master was 60*l.* per annum, and it has been gradually increased to the present sum, 85*l.*, the advance keeping pace with the improvement in the funds of the charity.

Prior to the year 1833 there was no house upon the farm, and the farm being always let at a rack-rent, the estate was very much injured from the want of manure, the tenant always exhausting the land in order to meet the necessary outgoings. In the year 1833 a house was erected at an expense of about 200*l.*, and it is expected that the estate will, in future, produce almost the amount now paid, and the tenant be enabled to work the land more fairly.

A new house, and a school-room capable of accommodating about 60 boys, have also been erected near the church, in Netherbury (the old premises having fallen down), at an expense of about 100*l.*

The house contains seven rooms, and has a small kitchen-garden attached.

The trustees are Mr. John Clare and Mr. John Crode, both of Netherbury, who were admitted in the year 1824.

The number of scholars has gradually decreased within the last 35 years, owing, it is stated, to the circumstance of the small farmers requiring the assistance of their children on their farms, and a disinclination, on the part of the superior orders, to suffer their children to associate with those of the former class. It appears, from the school-lists of the last few years, that from Michaelmas to Lady-day about 30 boys attend the school, and that during the other half-year the number is generally reduced to about 20.

Mr. Puslow, the present master, has held the situation 25 years.

He is allowed by the trustees to take private scholars, but has none of this description at present.

Lake's Charity.

Lake's Charity.

Susanna Lake, by Will, dated 9th February 1691, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 2nd December 1692, gave 13 acres of land, lying at Combe, within the manor of Beaminster Secunda, in the said county of Dorset, in trust, for such poor people of the parish of Netherbury as the churchwardens for the time being should think fit. Netherbury.

The property in question consists of two closes of customary copyhold land, called by the names of Middle Hill and Higher Hill, containing, by estimation, 10 acres, and also another close, called Shackle Hill, containing, by estimation, three acres, the whole being situated at Combe, as before mentioned. From a late survey of the parish it appears that the real quantity (statute measure) is 11 acres, and which is subject to a fine, on death or alienation, of 1*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, together with an annual quit-rent of 2*s.*: the land-tax is redeemed. Lake's Charity, continued.

The present trustee is Mr. Robert Conway, of Netherbury.

This property is held by John Furmedge for seven years, from 6th April 1830, at the clear yearly rent of 22*l.*, which is considered a good rent. It has always been the custom to let this estate by auction.

The churchwardens receive the rent, and divide it (at no fixed period) among such of the second poor of the parish as make application for it, generally with the sanction of the vestry, who determine the mode in which the funds should be distributed and the sum to be allotted to each party.

BRODREPP'S CHARITY.

Robert Brodrepp, of Mapperton, in the county of Dorset, esq., by Will, dated about 1707, bequeathed to the poor of the parish of Netherbury the sum of 200*l.*, to be laid out, within one year next after his decease, for the clothing and binding out apprentices the poor children of the inhabitants of the said parish, and directed his executor to see the said sum of 200*l.* applied according to his directions, and to such persons and in such proportions and manner as his said executor should think fit. Brodrepp's Charity.

The testator died soon after the date of his Will, and his executor, alleging that there were very few persons in the parish of Netherbury who were entitled to the benefit of the above bequest, retained the whole sum in his hands and refused to invest it (as desired by the parish) without the sanction of the Court of Chancery.

An information was in consequence filed against him by the Attorney-general, at the relation of Daniel Herne and others, in Michaelmas term 1714, and, by a decree of the Master of the Rolls, dated 19th August 1715, it was ordered that the said sum of 200*l.* should be laid out in the purchase of lands, the interest and produce of which to be applied by the trustees thereof in clothing and apprenticing poor children, as directed by the testator.

By indenture of bargain and sale, dated 3d April 1721, William Hart, in consideration of 200*l.* (being the 200*l.* bequeathed by the above-named testator), conveyed to Peter Brice, clerk, vicar of Netherbury, Richard Hearne, churchwarden, and George Strode, and three others, overseers of the said parish, and their heirs, a messuage or tenement, called Furze Lease, situate within the parish of Netherbury aforesaid, together with seven closes, called respectively Dry Close, Barne Close, Church Path, Green Close, Wheat Close, alias Higher Plot, Bottom Mead, and Little Orchard, containing in the whole, by estimation, 15 acres, upon trust, to apply the rents and profits of the said premises, with the consent of the heir of the said Robert Brodrepp, deceased, and the minister, churchwardens, and overseers of the parish of Netherbury for the time being, or the major part of them, for the clothing and binding out apprentices poor children of the poor inhabitants of the parish, according to the directions of the said recited Will, and as the minister, churchwardens, and overseers of the said parish, or the major part of them, should think fit.

The estate conveyed by the above-abstracted deed consists, according to a recent survey of the parish, of two closes of arable land, one called Lower Furze Lease, containing 3A. 3R. 38P., the other known as Higher Furze Lease, and containing 4A. 0R. 16P.

The trustees of this charity are Henry Combe Compton, esq., the Rev. William James Brookland, John Hearn, Samuel Symes, John Clare, John Hearn, jun., and John C. Kiddle, who were appointed by deed, dated 21st August 1815.

The land is let to William Martin and James Dunham for seven years, from the 6th April 1830, at the yearly rent of 27*l.*, which is considered its full value.

The rent is paid to the churchwarden, who adds it to the rent-charge of 10*l.*, granted by Richard Gollop, as hereinafter mentioned.

This joint fund is applied for the purpose of clothing and binding out boys and girls apprentices. For many years a very considerable balance remained in the hands of the churchwardens, few children having been apprenticed, but within a period of about seven years the accumulated fund seems to have been applied towards the objects of the charity, and is now reduced to 146*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.*, which will be almost entirely exhausted when the balances due upon the existing apprenticeships are paid.

The number apprenticed between the years 1829 and 1835 inclusive has been 31. 15*l.* has been the usual premium, a part (generally the moiety) of which is paid at the commencement, and the remainder at the expiration, of the apprenticeship.

JAMES GOLLOP'S CHARITY.

For the foundation of this charity see Report of the devise by James Gollop to Queen Elizabeth's Hospital at Bristol, vol. 6, page 463, where the Will of the testator is fully set forth. J. Gollop's Charity.

It appears that James Gollop devised certain lands situated in the parish of Siston, and at Stowick, in the parish of Henbury, in the county of Gloucester, and a house in the city of Bristol, to the trustees of Queen Elizabeth's Hospital, at that place, to certain uses, one whereof was that the trustees of the hospital should receive one boy yearly from the parish of Netherbury, such boy to be nominated and recommended by the minister and churchwardens of the parish and the representative or heir-at-law of the testator.

The boys are admitted into the school between the ages of seven and nine years, where they are instructed in the ordinary branches of English education until the age of 14: 10*l.* is then paid by the hospital to the churchwardens of Netherbury for the purpose of binding the boy quitting the school apprentice to some trade, to which premium an addition is generally made from one of the charities of the parish, over which the churchwardens exercise unrestricted authority.

It has always been the custom for the representative of the testator to nominate the boy, subject to the confirmation of the minister and churchwardens.

Ralph Gollop's Charity.

Ralph Gollop's Charity.

Ralph Gollop, of Lillington, in the county of Dorset, by Will, dated 20th day of April 1721, bequeathed to the poor of the parish of Netherbury, for ever, the sum of 50*s.*, to be paid to 10 poor people equally, without any deduction, on Easter Sunday, who should have no relief of the parish.

The estate upon which this annuity is charged is the property of George Tilley Gollop, esq. It is situated in the parish of Lillington, near Sherborne, and consists of about 180 acres of land, principally pasture, and a farm-house and buildings, now let to Thomas Dare Conway.

Up to the year 1830 inclusive the representative of the testator was in the habit of distributing the amount of this rent-charge personally among the poor, but he has latterly paid the money to the churchwardens, reserving to himself the right of nominating the 10 objects of the charity, and excluding all such as have received parochial relief within the preceding 12 months. The money is given, in sums of 5*s.* each, to the recipients.

Richard Gollop's Charity.

Richard Gollop's Charity.

Richard Gollop, by Will, dated 12th September 1725, gave an annuity of 10*l.*, payable out of his lands at Hogbear and Bitlake, in this parish, towards binding out two poor boys of this parish apprentices yearly.

Hogbear and Bitlake at present compose one farm, which belongs to Sir William Oglander, bart., who pays the rent-charge regularly to the churchwardens.

The sum left by the testator has been found quite inadequate to apprentice two boys according to the directions of the Will, and the churchwardens have therefore added this amount to the fund arising from Broddrepp's charity, and distributed it as before stated.

Unknown Donor.

Unknown Donor.

There is a charity entered in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 as derived from a donor unknown. It appears, by an inspection of the books of the donations to the parish of Netherbury, and which contain the only evidence we could discover of the foundation of this charity, that the estates belonging to it are supposed to have been devised by Sir Nicholas Smith about 7 Edward I. The following is a copy of the entry:—

"Sir Nicholas Smith, by Will dated about the 7 Edward I., gave the following charities to the parish of Netherbury, vested in the churchwardens, namely,

| | £. | s. | d. |

| House and garden at Melplash | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| A field at Camesworth | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| A field at South Bowood | 0 | 1 | 8 |
| Also a charge of 8*s.* per year on lands in Aish and Bowood tithings, namely, | | | |

The property in Dorchester at present comprises, 1st. A messuage, with the appurtenances, situate on the south side of the High West-street, in the parish of the Holy Trinity, in Dorchester, formerly known by the sign of the Gun.

On the 11th July 1806 a lease of this property was granted by the trustees to Mrs. Mary Fowell for 99 years, determinable on the expiration of three lives, then aged respectively 46, 10, 6, in consideration of a fine of 260*l.*, and a quit-rent of 5*s.* 10*d.* per annum.

2d. A messuage, garden, and premises on the south side of the High West-street, in the same parish as the preceding, and adjoining to the dwelling-houses of Thomas Snook on the east side, and Lawrence Snook on the west side.

Netherbury.

This house was demised for 99 years, determinable with three lives, to Charles Stickland, of Dorchester, esq., in consideration of a fine of 122*l.*, and the annual rent of 4*s.*, by indenture, dated 22d July 1822.

3d. A stable and garden, situate likewise on the south side of the High West-street of Dorchester, adjoining on the east side to a house of one Susannah Shepherd.

This property was demised for 99 years, determinable with three lives, to John Green, of Exeter, esq., in consideration of 149*l.*, at the yearly rent of 5*s.*, by indenture, dated 27th January 1820.

The three houses in Bridport are all situated on the north side of the High-street of Bridport.

One was leased to John Perham, of Bothenhampton, in the county of Dorset, for a term of 99 years, determinable with three lives, then aged respectively 19, 14, 11, at the yearly quit-rent of 6*s.* 8*d.*, in consideration of a fine of 300*l.*, by indenture, dated 1st May 1833.

The second was demised to Samuel Tucker, of Bridport, innkeeper, for a like term, determinable with three lives, then aged 36, 11, 16, at the yearly rent of 5*s.*, in consideration of a fine of 74*l.*, by indenture, dated 15th May 1835.

The third is also a house, situate in the High-street of Bridport, demised by the trustees to one John Hill, of Bridport, twine-spinner, for 99 years, determinable with three lives, at the annual rent of 5*s.*, in consideration of 16*l.* 16*s.*, by deed, dated 4th January 1787.

The estate at Uploders comprises, 1st. A dwelling-house, divided into two tenements, with an orchard and garden, containing in the whole about one rood, demised by the trustees of the charity to one William Vallins, of the parish of Loders, yeoman, for 99 years, determinable on three lives, at that date aged 18, 14, 10, at a yearly quit-rent of 1*s.* per annum, in consideration of a fine of 110*l.*, by indenture, dated 30th April 1814.

| | | | 3 | 2 | 0 |

The whole of this land is situated at Uploders, in the parish of Loders, and was demised to one John Axe (late of Loders) for a like term, and determinable with three lives, then aged 10, 10, 13, at the yearly quit-rent of 2*s.*, in consideration of 136*l.*, by indenture, dated 2d November 1814.

3d. A piece of furze-land, situated on Uploders common, abutting on the highway, and which was demised, determinable on the expiration of three lives, aged 28, 5, 3, to one George Gibbs Budden, of Loders, at the yearly quit-rent of 1*s.*, in consideration of the premium of 58*l.*, by indenture, dated 2d November 1814.

The property at Melplash consists of a messuage or dwelling-house and appurtenances, containing by estimation one acre, situate in Melplash, in Netherbury parish, in the occupation of Thomas Bishop, to whom it was demised by the trustees on 16th July 1799, at the rent of 2*s.*, in consideration of 96*l.*, for 99 years, determinable with three lives, then aged 33, 6, 3.

The Camesworth property is a close of land, commonly called the Parish Ground, now converted into an orchard, containing by estimation one acre, situated at Camesworth, in Netherbury aforesaid.

This land is granted to the Rev. Richard Sims Cox, now of Wayford, in the county of Somerset, clerk, for a like term of 99 years, and determinable with three lives, aged 30, 6, 5, in consideration of a fine of 50*l.*, and subject to the yearly rent of 2*s.*, by indenture, dated 30th May 1825.

The property at South Bowood consists of a close of land, containing about two acres, called Shortlands, situated at South Bowood, in the parish of Netherbury.

This land was leased, in the year 1768, to one William Purchase for 99 years, determinable on the expiration of three lives, at the yearly rent of 1*s.* 8*d.*, in consideration of a fine of 23*l.* 10*s.* The last life dropped in 1835; the trustees have not yet determined the amount of the fine to be set for another lease of the property.

The leases of the above property have been always granted upon lives, without any exception.

The two estates described as Ward's and Pine-Apple are now the property of Sir William Oglander. Up to the year 1833 there was an arrear of 40 years' quit-rent due from Sir William, which he refused to pay: he, however, consented to pay the accruing rent, and two years have consequently been received by the churchwardens, who thought it advisable to abandon their claim for the arrears (5*l.*)

G. T. Gollop, esq., of Netherbury, is the proprietor of Bonners; he likewise refuses to pay the arrears of his quit-rent (22 years), amounting to 1*l.* 8*s.* 5*d.*, and also to pay in future.

Messrs. Taylor and Ewens, of Bridport, twine-spinners, (the proprietors of Fowler's,) likewise refuse to pay their arrears for the same period, amounting to 2*l.* 6*s.* 9*d.*

The representatives of Mr. Hart, late of Charmouth, are the proprietors of Cooper's, who have not refused payment.

Mr. James Major, of Netherbury, farmer, is the proprietor of Swayes's and Pitcher's, and he also refuses to pay his arrears of 18*s.* 4*d.* for 22 years.

Pavilands is now the property of Mr. Charles Priest, of Broad Winsor, who refuses to pay his arrears for 22 years, amounting to 11*s.*

Netherbury.

Mr. John Udall, of Netherbury, farmer, is the proprietor of the Fold estate, and refuses to pay his arrears for 22 years, amounting to 1*s.* 10*d.*

Mrs. Case, of Bishop's Caundle, widow, is the proprietress of Kersey, and also refuses to pay her arrears for 22 years, amounting to 1*s.* 10*d.*

The earliest deed we could find appointing trustees of this charity bears date in 1727, from which period the estate appears to have been regularly transferred to new trustees. The last appointment is dated 2d May 1815, by which the estates were conveyed to Thomas Cook, John Crode, Thomas Crode, Sir William Oglander, bart., Samuel Cox, John Hearn, and John Clare, (all of whom, with the exception of Thomas Cook and Thomas Crode, are now living) in trust for the charity.

Up to the year 1833 the proceeds from this charity were added to those of the Netherbury grammar-school, and applied in the same manner as the surplus of that trust-fund. No portion was ever dedicated to the purposes of the school, care being taken that the expenses of the latter establishment should never exceed the rent of the farms of Broadnam and Paradise.

In the year 1833 the churchwardens first appropriated a distinct book to this charity, the funds of which are administered by the vestry.

They select from such of the poor of the parish as do not receive parochial relief a certain number at their discretion, among whom they apportion particular sums from this source. From this fund is likewise made the payments to the mistresses of the reading-schools; and 50*l.* was also paid in the year 1833 towards the erection of a chapel of ease and Sunday-school in the parish of Netherbury.

A sum of about 20*l.* is likewise expended every year in the purchase and carriage of coals, which are sold again to the poor free of the cost of transport; but the principal part is applied towards the relief of such poor of the parish as do not have recourse to parish aid.

PARISH OF SOUTH PERROTT.

South Perrot.

Unknown Donor.

Unknown Donor.

A sum of 1*l.* 3*s.* (entered under the above title in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786) has been regularly paid from the parochial rates for the last 70 years.

The tradition is that about 80 years ago a sum of money was left for the use of the poor of the parish of South Perrott not receiving parochial aid, which was lent out upon insufficient security, and the whole lost, with the exception of about 29*l.*

That this latter sum was borrowed by the parish-officers in the year 1765, being then about to erect a workhouse; and that they had ever since paid the annual sum of 1*l.* 3*s.* as interest upon this loan for the use of the second poor of the parish.

The 1*l.* 3*s.*, together with various sums arising from private donations, is distributed about Christmas, at the discretion of the churchwardens and overseers, among the second poor of the parish in money or goods, varying in amount and quantity according to the exigencies of the recipients.

Bishop Bubwith's Charity.

Bishop Bubwith's Charity.

By an act of appropriation, dated 16th October 1424, (and recorded in the registry at Wells, 3d folio, pp. 316, 317, 318, and 319,) Bubwith, bishop of Sarum, appropriated the rectory of Buckland Newton to the dean and chapter of Wells, reserving out of the fruits and profits thereof the sum of four marks per year for the use of the poor of the said parish.

This sum was regularly paid to the churchwardens and overseers of the parish by the lay impropriator of the great tithes, Mr. Leonard Pount, to the period of his death, which took place upwards of five years ago, and subsequently by his executors until the last two years, during which latter period the payment has been delayed in consequence of the estate of Mr. Pount having become the subject of a suit in Chancery. We are, however, assured that the arrears will be forthwith paid.

By the appropriation of the bishop the money is reserved for the use of the poor of the parish generally; but the churchwardens, for as long a period as we could ascertain, have confined the distribution to the poor not receiving parochial aid, giving the money annually in sums varying from 2*s.* 6*d.* to 5*s.*, according to the wants of the parties.

Barnes's Charity.

Barnes's Charity.

By indentures of lease and release, dated 24th and 25th March 1686, made between Thomas Skinner the elder, Thomas Skinner the younger, Richard Skinner, and Edward Skinner, three of the sons of the said T. Skinner the elder, of the one part, and Sir Nathaniel Napier, knt. and bart., and seven others, of the other part, reciting that John Barnes, gent., by his last Will gave to the poor within the tithing of Duntish 50*l.*, which, by virtue of the said Will, and of a decree then lately made in the Court of Chancery, was to be laid out in lands for the use of the said poor; and also that there remained in the hands of the officers of the said parish of Buckland Newton the sum of 35*l.*, belonging to the poor of the said parish, which was undisposed of; for the preservation of both which sums it was agreed by the parishioners of the said parish that the said 85*l.* should be laid out in the purchase of the lands after mentioned: it is witnessed that the said Thomas Skinner the elder, Thomas Skinner the younger, Richard Skinner, and Edward Skinner, in consideration of 85*l.*, conveyed to the said Sir Nathaniel Napier and seven others all that tenement called Little House, and the garden and backside adjoining; one close of pasture, called Long Acre, containing by estimation one acre; and one other close of pasture, near adjoining to the said tenement, containing by estimation two acres; all which premises are situated in the parish of Haslebar; to hold the same, to them, their heirs, and assigns for ever, in trust, as to 50*s.* of the rent and profits of the said lands and premises, for the use of the poor of the said tithing of Duntish; and, as to the residue of the said rents and profits, to the use of the poor of the said parish of Buckland Newton. Buckland Newton. Barnes's Charity, continued.

The property at Haslebury now consists of a piece of ground, called Buckland Poor Land, containing by estimation three acres, abutting upon some lands of Mr. Salkeld and the Rev. Mr. Antrim. There is no longer any house or building upon it; nor could we ascertain at what period Little House tenement was removed.

The land is let by the vestry; but the management of the funds rests with the church-wardens and overseers of the parish.

There appears to have been no appointment of new trustees since the original conveyance in 1686.

In 1808 the property was held by Edward Davis, at the rent of 6*l.* per annum. The present tenant, Mr. James Barnes, of Haslebury, who holds it from year to year, pays annually 7*l.*, subject to a very trifling deduction for repair of fences.

About 20 years ago some timber was cut upon the estate: with 16*l.*, part of the produce of the sale of this timber, a cottage was erected about six years ago, in which the parish have suffered a pauper to reside. We were also given to understand that, in the month of December 1829, 60*l.*, further part of the produce of the timber, was standing in the Sherborne savings' bank. From this latter sum 20*l.* was withdrawn on the 31st October 1833, for the purpose of being lent out to two poor persons in the parish, in sums of 10*l.* each; one only, however, named John Mullett, availed himself of the offer, and, with the assistance of this loan, erected a cottage upon a small piece of waste ground, demised to him for a term of 60 years by Henry Charles Sturt, esq., of Critchill House, Moor Critchill, and which he mortgaged to the parish as a security for the money borrowed. The remaining 10*l.* continues in the hands of the parish-officers. It was agreed that interest should be paid by them for the 20*l.* so borrowed; but it does not appear that any money has yet been received from them upon this account.

A sum of 1*l.* per annum has, from time immemorial, been paid from the church-rates for the poor of the parish, and distributed with the rent of the land. It is not known upon what account this money is paid; but it is supposed to be interest for the value of timber formerly cut from the Haslebury Farm, and applied towards the repairs of the church.

The rent is received by the overseers of the parish, and distributed by them and the church-wardens, together with the 1*l.* above mentioned, among the poor of the parish not receiving parochial aid. The distribution is generally made at Easter, at which time the parish officers meet and determine upon the objects to whom the money shall be given. The sum of 50*s.* part of the 8*l.*, is appropriated to the tithing of Duntish alone, according to the trusts of the deed above abstracted, and the residue is divided among the whole parish, including the tithing of Duntish, in the manner above described.

The second poor of Buckland Newton being very numerous, the parish officers sometimes allow the income of this charity to accumulate, in order that they may have such a sum as will enable all to participate who come within its object. The last distribution took place on the 13th December 1833, and the balance now due in favour of the charity is as follows:—

|---|---|---|---|
| In the Sherborne savings' bank | 47 | 5 | 7½ |
| In the hands of the overseers of the poor | 10 | 0 | 0 |
| In the hands of the overseers and churchwardens, after the last distribution | 0 | 15 | 9 |
| Ditto, two years' rent of Haslebury Farm, due at Lady-day 1835, and received to that time, less 5*s.* allowed for repairs | 13 | 15 | 0 |
| Two years' payment from church-rates | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 73 | 16 | 4½ |

To this sum must be added the interest due from the Sherborne savings' bank.

FITZ FOY'S CHARITY.

Fitz Foy, of Castle Hill, in this parish, esq., by a codicil to his Will, dated November 21st, 1781, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury on the 14th December 1781, bequeathed the interest of 100*l.*, to be distributed by his executor, in such a manner as he should think proper, among the poor of the parish of Buckland Newton. This sum has never been invested in the funds, but still remains in the hands of Samuel Shore, esq., of Norton Hall, Derbyshire, the executor of the testator, and also the proprietor of the Castle Hill estate; who allows interest for it at 5*l.* per cent. Fitz Foy's Charity.

The above sum (5*l.*) is, by the direction of Mr. Shore, annually expended by William Cains, the principal tenant of Castle Hill farm, in the purchase of shoes, which are distributed by him among the poor of this parish generally.

MRS. FOY'S CHARITY.

Elizabeth Maria Foy, by Will, dated May 3d, 1801, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1822, bequeathed 200*l.* Three per Cent. Consolidated Bank Annuities to Samuel Shore, esq., in trust, that he, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, Mrs. Foy's Charity.

Buckland Newton.

should distribute the interest thereof, annually, in equal portions, among such 12 poor aged men or women of the parish of Buckland Newton, as he or they should consider most deserving; the distribution to be made on the anniversary of the testatrix's decease.

This stock is now standing in the name of Mr. Shore, who receives the dividends himself, amounting to 6*l.*, which are likewise yearly divided by the tenant of the Castle Hill farm, in sums of 10*s.*, among 12 men and women, as directed by the testatrix, and we are informed that this distribution will, in future, be confined exclusively to those who do not receive any parochial allowance, and are proper objects of charity.

Miss Foy's Charity.

Miss Foy's Charity.

Elizabeth Maria Foy, of Castle Hill, spinster, by Will, bearing date 28th October 1822, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1826, after referring to the above-mentioned bequest of Mrs. Elizabeth Foy, her mother, gave to the said Samuel Shore the like sum of 200*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in trust, to unite the same with the 200*l.* stock bequeathed by her said mother, and pay the interest, in equal shares, to the same 12 poor men and women as received the bounty of her parent, in order that the same might be doubled in amount.

This stock also stands in the name of Mr. Shore, and the proceeds (6*l.*) are appropriated towards the intended object of the deceased, as expressed in her Will.

PARISH OF MAPPOWDER.

Mappowder.

Parish Land.

Parish Land.

There is in the parish of Mappowder a field called Parish Meadow, containing between one and two acres of pasture land, let to one Mary Cross, of Boywood farm, as tenant from year to year, at the annual rent of 3*l.*

The overseers receive the rent and carry it to the account of the poor-rates, with which it has been invariably blended.

This property is described in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 as land vested in the overseers for the use of the poor, and yielding annually 2*l*; but we could procure no evidence that the rent had ever been applied to other than parochial purposes.

PARISH OF PULHAM.

Pulham.

Camden's Charity.

Camden's Charity.

It is stated in the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 that Richard Camden, by deed in 1649, gave to the poor of this parish, not receiving relief, a sum of 60*l.*, which was then in the hands of the parish officers, and produced 3*l.* a-year.

There are no deeds in the parish relating to this charity, but the sum of 3*l.* per annum has long been and still is regularly received from —— Alner, esq., of Piddletown, as being charged upon a large estate in Buckland Newton, belonging to him.

This sum is distributed among the poor of the parish not receiving relief, generally about 20 in number, in sums varying from 1*s.* to 4*s.* according to the number in family, and with reference to their characters. A list of the names is preserved.

Parsons's Charity.

Parsons's Charity.

The Rev. John Parsons (a former rector of the parish, who died about the year 1794), by Will, dated 6th February in that year, gave the sum of 100*l.* Four per Cent. Stock, in trust, that the interest should be employed for the purchase of clothing of the poorest children of the parish usually attending the Sunday-school; the interest to be received annually, in trust, by the minister or rector and churchwardens of Pulham, for the time being, and to be laid out in buying such articles of linen or woollen clothes as might be most wanted; and he directed his executor to transfer 100*l.* of the said stock to the said rector and churchwardens of Pulham, so as to entitle them to receive the dividends thereof; and he desired the said clothes to be bought and dispensed between Michaelmas and Christmas yearly, and that every successive rector should have power to receive and dispense the dividends of the said stock, but not to alienate the same.

This stock was transferred to Dr. Penfold, the successor of Mr. Parsons in the living, from whom we learn that it has been his practice to give away the interest every alternate year (when it amounted to 8*l.*) in clothing to children attending the Sunday-school, adding, at the same time, 8*l.* from his own pocket.

When the Four per Cent. Stock was converted into Three and a half per Cents., Dr. Penfold repurchased for the charity 100*l.* of the Four per Cent. Stock of 1826, paying the difference of price from his own funds.

His incumbency terminated in 1832, when he was succeeded by the Rev. John Thomas Hinds, and on the 15th February 1833 the stock was transferred into the names of the Rev. J. T. Hinds, George Young, and William Bullen.

The dividends then due were received and applied by Dr. Penfold, but he states that, upon inquiry at the Bank of England, he finds that the dividends subsequently accrued have not been received. The attention of the present rector has now been called to this oversight.

PARISH OF WOOTTON GLANVILLE.

Wootton Glanville.

UNKNOWN DONOR.

Unknown Donor.

Until the year 1835 a sum of 1*l.* 10*s.* had been annually paid for upwards of forty years by the successive tenants of a farm situate in Glanville's Wootton, the property of Henry Charles Sturt, esq., M. P., comprising about 170 acres, and called Glanville's Wootton farm, which sum was yearly distributed, without the interference of the minister or parochial officers, by the tenants of the land, among the poor of the parish not receiving aid from the poor-rates.

About the beginning of the present year 1836 the agent of Mr. Sturt desired the payment to be discontinued, but upon a representation to the proprietor he has directed it to be resumed.

PARISH OF CERNE ABBAS.

SIR ROBERT MELLER'S CHARITY.

Cerne Abbas.

For the foundation of this charity, see 29th Report, p. 104.

Sir Robert Meller's Charity.

The 10*l.* due to this parish is regularly received about Christmas by the parochial officers, and by them distributed in small sums amongst all the poor of the parish, a due regard being had to the character and circumstances of the recipients.

According to the directions of the donor, from time to time children have been apprenticed out of the share of the charity received by this parish; and it appears, by the books kept by the parochial officers, that within the last 30 years six apprentices have been thus provided for.

WHITE'S CHARITY.

White's Charity.

Philip White, of Cerne Abbas, in the county of Dorset, yeoman, by Will dated 10th September 1810, and proved in the Court of the Archdeacon of Dorset on the 3d April 1813, gave to Charles Berjew, of Up-Cerne, in the said county, all his personal estate, in trust, after the decease of the brother and sister of the testator, to invest 300*l.*, part thereof, on government or real security, in his own name, and pay the interest of 100*l.* thereof to the minister and churchwardens of the parish of Cerne Abbas, and their successors, to be by them applied in the education or tuition in reading, writing, and arithmetic, of as many poor boys, natives and inhabitants of the parish of Cerne Abbas aforesaid, as the same would extend to; and the testator directed that the said C. Berjew should, during his life, have the nomination and choice of the boys who should be instructed by means of the before-mentioned bequest, and also of their instruction, but that after his decease the nomination should be solely in the minister and churchwardens of the said parish, and their successors, for ever; and also that the executors or administrators of the said C. Berjew, six months after his decease, should pay over the said sum of 100*l.* to the minister and churchwardens of Cerne Abbas, in order that they might invest the same upon government or real security, and apply the interest only thereof upon the trusts above declared, for ever.

The interest of the 100*l.* given for the education of the poor of this parish has not yet been paid by Mr. Berjew, although the brother and sister of the testator are both dead, the brother having died in the month of February 1814, and his sister in the month of January 1829. At the time of our inquiry (January 1836) there were consequently seven years' arrears due in respect of this charity: these Mr. Berjew has, after repeated applications, agreed to pay at the rate of four per cent. amounting to 28*l.*, and also to make arrangements with the minister and churchwardens of Cerne Abbas for investing or otherwise securing the principal.

SMITH'S CHARITY.

Smith's Charity.

Elizabeth Smith, of Sydling, in the county of Dorset, spinster, by a codicil to her Will dated September 3d, 1809, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, gave 2*l.* a-year to the school at Godmanstone, as long as it should continue.

This sum is regularly paid to the master of the Sunday-school at Godmanstone by Mr. Davis, of Warminster, the steward of Sir John Wyldbore Smith, of the Down House, near Blandford, Dorset.

The number of children of both sexes attending the Sunday-school averages about 30, who are taught to read, and are instructed and examined in the church catechism.

Chilfroome.

Browne's Charity.

George Browne, esq., of Frampton, in the county of Dorset, by deed, dated 28th November 1772, and enrolled 29th January 1773 (for the full particulars of which see our report, p. 176), gave certain premises in Toller Porcorum, and endowed the same to be used as a school, and directed that the parish of Chilfroome, among others, should possess the right of sending the poorer sort of its children there for the purpose of being educated.

Chilfroome.

At various times children have been sent from Chilfroome, but at present there are no scholars from this parish, in consequence, as we are informed, of the distance from Toller Porcorum being considerable.

CHARITY OF BISHOP HALL AND DR. SLOPER.

Charity of Bishop Hall and Dr. Sloper.

The minister of this parish has received, at different intervals, a number of bibles from the clergyman of Spettisbury, given under the Wills of John Hall bishop of Bristol and Dr. Sloper, for the purpose of distribution among the poor of this parish.

PARISH OF EVERSHOTT.

Evershott.

EVERSHOTT FREE SCHOOL.

Evershott Free School.

Christopher Stickland, of Yealden, in the county of Bedford, gent., by deed dated 20th November, 4th Charles I. (1628), reciting his intention to have a free-school for reading, writing, and grammar, erected and settled within the town of Evershott, in the county of Dorset, for the instruction and breeding of men children which were or should thereafter be born in the same town of Evershott, and in the parish of Froome St. Quintin, in the said county of Dorset, and also for any other that he should nominate and appoint there to be taught, the same so to be nominated not exceeding the number of four, and for that purpose to provide and allot some competent sustentation and maintenance to and for a schoolmaster there successively for every to train up, instruct, and teach the same children in good learning, true religion, and the fear of God,—the said Christopher Stickland, for the accomplishment of the premises, granted, enfeoffed, and confirmed unto Robert Stickland, and eleven others, and their heirs, all that messuage, farm, or tenement, and lands, with the appurtenances, situate in Over Kentcombe, within the parish of Toller Porcorum, then or late in the possession of William Webber, and a messuage, cottage or tenement, being sometimes parcel of the said tenement in the occupation of the said William Webber, and then in the occupation of John Fooks, or his assigns, with the appurtenances, in trust, immediately after the determination of the existing estates therein, to demise the said premises for the best yearly value that the same would yield in possession, but not for a fine, nor for any longer term than seven years. And the donor directed that the said yearly rent should be employed for and towards the yearly stipend and maintenance of some honest, painful, and sufficient learned schoolmaster or teacher of children and scholars in good learning and true religion, within the said school and town of Evershott, yearly and successively for ever. The said schoolmaster to be nominated, after the decease of the said Christopher Stickland, by the feoffees, or the greater number of them, successively, for ever, who should have power to displace any such schoolmaster being disorderly in his behaviour, or otherwise unfit to teach and train up children, and to appoint another in the place of him so removed. And further, that every of the male children, with either of the kindred or blood of the said Christopher Stickland, or of the name of Stickland, and born within 30 miles of the town of Evershot, and any other that should be sent thither by the said Christopher Stickland, his heirs or assigns, not exceeding the number of four, should be at all times thereafter for ever received and taught in the said school until they severally attained the age of 18 years, without paying any money or other recompense for their teaching. The donor further states in the now-reciting deed that, the "principal men, inhabitants of the said town of Evershott, had lately promised and agreed to convert and employ, and to give, grant, and enfeoff the then town-house or church-house of Evershott aforesaid, together with one acre of land thereunto belonging, to and for the before-mentioned use of a school-house, and for scholers there to be taught." And the said deed further provides that, whenever the feoffees of the trust estate above particularly set forth should be reduced to four, then the surviving feoffees or feoffee, and their heirs, should convey the said messuages, lands, tenements, and premises, with the appurtenances, unto eight other persons, to the use of themselves and the said other persons and their heirs, for the performance of the trusts, intents, and purposes thereinbefore limited, expressed, and declared. And also that, in the event of the feoffees for the time being neglecting to demise the premises, or to employ the rents and profits thereof in the manner thereinbefore particularly mentioned, it should be lawful for the schoolmaster so to do in the names of the said trustees, with the parson, churchwardens and overseers of the said parish for the time being, or any two or more of them, whereof the parson for the time being to be one, and that the feoffees should make leases according to such contracts.

The church-house and acre of land above alluded to appear to have been in the possession of the feoffees from the first foundation of the charity.

The estate at Over Kingcombe, given by the donor, is described as being in the same situation, and of the same extent, as when conveyed by the original grant. The following is the description by estimated measure :—

The property given by the parish consists of a house and about one acre of land, situated in Evershott; the land is used as a kitchen-garden, and the lower part of the house as a school-room.

The school-house and the house and buildings on the farm are in a very good state of repair, the present master of the school, the Rev. Mr. Coxwell, having expended a considerable sum upon them, and the previous master being allowed by the trustees to raise about 200*l.*, for the purpose of repairs generally, which was repaid by instalments out of the rent of the farm.

Trustees of this charity have been regularly appointed from the year 1737 to the present time; the last appointment was by indenture of lease and release, bearing date respectively the 27th and 28th days of August 1811, by which Edward Perry Buckley, the Rev. John Haines, the Rev. William Jenkins, the Right Honourable Henry Stephen Earl of Ilchester, the Right Honourable Edward Earl Digby, Sir William Oglander, bart., Sir John Wyldbore Smith, bart., Charles Lemon, John Phelips, Robert Gordon, esqrs., the Rev. Charles Digby, and the Rev. Townshend Selwyn, were named to this office, all of whom are now living, with the exception of Mr. Buckley and Mr. Phelips.

The farm, prior to the year 1833, was leased for terms of seven years, the rent received having varied according to the state of agricultural produce. In the year 1798 it produced 40*l.* per annum; in 1804, 83*l.*; in 1811, 145*l.*; in 1818, 120*l.*; and in 1825, 90*l.* At the termination of the latter tenancy, in the year 1833, the land was found to be in so exhausted a state, that the master of the school, who is entitled to the whole income as a remuneration for his services, took it into his own hands for the purpose of recovering it, and from that time it has been comparatively unproductive.

It is expected that when again let the farm will produce a clear annual income of about 60*l.*, after deductions for repairs, insurance, rates, taxes, and tithes, amounting on an average to about 13*l.* per annum.

The income of the master of the school consists, as stated above, of the rent of the farm at Over Kingcombe, and the house and acre of land in Evershott, given by the parish.

The present master, having a residence in the town as curate, has let a part of the school-house for 7*l.* a-year, which is likewise received by him. The acre of land is worth about 2*l.* 10*s.* per annum. In addition to this each scholar, in compliance with a long-established custom in the school, brings to the master, after the Christmas holidays, 1*s.*, or some other trifling present, under the name of a new year's gift, and 1*d.* per week for pens and ink.

By the original deed, the school is declared to be founded for the instruction of boys, natives of Evershott and Frome St. Quintin, in reading, writing, and grammar.

By the arrangement made with the present master by the trustees, and for the due performance of which he gave his bond in the penalty of 500*l.*, dated 11th October 1827, the number of scholars is limited to 30, to be nominated by the trustees from Evershott, or any of the neighbouring parishes, if they should think proper so to do; and also four of the name, blood, or kindred of Stickland, born within 30 miles of the town of Evershott. It has likewise been the custom to admit no child into the school under the age of eight years, and unless able to read a chapter in the New Testament.

The course of instruction adopted at this school is reading, writing, English grammar, arithmetic, and the Church of England catechism. The Latin language is not taught, nor any other of the higher branches of education, the scholars being, in general, the children of artisans, small tradesmen, and agricultural labourers, and removed at an early age from the school for the purpose of assisting their parents in their employments. No provision having been made by the donor for books or stationery, the scholars are obliged, by the rules of this establishment, to pay for their school requisites.

The present master was appointed in the month of October 1827: during the first half-year that he filled the situation there were 36 scholars, including several who paid for their instruction; from that period a gradual diminution has taken place in their number, and at present there are not more than 11 scholars upon the foundation.

It may be a question whether the interests of the two parishes intended by the donor to be benefited (the population of which is entirely agricultural) have been consulted in the arrangement made by the trustees with the master. The limitation of the number of boys to be educated gratis, and the exclusion of those under eight years of age, might perhaps be justified by circumstances; but, considering the population of the district, and the nature of the education which is given (for it has been seen that no attempt is made to teach "grammar," as prescribed by the Will), it appears at least doubtful whether the utility of the school be not diminished by the present mode of conducting it.

Stickland and Byworth's Charity.

Stickland and Byworth's Charity.

Christopher Stickland, by deed, bearing date the 20th November, 4th of Charles I. (1628), after conveying certain premises therein described to Robert Stickland, and 11 others, for the purpose of establishing and endowing a free school in the town of Evershott, and reciting that the principal inhabitants of Evershott aforesaid had agreed to convert and to grant the town-house or church-house of Evershott, together with an acre of land thereunto belonging, for the use of a school-house, and for scholars there to be taught, did, upon condition that they should perform their said promise accordingly, for himself, deliver the sum of 20*l.*, and did also deliver, by the direction of Petronella Byworth, his sister, deceased, the sum of 50*l.* unto the said Robert Stickland, and 11 others, for a stock, to be employed for the benefit and maintenance of the poor people of Evershott aforesaid, and Rampisham, in the said county of Dorset, the said several sums of 20*l.* and 50*l.*, to be put forth to profit by the said trustees, and such as should thereafter be feoffees for the said school, from time to time, for ever.

And the donor directed that the interest of the said two sums should be yearly paid to the churchwardens and overseers of the parish of Evershott, upon trust to pay yearly 30*s.*, part thereof, for the maintenance and relief of the poor people of Rampisham, 20*s.* yearly to some honest and learned man whom the majority of the feoffees should appoint, to preach two sermons yearly for ever, one on the feast of St. Michael the Archangel, and the other on the 1st day of May, in the town of Evershott, and to apply the residue towards the maintenance and relief of the poor people of Evershott, to be bestowed as well in providing wool, flax, hemp, and other necessaries, to set such of the poor people to work as were able to do so, as also in providing bread and clothing for such of the said poor as were aged, weak, sick, or impotent, at the discretion of the parson, churchwardens, and overseers for the time being.

And the donor further directed that, for the due employment of such of the said monies as should be at any time remitted to the charge of the said parson, churchwardens, and overseers, to be employed as aforesaid, they should give security and be accountable to the feoffees of the said school.

No account is preserved of the above-mentioned sum of 70*l.*, nor is it known that any distribution of the interest was ever made to the poor, either of this parish or of Rampisham. The clergyman has always been in the habit of preaching two sermons at the periods specified above, and has received 20*s.* for so doing, but this fee, we were informed, had always been paid out of the rents of the closes, called "Poor's Land" (see below).

It appears reasonable to suppose that the principal sum was exhausted in the objects in which it was directed to be employed.

Strangways, sen.'s, Charity.

Strangways, sen.'s, Charity.

Thomas Strangways, sen., of Melbury Osmond, by Will, dated November 19th 1713, gave 40*l.* in money to the poor of this parish, subject to the same directions, and to be disposed of in the same manner, as described in our report of this Will, under the parish of Melbury Osmond.

This sum is in the hands of the Earl of Ilchester, who regularly pays the interest thereon to the overseers of the parish of Evershott, by whom it is distributed in the manner mentioned under the head "Poor's Land."

The money is given away shortly after Christmas, and none are allowed to partake who are at the time in the receipt of parish relief.

Strangways, jun.'s, Charity.

Strangways, jun.'s, Charity.

Thomas Strangways, esq., jun., by Will, dated 1726, gave 40*l.* in money for the same purpose as mentioned in the preceding charity.

The interest of this sum (2*l.*) is likewise paid by the Earl of Ilchester (who holds the 40*l.*) to the overseers of Evershott, and by them applied as hereafter stated.

Horner's Charity.

Horner's Charity.

Mrs. Horner, by Will, dated 28th February 1754, gave 50*l.* in money for the same purpose as specified in the report of the Charity of Thomas Strangways, sen.

The principal was not distributed, but is now held by the Earl of Ilchester, who pays 2*l.* annually, as the interest thereon, to the overseers of the parish of Evershott, which is distributed by them as mentioned under the head of the Poor's Land.

Poor's Land.

Poor's Land.

By the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 there appears to have been some land left for the use of the poor, then producing 8*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.* per annum, but by whom or when given is not now to be ascertained.

This property at present consists of three separate closes of pasture land, situated in Evershott; one is called Poor Close, comprising about two acres, adjoining to a field called Barrow, belonging to the Earl of Ilchester, and is now in the occupation of John Martin, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 6*l.* 6*s.* clear of all outgoings.

One other close, called St. John's Well Close, situated near St. John's Well, in Evershott, containing about one acre, let to William Barrett, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 4*l.*

The third close, containing between three and four acres, is called Lewcombe Woods (adjoining to the lands of the Earl of Ilchester and Lewcombe Woods Lane, about one mile from Evershott), and is occupied by James Tomkins, as tenant from year to year, at the rent of 6*l.*

From the last mentioned close timber was cut in the hedge rows, in the year 1804, the produce of which, amounting to 20*l.*, was placed in the hands of Mr. John Jennings, of Evershott, solicitor, who has given his note of hand for it, bearing interest at 4 per cent., which interest (16*s.*) has been regularly paid to the present time. This sum it is now intended to invest in the Sherborne or Yeovil savings' bank.

The three closes are considered to be vested in the churchwardens and overseers of the parish, by whom the rents are received, and thrown into one fund with the charities of Thomas Strangways, sen., Thomas Stranways, jun., and Mrs. Horner, the total amount of which fund is 23*l.* 2*s.* From this sum 1*l.* is yearly paid to the minister of the parish of Evershott for preaching two sermons, one on Michaelmas day and the other on the first day of May, as directed by the deed of gift of Christopher Stickland.

The overseers call a general vestry of the rate-payers in the beginning of January, and lay before them a list of such poor of the parish as do not receive assistance from the poor-rates.

From this list a selection is made, among whom the balance of the 23*l.* 2*s.* remaining after the payment of 1*l.* to the minister, is distributed in sums varying from 5*s.* to 1*l.*

WILKINS'S CHARITY.

Wilkins's Charity.

By indentures of lease and release, dated 20th and 21st December 1732, John Wilkins, of Evershott, in the county of Dorset, maltster, and Grace his wife, conveyed to John Foy, Robert Brown, William Catford, Richard Bellamy, John Read, George Feaver, Richard Symes, and Henry Feavour, and their heirs, three closes lying in Evershott aforesaid, called Gorwells, containing by estimation 26 acres; and four closes in Evershott, called Lewcombe Woods, containing by estimation 16 acres, and common of pasture for 23 sheep upon the commonable land in Evershott, to the use of the grantor for life, with remainder to the use of the said Grace his wife, for life, with remainder to the issue of the said John Wilkins, and Grace his wife, and in default of such issue to the use of the said T. Foy and his co-trustees and their heirs, in trust to demise the said premises for any term not exceeding at any one time 10 years, and yearly to pay all the clear yearly rents of the said premises, and all sums of money arising out of the same, as hereafter mentioned, viz., 6*l.*, part thereof, to the curate or incumbent of the parish church of Evershott for reading prayers in the same parish church every Wednesday and Friday in every year, according to the usage of the church of England, between the hours of 10 and 12 of each of the same days; and whenever such curate or incumbent should fail so to do, then the trustees were to deduct out of the said sum of 6*l.* the sum of 5*s.*, and pay the same amongst such poor people, inhabitants of the parish, and in such proportions as the majority of the trustees for the time being should think fit; and pay the further sum of 1*l.* yearly (other part of the said clear yearly rent) to such curate or incumbent as aforesaid, for catechising the children of the inhabitants of the parish once every week, for ever, on Friday or Sunday in each week, in the parish church; and whenever such incumbent or curate should neglect so to do, then the trustees were to deduct out of the said sum of 1*l.* the sum of 2*s.* 6*d.*, and distribute all such sums, so deducted, in manner above mentioned; and pay the sum of 1*l.* yearly, other part of such rents, to such incumbent or curate as should yearly for ever preach two sermons in the said parish church on the 24th day of June and 27th day of December, so as if such days, or either of them, should happen to be on a Sunday, then to preach such sermon or sermons on the Monday next following; and should pay the further sum of 1*l.* 10*s.*, other part thereof, to the clerk of the parish for the time being, as a gratuity for his due attendance at such prayers, catechising, and sermons, as aforesaid; and should pay the further sum of 6*l.* more, other part thereof, unto such master or mistress for the time being as should be chosen by the majority of the said trustees (except the master of the free school of Evershot, or any of his family) for teaching and instructing 12 poor children, sons or daughters of the poor inhabitants of the said parish, as the trustees, or the majority of them, should think objects of charity, to read, and the female children to knit and sew, and that the children should attend Divine service; and in case such master or mistress should at any time refuse or neglect to come to church with such children to attend Divine service on Sundays and days of prayers, as aforesaid, the said trustees should deduct 1*s.* for every default out of the said salary of 6*l.*, to be divided among the poor inhabitants of Evershott, and should have power, in case of frequent omission of such master or mistress, to remove him or her, and supply his or her place; and also to fill up vacancies in the said number of 12 children; and he directed the trustees to buy a new Bible for every such poor child, and to lay out annually the sum of 10*s.* in buying other good books for the instruction of such poor children; and also to buy a board or table, and cause the name of John Wilkins, and Grace his wife, and the said charities, thereon to be inscribed in letters of gold, and to be hung up in the said parish church over against the pulpit therein; and he directed the further residue of the said rents and profits, if any, to be disposed of in buying blue gowns, or bonnets, for such poor children; and that, when such trustees should be reduced by death, or by any of them declining to act, to three or fewer, then the survivors should convey unto six other persons for the time being, principal inhabitants of the said parish of Evershott, or any greater number of them, and their heirs, as such surviving trustees, by and with the consent and approbation of a vestry of the inhabitants or parishioners of the said parish of Evershott for that purpose to be held, should think fit.

John Wilkins, the donor, died in the year 1734, without issue by Grace his wife, but leaving a daughter, Joan, by a former wife, who married one Thomas Bartlett.

After the decease of Mr. Wilkins, his widow, Grace Wilkins, continued in possession of the property settled by the above abstracted deed until her death, which took place on the 7th November 1736.

The trustees not taking any steps to carry into effect the trusts reposed in them, Thomas

Evershott.

Bartlett, the husband of the donor's daughter, Joan, obtained and held possession of the Lewcombe Woods estates, claiming to be entitled in right of his wife.

One Joseph Meek, who had been tenant of Gorwells to Grace Wilkins, retained the possession of this portion of the property for six years, from Lady day 1736, in order to repay himself certain sums due to him from Mrs. Wilkins at the time of her decease, and the expense of her funeral (7*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.*), which was defrayed by him. On his death, which took place in 1742, George Donnisthorpe became tenant, and held the property until his death, about 1780, having paid rent to the Rev. Samuel Payne, the officiating minister of Evershott, who performed the clerical duties directed by the donor, until the year 1750 or 1751.

In the year 1740 an information was filed by the Attorney-General, on the relation of Horner and others, against Browne and others, to establish the charitable uses of the deed, and for an account, and the cause was heard before the Master of the Rolls, in Trinity term 1750, at which period three only of the original trustees were living, namely Robert Browne, Richard Bellamy, and John Read. The Master of the Rolls, by his decree, declared that the estates were well conveyed for charitable purposes; that the charity ought to be established and the trusts carried into effect, and decreed accordingly. It was also referred to the Master to take an account of the rents received since the death of Grace Wilkins, and to appoint five new trustees, to whom, with Mr. Bellamy, the estates were to be conveyed upon the trusts of the deed, Messrs. Browne and Read having declined to act.

A diligent search has been made, but it does not appear that the Master ever made any report under this decree.

It frequently became necessary to revive the suit in consequence of the deaths of parties; the last bill of revivor was filed in the year 1772, against Meggs and others, to which two of the defendants put in answers in the year 1775.

It would seem, from some letters produced on the inquiry, that the cause stood for hearing before the Master of the Rolls in 1779 or 1780, when it again abated through the death of Mr. Donnisthorpe, and it does not appear that any steps were subsequently taken in the matter.

Gorwells is now a field of upland meadow, comprising 21 A. 3 R. 2 P. surrounded on all sides by property of the Earl of Ilchester, and stated to be of the annual value of 38*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

Lewcombe Woods now consist of two fields of pasture land, called Higher and Lower Lewcombe Woods, containing in the whole 12 A. 1 R. 4 P., of the annual value of 11*l.* 2*s.*

To which must be added 3 A. 0 R. 3 P. of arable land on Evershott Hill, allotted by Enclosure Commissioners in lieu of certain sheep pastures belonging to the above lands, and which allotment is of the annual value of 3*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.*

The charity estates are now in the possession of Mrs. Sarah Smith, the relict of Thomas Smith, who purchased them of Thomas Bartlett about 30 years ago. Mrs. Smith is fully aware of the claim upon this property, but refuses to give it up for the benefit of the charity unless compelled so to do by a decree of the Court of Equity.

Under the circumstances of the case, we have thought fit to submit it to the consideration of His Majesty's Attorney-General.

Lost Charity.

Lost Charity.

William Channing, by Will, dated 17th August 1731, and proved at Blandford, in the Court of the Archdeacon of Dorset, on the 28th October 1731, gave to the poor of Evershott 10*l.*, the money to be placed out by the churchwardens and overseers of the poor, and the interest yearly distributed among them.

It is stated in one of the parish poor books that, on the 5th April 1763, 5*l.* was placed in the hands of Reuben Toogood, at 3 per cent., who gave his note for it.

No interest appears to have been received for upwards of 60 years, and the principal must be considered as lost.

PARISH OF FROOME VAUCHURCH.

Froome Vauchurch.

Browne's Charities.

Browne's Charities.

The inhabitants of this parish have the right of sending children, to the number of 10, to the free-school at Toller Porcorum, mentioned in the present Report to have been established by George Browne, of Frampton.

They seem, however, only occasionally to have sent their children to the school, and at present none avail themselves of the privilege.

George Browne, by deed, dated 24th January 1774, and enrolled 8th February 1774, (for the full particulars of this charity see the parish of Toller Porcorum, page 176,) charged his farm, called Cruxton Farm, with the annual payment of 5*l.* for the benefit of 20 poor persons of the parishes of Maiden Newton and Froome Vauchurch.

The 5*l.* is regularly paid out of the rent of the farm, and five crowns of the total amount divided among as many of the deserving poor of this parish as have not received parochial aid during the preceding 12 months. The remaining 15 crowns are distributed among the poor of the parish of Maiden Newton.

CHANNING'S CHARITY.

Channing's Charity.

Jane Channing, by Will, dated 14th April 1835, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury 22nd June 1835, gave to the poor of the parish of Maiden Newton 200*l.*, to be distributed by her executors, the Rev. C. S. Coxwell, of Evershott, and W. H. Merry, esq., of Maiden Newton, surgeon.

We were informed, by the solicitor for the executors, that, in consequence of the testatrix's estate proving insufficient to pay all her legacies in full, it would be necessary that the bequest to this parish should abate in proportion with the rest; but that the administration of the estate of the deceased had been placed in the Court of Chancery, and the legacies would be paid under the direction of the Court. It appears that the executors, by their answer to the Bill filed against them for an account by four of the legatees, admitted that they were accountable for 1,066*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*, which was applicable to the payment of the pecuniary legacies, amounting to 1,450*l.*, exclusive of interest. The former sum has been paid into court, and the master, by his report, dated 3d March 1837, has certified that nothing more is due from the executors. The suit being still pending, the amount which will ultimately be realized to the charity cannot yet be ascertained.

BROWNE'S CHARITIES.

Browne's Charities.

This parish is entitled to participate in the benefit of Mr. Browne's school at Toller Porcorum; but the inhabitants do not avail themselves of the privilege.

The 15 crowns received from the rent of Cruxton Farm, as above mentioned, is given to the poor not receiving parochial relief.

PARISH OF RAMPISHAM.

Rampisham.

LAWRENCE'S CHARITY.

Lawrence's Charity.

The parish of Rampisham has, for upwards of 50 years, been in possession of a freehold estate, containing about 45 acres, said to have been left by one William Lawrence; but we could discover no Will nor other document showing, with certainty, the origin of this charity.

The premises are held under a lease granted by the minister and overseers to William Tomkins, by the description of a cottage or dwelling-house, offices, garden, and the closes of meadow or pasture ground thereunto belonging, called Broad Witcham, situate in the parish of Cattistock, containing, by estimation, 45 acres, for 14 years, from the 5th of April 1826, at the yearly rent of 65*l.*, which is reserved to the minister and churchwardens, their successors and assigns, for the uses and purposes mentioned in the Will of William Lawrence, deceased.

The clear rent of this estate is received by the minister and churchwardens half yearly, and distributed by them, shortly afterwards, among such of the poor of the parish, not receiving aid from the poor-rates, as they judge most deserving. The number is generally about 30; and the sums given vary from 10*s.* to 22*s.* The names of the recipients are entered upon a list, and continued there until death, unless previously disqualified by having recourse to parish relief.

HELE'S CHARITY.

Hele's Charity.

Richard Hele, by Will, dated 6th November 1749, gave unto the minister and churchwardens of the parish of Rampisham, for the time being, the sum of 50*l.*; the interest thereof to be distributed, yearly, a fortnight before Christmas, by the minister and one of the churchwardens (chosen by him), among the poor people that were on the poor-book, or had pay of the parish.

In the year 1794 the then minister and churchwardens determined to invest this sum in freehold property. They accordingly borrowed 20*l.*, in addition to the 50*l.* left by the testator, and contracted with one William Forse for the purchase of a cottage and land in Rampisham, which was conveyed to Henry Davis, clerk, and George Dawe, in fee, by indenture dated 4th March 1795, under the description of a cottage, dwelling-house, or inn, with a stable and two gardens adjoining, called Rampisham Hut, situate in the parish of Rampisham aforesaid, and on the south-west side of the turnpike-road from Maiden Newton to Crewkerne; one garden whereof is situated at the north end of the said cottage or inn, and the other garden at the south end thereof. The trusts of the conveyance are, to let the premises and, out of the rents, to pay to the minister and churchwardens of the parish 50*s.* a-year, (being the interest of the 50*l.* bequeathed by the testator) and to appropriate the residue to the necessary expenses of the trust, and in liquidation of the 20*l.* borrowed as above mentioned.

The house, at the time of the purchase, was an alehouse; it has, however, been subsequently converted into a private dwelling, in which the parish suffer paupers to reside.

The land, which is called Poor-house Plot, and situated near the village of Rampisham, and adjoining to the poor-house gardens there, is let to one Robert James, as tenant from year to year, at the annual rent of 1*l.* 10*s.*, which is considered the full value.

This sum is paid to the overseers, and by them laid out in the purchase of coals; portions of which are every week resold to such of the poor as receive parochial aid, or are most indigent, for the original cost, less the expense of carriage, which generally averages about one-fourth of the amount.

Mr. George Dawe, of Rampisham, farmer, the surviving trustee named in the above-abstracted deed, states it to be his intention to appoint new trustees, with himself, without delay.

BYWORTH'S CHARITY (LOST).

Byworth's Charity.

In the Rampisham poor-book there is the following entry:—"Christopher Stickland and Petronella Byworth, his sister, by deed, dated November, 4th Charles I., gave 30*l.* in money; the interest whereof, to be distributed among the second poor of the parish, vested in 12 trustees.

"This sum is now reduced, by lending, to 15*l.*

We could discover no evidence that any payment had been made, on account of this charity, within the last 50 years.

PARISH OF TOLLER FRATRUM.

Toller Fratrum.

Charities of George Browne.

Charities of George Browne.

See parish of Toller Porcorum.

Toller Fratrum, which is situated about one mile from Toller Porcorum, has always exercised the right of sending children, of both sexes, to the school at Toller Porcorum. There are at present in the establishment about five belonging to this parish.

The sum of 3*l.* is yearly payable to the poor of this parish out of Toller Fratrum Farm, as hereafter mentioned in our report of this charity in the parish of Toller Porcorum.

The parish of Toller Fratrum, consisting only of one farm, and having very few poor, Mr. John Whittle, the tenant of the farm, has been in the habit of dividing the charity, either in money or goods, among three poor families not receiving parochial aid; viz., to two, the sum of 25*s.* each; and to the third, the sum of 10*s.*

PARISH OF TOLLER PORCORUM.

Toller Porcorum.

Charities of George Browne.

Charities of George Browne.

George Browne, of Frampton, in the county of Dorset, esq., by deed, dated 28th November 1772, enrolled 29th January 1773, granted to John Whittle and his heirs a house, garden, and half an acre of land, in Toller Porcorum, to be used as a school-room and residence for a schoolmaster; and the sums of 21*l.* and 5*l.* per annum, to be issuing out of Little Toller Farm, for endowing the said school for the instruction, free of expense, of all the poorer sort of children of the parishes of Toller Porcorum, Toller Fratrum, Chilfroome, and Down Froome [Froome Vauchurch]; and 10 of the poorer sort of the children, inhabitants of the parish of Maiden Newton, in reading, writing, and arithmetic, and the Church catechism. The children to be chosen by the owner of the capital messuage, demesne, and farm of Toller Fratrum, for the time being; or, in case of his neglect or absence, by the incumbents or ministers and churchwardens of the said respective parishes, or the major part of them, who are each to appoint the children from their respective parishes; the schoolmaster to be chosen, by the owner of the said messuage, demesne, &c., in three months after each vacancy; or, in default thereof, by the vicar and churchwardens of Toller Porcorum, for the time being, or the major part of them; to hold the office during good behaviour, (concerning which the owner of the said farm is to decide, and who is, by the said deed, empowered to dismiss the schoolmaster and appoint another in his place,) at a salary of 21*l.*, payable half-yearly; and that the said sum of 5*l.* per annum be applied for keeping the school-house and buildings in repair, if required; but such part thereof as should not be required for that purpose to be for the benefit of the owner of the said farm. In case of the destruction of the school-house by fire, lightning, or tempest, it is to be rebuilt at the expense of the said owner of the said farm.

The farm of Toller Fratrum, now let to John Whittle, is itself a parish, situated nine miles from Dorchester, near Maiden Newton, containing about 450 acres; and the present proprietor is Thomas James Willis Fleming, esq., of North Stoneham, near Southampton, by whom the rent-charge of 21*l.* is regularly paid to the schoolmaster.

In March 1833 a sum of 58*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* was expended by Mr. Fleming in putting the school-room, master's house, and premises into a thorough state of repair.

The schoolmaster, in addition to the annual salary of 21*l.*, occupies, rent free, the house, orchard, and garden adjoining to the school given by the donor, containing about half an acre of land.

He was regularly appointed, according to the directions in the deed of grant, and is required to teach English, writing, arithmetic, and the Church of England catechism.

At present there are no scholars from Froome Vauchurch, Chilfroome, and Maiden Newton. From the remaining parishes there are 13 boys and 22 girls, all of whom are required to provide their own books and stationery, with the exception of pens and ink.

The average yearly number of free scholars, for the last four years, has been 14 boys and 13 girls.

In addition to these the master is allowed to receive day-scholars on his own account, and has, at present, 12 who pay 7*s.* per quarter, six who pay 4*s.*, and seven who pay 3*s.* The average yearly number of the latter class, for the last four years, has been six boys and five girls.

Poor children, of both sexes, are admissible at the age of five years. No period is limited at which they must quit the school; but they generally do so when about 10 or 11 years of age, or as soon as they are capable of labour.

The original grantee, John Whittle, having died some years ago, his heir-at-law, who is the present holder of the farm of Toller Fratrum, expresses himself most willing to take the necessary steps to ensure a continuation of the legal estate in new trustees.

Toller Porcorum.

The same donor, by deed dated 24th January 1774, (enrolled 8th February 1774,) granted to John Whittle and his heirs a rent-charge of 15*l.* per annum, clear of all deductions, issuing out of Little Toller farm, and to be paid yearly, on the 26th day of December for ever, to the vicar of Toller Fratrum, to be by him, within one week after the receipt thereof, paid to and equally divided amongst 60 of the most industrious of the poor persons, settled parishioners and inhabitants of the respective parishes of Toller Porcorum and Toller Fratrum, not receiving parochial relief, at 5*s.* a-piece, and who should be considered by the vicar as proper objects of this charity.

And also 5*l.* per annum clear of all deductions to be issuing out of Cruxton Farm, and to be paid to the said vicar at the same time, and to be in like manner distributed amongst 20 similar poor persons of the parishes of Maiden Newton and Froome Vauchurch.

The Toller Fratrum farm has already been described under the school charity. The Cruxton farm, charged by the donor, is, we are informed, now called West Cruxton Farm, and consists of about 322 acres of land, situated in the parishes of Maiden Newton and Froome Vauchurch. It is the property of Thomas James Willis Fleming, esq., and is occupied by Mr. Edward Cox.

The rent-charge of 15*l.* is regularly paid by Mr. Fleming, by the direction of the vicar of Toller Fratrum, in the following manner: 12*l.* to the vicar of Toller Porcorum, and 3*l.* to the occupier of the farm of Toller Fratrum.

It having been found that the persons who received this charity were in the habit of spending their share (5*s.*) at the alehouse, the distributors have, for about the last 20 years, laid out the funds in the purchase of wearing apparel, and other necessary articles, which they have given away among the most necessitous of such poor persons, residents in the parish, as have families, and have not been relieved from the parochial rates within the preceding 12 months.

The distribution at Toller Porcorum is made by the vicar and churchwardens, with the assistance of the overseers, on the 26th day of December in every year; and those whose names are once entered on the list kept for this purpose are continued there while residents in the parish, and not having recourse to parish aid.

The number (60) in the two parishes of Toller Porcorum and Toller Fratrum, specified by the donor, has not been adhered to, the distributors being of opinion that, by confining the gift to heads of families, and giving a larger quantity of goods to each than contemplated by the donor, they comply with the spirit of the bequest, and render the charity more beneficial.

The 3*l.* payable to the poor of Toller Fratrum, is distributed by the owner of Toller Fratrum farm, in the same manner as the 12*l.* to Toller Porcorum.

SUBDIVISION OF WHITCHURCH CANONICORUM.

PARISH OF BURSTOCK.

Burstock.

SMITH'S CHARITY.

Smith's Charity.

It appears by entries in the parish register of Burstock, that John Smith, of Broadwinsor, gave 5*l.*, to be paid by his executor to the vicar and churchwardens of Burstock, to be put forth on good security, and the interest thereof to be by them paid towards the teaching of some poor child of the parish of Burstock to read English. This sum was paid to the vicar and churchwarden in the year 1700, and was put out at interest. In the year 1781, it was placed in the hands of Mr. John Banks, by whom the interest was paid, up to the year 1784, towards the instruction of a poor child of the parish, but Mr. Banks subsequently fell into indigent circumstances, and died a pauper.

The 5*l.* has never been replaced by the parish.

EVELEIGH'S CHARITY.

Eveleigh's Charity.

Buncombe Eveleigh, by Will, dated 25th November 1784, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 4th February 1785, bequeathed to the rector and churchwardens of the parish of Burstock the sum of 100*l.*, in trust that they and their succcessors for the time being should place the same at interest on Government or landed security, and yearly for ever, on the 15th day of May, distribute the interest thereof amongst the poor and indigent people of the parish of Burstock, not receiving alms or parish relief, in such manner as they in their discretion should think fit.

The Will becoming the subject of a Chancery suit, which lasted upwards of 26 years, no payment was made on account of this legacy during that period.

On the termination of the suit the representative of the testator assigned to the then minister and churchwardens of Burstock by deed, dated 6th April 1829, a security on the Maiden Newton turnpike trust of 66*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, bearing interest at 4½ per cent., and at the same time paid the balance, 33*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*, in money: the latter sum is not yet invested, but remains bearing interest at 5 per cent. in the hands of the present rector (the Rev. John Bragg), who expressed himself willing to invest it on some good security.

SLADE'S CHARITY.

Slade's Charity.

There is an entry in the parish register of Burstock in the following words: "October 1801, To the ministers and churchwardens of the parish of Burstock, in the county of Dorset, an annuity of 40*s.* per annum, for ever, to be laid out in the purchase of tools of husbandry for the use of the labouring poor of the said parish, to be distributed on the 1st of October yearly, to such of them as the minister and churchwarden shall think most deserving thereof.

Burstock.

"John Slade, esq., of Mansel House, Somerset, the donor.

"The above sum is to be paid by the executors of the above John Slade, esq."

The present representative of the testator is Sir John Slade, of Mansel House, Somerset, who regularly pays the 2*l.* per annum to the minister of Burstock.

A list is made out of all labourers having occasion for tools in husbandry, in the purchase of which 4*l.* is expended every second year from this fund.

Smyth's Charity.

Smyth's Charity.

In the parish register of Burstock is an entry stating, that the land called Parish Close, was left by Mr. Smyth to beautify the church, and was under the full power of the rector and the churchwardens.

The land in question contains rather more than three acres, and is situated not far from the parish church of Burstock.

It is now let from year to year to one James Johnston at the yearly rent of 7*l.*

The rent of the field has been regularly paid for upwards of 40 years to the minister and churchwardens of the parish, and expended by them for the purposes of the church.

PARISH OF MELBURY OSMOND.

Melbury Osmond.

Charities of Susannah Strangways Horner.

Charities of S. S. Horner.

Susannah Strangways Horner, by Will, dated 28th February 1754, bequeathed the yearly sum of 15*l.* to be paid quarterly for ever, free from all deductions, out of the rents and profits of the manor of Melbury Osmond, which she charged with this payment for the maintenance and support of a schoolmaster for the teaching and instructing 20 poor children, always of the parishes of Melbury Osmond and Melbury Sampford, to read, write, and cast accounts.

And she directed that the owner for the time being of the manor of Melbury Osmond should have the nomination and appointment of the schoolmaster and children, and should also have power to remove or displace such master and children at their will and pleasure.

The testatrix also gave the dwelling-house at Melbury Osmond, wherein John Oulton then lived, for the use of the said school, and for the residence of the master, subject to such control as aforesaid; and directed that the master for the time being should, at his own expense, keep the same in good repair.

The manor of Melbury Osmond, upon which the rent of 15*l.* is secured, is now the property of the Earl of Ilchester, who regularly pays the rent-charge half-yearly to the schoolmaster.

The house connected with the school is commodious, and in a very good state of repair, containing a hall, two kitchens and cellar, four bed-rooms and an attic, with outbuildings. The school-room, which is capable of accommodating about 50 scholars, was added at the expense of the late Earl of Ilchester; adjoining to the house is a garden containing about half an acre of land.

The scholars are taught to read, write, and cast accounts, but are obliged to procure their own books. The present master is Joseph Guppy, who has held the situation seven years, and was appointed by Lord Ilchester.

The number of free scholars at present on the books of the school is 16. The master (by permission) also receives three children from the adjoining parishes, who pay 10*s.* 6*d.* each, per quarter, for their education.

The same testatrix also gave 50*l.*, to be distributed amongst the poor of Melbury Osmond and Melbury Sampford, in such manner as her executrix should think fit.

This sum remains in the hands of the Earl of Ilchester, from whom the overseers of Melbury Osmond receive the sum of 2*l.* yearly for interest at four per cent. The proceeds of the two charities of Mrs. Horner, and of the gifts of Thomas Strangways, sen. and jun., are thrown into one fund, amounting in the whole to 10*l.* 5*s.*

The churchwardens and overseers of this parish call a public vestry about Christmas, at which meeting a selection is made of such of the poor, not receiving parochial aid, as are thought fit objects to partake of these charities, among whom the money is distributed in sums varying from 2*s.* to 12*s.*

Charities of Thomas Strangways, sen., and Thomas Strangways, jun.

Charities of T. Strangways, sen., and T. Strangways, jun.

Thomas Strangways, sen., by a codicil to his Will, dated 19th November 1713, gave 40*l.* to the poor of this parish, and directed that the sum so given should be placed out at interest by the minister, churchwardens, and overseers of the poor, by the approbation of two or more of the most sufficient inhabitants of the parish, and the interest or proceeds thereof to be yearly on Christmas-day distributed by the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, amongst such poor labouring housekeepers as should not receive weekly relief of the said parish. And he further directed that the names of the objects, together with the sums they received, should be entered in the poor-book.

Thomas Strangways, jun., by Will, dated 1726, gave 40*l.* in money for the like purposes as the preceding gift.

These sums were not invested as directed by the testator, but are now in the hands of the Earl of Ilchester, by whom 4*l.* is paid to the churchwardens and overseers of the parish of Melbury Osmond as the interest, and they distribute it among objects selected as mentioned in our report of the Charity of Mrs. Horner. See above.

HORNER'S CHARITY.

Horner's Charity.

We were informed that Mrs. Horner, by bond, dated 1745, gave 85*l.* in money for the like purpose as mentioned in the Report of the Charity of T. Strangways, sen., to this parish. We could discover no traces of the bond, but it appears that the Earl of Ilchester has always paid 4*l.* 5*s.* yearly to the parochial officers of the parish, for the interest of this money, which is distributed in the manner specified in our Report of the Charity of Mrs. Horner, p. 178, ante.

MEW'S CHARITY.

Mew's Charity.

Catherine Mew, by Will, dated 1747, left 10*l.* in money, the interest thereof to be disposed of in bread to 20 of the poorest people in the parish of Melbury Osmond.

This sum has been from time to time handed down by the rectors of the united parishes of Melbury Osmond and Melbury Sampford to their successors, and the interest thereof (10*s.*) been regularly laid out in bread, and distributed in the church by the minister and churchwardens among 20 of the poorest people of the parish, none being excluded on the ground of receiving parochial relief. The bread given away consists of 20 sixpenny loaves, and the distribution takes place in April.

The 10*l.* is now in the hands of the Rev. Edward Strangways, the rector, who proposes to place it in one of the neighbouring savings' banks.

LIBERTY OF BROADWINSOR.

PARISH OF BROADWINSOR.

Broadwinsor.

GOULD'S CHARITY.

Gould's Charity.

The original deed of endowment of this charity is not now in the possession of the trustees, but by an early trust-deed which was produced to us, dated 27th February 1695, it appears that Hugh Paull, therein described as feoffee of the lands and tenements which John Gould, deceased, long since gave towards the reparation of the church of Broadwinsor, and other good uses within the same parish, granted and enfeoffed to William Bragge, esq., and seven others, and their heirs, all of the parish of Broadwinsor, certain lands and tenements, lying in Drempton, within the said parish, by the description thereinafter mentioned; that is to say, a cottage and one croft of land, and pasture, containing by estimation two acres and a half, abutting upon the mead, called Hole Mead, on the north part, and extending from the said mead to the highway there leading towards Netherbury on the south part; and one other croft of pasture, called Stiffnescroft, lying between Pillesmerse, called Blacklands-upon-Blackburgh; and a third croft of pasture, anciently called Pallmer's Knoll, lying between a close, sometimes of the said John Gould's, called Hicke at Hallisclose, and Pillesmerse and Blagbourge; and also one other little croft of land, lying next the orchard, then in the possession or tenure of William Donne, or his assigns, on the north part, and one meadow, called Harry Mead, on the south part; and also another cottage and garden thereunto belonging, theretofore built upon part of the before-mentioned premises, and then in the possession of Daniel Bankes, or his assigns; and also the moiety or halfindeale of a tenement in Attisham, within the parish of Broadwinsor aforesaid, and of all the lands, meadows, and pastures, profits and appurtenances, to the same tenement belonging; to hold the same upon trust and confidence for the performance of the good uses abovesaid.

The succession of trustees has been kept up; the present trustees are Sir William Delapole and Sir W. Oglander, bart., John Bragge, esq., and Thomas Pearce, gent.

The property at Drempton now consists of a small house (in the occupation of John Johnstone, a butcher) and the following pieces of land :—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Hemphay pasture . . . . | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Rag pasture . . . . . | 0 | 1 | 15 |
| Cherry Moor pasture . . . | 1 | 2 | 0 |
| Blackberry Plot, arable . . . | 1 | 0 | 0 |

This estate was demised by the trustees of the charity by indenture, dated October 22nd 1824, to John Smith, for a term of 99 years, determinable on the expiration of three lives, at the yearly rent of 6*s.*, in consideration of the sum of 60*l.*

The estate at Attisham consists of an undivided moiety of an old house, now in a most ruinous state, and about 30A. 2R. of land, arable, meadow, and pasture, abutting towards the west on the turnpike-road from Crewkerne to Lyme Regis, towards the south on land of Miss Pinney, and on the north and east sides bounded by the lands of Colonel Pinney, of Somerton.

The undivided moiety of this estate, belonging to the parish of Broadwinsor, is let to the above-named John Smith, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 15*l.* 10*s.*, which is paid to the churchwardens.

Hitherto the repairs of the church have exhausted all the funds, and it did not appear probable, at the time of our inquiry, that there would be any surplus applicable to other good uses as mentioned in the above abstracted deed.

SMITH'S CHARITY.

Smith's Charity.

Robert Smith, M.D., by Will, dated June 26th 1725, and proved in the Court of the Archdeacon of Dorset, at Blandford, 5th March 1733, gave unto William Aish, clerk, vicar of Burstock, and Thomas Cook, clerk, vicar of Thorncombe, in the county of Devon, and to their successors, vicars of Burstock and Thorncombe, his messuage or dwelling-house, called New House, at Hurst, within the tithing of Childhay, in the parish of Broadwinsor, with the appurtenances; together with one close, called Common Close, containing by estimation eight acres; three closes adjoining to and lying on the west side of the said Common Close, containing by estimation eight acres; one other close, called Hush Close, containing by estimation six acres; and three other closes, called the Higher Common Close, otherwise Ferne Brakes, containing by estimation 11 acres, situate within the parish of Broadwinsor; upon trust, after the decease of his sister-in-law, to convert the said messuage into a school-house, fit and convenient for a schoolmaster to live and teach school therein, for the instruction of youth, for ever, in the English, Latin, Greek, and Hebrew languages; and that they the said William Aish and Thomas Cook, and their successors, vicars as aforesaid, should from time to time, as often as necessary, elect a fit person for a schoolmaster to live therein, and instruct youth in the Latin, English, Greek, and Hebrew tongues, and to displace such master for insufficiency, neglect, or other reasonable cause, as they in their judgment and discretion should think fit; and further that they should from time to time nominate and appoint 13 poor boys, of the parishes of Burstock and Broadwinsor, and in case of a deficiency in number there, then such deficiency to be supplied out of any neighbouring parishes, the said number of 13 scholars always to be filled up and continued; and further, that the said trustees and their successors should keep the said messuage in good repair, and pay all rates and taxes for the trust premises; and should pay unto such schoolmaster the full and clear annual sum of 13*l.* out of the rents of the same premises, by four equal quarterly payments in the year, and should apply the overplus, as they in their discretion should think fit, for the improvement of the said school and encouragement of learning therein.

It appears from a survey and admeasurement, taken in the year 1823, that the following is the correct description of the estate belonging to this charity:—

| | A. | R. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| House, garden, &c. | 0 | 1 | 21 |
| Orchard | 0 | 3 | 12 |
| Garden | 0 | 0 | 10 |
| Ferne Brakes, arable | 5 | 0 | 10 |
| Three acres, pasture | 2 | 3 | 35 |
| Moor, pasture | 1 | 3 | 27 |
| Pond Close, pasture | 2 | 0 | 20 |
| Hurst, arable | 4 | 3 | 0 |
| Part of eight acres, arable | 3 | 1 | 6 |
| Other part of eight acres, arable | 3 | 2 | 35 |
| Common Meadow, or lower three acres, pasture | 3 | 1 | 12 |
| | 28 | 1 | 28 |

The variance in the two statements arises from the difference between estimated or customary measure and statute measure.

The estate has been let to one Thomas Meech, at the yearly rent of 23*l.* as tenant at will, from the year 1823. The rent is not subject to any deduction whatever, and is considered the fair annual value. Prior to the year 1823 the farm was let at a rent of 28*l.* per annum, which it was found necessary to reduce.

The farm-house has been converted into a school-room and dwelling for the master, as directed by the testator, and is now in a good state of repair.

The school-room is capable of accommodating about 30 boys, and at present there are 13 free scholars, who have to provide their own books and stationery, and about the same number who pay the master for their education 10*s.* 6*d.* per quarter each.

The course of education is confined to English, reading, writing, and arithmetic, and the church catechism; no application ever being made for instruction in the Latin, Greek, or Hebrew tongues.

Each of the two parishes of Burstock and Broadwinsor send free scholars, who are nominated by the incumbent of the livings of Burstock and Thorncombe.

Stanton's Charity.

Stanton's Charity.

It appears by an inscription affixed in the parish church of Broadwinsor, that John Stanton, originally of Broadwinsor, in the county of Dorset, but late of Henstridge, in the county of Somerset, gent., bequeathed by Will, dated 4th April 1795, to the churchwardens of Broadwinsor, and their successors, for ever, the sum of 50*l.*, the interest of which to be laid out in the purchase of good household bread, to be given in the church, on the 22nd February and the 16th November yearly, to poor families of Broadwinsor, who do not receive alms from any parish.

The 50*l.* (after deducting the legacy duty) was paid to the churchwardens of Broadwinsor, and invested in the purchase of 50*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced Annuities, which is still standing in the names of Henry Slade and William Elswood, both now deceased.

The second poor of the parish being very numerous, it was found impossible to distribute bread among them all every half-year as directed by the testator, and great discontent was occasioned by a selection being made from the whole body. The churchwardens have, in consequence, hitherto suffered the interest to accumulate for one, two, and three years, in order that they may be enabled to give bread to all. At the time of our inquiry (January 1836) there was an arrear in hand of 9*l.* (six years' interest), which was to be distributed on 22nd February following.

PARISH OF HALSTOCK.

CHURCH LAND.

Church Land.

By indenture, dated 17th January, 1st James I. (of which a copy only was produced to us), William Barrett, in performance of the trust and confidence in him theretofore reposed by his neighbours, the parishioners of Halstock, gave, granted and enfeoffed unto John Geare and 13 others, a messuage or tenement, called the Church House, with the appurtenances, situate in Halstock aforesaid, and also two acres of land lying on the west of the same messuage, upon trust to employ the issues and profits of the premises to such uses as, by the constable, churchwardens, and overseers of the poor of the said parish of Halstock, for the time being, and other the parishioners of the same parish, or the more part of them, should be directed and appointed.

A copy of a deed, dated 2nd August 1684, conveying the above premises upon the same trusts, was also produced.

The tradition in the parish is, that two sisters left a piece of ground and two cottages for the purpose of beautifying the church.

The property which forms the subject of the above conveyances consists of a cottage and a piece of pasture land, containing about two acres, situated near the church in Halstock, and commonly known as the Church House and Church Plot; also two cottages, built upon the waste at Halstock Leigh, by the parish, in compensation for the common-right appurtenant to the two acres of land.

The cottages are used by the parish as a poor-house for two pauper families. The Church House is let, for 5*l.* 5*s.* per annum, to John Barge, a labourer; and the land is held, from year to year, by Robert Guppy, at the annual rent of 5*l.* These two rents are considered the full value. The churchwardens manage the property, and apply the income towards the repairs of the church, no portion being ever given to the poor: any surplus that may remain is carried to the parish account.

PARISH OF MINTERN MAGNA.

SIR NATHANIEL NAPIER'S CHARITY.

Sir N. Napier's Charity.

It appears by Boswell's Civil Division of the County of Dorset, that Sir Nathaniel Napier, bart., by deed, dated 2nd November 1700, gave 30*l.* in money, the interest thereof to be distributed to the poor of this parish, annually.

This sum was invested in the funds, and now amounts to 37*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* Three and a Half per Cent. Reduced Annuities, standing in the names of the Rev. Robert Frome and Mr. Charles Durden, both now deceased; the dividends upon which (1*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*) have been always distributed, in money, among the poor of the parish generally.

In January 1836 there were three years' dividends unreceived.

The distribution of a larger sum among the poor is the object of the accumulation, from an observation of the mischievous effects of dividing the charities into very trifling sums.

SIR WILLIAM NAPIER'S CHARITY.

Sir W. Napier's Charity.

Sir William Napier, of Moor Critchill, bart., by Will, dated 27th August 1745, and proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, in 1753, directed the sum of 10*l.*, yearly, to be paid to the churchwardens of Moor Critchill, and the like sum to the churchwardens of Mintern Magna, to be yearly distributed amongst the poor of the parish respectively, not receiving relief of the said parishes, on the 2nd day of December; and he charged his lands in Witchampton, in the county of Dorset, with the payment of the said sums of 10*l.*

And he also directed that the said churchwardens should yearly account, in writing, to the heirs of his family, within one month after such yearly distributions.

This charity is void under the Mortmain Act; and we could not discover that any payment had ever been made to the parish of Moor Critchill on account of it. It appears, however, that the sum of 10*l.* per annum has been regularly paid to the parish of Mintern Magna (which was the residence of the donor) by the present representative of the testator, Henry Charles Sturt, esq.

Prior to the year 1835 the distribution of the 10*l.* was made by the churchwardens and overseers, usually on St. Thomas's-day; the whole amount being divided amongst all the poor of the parish not receiving aid from the parochial rates.

By the request of Mr. Sturt, the Rev. John Truman, the rector, undertook the distribution for the last year, when he gave it partly in blankets and partly in money.

KENT'S CHARITY.

Kent's Charity.

Mrs. Sheba Kent, prior to her decease, having placed at the disposal of Mrs. Digby, widow of the late Admiral Robert Digby, a sum of 200*l.*, Mrs. Digby, upon the decease of the donor, after discharging the costs of her funeral, invested the remainder (150*l.*) in the purchase of 241*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of Henry Digby, esq., Charles Digby, clerk, Robert Frome, rector of Mintern Magna, and Thomas Fooks, gent.

By indenture, dated 25th March 1812, it was declared that the said Henry Digby, Charles Digby, Robert Frome, and Thomas Fooks, should stand possessed of the said stock, upon trust, to permit the proprietor for the time being of the mansion-house of Mintern, being of the kin of the said Robert Digby, to receive the dividends due thereon, and apply the same towards such charitable purposes, within the parish of Mintern Magna, and the tithing of Mintern Parva, as he should think most eligible; and when the kindred of the said Robert

Digby should cease to be owners or proprietors of Mintern, then, in trust, that the trustees for the time being, and the survivor of them, should, on every Michaelmas-day, distribute the interest of the said stock among such three poor and aged married or unmarried women, inhabitants of Mintern Magna and Mintern Parva, as they should judge most deserving, with a power (with the consent of the proprietor of the said manor-house of Mintern, if of the kindred of the said Robert Digby) to nominate new trustees in the place of those dying or refusing to act, by writing in a book to be kept for that purpose in the parish church of Mintern Magna; such trustees to be resident in the county of Dorset, and the rector of Mintern Magna for the time being always to be one, to whom the said stocks or securities should be forthwith legally assigned.

The funds of this charity remain unaltered, in the names of the original trustees, of whom the Rev. Robert Frome is since deceased.

The interest, amounting to 7*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*, is received by Sir Henry Digby, K.C.B., the present proprietor of Mintern, and is distributed, at his discretion, amongst the most needy old females of the parish of Mintern.

Poor's Land.

Poor's Land.

There is in this parish a pasture-field, called Duckpool, estimated to contain 1A. 1R., the rent of which has been immemorially applied to the use of the poor.

It is occupied by Robert Hansford, as tenant from year to year, at the annual rent of 2*l.* 5*s.*, which is considered the full value.

This rent is paid to the churchwardens, who generally suffer it to accumulate for three years, and then lay it out in the purchase of loaves of bread, of four pounds' weight each, which are distributed among all the poor of the parish, indiscriminately, about Christmas, in quantities varying according to the price of bread and the circumstances of the poor.

Lost Charity.

Lost Charity.

The Parliamentary Returns of 1786 record a sum of 1*l.* per annum, given by an unknown donor, payable, out of land, to the poor not receiving parochial aid.

This rent-charge is stated not to have been paid for upwards of 70 years, nor is it known out of what property it issued.

School.

School.

Barber's Gift.—John Barber, by his Will, dated 12th May 1795, and proved in the Archdeaconry Court at Winchester in 1797, gave to the parish of Sydling St. Nicholas 500*l.*, upon trust, that the minister and churchwardens should place out the same on Government or other good security, and should yearly pay the interest thereof to and for the maintenance of a schoolmaster, to be chosen and allowed by the said minister and churchwardens, to teach children to read and write, and instruct them in the Church catechism; provided that, if at any time a schoolmaster should not be provided, then until one could be procured, the interest should in the mean time be applied, by the minister and churchwardens, in acts of charity, amongst such poor persons of the said parish as they should think fit objects of relief.

Shortly after the decease of the testator, this legacy, with other subscriptions, (but to what amount, or from whom received, is not now known,) was invested in the purchase of 1019*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the wardens and fellows of Winchester College, they having been desired, by the minister and churchwardens of the parish, to take upon them the care and management of this charity and its funds; and the object of the testator has been carried into effect under their superintendence.

The stock is entered in the books of the college as "The Sydling Charity."

The college has twice given premises for the purposes of this charity. Those now used were formerly a dissenting meeting-house, held under the college, which, on the expiration of the then existing lease, took the property into its own hands, and converted it into a very neat tenement, containing four rooms, for the use of the schoolmistress, and a school-room adjoining capable of accommodating about 120 children.

Scholars of both sexes are received, at the age of five years, on the recommendation of the minister, who are instructed in reading, writing, and arithmetic, needle-work, and the Church catechism. They are required to attend the Sunday-school, and likewise at the parish church, but are not allowed to frequent the Dissenting meeting-house. There are, at present, 116 on the books of the school, of whom about 70 attend daily. They generally quit the school as soon as they are able to work.

The present mistress, who has held the situation 20 years, and discharges her duty to the entire satisfaction of her patrons, derives no other emolument from the office than the salary and the residence.

The income, amounting to 30*l.* 11*s.* 11*d.* per annum, is appropriated towards the repairs of the school, the salary to the schoolmistress, which is 20*l.* per annum, and the purchase of books for the use of the scholars. A small surplus has occasionally remained after these payments, which has, to the present time (March 1836), accumulated to the sum of 98*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.*; and it was stated by the Rev. Henry Sissmore, bursar of Winchester College, that it was intended, with these accumulations, to add 100*l.* to the existing stock, and to meet any charges for books, &c.

JOINT REPORTS OF MR. FINCH AND MR. ROMILLY.

SCRAY LATHE.

PARISH OF BOBBING.

Bobbing.

GIBBON'S CHARITY.

Gibbon's Charity.

See First Report, p. 87.

WOOLLETT'S CHARITY.

Woollett's Charity.

Thomas Woollett, by his Will, bearing date 13th May 1688, and proved at Canterbury, gave to the poor people of Bobbing, who should not take alms of the parish, 1*l.* yearly, payable on St. Thomas's-day, out of his messuage and lands in Bobbing, thereinafter devised to J. Napleton and his heirs, to be disposed of by the churchwardens and overseers to such poor people as they should think had most need.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is paid by William Pack, the tenant of a messuage, and 2A. of land at Hout Green, belonging to —— Wills.

The amount is distributed by the churchwardens in bread at the church, on or about St. Thomas's-day, to all the poor of the parish, according to the number in family.

PARISH OF BREDGAR.

Bredgar.

THATCHER'S CHARITY.

Thatcher's Charity.

In the First Report, p. 87, will be found an abstract of a deed, bearing date 30th July 1718, whereby 28 acres of land in Lenham and Milsted were conveyed to trustees, in trust out of the rents (the yearly value being then 6*l.* 10*s.*) to apply 5*l.* in putting poor children of this parish to school, and paying off the sum of 30*l.*, borrowed for completing the purchase; the residue, if any, to be given to the poor of this parish.

The property consists of about 28 acres of land, with some farm buildings thereon erected in 1828. It is let to Ralph Conyer, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 20*l.* After paying 1*l.* 8*s.* per annum land-tax, 5*s.* 8*d.* for a quit-rent, and 5*l.* to the schoolmistress, as mentioned in the former Report, the clear rent is distributed on St. Thomas's-day, with the produce of the three following charities, under the direction of a vestry, amongst poor persons belonging to the parish, whether resident or not, and not receiving weekly relief, in sums varying from 2*s.* to 8*s.* or 9*s.*

About 1828 some timber was cut on this property, which sold for 48*l.* 16*s.* Of this sum 16*l.* was expended on the farm buildings above mentioned, and the remainder appears to have been improperly applied to parochial purposes, the principal part of it in repairing the wall of the churchyard.

In the application of the income it appears that a much larger proportion might fairly be applied to the purposes of education, though the terms of the purchase-deed, taken literally, may justify the present mode of division.

TERRYE'S CHARITY.

Terrye's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 4th May 1618, William Terrye, for some relief towards the poor inhabitants of Bredgar, granted to Francis Clarke and six others, and their heirs, a yearly rent of 3*l.* issuing out of a messuage called Black, and the orchard thereto belonging, and a piece of land called Mascall's, all in Bredgar, payable on the 1st May, yearly, with power of distress in case of nonpayment, in trust that they should see the same well distributed amongst the poor inhabitants of the said parish at the discretion of the minister, churchwardens, and overseers.

By several subsequent assignments, and lastly by indenture, bearing date 12th December 1826, this rent-charge has become vested in Thomas Murton, Richard Radcliffe the younger, William Wood, Richard Wood, William Read, Robert Carey, Robert Carey the younger, James Pye, William Elliott, George Wood, and James Read.

The yearly sum of 3*l.* is paid by Mrs. Brenchly, the owner of an estate in the parish, which comprises a field called Mascall's.

The amount is distributed with the preceding charity.

CLARKE'S CHARITY.

Clarke's Charity.

There is mentioned on a table of benefactions in the church an annuity of 1*l.*, the gift of Mr. Clarke, for the use of the poor of this parish, out of a messuage and lands in Bredgar-street, formerly of Ralph Reader, since of Mrs. Ludwell, then of the heirs of Edward Chapman, but now of Mrs. Pye and George Pye.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is received of James Pye, the owner of a house and land in Bredgar-street.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

There is also mentioned on the same table an annuity of 10*s.* for the use of the poor out of a field called Whitbread, at Dean's Hill, in this parish, formerly of Mr. Wood, then of Thomas and William May, but now of George Pye.

This rent-charge is paid in respect of a field called Whitebread, by the executors of the late George Pye.

These two annuities are also distributed on St. Thomas's-day, as above mentioned.

CHURCH ESTATE.

Church Estate.

On the table of benefactions the following premises are mentioned as held for the repairs of the parish church:—three tenements and 65 perches of land at the Bush, in Silver-street, let to the overseers of the poor at 20*s.* a-year, one acre and a half in Hinkin's Croft, and a small piece of land called the Playstole.

These premises appear to have been in the possession of the parish, and to have been demised by the churchwardens and parishioners in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and in one of the leases it is stated that the premises had been held, time out of memory of man, to the use of the repairs of the church.

The premises called Hinkin's Croft are held by William Wood, under a lease, bearing date 10th May 1822, granted by the churchwardens and overseers, with the consent of several parishioners, whose names are subscribed thereto, to Thomas Johnson, for the term of 14 years from Michaelmas 1821, at a fair yearly rent of 1*l.* 4*s.*

The land called the Playstole, containing about half an acre, is let to John Earll, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 1*l.* 1*s.* per annum.

These rents are carried to the churchwardens' account.

The tenements in Silver-street are held by the parish officers for the use of paupers, and no rent has been paid for several years.

Borden.

PARISH OF BORDEN.

BARROW'S CHARITY.

Barrow's Charity.

William Barrow, by his Will, bearing date 17th January 1707, devised to William Dixon of Maidstone, Thomas Cradock of Rainham, John Elliott of Queenborough, and William Bond of Linstead, and their heirs, all his messuages and lands in the parish of Borden; all his land and woodland in the parishes of Bobbing and Newington, belonging to Chesnut-street Farm; his messuage and land called New Marsh Lands Lees, and his parcels of land called Hole Brooks, in the parish of Eastchurch; his leases of two pieces of land called Carden's Hope, in Minster, and three parcels of marsh land called South Marshes, in the same parish (with directions to the trustees to renew the lease, according to custom); also his moiety of a messuage and farm in Lower Halstow; all his lands, tenements, and hereditaments, in Milton and Bobbing; a tenement, with the appurtenances, in Stockbury; a messuage, lands, and woodlands, in Detlin; two parcels of lands in Upchurch and Hartlip; all his lands in Tunstall; a messuage and lands in Hern Hill; his lands and woodlands in Newnham; his woodland in Lenham and Milsted; a messuage in Hartlip, with two orchards, and a messuage and smith's forge in Harrietsham, with the lands thereto belonging (excepting such as were before devised in fee); and the reversion of such of the several estates as were devised to his wife for life, in trust (the several rent-charges on the premises, and the charges of repairing, upholding, maintaining, keeping, and amending the premises, and the charges and expenses of executing the trust being first satisfied) to distribute all the rents and profits thereof unto and amongst the poor widows and poor men, living within the parish of Borden, who should not receive alms of the said parish, half-yearly, at Lady-day and Michaelmas-day, and, after charging the premises with annuities to different persons therein named, for their lives, he directed that on the decease of any of the trustees, for the time being, the survivors should choose another, and make a new feoffment, or other assurance, to the use of themselves and the person so chosen, on the like trust; and the said Will contains the following proviso: "But forasmuch as some poor persons, in a secret and fraudulent manner, have come into the parish of Borden, and settled there contrary to the good will and liking of the parishioners of the said parish, it is therefore my will and meaning, that no poor person whatever shall receive any benefit of this my last Will, who for the future shall come into the said parish by certificate, or by certificate go out of the said parish to another; nor any other person or persons whatever, but such only as shall be admitted into the parish by the consent of the parishioners and approbation of my trustees."

In 1708 an information was filed in the Court of Chancery by the Attorney-General, at the relation of the overseers of Borden, and two poor men of the same parish, against the trustees named in the Will, for the purpose of having the charity established and the directions of the Court as to the application of the rents.

The defendants put in an answer, setting forth, amongst other things, that the proceeds of the devised estate (in possession and reversion) amounted to 556*l.* 15*s.* a-year; that the estate was in great want of reparations, and that it would be for the benefit of the charity, first, to put the same into tenantable condition; that the rents were at their utmost value, and, as several tenants had given notice to quit unless considerable abatements were made, the income would probably, for the future, be much lessened; that the expense of maintaining certain sea-walls was also very great; and that there was a reserved rent to the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury of 4*l.*, besides the expense of renewing the lease; a rent-charge to the poor of Milton 5*l.; another to a hospital in Newark, 2*l.*; and a third to Queen's College, Cambridge, of 31*l.* 10*s.*; that the income was nevertheless very great in respect to the smallness of the parish, there being only 35 proper objects of the charity in the parish, as far as the defendants could ascertain. They therefore submitted to the Court, whether the income of the estate would not be more than sufficient; and were desirous of having the direction of the Court as to the execution of the trusts, and stated they hoped they should be allowed their expenses and charges, and also for their trouble and attendance on the repairs, the letting the estate, and distribution of the rents; and the defendants further set forth that they had heard that the churchwardens and inhabitants refused, since the testator's death, to collect the poor's rate, which used to amount to 50*l.* yearly.

On the 22d March 1709, it was referred to the Master to ascertain what would be a fit salary to be allowed to the receiver; and it was ordered that the receivership should be first offered to the trustees, that any two of them should be allowed to be receivers, but not more than two at any one time; and that, if they refused, another person should be appointed, giving security. It was further ordered that the trustees should account annually for what they should respectively receive to a vestry of the said parish, to be called for that purpose, a week's notice, at least, being first given, and that the vestry should allow the salary for the receivership, fixed by the Master, and all other just allowances for repairs, or otherwise, relating to the trust; and after the passing of the accounts that three duplicates thereof should be made, and subscribed by the trustees, the parson, and the chief persons of such vestry—one to be left with the parson, another to be locked up in a chest in the vestry, and the third to remain with the trustees; that the trustees, though they were to account annually, were to make half-yearly payments to the widows and the poorest sort of the parish, next to those who were receiving parish relief, or ought to be entitled to relief by the poor's rates, in equal portions, in sums amounting to not less than 5*l.* yearly; and that the trustees, or a majority of them, should, on the death of any of them, choose a successor, but that such new trustee should not be of the parish of Borden, or have lands in the said parish.

The Master, by his report, fixed the allowance to the two receivers at 20*l.* a-piece annually, besides all the expenses in execution of the trust; and he set forth a schedule of the estates, stating the annual value of those in possession to be 483*l.*, and of those in reversion 68*l.*

Trustees have been appointed by deed from time to time, as vacancies have occurred by death, the survivors having, according to the directions of the decree, elected another person, not residing or having property in the parish of Borden, nor holding any of the trust property.

The present trustees are—

| The Rev. R. O. Tylden, | January 1820. |
| W. W. T. Baldwin, esq. | April 1829. |
| Sir John Maxwell Tylden, | April 1832. |

It is to be observed that all the present trustees are connected by marriage, or otherwise, and the trust has been for many years vested in the family of Tylden.

On every appointment the property is conveyed to the use of the new trustee, with the survivors, at an expense of about 17*l.*

| Eastchurch | Great Bells Marsh . . . . | 442 | 2 | 0 | Sam. The keeping up of the sea-walls for the protection of the old and new marshes, included in this letting, the extent of which it is stated exceeds a mile, is a source of continual expense; the average annual amount in the last 10 years has been about £47. The property, being leasehold under the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, is subject to a yearly rent of £4, and a fine for renewal every seven years; the amount of which was, in 1830, £174, besides about £12 for fees. |

The rent and the expenses of repairs are divided proportionably. In the last 10 years the amount of the repairs, charged to the account of the charity, has been £72. 13*s.* 9*d.* |

The buildings being in very bad condition, and the trustees having no room in which they could hold their meetings, it was thought advisable to erect new buildings, with a sufficient room for the meetings of the trustees and parishioners on the business of the charity, and they accordingly expended £210 in erecting two new houses, and £167 in rebuilding the blacksmith's forge, &c. The premises were afterwards let, exclusive of the room which was reserved for transacting the business of the trust, at £47 a-year. This rent was, however, reduced in 1835, on the recommendation of a surveyor, to £37. The expense of fitting up the room above mentioned, of the ornamental plastering and the furnishing it, were defrayed by the trustees themselves, and not charged to the account of the charity. |

The several tenants above mentioned, except Bentham, hold from year to year, and at fair, if not high, rents. In 1835 it was found necessary to make some considerable abatements.

There is also a sum of 300*l.* New Three and a half per Cents. standing in the names of the trustees, producing annual dividends to the amount of 10*l.* 10*s.*, making the total income of the charity 1,327*l.* 7*s.*

The stock was purchased out of the income of 1833-4, for the purpose, as stated by the trustees, of providing a fund for the payment of the annual sum of 11*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*, for the insurance of the charity property, though why there should be any particular provision for this more than any other branch of the expenditure does not appear.

Out of the income the following payments are made:—

There is also payable a fine every seven years to the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, for the renewal of the lease of the South Marshes, and the expenses of repairs on the estates.

In the last 10 years the sums paid for repairs and new buildings have amounted to 3,275*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.*

Out of the clear income 800*l.* a-year has been disposed of in the relief of poor parishioners of Borden, 80 persons having each received 10*l.* a-year.

Applications for these pensions are made to the trustees through their clerk, who examines the claimants, and enters in a book, kept for that purpose, a full statement of their circumstances, which is afterwards submitted to the overseers of the poor, in order that each case may be investigated at a vestry. If any person appears to have gained a settlement fraudulently, with a view of obtaining a qualification for the charity, or any other objection occurs, or if any individual appears more particularly deserving of the charity, such circumstances are represented to the trustees, and they act upon the recommendation of the parishioners; but if there is no particular reason for departing from such a course, the usual practice is to appoint the claimants according to the priority of the applications; no persons are appointed except such as are settled parishioners, resident in the parish, and have never received parochial relief; when once appointed they continue to receive their pensions for their lives, unless they leave the parish, receive parish relief, or acquire sufficient property to make them independent. It is represented that in some instances the trustees have permitted persons to continue in the receipt of the charity after they have acquired a competent income from other sources; it is to be observed however, that there is much difficulty in ascertaining precisely when an individual has attained such a position, and that, if the principle was acted upon with great strictness, it would tend to discourage industry. With respect to the disqualification by the receipt of parochial relief, it will be seen hereafter that the other charities are frequently applied expressly to prevent the pensioners on this charity from forfeiting their claim by applying to the parish officers for relief.

A meeting is held every 25th October for the purpose of appointing to the vacancies, and some of the principal parishioners usually attend, and due attention seems to be given to any objections or recommendations of the vestry.

The payment of the pension is made, in some instances annually, in October, and in others 6*l.* is paid in October, and 4*l.* at another meeting held in April.

The number of persons participating in the benefit of this charity has not varied for the last 20 years, and, though not admitted, it would seem that there was some reluctance on the part of the trustees to extend the distribution either by increasing the number of the poor, or the allowances to each person; and that the permanent improvement of the property has been a more favourite object; such an inference might, at least, be drawn from the extent of the expenditure in the redemption of land-tax, in building on the estate, the purchase of land, and the investment in the funds. It is stated that the buildings on the estate are most of them in good repair, except the public-house at Milton, and some of the cottages; so that, though there may be some apprehensions as to the necessity of making a further reduction in the rents, an extension of the charity is certainly practicable, and there were, at the time of this inquiry, 16 applications for admission. It may be doubted, however, whether the operation of this charity has not been, in some respects, rather of prejudice than of benefit to the parish, and consequently whether the extension of it is, on the part of the parishioners, much to be desired.

Of the four trustees two take the office of receivers in one year, and the other two in the year following, and so in rotation; the accounts are audited annually at a vestry, so far as the comparing the entries with the vouchers; but it has not been the practice for the parishioners to make any further inquiry as to the expediency of any part of the expenditure; but, as the decree of 1708 requires that the vestry should allow the salary for the receivership, fixed by the Master, and all other just allowances for repairs, or otherwise relating to the trust, the justness of such charges seems to be properly within their cognizance, and the allowance of them by the vestry necessary for the discharge of the trustees.

Three books are kept in which the accounts are entered, one of which is kept by the minister, one by the vestry, and the third by the trustees.

The following is a summary of the accounts of the last 10 years:—

Borden.

Evered's Charity.

EVERED'S CHARITY.

It is stated on a table of benefactions in the church that two pieces of land in Borden, and in Stockbury, containing together six acres, were given for the use of the poor by Thomas Evered, vicar. And there is a similar entry in a book containing the accounts of this and the following charities from the year 1723.

Of this land four acres lying in Borden are let to Thomas Hovenden at 5*l.* a-year, and two acres in Stockbury to Thomas Clinch at 2*l.* a-year. These are fair rents, and the tenants hold from year to year.

The lands are let from time to time at a vestry, and the rents are received by the churchwardens, and disposed of in payments to poor persons belonging to the parish (occasionally to some who are not resident in it), but chiefly to persons of good character, who, on account of illness, accidents, or other temporary distress, would apply to the parish officers for assistance, and would thereby lose the benefit of Barrow's charity.

The accounts containing the name of every person who has been relieved are produced annually at a vestry, and audited with the churchwardens' accounts. In June 1835 there was a balance of 5*l.* 18*s.* 5*d.* in hand.

Goodland's Charity.

GOODLAND'S CHARITY.

In the same book, and on the table of benefactions, it is stated that Michael Goodland, by his Will, gave to the poor a messuage, orchard, and garden.

These premises were occupied formerly as a workhouse, but, since the operation of the New Poor Law Act, the inmates have been removed to the Union workhouse, and it was let at Michaelmas 1835, at a yearly rent of 10*l.*

DONOR UNKNOWN.

It is also stated that a person unknown gave five seams of barley, payable out of the parsonage of Borden, every Good Friday. In the table of benefactions it is stated to be for the use of poor farmers of the parish; also two bushels of wheat to be given every Easter-day, payable out of the said parsonage.

* This sum comprised the last payments for the new house, the whole expenditure having been about 1,500*l.*

The impropriate rectory of Borden belongs to George Musgrave, esq., and his tenant, John Walter, delivers annually five quarters of barley, or the value thereof in money, according to the market price, as determined at a vestry; he also provides two bushels of wheat, which is ground and made into bread.

The money paid in lieu of the barley is distributed to about 40, and the bread to about 25, poor persons selected by the vestry.

KENNARD'S CHARITY.

Kennard's Charity.

In the charity book above mentioned, as well as the table of benefactions, it is stated that John Kennard gave a seam of malt to be paid every Ascension Thursday out of tithe-free land belonging to a farm at Oade-street.

The property alluded to consists of 20 acres, the property of John Vinson. It seems to have been considered that the proprietors of this estate had the option of delivering a quarter of wheat or malt, or of paying the value of either of them in money. Of late years the value of a quarter of wheat has been paid according to the market price determined at the vestry.

This charity is divided, with the preceding, amongst 16 persons on Good Friday.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

From the same documents it appears that bread, to the value of five groats, is to be distributed every Easter-day in respect of an orchard adjoining a farm called Iron Latch, late Stephen Chapman's, of Sittingbourne.

There is a garden in the parish on which a house formerly stood, adjoining Iron Latch, belonging to or in the occupation of John Loft, of Borden, who pays 1*s.* 8*d.* yearly, which is added to the bread given away on Good Friday.

HATCH'S CHARITY.

Hatch's Charity.

John Hatch, by his Will, bearing date 6th May 1533, willed that Johane, his wife, should enjoy the messuage in which he then dwelt, and all other his messuages, lands, and tenements, in the town and liberty of Faversham, all his land and tenements, marshes, &c., in the Isle of Harty, called Elliott's, Walter's, and Calley's, and all his lands, tenements, marshes, &c., in the parishes of Iklesham, Guestling, Odem, and Brede, in the county of Sussex, for her life, and, after directing that the rents and profits should be disposed of to certain charitable and religious uses therein mentioned for 20 years after the decease of his wife, he willed that there should be a yearly obit of 13*s.* 4*d.*, kept in the parish church by the churchwardens for the further term of 20 years; and that, if during such time the mayor, jurats and commonalty should obtain the King's licence, with other requisites, to amortize the said lands and tenements, the said mayor, jurats and commonalty should, immediately after the end of the last mentioned 20 years, have the said lands and tenements to them and their successors, to the use and maintenance of the haven and creek of the town of Faversham, and the highways within a mile of the said town, and the maintaining and ornamenting of the parish church; the costs and charges of obtaining which licence he willed should be allowed out of the revenues of the premises: and, in case the licence of amortizement should not be obtained, he directed that the premises should be sold, and the produce disposed of as therein mentioned.

The corporation appear to have obtained a licence in mortmain in the 35th year of Henry VIII., so as to enable themselves to claim the devised estate, and they succeeded in establishing their title after a long and expensive suit in the Court of Chancery against the Lady Arncott (the testator's widow) and E. Parker.

In the return made by the town-clerk of Faversham of the charitable funds of this corporation, in pursuance of a resolution of the House of Commons, dated 8th February 1833, it is stated as follows: "This suit lasted a great number of years in the Ecclesiastical Court, and in Chancery, so that the expense of procuring the mortmain, with the interest thereof for 30 years, and of the law-suits, in the whole amounted unto upwards of 300*l.* more than the full value of the estate bequeathed, upon a fair estimation. The means used to support this great and continual expense by the corporation were the divesting themselves of almost all their estates, consisting of many houses and several parcels of land; and when the money arising from these were exhausted, the whole town was assessed several times, with an agreement to pay the individuals on recovering the estates. The orders for the sale of the estates, and for the assessments (both for the purposes above mentioned), appear on record. Having thus diminished their general funds, it has been deemed reasonable that (the primary objects of the testator being first attended to) the surplus should go for general purposes, and the account has been so kept for the last 50 years and upwards."

The same argument having been used on this inquiry in justification of the corporation, who had expended the income derived from this charity, in great measure at their own discretion, without reference to the particular directions of the donor, it seemed desirable, at least, to ascertain how far the corporation had contributed, from their own funds, to the ultimate acquisition of the property; and, on examining the accounts and minutes of the corporation, it appeared that, for the purpose of paying the charges of the law-suit, they gave orders for the sale of five small pieces of land and two houses; the sum received for five lots, which appear to have been sold, amounted only to 33*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.*, and there seems no reason to suppose that any other corporation property was sold. It further appears that several cesses were raised in the town for the maintenance of the suit, to which members of the corporation individually contributed. All these cesses, being eight in number, were entered in the minutes in or about the year 1572, according to a resolution of the mayor, jurats and commonalty, "that it might appear what was lent and laid out by the inhabitants of the said town, to the intent that there might be satisfaction and payment made thereof again to the same inhabitants, their executors, and assigns, when the said lands should come to the town after the death of the Lady Arncott."

The total amount of the eight cesses was 226*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*, but out of the property of the trust satisfaction was ultimately made to the individuals who were thus assessed, or to the greater part of them, and also to the corporation as a body, for any advances made by them.

One of the estates devised by the donor, viz., that in the Isle of Harty, was sold, in or about 1577, for the sum of 400*l.* for the payment, as is stated in the accounts, "of the town's debt borrowed and laid out in suit of law between the mayor, jurats, and commonalty, and the Lady Arncott and E. Parker, for obtaining the same lands." The sum of 400*l.* was carried to the chamberlain's general account, out of which 214*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.* was paid to divers persons for their cesses (the whole amount of which was, as before observed, only 226*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*), and the remainder appears to have been applied in aid of the funds of the corporation for public or charitable purposes unconnected with this trust.

The evidence above stated seems fully to contradict the supposition that for the recovery of the charity estate the corporation advanced anything from their corporate funds which was not afterwards amply repaid.

The property belonging to the charity consists of the following particulars:—

First, A messuage and farm called Brooke's Farm, in Icklesham, Guestling, and Brede, in Sussex, consisting of 313 A. 0 R. 9 P., demised by the mayor, jurats and commonalty, 11th October 1832, to Jeremiah Smith for 14 years from the date, at the yearly rent of 525*l.*, with a covenant by the lessee to keep the messuage, buildings, and fences in repair, being allowed rough timber from the premises by the lessors; also to lay out 500*l.* in building a stable, oast-house, and granary, which buildings the lessors agreed to purchase according to a valuation, at the end of the term.

The preceding rent had been 700*l.*, but previously to the new letting three members of the corporation viewed the estate with a professional surveyor, who valued it at 508*l.* a-year. The reserved rent is subject to a deduction for assessments for repairing the sea-walls and drainage, the total amount of which, during the last six years, was 46*l.* 16*s.*

Second, A messuage called the Queen's Arms, a stable and out-house, with an orchard, containing one acre, situate on the south side of Preston-street, or Market-street, Faversham, demised, 26th September 1827, to Thomas Solly, (with the exception of a cart-lodge, let to John Hankins; a passage, lately demised to John Rigden, leading to the back of the Dolphin inn, then in the occupation of Martha Buck, and formerly occupied with the demised premises; and also the great front room, and two other rooms, to be used by the lessors at their will and pleasure,) for 14 years, from Michaelmas then next, at the yearly rent of 35*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessors to keep all the premises, excepting the windows, in repair.

Of the excepted premises, those let to J. Rigden and Martha Buck appear to be part of another property, called Ballden's Garden (Mustard's Charity). The cart-lodge is let, with the property hereafter mentioned, to C. Smith. The rooms reserved to the use of the lessors are part of the property of this charity, and were, till lately, used for the corporation dinners, and for the members to assemble in previous to their attending the mayor's court and other processions. Up to September 1834 the chamberlain entered on one side of his account (the charity and the corporation accounts being blended together) 6*l.* 6*s.* as paid for the rent of these rooms; and on the other side he entered the receipt for the same sum. The corporation have ceased to use these rooms from September 1834, but they have not been let, and it is doubtful what rent can be obtained for them.

Third, A messuage, with the shops and appurtenances, on the south side of Market-street, abutting on the Queen's Arms west, demised to Charles Smith, 9th August 1830, for 14 years, from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of 31*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessors to keep the buildings in repair. This lease was granted in consideration that the lessee had expended 100*l.* in the repairs of the premises, according to a previous agreement.

Fourth, A messuage, &c., also abutting on the Queen's Arms. These premises were, in consideration of a sum of 15*l.*, demised, 6th May 1695, by the description of a piece of land, containing in breadth 3 feet 9 inches at the south end thereof, and 1 foot 6 inches at the north end thereof, and in length 68 feet 9 inches, to Bennett Easley, who, it is recited, was minded to build on the premises, for a term of 999 years from Michaelmas 1711, at the yearly rent of 1*l.* The property comprised in this lease has been purchased by Charles Smith, the lessee of the preceding premises; and there is a memorandum endorsed on the counterpart of the lease of 1830 to that effect, in order that he may not claim it as part of his own freehold, which adjoins.

The yearly amount of the gross rents above mentioned, exclusive of the rent of the great room, &c., is 592*l.*

The rents of this estate were received by the town-chamberlain, but carried to a separate account, from the year 1738 to 1779, and the expenditure seems principally to have consisted of charges for maintaining the creek and sluices, the repairs of highways, paving, and lighting the streets, the payment of the organist's salary, the repairs of the organ, and the ornamenting of the church. The rates, taxes, and repairs of the great room were also charged to this account, and an allowance made to the chamberlain for keeping the accounts, and to the town-clerk for entering them.

Faversham.

At the close of the account of 1779 there was a balance in the hands of the chamberlain of 164*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.*, which was carried to the account of 1780, but in that year, and up to the present time, the accounts of Hatch's charity have been blended with those of the corporation.

The payments now made from the general account, and which appear referable to Hatch's trust, are the following :—

Expenses of deepening and cleansing the creek, maintaining the sluices, &c.; the amount of which, in the two years preceding Michaelmas 1835, was 415*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.*; the expense of the previous years having been only 15*l.* per annum, paid under an arrangement made with the Board of Ordnance, as hereafter mentioned.

A yearly payment to the commissioners for paving and lighting the town; the whole sum paid is 200*l.*, but it will be seen that part of this sum is chargeable to the revenues of the corporation. There was also paid in the year 1834-5, for the purchase of a frontage for widening the street, 25*l.*

A yearly salary to the organist of 40*l.*, and a yearly sum of 5*l.* 15*s.* allowed for the repairs of the organ. There has also been paid within the last six years for ornaments of the church a sum of 19*l.*; for the singing-master and children a gratuity of 12*l.*

The only other payments referable to this trust are for repairs, and other outgoings connected with the charity property, of which no distinct account is kept, and a portion of the chamberlain's and of the town-clerk's allowances in consideration of their trouble with regard to the trust.

Exclusive of these last-mentioned charges, the amount paid by the corporation in the six years ending Michaelmas 1835 was 1952*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.*, and the gross receipts, during the same period, amounted to 3,283*l.* 10*s.*, exclusive of 800*l.* received in the year 1833 from the Board of Ordnance.

With regard to the maintenance of the creek, articles of agreement were executed 4th June 1807, between the lieutenant and officers of the Board of Ordnance of the one part, and the mayor, jurats and commonalty of Faversham, of the other part, whereby the Board of Ordnance, in consideration of 400*l.*, paid by the corporation out of the general account above mentioned, towards the expense of erecting a sluice, or flood-gate, with a foot-path over it, and of 15*l.* a-year agreed to be paid towards the repairs thereof, and for providing a person to attend the same, (the Board having already erected the said sluice and foot-bridge,) agreed to keep the same in repair, and to provide a person to attend thereto.

By deed, bearing date 1st January 1833, the officers of the Board of Ordnance gave up to the corporation the sluice and foot-bridge, and the corporation, in consideration thereof, and of 800*l.* paid to them, released the Board of Ordnance from their agreement, covenanting only not to dam it up oftener than was therein specified.

Since the determination of the agreement of 1807 this trust has become again burthened with all the expenses attending the creek and sluice.

With regard to the repairs of the highways within a mile of the town of Faversham, an Act of Parliament was passed, 29th Geo. III., for paving and lighting the town; and it was thereby provided that the corporation, having been accustomed to pave and repair the street and ways in and near the town, should be discharged therefrom, and that, in consideration thereof, they should pay 80*l.* yearly out of the tolls or duties called the Town Droits, and a like sum of 80*l.* out of the other revenues of the said mayor, jurats and commonalty.

The liability of the corporation to repair the highways having arisen in part, at least, from their being trustees under Hatch's Will, it would appear, by the term "other revenues of the mayor, jurats and commonalty," this trust was intended, and consequently that the trust was discharged by the Act from all liability to repair any of the highways within the scope of that Act, on payment of 80*l.* a-year. The commissioners defray all the ordinary expenses of repairing the streets within the town and the roads between the town and the London road; but the repairs of the other roads within a mile of the town, which are now repaired by the parochial and highway rates, would fall within the limits of this trust.

Out of the joint account of the town and Hatch's trust 200*l.*, instead of 160*l.*, is paid annually to the commissioners, and if any extraordinary expense, as the widening of a street, has been required, such expense has been also paid out of the same accounts, under the direction of the corporation.

With regard to the third branch of the trust, the maintaining the ornaments of the church, the corporation appear to have been always ready to advance money to any works about the church which can be considered as contributing to the beautifying or the ornamenting of it, but not to such as may be charged to the parish rates as repairs; in 1826, 60*l.* was voted for the making an ornamental window at the east end of the church.

Although, from the year 1780 to the present time, a very large proportion of the income derived from Hatch's estates has been, in fact, carried to the account of the corporation, it is right to observe that the application thereof, though not referable to the directions of the donor, have been chiefly for public uses and the benefit of the town, and under these circumstances a court of equity would probably feel great reluctance to make the corporation account for any arrears. It seems, however, incumbent on the corporation to commence from the present time a separate account of the trust property, and to confine the application of the rents to the specific purposes mentioned in the donor's Will; and if, as will probably be the case, the income shall be found more than sufficient for such purposes, it will be their duty to apply to a court of equity for directions how to dispose of the surplus.

Menfield's Almshouses.

Menfield's Almshouses.

Thomas Menfield, by his Will, bearing date 26th July 1614, bequeathed to the mayor, jurats and commonalty, 1000*l.*, with a proviso that the same should be void if his executor, Christopher Saker, should purchase a convenient place within the town of Faversham, and thereon build six almshouses for six poor widows, and also purchase land to the value of 30*l.* per annum for ever, for the maintenance of the said almshouses and widows. And he willed to each of the said widows 3*l.* per annum, to be paid quarterly out of the profits of the lands so to be purchased; and that the mayor, jurats and commonalty should yearly on the 6th October elect one jurat and one commoner to be governors of the said houses and lands for the year following, who should pass their account to the next governors; and he willed that 1*l.* of the rent should be spent in a dinner at the passing of the said account; and that the residue for the first 10 years should form a fund for any extraordinary expenses.

The executor, Christopher Saker, appears to have purchased a parcel of ground in Preston-street, and to have built thereon six almshouses; but not having purchased any land for the endowment of them, a committee waited upon him in 1623, (as appears from an entry in the wardmote books,) and they reported that they found him very sick and likely to die, but that he had offered 450*l.* in money to the corporation, they to purchase the said lands. This sum the corporation accepted, and it was ordered that the same should be lent out at interest.

In the return made to the House of Commons in pursuance of the resolution of 8th June 1833 it is stated that this money was lent out and lost. It appears, however, from the minutes of a wardmote, that, in 1650, 100*l.* was called in and ordered to be paid for the purchase of divers fee-farm rents for the use of the town; and in 1658 it was ordered that 300*l.* almshouse-money, formerly borrowed by the town at 7 per cent., should bear interest at 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per cent.

At a wardmote held 6th September 1686,—a letter having been received from the Archbishop of Canterbury, desiring that, as their charter had been renewed, the mayor, jurats and commonalty would secure a fund for the yearly payment of the interest on 450*l.*, paid into the hands of the town for the maintenance of six poor widows in Menfield's almhouses, and the repairs thereof,—it was ordered that the town droits should be forthwith settled by deed under the common seal by the then mayor, with the proviso that, if the town should pay yearly to the governors of the almshouses 27*l.*, to be applied according to the Will of T. Menfield, the same should be void.

From this period the corporation have considered themselves bound to pay out of the town revenues the yearly sum of 27*l.*, but they have, in fact, paid a much larger sum.

The almshouses consist of six tenements under one roof, and a small garden at the back. They are occupied by six poor widows appointed by the mayor and jurats. They receive out of the account called the "Town and Hatch's Account," by the hands of the chamberlain, a weekly allowance amounting to about 55*l.* a-year; and out of the same account the premises are kept in repair; all these payments have, in the last six years, averaged 64*l.* 10*s.* per annum.*

The income of these almspeople has been augmented by the following benefactions.

Peake's Gift.—Elizabeth Peake, by her Will, bearing date 5th December 1787, and proved in London, gave 50*l.* Old South Sea Annuities, to the mayor, jurats and commonalty, in trust, to pay the dividends thereof equally amongst the six poor widows in Menfield's almshouses, as an increase to what they then received from the said corporation.

This stock stands in the name of the corporation, producing dividends to the amount of 1*l.* 10*s.* per annum.

Grueber's Gift.—Henry Grueber, by his Will, bearing date 22d August 1805, and proved in London, gave 200*l.* South Sea Annuities, to be transferred into the names of the mayor, jurats and commonalty, in trust, that they should pay the interest thereof amongst the six poor widows residing in the six almshouses in Preston-street, each to receive 10*s.* half-yearly.

The sum of 200*l.* Old South Sea Annuities stands in the name of the corporation, producing 6*l.* per annum.

Hogben's Gift.—Margaret Hogben, by her Will, bearing date 30th April 1807, gave 200*l.* Bank Annuities, to the mayor, jurats, &c., in trust that they should pay the interest thereof, as the same should become due, amongst the six poor widows inhabiting the Preston-street almshouses, in equal shares.

The personal estate of the testatrix having proved insufficient for the payment of her legacies in full, her executors transferred into the name of the corporation in respect of this legacy 92*l.* 7*s.* Three per Cent. Reduced, and 50*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.* Consols, and paid 1*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* in cash, as the balance due.

These sums of stock stand in the name of the corporation, producing dividends of 4*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* per annum.

Faversham.

Fowtrell's Gift.—Mary Fowtrell, of Canterbury, by her Will, bearing date 5th May 1813, gave 250*l.* to be invested in the funds in the names of the mayor and jurats, in trust to pay the interest amongst the poor widows residing in six almshouses in the town of Faversham, in equal shares.

In respect of this legacy there is 375*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Reduced, standing in the name of the corporation, producing dividends of 11*l.* 5*s.* per annum.

Barne's Gift.—In 1827 it was agreed at a wardmote that 50*l.*, which had not been expended by Thomas Barnes during his mayoralty, (100*l.* a-year being allowed the mayor for the time being,) should be placed in a savings' bank, and that the interest should be paid to the widows in Menfield's almshouses.

This sum still remains deposited in the savings' bank, and the interest amounts to 1*l.* 13*s.* 3*d.* per annum.

Beckett's Gift.—These almspeople are also entitled to 15*l.* 12*s.* per annum from Beckett's charity hereinafter mentioned.

From the income of each of the charities above mentioned, 3*s.* 4*d.* per annum is deducted as a remuneration to the town-clerk for keeping the accounts, and a small sum in proportion to the amount of the income, from one to one-and-a-half per cent., towards the salary of the chamberlain.

The residue of the income is divided annually in money in equal proportions amongst the six almspeople.

Collier's Gift.—Robert Collier, by his Will, bearing date 16th May 1814, bequeathed to the mayor, jurats, &c., 150*l.*, Four per Cent. stock, in trust, with the dividends, to purchase coals in the month of October, and divide them equally amongst such of the poor widows in the Preston-street almshouses as should constantly reside therein.

This stock was transferred into the name of the corporation, but in 1827 it was sold out and the produce reinvested in the purchase of 176*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*, Consols, producing annual dividends to the amount of 5*l.* 5*s.* 10*d.* The legacy-duty was not paid till 1827, and in consequence of this expense the surplus dividends were not disposed of in coal until 1834, when 5*l.* 14*s.* was paid for coals for the almspeople, leaving a balance of 6*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* in hand.

Blake's Gift.—Caleb Blake, by a codicil annexed to his Will, and bearing date 6th February 1835, in lieu of a legacy mentioned in his Will, bequeathed to the mayor, jurats and commonalty, 200*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, in trust, to lay out the dividends yearly in the purchase of coal, and to distribute the same, at such times and in such manner as to them should seem best, amongst the six widows belonging to Menfield's almshouses who should constantly reside therein, or should otherwise lay out the same for the benefit of the said widows, as to them should seem best.

The accounts of the executors were not made up in December 1835, the period of this inquiry, but the legacy was about to be transferred into the name of the corporation, the duty being first deducted.

Wreight's Gift.—In 1823 Henry Wreight, esq., offered to build six additional almshouses for poor widows, to which the corporation agreed, on condition that he should settle on the tenants of the six old houses, as an addition to their present income, 1*l.* per annum each. Mr. Wreight accordingly built six new houses, and has appointed six widows to live there, and he pays 1*l.* a-year to each of Menfield's almswomen.

It is understood that it is his intention to make a permanent provision according to his agreement with the corporation.

NAPLETON'S ALMSHOUSES.

Napleton's Almshouses.

Thomas Napleton, by his Will, bearing date 2d February 1721, devised to the mayor, jurats, &c., and their successors, all his lands and tenements in Faversham and Hern Hill, in trust, to found a hospital to be built out of the rents thereof at Farmer's Green, in Faversham, for six poor old men of the town of Faversham, to be placed therein by the said corporation, and that they should give out of the rents to each of such poor men 5*l.* yearly, and a new coat every two years, and that the residue should be yearly applied to the benefit of the said poor men as the corporation should think fit.

The property derived under the Will of Thomas Napleton consists of—

1. A messuage farm-house, barns, lands, &c., in the parish of Hern Hill, containing 70 acres by estimation, demised by the mayor, jurats and commonalty, 30th September 1835, to James Wreight, for 14 years from Michaelmas then next, at the yearly rent of 130*l.*, the lessors keeping the buildings, gates, &c., in repair. The rent for the previous term of 14 years was 138*l.*

2. Two orchards, called Napleton's Hop-ground and Orchard, in Faversham, containing one acre and a quarter, near Farmer's Green, on the back part of the almshouses, demised, 9th August 1830, to Henry Jennings, for 14 years from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of 22*l.* The lessee has lately become bankrupt, one year and a half's rent being in arrear.

3. An orchard called Napleton's Orchard, containing two acres, in Faversham, with a small piece of ground lately laid to the same, demised, 23d February 1833, to Edmund Elvy, for 14 years from Michaelmas then last, at 18*l.*

4. A piece of garden-ground containing one acre and a quarter, in Faversham, near St. Ann's Cross, adjoining the last-mentioned premises, demised 31st December 1822 for 21 years from Michaelmas last, at the yearly rent of 6*l.*

5. Eight houses in West-street, Faversham, let to several yearly tenants at 48*l.*

These houses adjoin each other, and are all in fair repair excepting two which are very old.

Faversham.

6. There is also 100*l.* Consols standing in the name of the corporation, the dividends on which make up the whole income 227*l.* 6*s.*

This stock was purchased in 1833, out of a balance in hand, which had been increased by the receipt of 22*l.* for some alders cut on the charity land.

The almshouses consist of six tenements, and a building in the centre, formerly used as a chapel, but now occupied by a poor man who is a candidate for the next vacancy, and there is a good garden attached to the premises.

The almspeople are poor men, chiefly decayed tradesmen of the town of Faversham, appointed by the mayor, jurats and commonalty, according to the majority of votes.

Each almsman receives 25*l.* a-year, by monthly payments, and a coat every two years, the cost of the six coats being about 15*l.*

The average expenses of repairs and other outgoings amount, on an average of the last six years, to about 71*l.* per annum; there is also paid to the town-clerk for keeping the accounts 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum, and the proportion of the chamberlain's salary, between 5*l.* and 6*l.*

In September 1834 there was a balance in hand of 108*l.* 14*s.*; and since 1824 there has never been a less balance when the accounts have been made up; in one year it amounted to upwards of 300*l.* It is thought advisable that there should always be a sufficient fund to meet any extraordinary expense of repairs; but it is clear that any surplus beyond what is necessary for such emergencies ought to be disposed of for the benefit of the almspeople.

Castlock's Charity.

Castlock's Charity.

John Castlock, by his Will, bearing date 20th May 1651, gave (after his wife's decease) to the mayor and commonalty of the town of Faversham, and their successors, certain lands in the parish of St. Thomas, in the Isle of Harty, called Finnars, the yearly rent thereof to be employed for the putting out yearly of poor children of Faversham aforesaid, apprentices; and he directed that the said corporation should give yearly an account in writing of the performance of the said trust to his heir-at-law.

The property of this charity consists of a piece of meadow or pasture land, called Finnars, containing 29 A. 1 R. 15 P. demised by the mayor, jurats and commonalty, 21st November 1830, with a right of way leading from Harty Ferry, as particularly described in the lease, to Edward Toker, for 14 years from Michaelmas then last, at a good yearly rent of 35*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to keep the fences in repair.

About 1828 the fences on this property were put into thorough repair at a considerable expense; 223*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* was paid in that year out of the charity account, but 50*l.* 14*s.* 10*d.* was repaid by the tenant according to a previous agreement.

There is also standing in the name of the corporation 400*l.* Consols, purchased out of the surplus income, 192*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* having been laid out in the purchase of 300*l.* Consols in 1805, and 92*l.* 5*s.* in the purchase of 100*l.* stock in 1834.

Out of the income, after paying the allowances to the town-clerk and chamberlain, as in the other charities, apprentices are placed out by the corporation. Any boys resident in the town or parish, whether their fathers are freemen or not, are admitted on application to the mayor, subject to the approval of a wardmote. Since January 1825 ten apprentices have been placed out with an allowance of 10*l.* each, and 35 with an allowance of 5*l.*

The town-clerk receives 12*s.* 6*d.* for drawing the indentures, and hitherto a 1*l.* stamp has been unnecessarily affixed thereto. These payments are made out of the allowances above mentioned, and the residue is laid out in clothing for the apprentice.

The benefit thus arising to the master is so small that there are not sufficient applications to exhaust the income. At Michaelmas 1834 there was a balance of 126*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.* in hand, 92*l.* having been invested in the preceding year. It seems, therefore, desirable that some new arrangement should be made, as well with regard to the amount of the premium as the mode of paying it; and it is stated that it would render the charity far more beneficial if masters could be prevailed upon to receive the apprentices into their own houses.

Stransham's Charity.

Stransham's Charity.

Thomas Stransham, by his Will, bearing date 6th October 1584, gave to the poor of Faversham the first half-year's rent of his two tenements, barns, and buildings, called Hawke's Wells and Beetles, with the lands thereto belonging, and 20 acres of marsh in Well Marsh, lying in Luddenham, Buckland, and Menston, let at 16*l.* per annum; and, after that first year a yearly rent-charge of 3*l.*, to be distributed in wood, coal, or money; but 13*s.* 4*d.* to be paid them for their trouble, with a power of distress in case of nonpayment.

The yearly sum of 3*l.* is paid to the chamberlain by Charles Wrench, in respect of property in Luddenham, held under the Drapers' Company, London, and belonging to Harwar's trust.

This sum, after deducting the town-clerk's and chamberlain's allowances, is kept as a fund to be distributed, at the discretion of the mayor, to the poor in coals. This, however, is irregular, and for five years preceding 1833 nothing was distributed. In that year 14*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* was disposed of, and in September 1835 there was a balance in hand of 7*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.*

Saker's Charity.

Saker's Charity.

William Saker, by his Will, bearing date 16th May 1594, gave to the mayor, jurats and commonalty of Faversham, and their successors, a yearly rent-charge of 10*l.* out of his lands in Harty, to be distributed by them, with the privity of the collectors for the poor, to the use of the poor; and also another rent-charge of 5*l.* out of the same lands for the maintenance of a lecture to be read and preached in church, so as they should provide their preacher within one year after his death; the same to continue so long as the said lecture should continue; with power of distress in case of nonpayment.

The yearly sum of 12*l.* 10*s.* was paid up to the year 1834 by Charles Brook, deceased, who was the owner of lands in Harty, 2*l.* 10*s.* being deducted for land-tax; in 1835 the same payment was made by Sir Edward Bankes.

Out of this account there is paid 4*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* to the Rev. Dr. Birt, the vicar, for a lecture, and the usual allowances made to the town-clerk and chamberlain; the residue is kept as a fund to be distributed to the poor, at the discretion of the mayor, in bread or coal, but this distribution has of late years been very irregular.

In September 1835 there was a balance of 40*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.* due to the poor.

MUSTARD'S CHARITY.

Mustard's Charity.

Thomas Mustard, citizen of London, by his Will, bearing date 10th July 1634, desired his brother, John Mustard, to convey to the mayor of Faversham, with such persons as the said mayor and jurats, for the time being, should think fit, three messuages, with three gardens, in Faversham, theretofore granted to the said John Mustard, for the use of the poor of the town of Faversham, viz. that 2*s.* 6*d.* should be given weekly in bread on Sundays, or Fridays, at morning prayer, in the church, to such honest poor there as the said mayor and churchwardens for the time being should think fit; and, as this sum would amount to no more than 6*l.* 10*s.* annually, and the houses yielded 7*l.* 10*s.* or 8*l.* rents, so that the surplus would be sufficient to keep the houses in good repair after they had been once repaired, he gave 30*l.* to the mayor and jurats to see the same substantially done.

By indenture bearing date 26th June 1637 (enrolled in Chancery), between the said John Mustard of the first part, and William Thurston, mayor, and four others, jurats of the said town of Faversham, of the other part, the said John Mustard conveyed the said premises to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, in trust to employ the rents and profits to such charitable uses as in the said Will was expressed; and that, when any of the said trustees should happen to die, the survivors should convey the same to such other persons as should be nominated by the mayor and jurats for the time being.

These premises have been conveyed, from time to time, to new trustees, and by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 27th and 28th September 1802, Edward Jacob, the Rev. S. L. Jacob, and John Jacob, coheirs in gavelkind of Edward Jacob, the last surviving trustee, conveyed to John Lancefield, mayor, and 10 others, jurats, of whom John Horton and John Bennett are the survivors, on the like trusts, three messuages, or tenements, and gardens, then reduced to two messuages and one garden, in Faversham, on the north side of West-street, and the garden, being then called Ballden's Garden, and containing in breadth at the south 42 feet 10 inches, and at the north end 30 feet 6 inches, in length from 53 feet 6 inches to 57 feet 7 inches, which said garden was demised in 1781 for 99 years, and substantial brick buildings lately erected thereon; also a slip of land in Flood-lane, or Powdermill-lane, demised in 1755 for 99 years, on which were since built four cottages.

The property is let as follows:—

1st. A messuage on the north side of West-street, demised by G. Backett and others, trustees, 11th October 1827, to John Delo, for 14 years from the date, at 10*l.* a-year, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to keep the premises in repair and insure.

These premises are now in the occupation of Sarah Derval.

2d. A messuage adjoining the last, demised to Joshua Delo for 14 years from 6th April 1832, at 13*l.* a-year, with the like covenants; but, in 1834, 34*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* was expended on the repairs out of the income of the charity.

These appear to be fair rents.

3d. The ground called Ballden's Garden, demised by the trustees in pursuance of an order of wardmote, 14th August 1781, by the same description as in the deed of 1802, to William Ballcombe, bricklayer, who, it is recited, had lately erected thereon two substantial brick messuages, for 99 years from Lady-day then last, at the yearly rent of 10*s.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to keep the buildings in repair. For these premises the yearly rent of 10*s.* is now paid, one moiety by Thomas Wildash, and the other by Thomas Bridges.

4th. The slip of land mentioned in the deed of 1802, demised by the mayor, jurats and commonalty, as part of the estate of Thomas Mustard, situate in Flood-lane, and abutting on a garden of the said lessee south-east, and containing from 22 feet to 29 feet in width, and 90 feet in length, to Richard Hall, for 99 years from Michaelmas then next, at the yearly rent of 5*s.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to enclose the said premises with a sufficient fence. These premises are now held by John Hall Porter.

There is also payable to this charity a yearly rent of 2*s.* 6*d.* by J. Bogden, for a passage (adjoining the Queen's Arms, belonging to Hatch's trust), but of late years this has been paid by mistake to Hatch's account.

The rents of the other premises above mentioned are received by the chamberlain, and carried to the same account as the income of Edward Spillett's charity.

EDWARD SPILLETT'S CHARITY.

Edward Spillett's Charity.

Edward Spillett, by his Will, bearing date 26th September 1665, devised to the mayor, jurats, and commonalty, and their successors, a piece of land called Allen's, containing four acres, at the upper end of North-lane, in Boughton-under-Blean, on trust that they should pay the rents to the churchwardens and overseers of Faversham, to be by them distributed in bread, 1*s.* every Lord's day, to 12 poor widows attending divine service in the afternoon; but, if the rents would not amount to so much, he directed that so much should be distributed amongst them in bread as the profits of the said premises would amount to.

Faversham.

Edward Spillett's Charity, continued.

The above-mentioned premises were demised by the mayor, jurats and commonalty, 26th September 1827, to Leonard Apsley, as containing by estimation three acres, for 14 years from Michaelmas then next, at a fair yearly rent of 5*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to mark the boundaries.

This rent is received by the chamberlain, and carried to the same account with the income of Mustard's charity, making together 28*l.* 15*s.* per annum.

After deducting the yearly allowances to the town-clerk and chamberlain, and insurance, amounting in the whole to about 1*l.* 4*s.* per annum, the residue is applied in discharging the bills for bread distributed under the directions of the churchwardens.

Bread is provided by a baker to the amount of 7*s.* 6*d.* a-week (being 19*l.* 10*s.* for every 52 weeks), in twopenny loaves, which are given away every Sunday, after divine service, amongst 45 poor persons, who are selected by the churchwardens, widows being preferred.

In consequence of the expenses incurred in repairing the house let to Joshua Delo, there was, at Michaelmas 1835, a balance against these charities of 20*l.* 2*s.* 7*d.*

Preston's Charity.

Preston's Charity.

Samuel Preston, by his Will, bearing date 26th June 1640, gave to the mayor, jurats and commonalty, and their successors, a yearly rent of 2*l.*, issuing out of the messuage or tenement wherein he then dwelt, to be bestowed toward the weekly lecture in the town of Faversham, with power of distress in case of nonpayment.

This rent-charge is paid out of a house formerly called the Red Lion, in Court-street, the property of Henry Sheppard.

The amount, after deducting the town-clerk's and chamberlain's allowances, is paid over to the vicar.

William Spillett's Charity.

William Spillett's Charity.

William Spillett, by his Will, bearing date 9th March 1670, gave to the mayor, jurats and commonalty of Faversham, and their successors, two messuages, with the gardens thereto belonging, in Boughton-street, in Boughton-under-Blean, the yearly rents to be bestowed by them towards putting out poor children of Faversham, or for the relief of poor widows there.

By lease, bearing date 12th May 1823, the mayor, jurats and commonalty demised to William Rooke and Edward Quaife (his surety) a messuage, yard, and garden, containing half an acre in Boughton-street, for 14 years from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of 8*l.*, the lessors keeping the premises in repair. This is stated to be a fair rent. The buildings are old, and will soon require a considerable outlay.

The rents are applied in coal, which is distributed amongst poor widows at the discretion of the mayor for the time being; but, as in the case of other charities of this description, the distribution has been very irregular. In six years out of the last ten there was no application of the charity; in the other four years, 1827, 1828, 1831, and 1835, the expenditure in coal amounted to 37*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* The sums paid for repairs and quit-rents in the last 10 years has amounted to 24*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*, and the town-clerk and chamberlain receive similar allowances to those derived from the other charities.

At Michaelmas 1834 there was a balance in hand of 21*l.* 15*s.* 5*d.*

Bennett's Charity.

Bennett's Charity.

In 1817, 100*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced was transferred into the name of the corporation by the daughters of the late William Bennett, as their own gift, for the purpose of continuing a distribution of bread amongst the poor of Faversham every Christmas-eve, which had been commenced by their late father and mother.

The dividends are received by the chamberlain, and, after paying the town-clerk's and his own allowances, the balance is occasionally paid over to the mayor for distribution.

These payments have been very irregular, and in October 1835 there was a balance in the chamberlain's hands of 21*l.* 11*s.* 10*d.*

It has always been the practice to dispose of this charity in coal for the poor, instead of the particular purpose for which it was given.

Beckett's Charity.

Beckett's Charity.

George Beckett, by his Will, bearing date 16th September 1830, bequeathed to the mayor, jurats, &c., 2000*l.* Reduced Annuities, and all such further sum as should be standing in his name at his decease, in trust to lay out the dividends in the purchase of further sums in the same stock, until the same should yield the clear yearly sum of 67*l.* 12*s.*, and then in trust to pay 52*l.* thereof by half-yearly payments to the vicar of Faversham for the time being, as an augmentation of his income: Provided that, if any vicar should be guilty of immoral conduct, or improper behaviour, so that the mayor, jurats, &c., in wardmote assembled, should think proper to prefer a complaint to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the said Archbishop should, on inquiry, adjudge the same to be well founded, they should discontinue the same during his life, or till the said Archbishop should require the same to be renewed, and in the mean time should lay out the said 52*l.* in purchasing accumulations for the like purpose; and to apply 15*l.* 12*s.* yearly, residue of the said dividends, to such and so many of the six widows in Menfield's almshouses as should be of good character and of the established church, and not frequenters of dissenting places of worship. He also bequeathed to the said mayor, jurats, &c., so much Consols as would produce 10*l.* a-year, and would also yield such further sum annually as would suffice to pay all charges attending the trust; and directed that they should yearly pay 5*l.* apiece to two necessitous housekeepers of and within the town of Faversham, male or female, not receiving alms of the parish to which they should belong, and being of good character, of the established church, and not Dissenters, for their maintenance; such persons to be nominated by the mayor and jurats, or the greater part of them, at an assembly to be convened by the mayor for the time being. Faversham. Beckett's Charity, continued.

Of the stock first bequeathed by the testator 200*l.* was sold out for the payment of the legacy-duty, and the clear dividends, after the payment of the town-clerk's and chamberlain's allowances have been reinvested, so that the stock now amounts to 2,194*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.* Reduced Annuities, producing about 65*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.* a-year, so that there are still wanting the further sum of 59*l.* stock before the charity will come into operation.

In respect of the other bequest, a calculation was made previously to the settlement of the accounts of the executorship, and 383*l.* 6*d.* 8*d.* Consols was transferred into the name of the corporation. Of the dividends amounting to 11*l.* 10*s.* per annum, 5*l.* is paid to each of two housekeepers elected and strictly qualified, according to the directions of the donor, and the residue is retained to cover any expenses that may be incurred.

BLAKE'S GIFT.

Caleb Blake, by a codicil annexed to his Will, and bearing date 6th February 1835, in lieu of a legacy given by his Will, bequeathed to the mayor, jurats, and commonalty, 200*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, in trust to receive the dividends and lay out the same yearly in the purchase of coals, and distribute the same, at such times and in such manner as to them should seem best, amongst the six widows belonging to Menfield's almshouses, who should constantly reside therein, or should otherwise lay out the same for the benefit of the said widows as to them should seem best. Blake's Gift.

The accounts of the executors were not made up in December 1835, the period of this inquiry.

RUMSEY'S CHARITY.

Thomas Rumsey, by his Will, bearing date 15th February 1798, and proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed 1000*l.* Four per Cent. Bank Annuities, to which he was entitled, subject to the life interest of William Wightman, the husband of his late daughter, to William Suckling and John Ireland Rawlinson, their executors, &c., on trust to permit his daughters, Harriet Goodwin, Mary Suckling, and Elizabeth Rumsey, successively, to receive the dividends for their lives; and after their decease to transfer the same to the mayor and jurats of the town of Faversham; and declaring that his intention was that the same should be applied toward the erection of a tower, or steeple, to the parish church there, but that he had been anticipated in that design; his desire was that the same might be applied in such manner, and to such purposes, as the said corporation should judge to be most for the benefit and ornament of the said town. Rumsey's Charity.

The same testator bequeathed the reversion of 1000*l.* Consols to the poor of Hampstead, and 1000*l.* for poor families in March, in the Isle of Ely.

Thomas Ryder, esq., late of the Charter-house, is the surviving trustee under the Will of the said Thomas Rumsey. The stock bequeathed to the town of Faversham is still standing in his name, all the parties who had a life interest therein being dead. Mr. Ryder has, however, declined transferring the stock into the name of the corporation without a bond of indemnity being received, and thinks that the legacy is void under the Act of 9th Geo. II. c. 36.

There seems to be no ground for entertaining such an opinion, and the corporation may, if they think proper, institute proceedings for the recovery of it.

ARDERNE'S CHARITY.

Thomas Arderne, by his Will, bearing date 20th December 1550, gave to the mayor, jurats and commonalty, and their successors, to the relief of the poor, and in consideration that they should cause yearly, in Faversham church, a sermon to be made on the day of his burial, by a preacher of Christ's Church, in Canterbury, or some other learned man, who should have for such sermon 5*s.*, two tenements at Cook's ditch at 10*s.* per annum; a garden in Preston-street, 4*s.* per annum; a garden in the tenure of John Castlock, 4*s.* per annum; the pillory in the market-place, 8*s.* per annum; St. Nicholas Chapel, with the orchard, garden, land, and wood thereto belonging, 20*s.* per annum. Arderne's Charity.

In respect of this charity, there is paid by the chamberlain, out of the town account, 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* yearly to the churchwardens, and 13*s.* 4*d.* to the clergyman who preaches in the church on Midlent Sunday.

The sum of 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* is disposed of, with other charities, in bread, as hereafter mentioned.

JOHN TROUT'S CHARITY.

John Trout, by his Will, bearing date 25th April 1674, gave 40*s.* yearly out of his messuage, with the malt-house and appurtenances, in Faversham, to be distributed by the churchwardens and overseers, at the appointment of the mayor, equally amongst 40 poor widows, or other poor people, within Faversham, that should come to hear divine service and the sermon on Good Friday, unless prevented by sickness or old age. It appears also that the testator charged the same premises with 40*s.* yearly to the minister for performing divine service, and preaching every Good Friday. John Trout's Charity.

The yearly sum of 4*l.* is received by the churchwardens from William Vallance, esq., of Sittingbourn, as charged on property belonging to him in Faversham, occupied by Stephen Griggs and others.

Mark Trout's Charity.

Mark Trout's Charity.

Mark Trout, by his Will, bearing date 3d January 1679, gave 40*s.* yearly to be paid to the minister for reading divine service, and preaching a sermon, every St. Mark's-day, and 40*s.* a-year to the poor of Faversham, to be distributed on the same day by the minister, the said payments to be made out of his messuage and lands at Herne, with a power of distress in case of nonpayment.

The yearly sum of 4*l.* is paid by J. Partridge, esq., as agent for Lord Sondes, as charged on his lordship's estate in Herne.

From this and the preceding charity 4*l.* is paid to the minister, and 4*l.* carried to the bread account.

Berry's Charity..

Berry's Charity.

The churchwardens also receive 15*s.* 7*d.* per annum as the proportion of the charity of James Berry applicable to the purchase of bread for the poor. See First Report, p. 106.

The produce of the several charities for the poor above mentioned are disposed of by the churchwardens in a weekly distribution of bread in the church.

Iles's Charity.

Iles's Charity.

Richard Iles, by his Will, bearing date 22d June 1721, devised to Richard Iles the lands called Kingsfield, and three other parcels of land thereto adjoining, subject to the payment thereout of 1*l.* per annum to the minister of Faversham for preaching a funeral sermon every 11th February, to the clerk 5*s.*, to the poor 10*s.*, to be laid out in twopenny and threepenny loaves, to be distributed every 11th February at the discretion of the churchwardens and overseers; and to the sexton 1*l.* for cleaning and oiling the irons enclosing his tomb; and the testator further charged his said estate, after the death of certain parties therein named, with three annuities of 5*l.* each, to be paid to three such poor fishermen of Faversham, called dredgers, and freemen of Hartyshore, for their lives, as should not receive alms, and should be appointed as the fittest objects of charity by the mayor and churchwardens of Faversham; and the person who should be in possession of the said estate was to have two votes; and he directed that, if any of the poor men should be married when chosen, his wife, if she should survive him, should be paid the said annuity for her life.

The yearly sum of 2*l.* 15*s.* is paid by Joseph Kingsnorth, the tenant, under R. H. Dimsdale, of land called Kingsfield, containing 37 A. 0 R. 14 P.

The three annuities of 5*l.* each are paid by the above-mentioned Joseph Kingsnorth to the three oldest dredgers of Faversham by half-yearly payments.

Stephen Smith's Charity.

Stephen Smith's Charity.

Stephen Smith, by his Will, bearing date 8th December 1729, directed his executor to lay out 200*l.* in purchasing an annuity of 6*l.* per annum, to be disposed of yearly as follows:—1*l.* to the vicar of Faversham on condition that he should read, or cause to be read, divine service in the parish church on Christmas-eve, at 6 o'clock in the evening, and 5*s.* to the clerk, 5*s.* to the sexton, 5*s.* to the organist in case he attended, 5*s.* to the bell-ringers, and 5*s.* for candles; and he directed the residue to be paid to the minister and churchwardens, and their successors, to be disposed of immediately after divine service, on Christmas-day in the evening, to such poor persons as they should think the fittest objects, at not more than 2*s.* apiece, or less than 1*s.*

This legacy appears to have been invested in the purchase of 225*l.* Consols, which stock now stands in the names of Hawke (for Halke) and others.

The dividends, amounting to 6*l.* 15*s.* per annum, are received by the churchwarden through the bank of Wreight and Co. of Faversham, and distributed as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| To the minister for reading prayers on Christmas-eve . . | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Clerk, sexton, and organist, 5*s.* each . . . . . | 0 | 15 | 0 |
| Bell-ringers . . . . . | 1 | 0 | 0 |

The hour of divine service having been changed from 6 o'clock to 3 o'clock, the payment for candles has been discontinued.

The residue, 4*l.*, is distributed by the churchwardens, with other charities, in bread or money at Christmas.

Thomas Smith's Charity.

Thomas Smith's Charity.

The churchwardens also receive 2*l.* 10*s.* yearly, as the gift of Thomas Smith, which is paid by —— Pullen, as charged on an estate belonging to him in Chatham.

This is distributed with the other charities at Christmas.

Bettesden's Charity.

Bettesden's Charity.

In the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 it is stated, with a reference to Jacob's History of Faversham, that Robert Bettesden gave three small tenements in Church-lane, for poor widows, in the presentation of the vicar, but being (un)endowed, it had been customary for more than a century to let one to hire, the rent whereof was expended in the repairs of them, which, besides that, often required his charitable aid to support them.

Faversham.

The three tenements still exist, and the custom above mentioned still prevails. One of the tenements is let to a yearly tenant at 6*l.* 6*s.* per annum, which is paid half-yearly to the vicar, and reserved by him for the repairs of the three tenements.

The present vicar has received three years' rent, but he states that he has kept no account of what he has laid out on the premises: he has, however, engaged to render an account annually to the churchwardens. The two other tenements are occupied by two poor widows appointed by the vicar. One of the cottages was under repair at the time of this inquiry.

ALLEN'S CHARITY.

Allen's Charity.

In the same Returns it is stated that Robert Allen in 1601 gave two houses for two widows: these houses were rebuilt in 1824 at an expense of 120*l.*, which was charged to the overseers' accounts.

They are occupied by two widows appointed by a committee of the parish in vestry.

FORD'S CHARITY.

Ford's Charity.

In the same Returns it is stated that John Ford, in 1633, devised tenements for three widows to live in.

These tenements have been kept in repair at the expense of the parish, and are at present occupied by poor persons appointed by the overseers.

PARISH OF HALSTOW-THE-LOWER.

Halstow-the-Lower.

ROBINSON'S CHARITY.

Robinson's Charity.

William Robinson, by his Will, bearing date 26th March 1632, and proved at Canterbury, gave to the poor of the parish of Halstow a yearly rent of 1*l.* and two bushels of wheat, issuing out of all his lands and tenements thereby devised to John Pett and his heirs, to be paid to the churchwardens and overseers on the fourth day before Christmas-day yearly, and to be by them distributed amongst the said poor on that day, with a power of distress in case of nonpayment.

The property charged with the payment of this charity is called the Stray Farm in Halstow, and belongs to William Dodd, who pays 1*l.* yearly, and provides two bushels of wheat flour.

The 1*l.*, with part of the sacrament-money, is given by the churchwardens amongst poor persons, 1*s.* each, and the wheat is divided in quantities varying from one gallon to one gallon and a half. It is stated that all the poor who apply receive something, but that the object is to encourage those who endeavour to maintain themselves without parish assistance.

WOOTTON'S CHARITY.

Woo'ton's Charity.

Katherine Wootton, by her Will, dated 22d September 1678, and proved at Canterbury, devised to Thomas Wine, and his heirs, a piece of land in the parish of Newington, called Budington, paying out of the said land to the poor of the parish of Halstow-the-Lower, 1*l.* yearly, every Easter Monday, to be disposed of by the churchwardens and overseers to such of the poor as should have most need.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is received by the churchwardens from William Ludgater, the tenant of a farm called Rudenton, belonging to Mr. Hudson.

The amount is distributed on Easter Monday in the same manner as the preceding charity.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

It is stated in a table in the church, under the head of "Benefections to the Poor," that there was belonging to this parish a cottage and two tenements, with a garden in the Lower-street.

Part of these premises have been occupied, rent-free, by poor persons put in by the parish officers, but part has been lately let at 1*s.* 6*d.* a-week.

This rent is paid to the overseers, and it has been a question how it ought to be disposed of. It would appear from the table of benefactions that this was considered as charity property and not applicable in aid of the parish rates.

CHURCH LANDS.

Church Lands.

On a separate division in the table of benefactions are mentioned certain lands as given to the church.

With respect to one acre, part of these lands, a decree of the commissioners of charitable uses was made in 1684, directing that one acre of land, of which the parish had been deprived, should be set out to them; and by indentures of feoffment, bearing date 20th August in that year, William Tylden and John Rooke, in compliance with the said decree, conveyed the said acre of land described as lying in South-field, in the parish of Halstow-the-Lower, to Henry Frere, and nine others, and their heirs, on trust, to permit the churchwardens to receive the rents, and to lay out the same in the repairing of the parish church.

The one acre of land in South-field is undivided from a field belonging to William Jordan, and is held by him at the rent of 1*l.*, but it is intended to fence it out, and to divide it into gardens for the industrious poor.

The rest of the premises consists of a house, garden, and about two acres of land, let to Mrs. Manser, a poor widow with a large family, as yearly tenant, at 5*l.* a year, being about half the yearly value; and a cottage and garden adjoining the churchyard, held by a blind man with a family of three children at a low rent of 2*l.*

The rents of these premises are carried to the churchwarden's account.

Hopson's Charity.

Hopson's Charity.

William Hopson, by his Will, bearing date 17th February 1817, gave to John Chambers, Thomas Moulden, and Robert Hinde the younger, 800*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, on trust out of the dividends to repair and keep in order his tomb and monument in the churchyard in Milton, the inscription thereon, and the stone work and iron railing thereto belonging, and to paint and clean the same as often as necessary, and then to pay to the officiating clergyman of this parish 1*l.* 1*s.* yearly, to preach a sermon on Ash-Wednesday, in Milton church, and the residue of the dividends to the master of the free school of this parish, for which he should instruct in reading, writing, and arithmetic, as many poor children belonging to poor widows of the freemen of Milton oyster fishery, living in this parish, as the same would be sufficient to pay for: but, if there should not be a sufficient number of such poor widows' children, then such other poor children belonging to poor widows living within this parish as the same would be sufficient to pay for; the children to be nominated at a parish vestry by the officiating minister and churchwardens alternately; and it was provided that, whenever any of the trustees should die, or be desirous of being discharged, or refuse to act, the remaining trustees, or, if all should be dead, the executors of the survivor, should, with the consent of the minister and churchwardens, appoint some other fit person or persons as trustees.

Part of the stock thus bequeathed was sold out for the payment of the legacy-duty, and the remainder, 730*l.*, Three per Cent. Reduced, was transferred into the names of the trustees named in the Will, who executed a deed bearing date 9th May 1820, declaring that they stood possessed of such stock on the trusts declared in the Will of the donor.

The dividends, amounting to 21*l.* 18*s.*, are transmitted to Robert Hinde by his co-trustees, who reside in London, and he pays 1*l.* 1*s.* yearly to the officiating minister for preaching a sermon on Ash-Wednesday, and the remainder, after paying any incidental expenses, and the repairs of the testator's tomb, if required, to the master of the Milton school, an account of which will be found, First Report, p. 131.

Since 1822, 5*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.* has been paid for the repairing of the tomb.

The children of poor widows of freemen of the oyster fishery are particularly favoured in admission to this school, and there were, at the time of this inquiry, 17 scholars of that description.

Sir W. Stede's Charity.

Sir W. Stede's Charity.

By indenture of bargain and sale enrolled, and bearing date 5th May 1649, between Dame Hester Stede, widow and executrix of Sir John Stede, who was the executor under the Will of Sir William Stede, of the first part, and Sir John Clarke, Sir Thomas Colepeper, Sir John Fowle, Sir Henry Grimston, Sir Alexander Colepeper, John Colepeper, Thomas Stede, and William Colepeper, of the other part, reciting that the said Sir William Stede had, by his Will, bearing date 21st January 1620, directed his executors to buy 10*l.* a-year in land, which land he directed should be settled so that the owner of the house wherein he then dwelt in Harrietsham might have power to bestow the said 10*l.* a-year in binding forth yearly apprentices the children of the poorest people that should be surcharged with children inhabiting within the parishes of Harrietsham, Milton by Sittingbourne, and Tonge; the children to be chosen yearly out of which of the said parishes such owner should think fittest, with a strong tie upon the said owner to bestow the said 10*l.* yearly according to his Will; and declared that his meaning thereby was that such children should be bound apprentices according to the statute in that case provided; and reciting that the said Dame Hester Stede had purchased of Alexander Fowle, for the sum of 160*l.*, four pieces of land called the Sommerfield, the Springe Ridings, the Marl Pitt Ridings, and the Grove Ridings, containing by estimation 27 acres, in Sandhurst, with a right of road from Cobbeech Green, in Sandhurst, therein described, which premises the said Dame Hester Stede had by indenture, bearing date 22d February then last, demised to the said vendor for the term of 200 years, at the yearly rent of 10*l.*;—the said Dame Hester Stede, in performance of the Will of the said Sir W. Stede, bargained and sold to the said Sir J. Clarke, parties of the second part, and their heirs, the said premises, with the reversion thereon, and the said yearly rent of 10*l.* reserved upon the said lease, on trust to pay all the rents and profits of the said premises in the mansion-house in Harrietsham, called Stede Hill, to the owner thereof, to the intent that such owner should, with all such rents and profits, bind out apprentices such and so many poor children of Harrietsham, Milton, and Tonge, as such owner should think fit, at his or her will and pleasure, according to the intent of the said Sir W. Stede; and on further trust that, whenever the premises, by survivorship, should become vested in one, two, three or four, the survivors should convey the premises to other such six or more persons as the owners of Stede Hill should nominate.

The above abstract is taken from an office copy produced by W. W. T. Baldwin, esq., the owner of the estate called Stede Hill, to which he became entitled on the death of Sir C. Booth in 1795.

It does not appear that there has been any subsequent conveyance to trustees. The property comprised in the deed above abstracted is held by Mr. Baldwin, and he accounts for the yearly rent of 10*l.* reserved by the lease of 22d February 1649, which will expire in 1849, when the three parishes will become entitled to the rack-rent.

On a table of benefactions in the church at Milton it is stated that this charity was augmented in the year 1799, by William Baldwin, esq., to 15*l.* There seems, however, to be no foundation for this statement.

The subjoined account has been rendered by Mr. Baldwin of the sums applied by him in discharge of this trust, from which it will appear that, in the exercise of his privilege of binding out the children of whichever of the three parishes he may think fit, he has given a very large proportion to the parish of Harrietsham. It seems natural that this parish, in which he resides, and has consequently a more intimate knowledge of the poor, should have some preference, but it does not appear right that the parish of Tonge should be (as in fact it has been) almost excluded from any participation in the charity.

Mr. Baldwin has, however, agreed to dispose of the funds in future more equally: he has lately applied to the parish officers of Tonge for the purpose of giving them an opportunity of presenting a boy to be bound out.

There is a considerable balance for which Mr. Baldwin is accountable, as appears from the following statement which he has himself made out:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Paid property-tax from 1805 to 1816 . . . . | 16 | 2 | 6 |
| Paid, 1827, for searching rolls respecting the deed of trust . . . . . | 2 | 11 | 6 |
| Clothes for apprentices . . . . . | 2 | 5 | 0 |
| For sundry expenses . . . . . | 1 | 18 | 6 |
| Apprentices placed out—1795 to 1833: | | | |
| Paid—31 apprentices from Harrietsham . . | 175 | 9 | 0 |
| „ 18 „ Milton . . . . | 90 | 0 | 0 |
| „ 2 „ Tonge . . . . | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 308 | 6 | 6 |

This balance Mr. Baldwin admits is due, except 25*l.* subsequently paid with two apprentices from Harrietsham and Tonge.

BRADBURY'S CHARITY.

Bradbury's Charity.

It is stated on the table of benefactions in this church that Thomas Bradbury, by his Will, dated 22d March 1601, gave the yearly profit of four acres of land in Sawyer's Field to be distributed to the poor of this parish by the minister and churchwardens at the feast of St. Thomas.

The four acres of land above mentioned are let to Henry Webb, as yearly tenant, at a good rent of 13*l.* a-year; but the tenant has given notice that he will deliver it up unless the rent is reduced.

This rent, with 5*l.*, the produce of Taylor's charity, is distributed on New Year's-day amongst all the poor widows belonging to the parish, whether resident in it or not, in sums varying generally according to their ages.

TAYLOR'S CHARITY.

Taylor's Charity.

Fulkes Taylor, by his Will, dated 11th September 1616, gave the yearly sum of 5*l.* to be distributed to the poor of this parish by the minister and churchwardens on the feast of St. Thomas. (Tab. Ben.)

The yearly sum of 5*l.* is paid by the trustees of Barrow's charity at Borden as charged on Sawyer's Field, part of the charity estate.

The amount is disposed of as the preceding charity.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

Several yearly sums, amounting in the whole to 2*l.* 15*s.*, are collected from different proprietors by the churchwardens, and added to the bread account.

Nothing appears to be known with respect to the origin of these payments, which are as follows, viz.—

| | £. | s. | d. |

Kipps's Charity.

For the particulars of this charity see parish Wye.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is received by the churchwardens of this parish from the tenant of N. R. Toke, esq., and added to the bread fund.

Charities of Dicks and others.

Charities of Dicks and others.

The following gifts are also noticed on the table of benefactions :—

Catherine Ann Dicks, widow, by her Will, dated 29th June 1731, gave 25*l.*, the interest to be laid out in bread in six twopenny loaves every Sunday, to be distributed by the churchwardns to six poor widows, beginning on Christmas-day.

Mary Simes, widow, by her will, dated 17th December 1773, gave 87*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.*, the interest to be distributed in bread by the minister and churchwardens to the poor of this parish on Sundays, beginning the first Sunday after Christmas-day.

Mildred Chapman, widow, by her Will, dated 26th of November 1778, gave 20*l.*, the interest thereof to be equally divided every St. Andrew's-day by the minister and churchwardens amongst 10 poor widows of this parish; five of them to be dredgermen's widows.

Samuel Creed, by his Will, dated 14th November 1787, gave to the minister and churchwardens 40*l.* to be placed out, the interest to be in the first place applied in keeping the railing round his burying-ground, and the tomb to be erected therein, in repair, and paint and clean the same as often as necessary, and the residue to be laid out yearly in bread to be distributed by the minister and churchwardens every Christmas-day to such poor people of this parish as they should think proper objects to receive the same.

It appears, from an entry in one of the churchwardens' books, dated 5th December 1818, that 160*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* Consols had been bought long ago in the names of the churchwardens, with the three benefactions first above mentioned, and that 55*l.* was purchased in addition thereto from Creed's legacy, making 215*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*

This stock stands in the names of William Creed Fairman and John Jordan.

Of the dividends, amounting to 6*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* per annum, there is paid—

|---|---|---|---|
| As Mrs. Chapman's gift, to five landsmen's widows, and five watermen's widows, 2*s.* each, in addition to what they receive from Bradbury's and Taylor's charities . . . . | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| To the clerk, for keeping Creed's monument in repair . . . | 0 | 10 | 0 |
| To the bread-fund, which amounts with other charities to 8*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* . . . . . | 4 | 19 | 6 |
| £ | 6 | 9 | 6 |

The distribution of bread commences on the first Sunday after Michaelmas, and is continued for 27 successive Sundays, in penny and twopenny loaves, which are given amongst poor persons who attend divine service, unless prevented by illness or other accidents.

Thomas Knott's Charity.

Thomas Knott's Charity.

It is stated on the table of benefactions that Thomas Knott, by his Will, dated 30th July 1673, gave 1*l.* 2*s.* yearly to be laid out in bread for the poor.

It does not appear whether the payment was charged on land or not. Nothing, however, is now known of this charity.

Donor Unknown.

Donor unknown.

There are two buildings in this parish, containing together about 10 tenements, which are called almshouses, and are generally inhabited, rent free, by poor widows put in by the vestry, and kept in repair at the expense of the parish.

From whence they were derived is not known.

Church Land.

Church Land.

There is also a piece of ground called Butts, containing about one acre, the rents of which have been, as long as can be remembered, carried to the churchwardens' account. It is now let to Daniel Budds, as yearly tenant, at a good rent of 5*l.* 10*s.*

Grant's Charity.

Grant's Charity.

Thomas Grant, by his Will, 15th September 1819, gave 10*l.* to the lying-in charity in Milton next Sittingbourne.

This legacy is laid out on mortgage, with other money, and applied in aid of the subscriptions to the support of the institution above mentioned.

PARISH OF NEWINGTON.

Newington.

Rectory Payment.

Rectory Payment.

It is stated on a table of benefactions in the church that three quarters of wheat were given to the poor out of the parsonage to be disposed of every Lady-day.

Newington.

Rectory Payment, continued.

The parsonage belongs to Eton College; and Mrs. Hudson, the lessee, supplies three quarters of wheat to the churchwardens every Old Lady-day, which is distributed amongst all the poor, except those in the poor-house, in quantities varying from one to five gallons.

TOMLIN'S CHARITY.

Tomlin's Charity.

It is also stated (Tab. Ben.) that the rent of a barn and three roods of land, called the Poor's Barn, opposite to the parsonage-house, was given by Simon Tomlin (date of Will in the Parliamentary Returns, 1689) to the minister and churchwardens in trust for the poor, to be expended in bread, which was to be distributed every Sunday immediately after divine service.

The barn above mentioned is very old and incapable of repair, and is wholly unproductive. It is therefore suggested that it would be advisable to pull it down and sell the materials, which might produce about 20*l.*, and to place the money out at interest. The land is let to two labourers, each of them paying 1*l.* a-year.

The rent is applied, with other money, as hereafter mentioned.

THE PLAYSTOLE.

The Playstole.

There is a piece of land supposed to have been formerly a public play-ground, and containing one acre and a half. One moiety of this is divided into four parcels and let to four labourers at 10*s.* each. The other moiety is let to James Rice, as yearly tenant, at a good rent of 5*l.* a-year.

WOODLAND.

Woodland.

There is also an acre of woodland, which was formerly cut by the poor indiscriminately, but is now let to William Ludgater at a fair yearly rent of 18*s.*

The rent of these several parcels of land, amounting to 9*l.* 18*s.* per annum, is laid out in the purchase of bread, a portion of which is distributed every Sunday to all the poor who attend church.

POOR-HOUSES.

Poor-Houses.

There is in this parish an old house which was formerly treated as an almshouse, but latterly as a poor-house for parish paupers, and two small tenements adjoining, erected about 12 years ago, occupied by poor widows.

Doubts have arisen whether these premises can be sold as parish property; but there seems to be no evidence of their having been given for charitable uses.

PARISH OF RAINHAM.

Rainham.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

There is in this parish about an acre of woodland, the produce of which has always been given to the poor, and it is noticed on a table in the church as applicable to that purpose. The wood is cut periodically at about 14 years' growth, under the directions of the churchwardens and overseers.

The produce in 1827 was 9*l.* 15*s.*, which was distributed on Good Friday amongst 75 poor persons according to the number in family, as settled at a parish meeting.

COLSON'S CHARITY.

Colson's Charity.

By indenture bearing date 20th June 1593, between John Colson of the one part, and William Wynckefield and nine others, of the parish of Rainham, of the other part, the said J. Colson, from compassion as well to the distressed estate of very many aged, impotent, and very poor people, inhabiting and dwelling within the parish of Rainham, wanting wherewith to sustain the daily necessities of life, as also such others as there might be of the like condition for age, impotence, and poverty, born and inhabiting within the said parish, and, for their better relief and maintenance at all times thereafter, granted to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a parcel of land called Payton Streatfield, containing 7 A. 2 R. 32P.; Perry Field, 3 A. 2 R. 8 P.; Warden Croft, 5 A. 3 R. 24 P.; another parcel, 1 R. 12 P.; and a little tenement and garden, 24 P., all in Halstow, to the use of Alice Sacville and her heirs, on condition that they should pay 4*l.* yearly to the churchwardens of Rainham, by two equal payments, on Good Friday and St. Thomas's-day, with directions for the appointment of new trustees whenever four only should be living.

The yearly sum of 3*l.* 4*s.*—16*s.* being deducted for land-tax—is paid by William Jordan, as issuing out of an estate belonging to him in the parish of Halstow-the-Lower.

This sum is distributed to the poor, with other charities, as hereafter mentioned.

COUNTESS OF THANET'S CHARITY.

Countess of Thanet's Charity.

By indenture bearing date 20th December 1656, between Thomas Jenkins of the one part, and Henry Hutsford and 14 others, churchwardens, overseers, and parishioners of Rainham, of the other part, reciting that Frances Countess Dowager of Thanet had bequeathed to the poor of the parish of Rainham 50*l.*, and that the parishioners had added 20*l.*, to be put out for the benefit of the poor inhabitants of the said parish; the said T. Jenkins, in consideration of 70*l.*, granted to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a yearly rent-charge of 4*l.* issuing out of a messuage called the Yew-tree House, with three orchards, Mardale Field, containing 12 acres, and two parcels of land containing three acres in Chapel Field, all in Rainham, payable on the feasts of St. Thomas and St. John the Baptist, with power of distress in case of nonpayment; and the grantees covenanted to pay the said rent-charge to the churchwardens and overseers of Rainham to the benefit of the said poor.

Rainham.

Countess of Thanet's Charity, continued.

By indenture bearing date 13th October 1692, between the Rev. Thomas Cradock of the one part, and Thomas Jenkins, son of the above-named grantor, of the other part, reciting that the said Thomas Jenkins, party thereto, had conveyed to the said T. Cradock the land in Mardale Field and Chapel Field, and had made a suitable abatement out of the purchase-money in consideration that the said T. Cradock would take upon himself the payment of the rent-charge of 4*l.*, the said T. Cradock covenanted to pay the same from time to time, according to the deed of 1656.

The yearly sum of 4*l.* is paid by Thomas Pell, the tenant, under Charles Auriol, esq., of the lands called Mardale and Chapel Field.

This sum is distributed with the other charities.

Adams's Charity.

Adams's Charity.

John Adams, by his Will, bearing date 19th February 1719, and proved at Canterbury, gave to the poor people of the parish of Rainham 1*l.* a-year out of the rents and profits of his Cherry-garden, called Dore-lane, containing about five acres, thereinbefore devised to Gibbon Gyles; the same to be paid to the churchwardens, and to be by them, with the consent of the minister and the principal inhabitants, distributed on St. Thomas's-day as to them should seem meet and equal amongst the said poor people.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is also paid by Thomas Pell, who holds a field containing about five acres, and called the High Dore, under C. Auriol, esq.

The produce of the three charities above mentioned, amounting to 8*l.* 4*s.* per annum, is distributed, part on Good Friday and part on St. Thomas's-day, at a public parish meeting, amongst nearly all the poor of the parish, according to the number in family, in sums varying from 1*s.* 6*d.* to 2*s.* The charities were formerly confined to the poor not receiving parish relief, but for the last 50 years this practice has been given up,

Poor's Houses.

Poor's Houses.

By indenture bearing date 24th January 1677, between John Oliver and his trustee of the one part, and the Rev. Thomas Cradock and nine others, including the churchwardens and overseers, of the other part, the parties of the first part, in consideration of 12*l.*, part of money belonging to the poor of the parish of Rainham, conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a messuage theretofore divided into two, in the parish of Rainham, in trust to employ the yearly rents and profits to the buying bread, and other necessaries, for the relief of such poor persons as should be inhabiting and becoming a charge to the said parish.

These two tenements, with two additional dwellings built on the premises in 1719, at the expense of the parish, as well as four others in Moore-street, are occupied by parish paupers put in by the overseers.

Lost Charity.

Lost Charity.

It appears from a copy of an indenture of assignment to new trustees, bearing date 1st April 1657, that, by indenture bearing date 16th December 1641, William Head conveyed a messuage and lands in Cliffe to trustees for the buying bread, and other necessaries, for the relief of the poor inhabiting and dwelling in the said parish.

From 1727 to 1788, 2*l.* 10*s.* was paid annually out of the parish rates as the interest of 51*l.*, which, it appears from the table of benefactions, was the produce of the estate at Cliffe, which was sold in 1699 or 1700. In 1788 the payment from the rates was discontinued.

Church Estate.

Church Estate.

The following lands appear to have been in the possession of the parish as early as the year 1611, and the rents have been always paid to the churchwardens as applicable to the repairs of the church.

PARISH OF SITTINGBOURNE.

Sittingbourne.

Allen's Charity.

Allen's Charity.

The following charities are mentioned on a table of benefactions in the church:—

John Allen, of Sittingbourne, by his Will, dated 26th October 1615, gave 2*l.* per annum for the repair of the almshouses, and for firing for the poor that live in them, to be paid out of Glover Farm.

The almshouses thus noticed consisted of three rooms, but being in very bad condition were pulled down in 1804, and a new house was built on the site at the expense of the parish, containing 10 comfortable rooms, which are occupied by 10 aged widows of the parish appointed thereto by the minister and churchwardens.

The rent-charge of 2*l.* left by John Allen is paid out of an estate in the parish called Glover's, containing about 18 acres, belonging to the Rev. George Simpson and General Montresor, each of whom pays one moiety.

Sittingbourne.

Allen's Charity, continued.

The amount is received by the churchwardens and carried to their general account, out of which all the repairs of the almshouses are paid, and each of the almspeople receives six bushels of coals. These expenses considerably exceed the amount of the rent-charge.

HODSOLE'S CHARITY.

Hodsole's Charity.

Robert Hodsole, by his Will, 1684, gave 10*s.* per annum to the poor, payable every Christmas-day, out of Mrs. Roundean's land. (Ben. Tab.)

This rent-charge is paid out of land in the parish called the Fair Field and Dark Orchards; the principal part of which belongs to John Huggins.

It is received by the churchwardens, and disposed of in bread with the following charities:

GRANT'S CHARITY.

Grant's Charity.

John Grant, by his Will of November 1689, gave 1*l.* per annum to be paid in corn or bread the 1st of January, out of Mrs. Trott's farm. (Ben. Tab.)

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is paid out of a farm still called Trott's, belonging to Edward Twopenny, esq., of Rochester, and is also applied with the following charity.

DICKS'S CHARITY.

Dicks's Charity.

Catherine Dicks, by her Will (date not stated), gave 25*l.* to be placed out on land security, the interest to be laid out in six twopenny loaves and given to six poor widows, &c. who attend divine service; beginning every year on the first Sunday after Christmas-day. (Ben. Tab.)

At a vestry meeting held 19th February 1800 it was agreed that the principal sum of 25*l.* should be appropriated to the repairs of the church, and interest paid at 4 per cent. out of the church-rate; and in April 1803 it was resolved at a vestry that the money should remain where it was placed by the churchwardens in 1800, and that the interest, 1*l.* 5*s.*, should be paid out of the rent of the Butts every Christmas-day.

The rent of the Butt land is received by the churchwardens as hereafter mentioned, and out of their general account they pay 1*l.* 5*s.* yearly, as the interest of Catherine Dicks's legacy.

Bread is distributed at the church on Christmas-day, and the following Sundays, until 2*l.* 15*s.*, the amount of Hodsole's, Grant's, and Dicks's charities is expended. It is given in twopenny loaves to such poor widows as attend divine service.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

Amongst the donations mentioned on the table of benefactions is the following:—"Five seams of boiling peas from the parsonage to be distributed at Christmas."

Five quarters of peas are received annually from the Rev. George Simpson, the impropriator, as charged upon the rectory. They are divided by the churchwardens amongst about 100 poor persons, in quantities varying from one gallon to four, according to the number in family, and other circumstances.

Some discussion has arisen whether settled parishioners living out of the parish, or persons not settled but living in the parish, should be admitted to receive the benefit of the charity.

It appears that the more proper mode of distributing it is to select the most deserving persons who are both settled and resident in the parish.

BUTT LAND.

Butt Land.

The land known by this name, and out of which the interest of Mrs. Dicks's legacy is paid as above mentioned, consists of about one acre. It is considered as held by the churchwardens for the repairs of the church. The only profit at present made of it is from the fairs which are held there, amounting to from 2*l.* to 3*l.* a-year. Part of it, however, forms the site of the National School, and part is used as a garden to the workhouse. No rent has hitherto been received for these portions, but it is intended to let the garden at its fair value. The part used for the fairs might be turned to better account, but it is stated that the parish are generally satisfied with the use now made of it.

The income derived from this property is carried to the churchwardens' account.

PARISH OF UPCHURCH.

DONORS UNKNOWN.

Donors unknown.

The following charities are mentioned on a table of benefactions:—

1st. As payable out of the parsonage of Upchurch, the yearly sum of 6*s.* 8*d.*

The rectory is held by four parishioners as lessees under All Soul's College, in trust for the rest of the parishioners, and 6*s.* 8*d.* is paid to the churchwardens and overseers by the collector.

2d. The yearly sum of 10*s.*, payable out of the High Field in Otteram Farm in this parish.

This is paid by the tenant of the farm above mentioned belonging to the late Captain Moore.

3d. The yearly sum of 10*s.*, payable out of the Staines Farm in this parish.

This is paid by Thomas Dodd, of Rainham, the owner of that farm.

The above several sums are added to the rent of the Poor's Lands, and part of the sacrament money, so as to make up 10*l.*, and this is distributed to the poor in bread after church on five successive Sundays. All the poor belonging to the parish receive from about 2 lbs. to 6 lbs. according to the number in family.

POOR'S LAND.

Poor's Land.

The only document in the parish relating to this property is a deed of exchange, bearing date 8th July 1816, between Sackville Earl of Thanet, of the first part; William Tress, and John Palmer, overseer and churchwarden, of the second part; and John Amhurst Walter, of the third part; whereby, with the unanimous consent of the land-owners and occupiers in Upchurch, assembled in vestry 22d April then last, one acre of woodland, called the Poor's Wood, was granted to the said Earl of Thanet in exchange for a parcel of woodland called Little Beach Wood, containing 2A. 2R., which was accordingly conveyed to the use of the said William Tress and John Palmer, in trust, for the benefit of the poor of the said parish.

Sittingbourne.

The land thus taken in exchange was let immediately afterwards to William Jordan, on lease for 21 years, at a yearly rent of 6*l.*, in consideration that the lessee would, at his own expense, grub up the wood, and bring it into cultivation.

This is a fair rent, and the amount is disposed of as above mentioned.

CHURCH LAND.

Church Land.

Out of the rectory there is paid a yearly sum of 7*s.* as due to the parish clerk, in respect of an acre of land, which is marked out; but whether this payment is in the nature of a rent-charge, or whether the parish is entitled to the land itself, does not clearly appear. In some of the churchwardens' accounts it is entered as the rent of the land.

Mr. FINCH'S REPORTS.

Canterbury.

CITY OF CANTERBURY.

In the following account of the charities of the city of Canterbury it will be convenient to include some which do not fall strictly within the description, either from any limitation of their benefit or from locality; as, for instance, the hospital of Sir Roger Manwood, in the parish of Hackington, and that of St. Nicholas, in Harbledown, which are neither situate within the liberties nor limited to the inhabitants of the city.

The King's School, in Canterbury, to which the following exhibitions, or some of them at least, are annexed, is not subject to this inquiry, being part of the establishment of the cathedral.

ROBERT ROSE'S EXHIBITIONS AND CHARITY.

Robert Rose's Exhibitions and Charity.

By indenture of feoffment, bearing date 31st August 1618, between Robert Rose of the one part, Sir Peter Manwood, and fourteen others, of whom four were prebendaries of the church of Canterbury and five others aldermen of the city of Canterbury, of the second part, and John Brown and another of the third part; the said Robert Rose, for the good of the city of Canterbury and the King's Free Grammar School, within the precincts of the said cathedral, of which he had been usher, granted to the use of the parties of the second part, and their heirs, three pieces of marsh-land, containing, by estimation, 26 acres, in the parish of Saint Mary and Hope All Saints, in Romney Marsh, in trust, that after his decease 24*l.*, part of the rents and profits of the said premises, should be bestowed on four such, fit both for their learning and manners, as should be king's scholars or other scholars in the said school, towards their maintenance in the university of Oxford or Cambridge, viz., upon each of them 6*l.* yearly, the said scholars to be such as should have continued scholars in the said free school two years at least before their going to the university, and should have been born in or near the city of Canterbury, if such should be found fit, and if not, others that should have been scholars there as aforesaid; but it was provided that such exhibition should be employed upon such as should have something else of themselves or their friends towards their maintenance, and yet not fully sufficient to maintain them at the university; that such exhibitions should continue seven years to every scholar, if he should remain in the university so long unpreferred to some living or livings to the value of 20*l.* yearly; that the names of all the scholars should be registered, with the place of their birth and the day of their nomination, in a book to be kept, among other writings touching the premises and with one part of this indenture, in a chest in the audit-house of the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury; and that the auditor there should, for his pains in this behalf, have the yearly sum of 10*s.* paid to him out of the said rents; that all the proceedings touching this business should be examined and cast up once every year, at least, by the said auditors, by the appointment of the said feoffees or the more part of them; and that the overplus, over and above the said several sums of 6*l.* and other necessary charges, should be employed to some other charitable uses in the said city. And it was further provided that the said scholars should be appointed by his trustees, or more part of them; and that for the continuance of the said charity the survivors should, from time to time, convey the premises to other persons inhabiting in or near the said city to the number of 15 at least, of whom four should be prebendaries of the cathedral and four aldermen of the said city. That there should be yearly nominated one of the trustees to receive the rents and profits, and to make the disbursements, who should, for his pains, have a pair of gloves of the price of 5*s.*

New trustees have been appointed from time to time according to the directions of the preceding deed, and the premises transferred to them on the like trusts. The last appointment was in 1796, under which Joseph Royle, late one of the aldermen, and John Hollingbury Stringer, were, in March 1836, the survivors; but the latter was, from the state of his health, incapable of acting, and had in 1816 become insolvent.

The trustees have been, for a considerable time, reduced to so small a number, that a new appointment would have been highly expedient, and there seems to have been great remissness in having deferred the appointment so long.

In 1834 Mr. Starr, the auditor of the Dean and Chapter, was requested to take the proper steps for renewing the trust, and at the November audit in that year four prebendaries were selected for the purpose, but the proceedings were stopped by doubts arising as to the provisions of the late Municipal Corporation Act.

The property consists of 26 acres of marsh-land in Romney Marsh, let to John Swaine on lease, bearing date 27th September 1831, for a term of seven years from 11th October then next, at the yearly rent of 56*l.* The present is stated to be a good rent. In 1814 the premises were let at 120*l.* to a party who held it only two years and then failed, one year's rent being in arrear, the whole of which was lost. They were then let at 70*l.* a-year till 1822, when they were let to a yearly tenant at 56*l.*

Out of the income there is paid to each of four persons, who were scholars in the King's School, and are residents at one of the universities, an exhibition of 6*l.*

It is stated by Mr. Royle that each exhibitioner is allowed to enjoy it for seven years, unless they cease within that period to reside in the university, or they have acquired some preferment which disqualifies them; that when a vacancy occurs an application is made to him by a scholar who brings from the head master of the King's School a certificate that he is duly qualified according to the directions of the donor, and that, if there should be more than one person qualified, he presumes the head master would determine to which of them he would give the required certificate.

The scholars enjoying the exhibition up to October 1835 were Thomas William Bennett and his brother John Bennett, the sons of a late minor canon; John Darby Birt, son of the late head master; and J. H. James, son of the adjutant of the East Kent militia. But it appears that Thomas William Bennett, though he has received the exhibition only seven years, ought not to have continued so long in the enjoyment of it, having ceased to reside in the university.

Out of the residue of the rents, after payment of the four exhibitions, the practice till 1814 was to pay 6*l.* a-year to each of the exhibitioners "as a gratuity;" it then appeared on reference to the Will that the overplus was to be employed to some other charitable uses in the city of Canterbury; and since that period the following payments have been made:—

|---|---|---|---|
| In 1813.—To the widows in Cogan's Hospital . . £20 0 0 | | | |
| Kent and Canterbury Hospital . . . 10 0 0 | | | |

| 1829.—To ditto . . . . . | 103 | 0 | 0 |
| 1833.—To ditto . . . . . | 67 | 0 | 0 |

When the accounts were made up at the end of 1835 there was a balance in hand of 144*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

This Mr. Royle stated would have been distributed if the winter before the last had not been particularly mild, and the reasons assigned for not making any distribution in the last winter was that he was in expectation of an appointment of new trustees, to whose discretion he thought it right to leave the distribution.

A summary of the accounts from the year 1817 will be subjoined. Doubts have arisen whether a court of equity would not, in order to give effect to the obvious intentions of the donor, direct a larger sum to be disposed of annually in exhibitions, particularly as it appears that, from 1720 when the present book of accounts commences, being 160 years after the foundation of the charity, to 1778, the estate produced only 24*l.* a-year, and from that period to 1798 only 28*l.*, so that it is clear that the donor could not have contemplated any considerable overplus after the payment of the exhibitions, which was the chief object of his benefaction. The terms, however, of the deed are plain and free from any ambiguity, so that there seems to be no sufficient ground for an application to the court.

The following is a summary of the accounts from the year 1817, from which time they have been kept by Mr. Royle. Included in the receipts of the first period is a sum of 16*l.* 6*s.* 11*d.*, being 5*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on a balance of 59*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*, in the hands of the late receiver, J. H. Stringer, who, as already mentioned, became insolvent:—

HEYMAN'S EXHIBITION.

Heyman's Exhibition.

By indenture, bearing date 29th September 1624, William Heyman granted and enfeoffed to Sir Edward Hales and 15 others certain marsh-lands in Warehorn, with the appurtenances, containing 27 acres, upon the same trusts as are declared in the following deeds.

The original deed was not produced on the inquiry, nor was it known in whose custody it was. To a copy in the possession of the master of the King's School a memorandum is added, that in September 1729 one part of the indenture was in the possession of Sir Basil Dixwill, and the other of Sir William Honywood.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 4th and 5th October 1804, between John Carter and the Rev. John Nairn (described as surviving trustees of the premises thereinafter mentioned) of the one part, and Sir Henry Oxenden, Thomas Papillon, and six others, since deceased, of the other part, the said John Carter and John Nairn conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, certain marsh-lands in Warehorn, with the appurtenances, containing by estimation 27 acres, upon trust, to let the same for terms not exceeding seven years in possession, and that five parts in six of the rent should be bestowed quarterly, if conveniently it might be, upon two poor scholars only, and not more, successively towards their sustentation and maintenance, to be placed and taught in grammar and other principles of good learning and religious nurture in the King's free school at Canterbury; such scholars to be chosen from time to time by the next heir male of the said William Heyman, being of the age of 21 years, with the more part of the trustees for the time being, and, in default of such heir, then by the Dean of Canterbury for the time being, and the said trustees, or the more part of them. The said scholars to be descended from Peter Heyman, esq., grandfather of the said William Heyman, and of the sirname of Heyman, so long as any such should be found, being poor and apt to make scholars; and, if none such could be found, then such as should be descended from his said grandfather, of what sirname soever; and, if none such, then one such poor boy of his sirname, born in Kent or descended of Kentish parentage; and, if none such, then both of the scholars to be poor boys, born within the parish of Sellinge, or of parents then inhabitants of the said parish, and not elsewhere, so long as such poor boy of his kindred, or of his sirname, or descended as aforesaid, could not be found, and no longer; but then those forthwith to be removed at all times, and to give place to such as should be of his kindred as before limited, and those of kin to be placed in the rooms of the others immediately and without delay. That none of the boys should be chosen under the age of eight years, nor continued above the term of nine years from the first choosing, and that another should then be chosen in his room, except at that time they should be found by the trustees to be fit to proceed thence to the university, there profitably to continue his course and study to a serviceable end for church or commonweal; and that upon his or their friends procuring him to be placed in Trinity College, Cambridge, or some other college in the same university, he should have continued to him his former yearly pension or exhibition for seven years after leaving the grammar-school; and if he should within five years enter into orders, and should accordingly address his studies to that end, then for the better preparing him to that office his pension should be continued to him three years more, ten in all, at the said university, otherwise only seven years, and then another to be chosen in his room at the said grammar-school or university, as the case should require; and it was declared that no scholar should be placed in the said grammar-school or university of his kindred or sirname, or otherwise, but only such as for their natural good gifts should be apt, able, and hopeful to obtain a good measure of learning, and absolutely to make practice of it to public good, and such also and none but such as whose parents should not be of ability to maintain them at school, nor should be continued any longer than he should be of good behaviour and proficient in learning, and not dissolute or corrupt in manners or religion; but if at any time any scholar should be found faulty or defective, then, after public warning in writing by the said heir, and any two or more of the said trustees, he should be displaced and another forthwith chosen. And as to the other sixth part of the said yearly rent, that the same should be disposed of in the parishes of Sellinge and Lympne, as more particularly stated in a subsequent part of this Report. And it was declared that, whenever the trustees should be reduced by death to three, the survivors should convey the premises to eight substantial and sufficient persons, inhabiting within the lathes of St. Augustine, Shipway, or Scray.

By indenture, bearing date 4th September 1805, between Sir Henry Oxenden, Thomas Papillon, William Deedes, and T. C. Beckingham, of the one part, and William Hammond, and three others, of the other part, reciting the indentures of lease and release of 1804; and reciting that no boys, qualified as directed by the said indentures, had been for several years found to supply the vacancies at the King's free school, whereby the five parts of six of the rents above mentioned had not been disposed of, amounting to 116*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, which had been invested in the purchase of 191*l.* 4*s.* Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the said Sir Henry Oxenden and others, parties, of the first part; the said parties declared that they stood possessed of the said stock on trust, to pay the dividends to the trustees of the marsh-lands, to be applied for the benefit of the said scholars in the same manner as the said five parts of the said rents: and it was declared that the survivor of the trustees, in whose name the stock stood, or, in case of his death, the executors, should transfer the same to four of the trustees for the said marsh-lands, for the time being, on the like trusts.

The property, consisting of 27 acres, in the parish of Warehorn, is let to Thomas Mylam, as yearly tenant, at a fair yearly rent of 38*l.* 15*s.*, to which it was reduced from 48*l.* about five years ago.

There are also two sums of stock, viz. 158*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.* Consols, standing in the names of Sir Henry Oxenden, William Deedes, and Thomas Papillon, as survivors in a joint account with the Rev. J. C. Beckingham; and 100*l.* Consols, standing in the names of Sir Henry Oxenden, William Deedes, and Thomas Papillon; the first appears to be the sum purchased with the balance mentioned in the deed of 1805, but the variance between the amount of stock mentioned in the deed, and that which appears to be standing in the names of the trustees, is unexplained; the other sum of 100*l.* stock was purchased subsequently, with further savings during vacancies. The dividends, amounting to 7*l.* 14*s.* 8*d.* per annum, are received through the Canterbury bank.

This sum, with 32*l.* 6*s.*, as five-sixths of the rent of the marsh-lands, amounting to 40*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.*, makes up the income appropriated to the maintenance of the scholars.

The management of the charity was left to the management of the late William Deedes, one of the trustees, up to the time of his decease, about three years ago; and his son, William Deedes, though not a trustee, has, since his death, received the rents; and the payments have been continued under his directions. Up to Christmas 1835 there were two scholars, James Watson and Richard Marsh Dunn, receiving 20*l.* 0*s.* 4*d.* each, by half-yearly payments. The former is in the King's school; and the other, formerly a King's scholar, was, till after Michaelmas 1835, resident at Cambridge.

Canterbury.

These scholars were admitted as of kin to the founder.

Upon the vacancy taking place, by Mr. R. M. Dunn leaving the university, application was made to William Deedes, esq., under the impression that he was one of the trustees, and could make a new appointment. It seems to have been the practice, on former occasions, to apply to the late Mr. Deedes, who may possibly have communicated with the Dean of Canterbury and his co-trustees on the subject; but it is doubtful whether the trustees ever met for any purpose connected with the charity.

As there are only two trustees living, it was recommended that a new appointment should take place; and instructions were accordingly given to Mr. Curteis, Sir Henry Oxenden's solicitor, to proceed therewith immediately. It is to be hoped that the new trustees will duly attend to the concerns of the charity; that a regular account will be kept of their receipts and disbursements, and of the minutes of their proceedings; for the want of which it has been impossible to obtain so much information as was desirable with regard to the administration of this charity up to the present time.

It appears that, on one occasion, about the year 1815, a son of Edward Hammon, an inhabitant of Sellinge, was appointed to the benefit of the charity, and continued in the enjoyment of it for some years, but that he was afterwards deprived of it in consequence of an application being made by one of the founder's kin, according to the particular directions of the trust-deed.

School-Feast Society's Exhibitions.

School-Feast Society's Exhibitions.

In giving an account of the benefactions connected with the King's school, it is necessary to notice two exhibitions founded and supported by the liberality of the members of the School Feast Society, a society consisting chiefly of inhabitants of Canterbury and the neighbourhood, who meet annually.

A sum of 2,400*l.* Consols has been gradually raised with the produce of voluntary donations and subscriptions.

Of this stock, 1,548*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* stands in the names of the Hon. Richard Watson, Hon. and Rev. J. E. Boscawen, Sir Edward Knatchbull, and Deane John Parker; and 851*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.* in the three last names, the Hon. R. Watson being dead.

Two exhibitions, of 60*l.* each, are now paid out of the dividends and annual subscriptions, such scholars being appointed as, after examination, are found best qualified.

The present exhibitioners are J. D. Birt and W. N. Molesworth.

Dean Stanhope's Exhibition.

Dean Stanhope's Exhibition.

In a book kept by the auditor of the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, containing the account of Dean Stanhope's exhibition, there is an entry stating that the Rev. D. Stanhope, D.D., by a testamentary schedule, proved 4th May 1728, founded a scholarship or exhibition of 10*l.* per annum for one King's scholar of the school in Christ Church, Canterbury, to be nominated by the dean, and chosen by the dean or the vice-dean and chapter; that the same should be, for seven years, to such scholar continuing so long in some college in Cambridge, and regularly prosecuting his studies and taking his degrees there; but to cease at Michaelmas after commencing Master of Arts.

It is added that this 10*l.* was secured by 250*l.* New South Sea Annuities, then at 4 per cent., which was transferred by the executors into the name of the dean and chapter.

From 1770 to 1775 there appears to have been no exhibitioner; and, of the dividends which accrued during that period, a sufficient sum was invested to increase the principal to 300*l.*; the dividends on which, amounting to 9*l.* per annum, are paid, as an exhibition, to a scholar from the King's school, resident at the university of Cambridge, appointed by the dean.

The present scholar is John Bennett, who was appointed in 1833, and receives also one of Rose's exhibitions.

Colfe's Exhibitions.

Colfe's Exhibitions.

In the Will of Abraham Colfe, bearing date 7th September 1656 (extracts from which are given in the Appendix to the First Report), there are certain clauses by which he directs that seven scholars should receive exhibitions to the amount of 10*l.* per annum each.—(See First Report, Appendix, p. 175.) By a subsequent clause it is provided that, so often as there should be any want of scholars among the poor children of Lewisham and the other parishes resorting to the grammar-school at Lewisham, the scholars should be chosen in the manner thereinbefore set down; first, out of the Company of Leathersellers, in London; next, out of the free school of Christ Church, in Canterbury; and lastly, out of the free school of Christ's Hospital, in London, alternis vicibus.

In the evidence given to the Commissioners, in 1818, by Bury Hutchinson, the clerk to the Leathersellers' Company (see Appendix to First Report, p. 185), it is stated that no exhibition has been paid by the Company since 1757; and the reason assigned is the insufficiency of the funds, and which he represents never were sufficient.

Eastbridge Hospital Exhibitions.

Eastbridge Hospital Exhibitions.

The yearly sum of 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* is paid, out of the hospital estates, to Bennett College, Cambridge, under the ordinance of Archbishop Whitgift, for two scholarships appropriated to this school (see First Report, Appendix, p. 135).

---

It further appears, from the school register, that the scholars educated in the King's school are entitled to other exhibitions and scholarships founded by Archbishop Parker, Thorpe, Robinson, and Browne and Ludwell; these, however, are not subject to this inquiry, as being vested in the several colleges to which they are annexed.

SMITH'S EXHIBITION.

Canterbury.

Smith's Exhibition.

The following, though not limited to the King's school, will not be improperly placed here.

By indenture, bearing date 17th August 1633, and recited in a subsequent trust-deed of 1731, between the Rev. John Smith, parson of Wickhambreux, of the first part, Walter Balcanqual, D.D., parson of Adisham, William Kingsley, parson of Ickham, and seven others, of the second part, and Thomas Smith, of the third part, the said John Smith granted to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a yearly rent-charge of 15*l.*, issuing out of Great Walmestone Field, containing 36A., Little Walmestone Field, 15A., the Lesser Barn and certain land called the Hemp Yard, 1A. 1R., and the part of a curtilage containing eight perches, adjoining the said barn, and three parcels of land lying together and containing 14A., part of the pasture called Great Rushams, and all other his lands and tenements in the parish of Wingham, payable quarterly at the usual feast-days, with power of distress in case of non-payment, on trust for the maintenance of one scholar in Lincoln College, Oxford, for the term of eight years; but that, if the scholar should depart from the said college, or be preferred to some ecclesiastical living of the clear yearly value of 30*l.*, the said exhibition should cease, saving that, if he should be elected fellow or probationer in any college of the said university during the said term, he might keep the said exhibition during the remainder of the term of eight years; and it was provided that, whenever the said exhibition should be vacant (upon notice thereof given by the custos or rector of the said college), the trustees should meet in the body of the cathedral church of Canterbury, and nominate another in his place; such scholar to be of the name and kindred of the said John Smith, or, in default thereof, of any other name or kindred: and it was further provided that, whenever the trustees should be reduced by death to five, the survivors, or the heir of such survivor, should convey the said rent-charge to others, whereof the parsons of Wickhambreux, Ickham, and Adisham, for the time being, should be three; and the others should be freeholders and inhabitants of the parishes of Wingham, Wickhambreux, or Ickham.

In an indenture, bearing date 1st October 1799, whereby Sir Henry Oxenden, bart., the surviving trustee under the deed of 1731, conveyed the said rent-charge to the Rev. John Palmer and others, it is recited that the said Sir Henry Oxenden, on the 25th September then last, had in his hands, from the savings of the said rent-charge, which had accumulated from time to time during vacancies in the said scholarship, 270*l.*, which, on the same day, was invested in the purchase of 422*l.* 14*s.* Consols, in the names of himself and the said Henry Oxenden, Thomas Hey, and Thomas Bennett. It was declared that the said stock was so invested in their names, in trust, to pay the dividends in aid of the maintenance of the scholar for the time being entitled to the said rent-charge, and that when any new trustee should be appointed for the said rent-charge they should transfer the stock into the names of any four of such trustees.

By indenture, bearing date 15th December 1809, Sir Henry Oxenden, deceased, David Collard, and three others since deceased, of whom the parsons of Adisham and Ickham were two, granted the said rent-charge to the Rev. William Ladd, parson of Wickhambreux, deceased, Stephen Elgar and John Dadds, and another since deceased, and their heirs. The transfer was expressed as to the use of all the parties thereto, on the same trusts; and the said Sir Henry Oxenden covenanted to transfer into the names of himself and the said John Palmer and two others, the parsons of the parishes above mentioned, the said sum of 422*l.* 14*s.* Consols, upon the trusts declared in the preceding indentures.

The rent-charge of 15*l.* is paid, after deducting 1*l.* 16*s.* for land-tax, by J. S. Partridge, esq., the agent for Edmund Walcott Sympson, the owner of the property charged therewith.

The dividends and stock are received by Messrs. Drummonds, Sir Henry Oxenden's bankers, and paid to the account of the exhibitioner.

The exhibition, at the present time, is held by —— Knollis, who was appointed, in 1834, by Sir Henry Oxenden, after having consulted with his co-trustees thereon.

He receives 13*l.* 4*s.* annually, from Mr. Partridge; and the dividends on the stock above mentioned, amounting to 12*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*, from the bank of Messrs. Drummonds, by an order from Sir Henry Oxenden, making the annual exhibition 25*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

BARLING'S EXHIBITION.

Barling's Exhibition.

Clement Barling, by his Will, bearing date 15th April 1668, and proved at Canterbury, devised two annuities of 5*l.* a-year, issuing out of his house and lands in the parish of Ulcombe, commonly called Portbridge Field, Portbridge Croft, the Reach, the Great Southhannes, the Little Southhannes, Balduck Field, Iddenden, Nuphouse alias Nuphurst Field, for the maintenance of two scholars in the college of St. John's, Cambridge, to be paid yearly, on the 1st of June, at the parish church of Ulcombe aforesaid, to such scholars, or to their parents, guardians, or their assigns, with power of distress in case of nonpayment; and he directed that his heir, the owner or possessor for the time being of his house in the parish of Ulcombe, should nominate or present the said two scholars, and that the said college should admit such as should be so nominated, and that each scholar should enjoy the said exhibition until the period when he ought to commence the degree of Master of Arts, and no longer; that, in case his heir should not appoint before the 1st of May next after a vacancy, the master and seniors of the said college should nominate for that year; and the testator directed that scholars of certain sirnames, of the name of Barling, and, in failure of those, then such of the name of Hulse, then of Marketman, Wyvill, and Coppin, successively, should be preferred; and, if none such could be found, then such as should be born in the parish of Ulcombe, or in the county of Kent.

These exhibitions appear to have been lost before 1793; and it is represented that the lands charged therewith cannot be ascertained.

Eastbridge Hospital.

Eastbridge Hospital.

For an account of this hospital it will be almost sufficient to refer to the First Report, p. 88, and Appendix, p. 133; though that Report is in some respects limited to the then only object of inquiry—the endowment of the school.

The establishment, independent of the school, consists of the master, five in-brothers, five in-sisters, five out-brothers, and five out-sisters. When a vacancy occurs in the place of a brother or sister the mayor sends to the master of the hospital the names of two persons qualified according to the statutes; that is, being 50 years of age, and having inhabited within the city of Canterbury, or the suburbs thereof, for seven years preceding; and out of these two the master makes his selection.

The following are the annual payments, at the present time, out of the funds of the Hospital:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| The master of the hospital, yearly salary . . | 100 | 0 | 0 |
| Ditto, allowance for wood . . . . . | 15 | 0 | 0 |

| To five out-brothers and five out-sisters, at 2*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* each . . . . . | 28 | 6 | 8 |
| Two scholarships at Bennett College, Cambridge | 6 | 13 | 4 |
| Fee-farm-rent . . . . . | 6 | 2 | 2 |
| £ | 401 | 2 | 2 |

To these payments are to be added the expenses of repairs and other necessary outgoings.

A material alteration having taken place with respect to the funded property since 1818, it will be right to add the following particulars:

In the former Report it is stated that the stock amounted to 2,624*l.* Consols; in 1825 it was increased to 3,250*l.*; but, in 1826, 1,150*l.*, and in 1833, 603*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, was sold; the former sum for purchasing certain premises adjoining the hospital, and the latter for building two houses thereon, from which premises the yearly rent of 80*l.* is now received. The stock was further reduced, in January 1836, by the sale of 760*l.* for rebuilding two of the houses in Canterbury, part of the ancient possessions of the hospital; so that, at the present time, there remains only 736*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* Consols.

All these transactions were under the direction of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Staines's Benefaction.—William Staines, by his Will, bearing date 16th November 1824, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed 200*l.* New Three and a half per Cent., clear of legacy-duty, to the mayor and corporation, on trust, to pay the dividends equally amongst the brothers and sisters residing in Eastbridge Hospital. This stock forms part of a sum of 1,457*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* Three and a half per Cent., standing in the name of the corporation of the city of Canterbury; and the dividends, 7*l.* per annum, are divided half-yearly, by the chamberlain, amongst the in-brethren and in-sisters, equally.

Various Benefactions.—There are also received several yearly sums from different charities hereafter mentioned; and the amount is equally divided amongst those who are actually resident in the hospital, excepting Mrs. Fowtrell's, in which the out-brethren and out-sisters also participate.

Poor Priests' Hospital.

Poor Priests' Hospital.

This hospital, which was founded, according to the account given thereof in Hasted's History, about the year 1240, for poor priests and other unbeneficed clerks who were disabled, by age or infirmity, from performing duty, was surrendered to the Crown in the 17th year of Queen Elizabeth, and granted by her letters patent, in the same year, to the mayor and commonalty, for the use of the poor of Canterbury; but, by an Act of Parliament, passed 1 Geo. II., it was vested in the guardians of the poor, provided that they should maintain, clothe, and educate 16 poor boys, as stated under the head of St. Margaret's Blue Coat School, First Report, p. 92.

Hospital of St. John, Northgate.

Hospital of St. John, Northgate.

The foundation of this hospital, and that of St. Nicholas, Harbledown, is attributed to Archbishop Lanfranc. Some account is given of their early history by Hasted and other Kentish historians; but they may both be considered as almost refounded by Archbishop Parker, who gave them a body of statutes, under which, with a few alterations or additions made by his successors, they are now governed. It may be presumed that the Archbishops of Canterbury have, from time immemorial, exercised an unlimited power over these hospitals; and these statutes contain a reservation of such power to the archbishop and his successors.

An abstract of Archbishop Parker's Statutes (one part of the original being still preserved in each hospital) will be found in a subsequent page.

The substance, however, may be stated shortly, as follows; viz. that the hospital was founded for poor, sick, impotent, and needy people; that the number should be 60 (30 of each sex); that none should dwell out of the hospital without special dispensation from the archbishop, and, with such dispensation, not more than 20 (10 of each sex); that, on admission, they should each pay 6*s.* 8*d.* towards the repairs of the hospital; that the in-dwellers should attend church twice a-day; that no lease should be granted in reversion; that each brother and sister should pay 8*d.* a-quarter to the chaplain, out of the 6*s.* 8*d.* paid to them quarterly by the archbishop.

And, by an order of Archbishop Sancroft, in 1686, all the in-brothers and in-sisters who were not resident were to pay 6*d.* a-month towards the repairs of the hospital.

With regard to the endowment of the hospital, there are, in a chest kept in the hall, a vast number of very ancient deeds, some of which are grants of land, &c., to the prior, brethren and sisters, as a corporation; others to the prior alone, or jointly with the brethren and sisters, by their individual names. As it would have been of no practical use to have made out the title to their possessions from these documents, and the investigation would necessarily have consumed a great length of time, the attempt has not been made. There is a schedule of these documents in Duncombe's printed account of the archiepiscopal hospitals at Canterbury.

In the Valor Ecclesiasticus, Temp. H. 8, printed in 1810, there is this account of the hospital:—

The premises belonging to Mr. Tomson, with which the demised land is held, comprise a large brewery in Queen-street, in the town of Ramsgate. The leasehold property is described, by the lessee, as containing about two-thirds of an acre in pasture, the residue being taken up with public and other roads; and he states that in 1819 he paid £16 for a fine and the expenses of the renewal. Applications have been made for a renewal subsequently, but it has not been granted, and it is supposed that if the present lease is allowed to expire the property may be advantageously let for building. | there may have been many years arrears due at that time. Neither the lands nor the present occupiers are known, nor does it appear that any investigation of the title of the hospital to property in those places would furnish sufficient means for recovering the property without some proof of payment, or acknowledgment of title, of which there is no evidence.

The leases are granted under the common seal of the hospital, and the allowance of the master is testified by his signature. The practice has been, until lately, to renew the leases every seven years on the payment of a fine not exceeding one year and a half's value, at a very low valuation. Of late years, or at least since 1825, when Mr. Austen was appointed steward, an attempt has been made to put a stop to this system of renewing, so far, at least, as could be done, by putting a fair valuation on the property for the purpose of fixing the fine, insisting on the premises being put into repair under the covenants of the old leases, or the insertion of proper covenants in the new leases; but the attempt has not been carried so far as to refuse the renewal of a lease if the party has been willing to submit to the terms above mentioned, and has made his application within a reasonable time after the expiration of the first seven years.

It will appear from the foregoing rental, if the annual value is fairly represented, that the rents of the lands (not taking into account property on which the lessee may possibly have laid out money in building, and with the exception of some part let at rack-rent) scarcely exceed one-fourth, and if the average of the fines are added would not exceed one-half of the estimated annual value. The system of granting leases on fines was probably adopted as warranted by the several statutes passed in the reign of Queen Elizabeth with respect to leases by ecclesiastical corporations and hospitals. But with regard to this hospital, and that of St. Nicholas, Harbledown, in which the same system has prevailed, it is provided by the private statutes of the visitor, that no reversion should be granted before the lease should be fully expired, or within one year of expiring; and this statute seems to be binding on the members of the hospital, not merely according to the letter; but according to the spirit of the injunction, which is, that the hospital should be unfettered, and at liberty to negociate on equal terms with the person offering to become tenant. As regards the interests of the lessees, there seems to be no doubt that, supposing a court of equity would allow them to remain undisturbed in the possession of the terms already granted, they cannot claim a renewal, even on the payment of a sufficient fine, which, in the opinion of persons conversant in these matters, ought to be not less than two years and a half's full value. Under these circumstances it seems desirable that the visitor should interfere, and, by a general order, expressly prohibit the granting of any lease otherwise than at the full yearly value, except in consideration of building, or effecting substantial repairs. It has been suggested that the present inmates of the hospital would be, in some degree, prejudiced by the loss of the fines which in the ordinary course would have been payable during their lives, with a view of improving the income of their successors by obtaining a rack-rent at the expiration of the further term of 14 years; but the system which has been adopted of applying the fines chiefly, and of late years wholly, in repairs and permanent improvements of the hospital or the estate is open to the same objection. Another difficulty arises with regard to the means of keeping up a sufficient fund for repairs, but, as there are several leases which are about to expire within seven years from the present time, it may be hoped that, by careful management, this may be surmounted.

The fines paid for renewals of leases are now carried to the reparation account; this practice has prevailed since 1825, but before that time a part (but no definite portion) was generally carried to the quarterly accounts as income.

The rents are collected, some of them half-yearly, and others quarterly, and some few are treated as yearly payments; they are paid by the tenants to the prior, with the exception of some small rents, which are collected by one of the brethren, and paid over to him.

This amount is carried to the prior's quarterly accounts, with the produce of any bark that may have been sold, and the following payments are made thereout, viz.:—To the chaplain by quarterly payments, 8*l.*; to the reparation fund, as vacancy money, being the stipend of two brethren at 6*s.* a-quarter each, their places being vacant, 2*l.* 8*s.*; also from 5*l.* to 7*l.* paid for an annual feast on Midsummer-day, beyond what is defrayed by the small feast-rents reserved by the leases; the charges of cutting, binding, and delivering the wood, and some other incidental expenses; all which payments have, in the last six years, varied from about 26*l.* to 30*l.*, and have averaged 27*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* a-year; the clear residue is divided every quarter into 38 shares, which are disposed of as hereafter mentioned.

The hospital comprises a good chapel, with a burial ground adjoining, a common hall, called the Frater Hall, and a common kitchen; also several tenements, some with two stories, and containing altogether 33 distinct dwellings, irregularly dispersed, without any pretension to uniformity, small, inconvenient, and, for the most part, in bad repair. If sufficient funds could be raised for the purpose, without injury to the income of the brethren and sisters, it would appear well worthy of consideration whether it would not be advisable gradually to rebuild them. The whole site, with the yard and some small gardens, contains about three-quarters of an acre.

The establishment consists of a master, who derives no emolument from the situation; a chaplain, who receives a salary of 8*l.* a-year; and 53 brothers and sisters, including the prior, and prioress; seven vacancies being accounted for annually, as hereafter mentioned, making up the number of 60. All these persons receive their appointment from the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Canterbury.

The Venerable James Croft, Archdeacon of Canterbury, is the present master; the vicar of St. Mary, Northgate, for the time being, acts as chaplain, without any formal appointment, and reads prayers twice a-week in the chapel; George Austen, who is clerk of the works, and holds other offices of some emolument under the dean and chapter, is steward, and also one of the brethren and prior, and he holds the same situations in the hospital of St. Nicholas, Harbledown.

As it was suggested that the appointment of Mr. Austen was improper, because he was not such a person as was the object of the foundation, it is necessary to state the circumstances under which it took place, for it certainly appears, from the preamble to the statutes of Archbishop Parker, and from the statutes themselves, that the hospitals were intended for the support of poor, sick, impotent, and needy people, who were to reside therein; and the appointment of a permanent officer as prior is not in accordance with the provisions of the eighth statute, which directs that such officer should be chosen annually according to ancient custom, and alludes to the appointment as belonging to the brethren.

In 1825 George Austen was appointed to the office of steward, which had then become vacant, with a salary of 15*l.* from each hospital, in lieu of a per centage which his predecessors had received, and he was chosen as being fully competent to manage the estates for the purpose of preventing the granting of leases on improper terms. An attempt was shortly afterwards made to obtain from the prior and brethren, without the knowledge of the steward or of the master, the renewal of a lease, which had been refused except upon the condition of the party first putting the premises into repair according to the terms of the lease then subsisting. This transaction, as well as a practice which, it is represented, was of not unfrequent occurrence, that of the lessees giving money to the brethren to induce them to renew on easy terms, induced the master to recommend the appointment of George Austen to the place of brother, and afterwards to appoint him himself to the office of prior in the two hospitals; and he states that he considered it essential to the interests of the establishment that the prior, who was a necessary party to the leases, should be a person conversant with the management of landed property, and in a superior situation in life.

The necessity of there being some sufficient controlling power over the brethren occurred to Archbishop Parker, who declared that no business should be transacted without the minister, who was made equal, in all respects, with the prior; and in Archbishop Abbot's order the minister is mentioned as a sworn in-brother; it is also provided that no lease should pass under the common seal without the assent of the archbishop for the time being. These restrictions have not been regarded for many years, and, though the consent of the master has been usually required, yet, as the want of that consent would not render the lease void at law, it appears that no person, except in the situation of prior, can have complete control over the letting of the property; and it is desirable that this power should be vested in some person of sufficient ability. Under these circumstances the appointments above mentioned appear to be justifiable; and, though George Austen still retains the office of steward, his whole emoluments from the two hospitals do not amount to 50*l.* a-year.

With respect to the brethren and sisters, it is provided by the statutes that there should be 60, that they should all be resident unless they should have a special dispensation from the archbishop, and that not more than 20 should dwell out of the hospital at any one time.

The practice of appointing persons, with a dispensation from residence, has given rise to the distinction of in and out brothers and sisters; but this is not the only difference which exists, as there are in fact three classes, viz.:—

1st. Those appointed without dispensation from residence, and who (excepting the prior, who has given up his dwelling to another brother) are all living in the hospital.

2d. Those appointed with a dispensation from residence, who are not resident, but receive their share of the income at the hands of the prior equally with those of the preceding class.

And 3d. Those appointed with a dispensation from residence, and receiving only 6*s.* a-quarter, and that from the receiver of the archbishop.

Of the first class there are 33, that being the number of dwellings; in the second class five; and in the third 15. The seven vacancies appear to be accounted for as if they were all of the third class, as 8*l.* 8*s.* (which would be the stipend of seven persons at 6*s.* a-quarter) is carried to the reparation account as vacancy money; but it would rather seem that 6*l.* (part of the 8*l.* 8*s.*), which is paid to that account by the archbishop's secretary, is the vacancy money for five out-brethren and sisters, which would make up the number of 20; and that the residue, 2*l.* 8*s.*, which is carried to the same account out of the general income by the prior, is taken as the stipend of two in-brothers, whose places are vacant, though in all the accounts it is entered as for two out-brothers.

The in-brethren and sisters, that is, the 33 of the first class, and two out of the three in the second class, though appointed by the archbishop, are recommended by the master; they are aged and infirm persons, but there is no restriction in the statutes as to age, nor as to the place in which they may have lived, and several of them are from a distance. The other brethren and sisters are appointed by the archbishop himself, and are usually styled the Lambeth brethren and sisters.

On the production of their appointment under the hand and seal of the archbishop, commonly called the Corody, the in-brethren and sisters are admitted by the prior, and, after having so much of the statutes read to them as relates to their own conduct and duty, they take an oath for the performance of the existing statutes, or such as may be made by the archbishop for the time being.

On their admission they pay,

The three last payments, though sanctioned by usage, seem hardly to be justifiable, and, on mentioning the circumstance to the archbishop's secretary and to the steward, they immediately declared their intention of giving up these fees from the present time.

Each of the in-brothers and sisters receive their respective shares of the clear income in the Frater Hall of the hospital, and also their respective shares of the underwood cut for fuel. The shares of the five brothers and sisters above described in the second class, with the produce of the sale of their portion of the underwood, are transmitted to them, or paid at the same time in the hall to such person as may be authorized to receive the money.

The clear sum annually divided, exclusive of the produce of the wood, has, in the last six years, averaged 300*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* per annum, being somewhat less than 8*l.* a share.

In case any one of the first or second class dies before the quarter-day, the share of such persons is divided proportionably, and what may have accrued during the vacancy is carried to the reparation account under the head of Vacancy-Money. There is also deducted and carried to the same account 6*d.* a-month, or 1*s.* 6*d.* a-quarter, from the share of each of the abovementioned 38 persons, who is not resident in the hospital, under the order of Archbishop Sancroft.

The quarterly accounts are produced and read over in the hall, and signed by some of the brethren, and it is stated that, on all occasions when required, the fullest information is given them on any subject connected with the management of the property or the expenditure.

The other 15 brethren and sisters, of whom the greater number are resident in or near Lambeth, receive only 6*s.* a-quarter; but out of the first quarter's payment, after their appointment, 8*d.* is deducted and paid over to Mr. Lewis, the archbishop's secretary, who accounts for it to the prior as applicable to the repairs of the hospital.

These quarterly payments are made by the receiver of the archbishop out of the yearly sum of 80*l.* charged on the see, and which may be accounted for as follows:—

The 15 out-brothers and sisters are excluded from all participation in any other of the revenues of the hospital than the mere annuity of 80*l.* above mentioned. It may be presumed that this arrangement was made under the directions of some former visitor, though there appears no notice of such an order amongst the documents in the hospital.

With respect to the deduction of 8*d.* out of the first quarter's stipend, the only explanation which occurs is that, as 6*s.* 8*d.* was to be paid on the admission of each person to the hospital, it may possibly have been the practice to detain 6*s.*, the whole of one quarter's stipend, and 8*d.* out of the second, but that in process of time the 6*s.* was confounded with the vacancy money, which was paid to the same account, and so lost sight of.

Reparation Fund.—The following are the particulars of the receipts accounted for as applicable to the repairs of the hospital:—

1. One moiety of 6*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* received by Mr. Lewis, the archbishop's secretary, as the amount of the several fee-farm rents due to the two hospitals after certain deductions made at the office as above mentioned, though this hospital is, in fact, entitled only to the sum of 3*l.* 8*s.* 7½*d.*, subject to a proportionate reduction.
2. Corody vacancy-money, viz. 6*l.*, paid by Mr. Lewis for five vacancies, and 2*l.* 8*s.* for two vacancies, paid out of the income by the prior.
3. Shares of in-brothers and sisters during temporary vacancies.
4. Fines for non-residence at 6*d.* a month, paid by each brother and sister not actually living in the hospital, except the 15 out-brothers and sisters at Lambeth.
5. Admission-money, 6*s.* 8*d.* from each in-brother and sister, except the 15 above mentioned, and from them 8*d.* each; the latter being included in the payments made by Mr. Lewis.
6. One moiety of dividends on 33*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* Three per Cent. Reduced: when this was invested, or whence derived, is not known; and the existence of such stock appears to have been forgotten till about 1830, when a letter having been received from Mr. Ady, stating that on payment of 1*l.* he would give information to the benefit of the hospital, inquiry was made and the stock discovered.
7. For timber, receipts uncertain and irregular.
8. Fines for renewal of leases, ditto.
9. Occasional receipts for dilapidations, ditto.

With regard to the several payments made by Mr. Lewis, as above mentioned, it appears, from the accounts transmitted by him to the prior from 1830 to 1835, that he has given credit for five years fee-farm rents at 6*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* per annum, and for the vacancy-money and admission-fees payable to the two hospitals for six years, amounting to 86*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*, being on an average about 14*l.* 7*s.* 5*d.* per annum; and he has charged for a fee-farm rent due to the Dean and Chapter of Rochester 1*s.* per annum, the like sum yearly for an acquittance. For his trouble in receiving the fee-farm rents, 1*l.* 1*s.* yearly, and small sums occasionally for postage. The charge, however, for receiving the fee-farm rents might be dispensed with, as the prior has opportunities of calling for it himself at the proper office.

The clear sums accounted for by Mr. Lewis have been divided between the two hospitals equally, the prior having been ignorant on what account the several sums were paid, or to which hospital they were applicable.

The 12*s.* a-quarter charged by the prior to the account of income for two vacant places was omitted to be entered in the reparation account from Michaelmas 1827, and the like mistake occurred during the same period with regard to St. Nicholas Hospital. It is stated by the prior that this omission arose entirely from inadvertence; that, as the amount had previously been added to the money arising from fines for non-residence, and not forming a distinct item, it was overlooked. The error was discovered and pointed out to Archdeacon Croft (the master) before the commencement of this inquiry, and the amount omitted, 16*l.* 14*s.*, has been since inserted to the credit of the hospital in the accounts for the present year 1836.

The following is a summary of the reparation account from 1822 to 1835:—

Balance against the

The following is the substance of the statutes of Archbishop Parker:—

Abstract of the statutes of Matthew Archbishop Parker, bearing date September 15th, 1560.

The said archbishop, having before his eyes the charitable affection and goodly zeal that was in his predecessors, Archbishops of Canterbury, who founded two hospitals, the one of St. John's, Northgate, and the other of St. Nicholas, in Harbledown, for poor, sick, impotent, and needy people to be relieved and succoured in the same; and that the said hospitals might be ordered according to the minds of the founders, ordained—

1. That according to the first foundation there should be in the hospital of St. John's, Northgate, 30 men and 30 women, to be called brethren and sisters, who should be bound to make their abode and to dwell within the said hospital, unless they should have a special dispensation from the archbishop for the time being, provided there should not dwell out of the house above 10 brethren and 10 sisters at any one time.

2. That upon every vacancy, whether by death, voluntary departure, or compulsion, the prior, with three of the brethren, should, within 10 days, if the brother dwelt in the house, or in Canterbury, or, if further off, as soon as they should have certain knowledge thereof, give notice to the archbishop, or, sede vacante, to the dean and chapter.

3. That none should be admitted but such as should be named by certificate under the signet of the archbishop, or should personally exhibit to the prior and his brethren a grant of a corody under his seal, or, sede vacante, the seal of the dean and chapter. That every brother and sister, on their admission, should pay towards the repairing the church and other houses 6*s.* 8*d.*, and should have their names written in a table appointed for the purpose, and that the prior should cause the statutes to be read to them on their admission, and yearly on Midsummer-day before all the brethren and sisters.

4. That every brother and sister at their admission to dwell in the house should take the oath therein prescribed to keep all the statutes then made or thereafter to be made by the Archbishop of Canterbury, or his successors, to obey the prior, and not agree to alienate any lands, &c., without consent of the archbishop.

5. That none, having the use of reason and speech, should be admitted, but such as should be able to say the Lord's Prayer, the Articles of the Faith, and the Ten Commandments. That, after their admission, they should endeavour to learn by heart the brief Catechism in the book of Common Prayer.

6. That all the brethren and sisters dwelling in the hospital should attend church twice in the day.

7. That no brother or sister should be absent from the hospital without cause allowed of by the prior or prioress, or be absent more than two months in the year, except in common causes of the house, &c.

8. That a prior should be chosen yearly at the Feast of All Saints, according to old custom; and, as the brethren did choose their prior, so the sisters should choose their prioress; and on the day the prior was chosen should be also chosen four of the skilful, sober, and discreet brethren to be assistants and counsels to the prior that year, as well in things appertaining to the state of the house, and concerning the lands, tenements, and reparations, as in the due execution of the statutes.

9. That the prior should see that his brethren should observe the statutes and ordinances of the house, and the prioress call upon the sisters to do the same. That the prior and one of the brethren, or else two of the four brethren, should, twice every year, view the church and their houses, both at home and abroad. That, when need should be, repairs might be done, and heed taken that neither any of their lands be changed nor stripped, nor waste committed on their grounds, or in their houses, by any of their tenants. That the prior or one of the brethren should, from time to time, look to the woods which served for provision of the house, that no spoil be made therein, and the springs sufficiently fenced from cattle.

10. That the prior and one of the brethren should collect the rents and account before all or at least 10 of the brethren once every year; should deliver up any money in his hands to be placed in a coffer in the treasury-house, in which the charters, grants, statutes, leases, and common seal, should be kept; the prior to have one key thereof, and two of the brethren one each.

11. 12. Declare the punishment of drunkards, quarrellers, &c., or for fornication.

13. That no lease shall pass under the common seal without the assent of the said archbishop and his successors first obtained, and no reversion given before the lease should be fully expired, or within one year of expiring.

14. That each of the 60 brethren and sisters should, quarterly, out of the 6*s.* 8*d.* paid to them by the said archbishop and his successors, allow 8*d.* to be left in the prior's hands amounting to 8*l.*, which should be employed to the stipend of an able priest, to be appointed by the said archbishop and his successors to be their curate, and to instruct them and to administer the holy sacrament.

15. That any brother or sister who should willingly do contrary to their oath for the observance of these statutes should be expelled.

16. That these statutes should not be altered without the assent of the archbishop for the time being.

17. Reserves the right of construing, changing, and abrogating the same to the archbishop and his successors.

18. That, out of the yearly sum of 80*l.* payable by the archbishop, the receiver shall retain a sufficient sum to pay the quarterly stipend of 6*s.* each to the 15 out-brothers and sisters now receiving such stipend, and to pay 10*s.* a-quarter to every out-brother and out-sister who shall be appointed after the number is reduced by vacancies below six. That the residue of the 80*l.* and all other rents, fee-farm rents, annuities, and dividends, belonging to the hospital, be carried first to the quarterly accounts to be kept by the prior, the surplus of which, after paying all outgoings, and the stipends of the other brethren and sisters, is to be carried as already provided to the reparation account. That there shall also be carried to the reparation account whatever may accrue during the vacancy of any place of brother or sister, and any sums which may accrue by forfeiture for non-residence, or any other cause. That the account shall be kept by the prior, who shall, under the directions of the master, apply thereout what may be requisite for rebuilding and maintaining the buildings of the hospital and of the chapel, and for no other purposes.

Additional orders were made by the same archbishop 20th August 1565, and 20th May 1574, containing regulations which do not materially add to or alter the preceding, except that the minister was declared to be equal with the prior; that he should assist the prior with his counsel, and that the prior should assist him in the execution of the statutes.

The only subsequent statutes which appear material are (amongst others, made by Archbishop Abbott in 1618)—that the minister in each hospital should, according to Archbishop Parker's injunctions, be equal with the prior in all things, and, consequently, that he should be called to all meetings, and no business transacted without him, and that, in regard that he was a sworn in-brother, and was made equal to the prior in all respects, he should have one of the three keys of the muniment chest; that an account of the receipts and disbursements should be given quarterly, and allowed by a competent number of the brothers; that it was not the meaning of the statutes that any married couples should lodge together in the hospitals, nor that any women should be admitted within the age of child-bearing.

By an order of Archbishop Sheldon, 19th February 1663, it was provided that, if any in-brother or in-sister should thereafter marry, they should ipso facto forfeit their place.

By an order of Archbishop Sancroft, 1686,—

To prevent the in-brothers and in-sisters of the two hospitals living in other places without dispensation, it was ordered that the prior should detain the stipend of those who should not dwell in their respective houses within one month after their admittance for the public use of the hospital, and, if they should not come and actually inhabit there within six months, their place should be void. And in case dispensation should be granted by the archbishop, yet the prior should detain 6*d.* a-month during their absence out of their stipends, to be laid out in the repairs of their houses, or of the hospital. That, if any of the houses should want repair, the prior should give notice to the persons concerned therein; and, if they should neglect to repair within two months, the prior, with the approbation of the master, should repair the same, and deduct the charge out of the stipends of the said parties; and that the prior should take care that the buildings, such as the hall and chapel, should be repaired.

Snow's Benefaction.—By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 1st and 2d February 1730, reciting indentures of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th October 1714, between Thomas Archbishop of Canterbury, of the one part, and Thomas Bishop of Ely, Archdeacon of Canterbury, and others, of the other part; whereby, after reciting that Ralph Snow had bequeathed to the hospital of St. John 200*l.*, which he desired might be disposed of to the best advantage to the poor of the said hospital by their visitor the said archbishop, and that the said archbishop had by such indentures as were therein mentioned purchased the lands and tenements thereinafter mentioned, the said archbishop conveyed to the parties thereto of the second part, and their heirs, four pieces of fresh marsh-land, containing, by estimation, 14 acres, with the appurtenances, in Wickhambreux, to the intent that they should receive and (their necessary expenses being deducted) dispose of the rents and profits amongst the poor of the said hospital, share and share alike, except the prior for the time being, who should always have a double share; and it was thereby provided that, whenever three of the trustees for the time being should die, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves and three others for the use of the said hospital; and that the trustees for the time being should yearly, or oftener if required, render an account of the rents and the disposal thereof to the visitor for the time being; and reciting that Thomas Green, then Bishop of Ely, Elias Sidall, Dean of Canterbury, and William Deedes, were the survivors named in the said recited indentures; they conveyed the premises by the same description to the use of themselves, and of John Lynch, D. D., the Rev. Julius Deedes, William Crayford, and Samuel Morris, on the same trusts.

It does not appear that there has been any subsequent conveyance to new trustees.

The property at Wickhambreux is let to James Mead, as stated in the general rental of this hospital, and the rent is carried to account with the proceeds of the other estates.

Archbishop Secker's Benefaction.—In an old hospital book is an entry dated September 1786, stating that Archbishop Secker's legacy of 500*l.* Consols, having fallen into the hospital by the death of Mrs. Tillett, had been transferred by the Accountant-general of the Court of Chancery for the benefit of the said hospital.

That by the Archbishop's consent 200*l.* stock had been sold out for 155*l.* 6*s.* 9*d.* to discharge the debts of the hospital, which had been incurred in building a barn on the Brotherhood Farm.

The remainder of the legacy probably forms part of the stock now belonging to the hospital, the dividends on which are carried to the general account.

Decaufour's Benefaction.—Daniel Decaufour, by his Will, bearing date 10th October 1832, bequeathed, after the decease of his sister Mary Braddon, to the Archdeacon of Canterbury, the master of the hospital of St. John, Northgate, and his successors, 1,000*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Annuities, clear of legacy-duty, on trust, to dispose of the yearly dividends quarterly among the poor men and women, the in-brothers and in-sisters, bonâ fide residing in the said hospital. He directed that his said trustee and his successors should provide a book, in which should be entered the whole of this bequest, the accounts of his receipts and disbursements, and the names of the poor men and women who should have received this charity.

The accounts to be passed in the presence of the prior, if resident and a literate man, and not disqualified from age or infirmities, or otherwise the next brother or sister in seniority.

The sum of 1,000*l.* Three and a half per Cent. is standing in the name of the prior, brethren, and sisters of the hospital, and the dividends, amounting to 35*l.* a-year, are divided amongst the resident brethren and sisters, and an account thereof is kept according to the directions of the donor.

Various Benefactions.—The inmates of this hospital also receive from different charities, of which an account will be given hereafter, the following yearly sums:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| From Lovejoy's Charity | 10 | 0 | 0 |

Hearne's Benefaction.—The Rev. George Hearne, by his Will, bearing date 14th March 1804, bequeathed to this hospital 10*l.* per annum, part of his Long Annuities, with directions that, if his property should exceed what he had disposed of by his Will, this legacy, in common with others, should be increased, as more fully stated under the head of Hearne's Charity to the parish of St. Mary, Northgate.

Canterbury.

This legacy was increased out of the testator's residuary personal estate to 15*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* per annum Long Annuities, and the executor, W. Cantis, states that Long Annuities to this amount were made over in 1806 to the prior of the hospital.

There is no trace whatever of any receipt or payment in respect of these annuities.

It appears, on inquiry at the Bank of England, that the sum of 15*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* Long Annuities was transferred, 9th April 1807, by John Gregory and William Cantis, the executors, to the Rev. Houstonne Radcliffe, then master of St. John's Hospital, but that the same was sold by a power of attorney granted by him 1st August 1807.

There are no means of tracing how the produce of the sale was disposed of.

HOSPITAL OF ST. NICHOLAS, HARBLEDOWN.

Hospital of St. Nicholas, Harbledown.

This hospital is attributed to the same founder, and is subject to the control of the same visitor as that of St. John, Northgate. The statutes of archbishop Parker, which are preserved with many ancient grants in a chest in the hospital, are dated 20th May 1560, but the purport of them is precisely similar (mutatis mutandis) to those of St. John's; and as to the management of the whole establishment, and the letting of the estates, the account and observations given under the preceding head equally apply to this hospital, except in some few instances which will be noticed hereafter. It will be sufficient in this case also to state the substance of the Valor Ecclesiasticus, as showing what the property was in the time of King Henry VIII., without going into the investigation of the title thereto.

About 1828 lessee proposed to renew, and a draft of a lease was sent to him, containing what were considered proper covenants, but he objected, and ultimately the treaty for a renewal was broken off. Hospital of St. Nicholas, Harbledown, continued.

There are also reserved in some of the leases small annual sums or articles of food, for which a compensation in money is paid under the name of feast-rents, the amount of which is 1*l.* 15*s.* per annum, and two bushels of wheat; and there is a wood, called the Brethren Wood, containing about 60 acres, of which about three acres is cut every year; the underwood, timber, and bark are accounted for in the same manner as at St. John's Hospital.

It has been suggested to the inmates of the hospital that if the underwood were sold standing, and the produce divided amongst them, they would derive greater benefit from the woodland than they now do; but as many of them prefer adhering to the present system, it has not been altered.

There is no timber in the wood now fit to cut, and it will be many years before any considerable fall can be expected.

The hospital consists of a chapel, situate in the burial-ground mentioned in the rental, a frater-hall, and 21 tenements for the brethren and sisters, 12 of which, with the hall, are under one roof, and the others irregularly dispersed; there is a small garden appropriated to each dwelling. All these buildings are in a very bad state, being of great age, and the timbers much decayed. The expenses of putting them into proper repair would not fall far short of the cost of rebuilding them; and within the precincts of the hospital a more eligible site might easily be found.

It was the intention of Dr. Percy, the late master, to have commenced building a new set of dwellings, making as much progress annually as the funds would allow. Within a late period there were four more tenements, but they became so completely ruinous that they at last fell to the ground. The chapel is also in a very ruinous state, both as to the walls and roof.

The establishment is nearly similar to that of St. John's Hospital; the venerable Archdeacon Croft is the master; the Rev. R. B. Bunce, as the officiating curate of Harbledown, acts as chaplain, with a salary of 8*l.*, besides the advantage of a small house, worth 7*l.* a-year; and George Austen holds the office of steward and prior, having been appointed at the time and under the circumstances already stated.

There are 30 brethren and sisters, including the prior and prioress (15 of each sex), amongst whom the income of the estate is divided, which in the last six years has averaged about 10*l.* a-year to each; and 19 resident in or near Lambeth, who have only 6*s.* a-quarter paid to them by the receiver; 6 vacancies are accounted for by the receiver, and 5 by the prior, making up the number of 60; of the 30 first mentioned, 9, including the prior, are non-resident, there being only 21 dwellings, so that there are, in fact, 28 persons not residing in the hospital, which exceeds the number to whom, according to the statutes, dispensations might have been granted.

The brethren and sisters are appointed by the archbishop, but (except as to the 19 at Lambeth, and 3 out of the 9 non-residents) upon the recommendation of the master.

The annuity of 80*l.*, charged on the revenues of the see, is divided by the receiver as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| To 19 brethren and sisters at Lambeth 6*s.* a-quarter . . | 22 | 16 | 0 |
| To the archbishop's secretary, and transmitted by him to the prior, to be applied to the repairs of the hospital, 6*s.* a-quarter for six vacancies . . . . . | 7 | 4 | 0 |

| To ditto for the chaplain, 8*d.* a-quarter from 60 brethren and sisters . . . . . | 8 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 80 | 0 | 0 |

In the application of the income and all other matters, the system which is pursued in this hospital and that of St. John's, Northgate, is precisely similar.

Reparation Fund.—The following are the particulars of the sums accounted for as applicable to the repairs of this hospital:—

1. One moiety of the fee-farm rent of 6*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*
2. Corody vacancy-money, viz. 7*l.* 4*s.* paid by the archbishop's secretary for six vacancies, and 6*l.* paid out of the income by the prior for five vacancies, at 6*s.* a-quarter.
3. Shares of in-brothers and sisters during temporary vacancies.
4. Fines for non-residence, at 6*d.* a-month for each brother and sister not actually living in the hospital, except the 19 out-brothers and sisters at Lambeth.
5. Admission-money, viz. 6*s.* 8*d.* from each in-brother and sister, and 8*d.* from every out brother and sister.
6. One moiety of dividends on 33*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* Consols.
7. Receipts for timber.
8. Fines on renewals.
9. Occasional receipts for dilapidations.

It has been noticed in the preceding account of St. John's Hospital that credit was not given in the reparation account for the yearly sum of 6*l.*, charged to the account of the income for the five vacancies above mentioned, but the error has been corrected, and 43*l.* 10*s.* has been entered in the accounts for the present year 1836.

The following is a summary of the receipts and disbursements on account of the Reparation Fund:—

Michaelmas 1835, £184. 4*s.* 10*d.*

Canterbury.

Snow's Benefaction.—Ralph Snow, by his Will, bearing date 13th June 1707, bequeathed 200*l.* to this hospital, as well as to that of St. John's, Northgate; and by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 9th and 10th July 1712, Thomas Tennison, Archbishop of Canterbury, conveyed to trustees, in satisfaction of this legacy, several parcels of land in Mitcham, in the county of Surrey, in trust, as to two-fifths of the rents, to divide the same amongst the poor of the Hospital of St. Nicholas, Harbledown, equally, "except the warden, who should have a double share;" the other three-fifths to be applied to Whitgift's Hospital in Croydon.

This estate has been conveyed to new trustees from time to time, as will be more particularly stated in the report of Whitgift's Hospital above-mentioned.

The estate is now let at 108*l.* a-year, of which two-fifths, 43*l.* 4*s.*, is payable to the hospital of St. Nicholas. The sum of 21*l.* 5*s.*, 7*d.* being reserved for expenses, is transmitted every half-year from Croydon, through the Canterbury bank, to the prior of St. Nicholas's Hospital, by whom it is carried to the credit of the general account. The sum of 14*l.* received for timber from this estate in 1833 was carried to the reparation account.

Archbishop Secker's Benefaction.—It appears that 500*l.* Consols was left by Archbishop Secker to St. Nicholas's Hospital, as well as to that of St. John's, Northgate.

Nothing is known of this benefaction, nor does it appear how it was disposed of. The sum of 450*l.* Consols, above mentioned in the account of the property of this hospital, may possibly have been derived from this bequest.

Decaufour's Benefaction.—The sum of 1,000*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Stock is standing in the names of the prior, brethren, and sisters of this hospital, derived from the bequest of Daniel Decaufour, which was in the same terms as that to the hospital of St. John's.

The dividends, amounting to 35*l.* a-year, are distributed amongst the resident brethren and sisters, and an account kept according to the directions of the donor.

Various Benefactions.—The inmates of this hospital also receive from different charities, of which an account will be given hereafter, the following yearly sums, viz.—

Jesus' Hospital.

Jesus' Hospital.

By deed-poll bearing date 26th June 1599, and enrolled in the Court of Chancery, John Boys, under the authority of the Act of 39th Elizabeth, for erecting hospitals, &c., founded and established a brick building lately by him erected in the parish of St. Mary, Northgate, in Canterbury, and certain houses, orchards, and grounds thereunto adjoining, and containing half an acre, to be an hospital for the sustentation, relief, and setting to work of certain maimed poor, needy, or impotent people for ever, which hospital, and the persons therein to be placed, he appointed to be incorporated and called Jesus' Hospital; and he appointed that there should be one warden of the said hospital, and of the lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods, and chattels of the same, who should be called the Warden of Jesus' Hospital, and that there should be maimed, poor, or impotent persons, not exceeding the number of 20, who should be maintained and relieved in the same hospital, and from time to time chosen and appointed by the said John Boys, his heirs, executors, or assigns, and should be called the Poor of Jesus' Hospital: that the said warden and poor and their successors for ever should be a body corporate by the name of the Warden and Poor of Jesus' Hospital, in the parish of the blessed Mary of Northgate, and by that name sue and have other the usual powers of a corporation; and that the same hospital and the said warden and poor should be from time to time ordered, visited, placed, or displaced, by such persons or bodies corporate as should be nominated by the said John Boys, his heirs or assigns, according to such statutes as should be made by him, his heirs or assigns, in writing: and he appointed that all the revenues of the said lands, tenements, &c., should be employed for the maintenance of the said hospital and the members thereof for ever: and he gave to the said warden and poor and their successors an annuity of £10, payable half-yearly out of his lands and tenements in St. John's, in the Isle of Thanet, containing 80 acres, with a power of distress in case of non-payment.

Statutes were established by the founder for the government of the hospital, of which the most material are as follows:—

That the number of brothers and sisters should be 12 at least besides the warden, and so many more, not exceeding 20, as the revenues of the hospital might bear, until the rooms then built for lodgings, or thereafter to be built, should be replenished, one third of the whole number to be women and not above; that no man and his wife should be at one time a brother and sister; that the yearly sum of £6 should be reserved out of the revenue as a stock for repairs and law-suits; and if any brother or sister should die before quarter-day, though another should be admitted, yet the quarterage should be laid up as a stock for the like purposes and for augmentation of the stipend of the members, relief of the sick, and for gowns once in three or four years; that the surplusage, all things in these ordinances performed, should be divided amongst the warden, in-brothers and sisters.

That the warden should be chosen after the decease of the founder and his wife, by such of the surname of the founder as should be owners of Betshanger or of Fredville, or, in default of these, by the Dean of Canterbury for the time being, and, on his default, by the mayor of Canterbury; that the warden should be a discreet man, able to write and read, above 30 and under 50 years of age. This statute then proceeds with a provision that, if the warden be not appointed within two months after a vacancy, the Archdeacon of Canterbury should nominate, and that after a lapse of three months the Mayor of Canterbury should nominate.

That the warden for the time being should also be schoolmaster and teach such children in the school there as thereinafter expressed, and should be continually dwelling in the school-house there with his family; and that the warden who should be presented should have the approbation of one of the visitors thereinafter named.

As to those who should be chosen into the hospital, that founder's kin not worth £10, being above the age of 50 years, or lame, blind, or unable to work, should be preferred before any other, provided there should not be above two of them at any one time in the said hospital; and that such as should be of the parishes of Northgate, St. Dunstan's, or St. Paul's, in or near Canterbury, being honest, of good behaviour, of the poorest, aged 55 years at least, not able to get their living, or utterly lame, impotent, or blind, and unable to get their living, and above the age of 30 years, having dwelt in any of those parishes seven years, should next be preferred. The same persons as were appointed to nominate the warden to present two to the Mayor within two months after avoidance and he to choose one of them. The nomination and election to be made the first of Northgate, the second of St. Dunstan's, the third of St. Paul's, and, in default of these, then out of St. Mildred's or any part of the said city; provided that two of the sisters should be able of body, between 40 and 50 years of age, to nurse the sick.

That an oath should be taken by the warden, brothers, and sisters as therein prescribed.

That the warden should have £10 and every brother and sister £4 yearly allowance, to be paid quarterly.

That the claviger should be one able to read and write, and appointed in the same manner as the warden, with the approbation of one of the visitors; that he should keep the keys of the chest wherein the evidences, books of admittance, &c., should be kept; see that the gates be locked and opened in due time; be present at the receipt of rent and payment; see that all entries be duly made in the ledger-book; see to the repairs; complain of all delinquency, and teach the children in the school, if the warden should be sick or for necessary business or want of ability absent, and should have 40*s.* over and above the said £4.

That daily prayers should be read in the chapel of the hospital every morning and evening according to the Liturgy of the Church of England, and that the brethren, sisters, and scholars, being at home, not sick or unable to travel, should attend every Sabbath-day, morning and evening, at the parish church of Northgate, and at the sermon at Christchurch, under certain forfeitures.

That the brothers and sisters should be allowed to exercise any manual trade or daily labour so as they should not lodge out of the hospital above one night in a week, and that by leave of the warden.

That the common seal, with the foundation deed and ordinances, should be kept in a chest, of which the warden should have one key, the claviger another, and the next ancientest brother the third; and that there should be another chest with two keys, kept by the warden and claviger, containing the other evidences.

That no lease or grant under the common seal should be made of any lands, &c., but by express consent of the warden, claviger, and greater part of the brethren, nor unless the accustomed yearly rent, or more, be reserved, nor except for terms not exceeding 21 years from the making thereof, nor before the old lease thereof be within three years expired or avoided, nor unless there be contained such other proviso as therein mentioned as to repairs, &c.

That if the warden or any brother or sister should be convicted of any crime punishable by loss of life, limb, or ear, or should be set in a pillory, obstinately refuse to attend Divine Service, or embezzle any of the evidences, they should be displaced by the mayor and two ancient aldermen, and never received again. If any one should be a common swearer, &c., they should be admonished by the said mayor and two aldermen and lose one month's salary, and after the third offence displaced. That every brother and sister, without sufficient cause to be allowed by the warden, should lodge nightly in the hospital, under certain penalties, but that, having such cause and licence, they might be absent six weeks in the year.

That two of the sisters called relievers should look to the sick, and should each of them receive at the end of the year 10*s.*, provided they performed such duty.

That no wood should be demised, and not above one acre yearly felled, of which the warden should have a double proportion to any of the brothers or sisters, and the scholars two loads to burn in the school.

That all rents and revenues should be paid in the hospital to the warden and claviger, or if neither of them should be present then to one of the next ancientest brothers, and that in the afternoon of the 20th day of the month after every quarter-day the warden and claviger should pay every brother and sister their several allowances, taking a receipt in the ledger-book in the presence of the claviger.

That every 3d December the warden, in the presence of the claviger, brothers and sisters, after morning prayer, having cast up all accounts of receipts and disbursements for the year ending at Michaelmas then last, should declare unto them and go over the accounts for the whole year; and that, before the mayor of Canterbury and two of the aldermen, every 12th December, the warden, in the hall of the hospital, and in the presence of the claviger, brothers and sisters, should show the register-book, and go over the particulars of all the accounts for the year ending at Michaelmas then last, and of the leases made that year, that the state of the hospital may appear unto every of them; and that the money for reparations should be laid up in the principal chest in the treasury; and that they should have 10*s.* for a banquet, or in money.

Canterbury.

That the warden should freely teach to write and read 20 boys of the parishes thereafter named as should be fit to receive relief, of the age of 12 years and upwards, being sent to him by the churchwardens and overseers, and that they should be there taught freely two years or more, until they should be put apprentices to some trade or mechanical art; and, if the number should not be replenished by the churchwardens and overseers, that the mayor of Canterbury should replenish the same out of any part of the city.

That the mayor, aldermen, and warden, on the day of account for the hospital, or, in their default, the warden and most part of the brethren of the hospital, should every year, out of those twelve which should have been there one year and more, choose six, to be called out-brothers, and at the end of the second year put out to some trade or mystery; and that 4*l.* and apparel should be given each master to keep his apprentice eight years at least, and so successively that there should always be six out-brothers for one year; and that, if it should be longer before they could be put out apprentices, the money should remain till they could be put out. And for plain declaration of his meaning the founder ordained that the warden should freely teach 20 boys above 12 years old, not lame, blind or diseased, whose parents should have four years inhabited in Northgate, St. Paul, St. Mildred, St. Alphage, Westgate or St. Dunstan's; that they should be taught to write, read, and cast accounts, and should have paper and ink at the charge of the hospital; that 12 who should be fittest to be apprentices, and had been longest there, should have jerkins and breeches, and at the end of the second year six of those twelve should be out-brothers of the hospital for that year only, and should have such apparel and 4*l.* to put him apprentice for eight years, or till the age of 24, and so six successively for ever, so that 24*l.* should be employed yearly for that purpose, beside the apparel aforesaid, hose, shoes, and shirts.

That the feast of the hospital should be on the feast of St John the Evangelist, yearly.

That whereas divers lands and tenements, &c., had been conveyed to the warden and poor of the hospital and their successors by the founder (some in possession, and others in reversion), which would suffice for the present maintenance of such as were or should be there placed after the death of the founder; and that he had further conveyed to them 46 acres of marsh, and 60 acres of sand-hill, in Sholden and Northborne, after the decease of himself and his wife; the warden and poor should, when the said lands should come into possession, pay to four scholars of the said school, above the six out-brothers to be put out apprentices, 50*s.* a-piece, to be paid to their masters—in the whole 10*l.* yearly; and to the warden yearly 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* more for the augmentation of his living. And whereas three rooms were then left in the hospital, that, after the death of himself and his wife, the warden and most part of the brothers should choose one very poor man, not above 40 years of age and able to work, and one very poor needy woman, of like age and ability, either of them to have their dwelling there and 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* a-piece yearly out of the profits of the said marsh-land; that, if they should misbehave, the mayor, warden, and greatest part of the brethren should remove them, and put in others; or, if they should not place two such poor persons within six weeks, that the mayor should place them, but they should be neither brother or sister, but yet observe the ordinances of the hospital; that the man should fell the acre of wood freely, and the woman keep the sick and bed-ridden.

That the other, or last room, should be left for a store-house, until any charitable person should give 4*l.* a-year to the said warden and poor, for the maintenance of one poor person in that house; to be placed by the giver during his life, and after by the warden, brothers, and sisters, for ever.

That the warden should have 5*s.* for making and entering the leases in the ledger-book, and the hospital 5*s.* for the seal.

That the mayor, Dean and Archdeacon of Canterbury, or greater part of them, should be visitors of the hospital.

And whereas it was before appointed that when the fresh-marsh and sand-hills should come into possession, there should be another in-brother, and that the warden should have 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* yearly for the increase of his salary; and that there should be paid yearly to four other scholars, when put apprentice, 50*s.* each, and to one poor labourer, and a woman to attend the sick, 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* each, but yet there would remain yearly of the whole land in possession and reversion a surplus of 30*l.* per annum; it was ordained that the said four poor scholars should be clothed thereout as the others, so that in all there should be 16, whereout yearly 10 should be put apprentices, and that, a rateable proportion being yearly reserved for gowns for the warden, in-brothers and sisters, every third year, and the reparations and all charges ordinary and extraordinary being defaulked, and some consideration to such as should be visited with sickness in the house, not exceeding by the year 20*s.*, the residue should be divided between the warden, in-brothers and sisters of the said hospital for ever.

By deed-poll, bearing date 27th June 1599, the said John Boys granted a messuage, orchard, and new building by him lately erected in the parish of St. Mary, Northgate, at a place called Boresend, which said building and premises he had founded into an hospital and place of habitation for a warden and poor there, and for the sustentation and relief of such poor persons there for ever, to Thomas Boys and others, to the use of the warden and poor of Jesus' Hospital and their successors.

And by several subsequent deeds he granted to the said warden and poor and their successors, other premises mentioned in a rental which is entered in one of the hospital books, and signed by the founder.

The following is the substance of such rental, with the addition of the dates of the conveyances to the warden and poor still remaining in the hospital chest:—

In the same book follows a statement, that the founder calculated that the lands then in possession produced 96*l.* and upwards, which he appropriated thus :—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Warden's salary | 10 | 0 | 0 |
| Seven brothers and four sisters, with the addition of 2*l.* for the claviger | 46 | 0 | 0 |

Out of the remaining 16*l.* 12 boys were to have clothing yearly, 6 on being apprenticed, and 6 after one year, and there were also to be defrayed the expenses of repairs and other charges (for which, it will be observed, the founder had by the statutes directed 6*l.* a-year should be reserved).

And he thus appropriated 38*l.*, which would be paid for the French Marsh and sand-hills after the death of his wife :—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| One in-brother more | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| Warden, for increasing his wages | 3 | 6 | 8 |
| One poor man and woman chosen by the corporation | 6 | 13 | 4 |

| Remaining | 14 | 0 | 0 |

The remaining 14*l.* and 16*l.* above mentioned, making together 30*l.*, he appropriated thus :—

Sixteen boys to be clothed, and gowns given every third year for the warden, brothers, and sisters; repairs and other charges ordinary and extraordinary; and the residue to be divided between the warden, in-brothers, and sisters.

The following rental will show the state of the property now held by the hospital; the whole of which is let at rack-rent, and apparently at the full value :—

The hospital appears to be in possession of the whole of the property with which it was endowed, except the moiety of the George, without Westgate, which was recovered on behalf of the parish of St. Mildred, after much litigation, by a decree of the Court of Chancery, and except the rent-charge, payable out of Whetacre, in the parish of Waltham, which was sold for the redemption of the land-tax.

Previously to October 1831, there was 121*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* stock, Three per Cent. Reduced, standing in the name of the warden and poor of this hospital. This was sold out by the late warden, Thomas Austen, under a power of attorney, to which he affixed the seal of the hospital, and the proceeds thereof were appropriated to his own use. Up to October 1834 this transaction was kept concealed, the amount of the dividends being entered yearly in his accounts, as if they had been received; but about that period he was obliged to leave Canterbury, and, though active measures were taken to apprehend him, he escaped out of the country. He was also found to be indebted to the hospital in the sum of 330*l.* 17*s.* 2*d.*, of which 163*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.* was totally lost, as will appear from the following account made out at a visitation held 9th May 1835.

The hospital is a brick building, forming three sides of a square, with a chapel in the centre: it contains 14 tenements of one room each, with a house for the warden, and a school-room. There are also gardens for the warden and each brother and sister; the whole premises containing about half an acre. The buildings are in good condition.

The establishment consists of a warden, eight brethren, including the claviger, and four sisters, and there is a nurse nominated by the warden and poor. There is no woodman appointed, his duty being performed by one of the tenants on the estate, who is paid for his trouble. There is also a school kept up, the scholars being supplied with clothes, and some of them bound out apprentices.

The warden is appointed by the Dean of Canterbury, neither of the owners of the estates of Betshanger or Fredville being of the surname of the founder.

When the place of a brother or sister is vacant two persons are nominated by the dean, out of whom the mayor selects one.

The present warden, John Marsh Wood, was appointed in February 1835, on the dismissal of the above-named Thomas Austen, and was admitted by the mayor in the following month. As warden, he has the letting and management of the estates, the collecting the rents, and the general superintendence of the hospital; and he makes all the disbursements, and keeps the accounts. He is not resident in the hospital, but lives chiefly at a short distance from Canterbury; it appears, however, that he is frequently staying in the hospital, and he states himself that he is generally living there three days in the week. It is not likely that any inconvenience should arise from his non-residence, provided he does not allow other business to interfere with his constant attendance to the concerns of the institution and the wants of the brethren and sisters, according to the statutes. It is also the duty of the warden to teach school in the hospital, and it is with reference to this duty that he is required to be constantly dwelling there. For the last 20 years this duty has not been performed by the warden in person.

The claviger is appointed from amongst the brethren, by the Dean of Canterbury, subject to the approbation of another of the visitors. He keeps the keys of the gate, and one of the keys of the muniment chest; another being kept by the warden, and a third by the eldest brother. The warden's payments are made in his presence, and he signs the entries thereof in the accounts. The person who was claviger at the time the stock was sold out by T. Austen was dismissed from that office by the visitors, but they did not proceed to deprive him of his place as a brother.

Two of the brethren and sisters are of founder's kin: with regard to these no other qualification is required, except that, according to the statutes, they should be of the age of 50 years, or lame, blind, or unable to work. The others are qualified according to the statutes as to character, age, and inability to work, but they have been selected from any part of the city, and perhaps out of other parishes, without any regard to the particular directions of the founder, that a preference should be given to such as should have been resident for seven years in the parishes of Northgate, St. Dunstan, or St. Paul. In 1834 a case was submitted to the late J. Bell, esq., on the construction of the statute, relating to the appointment of the brethren and sisters, on behalf of the parish of St. Mary, Northgate, which claimed the first preference on every successive vacancy. But Mr. Bell expressed his opinion to be, that on a fresh vacancy two should be presented to the mayor by the dean, out of St. Mary's, Northgate; on the second vacancy, two of St. Dunstan's; and on the third, two of St. Paul's; and so always in rotation: That, if there should be no person in any of these parishes properly qualified, then the election should be as provided in default of these. Mr. Bell then put certain cases in which, if there should be a want of proper objects in either of these parishes when it falls to their turn to supply a vacancy, there might be some doubt; but he considered these as special cases, to be decided according to circumstances, when they should arise, by the visitors, who were the proper persons to interpret the statutes. It is not, however, likely that in either parish there should ever be a want of fit objects, nor is it to be supposed, as has been suggested, that any person holding the situation of dean would reject every person recommended to him from any one parish, as not coming up to his idea of fitness, for the purpose of obtaining an opportunity of presenting two persons from another part of the city.

The last appointment was (with reference to the statutes) out of the parish of St. Mary, Northgate.

The emoluments of the warden, in-brethren, and sisters, depend on the annual amount of the outgoings. In the time of the late warden the practice appears to have been to pay quarterly out of the general account the specific stipends fixed by the donor, and to treat the whole surplus, after payment of all outgoings, as divisible, but in a different proportion, viz., to the warden two shares, and to each brother and sister one share. A portion of the surplus appears to have been thus divided every quarter, and at the annual audit of the accounts in December, the auditors, after fixing the sum to be disposed of in apprenticing, directed the residue to be divided between the warden, in-brothers, and sisters, with the exception of a small sum, frequently reserved with their consent for the nurse, and this residue appears to have been divided in the same proportions, the warden taking a double share. The accounts, however, were not kept in such a manner as to show distinctly what system of division was pursued.

At Michaelmas 1835, soon after the present warden was appointed, he adopted the following mode, as being in his judgment in strict conformity with the statutes: that is, he divided 101*l.* 10*s.* every quarter, taking to his own use 17*l.* 10*s.*, and paying to each brother and sister 7*l.*, according to the proportion of the original stipends of 10*l.* to the warden, and 4*l.* to each brother and sister. The surplus remaining after the December audit he divided in the same proportions, but, with regard to the augmentation of his own stipend out of the French Marshes, &c., he took only the sum originally appointed, 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

If all the payments mentioned in the statutes are to be considered as permanently fixed, and the surplus is to be divided in the proportions of the original stipends payable out of the estate settled in possession, the system lately adopted is substantially correct, but the founder did not declare in what proportions the surplus was to be divided. This, therefore, seems to be a fit subject for the consideration and decision of the visitors, or a court of equity, but it seems desirable that there should be first made some new apportionment of the rents, with a view of giving effect to the obvious intentions of the founder, particularly with regard to the out-brothers, that is, the education, clothing, and apprenticing of scholars, a branch of the institution which appears not to have received its due share of attention.

According to the statutes, the instruction of the scholars was committed to the warden himself, except in case of illness or temporary absence. It has been already noticed that, for the last 20 years at least, the duty of schoolmaster has not been performed by the warden in person, but was left to the claviger, who kept a school in the town, and taught the scholars on this foundation in his own house. In July 1835 an order was made by the visitors that they should be taught in future within the hospital, in the room appropriated by the founder to that purpose; and shortly afterwards the warden appointed a deputy to teach the school, with a salary of 20*l.* a-year. Up to Midsummer 1835, 16*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* per annum had been paid to the claviger as schoolmaster, out of the income of the hospital, but the 20*l.* now allowed to the schoolmaster is to be paid by the warden. The number of scholars, which the founder fixed at 20, has been in practice limited to 12; these have been admitted on the recommendation of the churchwardens and overseers of the several parishes entitled, but not in any regular order or proportion. The present warden has however made out a scale, whereby each parish would be entitled always to have one or more boys in the school, according to its present population, viz., St. Mary's, Northgate, would always have three scholars; St. Mildred's, three; St. Alphage's, two; Holy Cross, Westgate, within and without the city, two; St. Dunstan's, one; and St. Paul's, one. This was made out under the impression that the number was not to exceed 12, but if 20 are appointed a new scale will of course be necessary.

The scholars have been taught reading, writing, and accounts, without any charge, and continued in the school for three or four years: they have been supplied with pens and stationery out of the hospital funds, and have also received annually a jacket, waistcoat, and trousers. In the last year, 1835, six of the boys received also shirts, shoes, and stockings, but these articles appear not to have been supplied previously.

Some of the scholars have been bound out apprentices, under the directions of the auditors at the December meeting, with premiums of 20*l.* each. From 1820 to 1835, a period of 15 years, 45 apprentices were ordered to be bound out, so that the average would not exceed three in a year. In December 1835 the auditors appointed two boys to be apprenticed, with a premium of 17*l.* each, so as to reduce this expenditure to 34*l.*, the specific sum appropriated by the founder for the binding out 10 boys.

With respect to the person to whom the charge of instructing the scholars is intrusted, it may, perhaps, be for their benefit that a fit person should supply the place of the warden, as he has other business connected with the hospital, which would in a great degree interfere with his attendance at the school, and the person now acting in the capacity of schoolmaster is represented as fully competent for the office, and attentive to his duty; the number of scholars ought, however, to be increased to 20.

According to the statutes, 10 boys ought to be apprenticed every year; six with a premium of 4*l.* each, and four with 2*l.* 10*s.* each; but in the present times these sums are wholly inadequate for the purpose, so that either the number must be reduced, or the sum to be disposed of increased; in either case, the letter of the statutes would be equally violated, but it would seem that the general intentions of the founder would be more fully carried into effect if the sum to be applied yearly in apprenticing were increased in proportion to the improvement of the estates; the result would be that, as out of an income estimated at 134*l.* 34*l.* was appropriated to apprenticing, out of the present income, 584*l.*, 148*l.* would be applicable to this purpose.

Of the 20 scholars, the 10 about to be apprenticed should receive each a complete suit of clothing; and six others should be provided with jackets, waistcoats, and trousers, the expense of which, according to the sums hitherto charged in the accounts, would amount to between 40*l.* and 50*l.* a-year.

The average payment for stationery provided in 1831 and 1832 was about 3*l.* for the 12 scholars, so that for 20 scholars, it may be estimated at 5*l.*

The payments out of the estate in respect of the out-brothers would thus amount to—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Apprenticing | 148 | 0 | 0 |
| Clothing, about | 45 | 0 | 0 |
| Stationery | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 198 | 0 | 0 |

The out-brothers being thus provided for, there will be the expenses of repairs and other incidental charges to be deducted, and a salary paid to the nurse, and the residue will be applicable to the benefit of the warden and the in-brethren and sisters.

In the four years from 1831 to 1834, both inclusive, the following has been the average of the outgoings :—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Repairs | 18 | 11 | 10 |

| Poor's-rates for woods | 2 | 7 | 6 |
| Sundries | 5 | 11 | 3 |
| £ | 61 | 19 | 10 |

There has also been paid on a like average for an annual feast, including a small sum for the expenses at the annual audit of the accounts, about 14*l.* 7*s.* Though the statutes provide for an annual feast on Midsummer-day, the expense may undoubtedly be reduced, much to the benefit of the inmates of the hospital, and the present warden has, in fact, reduced them to about one-half.

In fixing the salary of the nurse, it seems only necessary to ascertain what sum will be a fair compensation for the performance of the duty required of her, and 10*l.* would probably be found fully adequate for the purpose.

| | | | | £. | s. | d. |

| Deducting then from the total income now | | | | 584 | 0 | 0 |

| There would remain to be divided a surplus of | | | £ | 302 | 0 | 0 |

If this is apportioned between the warden, brethren, and sisters, in the proportions of their respective stipends as fixed by the founder, the warden might receive by quarterly payments, instead of 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, the amount of his original stipend and the subsequent augmentation, four times that sum, that is 53*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, and each in-brother and sister in like manner 16*l.*, which several sums would amount to 245*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* There would then remain 56*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* to be divided with any further surplus that may arise in the course of the year, between the warden, in-brethren and sisters.

The following Table shows the sums payable out of the rents of the whole estate according to the directions of the founder; the sums which would be now payable, if the present rents, 584*l.*, were divided in the same proportions, as also the sums which, in order to carry into execution the intent of the founder with as much accuracy as appears necessary, might be appropriated in future :—

Though a new mode of disposing of the funds of this hospital is suggested, it seems that no scheme can be adopted without the directions of a Court of Equity. The first question will be, whether the mode of division adopted at the suggestion of the present warden is consistent with the intentions of the founder, and, if not, it will be for the Court to determine upon what principles the income ought to be apportioned.

Whatever increase may be made to the sum now applied in educating, clothing, and apprenticing the out-brothers, a proportionate reduction must take place in the income of the warden, in-brethren and sisters. The injury, however, which would thus fall on the present incumbents might be obviated by fixing their stipends at a certain sum, according to the average of their receipts in the last six years (or rather what they should have received during that period, if it had not been for the default of the late warden), and also by fixing the stipend of every one hereafter to be appointed at a certain sum in proportion only to the present income, so that the increase of the out-brothers' allowances may be gradual, as the present inmates of the hospital die off.

The sum of 172*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*, appropriated at the audit of 1834, was in the hands of the late warden, Thomas Austen, at the time of his leaving Canterbury; and the boys who were to have been bound out apprentice lost this advantage.

The annuities mentioned in the accounts as shared on the receipt are payments from other benefactions hereafter mentioned, excepting the yearly sum of 5*l.* paid out of lands in Ash, which forms part of the original income of the hospital, and is included in the rental.

Edward Boys's Benefaction.—Edward Boys, of Betshanger, by his Will, bearing date 20 April 1640, proved in the Prerogative Court in February 1649, gave to the warden, brothers, and sisters of Jesus' Hospital, in Northgate, Canterbury, and their successors, after the death of his wife, 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* yearly, for ever, out of certain lands called Ham Hopes, lying in Sholden, containing by estimation 18 acres, parcel of his wife's jointure, to be paid them half-yearly; the warden to have 13*s.* 4*d.*, and the residue to be divided equally between the brothers and sisters for ever.

It has been ascertained by the present warden, John Marsh Wood, that, after the decease of the donor's wife in 1659, John Boys, the elder son of the donor, became the proprietor of the Betshanger estate, and paid this annuity till his death in 1678, that it was afterwards paid by Mrs. Boys, of Brenty, and Edward Grotius Boys, till 1709, then by Dr. Thomas Brett till 1713; that the Betshanger estate was then sold to Captain Salmon Morrice, and that from that period the payment of the annuity has been kept up by the family of Morrice.

The annuity was paid up to the year 1834 by T. E. Morrice, esq., the present owner of the estates above mentioned, but in 1835 he declined paying it, except under a protest that his estate was not liable thereto.

We have, therefore, thought it right to certify this case to the Attorney-General.*

The annuity has been lately divided between the warden, brethren, and sisters, according to the direction of the donor.

Lovejoy's and Martin's Benefactions.—The inmates of this hospital also receive from these two benefactions, an account of which will be given hereafter, the following yearly sums:—

SIR ROGER MANWOOD'S HOSPITAL, IN HACKINGTON, ALIAS ST. STEPHEN'S.

Sir R. Manwood's Hospital.

Sir Roger Manwood, knight, by his will bearing date 12 December 1592, reciting, that he had founded at St. Stephen's, an hospital, of seven brick almshouses, with a cloister, conduit, fore-court, gardens, and backsides, of which seven almshouses, the south corner house, being a double house, he willed should for ever be the dwelling-house of the parish-clerk for the time being, near at hand for ready service in all church matters, and for safe custody there of all wool or other stuff, for the parish stock to set the poor on work (for the providing of which he left a distinct legacy), and the other six almshouses, for six aged, poor, and honest persons, married or unmarried; and he willed that every person which should be resident therein at his death, or that should succeed to their rooms, should continue therein during their lives, unless there should be such cause of removal as was usual for displacing of any brother or sister in the hospital of Harbledown, near Canterbury, and that every of the said six almsfolks should, all the time of their residence, have weekly, every Sunday, their dinner in the hall of his chief house at St. Stephen's, and every Friday 1*s.* in money, and every Sunday and Wednesday one penny wheat loaf at the parish church, on some shelf or board in the aisle where his tomb was, or where the same poor folks' pews should be, to be delivered by the parish clerk immediately after morning prayer, and every year, at the said almshouses, between the 1st of May and the 7th of July, four usual cart-loads of fuel.† And for the good government of the said almshouses or hospital, he willed the rules and ordinances ensuing should be observed for ever, viz., That from time to time, on any avoidance, the successor should be placed by his widow, or heir, or such other, as for the time should be by his will limited to have in possession his chief house at St. Stephen's; and that, if any avoidance should continue above the space of six weeks, the same should be supplied by the Archdeacon of Canterbury and mayor of Canterbury, or one of them, putting in some honest, aged, and poor person, meet for the same, within one month next after the said six weeks, illâ unicâ vice. That every year, on the first Wednesday in December, the mayor of Canterbury (or his deputy) with two or more aldermen, should visit the said almshouses and people, and in a register-book to be unto them delivered by his executor for that purpose, should cause yearly to be written the names of those whom they should at such visitation find duly placed therein, and of those

* Since the drawing up of this Report, Mr. Morrice has written to the warden of the hospital a letter dated 25th December 1836, to the following effect:—

SIR,—I have directed the payment of the annuity of 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* left by Edward Boys, and charged upon some lands called the Ham Hopes (which I do not possess), to be made to you through the old Canterbury bank until some light is thrown on the question.

I am, &c.

By this letter, though Mr. Morrice does not use the word protest, he seems fully to have acted upon his former declaration that he would not pay the rent-charge except under protest.

Among Mr. Morrice's title-deeds, of which several bundles were produced by his solicitors, Messrs. Dyneley and Lee, Gray's-inn, there is a lease dated 24th December 1772, whereby Major William Morrice demised to John Boys for 14 years, amongst other premises, all those several pieces or parcels of marsh-land, commonly called or known by the name of Hospital Land, containing together by estimation 18 acres, more or less, with the appurtenances, lying and being in the parish of Shoulden.

This clearly shows that the lands in question were formerly part of the property of Mr. Morrice's ancestor, so that it seems incumbent on Mr. Morrice either to admit that he holds the property in question, or to show that he has sold it to some other person subject to this encumbrance; and, unless such admission is made, the certificate will be sent to the Attorney-General.

† In the register kept by the corporation, according to the provisions of the Will hereafter mentioned, there is the following note signed by Sir P. Manwood (the son of the donor):—"Every one four loads, so have I found my father's meaning to be in a book of his estate which I have."

which should by death or otherwise be removed since their last visitation, and also the names of those which should in the last year have received the apparel thereinafter limited; and that the vicar and churchwardens of Hackington in another register-book, to be delivered to them by his executors, should from time to time make the like entries, and that in each of the said registers, his Will should be written, and that every year some admonition should be given to such poor as should be found faulty in any behaviour. That at the departure of the mayor or his deputy and company from such visitation, there should be paid to them 20*s.* in money by such as by the limitations of his Will should be in possession of his said chief mansion-house, to be by them employed upon a breakfast, or to other poor, or some other purpose as the mayor or his deputy should think meet; and he willed that every year, against the feast of St. Andrew, there should be provided and made for six good and honest poor folks such gowns, caps, and shoes, as by the Will of Libye Orchard (see, post, LOST CHARITIES) were given to sundry poor about Canterbury, and bestowed the first year after his death on six of his almshouse folk, by discretion of the possessor of his house in St. Stephen as aforesaid, and the second year upon six honest poor folks at Sandwich, by the discretion of the mayor and jurats, governors of his free grammar-school there, and the third year on six honest poor folks of St. Dunstan's and Westgate parishes in Canterbury, by discretion of the possessor of his house in St. Stephen as aforesaid, so every three years in rotation as above mentioned; and as often as there should be any default in delivery or payment of anything limited by his Will for the use or relief of any poor, or to the mayor of Canterbury for visitation, or to any collector or other public person, so often he willed that treble the value of the thing not paid and delivered, or done, should be forfeited nomine pœnæ, and for every default in due placing and supply of any almshouse person 40*s.* should be forfeited. For which penalties it should be lawful for the mayor for the time being to distrain in any of his lands and tenements as for a rent-charge.

The almshouses consist of six tenements under one roof, with gardens behind, and a small court in front, and there is another tenement occupied by the parish-clerk, which is at present, and has been for many years, a public-house.

The premises are in fair condition; there is no fund for keeping up the buildings, but occasionally, when it appears upon a visitation that any repairs are required, the visitors order so much of the stipend of the almsperson who occupies it as is paid by the town-clerk to be retained until they are done.

The almspeople are appointed by the owner of the Hackington estate, on which the ancient mansion-house of St. Stephen's formerly stood, but a modern mansion called Hales Place, has been subsequently erected: the property now belongs to Edward Hales, esq.* The almspeople are generally of the Roman Catholic persuasion, but at the present time two families are Protestants.

It has been suggested that it is evident that the founder intended that the almspeople should be members of the Church of England, inasmuch as he directs that the bread should be given to them in the parish church, in the aisle where his tomb was, or where their pews should be. It seems, however, very questionable, whatever his expectation might have been, whether, without some more express provision, the appointment of any persons not of the established Church, can be considered as invalid.

The endowment provided by the founder, exclusive of fuel, was as follows:—

| To each of the six almspeople— | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Their dinner every Sunday in the Mansion-house at St. Stephen's (annual value uncertain). | | | |
| In money 1*s.* every Friday | 15 | 12 | 0 |
| One penny loaf every Sunday and Wednesday | 2 | 12 | 0 |
| Gowns, caps, and shoes, every third year (uncertain). | | | |
| To the mayor, &c., at the visitation | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 19 | 4 | 0 |

| The sums received are— | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rents collected or accounted for by the town-clerk, as hereafter noticed | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| Paid by Edward Hales, esq., the owner of the Hackington estate. | 16 | 6 | 0 |
| Paid by do. for the visitation | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 26 | 6 | 0 |

It thus appears that, beyond the fixed and certain payments, amounting to 19*l.* 4*s.*, 7*l.* 2*s.* only is now paid;—if this is to be considered as an equivalent for the Sunday dinners, it would allow about 5½*d.* a-week for the inmates of each house, whether single persons or married couples, and nothing would be left as a compensation for the clothing which the almspeople are entitled to every third year. In fact, this branch of the charity, under which the poor of Sandwich, and of St. Dunstan's, and Holy Cross, Westgate, in the city and suburbs of Canterbury, are entitled to clothing every third year, in rotation with the inmates of this hospital, seems to have been wholly neglected.

In respect of the fuel to be provided for the hospital, it may be urged that four cart-loads in the whole are to be delivered, and not 24, that is, four for each dwelling. The quantity delivered from the Hackington estate is a quarter of a hundred to each house, which is represented as being of very inferior quality, and not exceeding in the whole one cart-load (according to the present use of the term).

* Deceased since the inquiry took place.

From the register kept by the visitors it appears that, from 1593 to 1624, during the early part of which period the accounts are signed annually by P. Manwood (Sir Peter Manwood, the son of the testator), the almspeople received all their allowances according to the Will, and the clothing was distributed every year to the several parties who in rotation were entitled thereto.

In 1625 difficulties commenced and considerable arrears accrued in that and successive years. In stating these arrears the annual payments are estimated as follows:—

| | s. | d. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Allowance for Sunday dinners, each almsperson | 0 | 4 | |
| Weekly in money | 1 | 0 | |
| „ bread | 0 | 2 | |
| | 1 | 6 | per week. |

| | £. | s. |
|---|---|---|
| £3. 18*s.* per annum each, in all | 23 | 8 |
| Gown, cap, and shoes, every third year, at 10*s.* each woman, and 12*s.* each man; average of clothing per annum | 1 | 2 |
| £ | 24 | 10 |

And the wood is calculated at 24 loads in the year, worth 8*s.* each load.

In 1645, 10*l.* was paid by Sir Thomas Colepeper, who had purchased the Hackington estate, and 21*l.* was levied by the mayor by distress, and there is a note in the minutes of that year, that subsequently to the receipts above mentioned the late mayor had, by persuasion, made composition and received of the owners, tenants, and occupiers of the lands of Sir R. Manwood, to the use and behoof of the sisters of the hospital, several sums of money, amounting to 14*l.* From 1646 there seem to have been somewhat regular payments, being calculated at 4*d.* in the pound on the annual value of the different lands.

In 1650 the following payments are entered:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Mr. J. Fagg, for the manor of Drackstead, at 80*l.* per annum | 1 | 6 | 8 |
| Thomas Mills, for his lands at Sea Salter, at 80*l.* ditto | 1 | 6 | 8 |
| William Denwood, for his lands, called Ebbesfleet, at 40*l.* ditto | 0 | 13 | 4 |
| William Jones, for his lands, at 10*l.* ditto | 0 | 3 | 4 |
| In 1674, for the first time, these lands are said to be in Word; paid afterwards by Joanna Jones to 1722; then by Daniel Burnap to 1747; and then by Thomas Castle. | | | |
| Widow Deane, for her lands, called Fowle Mead, at 100*l.* per annum | 1 | 13 | 4 |
| Henry Harnett, for lands at Spretling Street, in Thanet St. Lawrence, 140A., at 100*l.* ditto | 1 | 13 | 4 |
| Charles Fokesly, his lands in Thanet, sometimes entered as lands in Chislet, at 100*l.* ditto | 1 | 13 | 4 |
| £ | 8 | 10 | 0 |
| And by the executors of Sir J. Colepeper, 1*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* to each, except one sister (but why she was not paid does not appear); if paid to all, the amount would have been £ | 10 | 0 | 0 |

From entries in the year 1693 it appears that it had been discovered that certain money was due to the almspeople from Daniel and Peter Jervis, of Elmeston, nigh Wingham, for lands formerly part of Sir R. Manwood's estate, called Carpenter's and Whitton-Tree, and that they had been persuaded not only to promise to pay 10*s.* yearly to the use of the hospital, but 10*l.* for arrears.

From 1694, 10*l.* a-year and 1*l.* for the visitation were paid by Sir Edward Hales as the possessor of the Hackington estate.

The sums now collected by the town-clerk correspond, with one exception, with the payments agreed upon in 1646 and 1693. They are as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sir John Fagg, for lands called Dragstead, in Chartham | 1 | 6 | 8 |
| John Price Ladd, for lands at Sea Salter | 1 | 6 | 8 |
| John Garrett, for lands called Ebbs Fleet, in Minster, Isle of Thanet | 0 | 13 | 4 |
| Edward Iggulden, for lands in Sholden | 1 | 13 | 4 |
| —— Wootton, for lands called Copping, alias Spretling Street, in St. Lawrence, Isle of Thanet | 1 | 13 | 4 |
| G. C. R. Dering, for lands called Rushborne, in Chislet | 1 | 13 | 4 |
| Michael Brooks, for lands called Carpenter's, in Elmstone and Preston, near Wingham | 0 | 5 | 0 |
| Edward Goodson, a farm called Deeson, in Preston, next Wingham | 0 | 5 | 0 |
| There is also entered in the accounts as due from Thomas Castle, for lands in Worth, near Sandwich | 0 | 3 | 4 |
| This, however, has not been received since 1802, but it is made up to the almspeople out of the 1*l.* received for the visitation. It is not known who is in possession, or what the property is charged with this payment. | | | |

In lieu of the yearly sum of 10*l.*, formerly paid by Sir T. Colepeper and Sir Edward Hales, 16*l.* 6*s.* has been paid for many years by the family of Hales, who have also paid the 1*l.* yearly for the visitation, and supplied the almspeople with fagots to the extent above mentioned.

The preceding statement comprises all the most material information to be obtained from the accounts and the minutes of the proceedings of the visitors; and the question arises, whether upon the whole of the above evidence a claim on behalf of the almspeople for the full amount of their allowances cannot be supported against Mr. Hales, the present owner of the Hackington estate, or against all the persons who, from their contribution to the present payments it must be presumed, hold part of the estate of Sir Roger Manwood. This seems to be a fit question for the consideration of the Attorney-General.

The mayor and two of the aldermen visit the hospital every first Wednesday in November. The 1*l.* allowed them for a breakfast is paid to the town-clerk, who enters the accounts; but out of that sum he pays the yearly sum of 3*s.* 4*d.*, formerly paid by Thomas Castle, as above mentioned, and which is now apparently lost, probably from neglecting to demand it as it became due.

Hales's Benefaction.—By indenture bearing date 22d December 1707, reciting that Robert Hales, for the increase and augmentation of the poor of the hospital of Saint Stephen's, founded by Sir Roger Manwood, by his Will, bearing date 25th July 1701, gave to the said poor, among other things, 100*l.*, and that it was thought most for the advantage and benefit of the poor of the said hospital to lay out the same in the purchase of the annuity or yearly rent of 5*l.*, thereinafter mentioned,—Elizabeth Clinch, widow and executrix of Edward Clinch, deceased, and Edward Clinch and others, the devisees of the said Edward Clinch, deceased, in consideration of 100*l.*, paid to them by John Hales, the executor of the said Robert Hales, in discharge of the said legacy, by the consent and direction of the brothers and sisters of the said hospital, granted to Sir Thomas Knatchbull and 14 others the one moiety of an annuity or yearly rent of 10*l.*, (which, by indenture bearing date 20th August 1667, had been granted by Sir George Curteis to Roger Paine and another, issuing out of a messuage, barn, &c., 1A. of land, 2A. of woodland, in the parish of Otterden and Muncton, and a messuage, with the barns, gardens, and lands thereto belonging, containing 50A., in the same parishes, and Iseling, Stalesfield, Duddington, and Newnham, on trust as to one moiety thereof for the benefit of Edward Clinch, his heirs and assigns,) to hold the said moiety to the said Sir T. Knatchbull and others, and their heirs, in trust, after paying any necessary expense in the execution of the trust, to pay the residue to the poor brothers and sisters of the said hospital, to be equally divided between them; and that after the death of 10 or more of the trustees, for the time being, the survivors should convey the said moiety to such other trustees as should be thought fit, whereof the mayor, the recorder, and two youngest aldermen, being justices of the peace, should be four, on the like trusts. A power of distress was given by the deed of 1667, and assigned to the trustees by the deed of 1707.

New trustees were appointed by indenture dated 3d September 1747, and again by indenture dated 2d April 1790, of whom the late W. Deedes, esq., was the survivor.

This rent-charge of 5*l.* is paid by Mrs. Wheeler as charged upon land called Wye Banks, in Otterden, 1*l.* being deducted for land-tax.

The remaining 4*l.* is divided equally by Mrs. Wheeler's agent amongst the inmates of St. Stephen's hospital.

It has been recommended that in future there shall be no greater deduction for land-tax than the proper proportion, according to the assessment on the lands charged with the above payment.

Lovejoy's Benefaction.—The yearly sum of 5*l.* is distributed by the chamberlain amongst the inmates of the hospital, in respect of this charity, of which an account will be given in a subsequent page.

Maynard's and Cotton's Hospital.

Maynard's and Cotton's Hospital.

The hospital called by this name consists of two separate foundations.

The first is attributed to John Maynard, who is supposed to have erected a house and chapel in 1317, for three brothers and four sisters. An inscription to this effect it is stated in Hasted's History was formerly on the hospital.

This foundation is under the control of the mayor and aldermen as visitors, and the brothers and sisters act as a corporation and grant leases of the property under their common seal.

There are no title-deeds either in the hospital or in the custody of the corporation.

In the year 1797 orders were made for the regulation of this hospital, and also for Cotton's foundation, the particulars whereof will be given hereafter.

The property supposed to have been derived from Maynard consists of the following particulars:—

|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Seven houses and gardens in Spital-lane, parish of Saint Mildred, let to John Minter, on lease for 30 years from Michaelmas 1821, in consideration of a fine of 200*l.*, at the yearly rent of 8*l.* 8*s.*, and 2*l.* 12*s.* for redeemed land-tax . . . . . | 11 | 0 | 0 |
| The premises were upon this occasion put up to auction (the former lease having expired) at the rent above-mentioned, and let to the bidder of the highest fine. The land-tax had been purchased by Mr. Minter, who had previously held the premises, and 53*l.* 10*s.* was deducted from the | | | |

| 2. Six houses and gardens in Castle-street, same parish, let to William Street, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1828, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 25 | 0 | 0 |
| Lease granted on surrender of a term, of which 20 years were then unexpired, at 21*l.* No fine paid, but rent increased according to the valuation of a surveyor, taking the value of the premises and the interest of the lessee into consideration. It is stated that the premises are underlet to weekly tenants, at 4*s.* 6*d.* a-week for each house. | | | |
| 3. Five houses and gardens in the same street, demised to same party, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1806, on payment of a fine of 12*l.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| These buildings are in a dilapidated state, and it is represented by the master of the hospital that, as they project about six feet beyond the adjoining houses into the street which forms a principal access to St. Mildred's church, a great accommodation to the public might be effected, as well as an improvement to the estate, if on the expiration of the lease they were pulled down and new houses were erected further back. The lessee will be liable to the payment of a considerable sum for dilapidations, notice to repair having been served upon him. | | | |
| 4. A house and garden in the same street, demised to James Weeks, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1831, in consideration of a fine of 24*l.* 10*s.*, at the yearly rent of 8*l.* . . . . . | 8 | 0 | 0 |
| These and the following premises were rebuilt about 1800, at an expense of about 400*l.*, by a party to whom a lease was granted in consideration thereof. | | | |
| 5. A house and garden in the same street, demised to John Fill, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1831, on payment of a fine of 12*l.* 5*s.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| 6. Three houses and gardens in the same street, demised to William Street, for 30 years, from Michaelmas 1809, on payment of a fine of 15*l.*, at a yearly rent of. . . . . | 6 | 6 | 0 |
| Lessee had declined renewing on the terms proposed. Premises in a bad state, but notice has been served upon the lessee to put them into repair. | | | |
| 7. A house and garden in Castle-street, in the parish of St. Margaret, demised to A. H. Spratt, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1831, in consideration of a fine of 35*l.* 10*s.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| In 1808 the lease of these premises was renewed, the lessee having expended between 300*l.* and 400*l.* on the premises. The present lessee has declined renewing. | | | |
| 8. A house and garden in the same street, demised to William Bedford, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1811, on payment of a fine of 10*l.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| 9. A house (divided into several dwellings) and yard in Castle-street, parish of St. Mildred, demised to Bernard Read, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1828, on payment of a fine of 24*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*, at an annual rent of . . . | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| 10. A house and part of another house and garden in Watling-street, St. Mary Bredin, demised to R. W. Lavender, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1828, on payment of a fine of 16*l.* 12*s.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 3 | 15 | 0 |
| The front of these premises, towards Watling-street, contains 21 feet 6 inches; but the demised premises comprise only part of the house, and there is no division-wall corresponding with the wall of the hospital. The lessee is anxious to make an exchange, and is willing, as it is stated, to give terms very beneficial to the hospital. | | | |
| 11. A public-house called the George, and garden, and a house and garden adjoining, and a small piece of ground, in St. Margaret's, demised to Rigden and Co. for 30 years from Michaelmas 1827, on payment of a fine of 30*l.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 12 | 1 | 0 |
| It has been intimated that these premises, if out of lease, would probably let as a free public-house, at 50*l.* a-year. | | | |
| 12. Four houses, smith's forge, and garden, in St. Margaret, demised to Jemima Beasley, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1827, on payment of a fine of 52*l.* 10*s.*, at a yearly rent of . . . . . | 6 | 0 | 0 |
| 13. Two houses and gardens in Wincheap-street, St. Mildred, demised to Richard Croft, for 30 years from Lady-day 1821, on payment of a fine of 32*l.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| The preceding lease was granted in 1811, on the payment of a fine of 100*l.*, having been put up to auction at the reserved rent of 3*l.*, and let to the bidder of the highest fine. | | | |

| Lease granted at a rack-rent on the expiration of the previous term. The premises were first put up to auction, but not let, no sufficient bidding having been offered. | | | |
| 15. Three houses and gardens in Wincheap, in Thanington, demised to Priscilla Ann Flint, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1830, on payment of a fine of 30*l.* 10*s*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| In 1810, the former lease of these premises having expired, they were put up to auction at a reserved rent of 4*l.*, and a fine of 130*l.* was obtained. | | | |
| 16. 1½ acre of pasture and 9 acres of woodland, in Fordwich, called Brotherhood Close and Wood, demised (with the exception of timber) to John Fortune, for 30 years from Lady-day 1822, on payment of a fine of 10*l.*, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 3 | 10 | 0 |
| In 1822 the premises, being out of lease, were put up to auction at the reserved rent of 3*l.* 10*s.*, and 10*l.* only was offered as a fine. The smallness of the value of this property is attributed to its situation, being very near the town, and liable to trespasses and depredation | | | |

The inmates of this hospital also receive an annuity of 7*l.* from the funds of the corporation. This appears to have been appropriated to their use in lieu of the tolls of the corn-market by an order of burghmote, held 29th November 1636, reciting that of ancient time the city had given the brothers and sisters of this hospital the tolls of the corn-market, but that they had made small benefit of it, and the yeomen attending the market were much disquieted; whereupon the city had reassumed the said toll, and in lieu thereof had paid the said brothers and sisters 7*l.* yearly out of the chamber; it was by this court decreed that in recompense for the said toll the chamberlain should for ever thereafter pay to the said brothers and sisters and their successors, out of the chamber, 1*l.* 15*s.* every quarter, to be distributed equally amongst them, and that this order and decree should for ever be a sufficient warrant to the said chamberlain in that behalf.

Benchkin's Benefaction.—Catherine Benchkin, by her Will, bearing date 19th August 1585, directed her executors to pay to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury 20*l.*, and that they should therewith buy a tenement in the said city, or within the liberties thereof, the yearly profits to be to the use of the brothers and sisters of the hospital, called Maynard's Spittal.

By indenture, bearing date 28th August 1588, between Thomas London of the one part, and the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury of the other part, reciting the Will of Catherine Benchkin, the said T. London, in consideration of 27*l.*, conveyed to the said mayor and commonalty, and their successors, a messuage and garden, with the appurtenances, in Castle-street, in the parish of St. Margaret's.

The premises thus purchased are supposed to form part of the property included in the preceding rental.

Cotton's Hospital.—Leonard Cotton, by his Will, bearing date 21st March 1604, proved at Canterbury, reciting that he had long intended to bestow some portion of his lands, &c., for the relief of three poor persons dwelling in the city of Canterbury, and by that means to increase the number of poor within Maynard's Hospital, and that he had already erected three rooms therein for the said three poor persons, appointed that the three poor persons who should be placed in the same should be, from time to time for ever, one poor man and two poor widows inhabiting within the parish of St. Margaret (if any), and if none, then such as should inhabit in the parish of St. Mildred, and, for default of such persons in either of the said parishes, then such as should be dwelling elsewhere within the said city; and he appointed that the mayor, for the time being, should have the nomination of such three poor persons as often as any room should become void, but should nominate none but such as should be widowers or widows of good and honest conversation, poor and of the age of 50 years, at the least, and inhabiting as aforesaid. And he devised to Ralph Bawden and others, and their heirs, two tenements, with the appurtenances, in the parish of St. Margaret, and a tenement and orchard, with the appurtenances, in Wincheap, in the parish of St. Mildred, with directions that they should enfeoff the mayor and commonalty of Canterbury, or such others as they should think fit, to the use, maintenance, and relief of the said three poor persons to be placed in the said rooms. And he declared his will to be that, if the premises should be employed for any other use, or if the mayor, for the time being, should appoint any person not qualified as aforesaid, the premises should be to the use of the prior, brethren, &c., of St. John's Hospital, without Northgate, and their successors.

The property thus demised has been conveyed, from time to time, to members of the corporation, but not to the mayor and commonalty.

The last conveyance was by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 23d August 1819, whereby Samuel Baldiston, Richard Halford, and William Burnly, the then survivors, under indentures of July 1783, conveyed the premises to Mawer Cowtan, the then mayor, Richard Frend, James Sladden Brown, William Homersham, Joseph Taylor Tyson, W. M. Baskerville, R. W. Lavender, Henry Kingsford, Larkin Allum, Samuel Hacker, John Pringuer, Samuel Powell, Henry Cooper, and 10 others since deceased, and their heirs, in trust, for the use and maintenance of such three poor persons as should be placed in the rooms built by the said L. Cotton in Maynard's Hospital, according to his Will, and upon further trust that, whenever there should be only six trustees living, the survivors should convey to other citizens and freemen of the city of Canterbury on the like trusts.

The following is a rental of the estate derived from L. Cotton :—

1. A messuage, coach-house, stable, and buildings, lately erected, on the west side of Wincheap-street, and one rood of pasture land behind the same, demised by the trustees to Charlotte Clara Payler, for 30 years from Michaelmas 1831, at the yearly rent of 11*l.* The lease is now vested in the Rev. F. Morgan.

2. A messuage, described as a tenement wherein strangers did formerly dwell, with a garden, in Castle-street, in the parish of St. Margaret, demised to Robert Walker, (the assignee of Daniel Terry,) for 21 years from Lady-day 1831, at the yearly rent of 25*l.*

3. A public-house, formerly called the Three Tuns, now the Queen's Head, at the junction of Castle-street and Watling-street, demised, with other premises belonging to the Poor Priests' Hospital, but by separate leases, to Henry Jones, for 21 years from Michaelmas 1831, reserving to each hospital the yearly rent of 48*l.*

All the premises belonging to Cotton's Hospital were let by auction.

The rents, amounting to 84*l.* per annum, are carried to a separate account from the income of Maynard's Hospital.

Rigden's Benefaction.—By indenture bearing date 23d April 1771, and enrolled in Chancery 29th April 1771, between William Rigden, of the first part, John Cantis, and six others, aldermen and common councilmen of the city of Canterbury, of the other part, the said William Rigden bargained and sold to the said J. Cantis and others, and their heirs, a small messuage, with a long slip of ground and the appurtenances, in Hawkes-lane, in the parish of St. Margaret, and a smith's forge, theretofore a stable adjoining to the said messuage, on trust, to dispose of so much of the clear rents as should be necessary for repairing and maintaining the seven tenements founded by Maynard, and the three tenements adjoining thereto, founded by Leonard Cotton, and the buildings thereto respectively belonging; and to distribute the residue of the said rents on or about Christmas yearly among such of the resident brothers and sisters as should constantly inhabit in the said seven tenements founded by Maynard, as they should think fit; and it was provided that when the trustees should, by death or removal, be reduced to two, they should convey the premises to five or six other persons, whom they should nominate from the mayor and commonalty of the said city, on the same trusts; and it was further provided that the said premises should not be leased on fines, but only at the full yearly value, either from year to year, or by lease not exceeding 21 years in possession.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th August 1821, Richard Halford and Thomas Starr (the two surviving trustees resident at Canterbury) conveyed the premises devised by William Rigden to James Warren, then mayor, Richard Frend, and John James Pierce, aldermen, and Larkin Allum, John Nutt, and Henry Cooper, sheriff, town-clerk, and common-councilman, and their heirs, upon the trusts declared in the Will of the said William Rigden.

This property consists of a messuage, with a long slip of ground, &c., in Hawkes-lane, in the parish of St. Margaret, and a building used as a bakehouse, formerly a smith's forge, let to —— Ladd, as yearly tenant, at 12*l.* a-year, which appears to be a sufficient rent, though up to 1832 the premises had been let at 21*l.* a-year to a party as an accommodation.

The buildings are represented as being in a very bad state, and it is doubtful whether it would not be for the benefit of the hospital that the premises should be let on lease to some person who would be willing to rebuild them, if the trustees were empowered to grant a sufficient term.

The rent is carried to the account of Maynard's Hospital, out of which the whole expenses of the repairs of Maynard's and Cotton's houses are defrayed.

The following orders were made 22d September 1797 by the mayor and aldermen, at a special visitation, held at the hospital, at the request of James Simmons the then master :—

1. That no person should be admitted into either of the seven houses founded by John Maynard unless they should have resided for the last seven years within the liberties of Canterbury, and should be upwards of 50 years of age and unmarried.

2. That, in conformity to the Will of Leonard Cotton, the poor widower and two poor widows to be admitted into his three houses should be taken first from St. Margaret's, and if none, from St. Mildred's, and if none there, then from the county of the city of Canterbury, to be upwards of 50 years of age, and of good and honest conversation.

3. That all the brothers and sisters should constantly reside in the houses allotted to them, and take no inmate or lodger.

4. That the prior should immediately report the death of a brother or sister to the master.

5. That when any brother or sister shall die between the commencement and end of any quarter the prior should pay the quarter's rent to the master, who might expend the whole in the burial of the deceased, or for the general benefit of the hospital. That the successor should be entitled from the next quarter-day, or, if approved after the next quarter-day, only from the day of appointment, and that any surplus should be paid to the said master for the general benefit of the hospital.

6. That the master might give leave of absence, but that this should not extend to give any brother or sister a right to receive the proportion of Hanson's bequest hereafter mentioned, which was payable only on such residence as directed by the trustees thereof.

7. That on the day of appointment of the master a visitation should be annually held at the hospital by the mayor or his deputy, and such aldermen as it should please to attend, who should make such further rules and regulations, not inconsistent with these orders, as should be found expedient.

Canterbury.

8. That at every such annual visitation the brothers and sisters of Maynard's foundation, or a majority of those present, should nominate one of the brothers to be prior, who, if approved by the mayor and the master, should be prior for one year, and until another should be appointed, subject to suspension or removal for neglect, &c.

9. That the prior should collect the rents quarterly, and, within 10 days after every quarter-day, divide those of Maynard's Hospital to the brothers and sisters on that foundation, taking his own seventh share therein; and those of Cotton's gift to the brothers and sisters of that foundation.

10. That at every annual visitation the brothers and sisters on both foundations, or a majority of those present, should nominate a person, who, if approved, should be reader in the chapel for one year, subject to suspension, &c.; that such reader should receive one guinea every quarter from the master for his trouble.

11. That service should be read by the reader every Wednesday and Friday evening, and should for every neglect (not having deputed any person whom the master should approve) forfeit 6*d.*

12. That the prior should keep the chapel and the desk and seats clean, and supply the small coal and candles, and every day before 10 in the forenoon, Sundays excepted, clean the foot-pavement in the street, &c.

13. That every brother and sister should forfeit 1*d.* for not attending Divine service in the chapel.

14. That the master should at his discretion pay to the prior quarterly the yearly salary of 3*l.* 3*s.* for his trouble.

15. That the perquisites of 10*d.* theretofore deducted quarterly from each person's share of the rents, and the admission-fee of 6*s.* 8*d.* theretofore paid, should be discontinued.

16. That the prior should keep two separate accounts wherein he should enter his receipts and payments, to be examined and signed quarterly by the master, to be open to the brothers and sisters, and produced and allowed at the annual visitation by the visitors, and passed; and that the account relating to Cotton's estate should be open to the inspection of the feoffees of those estates, and passed, whenever they should require the same.

17. That the master should keep an account of all moneys arising by fines, rents, timber, and otherwise, from Maynard's foundation; and, after the payment of the prior's and reader's salary, and all expenses attending the foundation, should make an equal distribution among the seven brothers and sisters of so much of the surplus as to him should appear expedient; and should also keep an account of all moneys received from Cotton's estate, and, after deducting all expenses, make an equal distribution of the surplus, as he should judge proper, among the brothers and sisters of that foundation, the former to be yearly passed before the mayor, and the latter before the feoffees.

18. That the prior, brothers, and sisters should not make any agreement for leases or fines, or any contract relative to their estates, nor sell or fell any timber, without consent of the master.

19. That a rental of the hospital estates, and a copy of these orders should be placed in the chapel.

Previously to the making of these orders the master had submitted to the visitors a long report on the state of the hospital, in which, amongst other things, he proposed certain principles to be adhered to with regard to the granting of leases; viz., that the terms should be for 30 years, renewable every 10, and if not renewed before the expiration of 15 years that the leases should then run out and the estate be let for the like term by public auction; that on all renewals great attention should be paid to the state of the hospital, in point of necessary repairs or improvements; that if any repairs or improvements were to take place the conditions of renewal should be by fine, but if none should be wanted or intended, the condition of renewal should be an improved rent, for that it was an injustice to the future brothers and sisters to let leases on fines instead of improved rents, when such fines were to be divided amongst the brothers and sisters for the time being.

He further stated that, from 1795 to Michaelmas 1796, applications having been made by some of the tenants to renew their leases, and finding the hospital to be in want of considerable reparations, he had made such proposals as he thought most conducive to the benefit of the said charity, and had granted four leases, advancing the annual rent from 18*l.* 10*s.* to 35*l.*, and receiving fines to the amount of 35*l.*; that with this sum, in addition to the 6*l.* left by William Rigden, he had been enabled to put the buildings in thorough repair, had paved the fronts of all the tenements with bricks, divided the gardens allotted to each house by posts and rails, and had fitted up the chapel, which he found in a very ruinous state, in a neat decent manner, fit for the performance of Divine service, which had been much neglected; and that he had also given great coats and cloaks to the brothers and sisters.

The present master, Richard Frend, states that in the letting of the estates he has acted upon the same principles as were thus recommended by his predecessor; that if a party applies for renewal at the end of the first 10 years and before the expiration of 15 years, the practice has been to grant a new lease on the payment of a fine of one year and a half's improved value, according to the valuation of a surveyor; that when a lease has expired, if a sum of money is then required for the repairs or improvement of the hospital, the estate is put up to auction at a fixed rent, and let to the bidder of the highest fine; but, if no immediate expenditure is required, it is let to the bidder of the highest rent without fine.

On many of the leases there is an endorsement stating that the lease is renewable on such terms as may be agreed upon between the master and the lessee every 10 years. Such endorsement, even if it amounts to an agreement on the part of the lessors, is of little effect, as the terms are not defined, but left to the discretion of the master; and if it were insisted upon as giving the party the privilege of renewing, except on payment of the full value, such an agreement would be contrary to the principles established by the courts of equity for the management of charity estates.

The substitution of an endorsement instead of a covenant in the deed itself was probably adopted in consequence of an order made by a committee appointed by order of burghmote, 11th March 1772, that in future all leases to be granted by this hospital should be made without covenant or clause of renewal; that all leases of buildings should be made for 30 years only and of lands for 21 years only; and that all leases should be drawn by the town-clerk.

It will scarcely admit of a doubt that, by the system of renewing leases from time to time, on the payment of fines, the hospital receives far less than the real value of the property, and there are several instances in which the dilapidated state of the demised premises shows that the lessees have not been induced by the privilege of renewing to lay out money in improvements. The payment of one year and a half's value for such renewals, even upon a fair valuation, is considered upon calculation much less than the lessors might reasonably demand. It seems therefore highly desirable that the system should be at once discontinued, and that no lease should be granted in future until the old lease is actually expired, so that the lessors may be at liberty, if circumstances seem to require it, to offer the premises to public competition. It seems also expedient that more active measures should be adopted for compelling the lessees to keep the buildings in proper repair, as it is well known that the sum recovered for dilapidations is rarely, if ever, adequate to the expense of reinstating the premises.

The hospital consists of 10 dwellings, seven of which are appropriated to the persons appointed on Maynard's foundation, and three to those on Cotton's, with a garden attached to each dwelling, and a chapel in the centre.

The present hospital was erected by subscription in 1707, the old building having been blown down in 1703. It has been put into complete repair, enclosed by a brick wall, and many improvements made for the convenience of the inmates since the appointment of the present master.

The amount laid out in repairs and improvements has in the last 10 years averaged about 16*l.* per annum, and in the preceding 20 years the average exceeded 33*l.* per annum; but in this is included the expense of the complete repairs of the buildings, which had fallen into a very dilapidated state.

The master of the hospital is appointed by the corporation, and the practice has been to nominate the senior alderman. The present master, Richard Frend, esq., was appointed in 1807. There are no emoluments attached to the office.

In that part of the hospital which is considered as Maynard's seven brethren and sisters are appointed as vacancies occur by the mayor for the time being; they are required to be 50 years of age, having resided seven years within the city of Canterbury, of good character and single persons, widows or widowers. The other three dwellings, appropriated to Cotton's foundation, are occupied by three persons appointed and qualified in the same manner, no regard being paid to the directions of the founder, or the subsequent order of the corporation, that they should be chosen out of the parish of St. Margaret, or, if there should be no fit person in that parish, out of St. Mildred's, and that they should not be taken from any other parish of the city, except in default of fit persons from either of those parishes.

The income of Maynard's Hospital, consisting of the rents already noticed, and the yearly sum of 7*l.* paid by the mayor and commonalty, making together 122*l.* 2*s.* per annum, is divided equally amongst the seven brothers and sisters, called Maynard's, in equal proportions, within three days after every quarter-day, by the prior, who collects the rents; and if there are any tenants in arrear the master has usually advanced the money, so that the full stipends have been paid every quarter.

The same person also collects the rents of Cotton's estates, amounting to 84*l.* per annum, and divides them quarterly in the same manner amongst the three other inmates of the hospital.

The prior receives an additional salary of 4*l.* 4*s.* per annum, and he provides a person to to read prayers every Wednesday and Friday in the chapel.

The fines are received by the master, who keeps an account thereof, and after paying the expenses of repairs and other outgoings occasionally divides a portion of the surplus amongst the brethren and sisters.

The following is a summary of the master's account for 30 years, from January 1804 to December 1833, inclusive:—

Cogan's Hospital.

Cogan's Hospital.

John Cogan, by his Will, bearing date 27th July 1657, proved in the Prerogative Court, devised to his executors, Thomas Broome and John Dixwell, and their heirs, all his messuages, lands, tenements, &c., and directed that they should convey them to feoffees on the trusts thereinafter mentioned. And he also directed that the remainder of his goods undisposed of should be sold, and that with the produce thereof, after payment of his debts, his executors should purchase freehold lands in the names of 10 feoffees, on trust, to pay the rents and profits of all the said lands and tenements, by half-yearly or quarterly payments, to six poor widows, who should be ministers' widows, for their support and maintenance, to be equally divided amongst them; that the feoffees should from time to time be nominated by the mayor and five of the eldest aldermen of the city of Canterbury. And he appointed the house wherein he then lived, in the parish of St. Peter, for the said widows to dwell in, each of them to have convenient room. And as touching his moiety of the manor of Littlebourne, which was not yet divided, he left the same to the discretion of his executors. And he directed that the mayor and five of the eldest aldermen, or the greater number of them, should have the admission of the said widows; that they should be such whose husbands should have been painful and diligent preachers of God's word; that every such widow before her admission should have a certificate from the churchwardens of the parish where her husband was minister at the time of his death, and of three or four of the most substantial householders of the said parish, that her husband was a man of honest godly conversation, and a painful diligent preacher of God's word, and that the widow is an honest woman of quiet peaceable life and conversation, and a fit object for charity; and he further declared that the widows should be such whose husbands should have lived in the city of Canterbury, county of Kent, or in London; that they should be without children, unless security were given to the mayor and aldermen that they should not become chargeable to the parish; that if any widow should marry after her admittance she should be removed, and her allowance thenceforth cease. And he appointed that one convenient room should be used for the habitation of one poor widow, or ancient maid of honest life and conversation, not being a minister's widow, to attend upon the said poor ministers' widows in their sickness, and to make clean the lower rooms of the said house and the street before the door, to which poor woman he gave 6*l.* yearly as a stipend.

It is stated in Hasted's and other histories of Kent that the only property derived from the Will of J. Cogan was the site of the hospital: that the estate at Littlebourne, which had belonged to the archbishop, was resumed at the Restoration, and that the testator died in perplexed circumstances, and that no other lands were purchased.

The hospital is therefore indebted to subsequent benefactions for the whole of its endowment.

Barling's Benefaction. Clement Barling, by his Will, bearing date 14th April 1688, and proved at Canterbury, devised to the mayor and chamber of the city of Canterbury a yearly rent of 3*l.*, issuing out of his lands in Denge Marsh, and payable every 1st of December, with a power of distress in case of non-payment: 30*s.* thereof to be paid to the six widows dwelling in the house which Mr. Cogan gave for six ministers' widows, to be equally divided amongst them, or so many as should dwell therein; and the remaining 30*s.* for the yearly repairing of the said house as the said mayor or widows should see cause.

The yearly sum of 3*l.* is received by the chamberlain from the tenant of lands in Denge Marsh, in the parish of Lydd, the property of Miss Denne. The amount has been applied towards the repairs of the hospital as hereafter stated.

Donor Unknown. By an order of Burghmote, of 20th April 1696, it was ordered that interest should be paid by the chamberlain for a sum of 50*l.* then in his hands, which sum it is recited was given to be put out at interest, and the produce employed in repairing Cogan's Hospital.

From that period to 1834, 3*l.* a-year has been charged in the chamberlain's accounts, as the interest of this money.

From an account of the two yearly sums above mentioned kept by the late James Warren, who held the office of chamberlain up to the time of his decease in 1835, and from the accounts of the treasurer of the hospital, it appears that Mr. Warren received, in 1822,

The balance of 20*l.* 18*s.* 1¾*d.* is still due from the executors of the late James Warren. There is also due from the tenant of the lands in Denge Marsh two years' rent, 6*l.*, and from the corporation one year's interest was due at Michaelmas 1835.

Aucher's Benefaction.—The following, though not literally a benefaction to Cogan's Hospital, is so connected with it by the foundation deed, that it has practically supplied the want of an endowment.

By indenture of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th December 1696, between John Aucher, D.D., of the one part, and Thomas Belke and George Thorpe, Prebendaries of Canterbury, Herbert Randolph, esq., John Coppin and Paul Lukin, gents., of the other part, the said John Aucher conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a messuage or farm-house, with barns, outbuildings, &c., and the lands thereto belonging, containing, by estimation, 55 acres, in the parish of Worth, and two pieces of fresh marsh, in the parishes of Burmarsh and Eastbridge, in Romney Marsh, containing 32 acres, in trust, that after his decease and the payments of his debts and legacies and the expiration of a term therein mentioned, six poor ministers' widows, to be chosen as thereinafter expressed, should receive, yearly, out of the rents and profits, 10*l.* a-year each, to be paid half-yearly; that the said trustees, or the major part of them, should, in the first place, choose and admit such ministers' widows, as should be of the kindred of the donor, and should respectively produce a certificate from the Dean and Archdeacon of Canterbury, if resident, and two of the senior prebendaries, being resident and not being trustees for the charity, or in the absence of the dean and archdeacon from three or more of the senior prebendaries, being resident and not trustees, that she is of the age of 50 years, the widow of a minister of the church of England, of sober and honest life and conversation, and a conformist to the church of England, that she frequents the public prayers of the church on Sundays and holidays, receiving the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and does not resort to any conventicles; and if there should be none, or not six such poor widows of the kindred of the donor producing such certificates, that the said trustees should fill up the number, by choosing such poor ministers' widows as should be placed and resident in a house late of John Cogan, according to his Will, provided they should produce such certificates as above mentioned, with this addition, that her husband was parson or vicar of some parish-church within the diocese of Canterbury; and in default of such widows of the kindred of the donor, and in Cogan's Hospital, that the said trustees should choose any other poor ministers' widows who should produce such certificates as aforesaid with the like addition thereto, who should enjoy the benefit of the charity so long as they should be resident within the precincts of Christ's Church, or the liberties of the city of Canterbury, and no longer. And it was provided that the said trustees should have power to displace and discharge from the benefit of the charity any of the poor widows for any misdemeanor. And it was further declared that, though in the first election of the six widows regard was to be had to those who should then be placed in Cogan's almshouses, yet it was not the intent of this indenture to confine the trustees in any succeeding elections to admit to the benefit of the charity such widows as should be in Cogan's Hospital, but, on the contrary, the intent was to induce the trustees appointed by the Will of T. Cogan in all succeeding elections to admit into the rooms of the hospital such poor ministers' widows as should be, from time to time, appointed by the trustees of this charity; and that the maid or widow that should be appointed, according to the Will of T. Cogan, to attend on the ministers' widows, should receive out of the rents of the premises above mentioned the yearly sum of 6*l.*, or less, according to the discretion and during the pleasure of the trustees of this charity. And it was further declared that the said trustees should meet yearly, in Easter week, and have a collation of the value of 20*s.* out of the said rents, at which meeting they should audit the accounts, inquire into the condition of Cogan's Hospital and the behaviour of the widows who should have the benefit of this charity, whether they should have frequented the parish-church and public Divine service on Sundays and holidays, and how often they should have received the sacrament; that the trustees should pay to the six widows who were to have the benefit of this charity 15*s.* yearly for a dinner, that they might all dine together on St. Peter's day; that they should appoint a fit person to receive the rents and profits, and to make the payments as above mentioned, whom they should pay for his pains as they should think fit in their discretion; and that if at any time there should be any overplus after paying the sums above mentioned, and over and above one half-year's rent, which was to remain in their hands to make good the payments, they should dispose of such overplus for repairing Cogan's Hospital, or for fuel for the six widows appointed to this charity, or in any other way they should think best, having special regard to such as should be sick and impotent. And power was given to the trustees to make orders for the better executing of this trust; and it was provided that, whenever so many of the trustees should be dead, or removed out of the diocese of Canterbury, that there should be only two living and residing in the said diocese, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of such remaining trustees, and so many other honest and discreet persons as they should think fit, so that the whole number should never exceed five, whereof two should be Prebendaries of Canterbury, and personally resident there.

The preceding abstract was taken from a copy in the book of accounts, the original, as there stated, being in a box in the audit-house of the dean and chapter.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 9th and 10th February 1826, the Rev. Robert Moore, one of the Prebendaries of Canterbury, and the Rev. T. Gregory, the then surviving trustees, conveyed the premises on the like trusts to the use of themselves, the Venerable James Croft, one of the prebendaries, the Rev. T. Hamilton, and the Rev. T. B. Bunce.

The property held under this trust consists of:—

1st. The farm in Worth, comprising, in addition to the 55 acres mentioned in the indentures above abstracted, 3A. 3R., purchased in 1830. This is let to John Baker, on lease, for a term of seven years from Michaemas 1831, at 130*l.* The land thus purchased adjoined the old farm at Worth, and it is stated was a very desirable acquisition, as affording a more convenient access to the premises. The price was 405*l.*, and the expenses attending the purchase and enrolling the deed 47*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

2d. The lands in Burmarsh and Eastbridge, in Romney Marsh, let to Stephen Leggett, for the like term, at 65*l.* These are high rents, and in 1835 an abatement of 10*l.* per cent. was made to the tenants.

3d. There is belonging to the charity 1,100*l.* Three per Cent. stock standing in the names of the Rev. Robert Moore, the Rev. Brook Edward Bridges (deceased), and the Rev. J. Gregory, producing yearly dividends to the amount of 33*l.* This stock has been acquired by investments of the surplus income at various periods since 1784; and when any particular occasion has required it a part has been sold out. In 1830, out of 1,650*l.* then standing in their names, the trustees sold out 550*l.* to enable themselves to pay the expenses of the purchase of land in Worth; and 100*l.* stock having been purchased in 1832, they sold out 100*l.* in 1835, for the purpose of making up a deficiency of the income on account of the appointment of a sixth widow, there having been but five for some years previously, and to defray the expenses of the repairs of that year, which considerably exceeded the usual average.

Hearne's Benefaction.—The Rev. George Hearne, by his Will dated 14th March 1804, bequeathed to the clergymen's widows in Cogan's house 2*l.* 10*s.* Long Annuities, to be equally divided between them.

The Long Annuities were increased out of the residuary estate of the testator to 3*l.* 16*s.* per annum, and were transferred and now stand in the names of the Rev. Houstone Radcliffe, deceased, the Rev. Robert Moore, and the Rev. T. Gregory, the duty having been paid out of the general account kept by the trustees of Aucher's Gift.

The yearly sum of 3*l.* 16*s.* is received and divided equally amongst the widows resident in the house.

May's Benefaction.—By indenture of bargain and sale, bearing date 2d May 1834, and enrolled in the same month, George May conveyed to the Rev. Robert Moore, and the other trustees of Aucher's benefaction, and their heirs, a house in Pound-lane, in the parish of Holy Cross, Westgate, for the benefit of the widows in Cogan's house.

This is let to —— Collard, at a fair yearly rent of 10*l.*

The hospital consists of six dwellings under one roof, with a garden attached to each.

Although the mayor and five of the elder aldermen have the right of nominating the inmates of the hospital under the Will of J. Cogan, the appointment has been given up to the trustees of Aucher's charity; and in one of the books of the corporation there is an entry, bearing date 1st April 1816, stating that the mayor and five senior aldermen, having taken into consideration the Will of Cogan, and that the trustees of Dr. Aucher's Charity had faithfully discharged the trust reposed in them, consented that the right of admission of the widows into the said hospital should be at the will and direction of the said trustees, and thereby waived their right thereto.

Since this period the trustees for Aucher's Charity have exercised the privilege of appointing the widows to the hospital, as well as to the benefit of Dr. Aucher's Benefaction. There is no particular form of certificate required, but the trustees inquire into the circumstances of the candidates, and ascertain that they are qualified according to the directions of the deed of 1696, and none are appointed under the age of 50 years.

There are at the present time six widows of clergymen receiving a yearly stipend of 35*l.* each.

In 1819 the stipends were raised from 30*l.* to 40*l.*; the number of widows having never exceeded five, and having been often less, the income was found sufficient to provide for such increased allowance till 1834, when, the full number having been made up, it was found necessary to reduce the stipends to 35*l.*

Each widow receives one chaldron of coals annually, and sometimes, if the funds admit of it, a larger quantity.

The sum of 15*s.* is divided amongst them on St. Peter's day, and the annual produce of Hearne's Benefaction is also divided amongst them as soon as it is received, not being carried to the general account of the charity.

The accounts are kept by the Rev. T. Gregory, as treasurer, and 2*l.* a-year is charged in the accounts as the allowance for his trouble.

The accounts are made up annually. At the last settlement, 1835, there was a balance of 47*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* in hand, exclusive of the sum due in respect of Barling's Gift, and the interest of the money in the hands of the corporation.

The following is a summary of the accounts for the last six years:—

Masters's and Lovejoy's Benefactions.—The widows in this hospital receive a share of the charities of Masters and Lovejoy hereafter noticed.

HARRIS'S ALMSHOUSES.

Harris's Almshouses.

Thomas Harris, by his Will, bearing date 14th December 1719, as recited in the following trust-deed, devised to Isaac Terry and eight others and their heirs, the five dwellings, with the gardens, &c., thereto belonging, in Wincheap, in the parish of St. Mildred, which he designed for almshouses, on trust that, as any of the old persons to be placed therein by himself should die, the trustees should place therein such other old persons as they should think proper to dwell therein for their lives, rent free. Two of the tenements to be filled up with two poor persons of the parish of St. Mary Magdalen, two with poor persons of Thanington, and the other with a poor person of St. Mildred's; that such poor should be of the age of 50 years at least, and not receiving alms of any of the said parishes. And for their better maintenance he devised to the said trustees, and their heirs, his messuage and farm called Marley, in the parish of Kingston, then let at 51*l.* per annum, and a shaw of wood containing about three yards belonging thereto, on trust, to dispose of the clear rents and profits equally amongst the poor persons dwelling in the said almshouses; and he directed that, whenever the number of trustees should be reduced to three, the survivors should convey the premises to new trustees.

It appears, from a memorandum endorsed on the testator's purchase-deed of 1687, that he sold the shaw of wood after making his Will, though the trust-deed purports to convey that with the rest of the property.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 16th and 17th October 1813, reciting the Will of Thomas Harris, and that the premises had become vested in Charlotte Barham Cosens, the grand-daughter and heiress of Richard Barham, the said C. B. Cosens conveyed to William Chafy, deceased, William Chafy the younger, John Partridge, Richard Harris Barham, Edward Scudamore the younger, John Abbott, John Buckton, and two others since deceased, the five tenements, with the gardens thereto belonging, in St. Mildred's, and the farm and lands called Marley Farm, with the shaw of wood containing three yards, on the trusts declared in the said Will, with a proviso that, when the number of trustees should be reduced to three, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves and six other persons inhabiting in or near Canterbury.

The farm in Kingston comprises 76A. 2R. 14P. including fences, with a farm-house, barn, and out-buildings, let to Thomas Brooks, as yearly tenant, at a good rent of 50*l.* per annum, the tenant keeping the buildings in repair.

In 1805 a lease for 21 years, at the yearly rent of 40*l.*, had been granted to T. Brooks, by a solicitor acting on behalf of the abovenamed C. B. Cosens, then an infant; but in 1813 the trusteees considered that the rent was inadequate, and under the advice of counsel called upon Mr. Brooks to give up the lease, and relet the premises to him at 50*l.* on the valuation of two surveyors.

The almshouses consist of five dwellings under one roof, with a garden divided amongst the inmates. Two of the dwellings are appropriated to poor persons of St. Mary Magdalen, two to those of Thanington, and the other to a poor person of St. Mildred; and when any house becomes vacant the trustees appoint a person from the parish to which such houses are appropriated.

A certificate is required from the respective parish officers that the party is a settled parishioner, not receiving parish relief, and above the age of 50.

The clear rents, after paying the expense of repairing the almshouses, which amounts on an average to 4*l.*, are divided equally amongst the almspeople.

Canterbury.

Harris's Almshouses, continued.

The trustees meet annually and audit the accounts, and when a vacancy occurs a special meeting is called for filling it up.

Decaufour's Benefaction.—Daniel Decaufour, by his Will, bearing date 10th October 1832, bequeathed to the use of the resident inmates of this hospital 500*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Annuities.

In 1834 this stock was transferred, by the executor, into the names of John Abbott, John Partridge, and John Buckton, three of the trustees for the almshouses. The dividends, amounting to 17*l.* 10*s.* per annum, are divided equally amongst the five almspeople, all of whom are constantly resident.

Sabine's Charity.

Sabine's Charity.

Avery Sabine, who died 24th November 1648, bequeathed to Thomas Hardress and six others, all of the city of Canterbury, a yearly rent of 20*l.*, issuing out of his capital messuage, lands, &c., at Monckton, in the Isle of Thanet, in trust, to pay 10 marks (6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*) yearly to the poor in-brothers and in-sisters of Eastbridge Hospital; and 12*l.* 10*s.* yearly, in providing 10 men with garments of woollen cloth, stockings and shoes; and directed that they should yearly, on the Feast of St. Andrew, give one of the said suits of clothing to each of 10 honest aged poor people, men or women, not of any hospital, of the age of 60 years or more, and inhabitants of Canterbury for six years, for their comfort in the ensuing winter; that the trustees should settle the accounts annually in November, setting down the names of the poor persons receiving the clothes, none of which were to receive the like clothing again within three years afterwards; that, out of the residue, 16*s.* 8*d.*, the trustees' charges should be allowed, and the overplus distributed amongst five other poor people, and be brought to account; and that, whenever four or five of the trustees should be dead, the survivors should convey the rent-charge to themselves and five others.

New trustees have been appointed from time to time, to whom the rent-charge has been assigned.

By indenture, bearing date 31st December 1792, Thomas Berrett and the Rev. J. Lynch, the then survivors, granted the said rent-charge to Sir Samuel Egerton Bridges, bart., Edward Austen, now Edward Knight, esq., and three others since deceased.

Sir S. E. Bridges is resident at Geneva, and this circumstance has prevented a new appointment of trustees.

The yearly sum of 20*l.* is paid by Henry Collard, of Monckton, the owner and occupier of the estate which formerly belonged to the testator. It is received by R. Halford, esq., to whom Mr. Knight has committed the management of the charity, as being, from his local knowledge, better able than himself to select proper objects.

Out of this rent-charge 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* is divided every half-year, equally, amongst the in-brothers and in-sisters of Eastbridge Hospital.

The residue is expended in purchasing six great coats, six gowns, 12 pairs of stockings, and 12 pairs of shoes; and these articles are given to 12 poor men and women, who have been many years inhabitants of Canterbury, and are above 60 years of age.

The accounts are regularly kept; and the expenditure, one year with another, exhausts the whole income.

Lovejoy's Charity.

Lovejoy's Charity.

Elizabeth Lovejoy, by her Will, bearing date in 1694, and proved at Canterbury, devised her house and lands, called Beard's Hill, in the parish of St. Peter, Isle of Thanet, her lease and term of years in certain tithes at Calais Grange, in the said parish, to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury, and their successors, on trust, that they should lay by such a proportion of the profits of the said tithes every year, as should be sufficient to renew the lease with the dean and chapter, and should continually renew the same every seven years; that they should pay the reserved rent, and repair the chancel of the parish-church of St. Peter, and her husband's and her own monument, as often as needful, and should pay to the clerk of the said parish 20*s.* yearly, to encourage him to take due care of the same, and keep them clean; that they should also pay the yearly sum of 40*l.* to the vicar of the said parish, and choose a schoolmaster, and pay him 20*l.* yearly, as more particularly stated First Report, pp. 131, 132; that they should also pay to the warden and poor of the following hospitals the several annuities following; viz., of Jesus' Hospital, 5*l.*; St. John's, 10*l.*; Kingsbridge [Eastbridge], 5*l.*; Cogan's, 4*l.*; St. Thomas's, in Harbledown, 5*l.*; Sir Roger Manwood's, at Hackington, 5*l.*; which several annuities should be equally divided amongst such poor as resided in and received the alms of the respective hospitals, half-yearly, without any deduction: and she directed that the mayor and recorder of Canterbury, and three of the youngest aldermen (except such as should not have been mayor), and the chamberlain, should nominate the schoolmaster in St. Peter's, and should dispose of all the residue of the rents and profits of the said messuage, lands, and tithes (taxes, repairs, and other necessary expenses in management, deducted), in pious and charitable uses, either in the relief of poor prisoners, or of such poor, ancient, impotent and sick people, and their families, as should neither go a-begging nor take relief of the parish where they should inhabit, or in clothing or putting out such poor apprentices to handicraft trades as should not themselves or their parents be any charge to the parish where they should dwell: in the disposal of which charities she charged them to use their discretion, according to the best of their information, without favour, affection or ill-will, or any manner of partiality in choosing such persons, as should appear to be the fittest objects of charity; and that such choice and disposal should be made by the majority of the said parties, whereof the mayor should be one, and, in case of equality, have the casting vote; but she directed that 6*l.* of the residue should be expended yearly, as follows; viz., 40*s.* on a dinner, yearly, on the anniversary of the day of her death, for the persons authorized to dispose of her charity, and for the chamberlain, who should then give an account of his receipts and disbursements relating thereto, and for the town-clerk, who should then bring in the petitions of such persons as should sue for relief out of the said residue, which she expressed she would have disposed of at the same time; and, for keeping of such accounts, and for drawing such petition, she directed that there should be paid, to the chamberlain and to the town clerk, 20*s.* each; and the remaining 40*s.* she directed should be paid to the minister of the parish in which the mayor for the time being should dwell, for preaching a sermon on the same day in his church, recommending charitable deeds, and acquainting his auditors that the poor might be instructed how to apply to become partakers thereof; and, if her anniversary should fall on a Saturday or Sunday, she directed that the sermon, account, &c., should be on the Monday following; and she also willed that the vicar of St. Peter's, in consideration of her devise, should be constantly resident in his vicarage, should duly officiate there, and be ready to administer the holy sacrament on the first Sunday in every month, exhorting his parishioners to frequent the same, and should also publicly, in the church, examine the children to be taught as aforesaid, and such others as should come, in the Church catechism; but if the parents of the children should refuse to admit them to attend church, or to be so examined, such children should be displaced from having any further benefit in her charity; and that the said vicar should yearly, on the anniversary of the day of her burial, or on the Sunday following, inform his auditory with the contents of her Will.

By indenture, bearing date 25th April 1697, between the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury of the one part, and Lennard Digges of the other part, reciting that the said Elizabeth Lovejoy had made her Will to the effect above stated, but that the same had not been signed or sealed, so that the same was inoperative as regarded the real estate, and that a suit had been instituted, and sentence pronounced by the court of delegates in favour of the said Will which had been proved by the said L. Digges, one of the executors; and further reciting that the debts and other charges exceeded the value of the personal estate by the sum of 311*l.* 5*s.*, which was to be paid by all the legatees, in proportion to their legacies, and that the said L. Digges had agreed that the said mayor and commonalty should enter upon and enjoy the leasehold tithes and premises for the term then unexpired, they paying their proportional part of the said 311*l.* 5*s.*; the said mayor and commonalty thereupon covenanted to pay such proportional part, amounting to 220*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.*, and to grant such indemnity to the said L. Digges, as therein mentioned, and to bear their proportion of any other charges which he might be put to respecting the said Will.

The leases of the tithes, &c., have been renewed every seven years, by the dean and chapter, on the payment of a fine. By the existing lease, bearing date 30th June 1830, the dean and chapter demised to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury, and their successors, the parsonage or grange called Callis Grange, otherwise St. Peter's, or Callis Court, in the Isle of Thanet, with the houses, barns, glebe-lands, and tithes of corn to the same belonging, reserving timber, for a term of 21 years, from Lady-day then last, at the yearly rent of 25*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*; and the further sum of 29*l.* 0*s.* 9½*d.* for land-tax, redeemed by the said dean and chapter; and also paying 10*l.* yearly, to the said dean and chapter, for the use of the vicar of the parish of St. Peter; with a covenant, on the part of the lessees, to keep the demised premises, and the chancel of St. Peter's, in repair; the dean and chapter setting out such timber, out of their woods called Thornden, as should be required for the purpose.

It appears, from a terrier made in 1692, that the glebe-lands, &c., consisted of a barn, stable, well-house, and a yard containing about one rood, and eight several pieces of land, containing, altogether, 40 acres.

On the last renewal 858*l.* 5*s.* was paid for the fine, and 23*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.* charged for fees, the same sum having been charged on former occasions.

The premises are held, under the mayor and commonalty, by J. T. Cramp and John Gunnell, on lease, bearing date 10th December 1835, for a term of seven years from 11th October then last, at the yearly rent of 552*l.*, the lessees finding two sufficient sureties in the penalty of 1,000*l.* This letting was by public auction.

Out of the clear income, after the payment of the several sums, amounting to 64*l.* 17*s.* 8½*d.*, reserved by the lease from the dean and chapter, the several sums specifically charged thereon by the testatrix are paid, with an addition of 10*l.* to the schoolmaster in St. Peter's, Isle of Thanet, and about 4*l.* for insurance, and some other incidental expenses. The sums appropriated to the different hospitals are divided by the chamberlain, equally, amongst the inmates actually residing therein. The residue, except what is reserved to meet the expense of renewing the lease every seven years, is disposed of by the mayor, recorder, three of the youngest aldermen (having served the office of mayor), and the chamberlain, partly in binding out apprentices, and partly in a distribution to the poor.

Since 1830 six boys have been apprenticed annually, with a premium of 20*l.* each; and 1*l.* 1*s.* has been paid to the town-clerk for drawing each set of indentures. There is no restriction in the choice of the boys, with reference to the freedom of the parents or the masters.

During the same period 280 poor persons, living within the liberties or suburbs of the city of Canterbury, have annually been appointed to receive 10*s.* each. Though these persons are appointed by the six persons above mentioned, it has been usual to accept the nomination of such others of the aldermen or common council as attend on the day of nomination, or in the winter, when the distribution takes place. No inquiry is made whether the parties are receiving parish relief or not.

A meeting is held annually, on the 29th March, the anniversary of the death of the testatrix; and, after attending a sermon preached at the church of the parish in which the mayor for the time being resides, the trustees proceed to settle the accounts and appoint the objects of the charity. They afterwards dine together; and 2*l.* is paid out of the accounts of the charity towards the expenses. The money is not distributed to the poor until the following winter.

Canterbury.

The sums reserved to meet the expenses of the renewal amounted, in March 1835, to 848*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.* It has always been the practice to leave the money reserved for this purpose in the hands of the chamberlain, not bearing interest, relying on his personal responsibility, and on the security he gives to the corporation, being to the amount of 2,000*l.*, on his taking office.

It seems desirable that this money should be placed out from time to time, as well for the sake of security as to obtain for the charity the benefit of the interest accruing thereon.

Mr. Warren, who was chamberlain in 1835, died soon after Michaelmas in that year, having in his hands a balance, on account of this charity, amounting to 1,043*l.* 17*s.* 10*d.* It is not expected there will be any deficiency of assets; but his accounts had not been settled at the time this inquiry took place; and his successor, Mr. Snoulton, had been obliged to advance money out of his own pocket to make the payments which had become due.

The following is a summary of the usual disbursements:—

A question has been raised by the parishioners of St. Peter's, Isle of Thanet, whether they might not claim a further increase in the allowance to the schoolmaster of that parish; or whether, at least, the poor of that parish might not be admitted to a share in the distribution of the surplus. The first claim seems untenable, as the Will of the donor expresses, in plain terms, how the whole residue is to be disposed of; and, with regard to the distribution of such residue, it will be observed that it is left wholly to the discretion of certain members of the corporation of Canterbury, and it does not appear that they are restricted from admitting poor persons of St. Peter's, if they should think them the fittest objects of the charity.

Browne's Charity.

Browne's Charity.

Matthew Browne, by his Will, bearing date 12th December 1717, proved at Canterbury, gave to each of the several hospitals of Eastbridge, Maynard's, St. John's, and St. Nicholas, Harbledown, 10*s.* yearly; and, to the use of the charity-school for poor boys in the city of Canterbury, 10*s.* yearly, out of the rents of his two messuages, with the appurtenances, in the borough of Staplegate; the said several sums to be paid to the prior, brothers, and sisters of the respective hospitals, and to the governors, trustees, or master of the said charity-school, every 12th of March. He also gave to the poor of the parish of St. Peter, in the said city, 16*s.* yearly, payable out of the rents of the same premises, to be distributed by the churchwardens and overseers of the said parish, at their discretion, in 12 penny Ravill loaves, to 12 poor people of the said parish, every Monday for 16 weeks successively in every year, beginning on the first Monday after Christmas. And he directed, if default should be made in payment of the several sums, it should be lawful for the several priors, brethren, and sisters, the trustees of the school, and the churchwardens and overseers of St. Peter's, to enter and distrain on the premises above mentioned.

On 6th June 1750 the parish officers of St. Peter's took possession of the houses in the borough of Staplegate, for non-payment of the annuity due to them; and they have, from that period, let the premises and paid the several annuities of 10*s.* each to the four hospitals above mentioned and to the charity-school.

Masters's Charity.

Masters's Charity.

In a book belonging to the corporation, called Bunce's Book of Benefactions, compiled from the documents in the possession of the corporation, the following account is given of this charity:—

Mary Masters, it is there stated, by her Will, (date not mentioned,) gave to the poor of two hospitals in Canterbury, by name, 5*l.* a-piece, and charged her lands, which she devised to her nephew and executor, Sir Harcourt Masters, with the payment thereof; and, by a codicil, she gave 5*l.* per annum to all the hospitals.

Canterbury.

It is further stated that this codicil was not attested, and could not therefore charge the land; that her real and personal estate was insufficient to pay all legacies, &c.; but that proceedings were had in the Court of Chancery; whereupon it was decreed that all the legacies in the Will should be paid in full; but that, as to the 5*l.* per annum given by the codicil to all the hospitals, it was decreed not to extend to the hospital at Harbledown, about a mile out of Canterbury.

It does not appear that the two yearly sums of 5*l.* were ever paid as charged upon land; but it is stated that a sum of money was received from the estate of Sir H. Masters, and laid out in the purchase of 163*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* Old South Sea Annuities, and that the dividends were equally divided between the hospitals of St. John, Eastbridge, Maynard's and Cotton's, Jesus', Smith's, and Cogan's.

In 1761 this stock was transferred into the names of the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury, and still forms part of a sum of 1,243*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* Old South Sea Annuities, standing in the corporate name.

The dividends, amounting to 4*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*, are received by the chamberlain, and disposed of, about Christmas, amongst the inmates of the six hospitals above mentioned,—16*s.* 4*d.* to each hospital.

HANSON'S CHARITY.

Hanson's Charity.

Thomas Hanson, by his Will, bearing date 30th April 1768, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury 1,500*l.*, in trust, that the mayor, recorder, and such aldermen as should have been mayor of the said city, should invest the same in the public funds, and apply the dividends half-yearly, one-third among such of the resident brothers and sisters in Eastbridge Hospital, as the said mayor, recorder and aldermen should think fit; one-third, in like manner, in St. John's Hospital, Northgate; and the remaining third, in like manner, in Maynard's Hospital; and he strictly enjoined them not to divide any part of the said trust-money among any of the brothers and sisters of the said hospitals who should not constantly reside therein.

The legacy above mentioned was invested in the purchase of 1,750*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, in the name of the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury; and the dividends, amounting to 52*l.* 10*s.* per annum, are divided, half-yearly, into three shares, one of which is distributed equally amongst the resident inmates of the respective hospitals mentioned in the Will.

On the 17th January 1771 the mayor and six aldermen ordered that no brother or sister should receive this charity who should lodge out of their hospitals more than seven nights, and then only with the consent of the mayor, given in writing.

This regulation is not strictly adhered to; and if the master of the hospital gives the inmates leave to reside out for a definite time, for any particular purpose, they are not excluded.

Till 1835 the inmates of the three houses endowed by L. Cotton partook of this charity, it being considered that the term "Maynard's Hospital" included them; but, in the last year, the distribution was limited to the seven persons resident in that part of the hospital to which Maynard's endowment is confined. It may be doubtful however whether the donor intended any such distinction.

FOWTRELL'S CHARITY.

Fowtrell's Charity.

Mary Fowtrell, by her Will, bearing date 30th December 1813, proved in the Prerogative Court, directed her executors to lay out 300*l.* in the purchase of stock, in the names of the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury, in trust, to pay the dividends amongst the brothers and sisters of Harbledown Hospital, in equal proportions; 200*l.* in trust, to pay the dividends in like manner to the brothers and sisters of Eastbridge Hospital; 200*l.* in trust, to pay the dividends in like manner amongst the brothers and sisters of St. John's Hospital, Northgate; and 200*l.* in trust, to pay the dividends in like manner amongst the brothers and sisters of Maynard's and Cotton's Hospital.

In respect of the above legacies there is 1,057*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* Three and a half per Cent. stock, standing in the name of the mayor and commonalty, the dividends on which, amounting to 37*l.* a-year, are divided by the chamberlain amongst the inmates of the several hospitals above mentioned; viz., amongst those at St. Nicholas, Harbledown, 12*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.* yearly; and amongst the inmates of each of the three other hospitals, 8*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*

MILLES'S CHARITY.

Milles's Charity.

Mary Milles, by her Will, dated 1st May 1822, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to the mayor and commonalty 1,000*l.* Old South Sea Annuities, in trust, that the mayor, recorder, and such of the aldermen as had been mayors, should apply the dividends, one-half amongst such of the resident brethren and sisters in St. John's Hospital, in Northgate, as they should think fit; and the other half amongst such of the resident brethren and sisters of the hospital of St. Nicholas, Harbledown, as they should think fit; and 200*l.* like stock, in trust, that the mayor, recorder, and aldermen should apply the dividends for the use and benefit of the charity-schools in the said city, called the Blue Schools, of which the mayor was one of the visitors.

Out of the stock thus bequeathed 120*l.* was sold for payment of the legacy-duty, and 1,080*l.* stands in the name of the mayor and commonalty.

Of the dividends, amounting to 32*l.* 8*s.*, 13*l.* 10*s.* is divided half-yearly amongst the resident brothers and sisters of St. John's Hospital, and the same sum amongst those of St. Nicholas; and the yearly sum of 5*l.* 8*s.* is paid to the treasurer of the Blue-coat Schools, which are principally supported by the dean and chapter and voluntary contributions.

Braddon's Charity.

Braddon's Charity.

Mary Braddon, by her Will, bearing date 6th March 1834, and proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed several annuities and legacies to certain charitable institutions which are chiefly supported by voluntary contributions, and consequently not subject to this inquiry; viz., to the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge, and to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, after the death of Francis Pullee, an annuity of 45*l.*; to the Canterbury Penny Charity, a legacy of 30*l.*; Kent and Canterbury Hospital, clear of duty, a legacy of 200*l.*; and to the Canterbury Lying-in Hospital, a legacy of 50*l.* She then bequeathed "unto and for the use and benefit of the several in-brothers and in-sisters for the time being, and bonâ fide resident in the several hospitals of or in the vicinity of the city of Canterbury, whose present yearly income to each such in-brother and in-sister does not exceed the sum of 25*l.*, an augmentation or yearly increase of the sum of 5*l.* to each and every in-brother and in-sister, for ever;" and she directed her executors to pay to or invest in the names of the governors, masters, trustees, or acting patrons of the said several hospitals a sum of money equal to meet such yearly augmentation, and that the then resident in-brothers and in-sisters, during such non-residence, should forfeit his or her proportion of such augmentation, and that such proportions should from time to time be paid over to the then resident in-brothers and in-sisters, in equal shares; and she further directed that the several trustees of the said charities should insert the account, in a proper book, of these her intentions for the benefit of their several foundations, so that the knowledge of the same might be perpetuated; and she appointed Rest Flint and the late James Warren her executors.

The testatrix died in July 1834; but her affairs have not yet been brought to a settlement, nor at present has any sum been appropriated for the payment of the charitable bequests contained in her Will.

There was 9,100*l.* Consols standing in the name of the testatrix at the time of her death, and her personal property was sworn under 25,000*l.*

At the period when the inquiry took place a suit was pending in the Court of Chancery, originally instituted on behalf of Mary Decaufour, who claimed as next of kin to the testatrix, for an account of the personal estate and the produce of the sale of the real estate.

Upon her death, in June 1835, the suit was revived by Robert Sankey and others, claiming as legatees under a Will, purporting to have been made by the said Mary Decaufour, the validity of which is matter of dispute.

The executors have called for a return from the different hospitals in Canterbury and the neighbourhood, for an account of the income of the several in-brothers and in-sisters, which accounts have accordingly been furnished.

The following appear to be the only claimants for this charity; but there seem to be so many points on which doubts may be suggested, that we have thought it right to certify the case to the Attorney-General:—

St. John's, Northgate, Hospital.—Founded for 60 brethren and sisters, of whom 40 were required to be resident; 31 brothers and sisters actually resident in 32 houses, each receiving, from the foundation and various legacies, about 10*l.* 12*s.*

St. Nicholas' Hospital.—Like foundation; 21 brethren and sisters actually resident in 21 houses (three houses having fallen down some years before the death of the testatrix, which will probably be rebuilt as soon as the funds will permit), receiving each annually, from the foundation and various benefactions, about 15*l.* 5*s.*

Sir Roger Manwood's Hospital.—Six inmates, all resident, receiving under 10*l.* a-year.

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Maynard's Hospital.—Six, exclusive of the prior, receiving each an annual stipend of | 17 | 9 | 0 |
| Various benefactions | 3 | 9 | 0 |
| | 20 | 18 | 0 |
| The yearly average of fines received during the last 30 years | 2 | 17 | 1 |
| £ | 23 | 15 | 1 |

The leases are for 30 years, and generally renewed at the expiration of 10 years. If the average is taken for 10 years the income would appear to be a few shillings above 25*l.*:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Prior's salary stipend, and various benefactions as above | 20 | 18 | 0 |
| Additional allowance for reading prayers | 4 | 4 | 0 |
| £ | 25 | 2 | 0 |

Harris's Almshouses (not called Hospital).—Five almspeople, about 12*l.* 10*s.* each.

Smith's Almshouses (not called Hospital).—Eight almspeople, about 12*l.* each.

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| In Eastbridge Hospital there are ten brothers and sisters, receiving each, from the foundation, an annual stipend of | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| Allowance for wood | 1 | 5 | 0 |
| Share of various benefactions | 4 | 3 | 3 |
| Exceeding the sum of 25*l.* by 8*s.* 3*d.* £ | 25 | 8 | 3 |

LOAN CHARITIES.

SIR THOMAS WHITE'S.

Loan Charities. Sir Thomas White's.

For an account of the charity of Sir Thomas White, under which 104*l.* is payable annually in rotation to 24 corporations, of which Canterbury is one, see 8th Report, p. 585.

Of these sums 4*l.* is allowed for the expenses of management, and the residue is applicable, in loans of 25*l.* each for 10 years without interest, to the freemen of the respective towns.

The city of Canterbury ought to have received 1,100*l.* for loans since the foundation of the charity; but about the year 1725 a suit having been instituted in the Court of Chancery, 24*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.* was deducted for expenses out of one instalment of 100*l.*, leaving 1,075*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.* to be accounted for.

Sums of 25*l.* each are lent out to freemen, resident and engaged in trade within the city, on application to the mayor and commonalty assembled in burghmote. The parties are required to find two sureties, and to execute a bond at their own expense, amounting to 1*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.* The only restriction on the candidates for these loans is, that such as have purchased their freedom are by a by-law declared ineligible till after the expiration of a year; except for this regulation the loan might have been applied for, for the mere purpose of enabling the party to purchase his freedom.

The sum of 1,075*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.* is accounted for by the corporation as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Outstanding on 32 good bonds | 800 | 0 | 0 |
| Remaining due on a bond of 1832 | 5 | 5 | 0 |
| Due on a bond of 1699 (irrecoverable) | 12 | 10 | 0 |
| In cash for loans | 257 | 5 | 6 |
| | 1,075 | 0 | 6 |
| Ditto several sums of 4*l.* for management, not separated from the general cash balance | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 1,095 | 0 | 6 |

The balance of 257*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* and 20*l.* are due from the representatives of the late James Warren, who died in 1835, holding the office of chamberlain.

In 1831 the whole of the money belonging to this charity, except 7*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.*, was out on bond. At the annual audit of the accounts the balance in cash has varied in the last 10 years from 32*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.* to 457*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.*

PARAMORE'S.

Paramore's.

Thomas Paramore, by his Will, bearing date 22d December 1636, and proved at Canterbury, directed his nephew to pay to the mayor and aldermen of the city of Canterbury 100*l.*, to be lent to five poor shopkeepers of the said city freely, they putting in good security to the said mayor and aldermen to repay the same at the end of every five years, the parties to be appointed, with the consent of the mayor and aldermen, by the house of burghmote.

This legacy was accepted 24th July 1638.

No applications have been made for loans from this charity; the terms on which Sir Thomas White's are bestowed being in every respect more beneficial to the borrower.

The account of this charity stands thus:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lent out on bond in 1694, and irrecoverable | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| Balance due from representatives of J. Warren | 80 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 100 | 0 | 0 |

JOHNSON'S.

Johnson's.

Edward Johnson, by his Will, bearing date 6th January 1677, proved at Canterbury, bequeathed 100*l.*, to be paid to the chamber of the city of Canterbury, and disposed of, at the discretion of the mayor and chamberlain, and two eldest aldermen, to 10 poor tradesmen, freemen of the city; 10*l.* to remain severally in their hands for 10 years, without interest, giving good security for the same.

This charity is in circumstances similar to the preceding.

The account stands:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lent out on old bond, and lost | 30 | 0 | 0 |
| Balance due from late J. Warren | 70 | 0 | 0 |

WHITFIELD'S.

Whitfield's

John Whitfield, by his Will, bearing date 23rd March 1687, directed his executors to pay 150*l.* into the chamber of the city of Canterbury, to be lent out to poor tradesmen, freemen of the city, in sums of 25*l.* each, gratis, for five years, as the house of burghmote should direct; and he directed that the owner of the house wherein he then dwelt should have liberty to inspect the securities once in three or four years, and to present two persons for approval every five years to receive the said loan.

For these loans also no applications are now made.

Robinson's Charity.

Robinson's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 28th April 1642, between Henry Robinson, of the one part; and Clyve Carter and others, the then mayor, recorder and 11 aldermen of the city of Canterbury, of the other part; reciting that the said Henry Robinson had delivered to the chamberlain of the said city 100*l.* for the purposes thereinafter mentioned; it was declared that the chamberlain for the time being should place the same out at interest on such securities as should be approved of by the mayor, recorder and aldermen and that he should pay 5*l.*, the interest thereof, to some honest young man, born within the said city (who should have served seven years' apprenticeship in the said city to some trade, having been bound thereto by the churchwardens and overseers of some parish within the said city, according to the statute), towards the setting him up in his trade; such young man to be nominated by the mayor, recorder and aldermen, or the major part of them, of whom the mayor or recorder should be one, the name and time of payment to be entered in a book kept by the chamberlain for that purpose; the said young man to give bond for repayment of the said money, in case he should, within two years, give over the trade to which he was bound apprentice; the overplus of the interest, after payment of the sum of 5*s.* and all expenses, to be reserved by the chamberlain for the like purpose. And it was provided that, if in any year there should not be any such young man as aforesaid, the said mayor, &c., should appoint some other young man of the said city, and born therein, who should have served an apprenticeship to any trade; and that it should be lawful for the said mayor, &c., to purchase any lands or tenements, so that the yearly profits should be employed in manner before-mentioned.

The 100*l.* above-mentioned was placed out at interest till 1662, when an order having been made for subscribing 100*l.*, according to an act for a royal gift or present to His Majesty, but there being no money in the chamber of the city to satisfy the same, it was thought fit and ordered by a court of burghmote that the 100*l.* given by Henry Robinson should be called in and paid to the use of His Majesty; but that the interest thereon, being 6*l.* per annum, should be taken out of the chamber, and allowed yearly in the chamberlain's accounts.

By an order of a court of burghmote, held 16th September 1673, it was ordered that the 100*l.* of the gift of Henry Robinson should be bestowed on a purchase, to the end that the same might be better preserved and continued, and that the same should be paid to Marks Berry for the purchase of a messuage and land in the borough of St. Martin.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 15th and 16th September 1673, Marks Berry, in consideration of 166*l.*, conveyed to Squire Bevertin, chamberlain of the city, and his heirs, a messuage, with the Croft Close thereto belonging, on which an old malthouse stood, in the parish of St. Martin; and also a new brick malthouse, with a pond adjoining, with a barn and ground lying between the barn and malthouse.

In the covenant against encumbrances is excepted a lease made by T. Baker to G. Bingham of a piece of land, containing 6 rods by 4, and of the pond, cistern and pipes as they then lay through the premises, for 100 years from Michaelmas, 12 Charles II.

The premises thus purchased appear to have been demised by Squire Bevertin, 7th September 1673, to the said Marks Berry for 21 years, at the yearly rent of 10*l.*, reserving to the lessor liberty to enter the premises, to look after the pipes, and with other covenants relating to certain waterworks there; and on 7th September 1784 the mayor and commonalty demised these premises to Robert Thomas Pyott, reserving the like liberty, for the term of 99 years from 10th October then next, at the yearly rent of 4*l.* 10*s.*

This rent is received by the chamberlain, but nothing is paid in respect of the charity of Henry Robinson.

In Bunce's Benefaction-book the particulars of this charity are stated, with a reference to the several documents above noticed; and it is there mentioned that the charity had not been applied since 1739, but that the circumstance arose from there having been no application for the money.

It seems that the corporation are liable in some manner to make good this charity, and that it is a fit subject for the consideration of the Attorney-general.

Nixon's Charity.

Nixon's Charity.

Dorothy Nixon, by her codicil annexed to her Will, and bearing date 18th February 1729, bequeathed to her nephews, Herbert, Thomas, and George Randolph, 400*l.* upon trust, to lay out the same in the purchase of lands, and in the mean time to place the same out at interest; and declared her will to be that the clear rents or interest should be applied towards putting out one girl apprentice, out of one of the charity-schools within the city and liberty of Canterbury, or, if all the charity-schools should fail, out of the parish of St. Margaret.

It appears from the accounts that, in 1731, 400*l.* was placed out on private security; that, in 1753, 100*l.*, accruing from the interest, was added to the principal; and that, in 1805, the sum of 500*l.*, having been laid out on mortgage, was paid in and invested in the purchase of 828*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.* Consols.

About the year 1823 proceedings were instituted in the Court of Chancery, for the purpose of recovering from Herbert Randolph a balance due to the charity, on which it was ordered that 356*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* found to be due from him, with 24*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.*, the dividends that had accrued on the stock, should, after payment of the costs of the parties thereout, be invested in the name of the accountant-general, and that the whole of the stock should be transferred into his name.

Canterbury.

By deed-poll, bearing date 30th November 1824, executed under the direction of one of the Masters of the Court of Chancery, reciting the said Will; and that the executors had died, leaving Herbert Randolph, then of Abingdon, on whom the execution of the trusts had devolved; and further reciting that a petition was presented 3d July 1823 to the Master of the Rolls by the mayor and chamberlain; that it had been referred to the master to approve of proper persons to be trustees of the said charity, in place of the said Herbert Randolph, and that the master had appointed John Cooper, Henry Cooper, Osborne Snoulten, John Nutt, James S. Browne, and another, since deceased, trustees for the said charity; that there was then standing, in the name of the accountant-general, 1,099*l.* 4*s.* 5*d.* Consols, the dividends on which were, by order of the Court, to be paid to the said trustees, or one of them; the said trustees declared that they would apply the dividends to the purposes contained in the codicil of the said Dorothy Nixon.

This stock still stands in the name of the accountant-general, and the dividends, amounting to 32*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.*, were received by the late James Warren, who held the office of chamberlain, and died in 1835.

Out of the income apprentices have been placed out; boys out of the Grey-coat School, and girls out of the Blue-coat School, both of which are supported chiefly by the dean and chapter; the trustees visit these schools annually in April, and applications are then made to them for the benefit of the charity.

The usual fee with the boys is 12*l.*, and with the girls 6*l.*, and 1*l.* 1*s.* is paid to the town-clerk for the indentures with each apprentice.

Since the last appointment of trustees 258*l.* has been paid for 28 apprentices' fees, and 29*l.* 19*s.* for the indentures; 3*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* for receiving the dividends and a power of attorney.

The balance in hand when the accounts were made up, 13th April 1835, was 44*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.*, but since that period three boys have been placed out, with premiums of 36*l.*, which, with the charge for the indentures, will amount to 39*l.* 3*s.*; but two half-years' dividends having accrued since April 1835, the balance at the time this inquiry took place would be 38*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*

OVYNGTON'S CHARITY.

Ovyngton's Charity.

Thomas Ovyngton, by Will, bearing date 24th January 1577, gave a piece of pasture, containing one acre, in the city of Canterbury, beside the place called the Dongeon, to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury, and their successors, for the relief of the poor of the said city, and to the maintenance and sustentation of the stock of the hospital of the poor, then called the House of Correction.

By deed-poll, bearing date 6th April 1578, Mary Ovyngton, daughter and heiress of Thomas Ovyngton, in accomplishment of the above Will, granted the above-mentioned acre of pasture-land to Simon Brome and others, to the use of the mayor and commonalty, and their successors.

At a court of burghmote, held 26th March, 33 Eliz., reciting that a gift of the timber-yard had theretofore been made to the mayor and commonalty by Thomas Ovyngton by his Will, and afterwards by deed from his daughter Mary, and that by a deed then shown in court it seemed that the same ground was entailed by the said Thomas Ovyngton to Christopher Daggs, to the use of the heirs of the said Thomas by his wife Margaret, so that it appeared that the gift to the said mayor and commonalty was good only during the life of the said Mary, she being the only heir of the said Thomas and Margaret; it was, at the request of Matthew Goodhew, husband of the said Mary, ordered that he should have a lease for 21 years at 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, so as he and the said Mary should levy a fine, and bar the said entail, but if it should appear that the said Thomas Ovyngton did in his lifetime any act to bar the entail the lease should be void.

A lease was accordingly granted to Matthew Goodhew for 21 years at 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

The corporation have ever since been in possession of this property.

By indenture of lease, bearing date 2d April 1835, the premises were demised by the description of a piece of land, called the Timber-yard, in the parish of St. Mildred, containing by estimation 2R. 27P., to Osborne Snoulten, late chamberlain, for 30 years, from 25th December 1834, at the yearly rent of 30*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee that, in case he should at any time erect any messuage or messuages on the demised premises, he would erect the same in a substantial manner, not less than three stories high, and keep the same in repair; and the lessors covenanted that, if thereto requested by the lessee, his executors, &c., at or immediately before the expiration of the said term, they would grant another lease to the said lessee, his executors, &c., for the further term of 30 years, to commence from the expiration of the term thereby granted, at the same yearly rent, and containing the like covenants and agreements, they taking a counterpart, and paying a fine to the mayor and commonalty, which new intended lease should be granted and considered as a beneficial lease, renewable every 10 years on the payment of a fine, such fines to be fixed in the usual manner of fines paid on the renewal of the leases granted by the mayor and commonalty (that is, on taking $1\frac{1}{2}$ year's improved yearly value).

The property had been put up to auction at the reserved rent of 30*l.*, but no person bid for it, and it was afterwards let by private contract to Mr. Snoulten.

The rent of this estate has been always carried to the chamberlain's account, and applied to the general purposes of the corporation, with the exception of the annual sum of 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, the amount of the rent reserved by the old lease. This sum has been given to five poor women at 1*s.* 4*d.* a-quarter, in the same manner as French's and Webb's Charities.

Canterbury.

Ovyngton's Charity, continued.

It appears that the charity is entitled to the whole rent of these premises, and, in such case, the covenant for perpetual renewal contained in the present lease would in a court of equity be declared void.*

French's Charity.

French's Charity.

Barnard French, by his Will, bearing date 2d August 1584, and proved in London, bequeathed to the poor people of Canterbury 30*l.*; and he also gave to the poor of Canterbury 10*l.* more, and three little tenements in the parish of St. Mary Bredney, with condition that the same should be let to three poor folk putting in sureties to repair them "free with rent 10 years, at the discretion of his executors."

The three tenements above mentioned are not known, and there is no evidence to show that the corporation ever became possessed thereof.

But in respect of the two sums of 30*l.* and 10*l.*, 4*l.* is charged annually to the account of the corporation, and disposed of with the following charity.

Webb's Charity.

Webb's Charity.

By indenture bearing date 30th June 1592, between the mayor and commonalty of Canterbury of the one part, and the master, wardens, &c., of the Company of Mercers, and the executors of the Will of John Webb, of the other part, reciting that the said John Webb, by his Will, bearing date 28th January 1588, bequeathed to the poor people in Canterbury 50*l.*, which sum had been paid to the chamberlain, the said mayor and commonalty covenanted to pay 5*l.* yearly to 20 poor folk inhabiting within the liberties of the said city, to be nominated, as vacancies should occur by death, by the mayor and four of the aldermen who should have served the office of mayor, 5*s.* to each.

The yearly sum of 5*l.* is charged to the account of the corporation.

The chamberlain distributes, as French's and Webb's Charity, to each of 36 poor women living in the city 1*s.* 3*d.* a-quarter, the vacancies in the list being filled up, as they occur, by himself.

Watson's Charity.

Watson's Charity.

John Watson, by his Will (bearing date, according to Hasted, in 1633), devised to the mayor and commonalty, and their successors, two messuages or tenements, and gardens, with their appurtenances, in the parish of St. Margaret, and a piece of land, containing by estimation 1A., lying without the walls of the city near St. Mildred's churchyard, to the intent that they should employ the whole rents and profits for the buying and providing yearly good russet cloth, to make gowns for the poor, aged, impotent and decrepid persons, inhabitants in the city of Canterbury, within the several parishes thereinafter mentioned, viz., St. Margaret, St. Mildred, St. Mary Bredin, St. Mary Northgate, St. Paul within the said city, St. Mary Magdalen, All Saints, St. Peter's, Holy Cross Westgate within the walls, St. George, St. Alphage, St. Andrew, and St. Mary Bredman; the said gowns to be made and delivered unto them at the Feast of St. Andrew, in rotation following,—the first year to the poor of St. Margaret, St. Mildred, and St. Mary Bredin; the second to the poor of St. Mary Northgate, St. Paul, and St. Mary Magdalen; third to the poor of All Saints, St. Peter, and Holy Cross Westgate; and the fourth to the poor of St. George, St. Andrew, and St. Mary; and he expressed his desire to be that such poor should be the most miserable, poorest, aged, blind, impotent and decrepid persons of the said parishes, and above the age of 50 years, the same to be at the election of the mayor of the said city, and four of the ancientest aldermen; that the chamberlain should have full power to demise and let the premises for terms of three years, at the best yearly rent, without fine; that he should receive the rents and provide the gowns, and yearly account for his receipts and disbursements to the mayor and four of the eldest aldermen, on the first Tuesday in December; that the said chamberlain should receive 10*s.* for his labour, and that 5*s.* 8*d.* should be paid to the mayor and aldermen.

The property belonging to this charity consists of—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. A house, formerly two, in Castle-street, in the parish of St. Margaret, let to William Bedwell, on a lease for 14 years from Michaelmas 1825, at the yearly rent of . . . | 36 | 0 | 0 |
| 2. A piece of meadow-land in St. Mildred's, near the churchyard, containing about 1A., let to John Fortune, for 14 years from Lady-day 1830, at the yearly rent of . . | 6 | 0 | 0 |

These were let by auction.

The accounts are kept by the chamberlain for the time being, who pays for the insurance of the premises 16*s.* 6*d.*, two fee-farm rents, amounting to 14*s.* 2*d.* and 16*s.* 8*d.* instead of 15*s.* 8*d.* allowed by the Will to the accountant, and the mayor and aldermen.

Out of the residue materials are purchased for making from 75 to 100 gowns, according to the funds in hand and the price of the material.

A sufficient quantity of stuff, with lining, &c., is delivered to each poor woman who is appointed, and when it is made up she shows it to the trustee by whom she was appointed, and receives 1*s.* 6*d.* for making it up.

The women are appointed by the mayor and four of the senior aldermen, each nominating a certain number; they are chosen out of the different parishes mentioned in the Will of the donor, but according to a different rotation, as follows:—

1st. St. Margaret, St. Mildred, St. Mary Bredman, St. Mary Bredin.

2d. St. Mary Northgate, St. Paul, St. Mary Magdalen, and St. Andrew.

* Information having been received that the town-council have given directions for the payment of the annual rent and a sum of 15*l.* received from the last tenant for dilapidations, to the charity trustees, it seems unnecessary to certify this case to the Attorney-general.

3d. All Saints, St. Peter, and Westgate within.

4th. St. George the Martyr, and St. Alphage.

Though St. Martin is neither named in the Will nor in the preceding list (that being the only parish omitted), poor persons of that parish have been occasionally appointed.

In September 1835 there was a balance in hand of 53*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*, and since 1827 it has never fallen short of 30*l.*

There seems to be no sufficient reason for retaining so large a balance.

COGAN'S CHARITY.

Cogan's Charity.

John Cogan, by his Will, bearing date 27th July 1657, reciting that he had lately purchased lands and tenements in the parishes of St. Mildred and St. Mary Castle, in the city of Canterbury, and in Thanington, in the county of Kent, of the yearly value of 35*l.*, which he hoped in 10 years would improve in yearly value by 10*l.*, and which he intended to dispose of for the encouragement of maid-servants to continue in service for six or seven years together, he therefore willed and devised the sum of 5*l.* apiece to any such three maid-servants as should, without compulsion, dwell with any master or mistress, not being their own kindred, within the city of Canterbury, for six or seven years together, without shifting their service; and he directed that such master or mistress should give a certificate of such service, and that their wages had not exceeded 50*s.* a-year, to the mayor, recorder and three or more of the aldermen of the said city, for the time being; and he further directed that the overplus, after keeping the said tenements in good repair, should be employed by the said mayor, recorder and three of the said ancient aldermen, for the time being, in clothing six fatherless maiden children, from the age of 6 to 12 years, each to have a petticoat and waistcoat of coloured kersey, one pair of shoes and one pair of stockings, on Christmay-day; and that they should go through the city of Canterbury, from parish to parish, as the said overplus would extend.

|---|---|---|---|
| A messuage called the Stone House, with four pieces of garden and hop-ground, containing together 8A. 0R. 34P. in Wincheap-street, demised by the mayor, recorder and three eldest aldermen, to Mary and Thomas Hayward, for 14 years from Michaelmas 1829, at the yearly rent of | 55 | 0 | 0 |
| Two pieces of hop-ground in Thanington and St. Mildred, containing 4A. 1R. 25P., demised by the same parties to Thomas Lever Burch, for the like term, at the yearly rent of | 21 | 0 | 0 |
| Six several pieces of hop-ground, garden and meadow, containing 4A. 2R. 29P., in Thanington, demised to John Collard Sankey, for the like term, at the yearly rent of | 25 | 0 | 0 |

These premises were all let by auction, after public advertisement.

As the income has increased, the mayor, recorder and three senior aldermen, the acting trustees, have increased the number of portions given to maid-servants, and the number of girls to be clothed.

They meet annually in September, and select from 5 to 10 maid-servants who have lived in the same service for seven years within the city of Canterbury, and who produce a certificate of such service from their late master or mistress according to a form drawn out for the purpose, which is furnished to the candidates by the town-clerk, on the payment of a shilling. The trustees each nominate an equal number, and, if no objection is made to the nomination on the day of meeting, the persons are appointed and receive the sum of 5*l.*

At the same meeting the trustees determine what number of girls shall be clothed, the number of late years having been 75. They are nominated, an equal number by each trustee, and on the day before Christmas-day a frock, a pair of shoes, a pair of stockings, and a handkerchief, are delivered to each of them in the town-hall.

Hyett's Charity.

Hyett's Charity.

James Hyett, by his Will, bearing date 23d December 1794, proved in London, bequeathed to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury 200*l.* Four per Cent. Consols, in trust, to dispose of the yearly dividends in the purchase of great coats of woollen cloth, to be given away about Christmas, yearly, to poor aged and decrepid men above the age of 50 years, inhabiting in the parish of St. Mildred, such men to be nominated by the mayor and the four eldest aldermen, and directed that this bequest, with the accounts of the receipts and payments and the names of the poor men, should be entered in a book; that the charity should not be given more than once to the same persons so long as there should be other proper objects; that the yearly accounts should be allowed by the mayor and four senior aldermen, or any two of them, whereof the mayor should be one, yearly, within three months after the said charity should be given away.

This sum of 200*l.* stock, now Three and a half per Cents., stands, with other stock, in the name of the mayor and commonalty.

The mayor and four senior aldermen appoint five aged men annually, of the parish of St. Mildred, to receive great coats, the cost of which falls rather short of the amount of the dividends.

In November 1835, after paying 5*l.* 10*s.* for the coats given away in the preceding November, there was a balance of 3*l.* 19*s.* 3*d.* in the hands of the chamberlain, and 10 coats were therefore given away, the payment for which does not take place in the usual course until November 1836, before which time another yearly dividend will have become payable.

Whitehurst's Charity.

Whitehurst's Charity.

John Whitehurst, by his Will, bearing date 12th December 1827, directed that all his personal property, after the payment of his debts, &c., should be laid out in the purchase of Three per Cent. Consols, and, after the decease of two annuitants therein named, bequeathed the same to the mayor and commonalty, and their successors, in trust, to dispose of the dividends every 3d of September, being his birth-day, or if it should be on a Sunday, on the Monday following, in sums of 10*s.* apiece, and no more, to poor aged, infirm, and decrepid men and women above the age of 50 years, whose weekly earnings should not exceed 12*s.*; and who should reside within the precincts of the cathedral, the precincts of the archbishop's palace, and the several parishes within the city of Canterbury, and the county of the same city, including that part of St. Paul which was in the county of Kent, such poor men and women to be of sober life and conversation, and who should not have received parish relief for one whole year preceding the day of distribution, to be elected by the mayor, recorder, chamberlain and three eldest aldermen; and he directed that a book should be provided, in which should be entered this bequest, and the names of the poor men and women who should receive the charity; that it should not be given two years in succession to the same person so long as other proper objects might be found; that if any person should be found to have imposed upon the trustees, not being duly qualified, or should have abused or misapplied the charity, they should be wholly excluded thereafter; that the yearly accounts should be passed by the said mayor, &c., within three months after the distribution, and that the accounts should be shown on all seasonable occasions to any persons of respectability, being resident housekeepers, paying scot and lot, within the precincts and parishes above mentioned; his only aim being to assist the deserving and necessitous poor, who could not thrive so well by their honest industry as when younger and more able, and that should not receive relief from the poor-rates.

In respect of this charity there is 1,042*l.* 10*s.* Consols standing in the name of the corporation.

The dividends, amounting to 31*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*, are received by the chamberlain, and disposed of every 3d December, as far as it will extend, in the payment of 10*s.* apiece to poor persons nominated by the mayor, chamberlain and three senior aldermen.

The persons are appointed strictly according to the directions of the donor; the objects are generally widows or aged women.

A book is kept containing an extract from the Will, with an annual statement of the accounts and the names of the parties receiving the charity, with their residences and ages.

DECAUFOUR'S CHARITY.

Decaufour's Charity.

Daniel Decaufour, by his Will, bearing date 10th October 1832, directed that a sufficient part of his funded property should be set apart for the payment of three several annuities, viz., 20*l.* to Mary Lemoine, 30*l.* to Mary Baker, and 45*l.* to Amey Pullee, for their respective lives; and, after the respective deaths of the several annuitants, he bequeathed the stock so set apart to the mayor, recorder, chamberlain and two senior aldermen of the city of Canterbury, in trust, to apply the dividends as therein mentioned, viz., as to the first-mentioned annuity of 20*l.*, to divide the same equally every 31st August, being his birth-day, unless it should fall on a Sunday, and then on the Monday following, between two poor widows of the age of 60 years at least, who should have lived for the last 15 years or upwards and should then live, in credit and respectability, in any of the 14 parishes in Canterbury or in that part of St. Paul and Holy Cross, Westgate, which was without the city, or in St. Dunstan's, in the county of Kent, and who should have borne and should then bear an unexceptionable general good character, and should be recommended by the officiating minister, churchwardens and guardians of the poor, for the time being, or the major part of them, of the several parishes wherein such applicants should reside, but he directed that the same charity should not be given more than once to the same person for the space of four years at the least; and as to the second annuity of 30*l.*, in trust, to dispose of the same yearly, on the said 31st August, or the following day, in equal proportions, to four young men, sons of industrious and worthy parents, or, if otherwise, whose own good conduct should equally entitle them to the appellation of industrious and worthy, who should have been bound out with a premium not exceeding 21*l.* to, and should have resided with, and should within 12 calendar months preceding every such annual distribution have served an apprenticeship of seven years to, one master or mistress, his or her assigns, in the said city, or in that part of the parish of Holy Cross, Westgate, which was in the county of Kent, and who could produce testimonials of good conduct during such apprenticeship; and in case there should not be any or a sufficient number duly qualified and making application to receive the said charity, that the same, or so much thereof as should not have been disposed of in any year, should be divided equally between a like or less number of maid-servants, who should have lived for seven years then preceding with one master or mistress, not being a relation, and at wages not exceeding 6*l.* a-year, in all or any of the said parishes last mentioned, on producing a certificate of such service, preference to be given to those who should have lived seven years with their first master or mistress; and that no person who had received the said charity, or that of Cogan, or any other charity in the same city for maid-servants, should be again entitled to receive the same for seven years; and as to the said annuity of 45*l.*, in trust, to dispose of the same within the first 14 days of November, in every year, in the purchase of 10 great coats of woollen cloth, and 10 long cloaks of proper cloth for that purpose, to be then distributed to an equal number of poor men and women of the age of 60 at least, who should belong to and reside in some one of the parishes within the said city, and the county part of St. Paul's and Holy Cross, Westgate, and in St. Dunstan's; and he directed that in such distribution one coat and one cloak at the least should, in preference, be given to one poor man and one poor woman of the age of 60 years at least, who should have been for not less than 10 years preceding constantly resident in that part of Holy Cross, Westgate, which was in the county of Kent, or in St. Dunstan's; and, in case of default, that the other parishes should enjoy the said charity exclusively; and that such poor persons should be recommended by the officiating minister, churchwardens and guardians, or, in the country parts of the said parishes, the overseers of the poor of the said several parishes, or the major part of them. And he further directed that the said charity should not be given to any person who should have been an inmate of any workhouse within the last 10 years, and not to the same person more than once in four years; and that every person misapplying or abusing the said charity by sale, pawning, or other disposition of the said clothing, should thenceforth for ever be excluded: and he directed that the residue should, as often as the same should be sufficient for a premium of 21*l.* and for the costs of the indenture and stamp duty to which the same might be chargeable, be given for binding out any poor boy belonging to the said city apprentice to some respectable master established in business for seven years at least; and that the overplus of the said dividends, after payment of any other charges incident to the said trust, should remain as part of the accumulating fund: and he thereby directed that the said mayor, recorder, chamberlain and two senior aldermen, should provide a book, in the beginning whereof should be written the bequests touching the said several charities, and an account of the receipts and disbursements in respect thereof, with the names of the persons from time to time receiving the same; and that such accounts should be regularly allowed and signed by the said trustees within three months after the said charities respectively should have been so disposed of: which trust-moneys he directed should be transferred clear of legacy-duty, or otherwise: and he gave, after the decease of his sister Mary Braddon, to the master of the hospital of St. John, Northgate, and his successors, 1,000*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Annuities, on the trust mentioned in a former part of this Report.

Canterbury.

| | £. |

| He also bequeathed to the hospital of St. Nicholas, Harbledown, like stock to the amount of . . . . . | 1000 |
| To Smith's Hospital, Longport . . . . . | 500 |
| And to Harris's Almshouses, Wincheap . . . . . | 500 |

He also gave, clear of legacy-duty, the following sums of money:

| | £. |
|---|---|
| To the General Kent and Canterbury Hospital . . . | 100 |
| To Wyver's Charity School . . . . . | 50 |
| To the Canterbury Lying-in Charity . . . . . | 50 |
| To the Canterbury Penny Charity . . . . . | 25 |
| To the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, London . . . . . | 100 |
| To the Female Orphan Asylum, London . . . . . | 100 |
| To the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge . . | 100 |

The particulars of the legacies to the different endowed hospitals, &c., will be found in other parts of this Report.

The pecuniary legacies to the other charitable institutions do not fall within the scope of this inquiry, as they are supported chiefly by voluntary contributions.

The three annuitants named in the Will were all living when this inquiry took place.

Mary Lemoine is about 80, Mary Baker about 65, and Amey Pullee about 50 years of age.

There is standing in the names of the executors a sum of stock, Three and a half per Cents., sufficient to produce 95*l.* a-year.

Tillard's Charity.

Tillard's Charity.

James Tillard, esq., who died in 1828, bequeathed to the trustees, or directors for the time being, of the national schools at Canterbury, for educating the children of the poor, 5000*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, in trust to apply the dividends thereof, or so much of the same as should be necessary, in keeping the said school in repair, and the residue to be laid out in promoting the seminary for infant children of the said school, in buying shoes and stockings for them, and other articles, and in paying the mistress's salary.

By a codicil annexed to his Will he bequeathed 1000*l.* more like stock to the said governors and directors in trust to appropriate the dividends solely to augmenting the infant part of the said school, providing the children with clothes and other comforts annually.

At a committee of the subscribers to the national school, held 13th November 1828, the Venerable James Croft, archdeacon; George Gipps, esq.; Deane John Parker, esq.; and the Rev. James Hamilton, were appointed trustees for this legacy, and 5,400*l.* Consols (the residue having been sold for the payment of the duty) was transferred into their names.

The dividends, amounting to 162*l.* a-year, are applied in repairing the school conducted on the national system in St. Dunstan's, and in teaching and clothing the children, who attend in one of the rooms appropriated to the infant school.

The expenses incurred on this branch of the establishment are kept distinct from the general account, except in some small matters; and with regard to these an arrangement has been adopted to pay one-third from this charity on account of the infant school, and the residue is charged to the general fund.

When the accounts were made up at the end of 1835 there was a balance in hand of 20*l.* 14*s.* 8*d.*

Smith's Charity.

Smith's Charity.

By indenture bearing date 25th July 1638, between John Smith, parson of Wickhambreux, of the one part, and Hammon Lewkner and eight others of the other part, the said John Smith granted to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a yearly rent of 5*l.* issuing out of two pieces of marsh-land containing by estimation 10 acres, and called Shereives Marsh in Wickham, payable quarterly at the four usual feasts, with a power of distress in case of non-payment, on trust that they should therewith provide and procure that the usual Divine service of the church of England should be read at four several times in the year, and that at each of those four times a sermon should be preached by a licensed preacher to the prisoners in the gaol of the city of Canterbury as near before the several quarter-sessions of the said city as conveniently might be; such service to be in the church of Holy Cross, Westgate, if the ordinary would consent thereto, and if not, in a convenient chamber in the gaoler's house, for the instruction of the said prisoners to move them to repentance; and that the said trustees should provide the like service and sermons to be performed and preached to the prisoners in the gaol for the county of Kent, then kept in the parish of St.

Canterbury.

Dunstan's, as near before the quarter-sessions of the county as might be, in some convenient chamber of the gaoler's house; and that the said trustees should pay to every such preacher on each of the said four days 10*s.*, and also 2*s.* 6*d.* to be bestowed by him, 6*d.* to the gaoler for preparing the room for the premises, and 2*s.* amongst the prisoners; and, to prevent trouble, it was agreed that the same should be paid to such preacher at the archdeacon's registry. And it was provided that, after the death of the said John Smith, the Archbishop of Canterbury, his commissary, or the Archdeacon of Canterbury, or such of them as should be living in or about the said city, should have the nomination of the preachers, but that the preacher to the prisoners in the city gaol should be living within the deanery of Canterbury, and the preacher to the county gaol should be living in the deanery of Bridge, Westbere, or Eltham. And it was further provided that, whenever the number of trustees should be reduced to four, the survivors should convey the annuity to four other men of worth and quality living in or near the city of Canterbury, and that the Archdeacon of Canterbury should be requested to commit one part of this indenture to his register, there to be preserved.

By indenture bearing date 6th October 1680, reciting the indenture of 1638, and from which recital the above abstract is taken, and further reciting that Sir Henry Oxenden, the only surviving trustee, had, by indenture of this date intended to be enrolled in the Court of Chancery, assigned the said rent-charge of 5*l.* to Sir James Oxenden, William Mann, Thomas Beck, D. D., George Oxenden, Henry Oxenden, William Nutt, William Kingsley, William Courthop, and Henry Marsh, and their heirs, it was declared that the said assignment was upon the trusts declared in the indenture of 1638.

It does not appear that there has been any subsequent assignment to new trustees, and it is not known who was the survivor of those above named.

The present county gaol is not in the parish of St. Dunstan, a new gaol having been built in St. Augustine's.

Nothing appears to have been paid in respect of this charity for several years. The property charged with the payment of 5*l.* was purchased in 1811 by Thomas Wood, esq., of Chislet, and was settled by him in 1834, with other property, on the marriage of his daughter. The conveyance to Mr. Wood was by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 25th and 26th October 1811, between Robert Hutchinson of the one part, and Thomas Wood and Charles Delmar of the other part; and the said Robert Hutchinson thereby conveyed two pieces of marsh-land, called Shereaves Marsh, in Wickhambreux, to the use of the said Thomas Wood, subject to the payment of a yearly rent-charge of 5*l.* to a licensed preacher to be appointed by the commissary of the Archbishop of Canterbury, or the Archdeacon of Canterbury, to read divine service and to preach to the several prisoners in the gaol of the city of Canterbury, and in the gaol of St. Dunstan's, in the county of Kent.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th May 1834, the release between Edward Charles Hales Wilkie of the first part, Thomas Wood of the second part, Mary Wood, daughter of the said Thomas Wood, of the third part, and the Rev. John Hilton, Henry Oldman (since deceased), and Henry Kingsford, of the fourth part; the said Thomas Wood thereby conveyed to the trustees, amongst other premises, the two pieces of land above mentioned, subject to the same charge.

The deeds of 1811 and 1834 were produced by Mr. Kingsford, one of the trustees under the last-mentioned deed, who receives the rents of the estate comprised therein, paying the clear proceeds thereof to Mr. Wilkie.

Mr. Wood and Mr. Kingsford severally declined paying the rent-charge, or the arrears due from them respectively, without assigning any reason for withholding the payment. We have therefore certified this case to the Attorney-General.

LOST CHARITIES.

Lost Charities.

The following benefactions are noticed in the book above mentioned, compiled by B. Bunce, but no further account of them could be obtained on this inquiry.

Brent's.—Roger Brent, by his Will, bearing date 24th February 1486, devised to the mayor and commonalty, and their successors, his messuage called Stone Hall, in the parish of All Saints, so that they should build a house for an honest man and woman to live in, to partake the profits thereof, to the use of the said commonalty.

See's.—John See, by his Will, bearing date 8th January 1565, devised all his lands and tenements in Whitstable, Swalecliffe, and Sea Salter, or elsewhere in the county of Kent, in case his son should die without issue, to the use of the poor for ever; and directed that the profits should be distributed by the commissary and mayor of Canterbury two years together to the poor of Canterbury, and every third year by the churchwardens of Whitstable, to the use of the poor there, and then Sea Salter and Swalecliffe; the same to be given to such as should be visited with age, sickness, loss of goods, or other misfortune, according to the discretion of the said mayor, commissary and churchwardens, who were to let the said lands at their discretion.

Orchard's.—Libbye Orchard, by his Will, bearing date 6th October 1571, directed that 8*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, issuing out of all his lands and tenements, should buy grey frieze or rug for gowns for 13 poor aged men, in length to their shoes, 13 caps close buttoned, and 13 pair of shoes close buckled to their feet; and that 4*d.* should be given to each poor man. And he willed that after his wife's decease his heirs or their assigns should yearly, against Christmas, deliver such clothing and money; and, if they should not fulfil this his legacy, it should be lawful for the mayor of Canterbury, or his assigns, to distrain upon his lands in the parish of Sturry, or Westbere, bought of Mr. Isaac.

Canterbury.

In 1690 a committee was appointed by the corporation to search the Will, and inquire into the matter of this charity, which, it is stated in the minutes, had been neglected, but the result of the inquiry does not appear.

It is observable, however, that Sir Roger Manwood, in his Will bearing date 12th December 1592, in settling the foundation of his hospital in Hackington, refers to this as a charity then existing.

John Rose's.—By deed, bearing date 27th September 1575, John Rose, mayor of the city of Canterbury, for the increase of the relief of the poor within the liberties of the said city, granted to Richard Gaunt, one of the aldermen, and four others of the common council of the said city, and three others and their heirs, four pieces of marsh containing by estimation 15 acres, in the parish of Wickhambreux, bounded as therein mentioned, on trust that the mayor and commonalty, and their successors, should, after his decease, lay out the rents and profits in a stock of hemp and wool, or one of them; and that, by the officer appointed for that purpose, they should, at their discretion, annually deliver to the most indigent poor living within the said city the said stock, so that thereout, as far as it would extend, they might labour, receiving for their labour so much and more, according as they should deserve in the judgment of the said officer; provided the said mayor and commonalty, on petition and request in that behalf made, should permit him or them, who should happen to occupy the house of the said John Rose in the parish of Wickhambreux, formerly called the Stone House, near the mill there and then called Rose Castle, to occupy the premises above mentioned at the annual rent of 4*l.*

Streater's.—William Streater, by his Will, bearing date 28th September 1571, directed his executrix to pay to the mayor and aldermen of the city of Canterbury 60*l.*, to be lent from time to time to such poor tradesmen inhabiting within the parish of St. George as should be of the poorest sort, excepting brewers, bakers, butchers and maltmakers, freely for two years, putting in good security, in sums not exceeding 5*l.* each.

By indenture, bearing date 20th January 1571, reciting the Will of the said William Streater, and that the mayor and commonalty had received the said sum of 60*l.*, they covenanted with William Lovelace, serjeant-at-law, and Emlyn Streater, the executrix under the said Will, to employ the said 60*l.* to the uses mentioned in the said Will.

Archbishop Parker's.—Matthew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury, by his Will, bearing date 5th April 1575, bequeathed to the mayor and commonalty of Canterbury 100*l.*, which he directed should be lent to any woollen-manufactory, or woollen-manufactories, in Canterbury, whereby the poor of the said city might be employed, according to the will and assent of the dean and chapter for the time being, every three years, if they should so think fit; for which he willed that the commonalty, or some of the responsible citizens of Canterbury, should be bound to the said chapter.

In Bunce's Benefaction Book it is stated that of this money 23*l.* was paid towards the purchase of one-fourth of the keeper's house of Westgate.

On examining the minutes of the corporation it appears that, in 1651, orders were given for laying out 23*l.*, in the hands of the chamberlain, in the purchase of one-fourth part of the keeper's house in Westgate; but there is nothing in the minutes which tends to show that this was part of Archbishop Parker's money.

Archbishop Grindal's.—In the Benefaction Book there is a statement that Archbishop Grindal, who died 1583, gave to the city 100*l.* to be kept in stock for the use of the poor traders or dealers in wool; that at a court of burghmote, on 21st July 1584, it was ordered that 100*l.* should be disposed of for a stock to set the poor on work; and that afterwards there were many orders in the books for putting out this money in sums of 10*l.* on security, by way of loan for poor tradesmen.

Cleggatt's.—By indenture, bearing date 19th July 1608, George Cleggatt covenanted with the mayor and commonalty that his heirs, executors, &c., should, within six months after his death, he dying within seven years, pay 100*l.* as a stock, to be lent out to tradesmen; and the said mayor and commonalty covenanted to employ the same, when received for that purpose.

Margaret Colfe's.—By indenture, bearing date 10th April 1610, between the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury of the one part, and Joseph Colfe and Margaret his wife of the other part, reciting that the said Margaret had given 20*l.* to be lent freely for five years by the mayor and aldermen to four such inhabitants of the parish of St. Andrew as should be of the poorest sort of handicrafts of manual occupations, excepting brewers, bakers, and maltsters, the said mayor and commonalty covenanted to dispose of the said money in manner above mentioned.

And by indenture, bearing date 8th October 1621, 19th James, between the said Margaret Colfe of the one part, and J. Pearce, chamberlain, of the other part, reciting that the said Margaret Colfe paid 20*l.* to the said chamberlain, she declared that the same was to be put out to poor tradesmen inhabiting the parish of St. Mary Bredman, in sums of 5*l.* each for three years without interest.

Robert Rose's.—Robert Rose, by his Will, bearing date 27th May 1620, proved at Canterbury, left 100*l.*, after the decease of Margaret Lancelot, for the poor children of the hospital of Canterbury, in such sort to be employed to the best use and purpose as the like by others had been bestowed.

Pettit's.—Thomas Pettit, by his Will, bearing date 13th August 1623, bequeathed to the mayor and commonalty 50*l.* to be employed for the maintenance of two hospital boys in their new hospital.

Canterbury.

Venner's.—Henry Venner, by his Will, bearing date 7th January 1630, bequeathed to the mayor and commonalty of the city of Canterbury 150*l.* upon condition that they should maintain and keep, bring up, and place in decent and religious manner within the said city, six poor children born within the said city, until such time as the said children should be fit to be apprentices, or should otherwise be provided for; the said six children to be nominated by the mayor and commonalty.

This legacy was paid to the corporation 3d November 1635, when it was ordered that the common seal should be put to a release to the executors.

Isaac's.—Edward Isaac, by his Will (no date given), bequeathed 100*l.* to the city of Canterbury, to the end that, if the Queen should take such order, that there should not bear office within the city of Canterbury any one papist, or that should be suspected that way; and that, if other well-disposed people should be so liberal, there should be given so much as would set all the poor people at work as should inhabit the said city and suburbs, that there should be neither begging nor sturdy vagabonds remaining in the said city or suburbs; and if the premises should not be performed in all points, then he directed that his executors should give the said 100*l.* in deeds of charity as they should think best.

By indenture, bearing date 20th March 1578, reciting the Will of the testator, as above abstracted, the mayor and commonalty acknowledged the receipt of the said 100*l.*, and covenanted with Richard the Bishop-suffragan of Dover, one of the executors of the said testator, to dispose of the same for setting the poor of the said city to work; and that from henceforth there should not be willingly admitted to bear office within the said city any man known to be a papist, or to that faction inclined.

In the same book is entered an indenture of covenant, dated 15th September 1587, between S. Dann, a weaver, and the mayor and commonalty, that, in consideration of the said 100*l.*, he would set so many poor to work as should be required, and the mayor, or aldermen, or the wardens of the hospital, or house of correction of the said city, for the term of seven years, with a covenant on the part of S. Dann, to repay the same at the end of seven years.

In respect of the several pecuniary gifts and legacies above mentioned, though given for different purposes, it appears, from the books of the corporation, that small sums of money were lent out without interest, from time to time, and a considerable portion seems to have been lost by the failure of securities before the year 1700. It is mentioned, however, in the book of benefactions that to the amount of 85*l.* was lost, having been applied by the corporation in paying the expenses of billeting soldiers.

PRESBYTERIAN CONGREGATION.

DARKEN'S CHARITY.

Darken's Charity.

Hugo Vande Pol, otherwise called John Darken, by a codicil to his Will, bearing date 10th November 1783, in addition to a bequest for the minister for the time being, bequeathed 50*l.* for the use of the poor of the Presbyterian Congregation, to be put out at interest by the minister and the trustees therein above named, viz. the Rev. John Shelden, John Spratt, and John Rusted; the interest to be by them distributed annually, in the week before Christmas, in parcels of 2*s.* each, to as many poor members of the said congregation as the same would permit, the choice of persons being at the discretion of the said ministers and trustees.

With the above-mentioned legacy of 50*l.*, and the further sum of 400*l.* applicable to other (not charitable) purposes, the trustees purchased 774*l.* 4*s.* Three per Cent. Reduced.

The above-mentioned stock stands in the names of the Rev. S. Gurteen, John Morten, Rest Flint, and John Budden, and out of the dividends 2*l.* 10*s.* is distributed annually, about Christmas, lately in sums of 2*s.* 6*d.* each, to 20 poor persons of the congregation above mentioned.

LEGGATT'S CHARITY.

Leggatt's Charity.

Mrs. Elizabeth Leggatt, who died 8th July 1827, bequeathed the interest of 1000*l.* to be given, on the death of Ann Smith, to eight poor persons who should be members of the Presbyterian or Independent church meeting for the worship of God in Guildhall-street, Canterbury; and also the interest or dividends of 100*l.* Consols, to be distributed annually on the 10th February amongst the poor of the said congregation.

The testatrix not having left sufficient assets for the payment of her legacies in full, the produce of the first-mentioned legacy, after deducting the proportional abatement, and the legacy-duty, was invested in the purchase of 829*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* Four per Cent. Annuities, and there is now the same amount, Three and a half per Cent., standing in the names of John Marten, Rest Flint, John Budden, and the Rev. S. Gurteen.

The other legacy was in like manner reduced to 83*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, standing in the names of the Rev. S. Gurteen, and the three other individuals above named.

The annuitant, Mrs. Smith, died in 1835; and two half-yearly dividends on 829*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* Three and a half per Cent. stock have been received by the trustees since her death, which have been equally divided each half-year amongst eight poor persons, members of the said congregation.

In respect of the other legacy, the dividends, 2*l.* 10*s.*, are distributed yearly on the first Sabbath after the 10th of February, 5*s.* to each.

such poor persons, members of the said congregation, as the deacons for the time being should in their discretion think fit.

After deducting 10*l.* for legacy-duty, 90*l.* was invested, in 1819, in the purchase of 100*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Annuities in the names of Rev. John Farren, Michael Kingsford (deceased), Stephen Philpot, and John Philpot.

The dividends are received by the above-named Stephen Philpot, who has distributed the same amongst the poor of the said congregation, being himself one of the deacons.

Manweringe's Charity.

Manweringe's Charity.

Thomas Manweringe, by his Will, bearing date 12th September 1592, proved at Canterbury, devised his house, orchard, and garden, with the appurtenances, in Broad-street, in the parish of Our Lady of Northgate, to Richard Manweringe and the heirs of his body, with remainder to Anne Mainweringe in fee: and he gave 26*s.* 8*d.* yearly, for ever, to 20 poor men of each of the parishes of St. Paul, Northgate, Westgate, and St. Dunstan, payable out of the profits of the said premises at Easter yearly, with power to the mayor of Canterbury for the time being to enter the premises and take the profits thereof, and to pay the said poor men the said 26*s.* 8*d.*, and all the charges about the premises.

The property thus devised is vested in Stephen Philpot, as devisee in trust for the children of Mrs. Gurney, daughter of the late Thomas Southee.

In respect of this charity, 1*l.* has been paid every third year to the parish of St. Mary, Northgate, by the late Thomas Southee, and since his death by the devisees in trust; but nothing has been paid to the three other parishes for many years.

As there is no doubt that the property is liable to the payment of the full yearly sum of 26*s.* 8*d.*, Mr. Philpot has agreed to resume the payment to such persons as may be authorized to demand the same under the provisions of the Act of 5 and 6 Will. IV., c. 71, s. 20.

Colfe's Charity.

Colfe's Charity.

Abraham Colfe, by his Will, bearing date 7th September 1656, amongst numerous other benefactions, for which see Leathersellers' Company, 1st Report, p. 121, and 10th Report, p. 258, directed that 27*s.* yearly should be paid out of his estate to the minister of the Rood church, near the Westgate, Canterbury, where he was baptized, and to the church officers and governors there, and their successors, yet only to these uses following:—That on every Lord's day there should be distributed, by the church officers of that parish, six penny wheaten loaves to six of the poorest and godliest householders, men or women, of that parish, in the church, at the end of divine service and sermon, in the forenoon; of which number three should be of the French congregation (if there should be any French living in that parish, or in the next, or near unto it,) and should be very poor, chosen with the consent of the pastor of the French church in Canterbury; and that in the second year six more like poor householders should be new chosen by the minister, church officers, overseers for the poor, and other chief parishioners, at a public meeting, within one month after the 25th March yearly; and that the poor should come duly to the church for the bread, being in health, and attend there during Divine service and sermon; that the same parties should not continue to have the bread above one year together, but that every third or fourth year the same poor might be chosen again, if there should be no more that be very poor in the parish: and the testator directed that an account of the distribution, and the persons' names to whom it was given, should every year be entered in a book by the minister or church officers; for which pains the party should have 12*d.* out of the money; and he further willed that 6*s.* 8*d.* should be paid and distributed in bread either on the 14th day of August, which was the day of his baptism (or on the next Lord's day after), or towards the end of December or beginning of January, yearly, among the poor prisoners in the two prisons in the city of Canterbury and the suburbs thereof, one adjoining to the Westgate, the other for the county without the Westgate.

The 27*s.* a-year, payable to this parish, has not been paid since 1810; and the yearly sum of 6*s.* 8*d.*, payable for the prisoners in the two gaols, or for the poor of this parish (if not distributed to the prisoners as in the Will directed), has not been paid since 1809.

Though, as stated in the First Report, p. 125, the Leathersellers' Company have paid much more than the estate of the testator was sufficient to provide for, it appears that the non-payment of these sums is to be attributed to a want of application on behalf of the parish, and not to a refusal on the part of the company to continue them.

Rye's Charity.

Rye's Charity.

Thomas Rye, by his Will, bearing date 25th January 1814, bequeathed 50*l.* Three per Cent. Consols to the minister and churchwardens of the parish of Holy Cross, Westgate, and their successors, on trust, to pay the dividends, one-third part thereof to the treasurer of the Kent and Canterbury Hospital, in aid of the charitable purposes of the said hospital; to lay out one other third part in the purchase of sixpenny loaves, to be distributed to the poor of the parish of St. Peter, in Canterbury, yearly, on St. Thomas's day; and the remaining third part in like manner in sixpenny loaves, to be distributed yearly on the same day to the poor of the parish of Holy Cross, Westgate, in the said city and suburbs thereof.

This stock stands in the names of Deane John Parker and others, and the dividends are received by Mr. Parker, who pays 10*s.* yearly to the treasurer of the Kent and Canterbury Hospital, and lays out 20*s.* yearly in bread, which is divided amongst 20 poor persons, 10 of each of the parishes above mentioned. Holy Cross, Westgate.

CHAFY'S CHARITY.

Chafy's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 19th November 1834, reciting that Mary Chafy had given directions for the making a codicil to her Will, with the purpose of bequeathing 200*l.* to the rector, vicar, and churchwardens of the united parishes of St. Peter and Holy Cross, Westgate, in the city of Canterbury, on trust, to invest the same, and to dispose of the dividends between the 4th and 10th November in every year in the purchase of calico and flannel, one moiety thereof for the poor of each of the parishes above mentioned, to be given to an equal number of poor women of at least 60 years of age, legally belonging to and residing in the respective parishes aforesaid, preference to be shown to such as should not have, within the year preceding, received any parochial relief; and that the testatrix intended that the said charity should not be given more than once to the same person for three years at least; and that every person abusing the said charity by sale, pawning, or other improper disposition thereof, should from thenceforth be for ever disqualified again, on any account, reason, or pretence whatsoever; and that the said vicar, rector, and churchwardens should provide a book in which should be written the whole of this her bequest, and an account of the annual receipts and disbursements, with the names of the persons who, from time to time, should partake of this her charity, such accounts to be annually produced at Easter to the several vestries for the said two parishes; and reciting that the said Mary Chafy had died without having executed the said codicil, but that her children had directed 200*l.* to be paid to the uses above mentioned; the Rev. J. P. Francis, rector and vicar of the united parishes, John Grist and William Welby, churchwardens of St. Peter, and Deane John Parker and Alfred Sabine, churchwardens of Holy Cross, Westgate, acknowledged the receipt thereof, and declared that the same was received by them, upon trust, to invest the same in Three per Cent. Consols, for the purposes declared in the said intended codicil.

This money was invested in the purchase of 226*l.* 19*s.* Consols, in the names of the Rev. J. P. Francis and three other of the trustees.

The dividends, amounting to 6*l.* 16*s.*, are divided equally between the two parishes, and each share is laid out in calico and flannel, and given amongst six poor persons of the respective parishes, selected by the minister and trustees according to the directions of the donor.

A book of accounts is kept in each parish, in which the accounts and the names of the persons receiving the charity are entered, and laid annually before the vestry about Easter.

HARRISON'S CHARITY.

Harrison's Charity.

Thomas Harrison, by his Will, bearing date 30th April 1768, bequeathed to the Rev. F. Gregory, rector of St. George the Martyr, and six others, inhabitants of the said parish, 300*l.*, in trust, to invest the same, and to apply the dividends, on or about Christmas, yearly, to such indigent and industrious inhabitants and parishioners who should not, for six months then preceding, have received relief from the guardians of the poor; and he directed that, when the trustees should be reduced by death or removal out of the said city to two, the remaining trustees should appoint five other reputable and substantial inhabitants of the said parish, whereof the rector should be one.

This legacy was invested in 1770 in the purchase of 352*l.* 8*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Reduced, which stands in the names of the Hon. and Rev. E. Pellew (the late rector), John James Peirce, and two others (now deceased); but steps are about to be taken for transferring it into the names of four of the present trustees, viz., the Rev. Frederick Rouch, the present rector, the said John James Peirce, John Partridge, Henry Kingsford, William Henry Furley, Henry Scope Mackeson, and James Warren, who have been appointed, as vacancies have occurred, by the survivors.

The dividends, amounting to 10*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.*, are distributed to from 10 to 15 poor persons, who are selected as the most industrious and deserving, in sums varying from 12*s.* to 23*s.* each.

Wynter's Charity.

Wynter's Charity.

The yearly sum of 10*s.* is received from Thomas Gammon, the tenant of a house in Castle-street, belonging to —— Terry, of Walcot-place, Lambeth.

It is supposed that this payment arises under the Will of John Wynter, who, as stated on a brass inscription on his tomb, left two tenements at Tron Cross for superstitious uses.

This sum is disposed of in bread in the same manner as the following charity.

Robinson's Charity.

Robinson's Charity.

Mary Robinson, by her Will, bearing date 17th September 1812, and proved at Canterbury, bequeathed to the officiating clergyman and churchwardens of St. Margaret's 50*l.*, to be placed out at interest, and the produce applied annually in the purchase of bread, to be distributed to the poor parishioners of the said parish.

By indenture, bearing date 26th January 1821, between the Rev. Nicholas Simons and two others, rector and churchwardens of St. Margaret, of the one part, and Edward Bloxland and another, executors of the Will of the said Mary Robinson, of the other part, reciting the said Will, and that the said legacy, after deducting the duty and the costs of this indenture, had been invested in the purchase of 56*l.* 12*s.* Three per Cents. Reduced, in the names of the parties of the first part, they declared that they held the same on the trusts declared in the said Will; and it was provided that, when any one of the trustees for the time being should die, the stock should be transferred so as to be vested in the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being.

The stock still stands in the same names, and the dividends, 1*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* per annum, are received by the churchwardens and applied in the purchase of bread, which is given by tickets to poor persons of the parish, selected by the churchwardens and the officiating minister.

Whitfield's Gift.

Whitfield's Gift.

John Whitfield, by his Will, bearing date 23d March 1687, proved at Canterbury, appointed that his fire-engine, then in St. Margaret's church, should remain there for the service of the town, and that there should be paid yearly out of the messuage, where he then dwelt, 20*s.* yearly to the churchwardens, to be disposed of as thereinafter mentioned. He also gave his other fire-engine, which he invented of wood, to the parish of St. Mary Magdalen, if they would provide a place to set it in; but if they would not accept it, he gave the said engine to the parish of St George: and he directed that, out of the 20*s.* per annum before mentioned, 2*s.* 6*d.* should be paid to the clerks of the respective parishes where the engines should stand for their care in looking to them; that 10*s.* should be spent on some poor men of the city, to be chosen by the churchwardens of either parish, five out of each parish, to play the said engines once a-year, or oftener; and that the other 5*s.* should lie in the hands of the churchwardens of St. Margaret's for amending the said engines and buckets; and if the engines should not be played, that the yearly sum of 10*s.* should be added thereto.

The yearly sum of 20*s.* is paid by Anne Farbrice, as charged upon a house in St. Margaret-street belonging to her, and in the occupation of Eliza Curwen.

The parish were formerly in possession of a fire-engine; but, as it was out of repair, it was agreed at a vestry, held in 1824, that it should be given up to the Kent Fire-office upon condition that they should keep it in repair, receiving the 20*s.* a-year above mentioned.

This legacy was invested in the purchase of 100*l.* New South Sea Annuities, which stands in the names of the Rev. T. A. Mutlow, William Cantiss, and John Furley.

BIRKHENHED'S CHARITY.

Birkhenhed's Charity.

Richard Birkhenhed, by his Will, bearing date 13th January 1650, devised to his daughter Martha, and her heirs, his five houses or dwellings, under one roof, in the parish of Saint Mary, Northgate, Canterbury, with the garden, fruit-trees, &c., conditionally, that they should yearly pay 50*s.* to such persons or officers and to such charitable uses as thereafter mentioned, viz.:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| To the overseers, churchwardens, or other chief officers of St. Mary, Northgate | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Ditto ditto St. Mildred's . . | 0 | 15 | 0 |
| Ditto ditto St. Paul's . . . | 0 | 15 | 0 |

to be by them severally laid out and distributed yearly, within four days of Christmas, in hose and shoes, to be provided for and divided, to four men and women parishioners of Northgate, three of St. Paul, and three of St. Mildred; the eldest and most indigent to be chosen.

The property, subject to the payments above mentioned, is situate in New Ruttington-lane, in this parish, and consists of several dwellings in a very dilapidated state, all under one roof, surrounding a square yard.

It is now under the management of Francis Smith, as executor of Thomas Webb, to whom, jointly with other persons, the premises belonged.

The yearly sums of 20*s.* to St. Mary, Northgate, and 15*s.* to St. Mildred's, are regularly paid to the respective churchwardens, but the 15*s.* payable to St. Paul's has not been received for many years, probably from the neglect of the parish officers in claiming it, but Mr. Smith is ready to resume this payment if proper authority is given to any persons to demand it.

In the parish of St. Mary, Northgate, the yearly sum of 20*s.* is carried to the charity account hereafter mentioned.

MASCALL'S CHARITY.

Mascall's Charity.

It is stated, on a table of benefactions in the church, that Richard Mascall, by his Will, bearing date 23d July 1701, bequeathed 2*l.* yearly to the poor of this parish, out of his estate in the parish of Hothfield and Ashford.

In respect of this charity the churchwardens receive 1*l.* 12*s.* yearly from the steward of the Earl of Winchelsea, 8*s.* being deducted for land-tax.

WHITGIFT'S CHARITY.

Whitgift's Charity.

It is also stated, in the table of benefactions, that a donor unknown bequeathed 2*l.* 10*s.* yearly to the poor of this parish, payable from Barnsfield, in Harbledown.

It appears from the evidence produced, relative to a similar payment to the parish of St. Mildred, that this charity was derived from Archbishop Whitgift.—(See St. Mildred.)

The yearly sum of 2*l.* 10*s.* is received from Kelly, the owner of a field of 8 or 10 acres in Harbledown, still known by the name of Barnsfield.

HEARNE'S CHARITY.

Hearne's Charity.

The Rev. George Hearne, by his Will, bearing date 14th March 1804, and proved in the Prerogative Court, besides leaving 130*l.* per annum to different persons out of his Long Annuities, gave out of the same annuities, to St. John's Hospital, in Canterbury, 10*l.* per annum, to the poor of Northgate and St. Alphage 10*l.*, and to the rector and vicar of those parishes 10*l.*, "upon condition that he constantly resides in the rector's house, as I, the testator, do; and whenever he does not reside there, this 10*l.* shall be taken away for ever, and be given to the poor of these parishes till the stock shall expire."

He also left to several charitable institutions, in Canterbury and London, chiefly supported by voluntary contributions, part of the same annuities, to the amount of 22*l.* 10*s.* per annum; and he then directed that, if his property should be more than he had disposed of by his Will, what he should have should purchase Long Annuities, and should augment the above donations; and if it should be less, that they should all be reduced proportionably. And after this clause he gave the further sum of 37*l.* per annum, out of his Long Annuities, for another charitable institution supported by voluntary contributions.

The testator's personal estate having exceeded the amount disposed of by his Will, all the donations mentioned previous to the clause relating to the augmentation of his legacies were increased proportionably, the surplus having been invested by the executors in Long Annuities, and all these donations have been paid to the parties authorized to receive them, except with regard to the legacies to St. Mary, Northgate, and St. Alphage, and there is still standing in the names of the executors, the Rev. John Gregory and William Cantis, 30*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* Long Annuities on this account.

The proceeds, except 1*s.* 4*d.* retained for the expense of postage, are paid annually by Mr. Cantis to the incumbent of the united parishes; as he does not reside in the rector's house the whole is applicable to the poor, and it seems, from the terms of the Will, that it was the donor's intention that this appropriation should continue, though a subsequent incumbent should reside in the said house.

The present incumbent keeps 2*l.* 7*s.* yearly, which he distributes himself as he finds occasion, and the residue is paid to the churchwardens, and forms part of the general distribution.

General Distribution.—The funds received by the churchwardens from the several charities above mentioned are applied in the following manner:—

About 22*s.* yearly, on an average, is expended in the purchase of shoes, at about 5*s.* 6*d.* a-pair, and the residue is laid out in bread. These articles are given amongst the poor of the parish with very little distinction as to the character of the parties, or whether they are receiving parish relief or not. The bread is given in quantities varying from a half-quartern to three gallons to a family.

St.Mary,Northgate. An account of the receipts and disbursements is entered in the churchwardens' book.

Laurence's Charity.

Laurence's Charity. See First Report, p. 92.

Carter's Charity.

Carter's Charity. Ralph Carter, by his Will, bearing date 3d October 1574, proved at Canterbury, left three tenements, in case his brother, Thomas Carter, should die without heirs, to be let to the best profit, and the clear yearly rent bestowed upon the poor of St. Mildred's parish quarterly, by the discretion of the parson and churchwardens for the time being.

The premises above mentioned consist of one messuage, called the Castle, with the gardens, &c., thereto belonging, in the parishes of St. Mildred and St. Mary de Castro, and are held by Charles Sharp under a lease granted for 14 years, by the rector, churchwardens, overseers, and three other parishioners, from Lady-day 1826, at a good yearly rent of 40*l.*

In 1803 a lease was granted, at 5*l.* a-year, on the payment of a fine of 255*l.*, of which about 240*l.* was applied in paying one-third of the expenses of rebuilding three houses in Castle-street, mentioned under the head of Donor unknown, one-third of the rents of those premises being applicable to the same purpose as this charity.

This income is carried to the general charity account hereafter mentioned.

Whitgift's Charity.

Whitgift's Charity. In an old overseer's book it is stated that Archbishop Whitgift gave to the poor of Canterbury 100 marks, which was paid to the mayor and commonalty of Canterbury; and that by indenture, dated in December 1606, they purchased of Markes Berry a yearly rent-charge of 5*l.*, out of his lands in Harbledown and St. Dunstan's.

By a decree of commissioners of charitable uses, bearing date 11th April 1684, reciting an inquisition, whereby it was found that a person unknown gave 5*l.* yearly, issuing out of a piece of land called Barn Field, containing nine acres, in Harbledown, payable, at Michaelmas and Lady-day, to the respective churchwardens and overseers of St. Mildred's and St. Mary, Northgate, to be by them distributed amongst the poor as they should think fit,—it was ordered that Sarah Bewly, the owner of the land called Barn Field, should pay the arrears then due, and that the proprietors of the said land should thenceforth pay the said annuity, one moiety thereof for each of the parishes above mentioned.

The yearly sum of 5*l.* (2*l.* 10*s.* thereof to the churchwardens and overseers of this parish) is paid by Mrs. Kelly, as charged upon the lands called Barn Field, in Harbledown. This is also carried to the general charity account.

Donor Unknown.

Donor unknown. It is stated on a table of benefactions in the church that two messuages in Castle-street were given by some person unknown, two-thirds of the rents towards the repairs of the church and one-third for the use of the poor.

There are three houses in Castle-street, which were rebuilt in 1803, two-thirds of the expense having been paid from Hinde's charity, which is applicable to the repairs of the church, and one-third from Carter's charity applicable to the poor.

The premises are let to three yearly tenants, at good rents of 14*l.* each, amounting to 42*l.* The amount of two-thirds is carried to the church account, and one-third to the general charity account for the poor.

Birkhenhed's Charity.

Birkhenhed's Charity. For the particulars of this charity see St. Mary, Northgate.

The yearly sum of 15*s.*, received by this parish, is carried to the general charity account.

Roper's Charity.

Roper's Charity. It is stated on a table of benefactions that Ann Roper, in 1716, bequeathed 100*l.* for the poor, with which a house and land in Lower Hardres were purchased, but that the expense of taxes and repairs was so great that the premises yielded little or no profit to the poor and were therefore sold, and that the produce, with some addition thereto, purchased 300*l.* Consols.

It appears from the accounts that the estate above mentioned was sold, in 1793, for 171*l.*; that 180*l.* was laid out in the same year in the expenses attending the sale and in the purchase of 200*l.* Consols; and that 67*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* was, in the following year, paid out of the general charity account for the further sum of 100*l.* Consols, making up 300*l.*

In 1831 this stock, which stood in the names of Harry W. Carter, Henry Cooper, Abraham Flint, and William Philpot, was sold out for 242*l.* 2*s.* 2*d.*, and lent to the church account, out of which it was agreed interest should be paid until the principal was replaced in the public funds.

The yearly sum of 9*l.* has been since paid by the churchwardens and carried to the general charity account, and the parishioners are taking steps for raising 300*l.* in order to replace the principal, and exonerate the parties who sold out the stock.

General Charity Account.—The income derived from the several charities above mentioned and carried to one general account is as follows, viz.:—

St. Mildred.

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Carter's Charity . . . | 40 | 0 | 0 |
| Whitgift's . . . . | 2 | 10 | 0 |

| Birkenhed's . . . . | 0 | 15 | 0 |

Out of this income 30*s.* is disposed of yearly in shoes in respect of Birkenhed's charity, and the residue, after paying the expenses of repairing and insuring the Castle-street houses, is distributed by the minister and churchwardens at two periods of the year, generally about Christmas and Easter, amongst such poor persons of the parish as are selected as being most industrious and endeavouring to maintain themselves without parish assistance, or to old persons incapable of working and bearing good characters.

The sums in general given to each family amount to from 5*s.* to 20*s.* a-year.

RIGDEN'S CHARITY.

Rigden's Charity.

By indenture of bargain and sale, bearing date 23d April 1771, enrolled in Chancery, between William Rigden of the one part, and Richard Sandys, and six others, of the other part, the said William Rigden conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a messuage and the building thereto adjoining, late a smith's forge, in Best's-lane, in the parish of All Saints, on trust, to dispose of the clear rents and profits on or about Christmas yearly amongst such of the indigent, honest, and industrious parishioners of St. Mildred as were not receiving parochial relief and constantly residing in the said parish, in such proportions and manner as the trustees for the time being should think fit; and it was provided that, whenever by death or removal the number of trustees should be reduced to two, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves, and five, six, or seven others of the most reputable and substantial parishioners on the same trusts; and it was declared that the premises should not be demised except at the full yearly value, without fine, for terms not exceeding 21 years in possession.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 27th and 28th January 1795, reciting the indentures above abstracted, that the smith's forge had been since taken down and two messuages erected on the site thereof, and that the premises then consisted of three messuages, John Jackson and Henry Thornton, the then surviving trustees, conveyed the same to William Carter, M.D., and five others, of whom William Simmons Thornton is the survivor, on the like trusts.

About three years ago, there being two trustees then living, eight other parishioners of St. Mildred were appointed trustees, and instructions were given for a conveyance of the property to them, but in consequence of the illness of one of the parties appointed, and the rector being about to leave the parish, the business was deferred.

The property, consisting of three cottages, is let to three yearly tenants, at fair rents, amounting to 29*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

Out of the rents there is paid 16*s.* 6*d.* for insurance and 15*s.* for land-tax, and 20*l.* yearly has been paid on an average, during the last four years, for repairs.

The residue of the rents, excepting a balance of 12*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* reserved for meeting the expense of a new trust-deed, has been distributed, about Christmas, amongst poor persons resident in and belonging to the parish of St. Mildred, not receiving relief and selected as the most honest and industrious, in sums varying from 6*s.* to 10*s.* This distribution has taken place at the house of Dr. Carter, two of his family having been trustees.

A book of accounts has been regularly kept from 1785, in which the names of all the parties receiving the charity are entered.

KING'S CHARITY.

King's Charity.

George King, by his Will, bearing date 4th October 1786, bequeathed to James Lemaître, and four others, 60*l.* in trust, to invest the same on government security, and to pay the dividends yearly amongst such poor decayed housekeepers in the parish of St. Mildred for and towards their maintenance, relief, and support, and in such proportions as they should think proper; and he directed that, whenever there should be two trustees only surviving, they should appoint three other good and sufficient persons residing in the parish of St. Mildred.

The legacy above mentioned was laid out in the purchase of 79*l.* Three per Cent. Consols.

In 1820 the stock was transferred into the names of William Hatcher (since deceased), Abraham Dombrain, William Collard, and Capon Weekes, at an expense of 14*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*, all the former trustees being dead.

The dividends, amounting to 2*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.* per annum, are distributed about Christmas by the trustees amongst poor decayed housekeepers of the parish of St. Mildred, in sums varying from 2*s.* 6*d.* to 6*s.* or 7*s.*

A book is kept in which there is entered an extract of the Will and accounts of the distribution.

JACKSON'S CHARITY.

Jackson's Charity.

John Jackson, by his Will, bearing date 21st June 1794, proved in London, directed that 1,000*l.* Consols should be transferred into the names of William Carter, and three others on trust, to pay the yearly dividends to the ministers of the several parishes of St. Mildred and St. Margaret, in the city of Canterbury, and to the aldermen for the time being of the ward of Worthgate, on trust, that they should, without favour or prejudice, pay the yearly sum of

St. Mildred.

20*l.*, part thereof, amongst such of the poor people who should be resident and also legally settled in the said parish of St. Mildred, should not receive parochial relief and should appear to them to be the most needy, industrious and deserving persons, in sums of 10*s.* a-piece, and to pay the yearly sum of 5*l.*, in sums of 10*s.* each, to the like poor persons in the parish of St. Margaret, and also pay to the minister of St. Mildred 1*l.* 1*s.* yearly for a sermon in the parish-church, on the 17th of April, the anniversary of the death of his son, or the Sunday following; and his express desire was that the residue of the dividends should be expended towards providing a dinner for the trustees for the time being with the said minister and aldermen on the day of distributing the said charities; and he directed that, whenever there should be only two trustees surviving, they should transfer the stock into the names of themselves and two other trustees.

By deed, bearing date 2d June 1796, William Carter, and three others, acknowledged that the sum of 1,000*l.* Consols had been transferred into their names on the trusts of the said Will; and in 1816 the said William Carter, M.D., and George Carter, having survived the two other trustees, transferred the stock into the names of themselves and Allen Fielding, since deceased, and the Rev. Charles Fielding.

The stock still stands in the same names. The dividends, amounting to 30*l.* a-year, are received through the Canterbury bank, and the trustees, with the two aldermen of the ward, meet annually at the workhouse about Christmas, and 20*l.* is then divided, in sums of 10*s.* each, amongst poor persons resident and legally settled in the parish of St. Mildred's, and 5*l.* amongst the like poor of the parish of St. Margaret. The poor persons are selected by the respective ministers and the aldermen of the ward, strictly according to the directions of the donor. A sermon is generally preached on the Sunday after the 17th of April, in the parish church of St. Mildred's.

The residue of the dividends is applied to the expenses of a dinner on the day the trustees meet.

The accounts have been regularly kept from the commencement of the charity.

Turner's Charity.

Turner's Charity.

Robert Turner, by his Will, bearing date 28th September 1818, bequeathed to the minister and churchwardens of this parish 400*l.* in trust, to invest the same, and to distribute the dividends on Christmas-day yearly amongst such poor persons residing in the said parish, at the rate of 10*s.* each, as they should think most deserving.

This legacy, after deducting the duty, was, in 1819, invested in the purchase of 342*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* Navy Five per Cents., now converted into 360*l.* 0*s.* 1*d.* New Three and a half per Cents., in the names of the Rev. John Francis (since deceased), William Simmons Thornton, and William Wilds (since deceased).

The dividends are received by the churchwardens and divided amongst poor persons resident in the parish, whether settled or not, in sums of 10*s.* each, as far as it will extend.

Hobday's Charity.

Hobday's Charity.

William Hobday, by his Will, bearing date 18th February 1822, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed, after the decease of his wife, and of his brother Benjamin Hobday, to the rector and churchwardens of St. Mildred's, and their successors, 200*l.* in trust, to invest the same in the funds, or other public or private security, and to apply the dividends, or interest, yearly, in sums of 5*s.* each, at or about the Feast of Epiphany, to poor aged men and women above the age of 50 years, inhabiting in the said parish, to be nominated by the rector and churchwardens for the time being. And he directed that, within three months after the payment of the said legacy, the trustees above mentioned should cause an account of this bequest to be inscribed on the table of benefactions, and provide a book, in the beginning whereof should be entered the whole of this bequest, and that in the same book should be entered the names of such poor men and women as should annually receive the said 5*s.* And he particularly directed that the charity should not be given more than once to the same person, so long as there should be other proper objects inhabiting in the said parish, and that the accounts should be annually passed by the said rector and churchwardens.

In December 1834, the annuitants being dead, 180*l.*, the legacy-duty having been deducted, was invested in the purchase of 180*l.* 18*s.* Three and a half per Cent. Reduced, in the names of the Rev. T. Bartlett, Richard Minter Mount, and Thomas Dorman, the then rector and churchwardens.

A book has been provided in which an extract from the Will is entered, and a tablet has been put up in the church, stating the particulars of the bequest. The expenses of the tablet and book of accounts, and of the investment and a power of attorney for receiving the dividends, exceed the dividends now due.

Kelsey's Charity.

Kelsey's Charity.

Thomas Kelsey, by his Will, bearing date 9th January 1802, bequeathed after the decease of his wife 200*l.*, Four per Cent. Consols, to the minister of the parish of St. Mildred, and to the two aldermen for the ward of Worthgate for the time being, in trust out of the dividends to pay 5*s.* a-piece, every 12th January, to 30 of the most indigent and industrious poor persons, inhabitants of the said parish, as they should think most deserving, and the remainder to the said minister and aldermen for the time being, for their care in the management of the said trust.

The widow of the testator is still living in Watling-street, in Canterbury, and the stock 200*l.*, Three and a half per Cents., is still standing in the name of the testator.

deration of 100*l.*, bargained and sold to Thomas Cranmer and others a messuage called the George, with the ground thereto belonging, in the parish of Holy Cross, Westgate; a tenement and garden in the parish of St. Mildred; and all his lands, tenements, &c., in Folkstone, Smeeth, and Herst; on condition that, after the death of himself and Thomazine his wife, they should convey the premises to Christopher Leeds, and 15 others therein named, to the intent that with the clear rents the parish-church of St. Mildred should be repaired, the church-yard sufficiently enclosed, and the bread and wine for the Communion in the said church provided; and that the residue thereof should be yearly employed wholly upon the relief and sustentation of the poor of the said parish, or elsewhere, within the City of Canterbury for ever. And it was provided that, before the trustees should be reduced to two, the survivors should enfeoff others, so that there should be always a competent number of trustees of the said parish.

In 1637 a bill was filed in the Court of Chancery by the parson, churchwardens, &c., of St. Mildred, against the warden and poor of Jesus' Hospital, setting forth the deed above abstracted, and stating that the said John Hinde, and Thomazine, his wife, had died, leaving an only daughter, who was married to William Goodale; that the premises had been conveyed to the said Christopher Leeds and others, according to the trusts of the indenture above abstracted; but that afterwards, by indenture, bearing date 1st March 1600, between the said William Goodale, and Ruth, his wife, of the first part, the said Thomas Cranmer and others of the second part, and Edward Haule, Ralph Grove, and Daniel Oldfield, of the third part, reciting the last-mentioned deed, and that the said Cranmer and others had not conveyed the premises to Christopher Leeds and others, according to the said indenture of 16th August, 35 Elizabeth, it was agreed that a fine should be levied as to the messuage, &c., in St. Mildred's, 4 acres of meadow, and 11 acres of fresh marsh, in Smeeth and Herst, to the use of the said William Goodale and his wife, and their heirs; as to the 13 acres of land in Folkstone, to the use of the said Thomas Cranmer and others, and their heirs, to the purposes in the first-recited indenture mentioned; and, as to the messuage called the George, one moiety thereof to the use of the parties of the second part, and their heirs, for the relief of the poor people, or poor children, of the parish of St. Mildred; and the other moiety thereof to the use of the parties of the third part, and their heirs, for the poor people, or poor children, of the parish of St. Mary, Northgate. It is further stated that such fine was levied, and that the said R. Grove and D. Oldfield, contrary to the trust reposed in them, conveyed one moiety of the messuage called the George to the warden and poor of Jesus' Hospital, and their successors; and that the said warden and poor, and other parties therein named, claimed the several premises, given by John Hinde as above-mentioned, and wrongfully detained the same.

By a decree in the cause, made 18th May 1641, it was ordered that the conveyance to Jesus' Hospital should be set aside, and that the surviving feoffees should convey the messuage called the George, and other the premises, to John Stanley and 10 others, the mayor, recorder, aldermen, and town-clerk, of the City of Canterbury, and five others, parishioners of St. Mildred, who should take special care that the profits of the premises should be employed according to the intent of the donor.

By another order made in the same cause in the preceding January, it was ordered that George Rooke, one of the defendants, should pay for the lands in Smeeth and Herst the yearly rent of 40*s.*; and that for the better settling the same he should, by deed, grant to the said feoffees, and their heirs, a rent-charge of 40*s.* out of the said lands, payable at Michaelmas and Lady-day, with a clause of distress in case of non-payment.

And, by indenture, bearing date 20th December 1641, the said G. Rooke accordingly granted a rent-charge of 40*s.* yearly to J. Stanley and others, the trustees appointed by the Court of Chancery, and their heirs.

New trustees have been appointed from time to time, and, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 3d and 4th May 1824, John Rigden, the then only surviving trustee, conveyed to the rector and churchwardens of St. Mildred, the mayor of Canterbury, and five others, of whom Henry Cooper, Harry W. Carter, William Collard, Abraham Flint, George Ash, and Benjamin F. Flint are the survivors, and their heirs, a messuage called the George, in Holy Cross, Westgate, and a messuage, with a barn, stable, &c., and four pieces of land, containing 12A. 1R. 6P. in Folkstone, in trust, for the benefit of the parish of St. Mildred, as expressed in the indenture of 1593.

The property belonging to this charity consists of,—

1. A public-house, called the George, in Holy Cross, Westgate, demised by lease, bearing date 30th October 1823, to Priscilla Ann Flint and Abraham Flint, in consideration of 300*l.*, for 21 years from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of 6*l.*

2. The messuage and lands at Folkstone, demised by lease, bearing date 27th September 1823, to Richard Hobday, in consideration of 260*l.*, for 21 years from Michaelmas then next, at the like yearly rent of 6*l.*

These leases were granted in consideration of the respective fines above mentioned, instead of reserving an adequate rent, for the purpose of paying off a debt which had accrued in repairing the church.

3. The yearly rent-charge of 40*s.*, in respect of which 1*l.* 16*s.* (4*s.* being deducted for land-tax) is received from John Partridge, as steward to Lord Rokeby's estate.

These several sums, amounting to 13*l.* 16*s.*, are carried to an account kept by the churchwardens, to which, when a church-rate is collected, the proceeds thereof are also carried; the expenses of the repairs of the church and the church-yard fences have been so great as to leave no surplus applicable to the maintenance of the poor.

In 1802, 470*l.* was received as a consideration for two leases of the above-mentioned premises for 21 years, and in the following year was paid about 480*l.*, being two-thirds of the expense of rebuilding 23 houses belonging to the church, and one house belonging to Carter's Charity. From that period to 1823 no church-rate was collected, and the expenses attending the church exceeded the income of the church estate so much that the balance at Easter in that year amounted to 404*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.*

St. Mildred.

On the receipt of the two last fines amounting to 560*l.*, after paying for a new trust-deed 20*l.* 14*s.*, for the repairs of the church and poor-houses 28*l.* 9*s.*, and other current expenses, there was left a balance in hand of 65*l.* 3*s.*

Since this period a considerable sum has been laid out on the repairs of the church, towards which upwards of 400*l.* has been collected by church-rates, 100*l.* borrowed on annuity, and 240*l.* 2*s.* 2*d.* from the trustees of Roper's Charity; and when the accounts were made up at Easter 1835 there was a balance of 1*l.* 18*s.* in the hands of the churchwardens.

The rent of two houses in Castle-street, noticed under the head of Donor unknown, in a former page, amounting to 28*l.* a-year, are also carried to the church account.

---

Under the Will of Leonard Cotton, this parish is entitled to the appointments to three of the houses in Maynard's and Cotton's Hospital, in case there should be no fit person in St. Margaret's; it has also an interest in Jesus' Hospital, one place in Harris's Almshouses, and is entitled to partake of the benefit of Hyett's Charity for clothing.

John Smith's Almshouses and Ann Smith's Charities.

John Smith's Almshouses and Ann Smith's Charities.

John Smith, by his Will, bearing date 18th March 1644, and proved in the Prerogative Court, devised his manors, lands, &c., in the county of Kent, not thereinbefore disposed of, to John Smith in tail, with remainder to his own right heirs, charged with the yearly rent of 32*l.* for the benefit of four old men and four old women, to be maintained in a hospital in Longport, for the erecting of which he desired 200*l.* should be bestowed; and he directed that the said yearly sum of 32*l.* should be given to the said poor, to each of them 4*l.* by quarterly payments, and that they should be chosen at first by his wife out of such as should have been born and should be living within the manor of Longport, and afterwards that they should be chosen by his son John Smith, and such as should be entitled to the said manor by this his Will.

By a codicil to his Will, the testator charged the estate with other payments for charitable uses in Hornsey, in the county of Middlesex, as stated 18th Report, p. 384, and in St. Clement's, Sandwich.

By indenture, bearing date 8th July 1662, between Ann Smith, the widow of the said John Smith, of the first part, and Sir John Rayney and six others of the other part, reciting that, by indenture, bearing date 17th March 1656, E. Dudson and M. Blitter had in consideration of 1,500*l.* conveyed to the said Ann Smith a messuage, barn, &c., and 47 acres of land thereto belonging, and six pieces of land called Gutteridge and Calcott Downs, containing 74 acres in the parish of St. Paul, 4 acres in Westbere Marsh, 11 acres, called Great Abbotts Hoath, in Bridge, near a place called Pettshouses, and another parcel of land in Bridge, containing 6 A. 0 R. 10 P., let to Sir Anthony Archer; the said Ann Smith granted the said premises to the parties of the second part and their heirs in trust, after her decease, out of the rents thereof (excepting the lands in Bridge), to pay to the four poor men and four poor women, who should be placed in the almshouses lately built by her in pursuance of the Will of the said John Smith, the yearly sum of 32*l.*, viz., to each of them 4*l.* by quarterly payments, and to pay 20*l.* yearly to such able and orthodox minister as should be appointed from time to time by the said trustees, and should preach every Lord's day in the afternoon in the parish Church of St. Paul; and the further sum of 20*l.* yearly to the churchwardens and overseers for the poor of Highgate and Hornsey side, in the parish of Hornsey, for the placing poor children apprentices, as stated 18th Report, p. 385, and to dispose of the clear yearly rents of the several pieces of land in Bridge to such person, as the said trustees should employ to let the premises and receive and pay the rents, for his pains in the execution of the trust; and on further trust, to dispose of the residue of the rents, after deducting all necessary charges, at Christmas yearly to the churchwardens and overseers of the parish of St. Paul, towards the putting out poor children of the said parish apprentices. And it was provided that, when there should be but two trustees living, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves, and four other able and sufficient persons inhabiting in or near Canterbury, and in the parish of Hornsey, on the same trusts.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date the 5th and 6th January 1814, William Hougham, of St. Paul's, Canterbury, and Abraham Langford, of Hornsey, the only surviving trustees, under an indenture, bearing date 20th January 1806, conveyed the premises above mentioned to the use of themselves, and William Fuller Boteler, and Richard Halford, and another since deceased, of Canterbury, and John Booth, of Hornsey, on the like trusts.

According to the Will of John Smith, an almshouse was erected in Longport, adjoining the city of Canterbury, for eight persons, and each of them receives 1*l.* every quarter from the widow of the late William Hougham, the owner of the Barton Court estate.

The property derived from Mrs. Ann Smith consists of—

1. A farm-house with out-buildings, and about 130 acres, in the parish of St. Paul, let to Thomas Collard, as yearly tenant, at 260*l.* per annum; the amount having been fixed by two surveyors in 1831, with the consent of the parish officers.

There are also paid the expenses of repairing the almshouse and the farm-buildings; in the last six years they have averaged about 40*l.* per annum, exclusive of a sum of 207*l.* laid out in 1832 in repairing the barn on the farm; the residue of the rents is applied in putting out apprentices.

The rent of the land in Bridge, which was appropriated to the use of the receiver, has been given up by R. Halford, esq. (who has undertaken that office), to increase the income of the almspeople.

The almshouses consist of eight tenements in good repair, and are occupied by poor persons, four men and four women, of the manor of Longport, appointed by Mrs. Hougham, as the owner of that manor.

The residuary rents of the estate, after making the payments already noticed, are applied in apprenticing. In the six years from 1830 to 1835, both inclusive, 43 apprentices were bound out, and 636*l.* was paid for this purpose.

Whenever the churchwardens find proper objects amongst the parishioners of St. Paul for this branch of the charity, they apply to the trustees, and a premium of 20*l.* is allowed with every boy, and 6*l.* with every girl who is bound out, besides 1*l.* 10*s.* which is paid for the expenses of the indenture; stamps having been hitherto unnecessarily affixed thereto.

The accounts are made up annually in December; at Christmas 1835 there was a balance of 25*l.* 15*s.* in hand, the principal tenant having paid a year's rent a short time previously thereto.

Hougham's Benefaction.—William Hougham, by his Will, bearing date 23d April 1810, and proved in the Prerogative Court, gave the yearly sum of 2*l.* 12*s.*, being the land-tax charged on the messuage and hereditaments in the parish of St. Martin, in the city of Canterbury, late belonging to his deceased father, William Hougham, and redeemed by the testator, and then issuing out of the said messuage and premises in the nature of a fee-farm rent, to and for the benefit of the brothers and sisters for the time being of Smith's Hospital in Longport.

The yearly sum of 2*l.* 12*s.* is paid by J. Partridge, esq., as agent for the owner of the estate, Admiral J. Chesshyre, of Swansea, together with the yearly sum of 1*l.* 2*s.*, which had been paid by the late William Hougham, as rent for a small portion of the almshouse garden, which he hired for the purpose of making a pound there. The pound was, however, removed from thence about 10 years ago, and the garden restored, and the fences reinstated.

The payment of the yearly sum of 1*l.* 2*s.* has, however, been continued up to the present time.

The application of these two sums, amounting to 3*l.* 14*s.* per annum, has been already stated.

Decaufour's Benefaction.—Daniel Decaufour, by his Will, bearing date 10th October 1832, bequeathed after the decease of his sister, Mary Braddon, to the trustees of the estate of Ann Smith, 500*l.* Three and a half per Cents., in trust to dispose of the dividends by quarterly payments, equally amongst the eight poor men and women bonâ fide living in the almshouses in St. Paul built by John Smith, with directions that a book should be provided, in which an extract of his Will and the accounts should be regularly entered and passed by the trustees in the presence of the churchwardens.

This stock stands in the names of William Fuller Boteler, Richard Halford, and Henry Baker, deceased, and the dividends, 17*l.* 10*s.* per annum, are applied according to the directions of the testator, equally amongst the almspeople.

ADKINSON'S CHARITY.

Adkinson's Charity.

John Adkinson, by his Will, bearing date 23d February 1703, and proved at Canterbury, devised a messuage, formerly two tenements, with the appurtenances, in the parish of St. Paul, and the garrets belonging and used therewith, to the parson, churchwarden, and overseers of St. Paul's, and their successors, on trust, that out of the rents and profits they should yearly clothe three poor widows of the said parish within the liberty of the said city, with 4½ yards of cloth at 3*s.* a-yard in each of the said suits, and should give to each of the said three widows a pair of stockings and pair of shoes, and should bestow 20*s.* in the clothing of each of them; and that the overplus of the rents and profits should be yearly laid out in the repairs of the premises. He also devised to the same parties a messuage, with the appurtenances, in the same parish, to the intent they should from time to time place therein a poor widow of the said parish and liberty, to live therein rent free for her life, she keeping the same in repair, otherwise to forfeit her interest therein; also another messuage in the said parish, to the intent that they should place therein two poor widows of the said parish and liberty, to live therein rent free for their lives. And he declared his will to be, that the alderman of the ward of Burghgate, of the said city, should from time to time see the widows placed in the said several messuages, and clothed according to the said Will.

St. Paul.

The property first mentioned is a house divided into three distinct dwellings, situate in Longport. The centre dwelling is let to widow Finch, as yearly tenant, at 35*l.* a year, and the two wings are let, one of them to —— Filmer, at 3*s.* a-week, and the other to John Smith, at 3*s.* 6*d.* per week, making the gross annual income 51*l.* 10*s.*, subject to the payment of parochial and other taxes. In 1789, these premises having become very much dilapidated, were let for a term of 40 years, at 6*l.*, to George Stringer, who nearly rebuilt them, but on the expiration of the lease it was found that a further outlay was necessary to put them into repair, and 125*l.* 8*s.* was expended thereon. To meet this expense, J. Buckton, esq., a solicitor in Canterbury, then holding the office of churchwarden, borrowed a sum of 130*l.*, for which the rector and churchwardens in December 1831 gave a bond to Daniel Decaufour bearing interest at 5 per cent.

No part of the principal above mentioned has been paid off, and at the time this inquiry commenced Mr. Buckton, who continued till 1835 to receive the rents, had rendered no account of his receipts and disbursements. He has, however, since made up an account from such vouchers as he could find; and it appears that he has received by the money borrowed as above mentioned, and for rent, 299*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.*, and that he has paid 224*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*, leaving a balance in his hands of 75*l.* 6*s.* 9*d.* Mr. Buckton's payments comprise only charges for repairs, payment of rates, the interest of the money borrowed, and other incidental expenses, and nothing has been applied by him in clothing since 1828.

The present churchwarden, James White, has received the rents since Easter 1835, and in the winter of 1835-6 he laid out about 5*l.* in clothing, which he distributed amongst five or six poor widows, and he had in June 1836 a balance in hand of 56*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.*, subject to the payment of some bills still outstanding for repairs.

There appears to have been great neglect and mismanagement with regard to this charity, but the vicar and churchwardens seem determined to take immediate steps for placing the charity on a proper footing, and paying off the debt with which it is now encumbered.

The two other houses belonging to this trust are under one roof, near the church, and are occupied rent free by three widows placed there for their lives by the vicar and churchwardens.

George Smith's Charity.

George Smith's Charity.

On the table of benefactions it is stated that George Smith gave by his Will, bearing date 1701, the yearly rent of a piece of land in the parish of Northgate, amounting to 12*s.* 6*d.* to the poor of the parish of St. Paul.

By indenture of lease, bearing date 18th March 1701, Adam Fowle, Peter Waite, and others, feoffees of the charitable gift of the Rev. George Smith, deceased, demised to John Burges and another, churchwardens of the parish of St. Mary, Northgate, the site of a messuage, with a garden thereto belonging, in Broad-street, in the parish of St. Mary, Northgate, adjoining the burial-place of the said parish, for the term of 99 years from Lady-day then last, at the yearly rent of 12*s.* 6*d.*, with a covenant to renew the lease within 30 days from the expiration thereof for the like term and with the like covenants.

The land comprised in this lease is supposed to form part of the burial-ground in St. Mary, Northgate.

The yearly sum of 12*s.* 6*d.* had not been paid for the last five or six years before this inquiry took place, but the churchwardens of St. Mary, Northgate, were ready to pay the arrears.

When it was received, 5*s.* was paid thereout as a fee-farm rent due to St. John's Hospital; the residue was carried to the churchwardens' account.

Sworder's Charity.

Sworder's Charity.

The following history of this charity is taken from entries in the parish books:—

Henry Sworder, by his Will in 1504, directed that his three messuages in St. Peter's-lane should be founded for three poor people to dwell in, they keeping them in sufficient repair.

St. Peter.

The site of these houses was let from 1675 to 1806, latterly at 1*l.* a-year, as the land whereon the almshouses or parish-houses stood.

Under an order of vestry held 26th May 1806, the site was sold for 62*l.* 12*s.*, and conveyed by John Chandler and another, the then churchwardens, and three other of the parishioners, to William Homersham, and the produce of the sale was ordered to be laid out in the funds for the use and benefit of the poor of the parish; but it was found on the death of John Chandler that the money had never been invested, and in 1828 an account was settled with the representatives of his widow, and she, having a demand upon the churchwardens to the amount of 34*l.* 7*s.* 5*d.*, paid 28*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*, the difference.

This was applied towards the repayment of a sum of money borrowed for the payment of the new church-yard.

The parish have from that time paid 2*l.* 9*s.* yearly, out of the church-rates, as interest on 62*l.* 12*s.*

This is carried to the same account with the rents of the following charity, and laid out in bread, which is distributed to the poor whenever there is a sufficient sum in hand to extend to 70 or 80 families; a preference, it is stated, is given in the distribution to those of the best character, but generally the quantity varies according to the number in family.

The churchwardens distribute the charity, and keep the accounts, which are examined annually at a vestry.

BROWN'S CHARITY.

Brown's Charity.

In a preceding page, amongst the charities for the city of Canterbury, will be found an abstract of the Will of Matthew Brown, bearing date 12th December 1717, whereby he left 50*s.* yearly, issuing out of two messuages in Staplegate, to the use of four several hospitals, and the boys' charity-school in Canterbury, and 16*s.* yearly to be distributed by the churchwardens and overseers of this parish at their discretion in penny loaves to 12 poor people of St. Peter's every Monday, for 16 successive weeks after Christmas, with a power of entry in case of non-payment.

On the 6th of June 1750 the parish officers took possession of the property for non-payment of the rent-charge of 16*s.* The premises are now considerably improved by the addition of a small piece of ground adjoining thereto, which was acquired under the following deed.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th April 1835, between Richard Hambrook of the first part, Robert Walker of the second part, and George Grist and William Welby, churchwardens, and William Lepine and another, overseers, of the third part, reciting that there was due from the said Richard Hambrook, as assignee of a lease granted to Henry Springate of two messuages in Staplegate, the sum of 21*l.* 4*s.*, the said Richard Hambrook, in consideration of the release of such sum, conveyed to the parties of the third part and their heirs two messuages, since converted into a brewhouse, with the yard and appurtenances, abutting south-west on the messuages lately demised to Henry Springate, to the use of them and their successors in office.

The premises are now let to John Aiano on lease for a term of 21 years, at the yearly rent of 8*l.*, in consideration of the expenses the lessee had incurred in repairing the premises and adding four rooms.

Of this rent 50*s.* a-year is paid to the four hospitals and to the charity-school mentioned in the donor's Will, 1*l.* 9*s.* for land-tax, and 17*s.* 6*d.* for insurance; the residue is carried to the general charity account; but of the charges for the conveyance from Mr. Hambrook, amounting to 24*l.*, 14*l.* still remains to be paid.

COLLENS'S CHARITY.

Collens's Charity.

Sallester Collens, by her Will, bearing date 7th January 1799, gave to the minister and churchwardens 50*l.* to be laid out in the public funds, and the interest distributed by them amongst the poor widowers and widows residing in the said parish, at the rate of 1*s.* each, every 29th January; but in case there should not be a sufficient number of that description, then to such poor persons of the parish as the minister and churchwardens should think proper objects.

The above legacy appears to have been laid out in the purchase of 66*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.* Four per Cent. Consols: this stock was, however, subsequently reduced by the sale of 20*l.* in 1824 for defraying the expenses of taking out administration to a party in whose name the stock stood preparatory to obtaining a new transfer.

There is, therefore, only 46*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.* New Three and a half per Cents. now belonging to this charity, and standing in the names of the Rev. J. P. Francis, John Grist, and William Welby; the dividends amounting to 1*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* are distributed amongst 33 poor widows and widowers.

Palmer's Charity.

In the Will of Sir Henry Palmer, knight, bearing date 31st July 1609, and proved at Canterbury, is a clause whereby he devised the reversion and remainder of his manor of Well Court, with the lands, &c., thereto belonging, to John White, and the heirs of his body, and for want of such issue to Isack Sedley, his heirs and assigns for ever, he and they paying yearly for ever out of the same at Michaelmas, towards the relief of the poor of the parish of Beakesbourne, 10*s.*; of Littlebourne, 10*s.*; of Patrixbourne, 10*s.*; of Bridge, 10*s.*; of St. Martin's and St. Paul's, near Canterbury, 10*s.*; and of Ickham, Wickam, and Stodmarsh, 10*s.*; to be paid to the hands of the ministers and churchwardens of each of the said parishes.

As there is no evidence of payment in respect of either of these benefactions, it is probable that the devise over to I. Sedley, on which contingency the charity appears to have depended, never took effect.

PARISH OF BISHOPSBOURNE.

Poor's Houses.

Poor's Houses.

In the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 it is stated that Elizabeth Corbett, by deed in 1749, gave a house and land to the poor, then vested in Rev. John Howell (lege Fowell), and five others, and producing 3*l.* a-year.

Indentures of lease and release were produced on the inquiry, bearing date 27th and 28th February 1770, and the latter recited an indenture, bearing date 20th September 1749, whereby Richard and Thomas Attwood conveyed to Thomas Dellard and four others a messuage, called Barnetts, and half a rod of land, in the parish of Bishopsbourne, in trust for the parishioners, to be let and disposed of for and towards the use and relief of the poor of the said parish, in such manner as the said parishioners, or the major part of them, at any vestry or public meeting, should direct or appoint.

And by indenture of lease and release, bearing date 23d and 24th May 1787, John Finch and others, sons and heirs of Thomas Finch, the surviving trustee under the deed of 1749, the subsequent conveyance of 1770 having been then lost or mislaid, conveyed the same premises to the said John Fowell and five others on the same trusts.

These premises have been usually occupied by widows or other old persons put in by the parish officers, and have been kept in repair out of the poor's-rates.

It seems questionable, from the terms of the deed of 1749, whether this is not to be considered as property belonging to the parish unaffected by any charitable use.

Mrs. Leggett's Charity.

Mrs. Leggett's Charity.

Mrs. E. Leggett, by her Will, bearing date 15th July 1820, bequeathed to the churchwardens of this parish 100*l.* Consols, the interest thereof to be distributed every 2d February to and amongst the poor persons belonging to and residing in the said parish who should not receive parochial relief.

This legacy was reduced by the payment of duty, and a proportional abatement, in consequence of a deficiency of assets, to 83*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.* Consols, which is standing in the names of the Rev. Stephen Gurteen (the minister of a Presbyterian chapel in Canterbury), and Stephen Gibbs and Richard Wootton, who were in office as churchwardens at the time of the transfer.

The dividends amounting to 2*l.* 10*s.* per annum are received by the churchwardens, and applied, with money raised by subscription, in the purchase of bread, which is distributed to the poor of this parish on the 2d of February. It is stated that as much as 2*l.* 10*s.* is disposed of amongst poor persons, belonging to and residing in the parish, and not receiving parish relief, being the objects particularly pointed out by the testatrix.

Taylor's Charity.

Taylor's Charity.

John Taylor, by his Will, bearing date 6th March 1581, and proved at Canterbury, as appears from a copy entered in the churchwardens' book, directed that if William Taylor, to whom he devised the premises hereinafter mentioned in tail, should die without issue, the churchwardens of Chislet should let his lands and tenements, and distribute the rents and profits to and amongst the poor people of the said parish, the farms and tenements being kept in repair.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 11th and 12th November 1822, between John Wootton and eight others of the first part, John Calloway of the second part, and Thomas Denne, since deceased, Thomas Wood, Thomas Neame, Henry Collard, junior, James Collard, David Covey, John Wootton, Edward Collard, James Henniker, John Watcher, and two others since deceased, of the third part; reciting that Paul Barrett had enfeoffed divers persons in a messuage or tenement, and 44 acres of land and woodland thereto belonging, at Marsh-side, in Chislet, formerly the estate of John Taylor; and further reciting several mesne conveyances, the last bearing date 26th and 27th January 1796; the parties of the first part, viz. John Wootton and two others (as the representatives of certain trustees who were living in 1796, but had not joined in the conveyance), and the others (as the survivors under the deeds of 1796), conveyed the same premises to the use of Thomas Chislet.

Denne the elder, and others, parties of the third part, and their heirs, in trust, for the sustentation and relief of the poor parishioners of Chislet. In the previous deeds the trusts were for the sustentation and relief of the poor parishioners "inhabiting within the said parish of Chislet," but in the deed of release of 1822, the words "inhabiting within" appear to have been erased, and the word "of" substituted.

The property of this charity consists of a farm-house, barn, and out-buildings, and about 40 acres of land, let to John Wootton as yearly tenant at 80*l.* a-year, to which the rent was reduced from 100*l.* at Michaelmas 1834.

The present appears to be a sufficient rent. The premises are let by the trustees, but the rents are received and disposed of by the churchwardens, who submit the accounts annually to a vestry, at which some of the trustees are generally present.

The income is applied partly in assisting widows and other poor persons in the payment of their rents; in supplying poor persons with clothing, meat or money, occasionally as they apply for assistance, in case of sickness or other distress, and in clothing such poor boys as are going out apprentice. The whole income, except a small balance kept in hand, is thus applied every year.

It is stated on the part of the churchwardens that, in the disposal of this charity, they have always considered the character of the applicants, and have principally assisted those who are of good character, and who have endeavoured to maintain themselves without, or with but little parish relief.

It is to be observed however, that some at least of the poor think themselves aggrieved by the present mode of application. They consider that the charity was given exclusively to those who receive no parochial relief, and such was the statement on a table of benefactions in the church, until it was altered in 1814; and they therefore contend that the rents ought to be divided equally amongst all who fall within the description of poor not receiving parish relief.

It is unnecessary to remark that this is clearly an erroneous view of the subject, even supposing the charity was for the exclusive benefit of such persons.

PETYT'S CHARITY.

Petyt's Charity.

Thomas Petyt, by his Will, bearing date 13th August 1623, and proved at Canterbury, reciting that he had lately purchased two parts of the tithes of the demesnes of the manor of Chislet, theretofore belonging to the dissolved hospital of St. Lawrence, in or near Canterbury, bequeathed out of the rent of the said tithes 40*s.* yearly to the poor of the parish of Chislet, and 40*s.* yearly to the minister or vicar of the said parish and his successors, and he devised the said tithes after the death of his wife, without issue by him, to his two sisters and nephew, and to their heirs.

The yearly sum of 4*l.* is paid in respect of this charity by Thomas Wood, esq., of Chislet, as charged upon the two third parts of the tithes of Chislet Court, of which two-thirds part belongs to the wife of Richard Halford, esq., of Canterbury, part to Mr. John Wise, who lives in Devonshire, and part is settled on Mrs. Wilkie, the daughter of the said Thomas Wood.

Avoiding the responsibility of selecting poor persons to receive the 20*s.* every year, the churchwardens had improperly left the money in Mr. Wood's hands for six years, until the 16th February, a few days before this inquiry took place, when they received 12*l.* for the arrears, and distributed the amount indiscriminately amongst all the poor of the parish in sums of 6*d.* a-head, according to the number in family.

CHURCH LANDS.

Church Lands.

On a table of benefactions in the church are mentioned the following lands and tenements, the rents whereof it is stated are to be applied to the repairs of the church: viz., a house adjoining the church-yard, a house and school-room attached, and about two acres of arable land; four cottages at Chitty: also two acres of arable land, one acre situate near Chislet Forstal, and the other near Chitty. It is also stated that 10*s.* are to be paid yearly to a dog-whipper, charged on an acre of marsh-land, belonging to Sir John W. H. Bridges.

The premises mentioned on the table of benefactions are let as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| A house adjoining the church-yard, called the Old Workhouse, let to the overseers at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| A house and school-room attached, with a garden thereto, let to Henry Wootton, a schoolmaster, at . . . . . | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| One acre of land lying at Chitty, let to the same person . . . | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| One acre of land near Chislet Forstall, let to Thomas A. Neame . | 2 | 10 | 0 |
| The rest of the premises are let to the parish officers, under the name of the New Workhouse and cottages at Chitty, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 11 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 25 | 10 | 0 |

These appear to be fair rents; the amount is carried to the general account of the churchwardens.

There is also received 10*s.* a-year from Mr. Henniker, the tenant of Sir John Bridges, as charged on lands called the Dog-whipper's Marsh, containing about two acres.

This is paid to a person for keeping order in the church during Divine service.

PARISH AND BOROUGH OF FORDWICH.

Walter Bigge's Charity.

Walter Bigge's Charity.

Walter Bigge, as appears by an extract from his Will, in the book of accounts, dated 5th December 1631, gave all his lands which he purchased of William Hopkin, in the parishes of Westbere and Sturry, for the relief of poor aged people of Fordwich; and he directed that the profits should be distributed amongst them by the mayor and jurats for the time being, one half of the yearly rent to be distributed by them, or the major part of them, on Good Friday, and the other half on the Friday before Christmas, and he gave the letting of the premises to the said mayor and jurats.

The premises derived from the testator are demised by lease, bearing date 23d October 1830, by the mayor and two of the jurats to George Frend, by the description of three pieces of arable and marsh land bounded respectively as therein mentioned, and containing in the whole by estimation 9 A. 1 R. for 14 years from Michaelmas then last, at a fair yearly rent of 20*l.*

This rent is divided into two parts; and one moiety is distributed on Good Friday, and the other on the Friday before Christmas, by the mayor and one or more of the jurats, amongst from 16 to 20 poor persons, selected by them as the most deserving and most needy persons, in sums varying from 5*s.* to 1*l.*

Stephen Bigge's Charity.

Stephen Bigge's Charity.

Stephen Bigge, by his Will, bearing date 22d August 1646, gave to six of the poorest housekeepers of Fordwich, and to as many of Sturry, 20*s.* per annum each, to be paid half-yearly, as the rent of the land given for that use should grow due, by the minister, churchwardens and overseers, and four of the chief inhabitants of either parish, to be chosen by the minister and overseers of each parish; and he devised to the said minister, churchwardens and overseers, and other feoffees, his marsh-land lying in Old Romney, or near there, containing about 20 acres, in trust for the said poor; and the remainder of the rent, after payment of the said 12*l.* per annum, he gave for the placing out poor boys and girls of Sturry and Fordwich apprentices. And he directed that the feoffees should yearly pass an account of their receipts and disbursements before the mayor, jurats and inhabitants of Fordwich, for which purpose a parchment book was to be provided.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 15th and 16th June 1830, between Thomas Watton and Thomas Crouch, the then surviving trustees, of the one part, and Francis Somerford, Edward Thorpe, John Walter, Thomas Winder, Adam Puckett, William Kennett, Daniel Woodruff, Rev. Allen Fielding, —— S. Kingsford, Henry Pidduck, William Bourne, Edward Foord Blaxland, William Collis, Mark Burrows, James Lucas, James Thorpe, John Watton, Thomas Addley, James Moyce, Henry Bourne, Benjamin Bourne, Thomas Lucas, Thomas Holtum, Underdown Thorpe, and John Walter, and another, since deceased, of Sturry and Fordwich, of the other part; reciting the said Will and an indenture of feoffment, bearing date the last day of February 1654, in which the premises were described as containing two pieces, the one 13 A. 0 R. 14 P., and the other, 7 A. 2 R. 5 P.; and reciting subsequent conveyances; the parties of the first part conveyed the premises to the parties of the second part and their heirs, in trust, to pay the rents and profits to the minister, churchwardens and overseers, and four chief inhabitants of the parishes of Fordwich and Sturry, to be appointed by the said minister, churchwardens and overseers, to be disposed of as by the said Will was directed.

The premises consisting of 20 A. 1 R. 19 P. are let to Samuel Finn, under a lease dated 9th September 1833, for 14 years from Michaelmas then next, at the yearly rent of 40*l.*, which was fixed according to the valuation of a surveyor, taking into consideration that the lessee had previously kept the land in good cultivation, and had been at great expense in draining.

The amount is divided equally between the parishes of Sturry and Fordwich.

Out of the moiety appropriated to this parish, 6*l.* is divided equally amongst six poor persons selected at a vestry as exerting themselves to maintain their families without parish assistance, and the residue is applied in placing out boys apprentices, with premiums varying from 25*l.* to 30*l.*, the master agreeing to clothe, lodge, and feed them; and hitherto 1*l.* 1*s.* has been paid for each indenture, as it was thought necessary that they should be stamped. Until lately, whatever happened to be in hand was paid to Mr. Kingsford, of Sturry, who allowed interest thereon at the rate of 5 per cent.

The balance in his hands amounted at one period to 75*l.*, but in 1834 it was reduced to 24*l.*, money having been drawn out for the purpose of binding out apprentices. Mr. Kingsford soon afterwards failed, and 3*s.* in the pound only had been received in February 1836, but another dividend was expected.

When the accounts were made up in December 1835, there was a balance in the hands of F. Somerford, the then churchwarden, of 21*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*

The accounts are produced annually at a vestry, and are generally signed by the mayor, the minister, and other inhabitants.

Fordwich.

Thomas Bigge's Charity, continued.

The yearly sum of 50*s.* is received by the overseers from John Friend, of Birchington, the owner of a farm in Fordwich, called the Chequer Farm.

The amount is distributed in bread every week in twopenny loaves to the most needy and most deserving poor.

EDWARDS'S CHARITY.

Edwards's Charity.

Sarah Edwards, by her Will, dated 19th December 1819, and proved in the Prerogative Court, directed that 100*l.* should be funded in the Navy Five per Cent. Annuities, and that the interest should be paid yearly into the hands of the mayor of Fordwich for the time being, to be distributed by him to the poor of the said parish in bread.

In 1823, 86*l.* 7*s.* 9*d.* New Four per Cents. was transferred into the names of Anthony Jennings, esq. (late mayor), Isaac Pidduck, and Cumberland Woodruff, then jurats, of whom Isaac Pidduck is the only survivor.

The dividends on this stock, reduced to Three and a half per Cents., amounting to 3*l.* 0*s.* 4*d.*, are received through the Canterbury bank by the mayor for the time being, and the amount is paid to two bakers, who supply bread, which is distributed to the poor about the 1st of January, in quantities varying from half a gallon to a gallon and a half, according to the number in family.

SIR ROGER MANWOOD'S HOSPITAL.

Sir Roger Manwood's Charity.

An account of the hospital locally situate in this parish, and founded by Sir Roger Manwood, will be found in a former part of this Report under the head of the City of Canterbury.

SIR ROGER MANWOOD'S GIFT OF POOR STOCK, &c.

Sir Roger Manwood's Gift of Poor Stock, &c.

In the Will of Sir Roger Manwood there is a clause whereby he bequeathed 40*l.* for providing a stock of wool, &c., for setting to work the poor of the six parishes of Hackington, St. Dunstan's, Harbledown, Westgate, Blean, and Sturry: and he further made provision for payment, by the owner of his house in St. Stephen's, of all tenths and fifteenths charged upon other premises at Hackington, as therein particularly mentioned, and for good repair and maintenance of two or three miles of highways between Thornden Gate and Canterbury, and of Shulford and Barton Lanes, besides ordinary amendment according to the statute: and he directed that the money collected for the statute-duty should be doubled by the owners of his said house in St. Stephen's, and that with the whole money the surveyors of the highways should hire good labourers, &c., and see the same applied.

The parishioners have received no benefit for many years, if ever, from these benefactions.

DAME F. MANWOOD'S CHARITY.

Dame F. Manwood's Charity.

Dame Frances Manwood, by her Will, bearing date 25th November 1638, bequeathed to the parish of Hackington, alias St. Stephen's, 20*l.*, to be paid into the hands of the parson, churchwardens, and overseers, to the intent that with the profits thereof a sermon should be maintained, to be preached by the parson of the said parish, or some other able minister, in the parish church, on the Sunday next after the 2d of April, for which sermon 10*s.* should be paid, and the residue of the said profits distributed to the poor in bread or money, at the discretion of the parson, churchwardens, and overseers.

By indenture, bearing date 25th August 1830, reciting the Will as above abstracted, and reciting that Sir John Manwood, by indenture dated 23d December 1641, to fulfil his mother's pious intention, had granted to Thomas Andrews and others a yearly rent of 40*s.* issuing out of four tenements, an orchard, and four little gardens on the south side of Westgate-street, in the parish of Holy Cross, Westgate, Canterbury, payable at Lady-day, on the trusts mentioned in the said Will: and on further trust that, whenever the trustees should die or be removed from the parish, the remaining trustees should grant the said annuity to a competent number of the parishioners.

William Deedes and Thomas Fleet, the then surviving trustees, granted the said annuity to the Rev. James Hamilton, T. G. Andrews, William De'Chair Baker, William Keane, Edward Austin, Thomas Pettyt, John Pettyt, jun., Thomas Wood, and James Wood, jun., and two others since deceased.

The yearly sum of 40*s.* is regularly paid by Joseph Marshall, the lessee of five houses and gardens in Westgate, belonging to John Homersham of Herne Bay. The amount is disposed of—10*s.* thereof to the minister for preaching a sermon, and 10*s.* to the poor generally, in sums of 1*s.* 6*d.* each.

Up to 1832, 6*s.* a-year had been reserved to meet the expenses of the new trust-deed.

CHURCH LANDS.

Church Lands.

On a table of benefactions it is stated that Sir R. Manwood gave a tenement on Tyler Hill towards the benefit of the church, and that Archdeacon Layton gave a house called Layton's and three acres of land, in the parish of Sturry, for the same purpose.

The house on Tyler Hill is let with a small garden to John Terry, as yearly tenant, at a rent of 5*l.* 5*s.*, and the property in Sturry to George Godfrey, as yearly tenant, at the rent of 8*l.*

These are fair rents, and are carried to the general account of the churchwardens.

Denward's School and Tillard's Benefaction.

Denward's School and Tillard's Benefaction.

For an account of Mrs. Denward's School, see First Report, p. 114.

James Tillard, by his Will, bearing date November 1827, and proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to the trustees, for the time being, of the charity-school erected by Mrs. Denward, 2,000*l.* Consols on trust, to lay out annually part of the dividends in thoroughly repairing the school and the house belonging thereto, and to pay the surplus to the master of the said school, for increasing his salary.

This stock was transferred into the names of William Hougham, William Henry Baldock, and Edward Sandys Lumsdaine.

In May 1829, in consequence of some irregularity in the appointment of trustees, the said E. S. Lumsdaine, as rector of Upper Hardres, John Chesshyre and Catherine his wife, the niece and heir of William Hougham, deceased, and Thomas Horne and Anne Boulding, the master and mistress of the school, presented a petition to the Court of Chancery, praying that it might be referred to the Master to appoint proper persons trustees for Mrs. Denward's and Tillard's Charity, and to approve for a proper plan for appointing trustees in future.

The Master, by his Report, bearing date 13th July 1831, certified that he had approved of the Rev. E. S. Lumsdaine, as rector as aforesaid, the Rev. Edward Gregory, the Rev. Richard Tillard, the Rev. William John Chesshyre, William Henry Baldock, esq., and the Rev. Edward Norwood, as trustees for the said charity estates and funds, and directed that the said John Chesshyre and Catherine his wife should convey the messuage and lands derived from Mrs. Denward to the use of the said trustees and their heirs upon the trusts declared in the foundation deed; and that the sums of 765*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* New Three and a half per Cent. Stock, derived from Mrs. Denward, and 2,000*l.* Consols bequeathed by James Tillard, should be transferred into the names of the said E. S. Lumsdaine, E. Gregory, W. H. Baldock, and R. Tillard, for the purposes therein above mentioned; and in order to provide for the appointment of trustees in future, that, whenever by death or resignation they should be reduced to two, the survivors should appoint four new trustees, to whom, with the survivors, the messuage and lands should be conveyed; and that, whenever two of the four trustees in whose names the stock stood should die or resign, the remaining trustees should transfer the stock into the names of themselves and two others of the then trustees, and that the rector of Upper Hardres should always be appointed one of the trustees.

By an order of the Court, dated 4th August 1831, the said Report was confirmed; and it was ordered that so much of the 2,000*l.* stock as should be required for the payment of the costs of the parties should be sold out.

The costs of the parties were taxed at 409*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, and 432*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* Consols was sold out for the payment thereof, and the remainder 1,555*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* was transferred according to the Master's Report.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 11th and 12th June 1823, between John Chesshyre and Catherine his wife of the first part, George Gregory of the second part, and the trustees named in the Master's Report of the third part, the parties of the first part having levied a fine of the premises derived from Mrs. Denward, conveyed the same to the use of the parties of the third part and their heirs: and by deed-poll, dated 24th June 1834, reciting the proceedings in Chancery, and that the property had been conveyed and the stock transferred according to the directions of the Court, they declared that the same were conveyed and transferred upon the trusts declared by Mrs. Denward and J. Tillard, and in the orders of the Court of Chancery.

The school premises, which in the former Report were represented as requiring considerable repairs, were found to be in so bad a state that it was necessary almost to rebuild them, and the sum of 204*l.* has been expended thereon since 1834, of which 154*l.* 16*s.* has been already paid, and the remainder still remains due to Mr. Lumsdaine.

The present income of the charity is as follows:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| The rent of the land derived from Mrs. Denward, which it is expected must be reduced to 12*l.* . . . . . | 16 | 0 | 0 |
| Dividends on 765*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* New Three and a half per Cent. . | 26 | 16 | 0 |
| Dividends on 1,555*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* Consols . . . . . | 46 | 13 | 6 |
| £ | 89 | 9 | 6 |

The master, who has been lately dismissed, received the rent of the land and a salary of 50*l.* a-year. The present master is only upon trial, and till it is decided whether he is capable of going on with the school his salary will not be fixed.

When the accounts were made up at the end of December 1835, there was a balance in hand of 7*l.* 9*s.*

MRS. DENWARD'S CHARITY.

Upper Hardres-cum-Sterling.

Mrs. Denward's Charity.

Elizabeth Denward, by her Will, bearing date 9th July 1805, and proved in the Prerogative Court, directed that 700*l.* Consols should be transferred out of her stock in that fund, or purchased out of her personal estate, and continued in the name of the rector of Hardres-with-Stelling, on trust, with the assistance of the churchwardens of the said parishes, to dispose of the clear dividends in buying bread every week for the relief of the most necessitous poor residing in the said parishes, which bread she directed should be distributed in the churchyard of each parish alternately every Sunday morning, viz., one Sunday to the poor of the parish of Hardres, and the other to the poor of the parish of Stelling.

This stock was reduced by the payment of legacy-duty to 630*l.* which is standing in the name of the Rev. Edwin Sandys Lumsdaine, the present rector. He receives the dividends, amounting to 18*l.* 18*s.* per annum, and the amount is laid out in the purchase of bread; 7*s.* worth is distributed every Sunday in the two parishes alternately, and the surplus is given in like manner in the two parishes on Christmas-day.

The quantity distributed to each family is from 1 to 2½ quartern loaves, depending on the number of poor who attend divine service in the morning.

Two other charities derived from the same testatrix will be noticed in a subsequent page, under the head of General Charities for the County of Kent.

SIR WILLIAM SEDLEY AND SIR JOHN SMITH'S CHARITIES.

Sir William Sedley and Sir John Smith's Charities.

By indenture, bearing date 17th September 1627, between Sir John Sedley, bart., executor of Sir W. Sedley, of the first part, John Welby of the second part, and Robert Knowler and 12 others of the third part, reciting that the said Sir W. Sedley, by his Will, bearing date 29th October 1617, directed his executors to purchase to the use of the poor of the parish of Herne an annuity of 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, and that the said Sir John Sedley, party thereto, had in lieu of the said annuity paid 55*l.* towards the purchasing of the lands thereafter mentioned for the use of the said poor, the said John Welby, in consideration of 64*l.*, whereof the said 55*l.* was part, and 9*l.*, the residue, was paid by Robert Knowler and others, parties of the third part, being part of a legacy of 20*l.* theretofore given by Sir John Smith to the use of the poor of the said parish, granted to the parties of the third part and their heirs two pieces of land, theretofore one piece, containing by estimation 10 acres, in Chislet, butting on lands called Spittle Land, north, east and south and to the highway west, on trust that they and their heirs should see the rents and profits yearly bestowed on the poor of the said parish, according to the Will of the said Sir. W. Sedley, with directions that the survivor or his heirs should convey the premises to new trustees inhabiting in the parish of Herne.

It appears from the table of benefactions put up before 1791 that the lands in Chislet consisted of four closes, containing 9A. 2R. 29P., with a tenement, and were let at 7*l.* a-year.

By indenture of lease, bearing date 24th June 1791, between the Rev. Joseph Price, vicar, and 18 others, parishioners of Herne, of the one part, and Thomas Reynolds of the other part, reciting that the parties of the first part, as trustees for themselves and other the parishioners, had lately purchased a piece of ground whereon to erect a poor-house, and for defraying the expenses it had been agreed at a meeting of the parishioners that the lands thereinafter mentioned, being part of certain estates belonging to the parish of Herne, should be demised for 102 years at a public auction to the highest bidder, at the yearly rent of 2*l.* 2*s.*, and that the said Thomas Reynolds had offered 240*l.* for the same, the said parties, in consideration of 240*l.*, demised to the said Thomas Reynolds several pieces of land, containing by estimation 10 acres, in the parish of Chislet, then in the occupation of William Palmer, abutting on lands of Peter Loubert, east, south, and north, and of the highway west, for a term of 102 years from the 10th October then next, paying to the churchwardens and overseers and their successors, for the use of the poor of the said parish, the yearly rent of 2*l.* 2*s.*

It is probable that the parties to this lease were, at the time, ignorant of the trusts to which the demised premises were subject, the previous rents having been, as there is reason to believe, carried either to the churchwardens' or overseers' accounts, and not applied for the use of the poor, according to the Wills of Sir W. Sedley and Sir J. Smith.

The poor-house, for the erection of which the sum of 240*l.* paid as a consideration for the lease was required, is now about to be sold, and it seems that out of the produce of the sale the parishioners ought in the first instance to make compensation for the injury which this transaction effected with regard to the charity, as far as it may be done, by repayment of the sum above mentioned, and investing it in the funds: with this view we have certified this case to the Attorney-General.

The premises are in the occupation of Mrs. Palmer, who paid, in 1831 and 1832, 6*l.* 6*s.*, as for three years' rent; this money was improperly carried to the account of the poor's rates. The rent due from Michaelmas 1832 was in arrear at the time this inquiry took place.

The land is stated to be worth from 25*s.* to 30*s.* an acre.

Herne.

Hole's Charity.

Hole's Charity.

Thomas Hole, by his Will, bearing date 13th June 1626, and proved at Canterbury, devised all his messuages, lands, &c., at Hoden, in Ash next Sandwich, to Thomazin, his wife, for life, with remainder to John Boulton and the other children of his sister, Mary the wife of Robert Boulton, and to Mary the daughter of John Tayler, of Chislet, and their heirs, they paying to the poor people of the parish of Herne 13*s.* 4*d.* yearly for ever; to be paid to the churchwardens or overseers of the poor of the said parish, and bestowed yearly as followeth: viz., 10*s.* to be given yearly to the poor, and 3*s.* 4*d.* to such as should ring the bells on St. Thomas's-day; with a power of distress to the churchwardens and overseers in case of non-payment.

A tenement in the parish of Ash is mentioned on a table of benefactions in the church, as the gift of Thomas Hole, known by the name of Hoden, and then in the occupation of Daniel Newder, esq.

The premises above mentioned are in the occupation of Michael Backer, of Ash, near Wingham, who pays the yearly sum of 13*s.* 4*d.* to the churchwardens. This is entered in their accounts as applicable—10*s.* thereof to the poor on St. Thomas's-day, and 3*s.* 4*d.* to the ringers.

The latter payment is regularly made, but nothing has been distributed of late years to the poor.

Milles's Charity.

Milles's Charity.

In the Will of Christopher Milles, esq., bearing date 28th May 1638, and proved at Canterbury, is the following clause: "The poore to whom of Herne I will and bequeath 3*l.* of Reculver 4*l.* of Hoath 2*l.* and of Westbeer 1*l.* a-yeare being in all 10*l.* per annum to be paid the last day of August every yeare from yeare to yeare after my decease which was the day of my birth and to continue so long as yt shall please His Grace and successors to continue the lease of the parsonage of Reculver Hoad and Herne to any of my sirname that one after another shall succeed mee in the sayde parsonages and tytherys and therefore praye the vicar and minister of Reculver Hoad and Herne and parson of Westbeer for the time being and the Cheife of every parish yt concernes to be peticoners (as cause shall require) to His Grace and successors for the poore in that behalfe as they tende the welldoeing of their owne children they shal leave here behind them and would not the guilt of conscience they else shall hence carry with them for neglecting to gaine the charity of the dead towards the liveing poor so adopted my children."

The yearly sum of 3*l.* is received from George Sladden, who holds the rectory of Herne as tenant to the Honourable T. G. Milles, now Lord Sondes, the lessee under the Archbishop of Canterbury.

This sum is received by the churchwardens, who, instead of distributing it to the poor, have applied it in aid of the church-rates.

Knowler's Charity.

Knowler's Charity.

Thomas Knowler, by his Will, bearing date 5th October 1655, as appears from an extract produced by George May, esq., gave to the poor of the parish of Herne for ever 5*l.* a-year out of his farm at Belting, in Herne, which he purchased of Edward Caddy, and did make his brothers Richard and George Knowler, and two others of his family and name, feoffees in trust, for the disposing of the said 5*l.* to the poorest sort of people, towards the buying of them clothes and other necessaries to supply their wants; he also gave out of his farm at Belting 40*s.* yearly, for ever, towards the repairing and maintaining of the south aisle in Herne church, where his father and mother and some of his family lay buried.

The yearly sum of 5*l.* is received by the Rev. T. S. May, the vicar of Herne, from Captain Shakespeare, who purchased the property called Belting of the devisees of Thomas Ashbee; and he lays out this sum in the purchase of five coats and five petticoats, which he distributes to 10 poor men and women, whom he thinks the fittest objects of the charity.

The yearly sum of 2*l.* is paid by Thomas Ashbee to the churchwardens, and carried to their general account.

Howlet's Charity.

Howlet's Charity.

It is stated on the table of benefactions that there was payable 3*l.* yearly from the lands of Mr. Thomas Holbourn, at Green Hill, in Hampton Borough, bequeathed by Mr. George Howlet, 9th April 1624.

Search has been made for the Will of George Howlet without success, but a farm called Green Hill, in Hampton Borough, was purchased in 1835 of Henry Worrall, by William Wiggens, of Bridge-street, Blackfriars, on which occasion it was discovered that the premises were subject to this rent-charge, and compensation was made to Mr. Wiggens by a deduction from the purchase money.

It does not appear from the parish accounts up to what period the rent-charge was paid, or how when received it was disposed of.

Mr. Wiggens has agreed to pay the amount for two years, viz., 1835, when he purchased, and 1836.

Church Estate.

Church Estate.

The churchwardens of this parish receive, as applicable to the general expenses of the church, several sums from different landholders, the amount of which has not materially varied since 1665, excepting that some payments have been wholly discontinued, and others differently apportioned. The lands in respect of which these payments are made are particularly described, with the respective admeasurements, on a table of benefactions in the church, as "in land," which, though of modern date, was probably copied, with no other alteration than the names of the occupiers, from a more ancient table, or some authentic terriers.

A question has naturally been raised whether the parish are entitled to these payments as unimproveable rent-charges, or to the fair value of the lands at rack-rent; a question which would undoubtedly be involved in difficulty after so long an acquiescence in the ancient rents, even if the parish could produce a clear title, by legal conveyances, of the lands in question. It is possible there may be some old conveyances in existence, and that they were, in fact, produced on this inquiry; but it appeared to be a mere waste of time to examine the immense quantity of very old deeds that were produced from the parish chest, after having ascertained, by the inspection of those which seemed the most likely to bear on the question, that they threw no light upon it whatever. And in a case of this description, in which the more wealthy parishioners are interested, who, if they think proper, may obtain professional advice as to their rights, and proceed for the recovery thereof, a more particular inquiry under this Commission seemed to be of comparatively little importance.

The following is a copy of the table of benefactions, to which are added some observations, and the names of the parties now paying the rent :—

Richard Denne's Charity.

Richard Denne's Charity.

It is stated on the same table that Richard Denne, by Will in 1616, devised a house and orchard, 1*l.* of the rent to be paid to the minister for two sermons, and the remainder to the poor.

These premises are let to Richard Clement, as yearly tenant, at a good rent of 10*l.*, of which 1*l.* is paid to the officiating minister, and the remainder is distributed in bread, meat, or money, according to the discretion of the churchwardens and overseers for the time being, amongst about 90 or 100 poor persons.

Austin's Charity.

Austin's Charity.

It is also stated that Richard Austin, by Will in 1645, charged a farm with the annual payment of 10*s.*, to be applied in the purchase of clothing for the poorest people.

The yearly sum of 10*s.* is paid in respect of a farm, called Bay Farm, lately devised by Mrs. M. Hammond to John Neame, esq., of Sellinge.

This charity has been hitherto disposed of by Mrs. Hammond herself in providing poor persons with flannel.

Gibbs's Charity.

Gibbs's Charity.

It is further stated, on the same table, that William Gibbs, by Will, bearing date 11th

February 1811, left the interest of 100*l.* Four per Cent. Annuities, to be distributed yearly,—3*l.* 10*s.* thereof to be given to deserving poor persons who should be regular attendants at church, and the remainder 10*s.* to the poor residing in the parish workhouse. Ickham. Gibbs's Charity, continued.

In lieu of this legacy there is 100*l.* New Three and a half per Cent. standing in the name of the Rev. N. Symonds and two others, who were churchwardens at the time the transfer was made.

The dividends are received through the Canterbury Union Bank.

Out of the dividends 10*s.* has been hitherto distributed amongst the poor in the parish workhouse, and the remainder is divided equally between the minister and churchwardens, each of whom distributes his portion according to his discretion. The minister has regularly provided five poor widows with coals, and the churchwardens have given 1*s.* a-piece to the most regular attendants at church.

HAMMOND'S CHARITY.

Mary Hammond, late of the Bay Farm, in this parish, who died in December 1835, bequeathed, as stated by John Neame, esq., who derived property under her Will, 800*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Stock, for the perpetual repairs of her family tombs in the church, and the remainder to be bestowed on the poor by the minister and churchwardens. Hammond's Charity.

The sum of 720*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Stock, (the residue having been deducted for the duty,) has been transferred into the hands of the Rev. N. Symonds, Jennings, Gibbs, and J. Bing.

PARISH OF KINGSTON.

Kingston.

In the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 it is stated that John Turner, by Will in 1746, gave a rent-charge of 6*l.* 10*s.* for bread to the poor of this parish, then vested in Watkinson Payler.

It is stated that bread was distributed to the poor, until the estate, on which the payment was considered as charged, passed out of the Payler family; that the succeeding proprietor having refused to continue the payment, a copy of the Will was procured and referred to a professional person, who advised that the payment could not be recovered. It was probably found to be void under the statute of 9 Geo. II.

PARISH OF LITTLEBOURNE.

Littlebourne.

DURRANT'S CHARITY.

John Durrant, by his Will, bearing date 9th January 1560, devised his lands and tenements in Littlebourne, called the Church House and Lands, to Richard and John Elger, and their heirs, on consideration that they should pay to the poor inhabitants of the said parish 3*s.* 6*d.* on Palm Monday and the Monday before Whitsuntide, by even portions, yearly for ever; and should also pay to the poor inhabitants aforesaid 1*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* towards the discharge of their yearly cesses to the church, or, if no cess should be made upon them, to the use of such poor; and, in case of non-payment of the several sums, he devised the premises to the heirs of William Durrant, on the same condition; but, in case of their default, to the churchwardens to the use of the poor. Durrant's Charity.

It appears from an old churchwardens' book that, in 1571 and several years afterwards, 25*s.* yearly was received from the family of Elger. This payment was continued to 1581; but in the entries subsequent thereto, down to 1605, 1*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* only is entered as received.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* is now paid by Mary Inge, and is disposed of with other charities hereinafter mentioned. The house is still called the Church House.

SLOYDEN'S CHARITY.

Harry Sloyden, by his Will, bearing date 5th January 1568, and proved at Canterbury, as appears from an extract entered in an old churchwardens' book belonging to the parish of Wickhambreux, gave all his lands in the parish of Littlebourne to the poor people of the parishes of Littlebourne and Wickhambreux, the churchwardens of the said two parishes to have the letting of the same for the most advantage of the poor people of each parish, to be distributed amonst them at Christmas and Easter yearly by the said churchwardens, at the oversight of the parson of Wickhambreux and the vicar of Littlebourne. Sloyden's Charity.

The premises above mentioned consist of one close, in the parish of Littlebourne, called the Poor's Close, containing 7A. 0R. 27P. It was let to Richard Pembroke on a lease, which expired at Michaelmas 1834, at 16*l.* 10*s.*, and he continues yearly tenant at the same rent, which appears to be the full value.

The rent is divided equally between the two parishes of Littlebourne and Wickhambreux, and the sum of 8*l.* 5*s.*, as one moiety of the rent, is carried to the same account as the preceding charity.

FRANKLYN'S CHARITY.

James Franklyn, by his Will, bearing date 31st July 1616, as stated on a table of benefactions in the church, gave 5*l.* to be employed as a stock for the poor of this parish; and there is added a memorandum that this sum had increased to 11*l.*, which was in the hands of the overseers, and the interest distributed amongst the poor at Christmas. Franklyn's Charity.

The yearly sum of 8*s.* 3*d.* is paid out of the poor's-rates as the interest of this money.

The income derived from the preceding charities, amounting to 9*l.* 14*s.* 9*d.*, is distributed by the churchwardens amongst poor persons, in sums varying from 2*s.* to 6*s.*, or 10*s.*, and the names are regularly entered in the churchwardens' book.

Nackington.

Church Rent.

Church Rent.

A yearly sum of 8*s.*, mentioned on a table of benefactions as due to the church out of the Wallace Lands, is paid by the agent for the Hon. T. G. Milles, now Lord Sondes, as charged on lands in the parish of Nackington, in the occupation of Thomas Collard, and is carried to the churchwardens' account.

---

Patricksbourne.

PARISH OF PATRICKSBOURNE.

There are two cottages, each divided into two dwellings, and situate on the boundary between the parishes of Patricksbourne and Bridge, which are generally supposed to have been given by one of the family of Taylor.

There seems to be no evidence in confirmation of this supposition, and from the uses to which the premises have been applied it would rather seem that they are to be considered as houses belonging to the parish.

Petham.

PARISH OF PETHAM.

Strong's and Hubbard's Charities.

Strong's and Hubbard's Charities.

In a paper printed in 1825, as a table of benefactions to the poor of the parish of Petham, it is stated that Edward Strong, by his Will, bearing date 15th April 1623, gave an annuity of 30*s.*, payable on the feast of St. James the Apostle, out of a messuage and lands adjoining Petham-street, late of T. R. and T. Heeler, and then of W. H. Baldock, esq., that the same was to be paid into the hands of appointed trustees, and the money distributed by them yearly amongst the poor of the said parish.

On the same table it is stated that John Hubbard, by his Will, bearing date 4th May 1820, left 30*s.* a-year, payable on the same day, to the same trustees and for the same purpose, out of a field called Stedwicke, near Petham-street, then in the possession of the said W. H. Baldock, esq.

It is also stated that there was in the hands of the Rev. C. Graham, vicar of Petham, 6*l.*, the interest of which, 6*s.*, was payable to the same trustees for the same uses as above mentioned.

This sum had been in the hands of the preceding vicar, and the present vicar has given a promissory note for the amount.

There are eight of the parishioners appointed trustees to receive these charities; the four eldest only act, and the four juniors succeed as vacancies occur by death in the first set. On the death of any one of the parties, another is appointed by the seven survivors.

The several yearly sums of 30*s.* each are received by the trustees from W. H. Baldock, esq., and the yearly sum of 6*s.* as the interest of the 6*l.* from the vicar.

The amount, being 3*l.* 6*s.* per annum, is distributed by the four elder trustees amongst poor families of the parish, so as to encourage, as far as possible, those who are the most industrious and who maintain themselves without the aid of parish relief, in sums of about 2*s.* 6*d.* to a family.

Bishop Randolph's Bequest.

Bishop Randolph's Bequest.

A sum of 10*l.* was paid to the Rev. C. Graham as a legacy left to the poor of this parish by the late Bishop Randolph.

No particular directions having been given to him as to the disposal of it, he considered he was at liberty to distribute the principal sum, if he had thought it expedient to do so; he, in fact, distributed 4*l.*, and the remaining 6*l.* he reserved in his own hands, bearing interest at 5*l.* per cent.

This sum of 6*s.* he has distributed himself amongst poor persons as he sees occasion.

Tillard's Charity.

Tillard's Charity.

James Tillard, by his Will, proved in the Prerogative Court 7th October 1828, bequeathed to the Rev. Richard Tillard, the Rev. Edward Gregory and William H. Baldock, esq., 3,000*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, to be invested in their names, in trust to receive the dividends and distribute the same annually on St. Thomas's-day in blankets, rugs, cloaks and firing, to the aged, infirm and most distressed inhabitants of the parishes of Petham and Upper and Lower Hardres, who should be such in the judgment of the said trustees or any of them; and he directed that, upon the decease or permanent removal of any one of the trustees, the survivors or survivor should appoint another trustee in his place, so as to keep up the number of three.

The sum of 3,000*l.* Reduced stands in the names of the three trustees named in the Will, all of whom are living; but Mr. Tillard is now, and was at the time the testator made his Will, living at Blentisham, near St. Ives, in the county of Huntingdon.

The dividends, amounting to 90*l.* a-year, are divided in proportion to the number of poor (men, women, and children) in each of the three parishes, a return of the number being made annually by the churchwardens.

In 1835 the proportions were—to Petham, 45*l.* 8*s.* 3*d.*; Lower Hardres, 23*l.* 3*d.*; Upper Hardres, 21*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.* Lists are made for each parish by one or more of the trustees of those persons that are thought fit objects of the charity, care being taken to include only those who bear good characters.

In Petham and in Upper Hardres tickets are given to each poor person, entitling them to receive articles of clothing, to the amount of from about 9*s.* to 24*s.*, at a shop in Canterbury; and some of them receive, also, half a hundred of fagots.

In Lower Hardres the persons selected to receive the benefit of the charity apply to Rev. Edward Gregory, one of the trustees, for such articles of clothing or fuel as they prefer, and are supplied by him therewith to the value of from 5*s*. to 21*s*. Petham. Tillard's Charity, continued.

PARISH OF PRESTON.

Preston.

WYBORN'S CHARITIES.

Wyborn's Charities.

Robert Wyborn, by his Will, bearing date 1st May 1709, devised his messuage and two pieces of land thereto belonging, in the parish of Preston, to Thomas Paramour and seven others, and their heirs, on trust, to pay the clear yearly rents and profits to the vicar, churchwardens and overseers of Preston, to the end that they, or the major part of them, whereof the vicar should be one, should distribute the same amongst six poor persons, inhabitants of the said parish, who should not receive weekly relief, according to their discretion, on the 26th December, yearly; and he directed that, when three only of the trustees should be living, they should convey the premises to eight substantial persons, of whom two should be inhabitants of the parish of Preston.—He also devised to the said trustees, after the decease of his wife, a messuage, with barns, stables, orchards, &c., and 12 acres of land, in Preston, and another piece of land, called the Ten Acres, containing 10½ acres, at Wingham, and two pieces, containing 11 acres, in Elmstone, on trust out of the rents to keep the premises in repair, to retain 20*s*. for their own trouble, and to permit the vicar of the said parish of Preston, and his successors, to live in the said messuage, and to receive the clear rents and profits of the premises, for his better maintenance, on condition and so long only as he should actually reside and dwell in the said house, (there being no vicarage-house in the said parish,) and should preach one sermon at least every Sunday, and read the morning and evening prayers in the parish-church, either by himself or by some other lawful minister, in case he should be hindered by indisposition, and on further condition that he should not suffer or permit any waste; and that if it should happen that any vicar should neglect to inhabit the said messuage for the space of one month in any half-year, or to preach or read the service aforesaid for any four Sundays in the whole or in any such half-year, the trustees should enter upon the premises, and should pay the rents and profits to the churchwardens and overseers of the poor for the use, benefit, and relief of the poor of the said parish; and he directed that leases should be granted and renewed to any vicar for 21 years, if he should so long live, he performing the things thereinbefore required, with the like directions as to the appointment of new trustees.

The two estates above mentioned were severally conveyed by separate deeds of lease and release, each bearing date 26th and 27th September 1726, to the same trustees.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 27th and 28th February 1829, between Sir H. Oxenden, the grandson and heir of Sir George Oxenden, (the last surviving trustee under the deeds of 1726,) of the one part, and Sir Brook William Bridges, Brook William Bridges his son, Henry Chudleigh Oxenden, William Osmond Hammond, John Pemberton Plumtre, G. W. D'Aeth, Edward Rice, and George Gipps, of divers places in the county of Kent, and Edward Slater and Charles Culmer, of Preston, of the other part, reciting the Will of Robert Wyborn, as far as related to the estate devised to trustees after the decease of his wife, and further reciting indentures of lease and release, bearing date 26th and 27th September 1726, whereby Sir Thomas Hales and others; conveyed the premises to Sir Francis Head, Sir George Oxenden, and others, the said Sir H. Oxenden, as the heir of the survivor, conveyed the estate thereinbefore mentioned to the use of himself and the parties of the second part, and their heirs, on the trusts declared in the Will relating thereto.

The estate devised immediately to the use of the poor has not been conveyed to new trustees, and consequently, as would appear from the deed above abstracted, is now vested in Sir Henry Oxenden as the heir of Sir George Oxenden.

The poor's estate consists of a cottage and about half an acre of garden and orchard ground, let at rather a low rent of 5*l*. to William Martin, an industrious labourer, who has brought up a family without parish relief. The value is stated to be about 8*l*.; but the rent has not been raised, the tenant being considered himself one of the most fit objects of the charity.

After paying the necessary expenses of repairing the house, the residue is divided equally amongst six of the most deserving and industrious poor. In some former years the practice had been to extend the charity to a greater number. Since 1834 the expense of the repairs has rather exceeded two years' income, and the distribution to the poor has been unavoidably suspended.

The other estate is in the possession of the vicar, who is resident and preaches and reads morning and evening prayers every Sunday, as required by the donor.

WATTS'S CHARITY.

Watts's Charity

The Rev. T. Watts, vicar of Preston, by his Will, bearing date 10th October 1507, willed that Thomas French should have his tenement, with five acres of land, in the parish of Preston, on condition that he should pay to the churchwardens, for the use of the church, 4*s*. 8*d*. annually, and observe certain superstitious uses; and after his decease he gave the same to the churchwardens for the use of the said church.

The above abstract is taken from a very old copy, in which, in two places where the number of acres is mentioned, the figure has been altered from four to five.

In a lease of 1630 the premises were described as a messuage and six pieces of land, containing 5A. 0R. 20P.

By indenture of feoffment, bearing date 30th March 1801, John Hatcher, the heir of Thomas Hatcher, the last surviving trustee named in an indenture of 26th June 1728, granted to the Rev. T. Gregory, George Culmer the younger, Edward Slater, and five others, since deceased, a messuage called the Church-house, with the appurtenances, and six several parcels of land therein particularly described, and containing the respective quantities therein mentioned, amounting to 5A. 1R. 20P., in trust to pay the rents to the churchwardens, for the time being, towards the repairing of the said parish-church and the ornamental part thereof, and to no other use; and that, when only two trustees should be living, they should convey the premises to six other substantial inhabitants of the said parish, on the like trusts.

Preston.

Some exchanges have taken place with respect to the land, which lay very much dispersed, and the whole is now in two fields, which are subdivided into plots of 20 perches each, and let to 18 poor labourers, at 5*s.* a-year each.

There are also two houses, called Church-houses, and half an acre of land, let to two industrious labourers at rather low rents, amounting to 6*l.* 6*s.* a-year.

These rents, being in the whole 10*l.* 16*s.* a-year, are carried to the churchwardens' general account.

PARISH OF RECULVER.

Reculver.

MILLES'S CHARITY.

Milles's Charity.

For the Will of Christopher Milles, under which the yearly sum of 4*l.* is paid by the tenant of the Hon. John G. Milles, (now Lord Sondes,) the lessee of the parsonage of Reculver, see above, parish of Herne. The amount is distributed with other charities hereafter mentioned.

DONORS UNKNOWN.

Donors unknown.

The following charities are noticed on a table of benefactions to the poor of this parish:—

A piece of land, containing 2R. 24P., in the occupation of V. Harrison, at 6*s.* a-year.

This is now divided into seven gardens, let at 1*s.* a-year each to seven poor parishioners, selected at a vestry-meeting as industrious persons, with large families and of good character. The gardens are worth about 8*s.* or 9*s.* a-year each.

A messuage, with 1A. 3R. 26P. of pasture and woodland, in Chislet, and 1A. 1R. 11P. of pasture, in Herne.

These premises are let to Robert Tritton, as yearly tenant, at 4*l.* a-year. This is rather a low rent; but the tenant has engaged to keep the premises in repair, and has laid out some money in improving them.

An annuity of 5*s.*, issuing out of 1A. 0R. 5P. of pasture, in the occupation of Thomas Reynolds. This is paid by John Collard, the occupier and part owner of the land above mentioned.

From 25 perches of arable land, in the occupation of Stephen Sayer, 2*s.* 6*d.* yearly. This is paid by the son of the above-mentioned Stephen Sayer in respect of a piece of land lying in a field held by him as tenant to the Marchioness of Conyngham.

The several rents above mentioned, amounting to 8*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*, are, excepting 10*s.*, which is expended at the public-house at the time of distribution, distributed amongst all the married poor of the parish, in sums varying from about 2*s.* to 8*s.* or 9*s.*; the larger sums being given to those who are most industrious and have the largest families.

WOODLAND.

Woodland.

There is also mentioned on the table of benefactions, under the same head, 15 perches of woodland, lying contiguous to the land thereinbefore described as in the occupation of Thomas Reynolds.

The timber was cut about 1812, and applied in fencing the church-yard. It now lies unproductive, and there is no fence between this and Mr. Collard's land adjoining.

Chapelry of Hoath.

CHAPELRY OF HOATH.

MILLES'S CHARITY.

Milles's Charity.

See above, parish of Herne.

The sum of 2*l.*, paid by the tenant of the rectory of Reculver and Hoath for the poor of this chapelry, is given away in bread by Mr. Sladden, the tenant, on the last day in August, amongst those whom he selects as the most deserving of the poor.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

Amongst the benefactions to the poor, mentioned on a table of benefactions in the chapel, is the following:—"From a farm at the Old Tree, wheat to be made into bread every Good Friday, and given to the poor for ever by Mr. Wilmot, of Derbyshire, 8*s.*"

The farm, called the Old Tree Farm, is the property of James Collard, who provides 8*s.* worth of bread, and distributes it himself, with one of the parish-officers, in twopenny loaves amongst the poor whom they think the most deserving.

CHAPEL LANDS.

Chapel Lands.

There are mentioned on the table of benefactions to the chapel of Hoath the following premises: viz.—

In Hoath, arable land containing 1A. 3R., also one acre of arable land. In Herne, three acres of arable land.

The first-mentioned piece is surrounded by land belonging to William Cumming, esq., and held by the present churchwarden, James Collard, (who is also tenant of the adjoining lands,) at the yearly rent of 2*l.* 10*s.*

The other acre of land in Hoath is let to Henry Goldfinch, at the yearly rent of 1*l.*, and the three acres in Herne to James Handcock, at 2*l.* a-year.

These are stated to be fair rents. The amount is carried to the chapel-wardens' account; and it has been sufficient sometimes to dispense with the necessity of levying a chapel-rate.

PARISH OF ST. DUNSTAN, NEAR CANTERBURY.

St. Dunstan.

STREYNSHAM'S CHARITY.

Streynsham's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 27th April 1584, between Thomas Streynsham, of the one part, and John Fineux and nine others, of the parish of St. Dunstan's, of the other part, the said Thomas Streynsham, for the better and charitable relief of the great poverty of the householders and their children inhabiting the said parish, conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, five houses and five gardens adjoining thereto,—four of which houses were in St. Dunstan's, on the west side of the highway leading to Harbledown, and the fifth house in the parish of St. Michael, Harbledown,—in trust, to employ the rents and profits thereof to the poor householders and their children inhabiting in the parish of St. Dunstan's, so as to keep and comfort the parents, clothe their children or set them forth to service: and it was provided that, whenever the number of trustees should be reduced to four or three, the survivors should convey the premises to other 10 persons; and that the reasonable charges of the trustees at their meetings, as well for their dinners as for keeping the accounts, &c., should be paid out of the rents and profits.

Trustees have been appointed from time to time; and, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 18th and 19th June 1832, Charles Oldroyd, Thomas Foord, John Holdstock (deceased), and Thomas Pilcher, conveyed the premises to Rest Flint, George Casseldon, James Swaine, Thomas Miles, John Pilcher, George Claris, John Pamplett, Thomas Pilcher the younger, Henry Oxenden, Thomas Petts, and Lansell Amos, all of St. Dunstan's, and their heirs, on the same trusts.

The property belonging to this charity consists of the following particulars:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| In St. Dunstan's:— | | | |
| Part of a hop-oast, let to Dean John Parker, on lease for 21 years from April 1817, at the yearly rent of . . | 3 | 10 | 0 |
| Part of a house, let for the like term to Messrs. Flint and Kingsford, at . . . . . | 1 | 10 | 0 |
| Seven new-built houses, let to seven weekly tenants, at 3*s.* 6*d.* per week . . . . . | 63 | 14 | 0 |
| Four houses, let to four weekly tenants, at 2*s.* 6*d.* per week | 26 | 0 | 0 |
| Two houses, to two weekly tenants, at 3*s.* . . . . . | 15 | 12 | 0 |
| One house, let to —— Hall, as yearly tenant, at . . . | 4 | 0 | 0 |
| In St. Michael, Harbledown:— | | | |
| Two houses, let to Paige and Partis, as yearly tenants, at . | 11 | 6 | 0 |
| And to the above is to be added a payment out of a house occupied by Jane Baker, as a rent-charge . . . . | 0 | 6 | 8 |
| £ | 136 | 6 | 8 |

The premises let to Mr. Parker and to Messrs. Flint and Kingsford are only part of certain buildings, the residue of which is freehold, belonging to the respective lessees.

The seven houses let at 3*s.* 6*d.* a-week have been lately rebuilt at an expense of 574*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* It is stated that the houses are substantially built, and that the premises were previously in so dilapidated a state that this expenditure was absolutely necessary.

The four houses next mentioned were rebuilt not many years ago; but the work was badly done, and they will soon require some outlay. The others are very old, and generally in bad condition. It is questionable whether the clear rent of the estate would not be improved by pulling some of them down and adding the site to the adjoining houses.

Since the last appointment of trustees, in 1832, nothing has been distributed to the poor. There was then 40*l.* remaining due for money which had been previously borrowed for rebuilding part of the trust premises. In the same year 220*l.*, and in 1835 a further sum of 200*l.*, was borrowed towards the expenses of rebuilding the seven houses above mentioned. The 40*l.* has been since paid off, but the two last-mentioned sums, amounting to 420*l.*, are still due. Mr. Flint, one of the trustees, has given security for the same, with interest at 5 per cent.

The rents, since 1832, have been applied in paying the extra expense of the buildings beyond the sums borrowed for that purpose, the ordinary repairs of the other premises, the payment of rates for the houses let to weekly tenants, and the interest on the sum of 420*l.* In February 1836 there was a balance in hand of 11*l.* 18*s.*

SIR ROGER MANWOOD'S CHARITY.

Sir R. Manwood's Charity.

In the account of Sir Roger Manwood's Hospital, in Hackington, given under the head of the City of Canterbury, will be found an extract from his Will, under which six poor persons of this parish and Westgate are entitled, every third year, to certain clothing; but which has not been provided, according to the Will, for many years.

NOBLE'S CHARITY.

Noble's Charity.

Elizabeth Noble, who died 21st February 1816, bequeathed to the vicar for the time being 250*l.* Four per Cent. Stock, the dividends to be distributed annually, on New-year's-day, in bread and meat, to the most necessitous and deserving poor of the parish of St. Dunstan;

St. Dunstan.

and she requested the churchwardens to distribute the same, and to give only to those who should be recommended by the vicar.

In August 1816 250*l.* Four per Cent. Stock was transferred by the surviving executrix of the testatrix into the name of the Rev. J. B. Bunce, the vicar of this parish; and 250*l.* Three and a Half per Cents. now stands in his name. The annual dividends, amounting to 8*l.* 15*s.*, are received through the Canterbury bank, and distributed, on New-year's-day, in bread and meat.

A list of the poor persons entitled thereto, as the most necessitous and most deserving, is made out by the vicar, with the assistance of the churchwardens; and the distribution is made by tickets entitling each person to receive, according to the class in which they are placed, from half a gallon to a gallon and a half of bread, and from three to five pounds of meat.

Church Estate.

Church Estate.

There was a house, which was sold in 1834 or 1835 for the purpose of widening the new street in the parish of St. Dunstan's, and the produce of the sale was invested in the purchase of 163*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* Consols, in the name of the Rev. J. B. Bunce, Thomas Miles, and William Plummer, the then churchwardens.

The rent of the house was always carried to the churchwardens' account as applicable to the repairs of the church; and the dividends, 4*l.* 18*s.*, are applied in the same manner.

Poor's Estate and Lunce's Charity.

Poor's Estate and Lunce's Charity.

There are no documents in the parish furnishing any account of the trusts under which the following property is held, excepting the leases hereafter noticed; but the premises are described on a table in the church, headed "Benefactions to the Poor of Seasalter," which comprises also an annuity left to the poor of this parish by Thomas Lunce, as will be stated more particularly amongst the charities for Whitstable.

The principal part of the property is held under three leases, bearing date 21st November 1834, and granted by Thomas Tuddenham and others, the then churchwardens and overseers.

1. Two pieces of pasture, called Poor's Land, containing five acres, in the parish of Seasalter, described as having been, several years ago, vested in the churchwardens and overseers, in trust, for the use and benefit of the poor of the said parish, demised to Thomas Dodd (with his nephew, Thomas Dodd, as security), for 14 years from Michaelmas 1834, at the rent of 17*l.*

2. A piece of pasture, called Wollet's Corner, containing four acres and a half, demised in like manner to William Beare (and George Cox as security), for the like term, at the rent of 13*l.*

3. A field, called Pelins, containing four acres, demised in like manner to James Rigden (and James Goodwin as security), for the like term, at 9*l.* 10*s.*

4. There is also 1A. 3R. of arable land, called Woodfield, let to John Brooke for a like term, at the yearly rent of 2*l.* 12*s.*; but he has not thought fit to incur the expense of a lease.

All these lands were let by auction.

5. Also two tenements, called the Almshouses, let to two weekly tenants, at rents amounting in the whole to 10*l.* a-year.

6. Four several annuities, viz.—

The rents and payments above mentioned are carried to an account kept by the churchwardens, out of which interest has been paid on the instalments remaining due for 100*l.* borrowed in 1804 for rebuilding the almshouses, and which was paid off in November 1835.

The residue of the clear rents, except 5*l.* 5*s.* paid as a subscription to the Kent and Canterbury Hospital, is paid over to the overseers; and it is represented that the practice has been, as long as can be remembered, to apply the income derived from this property in aid either of the poor's or church-rates.

This usage seems at variance with the evidence which may be derived from the terms of the leases, which are probably in the same terms as others of older date, and from the table of benefactions.

PARISH OF STOURMOUTH.

Stourmouth.

JOADE'S CHARITY.

Joade's Charity.

It is stated, on a table of benefactions in the church, that Stephen Joade, by Will, in 29th Elizabeth, gave to the poor of this parish an annuity of 40*s.*, payable out of a house and lands in the said parish; and that, under a Commission of Charitable Uses, in 1660, it was decreed that the same should be paid accordingly.

The yearly sum of 2*l.* is paid by James Dowker, as charged on a small farm belonging to Miss Jemima Margaret Smith, and the amount is divided amongst from 12 to 15 poor persons, selected by the churchwardens and overseers as the most deserving, in clothing, to the amount of from 2*s.* to 4*s.* or 5*s.* each.

CULMER'S CHARITY.

Culmer's Charity.

Carr Culmer, a parishioner of Stourmouth, who died in or about 1835, left an annuity of 10*l.* to which he was entitled, payable out of a house and lands in the parish of Stourmouth, belonging to James Dowker, for the purpose of putting to school the children of the poor families in the parish of Stourmouth; and a tablet is put up in the church to commemorate this benefaction.

In respect of this charity a certain number of children are appointed, by the minister and churchwardens, to the National School in the parish of Preston.

CHURCH LANDS.

Church Lands.

The following statement appears on a table in the church:—

PARTICULAR of LANDS belonging to the Parishioners of STOURMOUTH, bequeathed for the Support of the Church.

N.B. The above is according to the present occupation, as fixed in vestry held this 25th March 1830, at which time an equivalent exchange of lands, both as to quantity and value, was agreed on for corresponding parcels bequeathed to the parish in former times from benefactors now unknown.

The several tenants are industrious parishioners, to whom the lands were let at the vestry above mentioned, in plots of from two to three roods each, rather below the full yearly value.

The rents are carried to the churchwardens' account.

PARISH OF STURRY.

STEPHEN BIGGE'S CHARITY.

S. Bigge's Charity.

For the particulars of this charity, see Parish of Fordwich.

Out of the moiety of the rents appropriated to this parish, amounting to 20*l.* a-year, 6*l.* is divided equally amongst six poor persons, selected by the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, as being most in need and of good character. With the residue boys are placed out apprentices, with premiums varying from 20*l.* to 25*l.*, the masters covenanting to clothe, feed and lodge them; and sometimes 5*l.* has been laid out in providing the boys with clothes before they go out. The sum of 1*l.* 1*s.* has hitherto been paid, as at Fordwich, for the indentures, to which a stamp has been unnecessarily affixed.

The money received is always paid into a bank at Canterbury, and drawn out as it may be required.

In February 1836 there was a balance in the bank of 20*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

FRANKLYN'S CHARITY.

Franklyn's Charity.

Nicholas Franklyn, by his Will, bearing date 15th February 1577, concerning the disposition of all his lands and tenements in Sturry, Chislet, Reculver, and Hoath, willed that the clear yearly profits of his tenement, called Copt Hall, in the parish of Sturry, and two acres of ground adjoining thereto, should be employed for ever to the relief and sustentation of the aged, impotent, and poor people, and to such poor as should be overcharged with children, being inhabitants in Sturry, on condition that the churchwardens for the time being should keep the tenement in repair, and that they should receive the yearly profits thereof, and distribute the same to the poor aforesaid, one-half at Christmas-eve and the other half on Good Friday, in the presence of the vicar or two other honest inhabitants.

Sturry.

The premises called Copt Hall consist of a cottage and garden, and about two acres of arable land, let to John Gore, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 8*l.*

The amount is distributed, by the minister and churchwardens, amongst the most deserving of the poor, generally in sums of from 5*s.* to 10*s.* each.

The Sporting Place.

The Sporting Place.

There is a piece of land in the parish of Westbere, called the Sporting Place, containing about three-quarters of an acre, let in gardens, at good rents, amounting to 2*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*

The rent of this land has been distributed to the poor, from the year 1779, chiefly in sums of 5*s.* each.

Chafy's and Wootton's Charities.

Chafy's and Wootton's Charity.

The Rev. William Chafy, vicar of Sturry, by a codicil to his Will, bearing date 2nd October 1821, bequeathed 120*l.*, to be laid out in the public funds, in the names of the vicar and churchwardens of the said parish for the time being, for ever, on trust, that they should appoint some competent person, being a resident in the said parish, who would undertake to instruct the poor and necessitous children of the parish in the Church catechism, and teach them to read the Common Prayer-book of the same Church, the New Testament, and the Bible, every Sunday in the year, and at other appointed times; and uniformly to attend with such children Divine service, and see that they conduct themselves with becoming propriety. For the care and trouble of the person so appointed the testator enjoined that the dividends on 100*l.* should be paid to him or her, and that the interest of the remaining 20*l.* should be laid out in the purchase of spelling-books, New Testaments and Prayer-books, to be kept for the use of the children by the said master or mistress, or to be given to the most deserving or necessitous of such children, as a reward for their improvement and good behaviour.

In September 1826 this legacy was laid out in the purchase of 149*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* Three per Cent. Consols.

Thomas Wootton, by his Will, dated 17th March 1830, bequeathed 100*l.* to the vicar and churchwardens, in trust, to be invested in the funds, and the interest thereof to be applied to educate the children of the poor of the parish of Sturry.

This legacy was invested in the purchase of 108*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.* like Consols, making up, with Dr. Chafy's Benefaction, 258*l.* 8*d.*, standing in the names of the Rev. C. R. Handley, William Bourne, and William Collis.

The dividends, amounting to 7*l.* 15*s.* per annum, are added to private subscriptions for the support of a Sunday-school and an evening school.

PARISH OF SWALECLIFFE.

Swalecliffe.

Chafy's Charity.

Chafy's Charity.

The Rev. William Chafy, who was rector of Swalecliffe as well as vicar of Sturry, by the codicil to his Will, bearing date 2nd October 1821, bequeathed 120*l.* to the rector and churchwarden of this parish, in the same terms as the bequest above mentioned to the parish of Sturry.

This legacy was laid out in the purchase of 146*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* Consols, standing in the names of the Rev. John Boak, the present rector, and Robert Tassel, who was churchwarden in 1827.

The dividends, amounting to 4*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*, were paid for some time to different persons, who, one after the other, undertook the keeping of a Sunday-school. It was, at the time of this inquiry, paid, except a small sum reserved for buying Testaments and spelling-books, to a schoolmistress for teaching six children appointed by the resident minister and churchwardens.

The boys were taught reading, and the girls reading and sewing; and they all learnt the Church catechism.

This mode of application seems totally different from what the testator intended. The excuse suggested was, that the children learnt very little by attending the school only on Sundays, and that there was a difficulty in finding any person in the parish competent and willing to undertake the duty of a Sunday-school.

It was recommended to the resident minister and churchwardens to take into consideration whether the charity could not be applied in a manner more in conformity with the directions of the donor; and it is satisfactory to state that a Sunday-school has accordingly been established with a reasonable prospect of its becoming of permanent benefit to the parish.

Lunce's Charity.

Lunce's Charity.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* is received under the Will of Thomas Lunce, the particulars of which will be stated amongst the charities for Whitstable.

The amount has been hitherto carried to the account of the poor's rate; but it has been determined to apply it, in future, in aid of the preceding charity, towards the support of the Sunday-school.

Culmer's Charity.

CULMER'S CHARITY.

By indenture of feoffment, bearing date 6th July 1807, between Martin Cramp and William Goodson, the two surviving trustees named in an indenture of release, bearing date 20th March 1758, of the first part, and Daniel Amos and 18 others of the other part, the said Martin Cramp and William Goodson granted to the use of themselves and the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a piece of arable land, containing six acres, in Broadstairs, in the parish of St. Peter; which piece of land was devised by Richard Culmer (who died in 1485) for the use and benefit of the poor of the said parish, or to such uses as in the said Will expressed, in trust, to dispose of the rents and profits to the only use and benefit of the said poor; and, in further trust, that the survivors or survivor, or the heirs of the survivor, should assure the premises to a competent number of other persons, inhabitants of the said parish, to be appointed by them on the like trusts.

Of the trustees under the preceding deed, Thomas Blackburne, John Philpott, Edward Goodson, Thomas Cramp, John Crofts, Robert Witherden, George Cramp, and Josiah Blackburne, are the survivors; and all except the two last are living in the parish of St. Peter.

The premises consist of:—

1. A field, containing 4A. 1R. 31P., let on lease, bearing date 30th September 1829, to Edward Layng, for 14 years from Michaelmas then next, at the yearly rent of 24*l.*, with a security for the performance of covenants.

2. One acre and two roods, adjoining the last-mentioned field, let to the same person, for a term of eight years from Michaelmas 1835, at the yearly rent of 10*l.*, according to an agreement endorsed upon a lease granted in 1829 to John Petman, who failed.

The present seems to be a sufficient rent; though, by the lease to Petman, the yearly rent of 17*l.* was reserved.

It appears from a copy of the Will, taken from Lewis's History of the Isle of Thanet, that Richard Culmer thereby directed the rent to be distributed yearly amongst poor people most needing in the said parish, on Good Friday; and that he directed the vicar of the said church to be overseer, and see that things should be done according to custom and reason.

The rents are distributed by the trustees, on Good Friday, in sums varying from about 2*s.* to 5*s.*, amongst nearly all the poor, according to a list made out at a previous meeting; widows and old persons receiving rather a larger proportion.

If a less indiscriminate distribution could be adopted the charity would be much more beneficial to those who are fit objects.

Taddy's Charity.

TADDY'S CHARITY.

Hannah Taddy, widow, by her Will, bearing date 14th May 1726, and proved at Canterbury, bequeathed to the poor of this parish, but chiefly to the widows thereof, (if any,) the yearly interest, rents and profits arising from the sum of 120*l.*, to be distributed yearly on the 5th November, in or near the chancel of the parish-church, at the discretion of such feoffees as she should thereafter appoint, and their successors, such sums as should be needful to be expended for the repairing of her tomb only excepted; and she appointed Isaac Witherden, Daniel Church, and Paul Kerby the younger, all of the said parish, feoffees, and directed that her executors should pay to them the said sum of 120*l.* within one month after her decease, to purchase lands or annuities for the uses aforesaid as soon as a secure offer should present; and that, as any of the feoffees should die, the survivors should appoint some others of the said parish, of such honesty and discretion as in their judgment they should think meet, to make up the number: and she further directed that, after her tomb should be built and finished, the same should be kept in repair out of the rents and profits of the estate.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 21st and 22d July 1768, between Daniel Church of the one part, and Robert Core and John Underdown of the other part, the said Daniel Church conveyed to the use of himself and the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a piece of land containing four acres, called Turner's Piece, in the parish of St. Peter, which, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 2d and 3d October 1730, had been conveyed to the said Daniel Church, Paul Kerby, and George Witherden, in consideration of a sum of money bequeathed by Hannah Taddy, for the purposes in her Will expressed.

And by indenture of even date with the said release, between the same parties, it was declared that the premises were conveyed as above mentioned on the trusts declared in the said Will, excepting that the distribution was to be made on the 16th, instead of the 5th November.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 7th and 8th May 1795, the above-named John Underdown conveyed the same premises to the use of himself, and Thomas Cramp and John Cramp, both of the parish of St. Peter's, on the same trusts as the preceding.

Of the trustees above named, Thomas Cramp and John Cramp are the survivors, the latter of whom is resident in Margate.

The property consists of four acres of arable land, let to Robert Staines Dawson, on lease, bearing date 25th September 1830, for 10 years from Michaelmas then last, at a good yearly rent of 19*l.*

St. Peter.

Nothing has been expended for several years on the tomb of the testatrix, and it now requires between 2*l.* and 3*l.* to put it in a good state.

The clear rents, after paying a small quit-rent and stamp, are distributed on the 5th November, in the vestry which leads out of the chancel, by Thomas Cramp, in sums varying from about 2*s.* to 6*s.*

The persons who receive the charity are principally widows.

Thomas Cramp is a member of a congregation of Baptists, and preaches annually in the chapel belonging thereto on the day the distribution of the charity takes place. Complaints were made that he expected the persons about to receive the charity to attend this sermon. It was stated, however, by Mr. Cramp's son, that, though his father was desirous that the parties should attend this sermon, no partiality was shown in favour of those who did so, or who were members of that congregation; that the poor persons were chosen indifferently, whether they were of the church of England or not, and this fact was not disputed.

As there was but one trustee (Thomas Cramp) resident in the parish, and the other surviving trustee never interfered in the concerns of the charity, it was recommended that a new appointment should take place; but this is rendered unnecessary, John Cramp having undertaken to attend to the duties of the trust.

Dekewer's and Forsyth's Charity.

Dekewer's and Forsyth's Charity.

John Dekewer, by his Will, bearing date 28th July 1760, bequeathed to the minister and churchwardens of the parish of St. Peter 500*l.*, on trust, to invest the same in the public funds, and out of the dividends, as often as need should be, to repair his vault and tomb, and the iron-work round the same; to give in the parish-church every Sunday, after divine service, 4*s.* in bread to the poor of the said parish; and to lay out the remainder in coal, to be given to the poor of the said parish on Christmas Eve, or the day previous, if it should be on a Sunday, at their discretion.

By indenture, bearing date 10th December 1776, reciting the said Will, as above abstracted, and that the said legacy had been invested in the purchase of 462*l.* 10*s.* Four per Cents., and that John Kerby, the then surviving trustee, had proposed transferring the same stock into the names of himself and other persons parties thereto, it was declared, that such transfer should be on the trusts declared in the said Will; and that, when the number of trustees should be reduced to two, the survivors should choose four others of the principal inhabitants of the said parish as trustees for the said charity.

By indenture, bearing date 25th October 1820, reciting as in the preceding indentures, but that the said stock had been reduced to Three per Cent.; and further reciting an indenture, bearing date 26th April 1811, wherein it was recited that 100*l.* given by Jane Forsyth, the interest to be laid out in coal, by the minister and churchwardens, amongst the poor of the said parish, in aid of the provision made for that purpose by the said John Dekewer, had been invested in the purchase of 157*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* Reduced, and that the two several sums above mentioned, amounting to 619*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.* Reduced, had been transferred into the names of J. Blackburne, Robert Sackett Tomline, Robert Witherden, and John Mockett; they declared that they held the same on the trusts declared in the deeds of 1776 and 1811.

The stock still stands in the names of the same parties.

Out of the dividends, amounting to 18*l.* 11*s.* 9*d.*, any sums that are required for cleaning and repairing the tomb of John Dekewer are paid; 4*s.* worth of bread is provided every week and distributed to the poor after service, and the residue is laid out in coal.

A list of 48 persons is made out by the churchwardens, of whom 12 receive bread in each week. The poor appointed are chiefly widows, habitually frequenting church. The coal is distributed on the day before Christmas-day, amongst nearly all the poor, in quantities of one or two bushels to a family.

It has been recommended that the most deserving poor should be selected for the benefit of this distribution.

Butt Land, &c.

Butt Land, &c.

There are two pieces of land, the one called the Butts, and containing about 1½ acre, let at 8*l.* 15*s.*; the other called the Vine Acre and Shallow's Chalk Pit, containing about the same quantity, let at 7*l.* 5*s.* a-year.

The land now held as the Vine Acre and Chalk Pit was set out (the ancient boundaries having been disputed) under a deed dated 30th November 1827, in which it is recited that the churchwardens and overseers had been possessed of the premises for many years past, and that the exchange therein mentioned had been approved of at a vestry as beneficial to the parishioners. The lands taken in exchange were thereby conveyed to Robert Barfield, and 16 others, in trust, for the use and benefit of the poor of the said parish.

There are also received by the churchwardens two yearly rents, viz. 5*s.* from Edward Fletcher, for land on Piermont estate, and 2*s.* 6*d.* from Thomas Cramp for Sutton's land.

The rents and payments above mentioned were formerly carried to the churchwarden's account, and applied in the same manner as the church-rates, but in 1827 the late vicar took an opinion, which induced him to recommend another mode of applying the rents, and since that time they have been distributed to the poor some time in the month of February, in potatoes and coal.

There were four years due in August 1835, and the overseer undertook that the amount should be given to the most industrious and deserving poor.

BREAD AND CHEESE FIELD.

Bread and Cheese Field.

It is generally understood that the rents of a field containing 1A. 3R., and known by this name, are applicable to the purpose of finding bread and cheese for every person who slept in the parish three nights previous to the first Saturday after Old Midsummer-day.

The rent is entered in the churchwardens' accounts for 1764; and amongst the disbursements is a charge annually for bread, cheese, tobacco, and beer, for the feast which is held on the first Saturday after Midsummer.

The land is let to several poor persons as gardens, at rents amounting to about 2*l.*, which is applied towards the expenses of an annual feast, of which the poor have the whole benefit.

CHURCH LAND.

Church Land.

The yearly sum of 12*s.* is paid by the steward of the present Lord Sondes, the owner of property in the parish, which comprises a field of about one acre and a half, called Church Field. The same sum has been paid at least from the year 1764 as the "rent of the Church Land," and carried to the churchwardens' account.

FEOFFEES' ESTATE.

Feoffees' Estate.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 6th and 7th October 1731, James Streeting, and two others, surviving feoffees of the messuages and lands thereinafter mentioned, conveyed to George Fanting, and 11 others, and their heirs, a messuage, with the barns, gardens, and appurtenances, in Whitstable, at a place called Harwich; two pieces of land called Coppins, containing seven acres, in Whitstable; another piece called Cliffe Field, containing three acres, in Whitstable and Seasalter; another piece called Gadberries, in Seasalter, abutting to the lands called Sleepers, containing two acres and a half; a messuage, with the stable and buildings thereto belonging, in Whitstable; and another messuage, with a kitchen and stable, and two acres of land thereto belonging, in Seasalter; which said messuages and premises were theretofore given to the use of the poor of Whitstable:

Also a piece of land called Culvers, in Seasalter, containing one acre and a half; another piece called Petticroft, in Whitstable, near a place called Cutbeard Stroud, containing one acre; and four pieces containing 23 acres, in Whitstable and Swalecliffe, two pieces whereof were called Stockfish, and contained 14 acres, and two other pieces were called Swinfield, alias Bynnfield and Upper Field, and contained nine acres; which said lands were devised by Thomas Lunce to the use of the poor of Whitstable, paying thereout to the poor of Seasalter the yearly sum of 40*s.*, and to the poor of Swalecliffe, yearly, 26*s.* 8*d.*:

Also a messuage, with the appurtenances, and one acre and a half of land thereunto belonging, in Whitstable, called Granhams, alias Grandams. Four pieces of land called Wilkins Watts, in Whitstable, containing 20 acres; another piece called Alice Stephens, in Whitstable, containing two acres and a half; another piece, lately two, called Keets, in Whitstable, containing 12 acres; another called Richard Allen's, containing four acres and a half, in Whitstable; two pieces in Whitstable, called Brookfield and Bedisham, containing seven acres and a half, theretofore one piece; another called Brookfield, in Whitstable, containing eight acres; and another containing half an acre, in Whitstable, near the lands called Gonwell, which last-mentioned messuage and lands were given or settled to the use of the poor of Whitstable, and towards repairing and adorning the church:

Also a messuage, with the appurtenances, in Whitstable, called the Clerk's House, abutting on the church-yard, which said messuage was given to the use of the poor of Whitstable:

Also a piece of land in Herne, called Bushy Close, containing three acres, which was theretofore purchased of George Gotham, to the use of the poor of the parish of Whitstable, for the clothing of such of the said poor of Whitstable as the churchwardens for the time being should think fit:—

To hold to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, in trust, that the rents of the premises in Whitstable, Seasalter, and Swalecliffe, (40*s.* per annum to the poor of Seasalter, and 26*s.* 8*d.* per annum to the poor of Swalecliffe, being paid out of the premises theretofore belonging to Thomas Lunce,) should, yearly, be employed towards the relief of the poor of Whitstable aforesaid, and towards repairing and adorning the church, as occasion should require; and as to the piece called Bushy Close, in trust, that the rents should be yearly received by the churchwardens of Whitstable for the time being, and laid out by them in clothes for such poor of the parish as they should think fit; with a covenant that the trustees would elect 10 or 12 new trustees when the number should be reduced to four, and convey the premises on the same trusts.

Whitstable.

The indentures above abstracted are the earliest which both comprise the whole of the estates vested in the trustees, and also distinguish the purposes to which the rents of the different parts thereof are applicable. Before 1625 the estates were the subjects of separate deeds; but in that year, or subsequently thereto, they were included in one conveyance, but the trusts declared therein were as to the whole property, "for the only use, behoof, benefit, and relief of the poor of Whitstable:" the form first adopted in 1731 was probably the result of an investigation into the title and an examination of the earlier documents, to which, in the following pages, there will be frequent occasion to refer.

In subsequent conveyances of 1761 and 1776 the same premises are comprised, and the same trusts declared, as in the indentures of 1731. In a later conveyance of 1802 there is added to the premises a piece of land containing, by estimation, half an acre, with the buildings thereon erected, in Whitstable-street, then in the tenure of Thomas Foord, under a lease granted to him for 99 years from Michaelmas 1791.

And by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 20th and 21st October 1820, Joseph Daniels, John Knott, Thomas Pott, James Smith and Thomas Goodwin, the surviving feoffees, conveyed the same premises as were comprised in the preceding deed of 1802 to the Rev. Charles Eaton Plater, William Hyder, James Abbott, William Reeves, William Lasslett, Edward Read, James Goodwin, Leonard Lawes, John Terry, James Robertson, Andrew Hunt and John Sanders, and their heirs.

The several estates which form the subject of these conveyances may be divided and placed under the five several heads, as follows:—

Poor's Lands.

Poor's Lands.

The property consists of the following particulars:—1st. The premises described in the deed as a messuage, with barns, &c., garden and appurtenances, at a place called Harwich, are supposed to be the same as are in the deeds of 1802 and 1820 again described as in the tenure of Thomas Foord, under a lease for 99 years from Michaelmas 1791.

The lease alluded to was produced on the inquiry by Thomas Foord, esq., the present possessor of part of the demised premises. It bears date 1st December 1791; and John Dyason, and six others, described as surviving feoffees in trust of, amongst other estates, a piece of land, containing half an acre, more or less, in Whitstable, formerly let on a building lease to Abraham Parrin, at an annual rent of 10*s.*, thereby demised to the said Thomas Foord the said piece of land, with the buildings thereon, for a term of 99 years from 10th October then last, at the yearly rent of 20*s.*; and there is a memorandum endorsed thereon that Mr. Foreman and Mr. Wetherley had purchased of the lessee all his interest in the two houses in which they resided, for a term of years, which would end one year before the expiration of this lease.

The property thus demised comprises a public-house called the Hoy, a stable, and two small dwelling-houses, and are represented as worth about 60*l.* a year.

It does not appear that any fine was paid, or any consideration for so long a term and inadequate a rent. The validity of the lease seems, therefore, to be a fit subject for the consideration of a court of equity.

Instead of 20*s.* Mr. Foord pays 30*s.* yearly, the additional rent being probably in respect of 18 perches of land adjoining the premises above mentioned, and not included in the lease.

2d. Two pieces of land called Coppins, now one pasture, containing 7A. 2R. 7P.

On part of this land the poor-house of Whitstable was built, partly with money which had been raised about 1802, on granting certain long leases hereafter mentioned, and which money was, for some time, vested in the funds, and partly with money borrowed for the purpose, which has since been paid off out of the parish rates.

In February 1836, a few days before this inquiry took place, the paupers had been removed to a new union workhouse, and the possession of the old workhouse was about to be given up to the trustees.

Up to Michaelmas 1833 the land was held with the poor-house, but in 1834 the summer feed was let to a tenant for 17*l.* 10*s.*; and in like manner, in 1835, at the yearly rent of 17*l.*

No rent has been paid for the poor-house, nor for the land while it was held therewith.

3d. A close of pasture called Cliffe Field, containing 2A. 3R. 36P., let to Robert Beale, under an agreement for a lease for 14 years from Michaelmas 1831, at a good rent of 10*l.*

4th. A close of arable land in Seasalter called Gadberry's, containing 2A. 3R. 16P., let to Joseph Daniel, on a lease for 14 years from Michaelmas 1830, at a good rent of 5*l.* 10*s.*

5th. It is not known precisely what the premises are which are described in the deeds as a messuage, with a stable and buildings thereunto belonging, in Whitstable; but those comprised in the following leases, dated 1st March 1803, are considered as part of the property belonging to the Poor's Estate.

These leases were all granted by the same parties, Thomas Hyder and others, the then feoffees, for terms of 99 years from Christmas 1802, at the same rent of 5*s.*, with covenants on the part of the lessees to repair the messuages, &c., and all other messuages which should thereafter be erected.

Whitstable.

Poor's Lands. continued.

| Lessee. | Premises. | Consideration for Lease. £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Thomas Blackman | Three messuages with the gardens and appurtenances, in Whitstable-street | 152 | 0 | 0 |
| John Carr | A messuage and garden in Whitstable-street | 61 | 0 | 0 |
| Thomas Walker | Ditto ditto | 55 | 0 | 0 |
| Robert Anderson | Two messuages and gardens in Whitstable-street | 100 | 0 | 0 |
| William Kitchingham | Two messuages and gardens, and warehouse, in Whitstable-street | 150 | 0 | 0 |
| Thomas Duglass | Messuage and garden in Whitstable-street | 55 | 0 | 0 |

It is stated that all these premises were in a dilapidated state, and that the parishioners therefore agreed to let them on the terms above mentioned to the bidders of the highest fines. The sum thus raised, with the addition of 104*l.* paid for a similar lease of a messuage, called the Clerk's House, making 677*l.*, appears to have been invested in the purchase of 1,100*l.* Consols, which stock was afterwards sold, and the produce thereof (excepting about 130*l.* laid out on the school hereafter mentioned) expended in building the poor-house.

Though the trustees had, as it is conceived, no authority to grant these leases, it is to be observed that the lessees purchased their interest therein for a full valuable consideration.

6th. The premises described in the deeds as a messuage or tenement, and two acres, in Seasalter, abutting on the street west, were demised (with the exception of three tenements hereafter noticed) to John Knowler by lease, dated 21st December 1733, for 99 years from Christmas 1733, at the yearly rent of 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to expend 80*l.* in building, and on the part of the lessors to grant him, his executors, &c., a new lease for 99 years, on the expiration of the first 99 years, on payment of a fine of 4*l.* 4*s.*

The premises are valued on the part of the feoffees from 50*l.* to 60*l.* a-year.

On the expiration of this lease an action of ejectment was brought against William Griffiths and others, the parties then in possession, upon which a verdict was taken for the lessors of the plaintiff, the defendants having moved for an injunction in the Court of Chancery, claiming a new lease according to the covenant above mentioned; proceedings are still pending in the Court of Chancery, the parties contending that they are entitled to a renewal, having laid out money on the improvement of the premises.

The property excepted in the lease to J. Knowler consists of three dwellings, occupied rent free by four persons appointed thereto by the feoffees.

The rents above mentioned, amounting to 36*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* per annum, are carried to the same account as the income derived from the other estates vested in the feoffees, and disposed of as hereafter stated.

The premises first mentioned in the deeds above abstracted have been conveyed to trustees from time to time, in trust for the poor, at least from the year 1625; but there are deeds of a date as early as in the 15th century, apparently relating to the same property, though differently described, but as they contain no declaration of trust they may be considered of as little importance, except that they prove the fact that the property was vested in trustees prior to any statutable provision for the relief of the poor.

LUNCE'S CHARITY.

Lunce's Charity.

The premises next mentioned in the trust-deeds are those derived from Thomas Lunce.

In the Will of Thomas Lunce, bearing date 27th January 1588 (proved at Canterbury), is the following clause:—"Now as touching the disposition of all my lands and tenements in Swacliffe and Seasalter, or elsewhere, within the county of Kent, I will and bequeath the said lands and tenements to the churchwardens of Whitstable and their successors for ever, and all other the profits that shall yearly thereof arise, unto the poor and impotent people of the parishes of Whitstable, Seasalter, and Swacliffe, for ever; that is to say, to the poor people of the parish of Seasalter 40*s.* a-year, and to the poor people of the parish of Swacliffe 26*s.* 8*d.* a-year; and all the rest that is yearly to arise out of my lands and tenements as aforesaid unto the poor of Whitstable, and to be paid by the hands of my executors, who be now the churchwardens of Whitstable, and so from churchwardens to churchwardens of the said parish, and their successors, yearly to be paid as above said to the use of the said poor for ever."

By a decree of the Court of Requests, made 9th July, 32 Elizabeth, in a suit instituted by John Whyter and Timothy Lewes, theretofore churchwardens of Whitstable, against Robert Lunce, who claimed the devised premises as heir-at-law of the said Thomas Lunce, and others, reciting that the meaning of the testator was that the profits of the said lands should for ever be employed to the use of the poor of the several parishes in the said Will mentioned; it was decreed that though the churchwardens had no capacity in law to take in succession any inheritance, yet those who were churchwardens at the death of the testator were, by the words "for ever," enabled to take the fee simple by way of purchase, but because it seemed that the meaning of the testator was to have all the rents and profits for ever employed to the use of the poor of the said three parishes, therefore to the intent there might be a perpetual maintenance of the said good intent, it was decreed that the survivor of those who were churchwardens at the death of the testator should enfeoff 12 inhabitants of Whitstable of the same lands, and their heirs for ever, to the intent to perform the said Will, and employ the profit thereof to the use of the poor of the said three parishes, by such rates as therein limited; and that as often as the feoffees should be under the number of five, the survivors should enfeoff 12 others to the same uses, and that not only the said churchwardens and survivor of them, but the said feoffees, from time to time to be renewed as aforesaid, should for ever enjoy the said lands to the intent aforesaid, without interruption of the defendants or any of them, or any claiming under them.

Whitstable.

By indenture of feoffment, bearing date 5th September 1589, reciting that Thomas Lunce, being seised of 25 acres of land, with the appurtenances, in Swacliffe, Whitstable and Seasalter, devised the same to the churchwardens of Whitstable for ever, to distribute the rents thereof as therein mentioned; and reciting that, at the death of the said Thomas Lunce, John Whyter and Timothy Lowe were churchwardens, and that the latter was the survivor; the said Timothy Lowe, as well in performance of the said Will, as in execution of the decree of the Court of Requests above mentioned, granted to John Saint and 11 others, and their heirs, the said lands, with their appurtenances, to the uses of the said Will and decree.

The particulars of the premises thus conveyed to the trustees, named in the deed above abstracted, appear from a deed of release, bearing date 1st October 1596, whereby Robert Lunce, the defendant in the suit above mentioned, released to John Harker and others, the then surviving feoffees, under the deed of 1589, all his right in four parcels of land and pasture, with the appurtenances, in Swacliffe, Seasalter and Whitstable; one whereof was called the Upper Field, in Swacliffe; the second Bynfield, in Swacliffe, containing 9½ acres and 3 perches; the third was called Stockfyshe Field, and contained 14 acres, in Whitstable and Swacliffe; and the fourth was in Seasalter, and contained 3 acres; which said four parcels of land, it is recited, were formerly given by the Will of the said Thomas Lunce to the charitable uses therein mentioned.

These premises have been conveyed from time to time to new trustees, and from 1627 have been included in the general trust-deeds already mentioned.

The property consists of the following particulars:—

A piece of land in Seasalter, containing 3R. 38P., called Culvers, and let to Thomas Petman, on lease for a term of 14 years from Michaelmas 1830, at a high yearly rent of 4*l.* 10*s.*

A piece called Petticroft, in Whitstable, near a place called Mill Stroud, containing 1A. 1R. 30P., let to Thomas White, as yearly tenant, at a high rent of 5*l.* 15*s.*

The tenant was allowed, under a former lease, to grub up the hedges, and to lay it into his own land, stones having been put down to mark the boundaries.

The two fields, called Stockfyshe, 13A. 1R. 8P.; and Binfield, 3A. 3R. 20P., and Upper Field, 5A. 2R. 20P., held by the executors of William Lasslett, under a lease granted to William Lasslett, of this and other land mentioned under the head Church and Poor's Lands, for a term of 14 years from Michaelmas 1830, at a good yearly rent of 67*l.* 10*s.*, of which 36*l.* is reserved in respect of the three fields above named.

The rents are carried to the same account as those of other property comprised in the general trust-deeds, out of which there is paid to the churchwardens of Seasalter the yearly sum of 2*l.*, and to the churchwardens of Swalecliffe 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

The application of these funds will be given hereafter.

Bushy Close.

Bushy Close.

The following deed appears to have been the original settlement of the land described in the trust-deeds as the Bushy Close.

By indenture, bearing date 24th March 1667, George Gotham, in consideration of 50*l.*, granted to George Marlowe and 11 others, and their heirs, a piece of land, called Bushy Close, containing three acres, in the parish of Herne, in trust to permit the churchwardens of Whitstable for the time being to demise the same, as they, with the consent of the parishioners of Whitstable, should think fit; the rents and profits thereof to be disposed of in the clothing such of the poor of the said parish as the said churchwardens for the time being should think fit, and most needing and deserving; and it was provided that whenever there should remain not above two or one trustee in being, the survivors or survivor, or his heirs, should convey the said premises to such of the parishioners as the churchwardens and overseers should appoint on the like trusts.

The close above mentioned contains 3A. 0R. 26P., and is let to Robert Holness, under a lease for 14 years from Michaelmas 1830, at a good rent of 9*l.*

This rent is also carried to the general account, which will be hereafter noticed. It was formerly applied in purchasing great coats for poor persons, but this practice has ceased for at least 30 years, and latterly there has been no specific application thereof.

Church and Poor's Land.

Church and Poor's Land.

The earliest deed in which the trusts are declared with respect to the property next mentioned in the indentures of 1731, is an indenture of feoffment bearing date 30th September 1585, whereby John Savor and another, described as collectors and supervisors of the poor and church of Whitstable, with the consent of the vicar and wardens, granted the premises to Thomas Roger and 11 others, parishioners of Whitstable, and their heirs, to the intent that, out of the rents and profits, the repairs and maintenance of the church of Whitstable, and the ornaments and other necessary expenses of the church and parish aforesaid, should be supported and preserved; and also the poor inhabitants of the parish aforesaid relieved and supported, from time to time for ever, by the hands of the wardens of the church and parish aforesaid, who should yearly render a true account thereof, and pay the residue of the money therefrom arising to their successors.

This property consists of the following particulars:—

Whitstable.

Church and Poor's Land, continued.

|---|---|---|---|
| A field, called Wilkin Watts, containing 21A. 1R. 34P., in the occupation of the executors of William Lasslett, under a lease of this and other premises belonging to Lunce's Charity, at the yearly rent of | 31 | 10 | 0 |
| A field, called Keats, formerly containing about 12 acres; but part was, about 1826, sold to the Railway Company for 180*l.*, which was carried to the general account. The remainder, containing 10A. 1R. 32P., and a field, called Brook Field, lying on the other side of the road, and containing 9A. 3R. 9P., are held by Isaac Longbotham, under a lease granted to Henry Hopkins for 14 years from Michaelmas 1822; the yearly rent of 25*l.* was reserved by the lease, but on account of part of the land having been sold, it has been reduced to | 24 | 0 | 0 |
| Another field, called Brook Field and Bedisham, with a field, called Richard Allens, and another small piece of land, containing together about 12½ acres, let to Thomas Foord, esq., as yearly tenant, at | 41 | 0 | 0 |
| Two fields, called Grandams, containing 1A. 3R. 35P., with a small cottage thereon; and Alice Stephens, containing 2A. 2R. 12P., let together on lease to Isaac Longbotham for 14 years from 1830, at | 20 | 0 | 0 |

The above are all good rents.

The land described as half an acre between Gorrels is not known, and there has been no land in the possession of the feoffees, as long as can be remembered, answering this description.

The rents of these lands are carried to the feoffees' general accounts, and there is nothing paid thereout to the repairs and ornaments of the church.

CLERK'S HOUSE.

Clerk's House.

It does not appear how or when the parish became first entitled to the house described in the indentures of 1731 and the subsequent trust-deeds as the Clerk's House abutting on the church-yard.

This house was demised in 1802, when many other parts of the poor's estate were disposed of in like manner, for 99 years from Christmas in that year, to Thomas Foord, esq., in consideration of 100*l.*, at the yearly rent of 5*s.*

It does not appear that the premises have for a great length of time been occupied or let for the benefit of the parish-clerk, though the name would imply that they were formerly so used, but the rent has been carried to the feoffees' general account.

SCHOOL.

School.

There also is a school-house in the possession of the feoffees, built on part of the salt marsh, which it is stated was given up for that purpose about 40 years ago by Mr. Nutt, to whom that part of the salts had been apportioned.

The school was built by certain individuals, but, in 1813, 140*l.* which had been borrowed for improving the premises having been called in, the feoffees sold 132*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.*, part of the stock of which they were then possessed, and which arose from the investment of the money paid for the leases of part of the poor's estate as above mentioned, and paid off that debt.

The premises consist of a dwelling-house and two school-rooms, one for the boys and the other for the girls, with a small garden.

They are occupied, rent-free, by a schoolmaster appointed by the feoffees, who pay him a yearly salary of 10*l.*, and in consideration of these emoluments he teaches 17 boys, appointed by the feoffees, without any charge.

Application of Income.

Out of the income arising from the rents above mentioned, amounting to 208*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* per annum, the following payments are made:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| For fee-farm rents, quit-rents, land-tax, and poor's-rates, for the three almshouses | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| For insurance and repairs of the almshouses, on an average about | 18 | 0 | 0 |
| For rent dinner for the tenants once a-year, not exceeding per annum | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| For the expenses of the trustees' meeting on the business of the trusts, not exceeding | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| The annuities to Seasalter and Swalecliffe | 3 | 6 | 8 |
| Subscription to Kent and Canterbury Hospital | 6 | 6 | 0 |
| To the master for teaching school as above mentioned | 10 | 0 | 0 |
| To another master for the rent of a school, in order to enable him to maintain himself, and for teaching five children, appointed by the feoffees | 7 | 0 | 0 |
| There is also given to all the poor widows belonging to the parish, whether resident in it or not, the yearly sum at Christmas of 5*s.* each, the average number being about 40 | 10 | 0 | 0 |

Also to other poor persons occasional relief is given, in cases of sickness or any temporary distress; and in one instance 2*s.* a-week was allowed to a poor widow, who received no relief from the parish; and boys going out apprentice are sometimes provided with clothing.

Whitstable.

School, continued.

The payments for the purposes last mentioned may be taken at from 20*l.* to 25*l.* a-year, average 22*l.* 10*s.*

After disposing of whatever sum may be thought sufficient for the several purposes above mentioned, the practice has been to pay the balance to the overseers.

In the three years preceding Michaelmas 1835, 221*l.* has been paid in aid of the poor's-rates.

Questions have lately arisen as to the proper application of the income of the several estates above mentioned, and more particularly with reference to the operation of the late statute for the relief of the poor.

In consequence of the general inquiries instituted by the Commissioners for the Poor Law, with regard to the property held in trust for any parish, a letter was addressed to their office by the Guardians of the Blean Union, to which the parish of Whitstable belongs, for the purpose of obtaining the opinion of the Commissioners whether the rents of these estates were applicable to the maintenance of the poor of this parish, in the same manner as any money derived from the poor's-rates. The statement, however, was couched in very general terms, under an apprehension that the commissioners could not take any particular case into consideration. To this letter an answer was received from the secretary, the substance of which appears to be that all estates left to the use of the poor are vested, by the 59th George III., c. 12, sec. 17, in the churchwardens and overseers; that if an estate be left to the use of the poor generally, it will inure to the use of the same persons for whose relief the poor's-rates are collected, and that the churchwardens and overseers are bound to conform to the directions of the guardians of the poor as to the application.

These propositions more immediately apply to the estate derived from Lunce, and that which is called the Poor's Estate.

The first proposition, that the estates are by the 59th George III. actually vested in the churchwardens and overseers as a corporation, depends upon the question, whether they belong to the parish or whether they are held in trust for particular charitable purposes. If they belong to the parish, it would seem that they are by the Act vested in the churchwardens and overseers; and if they belong to the parish, the consequences undoubtedly are that the sums hitherto paid to the overseers in aid of the rates have not been misapplied, and also that the future application is subject to the direction of the guardians of the poor. As to the case of Doe v. Hiley, reported in 10 Barnewall and Cresswell's Reports, p. 885, which is relied upon as an authority, to prove that estates under the circumstances above mentioned are by the above-mentioned Act vested in the churchwardens and overseers, it is at least questionable whether it applies to any other than parish property, but a case in which this particular point is raised, viz. that of the Harlow Charities, which was certified to the Attorney-general in 1833, is now pending in the Court of Chancery.

As to the second proposition, that if estates are given to the use of the poor generally the law implies that it is for those for whose relief the rates are collected, it is to be observed that no authority is cited in support of this opinion, and that in several cases the Court of Chancery has decided that charities given to the poor shall be limited to the use of those not receiving parochial relief; but, with regard to the two estates above mentioned, it is to be observed that they were both given to the poor before the statute of 43 Elizabeth, and that the terms used in Lunce's Will are "the poor and impotent people," words synonymous with those afterwards used in the said statute; so that though, with respect to charities founded subsequently to that statutable provision for the poor, an inference may be drawn that the donor did not intend to relieve the rich, a different construction may perhaps be put upon the terms of a benefaction which was to take effect before there was any legal provision for those who should be unable to support themselves.

Under these circumstances it seems that there is sufficient doubt to justify an application for the directions of a court of equity; and it may be thought advisable also to refer to the decision of the court the validity of the lease above mentioned, as granted to Mr. Foord in 1791.

The rent of the field called the Bushy Close is undoubtedly applicable for a particular charitable purpose, and ought to be paid to the churchwardens to be so applied.

With regard to the estate held for the purposes of repairing the parish-church and for the poor, the directions of a court of equity seem also necessary to determine in what proportions the rents are to be disposed of to each object. The decision of the court as to the application of the rents of the lands called the Poor's Estate will govern the application of the proportion applicable to the poor.

PARISH OF WICKHAMBREUX.

Wickhambreux.

Smith's School.

Smith's School.

The following charity was not inquired into in 1818, being then exempt, as being under the control of special visitors: see First Report, p. 158.

By indenture, bearing date 2d June 1656, between John Smith, rector of Wickhambreux, of the one part, and William Courthope, William Whitfield, and four others, of the other part, the said John Smith, being moved by the sight of a book, entitled Vox Populi, and to the intent that the premises thereafter mentioned should be for ever used for the keeping of a school in Wickhambreux, after stating that he had built a school-house in Wickhambreux on his own land, for that purpose and towards the maintenance of the schoolmaster for the teaching children of the said parish, granted and enfeoffed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, the said school and school-house, with the buildings thereto belonging, and a messuage, garden and orchard, and half an acre of land, in Wickhambreux, which he had lately purchased of William Spratt, together with convenient room about the said school-house and buildings for the placing a ladder as occasion should require for the repairs of the same; in trust to permit the then schoolmaster and his successors to receive the rents and profits of the premises towards his maintenance, and to inhabit in the said school-house, he keeping the buildings and premises in repair; and it was provided that, when any four of the trustees for the time being should be dead, the survivors should convey the premises to so many more of the said parish as, with themselves, would make up a competent number, the charge of renewing the trust to be paid by the schoolmaster; and that the rector or minister of the said parish, with the two churchwardens for the time being, and one or more of the elder of the kindred of the said John Smith, if any should be there, or the major part of them, should on every vacancy appoint another schoolmaster within 10 days, or within such convenient time as might be; but that, if any of the surname of Smith should be fitting for the office, he should be preferred; and it was further provided that the rector or minister, with the churchwardens for the time being, should be visitors, and that the said school should be governed by such rules as they should from time to time establish, and a power was given to them to displace the schoolmaster, if not of good life and conversation, after three admonitions.

Wickhambreux.

The premises thus devised consist of a dwelling-house, with a garden, containing 31 perches, on the north side of Wickham-street, and a school-room on the other side of the street, nearly opposite.

It was surmised that a piece of land, containing 3R. 23P., adjoining the site of the school-room, also belonged to this charity, but it appears, from reference to Mr. Smith's purchase-deed, that the lands he had purchased were situate wholly on the north side of Wickham-street, and that he only gave so much on the other side of the road, besides the school-room, as was sufficient to place a ladder against the roof.

The lands which Mr. Smith purchased are described as abutting north on the lands of the lord of the manor: no part of the premises are now so bounded, but it is understood that a slip of land, which led up to lands of the lord of the manor, had been lost, but long before the recollection of any person now living.

The school premises were, about seven years ago, given up to John Trice, parish-clerk, by the consent of the vestry, with a view of teaching school there. It is stated that he did in fact commence keeping school, but that, as it was not well attended, he gave it up; he still, however, retains the dwelling-house, but the school-room is occupied by a widow, with an idiot son, who was placed there by the vestry as soon as the school was discontinued.

It is as much as twelve years since the poor have had any benefit from this school.

The rector and the churchwardens, to whom a visitorial power is given by the foundation deed, appear wholly to have neglected the trust reposed in them. It has been recommended that immediate steps should be taken for removing the present inmates of the school premises, and appointing a fit person to instruct the poor children of the parish.

SLOYDEN'S CHARITY.

Sloyden's Charity.

For the particulars of the Will of Harry Sloyden, bearing date 5th January 1568, and the letting of the property, see parish of Littlebourne.

The moiety of the rent paid to this parish, amounting to 8*l.* 5*s.*, is laid out in beef, which is distributed, on St. Thomas's-day, amongst all the married poor. The price of the meat has generally exceeded the income of the charity, and the difference was charged to the account of the poor's-rates; but at Christmas 1835, as it was found the legality of this charge in the overseers' accounts could not be supported, the distribution was reduced, and from the income of the charity the poor received from 3 to 10 pounds of meat, according to the number in family.

LOST CHARITIES.

Lost Charities.

There is mentioned on the table of benefactions in the church a yearly payment of 2*s.* to the poor, left by Andrew Holness, and the yearly sum of 10*s.* given to the poor, out of Well-court, by Sir Henry Palmer, in 1611, similar sums having been left to Beakesbourne, and other places; there is no trace of any payment in respect of these charities.

SIR JAMES OXENDEN'S CHARITY.

See First Report, p. 158.

RUSHBEECHER'S CHARITY.

John Rushbeecher, by his Will, bearing date 14th October 1663, and proved at Canterbury, devised a piece of land, containing, by estimation, five acres, in the parish of Woodnesborough, to Thomas Denne and Stephen Beane, and their heirs, for the use, benefit and behoof of 10 of the poorer sort of people of Wingham, not receiving alms of the parish, the rent to be distributed amongst them, at the discretion of the said Thomas Denne and Stephen Beane, and their heirs, to whom he gave the yearly sum of 20*s.* out of the said rents.

The premises thus devised consist of five acres of land, called Wingham Poor Land, undivided at the present time, on one side, from the property of the devisees of Edmund Slaughter.

Wingham.

Up to 1801 these premises were in the occupation of William Greenstreet, who paid to the churchwardens and overseers the yearly rent of 4*l.*, which was distributed to the poor. The same tenant continued in possession for some years afterwards, but paid no rent, and the land subsequently came into the possession of the late Edward Slaughter, the owner of the adjoining premises; but, whether there was any pretended sale, or how he obtained possession, does not appear. No rent has been paid to the parish since 1801.

In 1835 an information was filed by the Attorney-general against Mary Slaughter, the widow, and John Hoile and John De Bock, devisees in trust under the Will, of the above-named Edward Slaughter, and other parties interested in such devise, praying that the charity might be established, that an account should be taken of the rents and profits, and that trustees should be appointed for the charity.

From the allegations in the information it appears, that in 1812 the said Edward Slaughter demised certain premises (to which he was entitled in fee), by the description of a messuage and land, containing five acres, abutting west on lands belonging to the poor of Wingham, and also the lands in question, by the description of five acres, "called the Poor Land," to John Harrison, for 14 years, at the rent of 55*l.*; and that, the lessee having become bankrupt, and this lease having been given up, Edward Slaughter granted a new lease, dated 30th July 1822; that in the draft of the lease the premises were originally described in the same words as in the lease of 1812, but that the description was altered by Mr. Slaughter himself to, all that messuage, yard and land thereto belonging, containing together 10 acres, and, accordingly, in the lease of 1822, the premises so described were demised for a term of 21 years, at the yearly rent of 45*l.*: and by his Will, bearing date 22d June 1831, he devised his messuages, barn, &c., and one piece or parcel of land, containing, by estimation, 10 acres, more or less, in Woodnesborough, to the said John Hoile and John De Bock, in trust for his wife for life, with remainders over.

To this information the defendants pleaded that Edward Slaughter was a purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice, but the plea has been overruled, with costs, and in February 1836 it was stated the defendants were about to put in their answer.

Richard Oxenden's Charity.

Richard Oxenden's Charity.

It is stated on the table of benefactions in the church that Richard Oxenden, in the year 1701, gave 4*l.* per annum for ever to the minister of this parish for the time being, for reading divine service and preaching a public sermon in the parish-church every Wednesday in Lent, and on Good Friday; also 20*s.* per annum, to be distributed to eight poor persons that should be at divine service on Easter-day.

The yearly sum of 5*l.* is paid as a charge on Uffington otherwise Overton Farm, in the parish of Goodnestone, late the property of Sir H. Oxenden and now of Sir Brook Bridges.

The Rev. Montague Oxenden retains 4*l.* to his own use for preaching the Lent lectures, and distributes 20*s.* to eight poor persons attending church at Easter.

Church's Charity.

The table of benefactions also notices a gift to the poor of 10*l.* by John Church, in 1604, which it is stated had been put out to interest, but was afterwards paid into the hands of the overseers of the poor, who distributed 10*s.* at Easter, as the interest thereof.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S HOSPITAL.

St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

There seems to be no precise evidence in existence of the foundation or endowment of this hospital: an account is given of it in Hasted's "History of Kent," taken principally from other historical works, the substance of which may be stated shortly as follows:—

That it was founded by Gundulph Bishop of Rochester in 1078, and was originally instituted as a lazar-house, and consisted of a master, brethren and sisters, the number, as it is stated, being nowhere specified; that the prior and chapter of St. Andrew, in Rochester, were ordained the perpetual patrons of it; but that the master and brethren were always of themselves a corporation, distinct from the priory, and demised their estates under their common seal. It is further stated that, in the reign of James I., a grant of the property of this hospital having been made by the Crown to the Viscount Doncaster, legal proceedings were had, which were ultimately compromised, and the property restored to the hospital. A further account of these proceedings will be found in the Registrum Roffense, p. 224, from which it appears that the master and brethren of the hospital were obliged to grant leases of their property on fines for the purpose of paying the expenses they had incurred in defending their rights, and by way of compromise with the parties who had obtained possession under the grantees.

Amongst the papers in the possession of the Dean of Rochester, the present master or patron, is a copy of the survey of 37 H. VIII., in the margin of which the hospital is entitled "The Hospital of the parish of Chatham, called St. Bartholomew, pro lazaris hominibus fundat:"

The property belonging to this institution consists of the old hospital, now used as a chapel, and the several premises hereafter mentioned in the rental.

With regard to the old hospital: by indenture, bearing date 29th January 1735, between William Walter of the first part, Thomas Herring, D.D., Dean of Rochester, and patron of the hospital, of the second part, and Mawdistly Best and eight others of the third part, reciting that a lease had been granted by the brethren of the said hospital, with the consent of the said patron, to the said William Walter, of two messuages and gardens in Chatham, for 40 years from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of 3*s.*; that the said William Walter had purchased the same, to the intent, at the expense of the said dean and William Walter, to lay one of the said messuages into St. Bartholomew's chapel, and to enlarge and fit up the same for the accommodation of the inhabitants of Chatham resorting thither to hear divine service, and to settle the residue of the premises for pious uses, subject to the disposition of the said dean and his successors, patrons of the said hospital; the said William Walter assigned the premises to the parties of the third part for the residue of the said term, in trust to permit the said William Walter and the said dean to lay one of the houses into the said chapel, to permit the same to be enjoyed for the uses above mentioned, and the seats disposed of as the dean and his successors should direct; and, as to the other premises, to let the same, and pay the reserved rent, or so much as should be necessary, for repairing the premises, and the surplus to such pious uses, in respect of the enlargement or ornament of the chapel, as the dean and his successors should appoint.

The lease of the premises laid into the chapel appears never to have been renewed; but the chapel is still used for divine service, and the expenses of the repairs are defrayed by the dean.

The following is a copy of the rental furnished by the Dean of Rochester:—

Out of the income the clear yearly sum of 27*l.* is paid to each of the brethren, and the residue of the income, arising from the rents, fines and dividends, above mentioned, is received by the dean to his own use. The emoluments derived from the hospital have been considered as inseparable from the deanery.

Though there is but little evidence as to the object of this foundation, and of any poor persons having ever received the benefit of it, it seems to be a fit subject for the consideration of the Attorney-general.

SIR JOHN HAWKINS'S HOSPITAL.

Sir J. Hawkins's Hospital.

By letters patent, bearing date 27th August, in the 36th year of her reign, Queen Elizabeth, on the petition of Sir John Hawkins, knt., in order that an hospital might be founded,

Chatham.

in the town of Chatham, for the relief and support of poor mariners and shipwrights, who should have served in or for the royal navy, and should be wounded, maimed or reduced to want or poverty, granted that there should be a hospital in Chatham for the habitation, relief and support of 10 or more such poor mariners or shipwrights, to be called "the Hospital of Sir John Hawkins, knt., in Chatham;" that there should be so many poor mariners and shipwrights appointed to be maintained therein as the said Sir John Hawkins, during his life, and after his decease the governors, should from time to time assign or elect; that there should be 26 governors of the hospital and of the goods, possessions and revenues thereof, viz., the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of Rochester, the High Admiral, the Warden of the Cinque Ports, the Dean of Rochester, the Treasurer, the Comptroller, the Surveyor and the Clerk of the Navy, six principal masters of mariners, two principal shipwrights of the navy, the Master and the Wardens of the Trinity House, and their successors in the said offices without any new election, and four other governors therein appointed by name, with directions that, when any of these should die or be removed, five of the governors dwelling in the county of Kent, whereof one of the principal officers of the navy, one of the six masters of mariners, one of the principal shipwrights, and one of the masters and wardens of the Trinity House, should be four, should, within six months, in the said hospital, elect other fit persons dwelling in the county and seised of lands or tenements in the county of the annual value of 100*s.* at the least, and of the age of 21 years, and in default of such election for six months that the archbishop, or, the see being vacant, the Bishop of Rochester, or, that see being vacant, the Lord Admiral, should appoint such elective governors; and the governors were thereby incorporated by the name of "the Governors of the Hospital of John Hawkins, knt.," in Chatham, with the usual powers, and licence to purchase and take lands not exceeding the clear annual value of 100 marks: and it was provided that all revenues and profits belonging to the hospital should be disposed and converted to the support and maintenance of the said hospital, the poor and impotent aforesaid, and to defray the charges and expenses of governing the said hospital; and, after the death of Sir John Hawkins, power was granted to the governors and their successors, or the major part of such of them as should dwell in Kent, of whom four should be of the officers before mentioned, in the clause relating to the appointment of the elective governors, to nominate and appoint the poor mariners and shipwrights, and to constitute proper officers for the management of the business of the hospital, to remove and deprive the said poor and the said officers as they should see convenient; or if they should not fill up such vacancies as should occur the power of filling up the same was given to the said archbishop, or, the see being vacant, the Bishop of Rochester, or, that being vacant, the Lord Admiral, with the assistance of four of the said officers; and the governors, or the greater part of them, of whom four such officers as aforesaid, and the said bishop or dean, should be five, were empowered to make statutes concerning the number, election, removal and governing of the said poor and of the said governors and officers, the charges and expenses of the management of the business, and all other things belonging to the hospital, and the ordering and disposing of the lands, tenements and hereditaments, for the support of the hospital, the relief of the poor and impotent, and the support of the charges of the management thereof.

Statutes were made by the governors, 25th May 1598, by which it was provided—

That the number of the poor to be relieved within the said hospital should be 12, each of whom was to have a weekly allowance of 2*s.*

That if any man, eligible according to the charter, should be married, his wife (being at least 50 years of age) should be taken with him into the hospital, both to be relieved there as one single pensioner, and, if she should outlive her husband, that she should have the whole pension as long as she should remain sole. But if any man, after his election, should take a wife, that he should lose his place.

That a deputy-governor should be appointed under the common seal, to inhabit in the principal house, to pass his accounts yearly, on Thursday in Easter week, his fee to be 40*s.* yearly, besides an allowance of all necessary charges expended by him abroad in the hospital affairs.

That 30*s.* should be allowed for a dinner at the governor's meeting every Easter, and for two other meetings in a year, if necessary, 20*s.* at each meeting.

That the archbishop for the time being should be visitor, that see vacant, the Bishop of Rochester, or, that see vacant, the Dean of Rochester, or, the deanery vacant, the Treasurer of the Navy.

By indenture, enrolled in the Court of Chancery, bearing date 20th May, 40th Elizabeth, Sir Henry Palmer and three others granted to the governors of the hospital, and their successors, the manor and capital messuage called Old Garlands, and the lands adjoining the said house, containing 30 A., and 95 A. 3 R. 6 P. of salt and fresh marsh, all in Stanford, in the county of Essex, with common of pasture for 26 sheep in the church marsh; a rent of 5*s.* issuing out of a fresh marsh in Curringham; also a messuage, storehouse, and two curtilages, yards, and garden, belonging thereto, in Chatham, abutting on lands of the hospital of St. Bartholomew west, the Medway north, and Chatham-street south, on which premises the charity-house of the hospital was then built, all which premises the said parties had taken from Sir John Hawkins by deed, enrolled in the Court of Chancery in the 37th of Elizabeth.

It appears from an old case, probably made out about 1750, that the tenant of the Essex Farm enjoyed neither the common of pasture nor the 5*s.* rent, but the governors were advised that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant any proceedings for the recovery thereof.

The governors are also possessed of property in the parish of East Wickham, consisting chiefly of the rectorial tithes, but the deed of conveyance was not produced on the inquiry.

The farm in Essex is let on lease, bearing date 1st October 1831, to George Spitty, by the description of the manor-house, called Old Garland, in Stanford, in the county of Essex, and the lands thereto belonging, containing by estimation 30 acres, and 95 A. 3 R. 16 P. of fresh and salt marsh in Stanford, for a term of 14 years from 29th September then last, at the yearly rent of 150*l*., the lessee paying all assessments, wallscots, &c., and keeping the buildings in repair.

Chatham.

The property in East Wickham was demised, 15th April 1830, to Richard Booth Smith, by the following description, a smith's forge or shop, with the ground and appurtenances, in Wellen, in the parish of East Wickham, and all and every the tithes of corn, grain, fodder, hay, hemp, lambs, wool, pigs, with all manner of other tithes whatsoever, with the appurtenances, of the said governors in right of the said hospital, growing, increasing and arising in Wellen, otherwise Welling, and Wickham, otherwise East Wickham; in the county aforesaid, all which said shop, ground and tithes, late were in the tenure or occupation of William Reaves, but then of the said Richard Booth Smith, his assigns or under-tenants, for the term of 16 years from Michaelmas 1829, at the yearly rent of 160*l*.

The interest in this lease has been assigned, with the consent of the governors, to Robert Dickson, who also purchased of Mr. Smith the lease of a farm in East Wickham.

Since the assignment of the lease Mr. Dickson has paid only one year's rent, due Michaelmas 1834; the subsequent rent has been withheld in consequence of a dispute concerning the tithe of hay. The lessee insists that the tithe of hay, which is claimed and enjoyed by the vicar, is included in the demise to R. B. Smith, and that he is therefore entitled to a compensation for the same as in case of eviction.

It is stated on the part of the governors that, when the tithes were valued for the purpose of fixing the rent, those of corn and grain only were taken into consideration, but this is a fact of which the assignee of the lease cannot be supposed to be cognizant, and the governors have been advised not to incur the risk of having recourse to legal proceedings.

There are also two messuages, &c., demised by lease, dated 29th January 1827, to William Ashenden, by the description of two messuages or dwelling-houses, warehouses, buildings, yard, wharf, and other premises thereto belonging, in the parish of Chatham, near the hospital, for the term of 21 years from Christmas 1826, at the yearly rent of 65*l*., with a covenant on the part of the lessee to keep the buildings then or thereafter to be erected in repair, and forthwith to repair and make solid, agreeably to a plan thereon endorsed, the said wharf, and to erect a warehouse, two stories high, at the expense of 300*l*. at the least, and to insure.

There is also standing in the names of the governors 2,200*l*. Consols, producing yearly dividends to the amount of 66*l*. Of this stock 250*l*. was purchased since April 1835, and 450*l*. in the two preceding years.

The present income of the charity may be taken as follows:—

The present governors are the official persons best answering the description contained in the charter, and four persons elected as vacancies occur by death.

The persons acting as the six principal masters of the navy are the masters of the principal dock-yards in the neighbourhood; and the master shipwrights of Chatham, Sheerness, and Woolwich, are considered as answering the description of the principal shipwrights of the navy. The four elective governors are Dr. Mathew Irving, the incumbent of Chatham, Dr. John Page, vicar of Gillingham, Robert F. Bingham, esq., and Edward Twopenny, esq., both of Rochester.

The governors, who usually attend to the business, are the four elective governors, the Dean of Rochester, and the officers of Chatham dock-yard. They meet at the hospital every Thursday in Easter week, and oftener, if necessary, on notice being sent by Mr. Twopenny, who is the deputy-governor.

The hospital consists of 12 dwellings and a committee-room, two additional houses having been built in 1824, at an expense of about 460*l*.

The poor persons appointed to the hospital are generally such as have served in the navy, a preference being given to those who are most helpless from wounds or other circumstances; the appointments are made at the meetings of the governors according to the majority of votes. None are elected having a wife under the age of 50 years.

There are at present in the hospital three married couples, two single men, and seven widows, whose husbands have died since their appointment.

They are generally resident, but it occasionally happens that it is necessary to place one of them with their friends that proper care may be taken of them.

There is paid to every single man and every married couple 8*s*. a-week, and to every widow 7*s*. a-week, and each tenement is provided with one chaldron and a half of coal; on the death of any one of the inmates 1*l*. 11*s*. 6*d*. is allowed for the funeral expenses.

The only other payments out of the income are a salary of 4*l*. allowed the deputy-governor, the insurance of the hospital and of the Essex farm, and some incidental expenses of small amount.

The income is much more than sufficient to provide for these payments, but it is not thought advisable to increase the stipends of the present inmates, most of whom have pensions for their services and do not require any additional allowance.

In the last three years 631*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* has been invested in the purchase of stock, and in March 1836 there was a balance due to the deputy-governor of 56*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.*, but there was due 225*l.* for rents due at the preceding Michaelmas.

WATTS'S CHARITY.

Watts's Charity.

For the origin of this charity see City of Rochester.

Under the proceedings which took place lately in the Court of Chancery about 1,100*l.* was decreed to the city part of the parish of Chatham, and after paying all expenses the residue was invested in the purchase of 1,286*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.* Consols, standing in the name of the accountant-general.

Two thirty-second parts of the income of the estate and the dividends of the stock above mentioned are received by the treasurer to the guardians of Chatham for the benefit of that part of the parish which lies within the city, and the amount is applied in paying the rates of all persons whose assessments are under 5*l.*, and if there is any surplus to those who are rated above 5*l.* in equal proportions.

GREGORY'S CHARITY.

Gregory's Charity.

Sir Edmund Gregory, knt., by his Will, bearing date 24th April 1710, bequeathed to the minister and churchwardens of the parish of Chatham, and their successors, 100*l.*, the interest thereof to be annually distributed among the most necessitous families of the town of Chatham according to their discretion.

By indenture of feoffment, bearing date 10th February 1720, between John Proby of the one part, and the Rev. John Loton and six others, of whom the minister and churchwardens were three, reciting that this legacy had been laid out in the purchase of South Sea Stock, and that the same had lately been sold out for the sum of 750*l.*, which it had been determined to invest in the purchase of the premises thereinafter mentioned, the said John Proby, in consideration of 675*l.*, part thereof, granted and enfeoffed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a messuage called Petts Farm, in the Lower-street, in the parish of Burham, with the barn, buildings and orchards, thereto belonging, and several pieces of land, containing, by estimation, 32 acres, in the said parish, on trust, to permit the minister and churchwardens of Chatham for the time being to receive the rents and profits and to dispose of the same according to the Will of the said Sir E. Gregory, regard being had in the distribution thereof to the great increase of the said charity; and it was provided that, whenever the trustees should be reduced to the number of three, they should convey the premises to such other trustees as by the minister and churchwardens should be appointed, whereof the said minister and churchwardens should always be three.

New trustees were appointed by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 23d and 24th January 1738, whereby the premises were conveyed to Daniel Pailett and 14 others, on the like trusts; but for several years the property has been considered as vested in the guardians of the poor, and has been under their control and management.

It appears, from a plan amongst the documents belonging to this estate, that in March 1819 an exchange was effected between the Earl of Aylesford and the guardians, whereby the Earl of Aylesford gave up 3A. 2R. 3P. for 3A. 0R. 22P. adjoining the charity property: this exchange appears to have been a mutual accommodation to both parties.

By lease, bearing date 24th April 1828, the guardians of the poor demised the premises as a messuage and farm, called Petts Farm, in the Lower-street, in the parish of Burham, with a barn, &c., and several pieces of land, containing, by estimation, 32 acres, and also a piece of land containing 5A. 2R., part of Burham Common, allotted to the said guardians, as the owners of the said farm, under the Act for enclosing the said common, to Robert Brooker, for 21 years from Michaelmas then last, at 30*l.* a-year, which is stated to be a good rent.

The rent is received and carried to the general account of the guardians, and in respect of this charity 30*l.* a-year is expended in bread, which is given by the guardians to such poor persons as they think necessitous, either to such as do not receive regular parochial relief or in addition thereto.

It has been lately determined to keep a separate account of this from the other funds at the disposal of the guardians of the poor.

Manley's Charity.

Manley's Charity.

The yearly sum of 10*s.* was till lately paid as the gift of Thomas Manley, who left the like yearly payment to the poor of the parish of St. Margaret's, Rochester, as will be more fully stated hereafter.

When received it was disposed of by the guardians of the poor with other charities.

Paine's Charity.

Paine's Charity.

Ralph Paine, by his Will, bearing date 28th March 1812, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to William Limbrey, and three others, 7,000*l.* Consols, in trust, thereout to pay for the erecting a monument to his memory in Chatham church, and for the erecting and completing certain almshouses, to be called Paine's True Love, near the new road from Rochester to Canterbury, pursuant to a deed of covenant, bearing date 8th November 1800, and, if there should be any overplus, to dispose of the dividends for the purposes thereinafter declared concerning another sum of 700*l.* Consols; and he appointed certain officers of His Majesty's dock-yard of Chatham, with the incumbent of Chatham and his deputy, the churchwardens, and the said William Limbrey, and four others, to be governors of the several charities thereby intended to be established.

And he bequeathed to the same parties 8,000*l.* Four per Cent. Annuities, in trust, out of the dividends, to apply on Saturday, in every week, to such poor married men, being worthy and decayed householders of the said parish, as the said governors should from time to time appoint, the weekly stipend of 10*s.* 6*d.* each during their joint lives, and 7*s.* a-week to the survivor, to purchase for each of such persons one chaldron and a half of coals yearly, and the like quarterly for the use of the committee-room of the governors; and in trust also out of the dividends to distribute to each of 20 widows, not under 60 years of age, born in the said parish, and who should frequent Divine service in Chatham church, as the governors should appoint, a quartern loaf of wheaten bread every Sunday morning, after Divine service, in the said church; that they should also pay the ground-rent of the land on which the almshouses were to be built, and the taxes and repairs thereof, and the keeping clean and in repair his vault and monument; and, if there should be any overplus, that the same should be applied for the benefit of the charity thereinafter mentioned.

He further bequeathed to the same parties 7,000*l.* Consols, in trust to apply the dividends weekly, and every week, in the purchase of wheaten bread, and to distribute the same according to the directions of the said governors to the most worthy old widows not entitled to receive bread under the former bequest, and the most worthy blind men and women, never married, who should be most in want and should not be less than 60 years of age; and to poor widows, who should be most in want and should have the greatest number of children, born in wedlock, then maintained by them; but that the widows and blind first mentioned should be preferred before widows under the age of 60 and having children; and that every such poor should have been born and then resident in the said parish, and should never have received alms or any parochial relief; and he directed that every such person as the fund would allow should, every Tuesday and Saturday, have a half-quartern new loaf of wheaten bread delivered at their place of abode by a baker or bakers who should be resident in the said parish.

And he further directed that an account should be kept of the bread so distributed; that it should be kept separate, and have no sort of connexion with the workhouse poor on any account or pretence; that a clerk should be appointed for the purpose of the said several charities, to be appointed, as vacancies should occur, by the governors for the time being; that such clerk should keep the accounts thereof separately from each other, and the minutes of the proceedings of the governors, and should attend their meetings for that purpose; that he should receive, in advance, sufficient sums to enable him to defray the expenses of the said charities for the month ensuing; that the bakers should deliver to him an account of the bread delivered by them, and the names of the persons to whom delivered, at the end of every month; that he should see the bread regularly delivered, pay the bills for the same, pay the almspeople, and all other expenses; that a meeting of the governors should be held once a-year, when the accounts should be made out; that a copy of his Will should be entered in a book, to be kept in the vestry-room, and in another book, to be kept in a chest in the committee-room; and that the account should be annually entered in the same books; and that the clerk should be allowed the yearly sum of 20*l.*; and it was declared that, when any of the four trustees should die, or desire to be discharged, or refuse to act in the trusts, the survivors should appoint any other persons, except proctors and attorneys, to be trustees for the purposes aforesaid, in their place; and that there should be always four trustees; and that on every such nomination all acts should be done necessary for vesting the trust-moneys in the survivors, and such new trustees.

Annexed to the Will were several memoranda relating to the building the almshouses, from which it appears that the married persons who were to receive the weekly pensions out of the dividends on the 800*l.* Four per Cent. Annuities were those who were to be placed in the almshouses.

In another memorandum it is required that the clerk should not be an attorney or in the profession of the law.

Soon after the death of the testator suits were instituted in the Court of Chancery by Limbrey and another, the surviving executors, against Gare and others, and by Adams and others, legatees under the Will, against the Attorney-General. In the course of these proceedings the bequests for the erection of the almshouses and for the payment of pensions to the married persons who were, in fact, intended to be the almspeople, were declared void. Of the Four per Cent. Stock 1,300*l.* was transferred into the name of the Accountant-General to an account entitled "The Bread Account for the 20 old Widows;" and of the Consols 9,339*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* was transferred into the name of the Accountant-General to the account of "The Second Legacy of 7000*l.* Three per Cent. Annuities."

By a scheme, confirmed 10th April 1821, the curate or officiating minister and churchwardens of Chatham, for the time being, were appointed governors for the management of these charities, and directions were given as to the application of the dividends. A reference was subsequently made to the Master, 25th March 1825, in pursuance of which, after referring to the terms of the donor's Will, and the order of 10th April 1821, he certified that the Four per Cent. Stock had, by payment of legacy-duty and costs, and by the alteration in the stock, become reduced to 1,155*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* Three and a half per Cent. Annuities, the dividends whereof amounted to 40*l.* 8*s.* 8*d.* per annum; and that the Consols had been reduced to 8,277*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.*, producing 248*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum. As to the first branch of the charity, the Three and a half per Cent. Stock, the Master reported that the governors had found 20 worthy old widows qualified to receive the Sunday's bread, but that it was doubtful whether so many as 20 persons so qualified would be found in future; That, with regard to the larger charity, though the governors had advertised for the purpose of discovering proper objects, they had not discovered more than 18 qualified in all respects to receive the same; and, after stating the amount of the balances then in the hands of the governors in respect of each branch of the charity, he approved of the following scheme, viz., that the curate or officiating minister and churchwardens should be continued governors for the management of the two several charities; that they should meet annually to settle the affairs thereof and audit the accounts; that they should invest 12*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*, the balance in hand on account of the first branch of the charity, in Three and a half per Cent. Stock and lay out the dividends arising thereon, and on the sum of 1,555*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.*, in distributing a quartern loaf every Sunday to each of 20 widows, at least 60 years of age, and frequenting Divine service in the church; and that the surplus of the dividends, after paying for the bread, and a proportionate part of the salary of the clerk, should be invested in like stock until the annual dividends should amount to 60*l.*; and after they should amount to so much, if the price of bread would admit of the weekly distribution of a quartern loaf to 20 persons and the payment of a proportionate part of the clerk's salary, and there should not be 20 worthy old widows qualified as aforesaid, that the governors might complete the number by adding other old widows resident in any parish in the county of Kent, qualified according to the Will in all other respects except having been born in the parish of Chatham; and, if such bread to 20 widows and the payment of the proportion of the clerk's salary should not exhaust the dividends, the governors should apply the surplus in the purchase of fuel and clothing to be given equally amongst the 20 widows: that the governors should in like manner invest the balance then in their hands on account of the larger charity, amounting to 1,082*l.* 19*s.* 3*d.*, in the purchase of additional consols; that the dividends on the consols should be applied in the purchase of bread, to be given amongst the most worthy old widows who would not be entitled to receive bread under the former bequest, and to blind men and women, qualified by birth and residence according to the Will, above 60 years of age, and never having received any parochial relief; that such persons should be considered as the first class; and that four other classes should be appointed to partake in successive order as the funds would allow; that the second class should consist of the like persons, above 50 years of age, but qualified, except as to age, in the same manner as the first class; that the third class should be qualified in like manner, except having been born in the parish of Chatham; that the fourth class should have the same qualifications as those in the second, except that, instead of never having received any parochial relief, it should be sufficient if they had not received relief within five years; that the fifth class should contain persons having the same qualifications as those in the third class, and the like extension as to the time during which they should have received no parochial relief; that no more than 60 persons should receive the distribution of bread from this branch of the charity unless there should be more than 60 objects of the first class, in which case all such objects should receive the weekly distribution of bread, and also the other benefit of the charity in coals and clothing as thereinafter mentioned; that the surplus dividends of the Consols, after providing for the bread aforesaid, and allowing a proportion of the clerk's salary, should be applied in the purchase of coals and clothing to be distributed from time to time, as the funds would allow, according to the directions of the governors, amongst the objects above mentioned, respect being had to the priority of the classes, so that no person in any posterior class should receive a larger value than any person in a prior class, and that none should receive more than 5*l.* in coals and clothing; that the governors should employ two coal-merchants to provide such coals as should be required, and to deliver the same to the poor at their dwellings; and that the clerk should see to the delivery thereof and of the clothing, and should pay the bills for the same, making out an account thereof: and the Master approved of increasing the salary of the clerk to 20*l.* per annum, the same having been fixed by a previous order at 5*l.*

The proceedings in Chancery were concluded, and the costs incurred therein paid, in 1828.

The stock now standing in the name of the Accountant-General, on the bread account for 20 old widows, is 1,277*l.* Three and a half per Cents., producing annually 44*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.*; and, on the other account, 9,297*l.* 0*s.* 3*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, producing annually 278*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*

There is also standing in the name of the Accountant-General 12*l.* 10*s.* Three and a half per Cents., the dividends on which are appropriated to the repairs of the donor's monument in the church of Chatham.

In respect of the first-mentioned trust, bread is distributed, under the directions of the governors, in quartern loaves, every Sunday after morning service, in the church at Chatham, amongst 20 poor widows, if there are so many born and resident in the parish and above 60 years of age, or to so many as there may happen to be.

At the time of this inquiry, March 1836, there were only 16 names upon the list.

The amount of the bills paid for bread since 1825 has varied from 24*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.*, which was the amount in 1835, to 46*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.*; but the average expenditure on this account has not exceeded 38*l.* 11*s.* per annum.

On account of the clerk's salary 6*l.* only has been charged to this account; and, in March 1835, there was a balance against the charity of 12*l.* 1*s.* 2*d.*, but there was due for two years' dividends, payable in October 1835, 88*l.* 7*s.* 10*d.*, which, when received, would give a balance in favour of the charity of 76*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

In respect of the next branch of the charity, the dividends on 9,297*l.* Three per Cent. Consols have been disposed of, after paying the expenses hereafter mentioned, amongst widows, maiden women, and, occasionally, blind men, to the number of 60.

Up to 1832 the class to which each person belonged was marked in a book opposite to their names; but this practice has been inconsiderately discontinued.

It appears that the persons who fall within the description of the first class have never amounted to 60 in number; and that the third class is the most numerous. The governors have, in the selection of objects to fill up the vacancies, given a preference according to the priority of the class to which the applicant belongs; but, when once appointed, they have not removed any person from the list to make room for another candidate of a superior class.

Since 1828 there has been also distributed annually a quantity of coals, and since 1830 clothing has been given in addition. Each person receives two half-quartern loaves every week, viz. on the Tuesday and Saturday; and the governors determine annually what distribution of coals shall take place, and what blankets and clothes shall be given away,—each of the 60 persons receiving an equal proportion.

The average expenditure in bread, coal, and clothing, in the last five years, has been about 285*l.* 13*s.*, exceeding the annual dividends by nearly 7*l.*; but the average of the six years preceding 1831 amounted only to 107*l.* 7*s.*

There has also been paid from this account, since 1824, the salary of the clerk (who performs the duties required by the Will as far as they relate to the charities which were established), with the exception of one sum of 6*l.* charged to the other branch of the charity. This salary was originally 5*l.*, but, since 1827, 20*l.* a-year; also some incidental expenses of small amount, and 320*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.* for legal charges incurred in the proceedings in Chancery, including 16*l.* for receiving the dividends at the office of the Accountant-General. These expenses have been all charged in 1832 and 1834 to the account of the dividends on the Consols, the income of the other branch of the charity having been thought unable to bear its proportion.

In March 1835 there was a balance in the hands of the governors of 73*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.*; to which may be added two years' dividends which had accrued since October 1833, amounting to 557*l.* 16*s.* 4*d.*, and making in the whole 631*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

The dividends on the stock applicable to the repairs of the testator's monument have not yet been received, and no expense has been hitherto incurred thereon.

Philipps's Charity.

Philipps's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 3d September 1823, between Isabella Mitchell, executrix of the Will of Thomas Mitchell, who was the surviving executor of Anne Philipps, widow, of the one part, and George Parkin, master shipwright, John Weekes, and Thomas Forde Hawkes, assistants to the master shipwright of His Majesty's dock-yard at Chatham, of the other part; reciting that the said Anne Philipps, by her Will, bearing date 13th April 1799, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to her executors 300*l.* Four per Cent. Annuities, in trust, to pay the dividends to the master shipwright at Chatham, and his two assistants for the time being, to be applied by them amongst the widows and orphan children of deceased shipwrights, who should, at the time of their death, be serving as such at the dock-yard at Chatham, viz., two third parts amongst the widows and orphans of such as should have died in the parish of Chatham, and one-third amongst widows and orphans of such as should have died in the parish of Gillingham, in such manner as the said master and his assistants should think fit; with liberty for her executors to transfer the stock into the names of the said master shipwright and his assistants for the time being; and reciting that the said sum of 300*l.* Four per Cents. had been transferred into the names of the parties of the second part; they declared that they were possessed of the same on the trusts declared in the Will of Anne Philipps; and it was agreed that, in case the said parties, or any or either of them, should resign or be removed from the said several offices, or should die or decline to act in the trusts, it should and might be lawful for the others to transfer the said stock to the master shipwright and his two assistants for the time being, or such of them as should be willing to accept the said trust.

Chatham.

The parties to the deed of 1823 no longer hold the offices of master shipwright and assistants of Chatham yard; one is resident at Greenwich, another in London, and the third in Pembrokeshire.

The present master shipwright is William Stone; about 1833 he gave instructions to a solicitor in Chatham to obtain a transfer of the stock, but some objections were made by one of the trustees, and the matter was given up. The directions of the deed as to the transfer of the stock from time to time seem open to objection as inconvenient and expensive.

The dividends, amounting to 10*l.* 10*s.*, are received annually through Mr. Weekes, one of the late assistants, who resides in London.

All the widows who are qualified according to the directions of the Will are examined annually by the master shipwright and the two assistants, and the proceeds of the charity are divided amongst them proportionally, according to their wants, excluding those who receive parish relief—two-thirds amongst those whose husbands died in Chatham, and one-third amongst those whose husbands died in Gillingham: the sums usually given vary from 6*s.* to 14*s.*

CHARITIES OF THOMAS FAUNCE AND OTHERS.

Charities of Thomas Faunce and others.

The account of the origin of the several charities in this parish is derived wholly from the table of benefactions in the church.

It is there stated that Thomas Faunce, in 1609, gave by Will to the poorest people of the parish of Cliffe 20*s.* per annum, to be distributed at Michaelmas and Lady-day, payable out of tenements in Penny Lane End:

That Bonham Faunce, by Will in 1652, gave 40*s.* per annum, to be distributed to the poor on Easter and Michaelmas days, payable out of a piece of land called Mortnass Bush:

And that George Perritt, in 1661, gave by Will 30*s.* per annum, to be distributed to the poorest people on the feast of St. John the Baptist, payable out of a piece of land adjoining Cray Lane.

In respect of these gifts, though described as rent-charges, the parish officers are in possession of two pieces of land containing 3A. 3R. 36P., and another called Well Penn Field, containing 3A. 1R. 2P., let to Richard Knight at 17*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* per annum, for seven years from Michaelmas 1835; this letting was by tender.

COX'S CHARITY.

Cox's Charity.

Richard Cox gave, by Will in 1611, 20*s.* per annum, to be distributed to the poorest people in Cliffe, on the Feast of St. Andrew.—Tab. Ben.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* has been regularly received, and is at present paid by John Rumble, the owner of property in Read-street, Cliffe, on which four dwelling-houses have been lately erected.

WILSON'S CHARITY.

Wilson's Charity.

William Wilson, D.D., in 1614, gave 6*l.* per annum to be distributed, 40*s.* to the poorest and eldest widower, and 40*s.* to the poorest and eldest widow, at Lady-day and Michaelmas, and the remaining 40*s.* to the poor on New-year's-day; the same to be issuing out of three pieces of land called the Widower's and Widow's Gift.—Tab. Ben.

Instead of a rent-charge of 6*l.*, the parish officers are in possession of three pieces of land; the first, called the Widower's Gift, containing 4A. 0R. 36P., let to James Stevenson, at 9*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* per annum; the second, called the Widow's Gift, containing 2A. 2R. 23P., let to Richard Knight at 6*l.* 14*s.* 6*d*; and the third, called Bradmere Down, containing 3A. 2R. 26P., let to George Lake, at 8*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*

Cliffe.

Wilson's Charity, continued.

These lands were let to the several tenants above mentioned by tender, for terms of seven years from Michaelmas 1835.

Gale's Charity.

Gale's Charity.

Thomas Gale gave, in 1620, 10*s.* per annum to the poorest people of this parish, to be distributed on Ash Wednesday, payable out of a tenement in West-street.—Tab. Ben.

The yearly sum of 10*s.* was paid by the owner of a house, garden, and an acre of land, in West-street, till 1832, when it was sold to John Gleed. The rent-charge was demanded of him in 1834, and he paid the overseer 20*s.*, there being then two years in arrear; but, in 1835, he refused to make the payment; and, as he alleges that he purchased without any notice of the charge, and it is not mentioned in any of his title-deeds (which he produced on the inquiry), it seems that, without some further evidence, the payment cannot be enforced. Search has been made for T. Gale's Will, but without success.

Charities of Dunk and others.

Charities of Dunk and others.

Richard Dunk bequeathed to the poor of this parish 5*l.*, to be laid out by the churchwardens, and the profit distributed every Christmas-day amongst the poor, in bread.

Thomas Brasier gave to the poor, 5*l.*; William Gesham, 10*l.*; John Baynard, 5*l.*; John Boghurst, 5*l.*; Thomas Berry, 5*l.*—Tab. Ben.

These several legacies, amounting to 35*l.*, appear to have been carried to the churchwardens' account, and up to 1779, 1*l.* 16*s.* was paid out of the churchwardens' accounts as "gift," probably as the interest of these and some other benefactions not recorded.

Since 1779 no interest has been paid.

Parker's Charity.

Parker's Charity.

Robert Parker, in 1788, bequeathed 5*l.*, the interest whereof to be distributed to the poor. —Tab. Ben.

In respect of this legacy a yearly sum of 6*s.* appears to have been paid as charged on a farm-house at West-street, belonging to widow Battenhed, in the occupation of William Allen. There were two years' arrears due at the time of this inquiry, which it was stated Mr. Allen had agreed to pay.

---

Distribution.—The income derived from the several benefactions above mentioned is brought to one account called the gift-money, out of which there is paid to the oldest widow and to the oldest widower 2*l.* each, and the residue is disposed of in bread, which is distributed amongst all the poor—to every widow one half-quartern loaf, and to every poor family from one to three loaves, according to the number of children.

PARISH OF COBHAM.

Cobham.

Cobham College.

Cobham College.

By an Act, for the establishment of the new college of the poor of Cobham, in the county of Kent, passed in the 39th year of Queen Elizabeth, reciting that Sir William Brooke Lord Cobham had, in his life-time, resolved to erect and endow, for the perpetual relief of the poor people, a college at Cobham, but being prevented by sickness whereof he died, recommended by his Will the care and performance thereof to Sir John Leveson, Thomas Fane, and William Lambard, three of his executors, and to that end devised to them all his edifices, ruined buildings, and ground, with the appurtenances, in Cobham, the site of the late suppressed college at Cobham, and a close of pasture there, with 11,000 bricks and 40 tons of timber, and certain sums of money, to be employed as well in rebuilding the said college as in purchasing lands and tenements for a continual maintenance of poor persons to inhabit there; such persons to be in such number, so elected, so governed, visited, and expelled, as the said executors, or the survivor of them, should in writing set down; and reciting that the wardens and commonalty of the lands contributory to Rochester bridge were a body politic continually chosen of such persons as were of great estimation and credit in the county; it was enacted that the said wardens and their successors should thenceforth be the Presidents of the new college at Cobham, in the county of Kent, and should be a body corporate by that name, with the usual powers, and with liberty to take lands of the value of 200*l.* yearly; that the poor persons in the said college should be in such number, and elected, relieved, and governed by such rules, as the said executors during their lives, and the said presidents, after their decease, should appoint; and that the said new college, ground, and close, with the appurtenances, and all other lands to be purchased by the said presidents and their successors, should continue to them and their successors for the perpetual maintenance and relief of the poor there.

Certain rules and ordinances were made for the college by Sir John Leveson and William Lambard, two of the executors above named, being at the time wardens of the lands contributory to Rochester bridge, and as such presidents of the said college, to the effect following:—

That the number of the poor persons to be sustained and lodged within the said college should be 20 in all, be they married or unmarried, each taking 6*s.* 8*d.* a-month.

Of this number, one man should, from time to time, be chosen from any place whatsoever, and presented by such as for the time being should be the Baron Cobham, and should be placed therein as warden of the said college.

Another man should, from time to time, be chosen from any place by the presidents of the said college, and their successors, and should be sub-warden.

Cobham.

That the 18 residue, be they men or women, married or unmarried, should be chosen as follows, viz.—

That the parish of Cobham should for ever have three places in the said college, for three several poor persons, inhabitants of that parish.

The parish of Shorne, two places.

The parish of Cooling, one place.

That on every vacancy in the above six places two persons should be presented by the electors to the Baron Cobham for the time being, who should select one.

The parish of Stroode, two places.

The parish of S. Werburge, (alias Hoo,) three places.

The parish of Cliffe, one place.

The parish of Chalke, one place.

The parish of Gravesend, one place.

The parish of Higham, one place.

The parish of S. Maries Hoo, one place.

The ten last-mentioned persons to be chosen and presented by the electors as thereinafter mentioned.

The parish of Cuxtone, one place.

The parish of Halling, one place.

The two last-mentioned persons to be chosen and presented by the electors, with the assistance of Sir John Leveson, and the heirs male of his name and blood, inhabiting Whoorneplace, in Cuxton.

That the nominators and electors of the said last 18 poor persons should be, in every of the said parishes, the minister (by whatsoever name he should be called, that for the time being should be the daily incumbent, and residentiary within that parish for celebration of Divine service, and not he that should bear the name only and live absent), the churchwardens, the sidemen, if any such, the overseers of the poor, and the constables, petty constables and borsholders, that then should be inhabiting within the parish.

The elections should be within the parish-church, or else in the vestry thereof, on the Sunday next (or next but one) after notice should be given of a vacancy, after the evening prayer, and after publication of the same first openly made to the whole parish by the minister, both at the end of the morning prayer and of the evening prayer of that same Sunday, to the end that so many of the parish as would be might be present at the said election.

That the minister should have the casting voice, and that when the parties should be agreed, they should send the person elected with a note of their election to the presidents of the college, that they might make the admission.

As touching the poor to be elected, it was ordained that they should be the honest and godly poor and needy man or woman (being married or unmarried) that should have formerly been relieved at the charge of the parish, and should have there dwelt for three years at least next before the election, and, 1st, such a one as should have become aged and (having before time been a labourer) should be past work and labour.

2d. Such as had become lame, or maimed, by sickness, by service of the prince, or by any other misfortune without their own fault, and thereby unable to work as they did before.

3d. Such as had been born blind, or become blind, and thereby unmeet to work.

4th. Such as had become despoiled of their goods, and fallen from riches to poverty by any sudden casualty, as fire, robbery, shipwreck, or otherwise, so that it be not by their own fault.

5th. Such as had become continually sick, so that it be not of any contagious disease, for such should not be admitted to accompany with others.

And, lastly, such as should be overcharged with a burden of children which they could not, by their honest labour, find and sustain.

That if any two persons or more should be found equal in any one of these degrees, then such one should be preferred as should be superior in any of the other degrees aforesaid; and, if equal in all these degrees, that the man be preferred before the woman, the married person before the unmarried; he that should have passed all his life without infamy of notorious crime before him that had been reputed notoriously evil, though he be then become honest also; he that had inhabited longer time in the parish, hundred, lathe, or shire, before him that had dwelt there the lesser while; and he that had utterly no friends or kindred that would or might relieve him before him that had any such to help him.

And it is appointed that none but such as should have dwelt in the parish three years next before, and had been there relieved at the common charge of the parish; none but such as could say the Lord's Prayer, the Articles of the Christian Belief, and the Ten Commandments; none enemy to the gospel, or to his religion, as then established, by authority of this realm; no common swearer, adulterer, fornicator, thief, picker, hedge-breaker, or common drunkard, nor any that had been before expelled this college, should be elected, under the pain of forfeiture of that turn of election.

And that where any poor should be eligible after these rules and ordinances, his or her having a wife or husband should not hinder the election, unless the husband or wife should be an enemy to the gospel of God, or otherwise ineligible as before mentioned; and that, by the election of one, both the man and the wife should be admitted into this college, and receive monthly pension as one single person.

That each parish should find sureties and give bond to save the parish of Cobham harmless.

That if a man, being of able and valiant body, be admitted by reason of his unable and impotent wife, and she die, he continuing able and valiant, that place should be deemed vacant; but if the electors in his parish should newly elect him, then he should continue in the college, but not otherwise; and the like as to the widow of an impotent husband; also as to such as (being unmarried at the time of their admission) should afterwards marry.

Cobham.

That if they of the parish of Cobham should refuse or neglect to choose within the time appointed, or should make such choice as should be disallowed for any of the causes aforesaid, they should forfeit their turn of election to the parish of Shorne.

That in the like default Shorne should forfeit to Cooling, Cooling to Stroud, Stroud to Hoo, Hoo to Cliffe, Cliffe to Chalk, Chalk to Gravesend, Gravesend to Caxton, Caxton to Halling, Halling to Higham, Higham to St. Mary Hoo, St. Mary Hoo to Cobham.

That the presidents should examine the poor persons elected whether they can say the Lord's Prayer, the Articles of the Belief, and the Ten Commandments, which, if they should be able to do, the presidents should admit them, unless, either by their own knowledge or by others' good information, they should have understanding of such matter as might worthily hinder their admission.

Rules were also made as concerning the demeanour of the poor of the said college, wherein a form of morning and evening prayer was set forth, at which every poor person was to attend, unless prevented by sickness or inability to go out of his or her lodging, under a penalty of 4*d.* for each absence; and it was provided that no person should be abroad without licence, the warden or sub-warden to give leave of one night, but not above four times in the year, the paymaster for three nights together, but not above four times in the year, and the presidents for one whole month, at the most, in any year. It was further provided that such of the poor as were able should engage in some honest labour; that they should not commit any of the misdemeanors therein mentioned; that each poor person should have 6*s.* 8*d.* a-month, and the paymaster 40*s.* yearly; that 5*s.* should be paid yearly to an honest man to inform the paymaster of any breach of these ordinances, and 3*s.* 4*d.* to the incumbent of Cobham, as often as he should examine the poor of the college in their saying the Lord's Prayer, the Belief, and Ten Commandments.

That the reparations of the college, the letting of the lands thereof, and the distribution of all remains of money, should be referred to the discretion and care of the presidents; both, or the one of which, ought, once in the year, some pension-day, to resort to the said college to take consideration of the premises.

The concluding chapter of the statutes is as follows:—

"The now Baron Cobham, and other heirs male after him that shall be Barons Cobham, being of 21 years, are the principal visitors of this college, for seeing to the execution of the rules and ordinances thereof; and, in default of such heirs male, and during their minorities, the Bishops of Rochester are appointed visitors; and, in the vacancy of that bishoprick, the Dean and Chapter of Rochester are visitors thereof."

The property belonging to this college consists of a farm in the parishes of Westthorpe and Stifford, in the county of Essex, and another farm in Shorne and Chalk, in the county of Kent.

By indenture enrolled in the Court of Chancery, bearing date 26th June 1598, between George Byng of the one part, and John Leveson and William Lambard, wardens of the lands contributory to Rochester bridge, and presidents of the new college of Cobham, of the other part, the said George Byng, in consideration of 630*l.*, bargained and sold to the said presidents and their successors a messuage, with the appurtenances, in Shorne, called Smith's, with the barns, outhouses, gardens and orchard thereto belonging, with a small tenement called Copped Hall, in Shorne, and several pieces of land in Shorne and Chalk, by the names and containing the several quantities therein mentioned, amounting to 114 acres.

The deed by which the Essex estate was settled on the charity could not be found with the other documents relating to the college, in the possession of the bridge-wardens.

It appears, however, from a report made by the paymaster in 1731, and printed by order of the presidents, that there were certain marsh-lands in the parish of West Thurrock called the West Marshes, which belonged to the said college, and contained, by estimation, as appeared from an ancient deed, 41 acres; which lands, in the year 1690, were let at 26*l.* per annum, but were overflowed and lost, with the whole level in which they lay, by a very high tide that happened that year. The report further states that in 1694 the proprietors of the marsh-lands in West Thurrock then under water were summoned to appear before the Lord Mayor of London and others, as Commissioners of Sewers, when it was ordered that, if the said proprietors did not, within a limited period, pay the tax, which amounted to 6*l.* per acre, the land should be sold; that the college being unable to raise so large a sum, the land was sold, with the rest of the level, and that though the proprietors afterwards petitioned Parliament about the same, they could obtain no relief.

The remainder of the Essex estate is demised by indenture of lease, bearing date 1st May 1829, by the presidents of Cobham college, to William Skinner, by the description of a farm called Davy Down:—the homestead, with a cottage, buildings, and yard, containing 3 R. 8 P.; the Ten Acres, containing 10 A. 0 R. 12 P.; the Meadows, 14 A. 2 R. 14 P.; the Further Fourteen Acres and Shaws, 17 A. 0 R. 15 P.; the Middle Fourteen Acres, 14 A. 0 P. 38 P.; the Old Chalk Hole, 3 A. 3 R. 20 P.; the Hither Fourteen Acres, 14 A. 0 R. 5 P.; the Six Acres, 6 A. 3 R. 6 P.; all in the parish of Westhorpe; and the Mill Marsh, in the parish of Stifford, 15 A. 2 R. 2 P.; and the Salts and Wharf adjoining, in the same parish, 2 A. 3 R. 30 P.; for 14 years from 29th September 1828, at the yearly rent of 120*l.*

The farm in Thorne and Chalk is let on lease, bearing date 31st December 1823, to Joseph Solomon, as consisting of a messuage and several pieces of land, containing 111 A. 3 R. 5 P., for 21 years from Michaelmas 1822, at the yearly rent of 110*l.* These appear to be good rents, and it has been found necessary to make an annual abatement of 10*l.* of late years to the tenant of the Essex farm. The income is therefore reduced to 220*l.* per annum.

Cobham.

The management of the property, and the letting of the estates, is under the directions of the bridge-wardens, as presidents of the college, but is chiefly left to the paymaster, Edward Twopenny, esq.

The inmates of the college, 20 in number, are elected and presented to the presidents for admission, according to the statutes.

Out of the income there are paid the following sums:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Every month 16*l.*, divided equally amongst the inmates, per annum | 192 | 0 | 0 |
| Insurance of the college | 4 | 2 | 6 |
| The incumbent of Cobham, as catechist | 1 | 6 | 8 |
| The clerk of the bridge-wardens, as paymaster | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| To the same person, as woodreeve | 0 | 6 | 8 |
| £ | 199 | 15 | 10 |

The three last-mentioned payments have been made at least from 1755.

The residue of the income is applied in paying the expense of repairs, receipt-stamps, &c., in 1831 about 345*l.* was expended in repairs, but in general they have averaged about 11*l.* per annum.

At the last audit of the accounts there was a balance of 21*l.* in the hands of the paymaster.

The rights reserved to the Baron Cobham for the time being were, in fact, exercised by the late Earl of Darnley, the owner of the Cobham estate. The visitorial power seems, however, to be vested in the Bishop of Rochester, though it may be questionable whether the barony of Cobham does not confer rights of appointing or selecting some of the inmates of the college on the Duke of Buckingham.

W. HAYES' CHARITY.

W. Hayes' Charity.

W. Hayes, by his Will, bearing date 19th October 1678, as stated in the table of benefactions, gave to the poor 20*s.* yearly, issuing out of his lands, to be laid out in bread every Christmas-eve.

The property charged with this payment is stated to have been purchased by the late Henry Edmeades of the Hayes family, and to have been left to —— Baker, a minor.

The annuity is regularly paid and disposed of, with the produce of the following charity, and an addition from the sacrament-money, in bread. The distribution commences on the Sunday after Christmas, and about 20*s.* worth of bread is given away every Sunday, as long as the funds will allow. It has not been the practice hitherto to limit the charities to persons not receiving parish relief.

RICHARD HAYES' CHARITY.

Richard Hayes' Charity.

Richard Hayes, by his Will, bearing date 16th March 1789, bequeathed to the poor of the parish of Cobham, being householders, and not receiving parish relief, 80*l.*, to be paid away or placed out at interest, for the use and benefit of the said poor, in such manner as his trustees, George Cumming and Philip Boghurst, and the survivor, his executors and administrators, should think fit.

By indenture, bearing date 11th June 1794, reciting the Will as above abstracted, and that the said legacy had been invested in the purchase of 112*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* Consols, in the names of the said G. Cumming and P. Boghurst, they declared that they were possessed of such stock, in trust, for the use and benefit of such poor persons, as in the said Will mentioned.

This stock appears to be now standing in the name of P. Boghurst, of Worthing, the representative of the trustee of that name, and he has expressed his readiness to transfer it into the names of new trustees; but the parishioners have thought it desirable to defer incurring this expense until any difficulty should occur in receiving the dividends. The dividends, amounting to about 3*l.* 7*s* per annum, are now received through Mr. Gibbs, a solicitor in Strood, and disposed of with the preceding charity.

POLHILL'S CHARITY.

Polhill's Charity.

In an old parish register there is a memorandum that Edward Polhill, of Deptling, gave by Will, bearing date in 1554, and proved in the Prerogative Court, 10*s.* per annum to priests, clerks, and poor people, out of his lands called Crossal Hill.

The yearly sum of 10*s.* is paid by A. E. Douce, as charged on a field called the Corbell Hill, containing about 10 acres, which he purchased subject to that payment.

Deptling.

This sum is divided as follows:—3*s.* 4*d.* to the vicar, 3*s.* 4*d.* to the clerk, and 3*s.* 4*d.* is given to the poor of the parish, with the sacrament-money, on St. Thomas's-day, in bread and meat.

SHARP'S CHARITY.

Sharp's Charity.

The Rev. Joseph Sharp, vicar of Deptling, by his Will, bearing date 11th December 1830, bequeathed to the Sunday-school at Deptling such a sum as should produce, when invested, the annual sum of 5*l.*, to be paid to the Sunday-school mistress.

In pursuance of the above bequest the sum of 166*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Three per Cent. Reduced Stock, was purchased by the executors, in the names of the Rev. Robert Cobb, Augustus Edmund Douce, and James Watts.

The dividends, amounting to 5*l.*, are received by Mr. Watts, and paid to the vicar of Deptling, who applies the same in support of the Sunday-school.

PARISH OF DITTON.

Ditton.

GOULDING'S CHARITY.

Goulding's Charity.

Thomas Goulding, by his Will, bearing date 8th June 1704, proved in the Prerogative Court, gave to the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of Ditton the yearly sum of 10*s.*, payable at Michaelmas, to be distributed in bread to and amongst the poor of Ditton; and to the churchwardens and overseers of the parish of Leyborne the sum of 10*s.* yearly, payable on the same day, to be distributed, in bread or otherwise, amongst the poor of Leyborne; such several distributions to be made on Christmas-day and Easter-day, yearly: and he charged his house in St. Leonard-street, at West Malling, wherein John Goodyear then dwelt, with payment of the two several sums of 10*s.*

The premises charged with these payments, situate in St. Leonard-street, Town Malling, were lately sold to the late Mr. Bankes, and are now in possession of his widow.

The yearly sum of 10*s.* has been regularly paid to this parish, and distributed in bread on Easter and Christmas days.

TILSON'S CHARITY.

Tilson's Charity.

The Rev. Thomas Tilson, by his Will, in 1750, as stated on a tablet in the church, gave 100*l.*, the yearly produce to be distributed to the poor annually, on the Feasts of All Saints and the Purification, in wood and wheat.

With this legacy 125*l.* Consols was purchased, and stands in the names of the Rev. Richard Wardle, the rector of Ditton, and Nathaniel Luck, deceased; but it is intended to substitute the name of John Golding, esq., the present churchwarden.

The dividends, amounting to 3*l.* 15*s.* per annum, are applied wholly in the purchase of flour, which is distributed indiscriminately amongst all the poor; but a more useful mode of distribution was recommended.

PARISH OF EAST FARLEIGH.

East Farleigh.

FRANKLYN'S CHARITY.

Franklyn's Charity.

John Franklyn, citizen of London, by his Will, bearing date 30th September 1609, as found by an inquisition hereafter mentioned, bequeathed 100*l.* towards building six dwelling-houses in the parish of Farleigh, for six poor people of the said parish to dwell in during their lives, rent free; the poor to be such as the parishioners of the said parish should from time to time appoint.

By an inquisition taken under a commission of charitable uses, 4th October, 13 Charles I., after setting forth the said Will, it was found that the 100*l.* so bequeathed was paid to James Clarke and two others, to be employed according to the said Will; that six tenements were afterwards erected by the said J. Clarke; and that, after his death, his widow agreed with the inhabitants of the said six tenements, and other the parishioners, that such inhabitants should draw water in her well near the said tenements, paying 2*d.* apiece yearly; that George Carpenter, having purchased of the heirs of the said J. Clarke the land adjoining the said tenements, had, in his deed of purchase, inserted the site of the said tenements, and had, for three years past, claimed them as his own by colour of such purchase; whereupon it was decreed, on the 24th March 1637, that the said six tenements, with liberty of drawing water at the said well, should be for ever thereafter employed for the use of six poor people of the said parish, they paying 2*d.* each to the owner of the said field towards the reparation of the said well; the said six poor people to be such as the parishioners for the time being, or the greater part of them, should, as vacancies should occur by death, appoint; such appointment to be made, in the chancel of the parish-church, on Sunday, after evening prayer, notice thereof having been given by the minister on a previous Sunday. It was futher ordered that the said G. Carpenter should assure the said tenements and the right of drawing water, according to the intent of the said testator, in such manner as the overseers of the poor, or their counsel, should require.

By deed-poll, bearing date 1st May 1638, the said G. Carpenter, in pursuance of the said decree, granted and confirmed to the then overseers of the poor of the parish of East Farleigh, and their successors, the said six tenements with their appurtenances and the liberty of drawing water, each of the said inhabitants paying 2*d.* for the purposes declared in the said decree.

The almshouses consist of six tenements, with an upper and lower room to each; and there is about one acre of land adjoining, which is divided amongst the inmates, and used by them as gardens. The occupiers of the almshouses are parish paupers, put in by the parish officers.

East Farleigh.

It is supposed that the almshouse estate was formerly of much greater extent; and, particularly, that a piece of land, only divided from the site of the almshouses by a lane, and containing rather more than a quarter of an acre, is part of such estate.

With regard to this land an agreement was executed, 26th December 1760, between certain of the parishioners and George Marsh, whereby the said G. Marsh acknowledged the right of the parish to a parcel of land opposite the almshouses, which was enclosed by four stones, set up by mutual consent as the legal boundary thereof, to which land he disclaimed all title, but that it belonged to the poor of the said parish. He also acknowledged the right of the poor in the almshouses to a free passage to and from the well on the estate, near the premises above mentioned.

An agreement was subsequently made, 8th April 1776, between Watson Bradshaw of the one part, and the vicar, churchwardens, overseers, and five other inhabitants of the parish, of the other part, whereby it was agreed that the said W. Bradshaw should enjoy the said piece of land for 99 years from the date, at the yearly rent of 2*s.* 6*d.*; and he covenanted to give the free use of the well on his premises to the occupiers of the almshouses, and to keep the said well and all the requisites thereto in repair, in consideration of 2*d.* yearly.

The land is still held under this agreement; and the rent, 2*s.* 6*d.*, when paid, is carried to the account of the overseer.

From the terms of the agreement of 1760 it would seem that this land belonged to the poor of the parish; and, consequently, that the rents ought to be applied for their benefit, and not in aid of the rated parishioners; but no evidence was produced, showing that the premises were ever appropriated to the almshouses. It does not appear that there was any consideration, for the term of 99 years, granted to W. Bradshaw; and it is stated that, as garden-ground, the land might let for 2*l.* a-year.

There is also a supposition that the almspeople are entitled to the produce of three acres and a half of woodland, occupied with an adjoining farm; but there seems to be no legal evidence in support of such a claim.

HARRIS'S CHARITY.

Harris's Charity.

The Rev. Arthur Harris, by his Will, bearing date 29th July 1727, proved in the Prerogative Court, directed that 50*s.* yearly should be given to the minister and churchwardens of East Farleigh, payable, without any abatement, on the 1st November, in trust, to lay the same out for the use of poor widows and widowers, or poor children or indigent people, as a vestry should think meet, to buy them linen for shifts; which 50*s.* he ordered to be paid out of his house and land at Half Yoke, in the parish of Maidstone; and gave the minister and churchwardens power of distress in case of non-payment.

The yearly sum of 50*s.* is paid by Richard Day, farmer, the owner of a farm in the parish of Maidstone, still called Half Yoke; and it is laid out by the acting overseer in the purchase of linen, which is distributed, by him and the minister and churchwardens, amongst the poor, in quantities of from three to five yards each; persons of good and industrious character being preferred.

FORSTER'S CHARITY.

Forster's Charity.

It is stated, in the table of benefactions, that Thomas Forster gave 130*l.* to the minister and churchwardens, in trust, to apply the interest in the purchase of linen and woollen, to be given, every Christmas, to poor widows and widowers, or such persons as the vestry should direct.

In respect of this legacy 225*l.* Three per Cent. Consols stands in the names of the Rev. Henry Friend, deceased, John Amos Long, Francis Hartridge, and Gabriel Kennerd.

The dividends, amounting to 6*l.* 15*s.*, are received by Mr. Hartridge at the Bank of England, and paid to the minister and churchwardens, and the amount is laid out in linen, which is given away by them in the same manner as the preceding charity.

PARISH OF WEST FARLEIGH.

West Farleigh.

GOULSTON'S CHARITY.

Goulston's Charity.

Ann Goulston, by her Will, bearing date 13th July 1724, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to George Blackbourn and Thomas Miller 300*l.*, in trust, that they should lay the same out on a purchase of land; and directed that, after the charges of the said trustees were deducted, the interest, or after a purchase of land should be made, the rent, should be received and distributed among such industrious or aged poor people of the parish of West Farleigh, every year, as should receive no alms of the parish, by the vicar, churchwardens, and overseers and their successors, of whom the vicar should be always one.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 4th and 5th October 1726, between Thomas Hope of the first part, and the said George Blackbourn and Thomas Miller of the other part, reciting the bequest of Ann Goulston, the said Thomas Hope, in consideration of 315*l.*, whereof 300*l.* was the legacy of the said testatrix, conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a messuage and several parcels of land, containing by estimation 30 acres, in the parishes of Cranbrook and Staplehurst, or one of them, in trust, after payment of the necessary expenses, that the said trustees and their heirs, with the vicar, churchwardens, and overseer of the parish for the time being, should distribute the rents and profits amongst such industrious and aged poor people of the said parish, receiving no alms, as they or the major part of them, of whom the vicar should be one, should think fit.

No trustees have been appointed subsequently; but the estate has been under the management of the vicar and churchwardens.

It is let to Edward Chantler, under an agreement from year to year, at 20*l.* a-year. It was stated that this was a high rent when the tenant took it, but that he has subsequently, at his own expense, improved it.

West Farleigh.

The rent, subject to a deduction of 2*l.* 4*s.* for land-tax and occasional expenses for repairs, is distributed, by the vicar and the parish officers, to poor persons not receiving regular weekly relief; but it is stated that it has been found impracticable to confine it to those who do not receive occasional relief.

The distribution takes place at Christmas, and the sums usually given vary from 4*s.* to 8*s.*, according to the number in family, but with some preference in favour of those who appear most industrious.

North's Charity.

North's Charity.

The Rev. Oliver North, by his Will, bearing date 5th September 1725, proved in the Prerogative Court, devised his messuage or tenement, with the land, &c., thereto belonging, at West Farleigh, to John Brewer, esq., and four others of West Farleigh, and their heirs, in trust, to place Thomas Manser and William Stretfield, and their families, in the said tenement, who should jointly have their dwelling there, and the use of the washhouse and well, and of a garden-plot on the south side of the house, without paying any rent, during the lives of them and their wives; and that the trustees should pay the clear rents of the four pieces of land (then planted with hops and cherries), the barn and oast-house, after the repairs and all necessary expenses, to the vicar, churchwarden or overseer of West Farleigh, and their successors, to be applied betwixt those two poor men and women that should inhabit the dwelling-house as aforesaid, which should be applied for their clothing, teaching their children, or in such other manner as might be most beneficial for them in the judgment of the said vicar, churchwarden and overseer, or any two of them, the vicar always being one; and he directed that, upon every vacancy, the said vicar, churchwarden and overseer, or any two of them, the vicar being one, should place another industrious man and his family, who should be either past his labour, or should have a charge of children to maintain, and should be an inhabitant of West Farleigh, and receiving no alms from the parish, in the room of him or her who should die; which persons should enjoy the same benefits and privileges as those that should be first placed there: and he further declared, when the trustees should be reduced to two, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves and three others, for the benefit of such poor people, according to the intent of his Will; and he appointed and desired that his trustees should, on some day in Easter week in every year, make up their accounts of the rents and profits to the vicar, churchwarden and overseer, or any two of them, the vicar being one, to be by them signed and approved; and that the vicar, churchwarden and overseer should give an account to the said trustees how the said profits had been disposed of.

There has been no subsequent appointment of trustees, and the devised premises have long been under the management of the vicar and churchwardens.

The property consists of two almshouses, with a garden to each, and some land adjoining, containing in the whole 3A. 3R.

The almshouses, with the gardens, are occupied by two poor industrious families, appointed by the vicar and churchwardens.

The land is let to John Philpott, as yearly tenant, at 6*l.* a-year; but the tenant having planted it with hops, which are now coming into full bearing, the rent might be somewhat increased.

After deducting 12*s.* for land-tax, 10*s.* 6*d.* for insurance, and the expenses of repairing the almshouses, which amount to about 3*l.* a-year, the remainder of the rent is disposed of in purchasing coals and flour for the inmates of the almshouses; but, at the time of this inquiry, there was a balance of 10*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.* in hand.

PARISH OF FRINDSBURY.

Frindsbury.

Gunnesley's Charity.

Gunnesley's Charity.

The Rev. Robert Gunnesley, by his Will, bearing date 30th June 1618, gave the residue of his personal estate, not thereinbefore bequeathed, to the comfort and relief of the poor people of the several parishes of Strood, Frindsbury, Chatham, and St. Margaret's next Rochester, at the discretion of his executor.

By indenture, bearing date 4th March 1632, between John Clarke of the one part, and Thomas Babanett and 15 others, churchwardens and inhabitants of the parish of Frindsbury, of the other part, the said John Clarke, in consideration of 58*l.* 15*s.*, whereof 21*l.* 13*s.* was, by the consent of the parishioners, raised by the sale of certain sheep given for the repairs of the parish-church, and the residue of the money was devised by Robert Gunnesley for the relief of the poor of the said parish, and by a decree of commissioners of charitable uses was committed to William Watson, deceased, and the said John Clarke, and the profits thereof had been, by the churchwardens and overseers, according to the said decree, employed for the comfort of the poor of the said parish,—granted to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, three several pieces of land, called Islingham Deanes, containing by estimation 27 acres, in the parish of Hoo St. Werburgh, then let at 4*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*, on trust, to permit the churchwardens and overseers for the time being to receive the rents, and to dispose of 33*s.* yearly on the repairs of the church, and to employ the residue of the rent, which, according to the then lease, was 56*s.* 9*d.* quarterly, towards the comfort, succour, and relief of the poor of Frindsbury, according to the Will of Robert Gunnesley; and it was provided that, whenever there should be only eight trustees living in the parish, the survivors should convey the premises to 16 other persons, to be chosen by the chief inhabitants of the said parish.

Frindsbury.

The premises comprised in the above feoffment consist of 26A. 3R. 1P.; without any buildings thereon, and are let to Martin Gilbert, as yearly tenant, at a good yearly rent of 20*l.*

The whole of this rent is carried, with the income of the other charities hereafter mentioned, to one general account, out of which bread and meat has been provided and distributed to the poor, not according to any fixed rules or to any certain amount. In 1833 the sum thus disposed of was about 38*l.*, including 1*l.* 6*s.* for land-tax, insurance, and quit-rent; in other years the amount appears to have been generally less. The rest of the income has been applied in aid of the church-rates.

The sums strictly applicable for the benefit of the poor, according to the particular directions of the different donors, are as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gunnesley, deducting from the whole rent (20*l.*) 7*l.* 7*s.*, as the proportion applicable to the church . . . . . | 12 | 13 | 0 |
| Woodgrene . . . . . | 13 | 10 | 0 |
| Watson . . . . . | 7 | 0 | 0 |
| Staines . . . . . | 5 | 0 | 0 |
| Gunning . . . . . | 3 | 19 | 0 |
| £ | 42 | 2 | 0 |

It has been recommended to the vicar and parish-officers that a separate account should be kept of these charities. That the particular directions of Watson and Gunning should be observed as to the income of those two charities, and that the residue should be given to such poor, not receiving relief, as are thought most deserving and industrious.

WOODGRENE'S CHARITY.

Woodgrene's Charity.

It is stated, on a table of benefactions in the church, that John Woodgrene, by his Will, bearing date in 1632, gave to the minister and churchwardens of this parish, and their successors, a tenement and orchard at Higham Ridgeway, called the White Bread House, containing 2A. 3R. 14P., on trust, to lay out the rent in white bread, to be given to the poor of this parish.

The premises above mentioned consist of a small dwelling-house and 2A. 3R. of land, in the occupation of Elizabeth Philipps, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 13*l.* 10*s.* per annum.

This is also carried to the general account.

WATSON'S CHARITY.

Watson's Charity.

Richard Watson, by his Will, bearing date 16th December 1679, devised the house where Mrs. Seiger then lived to the poor of Frindsbury, namely to 12 poorest persons whom the minister and churchwardens should elect, and know really to be the poorest of the parish; and directed that the churchwardens and minister should let the said house, and keep it in repair, and distribute the rent as aforesaid to 12 poor, to be elected within a week after any vacancy by death.

By deed, bearing date 15th January 1679, Mary Watson, widow of the testator, released to the minister and churchwardens of Frindsbury all her right in the messuage at Strood, devised to the use of 12 poorest people of Frindsbury.

By lease, bearing date 1st November 1826, these premises were demised by the Rev. James Formby and others, the then minister and churchwardens, and as such trustees under the Will of the said Richard Watson, to James Janes, by the description of a piece of land on the south-west side of the High-street of Strood, containing in front, next the street, 25 ft. 5½ in., on the south-west 21 ft. 3 in., on the north-east 124 ft. 10 in., and on the north-west 121 ft. 4½ in., and two new-built messuages, lately erected thereon at the charge of the said lessee, for a term of 90 years, at the yearly rent of 7*l.*

This lease was granted in pursuance of an order of vestry, under which the premises were put up to auction, on condition that the party who took them should rebuild, and the present lessee having been the highest bidder laid out upwards of 300*l.* thereon before the granting of the lease.

The rent is carried to the same account with the other charities.

STAINES'S CHARITY.

Staines's Charity.

Philip Staines, by his Will, bearing date 23d October 1717, proved in the Prerogative Court, devised a small piece of land, in the parish of St. Werburgh, to Edward Staines and John Boghurst, and their heirs, on trust, to permit the churchwardens and overseers of the parish of Frindsbury to receive the rents and profits, and dispose of the same in bread, to be distributed by them amongst the poor aged and decayed housekeepers and inhabitants of the said parish, at two such days and times in every year, and in such manner, as the said trustees and the survivor should think fit.

The land thus devised, containing 2A. 3R. 31P., is let by the churchwardens and overseers for the time being, and is held by James Anderson, as yearly tenant, at a good rent of 5*l.*

This is also carried to the same account.

GUNNING'S CHARITY.

Gunning's Charity.

George Gunning, by his Will, bearing date 1st August 1815, proved in the Prerogative Court, directed his executors to invest, in their own names and in the names of the vicar and churchwardens of Frindsbury, 100*l.* in the purchase of Consols, in trust, to apply the dividends in buying bread for such poor men and women as should be resident parishioners, and should not receive any weekly or other parochial relief, in such manner as the trustees should think fit. The distribution to be made to such poor as should have attended Divine service in the parish-church, unless prevented by sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the trustees.

In 1831 the legacy of 100*l.* was laid out in the purchase of 132*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Consols, in the names of George Gunning, William Gunning, James Formby, and Ambrose Spong the younger; and by deed, bearing date 8th January 1834, the said parties declared that the stock above mentioned was purchased in their names, in trust, for the purposes directed in the Will of the said George Gunning.

Previous to 1831, 5*l.* a-year was laid out by George Gunning, the son of the testator, in bread, which he distributed to the poor.

Since the stock was purchased no dividends have been received, beyond what was necessary for the payment of the expenses of the trust-deed.

Pennistone's Charity.

Pennistone's Charity.

It is stated on the table of benefactions that Bonham Pennistone, "from time immemorial," gave to the churchwardens and their successors a meadow near Upnor, containing 1A. 1R. 35P., in trust, to apply the same for the maintenance of the church.

This meadow is called the Parish Meadow, and has been considered as belonging to the poor, though from the statement on the tablet it would appear that the rent is applicable to the repairs of the church.

It is let to John Wood, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 3*l.*, which has been carried to the general account above mentioned.

Newland's Field.

Newland's Field.

By deed-poll, bearing date 14th September 1677, reciting that some question had lately arisen between the churchwardens and other the parishioners of Frindsbury, and John Lamming, the tenant of Sir Richard Head, of his farm, called Larkin's Hall, in the said parish, concerning two pieces of land, whereof one was said to contain 2A. 3R., and the other 2A. 1R., in all five acres, and to be lying in a field of the said Sir Richard Head, called Newlands, the rent whereof had been constantly employed, as was affirmed by the said churchwardens and parishioners, and so ought to be, in and about the repairing and amending the parish-church of Frindsbury, and that it was not known in what part of the said field the said two pieces lay; and that the said Sir Richard Head had lately, at the request of the minister, churchwardens, and other parishioners, for avoiding all future question, agreed that five acres, part of Newland's Field, should be set out by a fence, to be maintained by the said parishioners, which piece abutted on Tilbey-lane, west; the said Sir Richard Head agreed that the land so set out should for ever thereafter be held by the said parishioners for the charitable uses before expressed, in lieu of the two pieces thereinbefore mentioned.

The land above mentioned, containing 5A. 0R. 3P., is let to John Oakley, as yearly tenant, at a high rent of 13*l.* 15*s.* This has been carried to the general account.

The Lesser Parish Field.

The Lesser Parish Field.

On the table of benefactions it is stated that, from time immemorial, the churchwardens had been trustees of a piece of land, called The Lesser Parish Field, containing 3A. 0R. 11P., in trust, to apply the same towards the repairs of the church.

This field is let to Benjamin Gilbert, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 10*l.*, which is also carried to the general account.

The Church Green.

The Church Green.

On the same table it is stated that the vicar and churchwardens had been, from time immemorial, trustees of a certain piece of land, called the Green, leading to the church-yard, and held of the manor of Shorne, at a quit-rent of 2*s.* per annum; that it contained one acre, exclusive of a portion used as garden for the poor-house.

The land above mentioned is held by the overseers at the yearly rent of 2*l.*, but the value is stated to be 4*l.* a-year. This rent has also been carried to the general account.

PARISH OF GILLINGHAM.

Gillingham.

Petty's and Tidd's Charities.

See First Report, p. 107.

Bamme's Charity.

Bamme's Charity.

It is stated on a table of benefactions in the church of Gillingham that Catherine Bamme, by her Will in 1572, gave 40*s.* per annum, to be paid out of the land of Barnard Hide at Darland.

The yearly sum of 34*s.* is paid by Samuel Baker out of a farm, called Darland, in Gillingham, 6*s.* being deducted for land-tax.

Randall's Charity.

Randall's Charity.

The same table states that Thomas Randall, by Will, in 1631, gave 40*s.* per annum, to buy garments for four widows, to be paid out of that part of his lands at Bredgar, called Bostalls.

The yearly sum of 34*s.* is paid by —— Taffs, as charged on land at Bredgar, 6*s.* being deducted for land-tax.

Short's Charity.

Short's Charity.

William Short, by his Will, bearing date 6th November 1641, gave to the use of the poor people of Gillingham an annuity or yearly rent of 40*s.*, out of a tenement and backside which he lately purchased of Henry Storland, with a power to the churchwardens and overseers to distrain in case of non-payment, or, if there should be no distress, to enter and let the premises to the use of the poor people, until the said annuity should be paid, and no longer. Gillingham. Short's Charity, continued.

In respect of this charity 34*s.* is paid by Thomas Burford, the owner of a house, called Holly Tree House, in Gillingham, 6*s.* being in this case also deducted for land-tax.

EDRIDGE'S CHARITY.

Edmund Edridge, by his Will, bearing date in March 1669, proved in the Prerogative Court, gave to eight of the poorest widows of the parish of Gillingham, or poorest inhabitants, if there should not be so many widows, 40*s.* a-year, to be paid to the churchwardens and overseers, and their successors, out of his house and land that he purchased of Richard Head, in the parish of Gillingham; and he directed that the said churchwardens and overseers should pay the same to the said widows every 25th December in the parish-church, with a power of distress in case of non-payment. And he devised the said house and land to —— Edridge and his heirs, they paying 40*s.* a-year as aforesaid. Edridge's Charity.

This benefaction is noticed on the table of benefactions in the church; and it is also stated that William Roach, in 1670, gave by Will 40*s.* per annum "out of the aforesaid house and land in the aforesaid manner."

The premises referred to in Edridge's Will consist of a cottage, and about 1A. 3R. of garden ground, in the occupation of John Chambers, who pays the yearly rent of 9*l.*

It appears from the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 that the income of the charities of Edridge and Roach was then 5*l.* a-year. The account given in the parish is, that either the father of John Chambers, or another person of the name of French, took possession of the property, probably for non-payment of the rent-charges, under the authority of the churchwardens, and that they have ever since received rent for it.

SMITH'S CHARITY.

By indenture, bearing date 4th April 1739, between John Simmons of the one part, the Rev. Francis Pigot and two others, the rector and churchwardens of Gillingham, of the other part, reciting that Mary Smith, by her Will, bearing date 29th October 1729, gave to the minister and churchwardens of the parish of Gillingham 20*l.*, to be paid amongst the most necessitous widows of the said parish by 10*s.* a-year, every St. Thomas's-day; and that her executor, John Simmons, having already paid to the minister and churchwardens 5*l.*, part of the said legacy, who had distributed the same according to her Will, was desirous of fulfilling the intention of the donor; the said John Simmons, in consideration of 15*l.* then remaining in his hands, granted to the parties of the second part, their heirs and successors, an annuity or yearly rent of 10*s.*, issuing out of a piece of land then planted with cherry-trees, called White House Field, containing by estimation four acres, in the parish of Gillingham, payable yearly on the 21st December to the use of six most necessitous widows, to be distributed amongst them every St. Thomas's-day by the minister and churchwardens, with a power of distress in case of non-payment. Smith's Charity.

This yearly sum of 10*s.* is paid by Elizabeth Simmons of Gillingham, the owner of White House orchard.

Application.—Previously to the year 1835 the income of the several charities above mentioned was carried to the account of the churchwardens, and some irregularity took place with respect to the distribution.

At a vestry held in May 1835 certain resolutions were passed, to the effect that a separate account should be kept in future of the donations, and that the churchwardens and overseers should be instructed to disburse the whole within their year of holding office, according to the Wills of the donors; and that the churchwardens and overseers should transmit yearly to the select vestry a list of the persons to whom the charities should be distributed; and it was found that there was then a balance due to the charities from the churchwardens' account, amounting to 17*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.*, which was ordered to be distributed in the course of the year.

In pursuance of these resolutions, 17*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.* was carried to a new account, to which the annual income of the charities was also carried, and the whole has been distributed in bread, clothing, and coals, to poor persons, except 4*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* paid for putting up a new table of benefactions in the church, and a balance of 3*l.* 16*s.* which remained in hand in March 1836.

HEYWARD'S CHARITY.

In the minutes of a vestry, held 31st March 1657, it is stated that the purchase of a fee-farm rent of 4*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, issuing out of a farm in Lidgeon, in the occupation of James Andrews, was made over by Henry Towles, esq., to the churchwardens and overseers of Gillingham, for the use of the poor of the said parish; and that the same was confirmed and acknowledged for a true and real purchase, and the churchwardens and overseers successively were appointed to collect the same. Heyward's Charity.

This purchase is stated to have been made out of a sum of 50*l.*, left by Thomas Heyward, who died 28th April 1637.

The last entry in the parish books of the receipt of this fee-farm rent is in 1744. There is no evidence of any subsequent receipt; and though it was suggested that a particular farm was subject to the payment, there seemed to be no sufficient grounds for calling on the proprietor to give evidence on the subject.

HOAR'S CHARITY.

John Hoar, by his Will, bearing date 13th June 1755, gave the yearly sum of 4*l.*, issuing out of the house in which he then dwelt in Wood-street, Gillingham, to be given to the poorer Hoar's Charity.

sort of people of the parishes of Gillingham and Chatham that should not take alms of either of the said parishes, and to be at the option of the constable of Gillingham for the time being, to dispose of this charity as much in each of the said parishes as he should think proper, viz. 40*s.* worth every New Year's-day, and 40*s.* worth every St. John's-day, in the said dwelling-house, and he gave a power of distress to the constable in case of non-payment. The testator added, that it was his desire that any of his relations, named Hoar, should "serve the bread," he or she being a baker, and living in Gillingham or Chatham.

The distribution of this charity is left to the constable for the time being, and it is supposed to be regularly disposed of. It is stated by J. Stuart, the constable for the year 1835, that he received the 4*l.* from Edward Gilbert, the owner of a house and two cottages in Wood-street, and distributed it to poor widows, of whom the greater part, if not the whole, resided in Gillingham.

PARISHES OF GRAVESEND AND MILTON.

Pinnock's and Fry's Almshouses.

Pinnock's and Fry's Almshouses.

Henry Pinnock, by his Will, bearing date 13th August 1624, and proved at Rochester, devised to Richard and John Tucker the messuage wherein he then dwelt, provided that they should pay one year's rent thereof for repairing the houses, called St. Thomas's Houses, in Milton; and he devised to the churchwardens and overseers of the parishes of Milton and Gravesend for the time being all his messuages or tenements, with the gardens thereto adjoining, in Milton, to be called by the name of St. Thomas's Houses, and employed to the use and for the better relief and maintenance of such poor decayed people as should, from time to time, be or dwell in the said parishes, provided that there should be reserved the yearly rent of 2*s.* for each of the seven almshouses therein described, for the repairing of the said houses; and he further devised to the said churchwardens and overseers, and their successors, two messuages, called Hogges, and two acres of marsh-ground, belonging to the same, in Gray's Thurrock, in the county of Essex, for a stock for the poor of the said parishes to keep them at work; and he appointed four persons therein named as overseers of his Will, to whom he gave the power of placing and displacing the ancient decayed poor people of Milton and Gravesend, with directions that, when any of them should die or refuse to act, the churchwardens, overseers, and chief inhabitants of Milton and Gravesend, with the survivor or survivors, should appoint others, so that there should be always four residing in Milton and Gravesend, two in Milton and two in Gravesend; and, if any other means should happen thereafter to be given towards the maintenance of the aforesaid houses, he desired that the said trustees for the time being should see the same performed; and he gave 20*l.* towards a stock, to be employed in setting the poor on work in the trade of weaving, in manner therein mentioned; and he further directed the said trustees to add to the end of widow Jackson's house some more buildings, in little tenements, with a garden-plot to each, towards the enlargement of the rooms for the poor people aforesaid; and that the said trustees should, from time to time, render a true account of the poor's stock, and of all such monies as should be by them received or paid to the said churchwardens and overseers, being at any time thereunto required.

James Fry, by his Will, bearing date 29th April 1710, and proved at London, bequeathed 100*l.*, to be laid out in erecting a building on the waste ground at the west end of St. Thomas's Houses at Milton, for the use and benefit of the poor of Milton and Gravesend, the same to be erected by his wife, and by Nicholas Child and Richard Ireland; and, in case his wife should not build such houses, he bequeathed 150*l.* to the other parties for the same purpose.

Trustees have been appointed from time to time; two from Gravesend, and two from Milton.

In what manner they have been appointed, and whether the property has been regularly conveyed to the successive trustees, has not been ascertained.

Owing to the infirm state of two of the trustees, and particularly of Samuel Mann, who keeps the accounts and documents, it has been found impossible to obtain any information on these and many other points connected with this charity.

The present trustees are the above-named Samuel Mann, who is resident in Gravesend, but far advanced in years, and represented as nearly incapable of acting; William Twiss, also resident in Gravesend, but in a very nervous state; Charles Beckett, resident at Brighton, though a landholder in Milton; and Jonathan Hill, resident in Milton, and perfectly efficient, though he has hitherto taken comparatively little share in the execution of the trusts.

The almshouses, called St. Thomas's, consist of 16 dwellings, of two rooms each, situate in the parish of Milton, at the junction of three streets—King-street, through which the Dover road passes, Windmill-street, and High-street. The frontage to King-street is about 120 feet, and the depth in the deepest part 175.

Eight of the dwellings are appropriated to the parish of Gravesend, and eight to the parish of Milton; each tenement is marked with the name of one of the four trustees, and as they severally become vacant, the trustee whose name is affixed to the house appoints a successor; the persons appointed are aged persons generally receiving parochial relief.

The property belonging to this trust consists of four messuages, with gardens, out-houses, &c., 2A. 2R. 18P. of fresh marsh, and 2A. 2R. 29P. of salt marsh, in the parish of Gray's Thurrock, in Essex.

In 1722 the estate was demised for a term of 99 years from Michaelmas 1727, at the yearly rent of 10*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to spend 200*l.* in repairs: when this term was about to expire, the trustees having no counterpart of the lease, an information was filed, under the advice of Robert Mathews, esq., their then solicitor, in the name of the Attorney-general, against the tenant, for a discovery and production of the original lease and a plan of the estate; the defendant by his answer admitted that the term was expired, and produced the documents required and gave up the possession.

Gravesend and Milton.

The premises were then advertised to be let in September 1826, in lots, and one house, with a garden, was demised by lease, dated 20th December 1826, to Thomas Cribb, for 14 years from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of 20*l.*, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to keep the premises in repair, and the rest of the estate was let to several yearly tenants, and is now held by—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| —— Middleton, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 20 | 0 | 0 |
| —— Barnes . . . . . | 9 | 0 | 0 |
| —— Carter and Co., the Salt Marsh . . . . . | 8 | 0 | 0 |
| —— Robinson . . . . . | 11 | 0 | 0 |
| Another tenant for a garden . . . . . | 0 | 11 | 0 |

There is also a small piece of ground adjoining the almshouses, let to —— Southgate, at 40*s.* a-year; all these are supposed to be fair rents.

The trustees receive also 2*s.* each from each of the inmates in the almshouses, which is collected by the overseers of each parish, making up the whole income 72*l.* 3*s.*

The income has been applied of late years in paying the principal and interest on a debt incurred by the proceedings in the Court of Chancery, and in putting the premises into repair on the expiration of the lease of 1722, in further repairs of the buildings on the estate, the repairs of the almshouses, and some other incidental expenses. Since November 1833 the disbursements, as appear from Mr. Mann's accounts, have been as follows:—

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| For payment of principal and interest . . . . . | 137 | 12 | 6 |
| Repairs on estate and almshouses . . . . . | 59 | 6 | 1 |
| Incidental expenses and collecting rents . . . . . | 20 | 14 | 11 |
| £ | 217 | 13 | 6 |

And at Michaelmas 1835 there was a balance in hand of 11*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.*

The accounts are occasionally audited by the churchwardens and overseers of Gravesend and Milton, but there has been no meeting called for this purpose since November 1833.

With regard to the debt above mentioned, it appears that in 1828 there were several debts due from the charity, principally for law expenses and repairs, amounting to 257*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*: to defray this a sum of 200*l.* was borrowed on a promissory note given by the trustees, the whole of which, except 25*l.*, appears to have been since paid off, but there is still due 58*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.* to the parishes of Gravesend and Milton, who paid off a sum of that amount, advanced in 1824 by William Twiss, a banker in the town, and then one of the trustees.

The almshouses are in a bad state of repair, incommodious, and unfit for the purposes for which they were intended; and it has been a subject of much discussion, whether the almshouses might not be improved, and the charity very much benefited, as well as a great accommodation given to the public, if the whole were pulled down, part of the site taken for the widening of the two principal streets, Windmill-street and King-street, and more commodious houses built on the site that would remain. It is stated that the trustees of the Dover turnpike-road, and the commissioners for paving and improving the town, have both offered considerable sums for such accommodation, and that the corporation and many individuals have proposed to subscribe largely to effect this improvement. The state of the trustees, however, has prevented the progress of negotiation with regard thereto.

From the circumstances above stated, though the investigation has been in many respects very imperfect, it is evident that this charity is at present in a most inefficient state. Considering the encumbrances on the property it seems inexpedient, if it can be avoided, to bring the consideration of the charity before a court of equity, but the incapacity of three of the trustees, arising from different causes, would render this course unavoidable, unless those persons should be induced to resign the trust, so that, according to the directions of the founders, the churchwardens, overseers, and principal inhabitants of the two parishes, may, with the remaining trustee, elect three others in their places. If this were done, and efficient persons were appointed, the charity might be restored to a state of efficiency.

WHITE'S CHARITY.

White's Charity.

Richard White, by his Will, bearing date 10th August 1602, as appears from an extract entered in a book containing the churchwardens' accounts, devised all his marshes, which he had purchased in the parishes of Halstow and St. Mary's, to R. White, in tail male, with remainder to his own heirs, on condition that the yearly rent of 7*l.* should be paid every feast of St. Andrew to the churchwardens for the time being of the several parishes thereinafter mentioned, to be distributed amongst the poor of the said several parishes on the market-day which should be held in the towns respectively adjoining the said parishes next before Christmas, viz., to the churchwardens of St. Mary's, 40*s.*; of Stoke, 10*s.*; of Halstow, 30*s.*; of Chalk, 20*s.*; of Gravesend and Milton, 40*s.*, to be equally divided between them; and he declared that his marshes, called Eastwick Marsh, should be for ever subject to the payment of the said rent, with a power of distress to the respective churchwardens in case of non-payment.

The yearly sum of 40*s.* is paid, 20*s.* thereof to the churchwardens of Gravesend, and 20*s.* to the churchwardens of Milton, by Thomas Baldock, the tenant, under Sir Walter Riddle, of certain marshes in Halstow or St. Mary's, part of which are known by the name of Eastwick.

In Gravesend this sum is disposed of in bread on St. John's-day, at the same time as Chapman's Charity, with an addition thereto from the churchwardens' account, is given away, tickets for a sixpenny loaf, being given to 40 poor persons in respect of White's Charity.

In Milton the sum of 20*s.* was formerly given to eight widows, 2*s.* 6*d.* to each, but in the three last years it has been given away in shilling loaves amongst 20 poor persons appointed by the churchwardens as the most deserving.

Vorchell's Charity to the Poor.

Vorchell's Charity to the Poor.

David Vorchell, whose gifts to the Free School were mentioned in the First Report, by his Will in 1703, gave a yearly rent-charge of 3*l.*, issuing out of the corner house in High-street, Gravesend, called the Chequer, to be paid to the churchwardens of Gravesend, and distributed on the Sunday next before Christmas as follows:—To 40 poor people 6*d.* each in money, and a sixpenny loaf; 10*s.* to the minister for preaching a sermon about six o'clock in the evening on the Sunday before Christmas; 5*s.* for lights for the church; 1*s.* 6*d.* to the parish-clerk; 1*s.* to the sexton; and 2*s.* 6*d.* to the churchwardens.

The yearly sum of 3*l.* is received from the treasurer of the Free School, out of which 40*s.* is expended in firing; a sixpenny loaf, with 6*d.* in money, is given to 40 poor persons, generally widows, selected by the churchwardens on the Sunday before Christmas; and on the same day a sermon is preached and the other payments made according to the directions of the Will.

Chapman's Charity.

Chapman's Charity.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 10th and 11th August 1709, between Ann Chapman of the one part, and Thomas Rochall of the other part, the said Ann Chapman conveyed a messuage, called West Down Farm, with the lands thereto belonging, containing 100 acres, in the parishes of Meopham and Ridley, to the said Thomas Rochall, his heirs and assigns, to the uses therein mentioned, and to the intent that, after the decease of the said A. Chapman, Stephen Allen, Richard Dunstan, William Lane and William Plaine, should receive a yearly rent of 50*s.*, payable every 1st of December, without any deduction, on trust to pay the same to the churchwardens of the said parish, to be by them distributed every St. John's-day, as follows: viz., 40*s.* to be laid out in bread, to be distributed amongst such and so many poor people of the said parish as they should think fit; and 10*s.* to the minister for the time being, for a sermon to be preached in the parish-church on the same day.

The yearly sum of 2*l.* is received from Mr. Best, of Meopham, and distributed at the same time and in the same manner as White's Charity above mentioned.

Church and Poor's Lands.

Church and Poor's Lands.

In the vestry-book is entered the copy of a lease, dated 1761, by —— Harrison and others, churchwardens and overseers, to Henry Thames, of two messuages, and a piece of garden abutting on West-street, in Gravesend, for the term of 99 years from Midsummer then last, at the yearly rent of 4*l.*, payable to the churchwardens and overseers, for the use and benefit of the parishioners, towards the necessary repairs of the church, and maintenance of the poor of the said parish, with a covenant on the part of the lessee to erect a house on the demised premises and other the lands of the said lessee.

There is no account in the parish from whose gift these premises were derived, nor any evidence of the trusts on which they are held, except the foregoing lease.

The term is now vested in Charles Beckett, esq., and he pays 4*l.* a-year to the churchwardens, which is carried to their general account.

The parish of Gravesend is also entitled to partake of the benefit of Cobham College. See parish of Cobham.

Smith's Charity, continued.

It is stated that the additional sum of 1*l.* has only been paid for a few years, and is certainly a voluntary gift, unconnected with two yearly sums of 10*s.* mentioned in the Parliamentary Returns, of which nothing is now known.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor unknown.

It is stated on a tablet in the church that a pension of 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum, for the use of the poor of High Halstow, is payable out of a field of eight acres in this parish, called Rainham Field, which was in 1643 the estate of Richard Bailie, and then of Robert Carte.

The two last-mentioned sums are distributed by the churchwardens about Christmas, amongst about 30 poor persons, in bread, in quantities varying according to the number in family.

CROMP'S CHARITY.

Cromp's Charity.

John Cromp, by his Will, bearing date 8th April 1716, proved in the Prerogative Court, devised his messuage near the parsonage house, in the parish of High Halstow, with the orchard thereto belonging, and a piece of land whereon a messuage formerly stood, and about three or four acres of land thereto belonging, in the said parish, to the minister and churchwardens, and their successors, in trust, to distribute the clear yearly rents, after keeping the premises in repair, amongst the poor necessitous widows of the said parish every 12th January, over and above any weekly allowance they might receive from the parish.

The property consists of a public-house, a garden, and rather more than three acres of land, and is let to Henry Peters, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 22*l.*

The amount is received by the churchwardens, out of which there is paid for insurance and quit-rent 1*l.* a-year, and occasionally some small expenses for repairs. The residue is divided generally in equal shares amongst all the poor widows in the parish.

Of late years they have received from 3*l.* 10*s.* to 4*l.* 10*s.* each.

SHAWE'S CHARITY.

Shawe's Charity.

Thomas Shawe, by his Will, bearing date 7th October 1653, reciting that he had already begun a weekly distribution of two dozen of bread amongst the poor people of the parish of Higham every Lord's day, which he willed should be continued to them for ever, gave his messuage or tenement, barn, garden, orchard, &c., thereto belonging, in Higham, and one acre and a yard of land in the common fields of Higham, and two parcels of land, containing two acres and a half, in the salt marsh, in Higham, to Robert Shawe, Edward Bridges, and Richard Foord, and their heirs, in trust, that out of the rents and profits they should distribute amongst such of the poor people of the parish of Higham as the minister and churchwardens for the time being should think fit two dozen of good wheaten bread every Lord's day; and that they should also sufficiently repair the premises; and if there should be any overplus, that the same should be paid to his brother, Robert Shawe, and his heirs.

It does not appear that any trustees have been subsequently appointed for this charity, and the property is under the management of the minister and churchwardens.

It consists of a public-house and one acre and a quarter of land, unenclosed from the adjoining land; and about two acres and a half of salt marsh; and is let to James Tomlyn, as yearly tenant, at a fair rent of 14*l.* a-year.

Out of the rents 4*l.* is reserved for repairs, of which an account is kept by one of the churchwardens, and the clear sum of 10*l.* is applied in a distribution of bread amongst from 30 to 40 poor persons of the parish, selected by the minister and churchwardens, as the most industrious and most regular frequenters of church.

CLERK'S HOUSE.

Clerk's House.

William Rolfe, by his Will, bearing date 5th January 1485, proved at Rochester, directed that William Page and others, feoffees of parcel of his land, should make over, after his decease, to William Snow and nine others, and their heirs, a tenement, in which John Atrede then dwelt, with the appurtenances; an acre of land enclosed in a croft, adjoining the said tenement, and three yards and two day-works of land lying beside the said croft; another acre of arable land abutting on the North Marsh west and north; and the North Marsh, containing an acre and more; on condition that they should see the tenement sufficiently repaired; and he willed that the residue of the revenues and profits should go to the sustentation and finding of Richard Forge, the then keeper of a house there, called the Church House, made for the keeping and safeguard of the parish church woods, and the keeper of the said house for the time being; with directions for the appointment of new trustees from time to time.

By indenture of feoffment, bearing date 11th April 1814, reciting the said Will, and a conveyance of 14th April 1685, and that all the feoffees had been long since dead, Jonathan Morris, the then keeper of the Church House and parish-clerk, enfeoffed to Thomas Bentley and nine others, and their heirs, a messuage and garden, a piece of land, called the Batchelor's Piece, adjoining thereto, and containing one acre; a piece of arable land containing one acre, abutting thereon east; a piece of land containing 1A. 0R. 35P., and a piece of marsh-land, called North Marsh, containing one acre and a half, on the trusts declared in the said Will.

WALKER'S CHARITY.

Walker's Charity.

Thomas Walker, by his Will, bearing date 24th August 1629, and proved at Rochester in 1640, gave to Thomas Fairness, and his heirs, the house he then dwelt in, with eight acres of land thereto belonging, provided that they should pay yearly thereout 50*s.*, at Christmas and Whitsuntide, to the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the parish of St. Warburgh, to be distributed to the poor of the said parish according to their discretion, 25*s.* each day. He also gave to the said T. Fairness, and his heirs, a parcel of land, called Puckles, containing 24 acres, provided that they should in like manner pay the yearly sum of 50*s.* to the said churchwardens and overseers, to be distributed in the same manner, and in default of payment, he gave the churchwardens and overseers power to enter upon the premises, and hold the same, until the arrears thereof should be paid.

The house in which the testator dwelt, and the lands thereto belonging, are the property of Martin Gilbert; and the land, called Puckles, belongs to George Smith, of Halstow.

Each of these parties pays 50*s.* yearly to the churchwardens, and the amount is laid out in the purchase of bread, which is distributed about Christmas to poor persons of the parish, but with little care in selecting those who are the fittest objects of charity.

Bishop Porteus's Charity for the Poor.

The late Bishop Porteus, besides the legacy of 1,000*l.* Consols, left for the purpose of the school, as mentioned in the First Report, bequeathed 1,000*l.* Three per Cent. Consols, after the decease of his wife, the dividends to be applied for the benefit of six poor cottagers of good moral character and steady frequenters of church, both morning and evening, at the discretion of the rector for the time being. Hunton. Bishop Porteus's Charity for the Poor, continued.

The sum of 165*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.* having been sold out for the payment of the legacy-duty, it was replaced out of the dividends which accrued on the stock appropriated to the school.

There is now standing in the name of the Rev. Robert Moore, the rector, 2,737*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, of which, 1,000*l.* is the portion of this charity, and the residue belongs to the school charity.

The yearly sum of 30*l.* is divided amongst six poor families selected according to the directions of the donor.

It may be here observed that the dividends on the legacy for the school continue to be re-invested, as the rector states there are at present no means of establishing the school.

The yearly sum of 8*s.* 8*d.* is paid by Mr. Morland, the tenant of a public-house, called the George Inn, the property of John Brenchly, of Maidstone.

This has been given amongst poor persons in very small sums.

Firebrass's Charity.

Firebrass's Charity.

By deed-poll, bearing date 31st August 1603, reciting that Henry Firebrass, formerly parson of Ightham, by his Will, bearing date 6th February 1601, bequeathed to the minister and churchwardens, or other sufficient persons, of the parishes of Ightham and Farningham, 15*l.*, to be bestowed on some perpetual annuity or rent, so that there might arise to the use of the poor of either of the said parishes the yearly rent of 20*s.*, to be bestowed on them according to the discretion of the minister and churchwardens of the said parishes; William Weston, in consideration of 15*l.* paid by the minister and churchwardens of Ightham, granted to Henry Seyleard and two others, the then minister and churchwardens, and their heirs, a piece of land and meadow, called Bear Field, containing by estimation four acres, at Oldbury, in Ightham, to the use, benefit, and behoof of the poor of the said parish, and that they should yearly pay the sum of 20*s.*

Part of this deed is cut off, but there is sufficient remaining to show that it referred to a lease, bearing date the day before the date of the deed under which the yearly rent of 20*s.* was reserved; and in a conveyance of certain property by Henry Hickford and others to Reginald Baxter and John Romney, bearing date 13th November 1650, is an assignment of a lease of the land called Bear Field, granted by William Weston 30th August 1603, for the term of 2,000 years, at the yearly rent of 20*s.*

By indenture, bearing date 26th April 1692, between Elizabeth Mills, widow, of the one part, and the Rev. James Hickford, rector of Ightham, and two others, churchwardens, of the other part, reciting the Will of H. Firebrass, and that by some indenture, which was then lost or torn, Henry Sybard and two others had purchased an annuity of 20*s.*, issuing out of the land called Bear Field, and that by mesne conveyances the inheritance had become vested in the said E. Mills; the said E. Mills confirmed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a yearly rent-charge of 20*s.*, issuing out of the said field, for the use and benefit of the poor.

The yearly sum of 20*s.* is paid by James Usherwood the tenant under William Taylor of a field, called Bear Field, in Ightham, and the amount is distributed, with part of the sacrament-money, to the poor in clothing.

James, with a power of distress in case of non-payment.

The yearly sum of 52*s.* is paid by Dunetrius Greves James, the owner of the property in Wrotham and Ightham, and is given away weekly in bread, after Divine service, according to a list made out by the churchwardens.

Olyver's Charity.

Olyver's Charity.

Thomas Olyver, by his Will, bearing date 5th October 1678, gave to the Rev. Merritt Head and three others, and their heirs, for the use and benefit of the poor of the parish of Leybourne, a yearly rent-charge of 6*l.*, issuing out of all his messuages, lands, and tenements, in Leybourne, payable at Lady-day and Michaelmas, in trust, to dispose of the same to and amongst the poor people of the parish of Leybourne, in such manner as the vicar and churchwardens and overseers of the poor, or the major part of them, should direct, with a power of distress in case of non-payment.

The yearly sum of 6*l.* is paid by Thomas Oliver, the tenant under Sir Joseph Hawley of the Leybourne Castle Farm. This, as well as the 10*s.* derived from the following charity, is distributed by the vicar and churchwardens on Easter Sunday and Christmas-day, after morning service, indiscriminately amongst all the poor of the parish according to the number in family.

It was recommended to make a selection of those who were the most industrious and deserving.

It is stated on a table of benefactions that Sir Anthony Mayne, of Linton Place, knt., who died in the year 1615, built four almshouses in this parish, each of which he endowed with 13*s.* 4*d.* a-year, charging his property in Linton with the payment of the same for ever.

There is a table of benefactions in the church on which is noticed a bequest of 50*l.*, by the late J. R. Hollingworth, esq., who died about the year 1826, in aid of a parochial Sunday-school.

This money is placed in the hand of T. P. Churlton, esq., who has given a promissory note, dated 20th June 1835, to the minister and churchwardens, bearing interest at 5 per cent.

The interest is added to voluntary subscriptions, which are raised in support of the school.

Banks's Almshouses.

Banks's Almshouses.

Sir John Banks, by his Will, bearing date 22d November 1697, and proved in the Prerogative Court, after devising his capital messuage in Aylesford, and his lands, called Great and North Buckland, his hereditaments in the borough of Westree, his manors of Burham, Harple, Bredhurst, and Mears Court, and all other his manors, and all his messuages, lands, &c., in Aylesford and 26 other parishes and places therein named, to his daughter Elizabeth and her husband Heneage Finch, and the heirs of their bodies, directed his executors to build six houses near his mansion-house in Maidstone, for the habitation of six poor parishioners of Maidstone; each house to have one ground-room with a chimney and a little buttery on the same floor, and an upper room with a chimney, with a small plot of land behind the same, separated from the rest, in such place of his land in Maidstone as his said executors should think fit; the charges of the buildings to be paid out of his personal estate; and he charged the hereditaments before devised to his said daughter and her husband with the yearly sum of 60*l.* towards the maintenance of the said six poor people, and keeping the said houses in repair; and he directed that such money should be distributed equally amongst them by quarterly payments; that his daughter Elizabeth and her heirs should have the disposition and nomination of the said poor people, and should remove any of them that should not live orderly and soberly, and should also have power to make such rules and orders as they should think fit for the better keeping the almspeople in order; and he directed that, in case any of the said houses should be at any time out of repair, and the inmates should not sufficiently repair the same, his said daughter and her heirs should, as often as there should be occasion, deduct the charges of the repairs out of the yearly allowances to the persons whose houses should be so repaired.

The greater part of the estate devised by Sir J. Banks, and charged with the yearly payment of 60*l.*, is the property of the Earl of Aylesford.

The almshouses, built in Maidstone according to the directions of the testator, are occupied by six poor persons, male or female, parishioners of Maidstone, appointed by the Earl of Aylesford, and they each receive, by quarterly payments, 10*l.* a-year from his steward.

The vacancies are generally filled up at Whitsuntide, and the amount of the stipends which accrues between the death of one almsperson and the appointment of another is applied to the repairs, but hitherto the greater part of these expenses have been charged to the accounts of the estate.

HUNTER'S ALMSHOUSES.

Hunter's Almshouses.

By indentures of lease and release, 21st and 22d June 1736, between Edward Hunter of the first part, the Rev. Samuel Weller, Thomas Nightingale, and Thomas Baytop, of the second part, and Robert Lord Romney, Sir Roger Meredith, William Hendley, and William Walter, of the third part, the said Edward Hunter assigned to the parties of the second part, their executors, &c., 600*l.* Old South Sea Annuities, and 600*l.* New South Sea Annuities, on trust, after the decease of the said Edward Hunter, to sell the said stock, and to pay to the said Lord Romney and others, parties of the third part, 105*l.* to purchase the remaining fifth part of the house, outhouses, and appurtenances, wherein the said Edward Hunter then dwelt, to be conveyed to the said Lord Romney and others, and their heirs, on the same trusts as were thereinafter declared concerning the other four fifth parts; and likewise to pay to them so much of the remainder of the produce of the stock as should be sufficient to purchase a convenient piece of ground in the town of Maidstone for the purposes thereinafter mentioned, and the residue thereof, or so much as should be sufficient, in the building on such piece of ground six good and convenient almshouses of brick, with a little spot of ground for a garden to each house, for the use and habitation of six poor ancient persons, inhabitants and parishioners of Maidstone, viz. three poor men, bachelors or widowers, and three poor women, maids or widows, each of them to be of the age of 55 years or upwards at the time of their admittance; and on further trust that, if any money should remain in the hands of the said Samuel Weller and others after the building and completely finishing the almshouses, the same should be applied to such charitable uses as they should think fit. And the said Edward Hunter conveyed to the said Lord Romney and others, parties of the third part, and their heirs, his messuage or tenement, with the appurtenances, and several closes of land (meadow and hop-ground) thereunto belonging, containing, by estimation, 55 acres, in the parish of Willesborough, and his messuage, with the appurtenances, and several parcels of land thereto belonging, containing by estimation 20 acres, in the parish of Mersham; and also his four fifth parts in the messuage and appurtenances on the south side of the High Town in Maidstone, being his then dwelling-house, in trust that, after his decease, they should receive the rents and profits, and apply so much thereof as should be necessary for keeping the said six almshouses in good repair; that they should pay to each of the six poor persons a yearly sum of 8*l.* by quarterly payments, and a yearly sum of 40*s.* to have a sermon preached in the parish-church of Maidstone on the subject of charity every 14th of March, viz. 25*s.* to the preacher, 10*s.* to the reader, and 5*s.* to the clerk. And if there should be any overplus after making such payments and paying to themselves the yearly sum of 10*l.*, which it was his desire they should accept for their trouble and expenses about the trusts, such overplus, not exceeding 30*l.*, should remain in the hands of the said trustees in case any extraordinary repairs of the said premises should happen to be wanting; but that, as often as they should have in their hands above 30*l.*, the overplus should be distributed amongst the six poor persons placed in the said almshouses in such proportions as the trustees should think fit. And it was provided that, whenever three of the said trustees should be dead, the survivor should convey the almshouses and premises to the use of himself and such other persons and their heirs as he and the recorder and minister of Maidstone, or the majority of them, should nominate, on the like trusts, provided that the Lord Romney for the time being, if of age, resident in the county, and willing to accept the trust, should be one of the trustees: and that, on the death of any of the six almspersons, the trustees, or the survivor of them, and the recorder and minister for the time being, or the majority of them, should nominate another fit person to succeed, with power to the trustees to demise the premises for terms not exceeding 21 years, at the most improved rent, without fine.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 20th and 21st November 1767, between Robert Lord Romney of the first part; Francis Filmer, recorder, and the Rev. T. Denne, minister of Maidstone, of the second part; the Hon. Charles Marsham, Benjamin Hatley Foot, and William Henly, of the third part; and Samuel Fullyer of the fourth part; reciting the indentures above abstracted, and further reciting that the said Edward Hunter having purchased the remaining fifth part of the messuage, &c., in Maidstone, and by his Will, bearing date 11th December 1754, devised the same to E. Beach and A. Holloway, desiring that they would convey the same for the sum of 105*l.* to the then surviving trustees and their heirs; and that, by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 23d and 24th June 1757, Thomas Beach and Elizabeth his wife, and James Holloway and Ann his wife, had, in consideration of 105*l.*, conveyed the said fifth part to the said Lord Romney and W. Henly, and their heirs, on the trusts of the deed of 1736; and further reciting a codicil to the Will of the said Edward Hunter, bearing date 27th September 1755, in which it was recited that he had lately purchased a piece of ground near Mote-lane in Maidstone, and had thereon erected six houses, which he intended to convey for the uses before mentioned, and whereby he devised the same in case he should die before such conveyance should take effect, to Anne and Mary Maynard; desiring, however, that they should convey the same to the trustees for a reasonable price; and further reciting that, by indenture of bargain and sale, enrolled in the Court of Chancery, bearing date 10th October 1757, the said Anne and Mary Maynard, in consideration of 670*l.*, conveyed to the said Lord Romney and W. Henly, and their heirs, the said piece of ground with the six almshouses thereon erected, on the trusts expressed in the indenture of 1736; the said Lord Romney, the then only surviving trustee, conveyed the premises mentioned in the several deeds thereinbefore recited to the use of himself and the parties of the third part, and their heirs, on the trusts expressed in the indenture of 1736, and the Will and codicil of the said Edward Hunter.

By deed of lease and release, bearing date 26th and 27th December 1798, the premises were conveyed to new trustees; and reciting that the trustees, not having availed themselves of the payment of 10*l.* a-year reserved to them by the indentures of 1736, and that the money therefrom arising had been laid out in the purchase of 200*l.* Stock New South Sea Annuities, n the names of Robert Lord Romney and W. Henly, as an addition to the trust estate; and that such stock had been transferred into the names of Charles the then Lord Romney and the three other trustees; it was declared that the dividends should be applied according to the directions of the deed of 1736.

And by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 1st and 2d June 1824, between Charles Earl of Romney, the only surviving trustee, of the first part, Joseph Berens, recorder, and the Rev. James Reave, minister of Maidstone, of the second part, Charles Lord Viscount Marsham, Thomas Atkins, and Courtney Stacey, of the third part, and William Scudamore of the fourth part, the same premises were conveyed to the use of the said Earl of Romney and the parties of the third part, and their heirs, on the like trusts; and reciting that it was intended that the 200*l.* New South Sea Annuities, and the further sum of 200*l.*, like Stock, which had arisen from the accumulation of the rents and profits, should be invested in the names of the said trustees, they declared that the dividends should remain for the purposes expressed in the said indenture of 1736.

Part of the Willesborough property is copyhold of the manor of Ashford; and at a court held 2d November 1813, Charles Earl of Romney was admitted tenant.

Since 1824 the trustees have purchased out of the surplus income, in 1826, 400*l.* Consols, and, in 1833, 300*l.* Consols.

The property belonging to this trust consists of—

The almshouses consist of six tenements, and are occupied by three old men and three old women, elected by the trustees, with the recorder and vicar, at a general meeting. Each of the almspeople receives, by quarterly payments, a yearly stipend of 20*l.*, amounting in the whole to 120*l.*

There is also paid 2*l.* yearly to the vicar of Maidstone for the preacher of the annual sermon, the reader and the clerk; for insurance 3*l.* 15*s.*; the expenses of repairs (average about

The expenditure since January 1825 has thus exceeded the receipts by 92*l.* 19*s.*; and since December 1835 there has been paid 160*l.* 1*s.* 1*d.* for rebuilding the farm-house at Mersham, which was in a very dilapidated state, and converting an old barn into stables. These works were done under the superintendence of an architect, John Walker, upon a remarkably low estimate; the sum above mentioned does not, however, include any remuneration to him for his trouble, which is still left for the consideration of the trustees. When the accounts were made up in December 1835 there was a balance of 95*l.* 11*s.* 1*d.* against the charity.

It is stated that a further outlay will soon be necessary, in order to put the farm-house, and more particularly the barn and outbuildings, at Willesborough into a proper state of repair.

DUKE'S ALMSHOUSES AND WILLES'S GIFT.

Duke's Almshouses and Willes's Gift.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 24th and 25th July 1727, between Mary Duke of the one part, and Josiah Colvill and four others of the other part, the said Mary Duke conveyed to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, two messuages, with the appurtenances, on the north side of East-lane, in the town of Maidstone, and two pieces of marsh-land, containing, by estimation, 29 acres, in St. Mary's, Romney Marsh, in trust, after the decease of the said Mary Duke, to pull down one of the said messuages, and to apply 300*l.*, which (it is stated) she had, by her Will, bequeathed to the said trustees for that purpose, in erecting three convenient dwellings, with a lower room and chamber, and a convenient place to lay wood and coals in, to each, and a common wash-house and such other conveniences as the said trustees should think proper; and that they should place therein to live, rent free, during their lives, three maiden gentlewomen of the county of Kent, or of London, of the age of 50 years or upwards, who should have been well born, or become poor through misfortune, having lived virtuous lives, and being dissenters, as should statedly hear God's word in the public place of worship which should be used by the Presbyterian dissenters in Maidstone; and, in further trust, to apply the clear yearly rents of the other messuage and lands aforesaid as follows, viz. to pay to the said three gentlewomen 10*l.* each yearly, by quarterly payments, to deliver to each of them half a chaldron of coal, if the rents would allow of the same, over and above the said yearly payments, and keeping the three tenements and the rest of the premises in repair, and other necessary expenses. And in case three such gentlewomen should not be found in the county of Kent, or in London, that the best sort of tradesmen's daughters, qualified as aforesaid, should be placed in the said tenements. And it was provided that, if a maiden gentlewoman, qualified as aforesaid, should be of a weakly constitution, and not able to earn a livelihood, such person, if the trustees should think proper, might be taken in at the age of 45 years; and that if any of the descendants of Anne White, sister of the donor, should be reduced so as to stand in need of such help, she should be preferred, being a maiden gentlewoman, whether churchwoman or dissenter, without any limitation of age. And it was further provided that, whenever the number of trustees should be reduced to two, the survivors should convey the premises to the use of themselves and three or more other persons to be chosen by the survivors.

The said Mary Duke, by her Will, bearing date 21st June 1736, confirmed the said grant except as to the building of the three houses, which she had already done, and she bequeathed all the residue of her personal estate, after the payment of her debts, legacies, and funeral expenses, to the trustees named in the said indentures, in trust, that they should yearly pay thereout, by half-yearly payments, 40*s.* to each of the three maiden gentlewomen, until the whole money arising therefrom should be exhausted.

The revenues of this charity have been augmented by the following bequest:—

Anne Willes, by her Will, bearing date 13th May 1817, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed 1,000*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced to the trustees of Mrs. Duke's almshouses in King-street, or East-lane, Maidstone, in trust, that they should every half-year, on receipt of the dividends, divide the same between the poor maiden women residing in the said almshouses. And by deed-poll, bearing date 12th June 1821, George Harris, Thomas Cooper, Timewell Bentham, Edward Russell, and Stephen Prentis, the then trustees of Mrs. Duke's charity, declared that, the said stock having been transferred into their names, they stood possessed thereof on the trusts declared in the Will of the said Anne Willes.

By an order of the Court of Chancery, bearing date 20th December 1825, made on a petition presented by the trustees, it was referred to the Master to approve of a proper scheme for the application of the income of this charity.

The Master made his Report thereon 25th April 1826, setting out the foundation of the charity and the bequest of Anne Willes, and certifying that the property consisted of four tenements and three cottages in East-lane, or King-street, then let at 95*l.* 3*s.* per annum, and two pieces of land in Romney Marsh, let at 130*l.*, but reduced by abatement to 90*l.*, which was the then value thereof; which rents, with the dividends of the stock bequeathed by Anne Willes, made the then income 215*l.* 3*s.* He further found that the income of the three gentlewomen had amounted to 40*l.* each; but that the trustees, though unwilling to reduce the stipends of the existing objects of the charity, thought that it would be advisable, on the filling up of the subsequent vacancies, to discontinue the stipends at so large an amount, and had accordingly, on the decease of two of the gentlewomen, allowed their successors 30*l.* each, and that the trustees had 100*l.* at interest in a savings' bank, arising from the surplus income, and he approved of the following scheme, viz. that the trustees should be at liberty to continue 40*l.* a-year to the one maiden gentlewoman for her life, and should pay to the other two 30*l.* a-year as theretofore; and that 170*l.*, part of the surplus money belonging to the charity, or so much as should be necessary, should be laid out in erecting another almshouse of a similar description, to be inhabited by another maiden gentlewoman, qualified according to the indentures of 1727, who should have a stipend of 30*l.* and half a chaldron of coals, as the other gentlewomen had; and that any surplus, beyond what might be required for repairs and other incidental expenses, might be applied in augmentation of the respective stipends, so as the same should not exceed 40*l.*

By an order, bearing date 9th May 1826, the scheme was confirmed. It was referred to the Master to tax the costs of the parties, as between solicitor and client, and the petitioners were to retain the amount out of the funds of the charity.

In order to obtain a better site for the additional almshouse, the trustees, by deed, bearing date 30th March 1829, conveyed to Charles Earl of Romney a piece of ground on the west side of the new street called Church-street, late part of the garden belonging to the messuages called Duke's-court, in exchange for a messuage, with the appurtenances, in King-street.

This exchange appears to have been of great advantage to the trust, and a new tenement has been subsequently erected adjoining the old almshouse.

The trust has been renewed from time to time; and by indentures of lease and release, bearing date 3d and 4th February 1834, Edward Russell and Stephen Prentis, the then surviving trustees, conveyed to the use of themselves and Robert Cooper, George Prentis, Charles Ellis, John Green, and Christopher Harris, the trust-premises, consisting of five messuages on the north side of King-street, four messuages, joining each other, on the north side of the same street, being the almshouses, three messuages on the west side of Church-street, and two pieces of land in St. Mary's, Romney Marsh, containing 29 acres, on the trusts declared in the indentures of 1727.

The property belonging to this charity is let as follows:—

1st. The 29 acres in Romney Marsh are let on lease, bearing date 10th July 1834, to William Holmes, for seven years from the 11th October then next, at a fair yearly rent of 66*l.*

2dly. The eight houses in Maidstone are let to several weekly or yearly tenants, at rents amounting to 95*l.* 8*s.* per annum.

These rents, with 30*l.*, the dividends on Anne Willes's bequest of 1,000*l.* Reduced, make up the total income 191*l.* 8*s.*

There are in the almshouse four maiden gentlewomen appointed by the trustees, and qualified according to Mrs. Duke's directions.

Up to Christmas 1835 there was paid to one of the maiden gentlewomen, who is lately dead, 40*l.* a-year, and 30*l.* a-year to the three others; and each of them is allowed half a chaldron of coals annually.

The expenses of repairs, building the new almshouse, and the application to the Court of Chancery, have not hitherto allowed of any increase of the stipends.

In May 1835 there was still a balance of 11*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* against the charity, exclusive of a bill of 27*l.* 15*s.* due to a builder.

The accounts are kept by Mr. Prentis, one of the trustees, who acts as treasurer.

Brenchly's Almshouses.

Brenchly's Almshouses.

By indenture, bearing date 24th September 1789, and enrolled in the Court of Chancery, between J. Brenchly, esq., of the one part, and Edward Brenchly, of Sittingbourne, Flint Stacy, George Burr, Thomas Day, Richard Holloway, J. Brenchly, and George May, all of Maidstone, of the other part, reciting that the said J. Brenchly, having purchased several messuages in East-lane, in Maidstone, had erected on the site thereof four messuages as almshouses, and placed four poor persons therein, two men and two women, to whom he paid quarterly 3*l.* for their maintenance; the said J. Brenchly bargained and sold the said four messuages, with the appurtenances, to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, in trust, to permit the then occupants to reside therein during their lives; and that after their several deaths they should choose another poor man or poor woman in his or her place, such as they, or the major part of them, should think a fit object of charity and deserving the same, belonging to the parish of Maidstone, unmarried, of the age of 60 years and upwards, and not having any child or children living under the age of 18 years; and it was declared that the said trustees should be the only special visitors and governors of the said almshouses, and should have full power to govern, order, and expel all such persons as should be admitted into the almshouses, and should make such rules and orders for the better government of the same to be entered in a book provided for the purpose, and signed by the trustees, or any four or more of them, as they should think meet, which order should be conclusive unless altered by the unanimous consent of the seven trustees for the time being. And the said J. Brenchly further granted to the same parties a clear yearly rent of 50*l.*, issuing, quarterly, out of a messuage, called Baxton, with the lands thereto belonging, containing 150 acres, in the parish of Bredgar, and out of a messuage, called Bradox, and the lands thereto belonging, containing 50 acres, in the parishes of Milstead and Tunstall, in trust, to divide 48*l.* yearly amongst the said four poor persons, 12*l.* to each; and it being intended that they should receive their quarterly payments in advance, it was provided that, when any poor person should die, or be removed, the successor should receive the quarterly payment which should next become due; and, in further trust, to dispose of 2*l.*, the residue of the said rent-charge, in keeping the said messuages in good repair, at the discretion of the said trustees; and that, if it should not be necessary to expend the whole sum, the same should constitute a fund until the same should be adjudged requisite for the sufficient repair of the premises; and the said J. Brenchly gave to the trustees power of distress in case of non-payment. And it was provided that, whenever the number of trustees should be reduced to four, the remaining trustees should elect so many and such other fit and proper persons, being inhabitants, paying scot and lot in the parish of Maidstone, as, with themselves, should make up the number of seven; that the trustees should annually elect one of themselves to be treasurer, who should keep the necessary books and accounts, which should be audited annually by the other trustees.

By indentures of lease and release, endorsed on the above, bearing date 9th and 10th April 1818, Edward Brenchly, George Burr, John Brenchly, and George May, the then survivors, conveyed the messuages in East-lane to the use of themselves, John Day, William Henry Stacey, and Charles Brenchly, and also assigned to the three persons last named and their heirs the said rent-charge, to take the same to the use of all the parties thereto, on the trusts of the within-written indenture.

Of the trustees above named, John Brenchly, George May, William Henry Stacey, and Charles Brenchly are the survivors.

The rent-charge of 50*l.* is paid by John Brenchly, brewer, of Maidstone, the owner of the estates charged therewith by the founder.

The almshouses are occupied by two poor men and two poor women belonging to the parish of Maidstone, of good character, and upwards of 60 years of age, appointed by the trustees. They each receive 3*l.* quarterly, amounting to 12*l.* a-year.

Some expense having been incurred in the late appointment of new trustees, it has been found necessary lately to retain the first quarter's pay, on the appointment of a new almsperson, to meet the expenses so incurred, and to provide for the ordinary repairs of the almshouses. It is stated, however, that they are in good condition.

GUNNESLEY'S CHARITY.

Gunnesley's Charity.

The Rev. Robert Gunnesley, by his Will, bearing date 30th June 1618, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to George Holman and his heirs his rectory and parsonage of Broad Hempson, in the county of Devon, and the lands, tithes, &c. thereto belonging, to the intent that he should procure a licence of mortmain, and convey the same to such persons as counsel, with the advice and consent of the Archbishop of Canterbury, should advise, to and for the only relief and comfort of the poor people inhabiting in the parishes of Maidstone and Rochester; viz., that the rents and profits should be bestowed on the said poor people of Maidstone and Rochester, yearly, for ever, one moiety to each, in bread every Sabbath-day to feed them, and in cloth to cover them; all which should be bestowed by the Archbishop of Canterbury for the time being.

By indenture, bearing date 23rd June 1620, between Edward Gunnesley, son of Thomas Gunnesley, and Edward, the son of William Gunnesley, of the first part, George Holman, executor of the Will of Robert Gunnesley, of the second part, Thomas Faunce, mayor of Rochester, and the citizens of Rochester, of the third part, and Thomas Swinehogg, mayor of the King's Town and parish of Maidstone, and the jurats and commonalty of the said town, &c., of the fourth part, reciting so much of the Will of the said Robert Gunnesley as is above abstracted,—that a licence had accordingly been procured,—the parties of the first part granted to the said mayor and citizens, and the said mayor, jurats, and commonalty, and their successors, the said rectory and parsonage, with the lands and tithes thereto belonging, in trust, that they and their successors should severally bestow the profits thereof for the relief of the poor in the city of Rochester and Maidstone, according to the intent of the Will of the said testator.

The premises derived from the above donor are held under a lease bearing date 8th August 1829, whereby, reciting that the premises had been advertised to be let by public tender for three, seven, or ten years, the mayor, jurats, and commonalty of Maidstone, and the mayor and citizens of Rochester, demised the rectory and parsonage of Broadhempston, and the tithes of wheat, rye, barley, oats, peas, beans, and tares, and all other corn and grain belonging to the said rectory, a close of land, containing one acre and a half, near the church, and all outhouses, buildings, &c., to the said rectory belonging, reserving the timber, and excepting the patronage to the vicarage of Broadhempston, to William Skinner the elder, and William Skinner the younger, for a term of 10 years from the 29th September then last, at the yearly rent of 112*l.* (56*l.* to each corporation); the lessees also paying all taxes, rates, &c., except a fee-farm rent of 16*l.* issuing out of the rectory, a yearly pension of 18*l.* payable to the vicar for the time being, and the land-tax; and the lessees covenanted to keep the fences in repair, not to assign without licence; and the lessors covenanted to keep the chancel and all other buildings belonging to the premises in repair.

Up to 1816 the estate had been let at 94*l.* 10*s.* per annum, subject to the same deductions for fee-farm rent, the vicar's stipend, and land-tax. It was then let at a clear rent of 200*l.* a-year; but the tenant failed; and, for the two years' rent due at Michaelmas 1829, 262*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.* only was recovered. Previously to the granting the present lease a deputation from the two corporations was appointed, who proceeded into Devonshire to examine into the state and value of the property, and the present is considered a sufficient rent. On this occasion inquiry was made concerning the close described in the lease as containing one acre and a half, but it appeared to have been long lost to the charity, and there were no means of identifying the land. The expenses incurred in this journey, and in the reletting of the estate, amounted to 124*l.* 5*s.*, of which 75*l.* 10*s.* was charged to the Maidstone account.

Out of the rent of 112*l.* the deductions are as follow:—

|---|---|---|---|
| Land-tax paid | 4 | 9 | 4 |
| Vicar's stipend 18*l.*, deducting proportion of land-tax (12*s.* 2*d.*) | 17 | 7 | 10 |
| Fee-farm rent 16*l.*, deducting land-tax at 4*s.* in the pound (3*l.* 4*s.*) | 12 | 16 | 0 |
| £ | 34 | 13 | 2 |

The rent subject to this deduction, amounting to 77*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.*, is paid to the town-clerk of Maidstone; and, after paying some small incidental expenses, and for the repairs of the chancel, if any, the surplus is divided equally. In 1830, 51*l.* 4*s.* was paid for repairs of the chancel; and in 1832, 6*l.* 11*s.*

The Rochester moiety is transmitted to the officer called the provider, who disposes of it as will be stated hereafter. The other moiety was formerly paid to the overseers of Maidstone; but since 1832 it has been paid over to the mayor, and he and the 12 jurats distribute bread to that amount at the town-hall, on four Sundays about Christmas, amongst such poor persons of Maidstone as they select, and to whom they previously deliver tickets. The quantity given to each family varies from one to three, and occasionally four, half-quartern loaves.

In April 1836, the period of this inquiry, there was a balance in hand of 7*l.* on the Maidstone account.

FISHER'S CHARITY.

Fisher's Charity.

Alexander Fisher, by his Will, bearing date 25th January 1670, proved in the Court of the Chancellor of the University of Oxford, devised to the mayor and jurats of Maidstone all his lands, tenements, &c., which descended to him from his father, Walter Fisher, and his uncle, John Woodyear, in the parishes of Maidstone and Boxley, for the placing forth or apprenticing, yearly, three poor boys born in the town of Maidstone, of honest parents, who, by reason of their poverty, should be unable to put them forth, and for the relief of four poor widows of honest behaviour, dwelling in the same town; and he directed that 30*l.* should be bestowed yearly, out of the rents, for the apprenticing the said three boys, to each of them 10*l.*, and 8*l.* for the relief of the four widows; that the mayor and jurats for the time being, or the major part of them, should have the appointment of the said boys and widows; that they should be appointed annually, on the Tuesday in Easter-week; that the boys should be apprenticed to good and honest trades, and to persons of sober and good conversation, living in the said town, and not selling ale or beer, and not to their father or mother or other persons having the charge of bringing them up; that the widows should receive 40*s.* each every year during their lives; and, as one should die, the mayor and jurats should, within one month afterwards, elect another.

Of the premises in Maidstone a part was taken by the commissioners of the new turnpike-road leading from Maidstone to Ashford, under an Act passed in 1814 for making the said road and for a toll-house, for which the sum of 77*l.* 10*s.* was paid to the mayor and jurats The residue of the premises was, in 1816, conveyed to James Whatman, esq., in exchange for other lands and a sum of 65*l.* in money.

By indenture, bearing date 11th September 1812, between James Poole and others, the mayor and jurats of Maidstone, described as devisees in trust under the Will of Alexander Fisher, of the one part, James Whatman, of Vitners, in the parish of Boxley, of the second part, and Samuel Bosanquet of the third part, reciting that the said trustees were satisfied that the exchange thereafter mentioned would be beneficial to the trust, the piece of land which they were about to give in exchange producing, at a rack-rent, the sum of 10*l.*, and the land taken in exchange producing, at a like rack-rent, 16*l.* a-year, the parties of the first part granted to the said James Whatman and his heirs a piece of land lately planted with hops containing 2A. 2R. 14P., near a place called Maryland Point, in Boxley, in exchange for a piece of land containing 3A. 3R. 32P., in two parcels, the one containing 2A., and the other 1A. 3R. 32P., part of a field and hop-plantation called Collisons, in Maidstone, which was conveyed to the parties of the first part, their heirs and successors, the mayor and jurats for the time being, on the same trusts as they held the lands given in exchange.

By another indenture, bearing date 25th May 1816, between John Argles, esq., and the mayor and jurats of Maidstone, of the first part, the said James Whatman of the second part, and Samuel Bosanquet of the third part, reciting that the parties of the third part, as trustees as aforesaid, had agreed to the exchange thereinafter mentioned on receiving the sum of 65*l.*, being satisfied that the same would be beneficial to the charity, the said mayor, &c., in consideration of 65*l.*, granted to the said James Whatman and his heirs a piece of land, containing 2A. 2R. 28P., on the north side of the new turnpike-road leading from King-street to Ashford, and two other pieces, containing respectively 1R. 15P. and 1R. 37P., on the other side of the said road; which premises, with two other small pieces on the opposite side of the said turnpike-road, and which the trustees of the said road had lately taken for the purpose of a toll-house and garden, were formerly in one piece, planted with hops, but were then meadow-land, and contained by estimation four acres, the said James Whatman granted to the parties of the first part, their heirs and successors, a piece of land containing 3A. 1R. 18P., part of a field and hop-plantation called Collisons.

To the first exchange no objections have been urged; but it was suggested, with regard to the last, that the transaction was highly prejudicial to the charity. The Act for making the new turnpike-road from Maidstone to Ashford (the line of which passed through the charity-land, dividing the two smaller parcels, containing 1R. 15P. and 1R. 37P., from the larger piece, containing 2A. 2R. 28P.) was passed in 1814. In 1822, eight years after the passing of that Act, and six years after the exchange in question took place, an estate which had belonged to the late Mr. Foote, lying near the charity property, was put up to auction, and sold in lots convenient for building; these lots sold at very high prices; and, if the charity-land had been disposed of in the same manner, at that period, there is no doubt that it would have produced a sum far exceeding the value of the property given in exchange by Mr. Whatman; and, if the trustees were now in possession of the old estate, and were authorized to sell it in lots for building, a large sum might still be realized, though not equal to what might have been obtained in 1822.

Maidstone.

On the part of the members of the corporation, who were acting as trustees in 1816, it is stated that, before the sale of Mr. Foote's property took place, or at least in 1816, the period of the exchange, no person could have contemplated the possibility of disposing of the charity-land to such advantage; that the trustees took every precaution they could to ascertain that the exchange was beneficial to the charity, and that they had no personal interest in the transaction, Mr. Whatman having been wholly unconnected with, and in politics strongly opposed to, the corporation. In fact, the only suggestion as to any possibility of unfair dealing was, that Mr. Whatman's agent was either a member of the corporation, or in some office which gave him an influence with the mayor and jurats; but presuming, as the facts seem to warrant, that there is nothing to impeach the honesty of the transaction, the question still remains, whether an exchange of property appropriated to charitable uses, made without the authority of the Legislature, or of a court of equity, may not be set aside whenever it would be for the advantage of the charity to do so, or whether it is only impeachable on the ground of fraud.

We have therefore certified this case for the consideration of the Attorney-General.

The two several sums of 77*l.* 10*s.* received from the commissioners of the turnpike-road, and 65*l.* received from Mr. Whatman in 1816, were carried to the general account of the charity, and disposed of, as income, in extending the apprentice-fees and widows' pensions to a greater number of objects.

The property now held by the trustees consists of—

|---|---|---|---|
| 1. The two pieces of land taken in exchange from Mr. Whatman, and forming one enclosure, and containing together 7A. 1R. 10P., abutting on the turnpike-road from Maidstone to Rochester, let on lease, bearing date 18th October 1833, to Valentine Valentine, nurseryman, for 14 years from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 40 | 0 | 0 |
| 2. Part of the devised premises in Boxley, viz., two pieces of land, containing 9A. 2R. 31P., abutting on Sandling, let on lease, of the same date, to M. L. Crump, widow, for the same term, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 42 | 0 | 0 |
| These two leases contain a covenant, on the part of the lessees, to keep the fences, &c., in repair. They were granted by Walter Hills, esq., and 11 others, the then mayor and jurats, who covenanted to pay the rents, on the receipt thereof, into the hands of the mayor and jurats for the time being. Both of these lettings were by tender. | | | |
| 3. A messuage, with a close and several parcels of land, containing 13 acres, in or near Weavering-street, in the parish of Boxley, let on lease, bearing date 10th January 1826, and granted by John Wise, mayor, and 12 others, jurats of Maidstone, to Charles Meres, for 21 years from Michaelmas then last, at the yearly rent of . . . . . | 40 | 0 | 0 |
| 4. About one acre and a half of land, at the corner of Union-street and Queen Anne Road, Maidstone, let to Russell Usmore, as yearly tenant, at a good yearly rent of . . | 10 | 10 | 0 |
| It is stated that probably this land will soon become valuable for building. | | | |
| 5. A small garden, let to a yearly tenant at 5*l.* a-year, and four houses and another garden, let to several weekly tenants. These rents may be taken as producing together, annually, about . . . . . | 30 | 0 | 0 |
| £ | 162 | 10 | 0 |

This income is applied, by the mayor and jurats for the time being, in paying quarterly pensions of 12*s.* 6*d.* each to poor widows, appointed as vacancies occur by death, at an annual meeting held on Easter Tuesday; the practice being to select the oldest widow that applies, provided she is of good character. In the last 10 years the number of widows on the list has varied from 50 to 30: the present number is only 30.

Boys are likewise placed out apprentice, with premiums of 15*l.* each, to good trades, the masters being required to keep them in their own house.

Since January 1830, 17 apprentices have been bound with the premium above mentioned, and 1*l.* 1*s.* has been paid to the town-clerk for each pair of indentures.

There is also paid out of the income a salary of 2*l.* to the town-clerk for keeping the accounts, visiting the widows, and attending to the trusts, the payment of the parish-rates, and the repairs of the cottages let to weekly tenants.

When the accounts were made up, in April 1835, there was a balance in hand of 43*l.* 17*s.* 10*d.*

ROWLAND'S CHARITY.

Rowland's Charity.

In the table of benefactions it is stated that Robert Rowland, by his Will, bearing date 1707, gave to the corporation 120*l.*, to be lent to 12 young men newly out of their time, to assist in setting them up in trade (10*l.* to each), for which they were severally to pay 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum as interest, amounting to 4*l.*, to be disposed of annually as follows, viz.—

Maidstone.

Rowland's Charity, continued.

| | £. | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| To the minister, for preaching a sermon on the 1st February, by candle-light | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Reader | 0 | 2 | 6 |
| Clerk | 0 | 2 | 6 |

| The poor under the cliff upon and over the bridge, near which he was born | 2 | 0 | 0 |
| Churchwardens, for their trouble | 0 | 12 | 0 |

In the trustees' book there is a note that the above money was lent by the corporation till it was lost; but that, at a parish committee, held 3rd October 1806, it was agreed that, in consequence of the corporation agreeing to pull down the old guard-house, the parish should pay the annual expenses of Rowland's sermon, &c.

The yearly sum of 4*l.* is now paid out of the parish account, and disposed of in making the several payments directed by the donor, 2*l.* whereof is distributed by the churchwardens amongst poor persons, at 1*s.* each.

Gill's Charity.

Gill's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 9th February 1787, between William Gill of the one part, and James Whatman, esq., and the mayor and jurats of the town of Maidstone, of the other part, reciting that the said William Gill, being desirous of making provision for and contributing to the relief of 20 poor householders belonging to the parish of Maidstone, who should be of sober life, and had not theretofore, nor should at any time thereafter, receive alms from the said parish, had transferred, into the names of the said James Whatman and the said mayor and jurats, 540*l.* Four per Cent. Annuities, it was declared by the parties that the same was vested in their names, in trust, that, after the decease of the said James Whatman, the mayor and jurats and their successors should pay the dividends annually, on the 25th December, to the minister, churchwardens, and overseers of the poor of the said parish, and their successors, in order that they should, on the said day, divide the same amongst such 20 poor householders as above mentioned as they in their discretion should think fit; such poor persons as should be first paid to be continued, unless the trustees should see good cause to the contrary; and each person to receive 21*s.*, and the residue to be given to the clerk of the parish for his trouble in transmitting to the said William Gill, his executors, &c., an account in writing of the names of poor persons and their children who should have received the dividends.

On the reduction of the Four per Cent. Stock no assent was given to the terms proposed by the Government; and 540*l.* received in money was, after deducting some expenses, invested 1st December 1825 in the purchase of 539*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* New Four per Cents., in the name of the mayor and jurats.

This stock having been since reduced to Three and a half per Cent. Stock, the dividends amount to 18*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*

These dividends are received by Mr. Hoar, the late town-clerk, for the corporation, and paid over about the 24th December yearly to the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, who meet together soon afterwards and give to 18 poor persons, being persons of good character, and not receiving parish relief, 1*l.* 1*s.* each.

The same persons continue to receive this annuity for their lives, unless they forfeit it by receiving relief. It has not occurred that any one has been found to forfeit it by bad conduct.

Wright's Charity.

Wright's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 15th November 1804, between Anne Wright, widow, of the one part, and the mayor and jurats of Maidstone of the other part, reciting that the said Anne Wright, being desirous of making provision for the relief of 30 poor widows of sober life and conversation, belonging to the parish of Maidstone, who had not theretofore, nor should at any time thereafter, receive alms from the said parish, had transferred into the name of the mayor and jurats 1,100*l.* Reduced; it was declared that the same was vested in their name in trust to pay the dividends to the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, to be distributed by them annually on the 25th December among such 30 poor widows as aforesaid as they in their discretion should think fit, to each of them 1*l.* 1*s.*; and if so many poor widows should not be found and approved of, to poor single women of the like character and description; those who should be first paid to be continued, unless the trustees should see good cause to the contrary; and to pay the residue of the dividends to the parish-clerk for his trouble in transmitting to the said Anne Wright, and her personal representatives, an account in writing of the names of the persons who should have received the same.

This sum of 1,100*l.* still stands in the name of the mayor and jurats.

The dividends, amounting to 33*l.* a-year, are received by Mr. Hoar and paid over to the minister, churchwardens, and overseers, at the same time as the produce of Gill's charity.

Out of this sum 31*l.* 10*s.* is divided amongst 30 poor widows of good character, and not receiving relief, or, if so many cannot be found, to poor single women qualified in like manner, 1*l.* 1*s.* a-piece; and they enjoy it for their lives unless forfeited by receiving parish relief.

The remaining 1*l.* 10*s.* is paid to the parish-clerk, who keeps an account of this and Gill's charity, containing the names of the persons with their place of abode.

Charities under the Trustees for the Poor.

Charities under the Trustees for the Poor.

By an Act of Parliament 20 Geo. III., c. 22, for the better government and regulation of the poor in the town and parish of Maidstone, the mayor and three senior jurats, not being justices of the peace, the churchwardens and overseers for the time being, and 24 other persons therein named, and their successors, to be elected according to the provisions of the said Act, were appointed trustees. And it was enacted that all lands and tenements, rights, assessments, &c., which before the passing of the Act the churchwardens and overseers were entitled to, or possessed of, in trust for the parishioners, for and towards the relief, maintenance, use, and benefit, of the poor of the said parish, should, from the passing thereof, be possessed by, paid, delivered, and belong to the said trustees, as effectually as the churchwardens and overseers were entitled thereto, to be used upon the trusts in the said Act contained, and not otherwise; and that the said trustees should be invested with all the powers and authorities for the relief of the poor of the said town and parish which the churchwardens and overseers then had.

Maidstone.

By another Act, 45 Geo. III., to alter, amend, and enlarge the powers of the preceding Act, reciting that it would tend to the better execution thereof if the said trustees were empowered to sell certain almshouses and poor-houses, thereinafter mentioned, theretofore used for the accommodation of the poor, and then in a ruinous and dangerous condition, and to erect other almshouses, in lieu thereof and for the purposes of the said Act, on ground belonging to the said trustees, they were thereby empowered to sell four houses in King-street, two messuages in Week-street, three messuages in West-street, a messuage in High-street, and the site whereon a messuage formerly stood in the same street, which premises were for the accommodation of poor and indigent, and old and infirm persons, unable to maintain themselves, and to apply the money arising from such sale in building a like number of almhouses, or poor-houses, on a piece of ground in Stone-street, or any other piece of ground belonging to the said trustees, to be used for the accommodation of such poor persons as above mentioned; and if any surplus should remain, the same should be invested in Consols, and the dividends applied to the same purposes as the produce of the estates then belonging to the said trustees.

ALMSHOUSES.

Almshouses.

From whom these houses were originally derived is unknown.

There are certain houses in the town which are under the control of the trustees of the poor, and are occupied by parish paupers.

HEWETT'S CHARITY.

Hewett's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 8th January 1567, James Catlett, in fulfilment of the Will of William Hewett, lately deceased, granted to the mayor, jurats, and commonalty of the town and parish of All Saints, Maidstone, an annual rent of four marks issuing out of a messuage or tenement, gardens, closes, and 10 pieces of land, containing by estimation 21 acres, in the parish of Boxley, which several lands were bounded as therein mentioned, payable at Michaelmas and Lady-day, to the intent that the said mayor, jurats, &c., and their successors, should yearly distribute the same, as the alms of the said William Hewett, to the poor inhabitants of the town and parish aforesaid, as should seem to them best, within 30 days after the two feasts above mentioned, with a power of distress in case of non-payment.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* is received in respect of this charity from Lord Marsham, who holds Boxley House, and land belonging thereto, under Lord Romney; and the yearly sum of 1*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* has been also received annually from the late Rev. Peter Rashleigh, as charged on land near Morland's Style, in the parish of Boxley.

The two several sums above mentioned are received by the trustees of the poor, and carried, with other charities hereafter mentioned, to the bread account.

CUTT'S CHARITY.

Cutt's Charity.

It is stated on the table of benefactions in the church that Sir Henry Cutts, knt., in 1602, gave 3*l.* per annum for the poor.

This annuity is considered as charged on a house in the occupation of James Stanger (ironmonger), belonging to the family of Pearce, with one of whom he was lately partner.

The trustees for the poor receive 2*l.* 12*s.* yearly from Mr. Stanger, 8*s.* being deducted, probably for land-tax.

UNKNOWN.

Unknown.

It is stated on the table of benefactions that a person unknown gave for ever the rent of a house and land in Weavering-street, in the parish of Boxley.

By deed of exchange, bearing date 11th April 1803, between John Wimble and three others, churchwarden and overseers of the parish of Maidstone, of the first part, William Walker of the second part, and Charles Earl of Romney and Charles Viscount Marsham of the third part, the parties of the first part, in consideration of 75*l.*, granted to W. Walker, to the use of the said Earl of Romney and Viscount Marsham, and their heirs, a messuage and several closes of land containing 12 A. 2 R. 24 P. in Weavering-street, in the parish of Boxley, in exchange for a close near the church of Maidstone, another close adjoining thereto, another used as a yard, and a garden adjoining the two preceding closes, and another close adjoining the last, then used as a garden to the workhouse in the said parish, all situate in the parish of Maidstone, and containing by measure 3 A. 1 R. 10 P.; which premises the said Earl and Viscount granted to the use of the parties of the first part, their heirs and successors, churchwardens and overseers for the time being, on the trusts under which they held the lands first above mentioned.

This exchange was very beneficial to the charity.

Part of the above-mentioned premises, containing 1R. 17 P., was, in pursuance of an order of vestry made 4th May 1810, given up to the parish as an addition to the burial-ground, and was accordingly consecrated, and the yearly sum of 15*l.* is paid by the parish as rent for it.

Maidstone.

Unknown, continued.

Another part is let to the trustees of the National School for 60 years from 11th October 1813, at the yearly rent of 2*l.* Another part to Edward and John Peale, at the yearly rent of 25*l.* And the remainder forms part of the workhouse-garden, and the yearly rent of 26*l.* is paid for it.

The above rents are stated to be as much as the premises would let for to any other persons. The amount of these rents being 62*l.* is also carried to the bread account.

Bell's and Rose's Charity.

Bell's and Rose's Charity.

It is further stated on the same table that John Bell gave 10*l.*, the interest to be laid out in bread yearly on Christmas-day.

And under the date of 1775 that Eleanor Rose, in her life-time, gave 50*l.*, and, at her death, by Will, the interest of 50*l.* more for ever.

In August 1800, the amount of these three benefactions, being 110*l.*, was laid out in the purchase of a share in the Lower Medway Navigation, originally producing 5*l.* a-year, but now 6*l.* 5*s.*

This is carried to the same account.

Pope's Charity.

Pope's Charity.

It is further stated on the same table that Peter Pope, esq., in 1809, gave 100*l.* New Five per Cents. Bank Annuities, the interest to be laid out in bread to be given to the poor on Sundays, at the discretion of the churchwardens and overseers.

It appears from the books of the trustees of the poor that 100*l.* Five per Cents. of 1767, was transferred into the names of Benjamin Tanner and three others, churchwardens and overseers; and in lieu of that stock there is now 133*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* Consols, producing 4*l.* a-year, standing in the names of Thomas Hide and Henry Cutbush (deceased).

The dividends are received by the trustees for the poor, and carried to the bread account.

Distribution of Bread Charities.

Distribution of Bread Charities.

The monies received by the trustees, as above mentioned, the annual amount thereof being 77*l.* 10*s.* 4*d.*, form a fund out of which the distribution of bread is made to the poor occasionally, as the trustees may think they seem to require it.

Since September 1833, when the present clerk commenced keeping the accounts, there has been only one distribution; this took place in the winter of 1835-6, when 115*l.* was laid out in bread and distributed to the poor on four different days in proportions according to the number in family, generally about two quarterns per head on each day.

In 1833 there was a balance at the banker's of 145*l.* 16*s.* 5*d.*, and before the winter of 1835-6 it had increased to 408*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.*; by the distribution above mentioned it became reduced to 293*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.*

This mode of disposing of the income derived from the several benefactions above mentioned seems ill calculated to satisfy the intentions of the several donors; and it may be doubted whether the Act for the better government and regulation of the poor was intended to affect these charitable trusts.

Smith's Almshouses.

Smith's Almshouses.

By indenture, bearing date 29th April 1829, and enrolled in the Court of Chancery, between Elizabeth Smith, spinster, of the first part, and Charles Smith, T. A. Douce, G. F. Douce, and W. H. Allchin, of the other part, reciting that the said E. Smith had built five several almshouses on the site thereinafter mentioned, and had transferred into the names of the parties of the second part 1000*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, the said E. Smith bargained and sold to the said C. Smith and others, parties of the second part, and their heirs, a piece of ground in Mill-street, in the parish of East Malling, containing from 90 to 99 feet in width, and from 164 to 166 feet in length, with the said five houses and other buildings thereon erected, in trust that the person or persons who for the time being should be trustees by virtue of this indenture should permit the said premises to be called Smith's Almshouses, and to be occupied by five poor widows or single women (widows always having the preference), inhabitants of the parish of East Malling; and so that any person might be eligible and should not be removed, although before or after her admission she should have received, or should receive, parish relief; and in trust to permit the said Charles Smith and such persons, as he should appoint by writing, to be the governors, managers or visitors of the said charity, with certain provisions in case he should not appoint. And it was declared that the said governor or governors, &c., should have power to elect the persons, being qualified as aforesaid, who should occupy the said almshouses. And provision was made for the appointment of new trustees from time to time. And it was directed that each occupant should be entitled to receive every 23d April and 23d December 3*l.* out of the income, but, without any apportionment in case of death between any two such days; that every person to be admitted should be liable to be displaced, and should lose the said allowance for neglect of the rules thereinafter expressed, viz.—

That the houses and premises, and the occupiers in their own persons, should be kept neat and clean.

That the almswomen should keep good hours; and that at eight in the evening in the winter, and nine in the summer, the iron gates should be locked by the occupiers of the east and west houses.

That no children should be permitted to live in the houses, nor any poultry, rabbits, pigs, or dogs kept there. East Malling.

That the almswomen should be sober, honest, frugal, industrious, friendly, and kind towards each other; should attend Divine service in the parish-church twice every Sunday, unless prevented by illness or bad weather, and lose no opportunity of receiving the Lord's Supper. Smith's Almshouses, continued.

That if any almswoman should disturb the peace of her neighbours by want of sobriety, honesty, or charity, or should be quarrelsome or perverse, she should be subject at a month's notice to quit.

And that the governor or governors for the time being should be the sole judges of the forfeiture of their places; should have the power of making such rules and orders for the general management of the said almshouses, and the repairs and the regulation of the inhabitants, and the exclusion of strangers, and the general promotion of order and propriety, as they should think proper, and should dismiss the persons who should refuse to conform to the same, and from time to time alter such rules and orders as they in their discretion should think proper; that the expenses of insuring and repairing the premises, and any costs or expenses relating to the execution of the trusts, should be defrayed out of such funds as the said E. Smith should from time to time advance or leave for that purpose, or as should be given or contributed by any other persons.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 15th and 16th April 1833, between the said C. Smith, T. A. Douce, and G. F. Douce, of the first part, the said E. Smith of the second part, and the Rev. Richard Warde, incumbent of Ditton, the Rev. Henry Dampier Phelps, incumbent of Snodland, and the Rev. George Ferne Bates, incumbent of West Malling, of the third part, reciting that William Henry Allchin was deceased, and that the said T. A. Douce and G. F. Douce had declined acting in the trusts of the indenture above abstracted; that the said E. Smith and the said Charles Smith as such governor, manager or visitor, and trustees respectively, had considered that it would conduce to the benefit of the charity if the incumbents for the time being of the several parishes of Ditton, Snodland and West Malling, were joined with the said Charles Smith in the management of the same according to the trusts declared in the indenture above abstracted; and reciting that the sum of 1000*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced had accordingly, with the two further sums of 1000*l.* and 600*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, been transferred into the names of the parties of the third part; the said Charles Smith, in pursuance of the powers vested in him by the preceding indenture, appointed the said R. Warde, H. D. Phelps, and G. F. Bates to be trustees in the room and stead of the said T. A. Douce, and others, and the parties of the first part, according to their estate and interest, &c., and at the request and with the approbation of the said Elizabeth Smith (testified as therein mentioned) conveyed to the use of the parties of the third part, and their heirs, the said parcel of ground with the almshouses, &c., thereon erected. And it was declared that the said parties of the third part should stand possessed of the said two several sums of 1000*l.* Stock in trust to pay half-yearly, every 23d June and 23d December, 6*l.* to each of the said poor almswomen; and of the sum of 600*l.* Stock in trust to apply the dividends in repairing or improving the messuages or buildings, and for the insurance of the same: and, if at any time the premises should not require any repairs, should invest the same in the purchase of the like stock until the same should be required for the purposes aforesaid, or for the following purpose, viz., that whenever a vacancy should occur in the incumbency of either of the aforesaid parishes by death, resignation, or otherwise, the several sums of stock, and the said messuages and premises, should be transferred and conveyed so as to become vested in the succeeding incumbent, together with the remaining trustees, to the intent that, in addition to the said Charles Smith and any future trustee to be appointed in his place, the respective incumbents of the said several parishes, and all future incumbents thereof, might, from time to time, be trustees for the purposes of the before-abstracted indenture.

The almshouses are now occupied by five poor women, and the charity is under the superintendence of the donor, who is still living.

BURNETT'S CHARITY.

Richard Burnett, by his Will, bearing date 20th February 1577, and proved in the Prerogative Court, gave to the poor people of the parish of East Malling four bushels of wheat, to be baked in bread, and delivered to them yearly at his mansion-house on Good Friday, or within 12 days after, by his son Thomas Burnett, or his executors, &c., with a power of distress to the churchwardens, in case of non-payment, on the ground belonging to his house which he bought of one Reeve. Burnett's Charity.

It appears, from a copy of a court-roll, that at a court held 6th April, 3d and 4th Philip and Mary, for the manor of East Malling, it was found that Edward Reeve, by deed, bearing date 12th February then last, conveyed to Richard Burnett a tenement in the parish of East Malling, containing by estimation 2 acres, abutting on the road east.

Thomas Andrews, who is himself the owner of this property, or tenant thereof under the representatives of the late Mr. Nicholson, of St. Alban's, provides a sack of wheat annually; the parish pay for the grinding it and making it into bread, which is distributed indiscriminately amongst all the poor after Divine service on Good Friday in proportions varying in value from about 2*d.* to 9*d.* according to the number in family.

LADY TWYSDEN'S CHARITY.

It is stated on a table of benefactions that the widow of Judge Twysden, in 1702, gave 5*l.* per annum towards putting apprentice poor children born in this parish. Lady Twysden's Charity.

It is understood that this payment was originally charged on property in the Twysden family, but that many years ago 5*l.* a-year was charged in lieu thereof on lands at Bredgar now belonging to Edward Twopeny, esq., of Rochester.

The yearly sum of 4*l.* 8*s.*, 12*s.* being deducted for land-tax, is paid by —— Benstead, the occupier of the land in Bredgar.

This is disposed of in assisting poor persons to bind their children apprentices, provided they are born in the parish and their parents settled there, the sum of 5*l.* being given to each of such persons as soon as the indentures are executed.

Since 1823, 35*l.* has been thus disposed of; and in March 1836 there was a balance of 17*l.* 16*s.* in the hands of the overseer.

TOMLYN'S CHARITY.

Tomlyn's Charity.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 12th and 13th February 1779, reciting an indenture, bearing date 1st August 1752, and enrolled in the Court of Chancery, between James Tomlyn of the first part, and Richard Beeston, Francis Brooke, Henry Baldwin, and four others, of the other part, whereby the said James Tomlyn granted to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, a yearly rent-charge of 5*l.*, issuing out of a barn called Crouch Barn, an oast-house, lodge and several parcels of land, containing 23 acres, in East Malling, payable quarterly at the four usual feasts, in trust, to employ the same for the teaching and instructing so many poor children of East Malling in the Church catechism, and to read English, and under such schoolmaster or mistress as, in default of heirs of the body of the said James Tomlyn, the minister and churchwardens should appoint; and reciting that it was by the said indenture provided that, whenever the trustees should be reduced to two, the survivors should elect so many other fit persons, inhabitants of the said parish, as would make up seven;—the said Francis Brooke and Henry Baldwin, the then surviving trustees, granted the said rent-charge to Sir Roger Twysden and six others, all since deceased.

The yearly sum of 5*l.* is paid by Thomas Luck, of West Malling, the owner of land there called Crouch Field, to two school-dames, who teach about 13 children to read and say the Church catechism.

FURNER'S CHARITY.

Furner's Charity.

By indenture, bearing date 12th July 1775, between Mary Furner, widow of Thomas Furner, of the one part, and Roger Twysden, esq., and three others, of the other part, the said Mary Furner assigned to the parties of the second part, and their heirs, several parcels of marsh-land, called East Mead or Hopes, containing by estimation 10 acres, in Snodland, abutting on the river Medway east, north, and in part south, for the residue of a term of 1000 years, created by indenture, bearing date 10th October 1659, in trust, out of the rents and profits, to pay 20*s.* yearly to the poor of East Malling, at Lady-day, and to pay the residue of the rents to Roger and Francis Furner, their heirs and assigns.

The marshes above mentioned were afterwards settled by John May, in trust, for a school at Snodland.

Out of the income of that school 20*s.* a-year has been usually paid to the churchwardens of this parish, but at Lady-day 1836 there were some arrears due.

When received, the annuity was distributed equally amongst 20 poor widows of the parish.

West Malling.

TRESSE'S CHARITY.

Tresse's Charity.

See First Report, p. 130.

BRETT'S CHARITY.

Brett's Charity.

Sir Robert Brett, knight, by his Will, bearing date 23d August 1620, directed his executors to assure so much of his lands, or purchase so much other land, as should yearly maintain the then used lecture at West Malling, at 10*s.* weekly and every week for ever, to be paid to the preachers; and also to assure so much of his lands, or purchase so much other land, as should for ever pay to 20 poor people of West Malling 10*s.* a-week, to be bestowed in bread and meat, or equally distributed in money among them. And, by a codicil to his Will, the said testator gave and devised to the preacher of East Malling for the time being the yearly sum of 10*l.* towards the augmentation of his living.

By indenture, bearing date 1st November 1729, between Thomas Earl of Westmoreland and six others of the first part, and the Honourable John Fane and six others of the other part, reciting the said Will and codicil, and that Sir Humphrey Lynde, the surviving executor under the said Will, had, by indenture, bearing date 22d February 1720, granted to Sir Henry Ferrers, his executors, &c., certain parcels of meadow, containing, by estimation, 94 acres, in a meadow called Severnham, in Tewkesbury, in the county of Gloucester, for a term of 20,000 years, at the yearly rent of 70*l.*, payable at Michaelmas and Lady-day; and reciting that the said Sir H. Lynde had paid 10*s.* weekly to the lecturer, had bestowed 10*s.* weekly in bread and meat on 20 poor people of West Malling, and had paid 10*l.* yearly to the preacher of East Malling; and reciting that, at the death of the said testator, the said lecture was performed by four beneficed ministers, whereof the vicar of West Malling was one; and that, by indenture, bearing date 7th June 1634, between the said Sir H. Lynde of the first part, and Sir George Fane and six others of the other part, the said Sir H. Lynde had granted to the said Sir George Fane and others, and their heirs, the said parcels of meadow, and the rent of 70*l.* reserved by the above recited lease, in trust to receive the said rent and to pay the several weekly and yearly sums above mentioned, and to pay the residue of the said rent to the said Sir H. Lynde, and his heirs: and reciting several subsequent conveyances of the premises, in 1698 and 1712;—the parties of the first part conveyed the said premises to the use of themselves and the parties of the second part, and their heirs, on the same trusts: and it was agreed between the parties that no lecturer should be admitted or appointed to preach the said lectures but by the consent of the major part of the trustees for the time being; nor any poor person dwelling in the parish of West Malling admitted to receive the charity unless conformable to the Church of England, and no dissenter or frequenter of conventicles, or unless appointed to receive the charity under the hands of three of the trustees, or unless they should constantly come to church on the said lecture-days, not being hindered by age or other infirmity. West Malling. Brett's Charity, continued.

By indentures of lease and release, bearing date 14th and 15th May 1785, a like conveyance took place to new trustees; and, by indentures of lease and release, of 28th and 29th December 1815, a like conveyance, by Thomas Lord Le Despencer and five others, to the use of themselves and Charles Earl of Romney and 16 others, of whom the survivors are the Hon. J. W. Stratford, the Hon. and Rev. Jacob Marsham, D.D., Sir J. K. Shaw, bart., the Rev. T. K. Shaw Brooke, the Rev. James Hawley, the Rev. George Moore, the Rev. Robert Moore, John Larking, Henry W. Brooke, and T. A. Douce, esqrs.

The yearly sum of 62*l.*, being the amount of the specific payments directed by the donor, is transmitted to the vicar of West Malling annually by the son of the late General Dowdeswell, of Pull Court, near Tewkesbury.

A lecture is preached in the parish-church of West Malling every Friday by the vicars of West and East Malling, each of whom is considered as one of the lecturers without election, and two other beneficed clergymen, elected by the trustees as vacancies occur, being at present the incumbents of Ryarsh and Offham. For each lecture 10*s.* is paid to the preacher out of the income, and after every lecture 6*d.* is given to each of 20 poor people of the parish of West Malling, if so many, qualified according to the direction of the trust-deeds, attend the service, or would have attended had they not been prevented by illness. It often happens that this number is deficient, and the money, remaining in such case undisposed of, is carried to an account, out of which is paid 1*s.* a-week to the parish-clerk, occasional repairs of the testator's monument in the parish-church, and a few other casual expenses.

In November 1835 there was a balance in hand of 11*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.*

It seems necessary that a balance should be kept in hand, if it can be done, as at present, without suspending any portion of the regular payments, in order to provide for the renewal of the trust from time to time.

The remaining 10*l.* is paid to the vicar of East Malling, towards the augmentation of his living.

This charity was exonerated from the payment of land-tax under the Act 49 Geo. 3.

TRESSE'S CHARITY FOR THE POOR.

It is stated on a table of benefactions in the church that Francis Tresse, the founder of the school, who died in 1625, gave 6*s.* 8*d.* yearly to the poor, payable out of land called Cousin's Platt. Tresse's Charity for the Poor.

The yearly sum of 6*s.* 8*d.* is now payable by Robert and James Skinner, devisees of the late James Skinner, who are in possession of a hop-garden, of about an acre, called Cousin's Platt.

There were at the time of this inquiry 14 years in arrear; the parties, however, were ready to pay the amount, and it was proposed to apply the same in aid of the funds of a Benevolent Society for providing the poor with coal at half the cost price.

PARISH OF MEOPHAM.

MARKLAND'S CHARITY.

Meopham.

In the Parliamentary Returns of 1786 it is stated that Mr. Markland, by Will, in 1666, left a rent-charge of 2*l.* per annum to 20 poor of this parish, not receiving relief, then vested in Catherine Smith. Markland's Charity.

This rent-charge is paid out of a farm in Meopham, in the occupation of Henry Nordwich, by the proprietor, W. M. Smith, esq., and distributed by the churchwardens amongst 20 poor people in the parish every New Year's-day, 2*s.* to each.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

There is also mentioned in the same Returns a rent-charge of 10*s.* as given to the poor, the donor unknown, and vested in John Taylor. Donor Unknown.

This is called Taylor's Charity, and is paid in respect of two cottages at Woodham, and distributed by the churchwardens at the same time to 10 poor persons, 1*s.* each.

PARISH OF MEREWORTH.

LADY LE DESPENCER'S CHARITY.

Mereworth.

It is stated on the table of benefactions in the church that Mary Baroness Le Despencer, by her Will, bearing date 18th May 1625, settled lands, of the value of 20*l.* per annum, for the perpetual relief of 10 poor men and 10 poor women of the parish of Mereworth, to be recommended by the parson of the church of Mereworth; and also directed that there should be preached every Lady-day a sermon, by some learned divine, who was to be paid for so doing 1*l.* Lady Le Despencer's Charity.

It is stated that, on an inquiry made by the late rector, and an inspection of the title-deeds relating to the property hereafter mentioned, it appeared that a farm in the parish of Hadlow was purchased many years ago by the ancestors of Henry Simmons, the present proprietor, subject to the payment of 20*l.* a-year.

Mereworth.

Whether the remaining 1*l.* was to be retained for the payment of land-tax does not appear.

This sum is paid by Mr. Simmons, and, if the rector is not in residence, 1*l.* is paid to a clergyman for preaching a sermon on Lady-day; if in residence, the rector preaches without taking anything for that duty.

The residue 19*l.*, or the whole 20*l.*, as the case may be, is laid out annually in the purchase of flannel and other clothing, which is given to 10 poor men and 10 poor women. Care is taken that no person is appointed who is not deserving, and the same persons do not receive the charity in two successive years.

MASTER'S CHARITY.

Master's Charity.

It is stated on the same table that James Master, by his Will, bearing date 30th November 1681, charged a tenement in Mereworth with the payment of 1*l.* per annum, payable at Michaelmas, and to be distributed annually on St. Thomas's-day to the poorest people of the parish, who should not take alms in the said parish.

The yearly sum of 1*l.* is paid by Thomas Hubbard, of Rochester or Chatham, who purchased a cottage and garden in Mereworth of Lord Torrington, subject to this charge.

This is added to other charities, and disposed of as hereafter mentioned.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor Unknown.

The table also mentions an annuity of 10*s.*, payable out of Holford Farm, part of Baron's Place, which is paid by George Thomas Langridge, the tenant of Baron's Place Farm under Lord Torrington.

To the two sums last above mentioned the parishioners have added sufficient to make up 10*l.* a-year, which they have disposed of in calico to 30 poor men and women selected annually.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

[ Donor Unknown.

There is also mentioned an annuity of 10*s.*, described as payable every Lady-day out of Royden Hall.

This has not been paid since 1827, the payment having been refused until the parish could show a title thereto. The estate has been lately sold.

PARISH LANDS.

Parish Lands.

There are further mentioned on the table in the church, as belonging "to the parish," three cottages and 12 A. 1 R. 8 P. of land and wood, now let at 38*l.* a-year.

These premises have never been treated as affected by any charitable use.

LANGWORTH'S AND PEARCE'S CHARITIES.

Langworth's and Pearce's Charities.

In the churchwardens' book is entered a memorandum, dated 26th June 1699, that 20*l.* was then given to the parish of Milton, by Mrs. Mary Langworth, on trust, that the same should be laid out in some advantageous purchase, and secured to William Symonds and George Langworth and their heirs, and to the minister and churchwardens of the said parish for the time being, as trustees to see the yearly profits equally distributed amongst eight poor widows of the said parish every Christmas-eve.

Ann Pearce, by her Will, bearing date 18th July 1776, and proved in the Prerogative Court, after leaving 50*l.* to the parish of St. Olave, bequeathed to the churchwardens of Milton next Gravesend 50*l.* in trust, that they should invest the same, so that the interest might be distributed at Christmas yearly to and amongst such poor persons of the said parish, as should not receive alms of that parish.

In respect of these two legacies, there is a sum of 111*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* Consols, standing in the names of William Trowton (deceased), Jonathan Hills, and Robert Oakes; the dividends of which, amounting to 3*l.* 7*s.* per annum, are applied annually in bread and coal to the poor.

PARISH OF OTHAM.

Otham.

DONOR UNKNOWN.

Donor Unknown.

By indenture, bearing date 23d June 1725, between William Henley and three others of the first part, and John Sexby and seven others of the other part, reciting that, in performance of a deed of feoffment, bearing date 20th May 1634, a messuage, garden, orchard, and close adjoining Green Hill, in Otham, containing, by estimation, four acres, had been conveyed to the trustees therein named in trust, with the advice of the parson and the churchwardens of the said parish of Otham, for the time being, to receive and employ the rents and profits for the payment of fifteenths due for the said parish, whenever the same should be granted, and to distribute the residue for the relief of the poor people there, as to them with the like advice should seem most meet, and that, whenever the number of trustees should be reduced to three, they should enfeoff eight others to the like uses; and reciting a conveyance of the same premises, bearing date 13th July 1700, under which the parties of the first part were the survivors; they conveyed the said premises to the parties of the second part and their heirs, on the trusts above mentioned.

Otham.

It does not appear that there has been any subsequent conveyance to trustees, and the property has been long under the management of the churchwardens and overseers.

The premises consist of two tenements under one roof, in a bad state of repair, and occupied by two poor families placed there by the churchwardens and overseers rent free, and about 2½ acres let to Mrs. Betts as yearly tenant, at a good yearly rent of 4*l.*

The rent is distributed every St. Thomas's-day to the most deserving poor in the parish.

PARISH OF WEST PECKHAM.

West Peckham.

DAME M. CHOWN'S CHARITY.

Dame M. Chown's Charity.

By deed of feoffment, bearing date 26th September 1622, Thomas Stanley, in consideration of 40*l.*, which it is mentioned was bequeathed by the Will of Dame Mary Chown, bearing date 24th December 1619, to the poor of the parish of Little Peckham, granted to Thomas Chown and eight others a messuage, with an orchard, and half an acre of land, part of a field called Horse Lees, in trust that the rents and profits should be employed according to the Will of the said Dame Mary Chown, two years in succession for the good of the poor of Oxenholt, in the parish of Little Peckham, and the third year for the good of the poor of the upper borough of Peckham; and it was provided that, whenever the trustees should be reduced to two, they should convey the premises to the use of themselves and other freeholders or inhabitants of the said parish.

By indenture of feoffment, dated 30th October 1809, Frances Isabella Master, the heir-at-law of Thomas Dalison, who was the surviving trustee under a deed of 1679, granted the premises to the use of herself and Sir William Geary, John Buttanshaw, John Carnel, and John Waite, and their heirs; of the above trustees John Carnel is the only survivor.

By indenture of exchange, bearing date 2d June 1813, Sir William Geary and the other trustees, together with the said F. I. Master, conveyed to the said F. I. Master and her heirs the premises above mentioned, in exchange for a messuage, divided into two tenements, and a piece of land adjoining, containing by estimation one acre, in the lower borough of West Peckham, which premises were accordingly conveyed by the said Frances Isabella Master to the trustees.

This exchange is represented as of considerable advantage to the charity.

The present property consists of a cottage and about one acre of land, let to Thomas Stevens and George Marshall as yearly tenants, at a fair yearly rent of 9*l.* 9*s.*

This income, after deducting for necessary repairs, is distributed amongst the poor, with the following charity.

DUNMOLT'S CHARITIES.

Dunmolt's Charities.

It is stated on a table of benefactions in the church, that James, Nicholas, and Thomas Dunmolt, by their several Wills in 1695, 1705, and 1708, gave 1*l.* each, to be paid out of lands in this parish, and distributed on Christmas-day.

In respect of these charities, the yearly sum of 3*l.* is paid by Maximilian Dalison, the owner of an estate in the manor of Oxenholt, part of which is called Lindsey's, formerly the property of John Waite.

This sum of 3*l.*, with the clear rents arising from Dame M. Chown's Charity, is distributed in January amongst all the poor belonging to the parish, whether resident in it or not, in linen and calico, from about 3 to 20 yards to each, according to the number in family.

STANLEY'S CHARITY.

Stanley's Charity.

By deed of feoffment, bearing date 18th January 1637, reciting that Mildmay Earl of Westmoreland had granted to the inhabitants of West Peckham a piece of land, containing 1½ acre, adjoining the churchyard, to be used for a sporting-place and for a more commodious church-way by the said inhabitants, Thomas Stanley granted to the use of himself and Nicholas Miller, and their heirs, his little messuage or cottage, and two small pieces of land, containing 14 days' works, adjoining together to the said cottage, and situate near Herst-gate, in West Peckham, then in the tenure of William Corey, for 21 years, if Mary his wife should so long live, at the yearly rent of 1*l.*, on trust, that William Hervey and his wife should receive the rent of 1*l.* issuing out of the said premises during their lives, and that after their decease the said rent should be conferred on one such poor widow or aged couple of West Peckham for their lives, and that, after the expiration of the said lease, a new lease should be granted to such poor inhabitant of the said parish, reserving the same rent, as the said Nicholas Miller and Thomas Stanley, their heirs and assigns, owners of the capital mansion-houses in which they then lived, and as the other inhabitants of the said parish, being freeholders to the yearly value of 5*l.*, or farmers to the yearly value of 20*l.*, should appoint.

There is a cottage and a small garden occupied by an aged couple, appointed by the parishioners: until within a few years they paid 1*l.* a-year, which was given to the next poorest couple in the parish, but the tenants above mentioned being very old and incapable of paying this rent, it has not been demanded of late years.

The premises are in very bad condition; the repairs which have been absolutely necessary have been done at the expense of the parish.

There is also a piece of ground lying open, and through which is a road to the church, which is probably what was intended for the sporting-place.

Potyn's or St. Catherine's Hospital.

Potyn's or St. Catherine's Hospital.

Symond Potyn, by his Will, bearing date the Feast of Christmas 1315, declared that he had ordained a house with the appurtenances, called the Spital of St. Catherine, in Rochester, in the suburb of East Gate, with such charge that if it should happen any men or women of the city of Rochester should be visited with leprosy, or other such disease that belonged to impotence, with impower of poverty, they should be received in the same spital, there to abide by alms of all Christian people, under the governance and correction specially of the vicar of St. Nicholas, the testator's heirs dwelling at the inn called the Crown of Rochester, John St. Denys and his heirs, and the bailiff of the said city. And he directed that the said vicar and other persons should make and ordain the prior in the said spital, and remove him for lawful cause, and should charge all others that should be there dwelling to be true and obedient to their prior, and do his commandments at all times in their power; and the goods they should take of alms should deliver to him that he might part the same amongst them, so that the spital should have its part for such charges as belonged thereto; and he further directed that the men and women of the spital should not depart out of the same without leave of the prior, nor after the sun's gone down, and laid down other rules relating to the conduct and behaviour of the inmates.

This hospital is supposed to have derived its endowment from the founder, but the earliest document produced on the inquiry relative to the property was a decree of Commissioners of Charitable Uses, made 29th January 1704, whereby, reciting that complaints had been made with regard to the letting of the estates belonging to St. Catherine's Hospital, leases thereof having been made without any regard to the true value thereof for terms of 50, 62, and 70 years; that the lessees had pleaded that they had purchased such leases for a valuable consideration, or had laid out money thereon, believing the premises to be the property of the corporation of Rochester, and that agreements had been prepared for settling the matters under dispute; it was declared that the said hospital was an ancient hospital founded for the lodging and keeping of such poor sick and diseased persons of the said city, and the parish of St. Nicholas, as were appointed by the mayor of the said city and the vicar of St. Nicholas for the time being, who were appointed patrons of the said hospital; that the rents and possessions of the said hospital ought to be applied to the said charitable use, according to the ancient institution thereof, and if the revenues should increase, they should be applied for the more convenient lodging and keeping of a greater number of such poor persons as aforesaid; and they ordered that the then lessees should, by a contribution among themselves, raise 100*l.* towards the immediate repairs of the said hospital, and the reimbursing the complainants their charges in taking out the said commission; that all the leases should be surrendered to be cancelled, and the said lessees, in consideration of such surrendering, and in satisfaction of any money they might have laid out on their respective estates, should have new leases granted to them by the mayor and citizens of Rochester, with the consent of the vicar, for 31 years, at the same yearly rents as were reserved by their present leases; that all new leases should be granted by the same parties, with the like consent, for terms not exceeding 21 years, so that there should be reserved for the use of the hospital, at least two full thirds of the improved value, except only where any waste or unbuilt ground should be let, on which occasion, as an encouragement for new buildings, it might be lawful to demise the same for any term not exceeding 40 years. And they further ordered that from thenceforth the Dean and Chapter of Rochester, the mayor, and the vicar of St. Nicholas, should be the patrons and visitors of the said hospital, and that the provider for the other charitable estates given to the city of Rochester should take the account of the receipts and disbursements, and should account for the same in such manner as for the other charitable estates, and deliver a copy thereof annually to the dean and chapter.

The management of the property, supposed to have constituted the original endowment of the hospital, is in the mayor of Rochester and the vicar of St. Nicholas, by whom alone the leases for a long period have been granted and executed.

The rents are collected by the officer called the provider, who also keeps the accounts without any charge for commission or salary, and the accounts are audited annually by the mayor and vicar soon after Michaelmas.

The hospital comprises 14 dwellings, and is situate in the parish of St. Margaret's; of the present building, 12 tenements were erected with the legacies of Thomas Tomlyn and Joseph Wilcocks, and two were erected in 1831 at an expense of about 320*l.*, which was paid out of the surplus income of the charity. The whole building, with a small piece of ground, is enclosed with a dwarf wall and iron railing, and each almsperson has one good room with a separate wash-house.

The following is a rental of the property :—

All the above-mentioned premises appear to have been let on fair terms, and, except where there was a sufficient consideration for the leases, at the full annual value.

There are in the hospital 14 almswomen appointed by the mayor and the vicar of St. Nicholas alternately; the only qualification required is, that they should be poor single women of good character, and resident within the city of Rochester.

Out of the rents there has been paid, since October 1831, to each of the 12 almswomen (that having been the original number) 4*l.* a-quarter, and to each of the other two 5*l.* 5*s.* a-quarter, in consideration of their not receiving any portion of the other benefactions hereafter mentioned.

Each of the 14 receive yearly three chaldron of coals and 36 lbs. of candles. These allowances are amply sufficient for the almspeople, considering their station in life, and it is thought any addition to their allowances would be superfluous. The whole expense of the establishment does not, however, exhaust the income, and in December 1835 there was a balance in the hands of the provider, amounting to 483*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*

It is suggested that with a portion of such balance two new dwellings might be erected, and that the surplus income would be sufficient to afford the occupants of them the same allowances as are made to the two who live in the houses built in 1831, and under the decree of the Commissioners of Charitable Uses of 1704 the patrons and visitors thereby appointed seem to have sufficient authority to direct such an appropriation of the funds.

The following is a summary of the disbursements during the six years ending December 1835:—

Bayley's Gift.—Robert Bayley, by his Will, bearing date 14th April 1752, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to his executors, George Gordon and Robert Chapman, 300*l.* in trust to be by them applied for certain uses well known to them.

By indenture, bearing date 20th August 1774, between the said Robert Chapman and William, the son of the said George Gordon, of the first part, the mayor and citizens of Rochester of the second part, and the wardens and commonalty of Rochester Bridge of the third part, reciting the Will of Simon Potyn and the bequest of the said Robert Bayley, and reciting that the uses well known to the said executors were those thereinafter expressed, viz., that they should invest the same in the names of proper trustees, who should distribute the dividends equally amongst such poor persons as should be dwelling in the hospital of St. Catherine; and further reciting that the said G. Gordon had himself added to the said legacy, and procured other donations, whereby a sufficient sum had been raised to purchase 400*l.* Three and a half per Cent. Annuities of 1758, in the names of the mayor and citizens, who had been requested to receive and distribute the dividends; the said mayor and citizens declared that the said stock was transferred into their names on the trusts aforesaid, and they covenanted to keep a separate account thereof, and to lay out the same annually on the Thursday in Whitsun week, before the wardens and commonalty of Rochester bridge.

In respect of this charity there is 400*l.* Three per Cent. Consols standing in the name of the corporation. The dividends of which, 12*l.* a-year, are received through the bank of Child and Company, and are divided amongst the 12 almswomen inhabiting the older houses in St. Catherine's Hospital, 10*s.* each in March, and the like sum in September.

An account of this benefaction is kept by the provider.

Fruin's Gift.—William Fruin, by his Will, bearing date 1st February 1778, and proved in London, bequeathed to the mayor, aldermen, and recorder of the city of Rochester, and their successors, 300*l.* Four per Cent. Annuities of 1777, in trust to receive the dividends, and divide the same yearly in the week before Christmas between the 12 poor women of the Spital of St. Catherine.

The stock above mentioned was invested in the names of four trustees, of whom Abraham Moore, esq., formerly recorder, was one. On the reduction of the Four per Cent. Stock, difficulties occurred in consequence of Mr. Moore's death, and the necessity of obtaining sufficient evidence of the fact, and no assent having been given to the terms proposed by the Government, the principal, 300*l.*, was ultimately received, but not till 1832. This sum was invested in the purchase of 332*l.* 8*s.* 2*d.* Three and a half Reduced, in the names of Edward Manclerke, Samuel Siddon, John Gibbs, and Samuel Cummin (since deceased).

Though for a considerable period no dividends were received, the yearly sum of 12*l.* was paid by the provider, up to 1835, to the 12 inmates of St. Catherine's Hospital before mentioned, and by these advances, and some expenses which had been incurred, a balance of 73*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* became due to the provider. This sum was paid off in 1835 by the corporation, out of their own funds.

In future, the payments to the almspeople will necessarily be reduced, as the annual dividends amount only to about 11*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

Tomlyn's Gift.—Thomas Tomlyn, by his Will, bearing date 23d June 1790, proved in the Prerogative Court, bequeathed to the mayor, aldermen, and recorder of Rochester, and their successors, 1,100*l.*, part of his stock Three per Cent. Reduced, on trust to pay the dividends in equal shares, monthly or quarterly, between the 12 poor women in St. Catherine's Spital; and appointed the wardens of the new bridge of Rochester, and their successors, overseers of the trust, with power to examine how the dividends were applied; and by a codicil to his Will, bearing date 9th July 1793, he bequeathed to the same parties 1,200*l.*, in trust, as soon as conveniently might be after his decease, to build 12 rooms or cottages, as the habitation of 12 poor women of St. Catherine's Hospital, on that part of the little meadow which belonged to the hospital, and was then in his occupation—a plan of which he had directed to be drawn out.

With the last-mentioned legacy the 12 new almshouses were built. The other legacy of 1,100*l.* Three per Cents. Reduced stands in the name of the corporation, in which name there also stands a sum of 100*l.* Consols, the dividends of which are received by the provider, and carried to the same account.

How this last-mentioned stock arose is not known.

These dividends, amounting to 36*l.* a-year, are divided half-yearly in June and December between the aforesaid 12 inmates of the hospital.

In December 1835 there was a balance of 98*l.* 4*s.* in the hands of the provider, on account of this charity. This arose from several years' arrears of dividends, and the return of property-tax, to the amount of 32*l.* 8*s.* In 1819 and 1820, after repayment of a sum charged as having been advanced to the almswomen (though it does not appear that the payment of the dividends to them was ever interrupted), there remained a balance in hand of 101*l.*, out of which 2*l.* 16*s.* has subsequently been paid for new powers of attorney.

It seems advisable that the principal part of this balance should be invested, reserving only 18*l.*, to enable the provider to pay the sum half-yearly to the inmates of the hospital at the accustomed periods.

Day's Gift.—Susanna, the wife of David Day, by her Will, bearing date 15th January 1801, in execution of a power she had to dispose of one moiety of a sum of 5,000*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, appointed the said moiety, immediately after the decease of her husband, to the Rev. James Jones and James Hulkes on trust as to 500*l.*, part of the said stock, to pay the dividends amongst the poor people of St. Catherine's Hospital, in Rochester, every 29th October, in such manner as they, their executors, &c., in conjunction with the vicar of St. Nicholas, should think proper.

With respect to this legacy of 500*l.*, it is stated that 65*l.* 13*s.* was sold out for the payment of the legacy-duty and other expenses; the remainder 434*l.* 7*s.* stands in the names of Mrs. Hulkes, the widow and administratrix of the late James Hulkes, who was the survivor of the parties named in the Will, and in order to replace the stock that was sold out, 65*l.* 13*s.* Consols was purchased out of the income of the original endowment of the hospital. This forms part of a sum of 565*l.* 13*s.* Consols standing in the name of the corporation. Of the residue, 400*l.* was derived from Bayley's, and 100*l.* from Tomlyn's benefactions.

The dividends on the 434*l.* 7*s.* Reduced, amounting to 13*l.* 0*s.* 6*d.* per annum, are divided annually about Michaelmas, by the widow of the late James Hulkes with the vicar, amongst the aforesaid 12 almswomen; the dividends on the Consols, 1*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* per annum, are divided amongst them by the provider about Christmas.

Wilcocks' Gift.—By deed-poll, bearing date 22d August 1810, reciting the foundation of St. Catherine's Hospital, and the bequest of Thomas Tomlyn for rebuilding the same, and further reciting that Joseph Wilcocks by his Will, bearing date 24th March 1788, bequeathed 2,700*l.* to his executors and Granville Sharpe, in trust for a county hospital to be established near Rochester, in case the same should be built at the time of his death, or within seven years afterwards, and if no such hospital should be built within such period, that his trustees should sell out the said stock, and apply the produce thereof, with the interest that should have accrued thereon, after payment of certain expenses to be allowed thereout, to such charitable purposes within the diocese of Rochester, and in or near the city of Rochester, as they should think fit; and reciting that no such hospital had been established, and that T. Willis, the surviving executor, and the said G. Sharpe, as trustees under the said Will, being desirous of carrying the intentions of the testator into effect, had, in 1805, paid 200*l.* to be applied in augmentation of the legacy of the said Thomas Tomlyn, which had been applied accordingly; that they had further paid 100*l.* towards the expense of erecting a wall to enclose the almshouse; and that the trustees had further agreed to make a weekly allowance of 2*s.* per week to the 12 poor persons inhabiting in the said hospital, and had transferred 2,100*l.* into the names of the said J. Willis, G. Sharpe, and the Rev. Charles Moore (Vicar of St. Nicholas), and John Robins, for that purpose;—it was declared by the said parties that the stock had been transferred into their names, in trust to pay the almspeople the weekly sum of 2*s.*, in such manner as to them should seem most expedient, and to retain the small annual surplus towards the necessary charges of receiving the dividends: and it was provided that the vicar of St. Nicholas, for the time being, should always succeed as one of the trustees, and that, upon the decease of any of the other trustees for the time being, the mayor and recorder of Rochester and the vicar of St. Nicholas should, by writing under their hands and seals, attested by two witnesses, appoint another fit person in his place, and that the stock should, from time to time, be transferred into the names of the new trustees.

The sum of 2,100*l.* Consols stands in the names of George Baker and three others, the said G. Baker being the only survivor. The dividends, amounting to 63*l.* per annum, are received by him, and paid over to the provider, who divides the whole by half-yearly payments amongst the aforesaid 12 almswomen.

The accounts of this charity had not been entered by the provider previously to the year 1835.

Kettle's Gift.—Susannah Kettle, widow, by her Will, bearing date 28th October 1815 bequeathed to the trustees or directors of the charity, called St. Catherine's Charity, at Rochester 100*l.* Three per Cent. Reduced, to be applied in augmenting the stipends of the poor pensioners, and appointed the Rev. James Jones, Sir John May, and Mary Grinton, her executors and executrix.

This stock still stands in the names of the executors above named, of whom Mary Grinton, now the wife of Patrick Graham, R.N. is the survivor; and the dividends 3*l.* a-year are received by the provider through Mr. Manclerk, who has a power of attorney granted to him by the said executors. The amount is distributed by the provider at Michaelmas amongst the same 12 almswomen.
